He prophesieth of the destruction of Babylon, and the deliverance of Israel, which was in captivity.

THE word that the Lord spake concerning Babel, and concerning the land of the Chaldeans, by the [†] ministry of Jeremiah the prophet.

2 Declare among the nations, and publish it, and set up a standard, proclaim it, and conceal it not: say, ^h Babel is taken, Bel is confounded, ⁱ Merodach is broken down: her idols are confounded, and their images are burst in pieces.

3 For out of the North there ^k cometh up a nation against her, which shall make her land waste, and none shall dwell therein: they shall flee, and depart, both man and beast.

4 In those days, and at that time, saith the Lord, the children of Israel shall ^l come, they, and the children of Judah together, going, and ^m weeping shall they go, and seek the Lord their God.

5 They shall ask the way to Zion, with their faces thitherward, saying, Come, and let us cleave to the Lord in a perpetual covenant that shall not be forgotten.

6 ⁿ My people hath been as lost sheep: their ^o shepherds have caused them to go astray, and have turned them away to the mountains: they have gone from ^p mountain to hill, and forgotten their resting-place.

7 All that found them, have devoured them, and their enemies said, We offend not, because they have sinned against the Lord, ^q the habitation of justice, even the Lord, the hope of their fathers.

8 ^r Flee from the midst of Babel, and depart out of the land of the Chaldeans, and be ye as the he-goats ^s before the flock.

9 For lo, I will raise, and cause to come up against Babel, a multitude of mighty nations from the north country, and they shall set themselves in array against her, whereby she shall be taken: their arrows shall be as of a strong man, which is expert, for none shall return in vain.

10 And Chaldea shall be a spoil: all that spoil her, ^t shall be satisfied, saith the Lord.

11 Because ye were glad and rejoiced in destroying mine heritage, and because ye are grown fat, as the calves in the grass, ^u and neighed like strong horses, 12 Therefore your mother shall be sore confounded, and she that bare you shall be ashamed: behold, the uttermost of the nations shall be a desert, a dry land, and a wilderness.

13 Because of the wrath of the Lord it shall not be inhabited, but shall be wholly desolate: every one that goeth by Babel shall be astonished, ^v and hiss at all her plagues.

14 ^w Put yourselves in array against Babel round about: all ye that bend the bow, shoot at her, spare no arrows: for she hath ^x sinned against the Lord.

15 Cry against her round about: she hath [†] given her hand: her foundations are fallen, and her walls are destroyed: for it is the vengeance of the Lord: take vengeance upon her: as she hath done, do unto her.

16 Destroy the ^y sower from Babel, and him that handleth the scythe in the time of harvest: because of the sword of the oppressor, they shall turn every one to his people, and they shall flee every one to his own land.

17 Israel is like scattered sheep: the lions have dispersed them: first the king of ^z Ashur hath devoured him: and last, this Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel hath broken ^a his bones.

18 Therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts; the God of Israel, Behold, I will visit the king of Babel and his land, as I have visited the king of Ashur:

19 And I will bring Israel again to his habitation: he shall feed on Carmel and Bashan, and his soul shall be satisfied upon the mount Ephraim and Gilead.

20 In those days, and at that time, saith the Lord, the iniquity of Israel shall be sought for, and there shall be none: and the sins of Judah, and they shall not be found: for I will be merciful unto them whom I reserve.

20 Thou art mine^z hammer, and weapons of war: for with thee will I break the nations, and with thee will I destroy kingdoms:

21 And by thee will I break horse and horseman, and by thee will I break the chariot, and him that rideth therein.

22 By thee also will I break man and woman, and by thee will I break old and young, and by thee will I break the young man and the maid.

23 I will also break by thee the shepherd and his flock, and by thee will I break the husbandman and his yoke of oxen, and by thee will I break the dukes and princes.

24 And I will render unto Babel, and to all the inhabitants of the Chaldeans, all their evil that they have done in Zion, even in your sight; saith the Lord.

25 Behold, I come unto thee, O destroying^a mountain, saith the Lord, which destroyest all the earth: and I will stretch out mine hand upon thee, and roll thee down from the^b rocks, and will make thee a burnt mountain.

26 They shall not take of thee a stone for a corner, nor a stone for foundations, but thou shalt be destroyed for ever, saith the Lord.

27 Set up a standard in the land: blow the trumpets among the nations: prepare the nations against her: call up the kingdoms of^c Arrarat, Minni, and Ashkenaz against her: appoint the prince against her: cause horses to come up as the rough caterpillars.

28 Prepare against her the nations with the kings of the Medes, the dukes thereof, and the princes thereof, and all the land of his dominion.

29 And the land shall tremble and sorrow: for the device of the Lord shall be performed against Babel, to make the land of Babel waste without an inhabitant.

30 The strong men of Babel have ceased to fight: they have remained in their holds: their strength hath failed, and they were like women: they have burnt her dwelling-places, and her bars are broken.

31 A post shall run to meet the post, and a messenger to meet the messenger, to shew the king of Babel, that a city is taken on a^d side thereof, 32 And that the passages are stopped, and the reeds burnt with fire, and the men of war troubled.

4 ^{*} But in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, the tenth day of the month, came Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, he, and all his host against Jerusalem, and pitched against it, and built forts against it round about.

5 So the city was besieged unto the eleventh year of the king Zedekiah.

6 Now in the fourth month, the ninth day of the month, the famine was fore in the city, so that there was no more bread for the people of the land.

7 Then the city was broken up, and all the men of war fled, and went out of the city by night, by the ^z way of the gate between the two walls, which was by the king's garden : (now the Chaldeans were by the city round about) and they went by the way of the wilderness.

8 But the army of the Chaldeans pursued after the king, and took Zedekiah in the desert of Jericho, and all his host was scattered from him.

9 Then they took the king, and carried him up unto the king of Babel to Riblah, in the land of Hamath, ^a where he gave judgment upon him.

10 And the king of Babel slew the sons of Zedekiah before his eyes : he slew also all the princes of Judah in Riblah.

11 Then he put out the eyes of Zedekiah, and the king of Babel bound him in chains, and carried him to Babel, and put him in prison till the day of his death.

12 Now in the fifth month, in the ^b tenth day of the month (which was the nineteenth year of the king Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel) came Nebuzar-adan, chief steward, which ^c stood before the king of Babel in Jerusalem, 13 And burnt the house of the Lord, and the king's house, and all the houses of Jerusalem, and all the great houses burnt he with fire.

14 And all the army of the Chaldeans, that were with the chief steward, brake down all the walls of Jerusalem round about. Bef. Chr. 588.

15 Then Nebuzar-adan, the chief steward, carried away captive certain of the poor of the people, and the residue of the people that remained in the city, and those that were fled and fallen to the king of Babel, with the rest of the multitude.

16 But Nebuzar-adan, the chief steward, left certain of the poor of the land, to dress the vines, and to till the land.

17 Also the ^d pillars of bras that were in the house of the Lord, and the bases, and the brasen sea that was in the house of the Lord, the Chaldeans brake, and carried all the bras of them to Babel.

18 The pots also and the ^e besoms, and the instruments of musick, and the basons, and the incense-dishes, and all the vessels of bras wherewith they ministered, took they away.

19 And the bowls, and the ash-pans, and the basons, and the pots, and the candlesticks, and the incense-dishes, and the cups, and all that was of gold, and that was of silver, took the chief steward away :

20 With the two pillars, one sea, and twelve brasen bulls, that were under the bases, which king Solomon had made in the house of the Lord : the bras of all these vessels was without ^f weight.

21 And concerning the pillars, the height of one pillar was eighteen cubits, and a thread of twelve cubits did compass it, and the thickness thereof was four fingers : it was hollow.

22 And a chapter of bras was upon it, and the height of one chapter was five cubits with net-work, and pomegranates upon the chapters round about, all of bras : the second pillar also, and the pomegranates were like unto these.

23 And there were ninety and six pomegranates on a side : and all the pomegranates upon the net-work were an ^g hundred round about.

24 And the chief steward took Seraiah the chief priest, and Zephaniah ^h the second priest, and the three keepers of the door.

25 He took also out of the city an eunuch, which had the oversight of the men of war, and ⁱ seven men that were in the king's presence, which were found in the city, and Sopher captain of the host, who mustered the people of the land, and threescore men of the people of the land, that were found in the midst of the city.

26 Nebuzar-adan the chief steward took them, and brought them to the king of Babel to Riblah.

LAMENTATIONS.

CHAP. I.

1 The prophet bewaileth the miserable estate of Jerusalem, and sheweth that they are plagued because of their sins. The first and second chapter begin every verse according to the letters of the Hebrew alphabet. The third hath three verses for every letter, and the fourth is as the first.

HOW doth ^a the city remain solitary that was full of people? she is as a widow: she that was great among the nations, and ^b princes among the provinces, is made tributary.

2 She weepeth continually in the ^c night, and her tears run down by her cheeks: among all her ^d lovers, she hath none to comfort her: all her friends have dealt unfaithfully with her, and are her enemies.

3 Judah is carried away captive, because of ^e affliction, and because of great servitude: she dwelleth among the heathen, and findeth no rest: all her persecutors took her in the straits.

[†] The ways of Zion lament, because no man cometh ^f to the solemn feasts: all her gates are desolate: her priests sigh: her virgins are discomforted, and she is in [†] heaviness.

5 Her adversaries ^g are the chief, and her enemies prosper: for the Lord hath afflicted her, for the multitude of her transgressions, and her children are gone into captivity before the enemy.

6 And from the daughter of Zion all her beauty is departed: her princes are become ^h like harts that find no pasture, and they are gone without strength before the pursuer.

7 Jerusalem remembered the days of her affliction, and of her rebellion, and all her pleasant things that she had in times past, when her people ⁱ fell into the hand of the enemy, and none did help her: the adversaries saw her, and did mock at her ^k sabbaths.

8 Jerusalem hath grievously sinned, therefore she is [†] in derision: all that honoured her, despise her, because they have seen her filthiness: yea, she sigheth and turneth backward.

9 ¹ Her filthiness is in her skirts: she remembered not her last end, therefore she came down wonderfully: she had no comforter: O Lord, behold mine affliction: for the enemy [†] is proud.

10 The enemy hath stretched out his hand upon all her pleasant things: for she hath seen the heathen enter into her sanctuary, whom ^m thou didst command, that they should not enter into thy church.

11 All her people sigh and seek ⁿ their bread: they have given their pleasant things for meat to refresh the soul: see, O Lord, and consider: for I am become vile.

12 Have ye no regard, all ye that pass by ^o this way? behold, and see, if there be any sorrow like unto my sorrow, which is done unto me, wherewith the Lord hath afflicted me in the day of his fierce wrath.

13 From above hath ^p he sent fire into my bones, which prevaileth against them: he hath spread a net for my feet, and turned me back: he hath made me desolate, and daily in heaviness.

14 The ^q yoke of my transgressions is bound upon his hand: they are wrapped, and come up upon my neck: he hath made my strength to fall: the Lord hath delivered me into ^r their hands, neither am I able to rise up.

15 The

^a The prophet wondereth at the great judgment of God, seeing Jerusalem, which was so strong and so full of people, to be now destroyed and desolate.

^f As they used to come up with mirth and joy, Ps. 42. 4.

modities that she had lost.

^l She is not ashamed of her sin, although it be manifest.

^m God forbiddeth that the Ammonites and Moabites should enter into the congregation of the Lord, and under them he comprehendeth all enemies, Deut. 23. 3.

ⁿ Thus Jerusalem lamenteth, moving others to pity her, and to learn by her example.

^o This declareth that we should acknowledge God to be the author of all our afflictions, to the intent that we might seek unto him for remedy.

^p Mine heavy sins are continually before his eyes, as he that tieth a thing to his hand for a remembrance.

17 Zion stretched out her hands, and there is none to comfort her: the Lord hath appointed the enemies of Jacob round about him: Jerusalem is ^r as a menstruous woman in the midst of them.

* Heb. scab. 18 The Lord is righteous: for I have rebelled against his [†] commandment: hear, I pray you, all people, and behold my sorrow: my virgins and my young men are gone into captivity.

19 I called for my lovers, but they deceived me: my priests and mine elders perished in the city, while they ^s sought their meat to refresh their souls.

20 Behold, O Lord, how I am troubled: my bowels swell: mine heart is turned within me, for I am full of heaviness: the sword spoileth abroad, as death doth at home.

21 They have heard that I mourn, but there is none to comfort me: all mine enemies have heard of my trouble, and are glad that thou hast done it: thou wilt bring the day that thou hast pronounced, and they shall be like unto me.

† Or, gather them like grapes. 22 [†] Let all their wickedness come before thee: [†] do unto them as thou hast done unto me, for all my transgressions: for my sighs are many, and mine heart is heavy.

CHAP. II.

HOW hath the Lord ^u darkened the daughter of Zion in his wrath! and hath cast down from ^w heaven unto the earth the beauty of Israel, and remembered not his ^x footstool in the day of his wrath!

2 The Lord hath destroyed all the habitations of Jacob, and not spared: he hath thrown down in his wrath the strong holds of the daughter of Judah: he hath cast them down to the ground: he hath polluted the kingdom and the princes thereof.

3 He hath cut off in his fierce wrath all the ^y horn of Israel: he hath drawn back his ^z right hand from before the enemy, and there was kindled in Jacob like a flame of fire, which devoured round about.

4 He ^a hath bent his bow like an enemy:

his right hand was stretched up as an adversary, and slew all that was pleasant to the eye in the tabernacle of the daughter of Zion: he poured out his wrath like fire.

5 The Lord was an enemy: he hath devoured Israel, and consumed all his palaces: he hath destroyed his strong holds, and hath increased in the daughter of Judah lamentation and mourning.

6 For he hath destroyed his tabernacle as a garden, he hath destroyed his congregation: the Lord hath caused the feasts and sabbaths to be forgotten in Zion, and hath despised in the indignation of his wrath the king and the priest.

7 The Lord hath forsaken his altar: he hath abhorred his sanctuary: he hath given into the hand of the enemy the walls of her palaces: they have made a ^b noise in the house of the Lord, as in the day of solemnity.

8 The Lord hath determined to destroy the wall of the daughter of Zion: he stretched out a line, he hath not withdrawn his hand from destroying: therefore he made the rampart ^c and the wall to lament: they were destroyed together.

9 Her gates are sunk to the ground: he hath destroyed and broken her bars: the king and her princes are among the Gentiles: the law is no more, neither can her prophets [†] receive any [†] Or, find, vision from the Lord.

10 The elders of the daughter of Zion sit upon the ground and keep silence: they have cast up dust upon their heads: they have girded themselves with sackcloth: the virgins of Jerusalem hang down their heads to the ground.

11 Mine eyes do fail with tears: my bowels swell: my liver is poured upon the earth, for the destruction of the daughter of my people, because the children and sucklings [†] swoon in [†] Or, faint, the streets of the city.

12 They have said to their mothers, Where is [†] bread and drink? when they swooned as the wounded in the streets of the city, and when they [†] gave up the ghost in their mothers bosom. [†] Or, faint, [†] Heb. poured out the soul.

13 ^d What thing shall I take to witness for thee? what thing shall I compare to thee, O daughter Jerusalem? what shall I liken to thee that I may comfort thee, O virgin daughter Zion? for thy breach is great like the sea: who can heal thee?

14 Thy prophets have ^e looked out vain and foolish things for thee, and they have not discovered thine iniquity to turn away thy captivity, and have looked out for thee false [†] prophecies, and causes of banishment. [†] Or, burden.

^d Meaning, that her calamity was so evident, that it needed no witnesses.

^e Because the false prophets called themselves Seers, as the other were called, therefore he sheweth that they saw amiss, because they did not reprove the people's faults, but flattered them in their sins, which was the cause of their destruction.

Beh. Chr. 583. 15 All that pass by the way, clap their hands at thee: they hiss and wag their head upon the daughter Jerusalem, saying, Is this the city that men call, The perfection of beauty, and the joy of the whole earth?

16 All thine enemies have opened their mouth against thee: they hiss and gnash the teeth, saying, Let us devour it: certainly this is the day that we looked for: we have found and seen it.

* L. v. 26. 17 * The Lord hath done that which he had purposed: he hath fulfilled his word that he had determined of old time: he hath thrown down, and not spared: he hath caused thine enemy to rejoice over thee, and set up the horn of thine adversaries.

* L. vi. 17. 18 Their heart * cried unto the Lord, O wall of the daughter of Zion, let tears run down like a river day and night: take thee no rest, neither let the apple of thine eye cease.

19 Arise, cry in the night, in the beginning of the watches pour out thine heart like water before the face of the Lord: lift up thine hands toward him for the life of thy young children, that faint for hunger in the corners of all the streets.

20 Behold, O Lord, and consider to whom thou hast done thus: shall the women eat their fruit, and children of a † span long? shall the priest and the prophet be slain in the sanctuary of the Lord?

21 The young and the old lie on the ground in the streets: my virgins and my young men are fallen by the sword: thou hast slain them in the day of thy wrath: thou hast killed and not spared.

22 Thou hast called as in a solemn day my † terrors round about, so that in the day of the Lord's wrath none escaped nor remained: those that I have nourished and brought up, hath mine enemy consumed.

C H A P. III.

I AM the man that hath seen affliction in the rod of his indignation.

2 He hath led me and brought me into darkness, but not to light.

3 Surely he is turned against me: he turneth his hand against me all the day.

4 My flesh and my skin hath he caused to wax old, and he hath broken my bones.

5 He hath ^s builded against me, and compassed me with gall and labour.

6 He hath set me in dark places, as they that be dead for ever.

7 He that hedged about me, that I cannot get out: he hath made my chains heavy.

¹ The prophet complaineth of the punishments and afflictions that he endured by the false prophets and hypocrites, when he declareth the destruction of Jerusalem, as Jer. 20. 2.

² He speaketh this as one that felt God's heavy judgments, which he greatly feared, and therefore setteth them out with this diversity of words.

³ This is a great temptation to the godly, when they see not the fruit of their prayers, and causeth them to think that they are not heard, which thing God useth to do, that they might pray more earnestly and the oftener.

⁴ And keepeth me in hold as a prisoner.

⁵ He hath no pity on me.

⁶ With great anguish and sorrow he hath made me to lose my sense.

⁷ Thus with pain he was driven to and fro between hope and despair, as the godly oft-times are, yet in the end the Spirit getteth the victory.

9 He hath ⁱ stopped up my ways with hewn stone, and turned away my paths.

10 ^k He was unto me as a bear lying in wait, and as a lion in secret places.

11 He hath stopped my ways, and pulled me in pieces: he hath made me desolate.

12 He hath bent his bow, and made me a mark for the arrow.

13 He caused † the arrows of his quiver to enter into my reins. † Heb. 583.

14 I was a derision to all my people, and their song all the day.

15 He hath filled me with bitterness, and made me drunken with ^l wormwood.

16 He hath also broken my teeth with stones, and hath covered me with ashes.

17 Thus my soul was far off from peace: I forgot prosperity.

18 And I said, My strength and mine hope ^m is perished from the Lord.

19 Remembering mine affliction and my mourning, the wormwood and the gall.

20 My soul hath them in remembrance, and is humbled ⁿ in me.

21 I consider this in mine heart: therefore have I hope.

22 It is the Lord's ^o mercies that we are not consumed, because his compassions fail not.

23 They are renewed ^p every morning: great is thy faithfulness.

24 The Lord is my ^q portion, saith my soul: therefore will I hope in him.

25 The Lord is good unto them that trust in him, and to the soul that seeketh him.

26 It is good both to trust, and to wait for the salvation of the Lord.

27 It is good for a man that he bear the yoke in his ^r youth.

28 He sitteth alone, ^s and keepeth silence, because he hath borne it upon him.

29 He putteth his ^t mouth in the dust, if there may be hope.

30 He giveth his cheek to him that smiteth him: he is filled full with reproaches.

31 For the Lord will not forsake for ever.

32 But though he send affliction, yet will he have compassion according to the multitude of his mercies.

33 For he doth not ^u punish † willingly, nor afflict the children of men. † Heb. 583.

^o Considering the wickedness of man, it is marvel that any remaineth alive: but only that God for his own mercies sake, and for his promise, will ever have his church to remain, though they be never so few in number, Isa. 1. 9.

^p We feel thy benefits daily.

^q The godly put their whole confidence in God, and therefore look for none other inheritance, as Psalm 16. 5.

^r He sheweth that we can never begin too timely to be exercised under the cross, that when the afflictions grow greater, our patience also by experience may be stronger.

^s He murmureth not against God, but is patient.

^t He humbleth himself as they that fall down with their face to the ground, and so with patience waiteth for succour.

^u He taketh no pleasure in it, but doth it of necessity for our amendment, when he suffereth the wicked to oppress the poor.

58 O Lord, thou hast maintained the cause of my^d soul, and hast redeemed my life.

The prayer of Jeremiab.

REMEMBER, O Lord, what is come upon us: ⁶ consider, and behold our reproach.

2 Our inheritance is turned to the strangers, our houses to the aliens.

3 We are fatherless, even without father, and our mothers are as widows.

4 We have drunken our ⁷ water for money, and our wood is sold unto us.

⁶ That is, the enemies.

⁷ He sheweth two principal causes of their destruction: their cruelty, and their vain confidence in man: for they trusted in the help of the Egyptians.

⁹ This is spoken by derision.

¹⁰ He comforteth the church by that, after seventy years their sorrows shall have an end, whereas the wicked should be tormented for ever.

¹¹ This prayer, as is thought, was made when some of the people were carried away captive, others, as the poorest remained, and some went into Egypt and other places for succour: albeit it seemeth that the prophet foreseeing their miseries to come, thus prayed.

5 Our necks under persecution, we are weary ¹² and have no rest.

Beh. Chr. 588.

6 We have given our ¹³ hands to the Egyptians, and to Ashur, to be satisfied with bread.

7 Our fathers have sinned, and are not, and we have borne their ¹⁴ iniquities.

8 Servants have ruled over us, none would deliver us out of their hands.

9 We gat our bread with the peril of our lives, because of the sword ¹⁵ of the wilderness.

10 Our skin was black like as an oven, because of the terrible famine.

11 They defiled the women in Zion, and the maids in the cities of Judah.

12 The princes are hanged up by ¹⁶ their hand: the faces of the elders were not had in honour.

13 They took the young men to grind, and the children fell under ¹⁷ the wood.

14 The elders have ceased from the ¹⁸ gate, and the young men from their songs.

15 The joy of our heart is gone, our dance is turned into mourning.

16 The crown of our head is fallen: woe now unto us, that we have sinned.

17 Therefore our heart is heavy for these things, our ¹⁹ eyes are dim.

18 Because of the mountain of Zion, which is desolate: the foxes run upon it.

19 But thou, O Lord, remainest for ²⁰ ever: thy throne from generation to generation.

20 Wherefore dost thou forget us for ever, and forsake so long time?

21 ²¹ Turn thou us unto thee, O Lord, and we shall be turned: renew our days as of old.

22 But thou hast utterly rejected us: thou art exceedingly angry against us.

¹² Meaning their extreme servitude and bondage.

¹³ We are joined in league and amity with them, or have submitted ourselves unto them.

¹⁴ As our fathers have been punished for their sins, so we that are culpable of the same sins, are punished.

¹⁵ Because of the enemy that came from the wilderness, and would not suffer us to go and seek our necessary food.

¹⁶ That is, by the enemies hand.

¹⁷ Their slavery was so great, that they were not able to abide it.

¹⁸ There were no more laws, nor form of commonwealth.

¹⁹ With weeping.

²⁰ And therefore thy covenant and mercies can never fail.

²¹ Whereby is declared, that it is not in man's power to turn to God, but is only his work to convert us, and thus God worketh in us before we can turn to him, Jer. 31. 18.

THE ARGUMENT.

After that Jeboiachin, by the counsel of Jeremiab and Ezekiel, had yielded himself to Nebuchadnezzar, and so went to captivity with his mother, and divers of his princes, and of the people, certain began to repent and murmur that they had obeyed the prophet's counsel, as though the thing which they had prophefied should not come to pass, and therefore their estate should be still miserable under the Chaldeans: by reason whereof he confirmeth his former prophecies, declaring by new visions and revelations shewed unto him, that the city should most certainly be destroyed, and the people grievously tormented by God's plagues, insomuch that they that remained should be brought into cruel bondage. And lest the godly should despair in these great troubles, he assureth them that God will deliver his church at his time appointed, and also destroy their enemies, which either afflicted them, or rejoiced in their miseries. The effect of the one and the other should chiefly be performed under Christ, of whom in this book are many notable promises, and in whom the glory of the new temple should perfectly be restored. He prophefied these things in Chaldea, at the same time that Jeremiab prophefied in Judah, and there began in the fifth year of Jeboiachin's captivity.

C H A P. I.

1 The time wherein Ezekiel prophesied, and in what place. 3 His kindred. 5 The vision of the four beasts. 26 The vision of the throne.

IT came to pass in the ^a thirtieth year, in the fourth month, and in the fifth day of the month (as I was among the captives by the river ^b Chebar) that the heavens were opened, and I saw the visions of ^c God.

2 In the fifth day of the month (which was the fifth year of king Jehoiachin's captivity)

3 The word of the Lord came unto Ezekiel the priest, the son of Buzi, in the land of the Chaldeans, by the river Chebar, where the ^d hand of the Lord was upon him.

4 And I looked, and behold, ^e a whirlwind came out of the North, a great cloud and a fire wrapped about it, and a brightness was about it, and in the midst thereof, to wit, in the midst of the fire, came out as the likeness of [†] amber.

5 Also out of the midst thereof came the likeness of four ^f beasts, and this was their form: they had the appearance of a man.

6 And every one had four faces, and every one had four wings.

7 And their feet were straight feet, and the sole of their feet was like the sole of a calf's foot, and they sparkled like the appearance of bright brass.

8 And the hands of a man came out from under their wings in the four parts of them, and they four had their faces and their wings.

9 They were ^g joined by their wings one to another, and when they went forth, they returned not, but every one went straight forward.

10 And the similitude of their faces was as ^h the face of a man: and they four had the face of a lion on the right side, and they four had the face of a bullock on the left side: they four also had the face of an eagle.

11 Thus were their faces: but their wings were spread out above: two wings of every one were joined one to another, and two covered their bodies.

12 And every one went straight forward: they went whither their [†] spirit led them, and they returned not when they went forth.

13 The similitude also of the beasts, and their appearance, was like burning coals of fire, and like the appearance of lamps: for the fire ran among the beasts, and the fire gave a glitter, and out of the fire there went lightning.

14 And the beasts ran, and ⁱ returned like unto lightning.

15 ¶ Now as I beheld the beasts, behold, a wheel appeared upon the earth by the beasts, having four faces.

^a After that the book of the law was found, which was the eighteenth year of the reign of Josiah, so that five and twenty years after this book was found, Jeconiah was led away captive with Ezekiel (and many of the people) who the first year after saw these visions.

^b Which was a part of Euphrates so called.

^c That is, notable and excellent visions, so that it might be known it was no natural dream, but came of God.

^d That is, the spirit of prophecy, as chap. 3. 22. and 37. 1.

^e By this diversity of words he signifieth the fearful judgment of God, and the great afflictions that should come upon Jerusalem.

^f Which were the four cherubims that represented the glory of God, as chap. 3. 23.

^g The wing of the one touched the wing of the other.

16 The fashion of the wheels and their work was like unto a ^k chrysolite: and they four had one form, and their fashion, and their work, was as one wheel in another wheel:

17 When they went, they went upon their four sides, and they returned not when they went.

18 They had also [†] rings, and height, and [†] Or, the were fearful to behold, and their rings were [†] Or, the full of eyes, round about them four.

19 And when the beasts went, the wheels went with them: and when the beasts were lift up from the earth, the wheels were lift up.

20 Whither their spirit led them, they went, and thither did the spirit of the wheels lead them, and the wheels were lifted up besides them: for the spirit of the beasts was in the wheels.

21 When the beasts went, they went: and when they stood, they stood: and when they were lifted up from the earth, the wheels were lifted up besides them: for the spirit of the beasts was in the wheels.

22 And the similitude of the firmament upon the heads of the beasts was wonderful, like unto chrysal, spread over their heads above.

23 And under the firmament were their wings straight, the one toward another: every one had two, which covered them: and every one had two, which covered their bodies.

24 And when they went forth, I heard the noise of their ^l wings like the noise of great waters, and as the voice of the Almighty, even the voice of speech, as the noise of an host: and when they stood, they ^m let down their wings.

25 And there was a voice from the firmament, that was over their heads, when they stood, and had let down their wings.

26 And above the firmament that was over their heads, was the fashion of a throne like unto a sapphire stone, and upon the similitude of the throne was, by appearance, as the similitude of a man above upon it.

27 And I saw as the appearance of amber, and as the similitude of fire ⁿ round about within it to look to, even from his loins upward: and to look to, even from his loins downward, I saw as a likeness of fire, and brightness round about it.

28 As the likeness of the bow that is in the cloud in the day of rain, so was the appearance of the light round about.

29 This was the appearance of the similitude of the glory of the Lord: and when I saw it, I fell ^o upon my face, and I heard a voice of one that spake.

The prophet is sent to call the people from their error.

AND he said unto me, ¹ Son of man, stand up upon thy feet, and I will speak unto thee.

² And the Spirit entered into me, when he had spoken unto me, and set me upon my feet, so that I heard him that spake unto me.

³ And he said unto me, Son of man, I send thee to the children of Israel, to a rebellious nation, that hath rebelled against me: for they and their fathers have rebelled against me, even unto this very day.

⁴ For they are [†] impudent children, and stiff-hearted: I do send thee unto them, and thou shalt say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God.

⁵ But surely they will not hear, neither indeed will they cease, for they are a rebellious house: yet shall they know that [†] there hath been a prophet among them.

⁶ And thou son of man, [†] fear them not, neither be afraid of their words, although rebels and thorns be with thee, and thou remainest with scorpions: fear not their words, nor be afraid at their looks, for they are a rebellious house.

⁹ And when I looked up, behold, an hand was sent unto me, and lo, a roll of a book was therein.

⁵ For thou art not sent to a people of an [†] unknown tongue, or of an hard language, but [†] to the house of Israel:

⁶ Not to many people of an unknown tongue, or of an hard language, whose words thou canst not understand: yet if I should send thee to them, they would obey thee.

⁷ But the house of Israel will not obey thee: for they will not obey me: yea, all the house of Israel are impudent and stiff-hearted.

⁸ Behold, I have made thy face [†] strong against their faces, and thy forehead hard against their foreheads.

¹⁰ He said moreover unto me, Son of man, [†] receive in thine heart all my words that I speak unto thee, and hear them with thine ears.

¹¹ And go, and enter to them that are led away captives unto the children of thy people, and speak unto them, and tell them, Thus saith the Lord God: but surely they will not hear, neither will they indeed cease.

¹² Then the Spirit took me up, and I heard behind me a noise of a great rushing, saying, [†] Blessed be the glory of the Lord out of his place.

¹³ I heard also the noise of the wings of the beasts, that touched one another, and the rattling of the wheels that were by them, even a noise of a great rushing.

¹⁴ So the Spirit lift me up, and took me away, and I [†] went in bitterness, and indignation of my spirit, but the hand of the Lord was strong upon me.

¹⁵ Then I came to them that were led away captives, to [†] Tel-abib, that dwelt by the river Chebar, and I sat where they sat, and remained there astonished among them [†] seven days.

¹⁶ And at the end of seven days, the word of the Lord came again unto me, saying, [†] God promiseth his assistance to his ministers, and that he will give them boldness and constancy in their vocation, Isa. 50. 7. Jer. 1. 18. Mich. 3. 8.

² He sheweth what is meant by the eating of the book, which is, that the ministers of God may speak nothing of themselves, but that only which they have received of the Lord.

³ Whereby he signifieth that God's glory should not be diminished, although he departed out of his temple: for this declared, that the city and temple should be destroyed.

⁴ This sheweth, that there is ever an infirmity of the flesh which can never be ready to render full obedience to God, and also God's grace, who ever assisteth his, and overcometh their rebellious affections.

⁷ Of this read chap. 33. 2.

595. Bet. Chr. nor speak it to admonish the wicked of his wicked way, that he may live, the same wicked man shall die in his iniquity: but his blood will I require at thine hand.

19 Yet if thou warn the wicked, and he turn not from his wickedness, nor from his wicked way, he shall die in his iniquity, but thou hast delivered thy soul.

20 Likewise if a righteous man turn from his righteousness, and commit iniquity, I will lay a stumbling block before him, and he shall die, because thou hast not given him warning: he shall die in his sin, and his righteous deeds, which he hath done, shall not be remembered: but his blood will I require at thine hand.

21 Nevertheless, if thou admonish that righteous man, that the righteous sin not, and that he doth not sin, he shall live because he is admonished: also thou hast delivered thy soul.

22 And the hand of the Lord was there upon me, and he said unto me, Arise, and go into the [†] field, and I will there talk with thee.

23 So when I had risen up, and gone forth into the field, behold, the glory of the Lord stood there, as the glory which I saw by the river Chebar, and I fell down upon my face.

24 Then the Spirit entered into me, which set me up upon my feet, and spake unto me, and said to me, Come and shut thyself within thine house.

25 But thou, O son of man, behold, they shall put bands upon thee, and shall bind thee with them, and thou shalt not go out among them.

26 And I will make thy tongue cleave to the roof of thy mouth, that thou shalt be dumb, and shalt not be to them as a man that rebuketh: for they are a rebellious house.

27 But when I shall have spoken unto thee, I will open thy mouth, and thou shalt say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, He that heareth, let him hear: and he that leaveth off, let him leave: for they are a rebellious house.

C H A P. IV.

i The besieging of the city of Jerusalem is signified.

9 The long continuance of the captivity of Israel.

16 An hunger is prophesied to come.

THOU also, son of man, take thee a brick, and lay it before thee, and pourtray upon it the city, even Jerusalem,

2 And lay siege against it, and build a fort against it, and cast a mount against it: set the camp also against it, and lay engines of war against it round about.

3 Moreover, take an iron pan, and set it for a wall of iron between thee and the city, and direct thy face toward it, and it shall be besieged, and thou shalt lay siege against it: this shall be a sign unto the house of Israel. 595. Bef. Chr.

4 Sleep thou also upon thy left side, and lay the iniquity of the house of Israel upon it: according to the number of the days that thou shalt sleep upon it, thou shalt bear their iniquity.

5 For I have laid upon thee the years of their iniquity, according to the number of the days, even three hundred and ninety days: so shalt thou bear the iniquity of the house of Israel.

6 And when thou hast accomplished them, sleep again upon thy right side, and thou shalt bear the iniquity of the house of Judah forty days: I have appointed thee a day for a year, even a day for a year.

7 Therefore thou shalt direct thy face toward the siege of Jerusalem, and thine arm shall be uncovered, and thou shalt prophesy against it.

8 And behold, I will lay bands upon thee, and thou shalt not turn thee from one side to another, till thou hast ended the days of thy siege.

9 Thou shalt take also unto thee wheat and barley, and beans, and lentils, and millet, and fitches, and put them in one vessel, and make thee bread thereof, according to the number of the days that thou shalt sleep upon thy side: even three hundred and ninety days shalt thou eat thereof.

10 And the meat, whereof thou shalt eat, shall be by weight, even twenty shekels a day: and from time to time shalt thou eat thereof.

11 Thou shalt drink also water by measure, even the sixth part of an hin: from time to time shalt thou drink.

12 And thou shalt eat it as barley cakes, and thou shalt bake it in the dung that cometh out of man, in their sight.

13 And the Lord said, So shall the children of Israel eat their defiled bread among the Gentiles, whither I will cast them.

14 Then said I, Ah, Lord God, behold, my soul hath not been polluted: for from my youth up, even unto this hour, I have not eaten of any thing dead, or torn in pieces, neither came there any unclean flesh in my mouth.

15 Then he said unto me, Lo, I have given thee bullocks dung for man's dung, and thou shalt prepare thy bread therewith.

16 Moreover, He said unto me, Son of man, behold, I will break the staff of bread in Jerusalem, and they shall eat bread by weight, and with care, and they shall drink water by measure, and with astonishment.

17 Because that bread and water shall fail, they

The sign of the hairs, whereby is signified the destruction of the people.

AND thou son of man, take thee a sharp knife, or take thee a barber's razor, and cause it to pass upon thine head, and upon thy beard: then take thee balances to weigh, and divide the hair.

2 Thou shalt burn with fire the third part in the midst of the city, when the days of the siege are fulfilled, and thou shalt take the other third part, and smite about it with a knife, and the last third part thou shalt scatter in the wind, and I will draw out a sword after them.

3 Thou shalt also take thereof a few in number, and bind them in thy lap.

4 Then take of them again and cast them into the midst of the fire, and burn them in the fire: for thereof shall a fire come forth into all the house of Israel.

5 Thus saith the Lord God, This is Jerusalem: I have set it in the midst of the nations and countries that are round about her.

6 And she hath changed my judgments into wickedness more than the nations, and my statutes more than the countries that are round about her, for they have refused my judgments and my statutes, and they have not walked in them.

7 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because your multitude is greater than the nations that are round about you, and ye have not walked in my statutes, neither have ye kept my judgments: no, ye have not done according to the judgments of the nations that are round about you.

8 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I, even I come against thee, and will execute judgment in the midst of thee, even in the sight of the nations.

9 And I will do in thee that I never did before, neither will do any more the like, because of all thine abominations.

10 For in the midst of thee, the fathers shall eat their sons, and the sons shall eat their fathers, and I will execute judgment in thee, and the whole remnant of thee will I scatter into all the winds.

11 Wherefore, as I live, saith the Lord God, Surely, because thou hast defiled my sanctuary with all thy filthiness, and with all thine abominations, therefore will I also destroy thee, neither shall mine eye spare thee, neither will I have any pity.

12 The third part of thee shall die with the pestilence, and with famine shall they be consumed in the midst of thee: and another third part shall fall by the sword round about thee: and I will scatter the last third part into all winds, and I will draw out a sword after them.

13 Thus shall mine anger be accomplished, and I will cause my wrath to cease in them, and I will be comforted: and they shall know, that I the Lord have spoken it in my zeal, when I have accomplished my wrath in them.

14 Moreover, I will make thee waste, and abhorred among the nations that are round about thee, and in the sight of all that pass by.

15 So thou shalt be a reproach and shame, a chastisement and an astonishment unto the nations that are round about thee, when I shall execute judgments in thee, in anger and in wrath, and in sharp rebukes: I the Lord have spoken it.

16 When I shall send upon them the evil arrows of famine, which shall be for their destruction, and which I will send to destroy you: and I will increase the famine upon you, and will break your staff of bread.

17 So will I send upon you famine, and evil beasts, and they shall spoil thee, and pestilence and blood shall pass through thee, and I will bring the sword upon thee: I the Lord have spoken it.

C H A P. VI.

He sheweth that Jerusalem shall be destroyed for their idolatry. 8 He prophesieth the repentance of the remnant of the people, and their deliverance.

AGAIN the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, set thy face towards the mountains of Israel, and prophesy against them,

3 And say, Ye mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord God: thus saith the Lord God to the mountains and to the hills, to the rivers and to the vallies, Behold, I, even I will bring a sword upon you, and I will destroy your high places:

4 And your altars shall be desolate, and your images of the sun shall be broken: and I will cast down your slain men before your idols.

5 And I will lay the dead carcases of the children of Israel before their idols, and I will scatter your bones round about your altars.

6 In all your dwelling-places the cities shall be desolate, and the high places shall be laid waste, so that your altars shall be made waste and desolate, and your idols shall be broken, and cease, and your images of the sun shall be cut in pieces, and your works shall be abolished.

7 And the slain shall fall in the midst of you, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

8 Yet will I leave a remnant, that you may have

^c To shave thine head and thy beard.

^d To wit, of that city which he had portrayed upon the brick, chap. 4. 1. By the fire and pestilence he meaneth the famine, wherewith one part perished during the siege of Nebuchadnezzar. By the sword, those that were slain when Zedekiah fled, and those that were carried away captive. And by the scattering into the wind those that fled into Egypt, and into other parts, after the city was taken.

^e Meaning, that a very few should be left, which the Lord would preserve among all these storms, but not without troubles and trial.

^f Out of that fire which thou kindlest shall a fire come, which shall signify the destruction of Israel.

^g My word and law into idolatry and superstitions.

^h Because your idols are in greater number, and your superstitions more than among the professed idolaters, read ^k Which were the grasshoppers, mildew, and whatsoever were occasions of famine.

^l He speaketh to all the places where the Israelites accustomed to commit their idolatry, threatening them destruction.

^m Read 2 Kings 22. 11. and 23. 11.

ⁿ In contempt of their power and force, which shall neither be able to deliver you, nor themselves, 2 Kings 23. 20.

^o He sheweth that in all dangers God will preserve a few, which shall be as the seed of his church, and call upon his name.

594. ^{Bef. Chr.} have some that shall escape the sword among the nations, when you shall be scattered through the countries.

9 And they that escape of you, shall remember me among the nations, where they shall be in captivity, because I am grieved for their whorish hearts which have departed from me, and for their eyes which have gone a whoring after their idols, and they^p shall be displeased in themselves for the evils which they have committed in all their abominations.

10 And they shall know that I am the Lord, and that I have not said in vain that I would do this evil unto them.

11 Thus saith the Lord God, ^a Smite with thine hand, and stretch forth with thy foot, and say, Alas, for all the wicked abominations of the house of Israel: for they shall fall by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence.

12 He that is far off, shall die of the pestilence: and he that is near, shall fall by the sword: and he that remaineth and is besieged, shall die by the famine: thus will I accomplish my wrath upon them.

13 Then ^r ye shall know that I am the Lord, when their slain men shall be among their idols round about their altars, upon every high hill in all the tops of the mountains, and under every green tree, and under every thick oak, which is the place where they did offer sweet favour to their idols.

^{Ch. 5. 14.} 14 So will I ^{*} stretch mine hand upon them, and make the land waste and desolate ^s from the wilderness unto Diblath in all their habitations, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

C H A P. VII.

The end of all the land of Israel shall suddenly come.

Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

2 Also thou son of man, thus saith the Lord God, An end is come unto the land of Israel: the end is come upon the four corners of the land.

3 Now is the end come upon thee, and I will send my wrath upon thee, and will judge thee according to thy ways, and will lay upon thee all ^t thine abominations.

4 Neither shall mine eye spare thee, neither will I have pity: but I will lay thy ways upon thee: and thine abominations shall be in the midst of thee, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

[†] Or, behold, evil cometh after evil. 5 Thus saith the Lord God, [‡] Behold, one evil, even one evil is come.

6 An end is come, the end is come, it ^u watched for thee: behold, it is come.

^p They shall be ashamed to see that their hope in idols was but vain, and so shall repent.

^q By these signs he would that the prophet should signify the great destruction to come.

^r That is, all nations, when you shall see my judgments.

^s Some read, more desolate than the wilderness of Diblath, which was in Syria, and bordered upon Israel, or from the wilderness which was south unto Diblath, which was north: meaning, the whole country.

^t I will punish thee as thou hast deserved for thine idolatry.

^u He sheweth that the judgments of God ever watch to destroy the sinners, which notwithstanding he delayeth till there be no more hope of repentance.

^v The beginning of his punishment is already come.

^x Which was a voice of joy and mirth.

^y The scourge is in a readiness.

^z That is, the proud tyrant Nebuchadnezzar hath gathered his force and is ready.

7 The ^w morning is come unto thee, that dwellest in the land: the time is come, the day of trouble is near, and not the ^x founding again of the mountains.

8 Now I will shortly pour out my wrath upon thee, and fulfil mine anger upon thee: I will judge thee according to thy ways, and will lay upon thee all thine abominations.

9 Neither shall mine eye spare thee, neither will I have pity, but I will lay upon thee according to thy ways, and thine abominations shall be in the midst of thee, and ye shall know that I am the Lord that smiteth.

10 Behold, the day, behold, it is come: the morning is gone forth, the ^y rod nourisheth: ^z pride hath budded.

11 ^a Cruelty is risen up, into a rod of wickedness: none of them shall remain, nor of their riches, nor of any of theirs, neither shall there be ^b lamentation for them.

12 The time is come, the day draweth near: let not the buyer ^c rejoice, nor let him that selleth, ^d mourn: for the wrath is upon all the multitude thereof.

13 For he that selleth, shall not ^e return to that which is sold, although they were yet alive: for the ^f vision was unto all the multitude thereof, and they returned not, ^g neither doth any encourage himself in the punishment of his life.

14 ^h They have blown the trumpet, and prepared all, but none goeth to the battle: for my wrath is upon all the multitude thereof.

15 The sword is without, and the pestilence, and the famine within: he that is in the field, shall die with the sword: and he that is in the city, famine and pestilence shall devour him.

16 But they that flee away from them, shall escape, and shall be in the mountains, like the doves of the vallies: all they shall mourn, every one for his iniquity.

17 ^{*} All hands shall be weak, and all knees shall fall away as water. ^{* Isa. 13. 7. Jer. 6. 24.}

18 ^{} They shall also gird themselves with sackcloth, and fear shall cover them, and shame shall be upon all faces, and baldness upon their heads. ^{ Isa. 15. 3. Jer. 48. 137.}

19 They shall cast their silver in the streets, and their gold shall be cast far off: their ^{*} silver and their gold cannot deliver them in the day of the wrath of the Lord: they shall not satisfy their souls, neither fill their bowels: for this ruin is for their iniquity. ^{* Prov. 11. 4. Zeph. 1. 13.}

20 He had also set the beauty of his ^t ornament in majesty: but they made images of their abominations, and of their idols therein: therefore have I set it far from them. 21 And

^a This cruel enemy shall be a sharp scourge for their wickedness.

^b Their own affliction shall be so great, that they shall have no regard to lament for others.

^c For the present profit.

^e In the year of the jubilee, meaning, that none should enjoy the privilege of the law, Lev. 25. 13. for they should all be carried away captives.

^f This vision signified that all should be carried away, and none should return for the jubilee.

^g No man, for all this, endeavoureth himself, or taketh heart to repent for his evil life. Some read, for none shall be strengthened in his iniquity of his life, meaning, that they should gain nothing by flattering themselves in evil.

^h The Israelites made a brag, but their hearts failed them.

Ref. Chr. 21 And I will give it into the hands of the ^a strangers to be spoiled, and to the wicked of the earth to be robbed, and they shall pollute it.

22 My face will I turn also from them, and they shall pollute my ^b secret places: for the destroyers shall enter into it, and defile it.

23 C Make a ^c chain: for the land is full of the judgment of blood, and the city is full of cruelty:

24 Wherefore I will bring the most wicked of the heathen, and they shall possess their houses: I will also make the pomp of the mighty to cease, and their ^d holy places shall be defiled.

25 When destruction cometh, they shall seek peace, and shall not have it.

26 Calamity shall come upon calamity, and rumour shall be upon rumour: then shall they seek a vision of the prophet: but the law shall perish from the priest, and counsel from the ancient.

27 The king shall mourn, and the prince shall be clothed with desolation, and the hands of the people in the land shall be troubled: I will do unto them according to their ways, and according to their judgments will I judge them, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

C H A P. VIII.

2 An appearance of the similitude of God. 3 Ezekiel is brought to Jerusalem in the Spirit. 6 The Lord sheweth the prophet the idolatries of the house of Israel.

AND in the ^e sixth year, in the ^f sixth month, and in the fifth day of the month, as I sat in mine house, and the elders of Judah sat before me, the hand of the Lord God fell there upon me.

2 Then I beheld, and lo, there was a likeness, as the appearance of ^g fire to look to, from his loins downward: and from his loins upward, as the appearance of brightness, and like unto amber.

3 And he stretched out the likeness of an hand, and took me by an hairy lock of mine head, and the Spirit lift me up between the earth and the heaven, and brought me ^h by a divine vision to Jerusalem, into the entry of the inner gate that lieth toward the North, where remained the idol of ⁱ indignation, which provoked indignation.

4 And behold, the glory of the God of Israel was there, according to the vision that I saw ^j in the field.

5 Then said he unto me, Son of man, lift up thine eyes now toward the North. So I lift up mine eyes toward the North, and behold, Northward, at the gate of the ^k altar, this idol of indignation was in the entry.

6 He said furthermore unto me, Son of man, seest thou not what they do? even the great abominations that the house of Israel committeth here to cause me to depart from ^l my sanctuary? but yet turn thee and thou shalt see greater abominations.

7 And he caused me to enter at the gate of the court: and when I looked, behold, an hole was in the wall.

8 Then said he unto me, Son of man, dig now in the wall. And when I had digged in the wall, behold, there was a door.

9 And he said unto me, Go in, and behold the wicked abominations that they do here.

10 So I went in, and saw, and behold, there was every similitude of creeping things and ^m abominable beasts, and all the idols of the house of Israel, painted upon the wall round about.

11 And there stood before them seventy ⁿ men of the ancients of the house of Israel, and in the midst of them stood Jaazaniah, the son of Shaphan, with every man his censer in his hand, and the vapour of the incense went up like ^o a cloud.

12 Then said he unto me, Son of man, hast thou seen what the ancients of the house of Israel ^p do in the dark, every one in the chamber of his imagery? for they say, The Lord seeth us not, the Lord hath forsaken the earth.

13 Again, he said also unto me, Turn thee again, and thou shalt see greater abominations that they do.

14 And he caused me to enter into the entry of the gate of the Lord's house, which was toward the North: and behold, there sat women mourning ^q for Tammuz.

15 Then said he unto me, Hast thou seen this, O son of man? Turn thee again, and thou shalt see greater abominations than these.

16 And he caused me to enter into the inner court of the Lord's house, and behold, at the door of the temple of the Lord, between the porch and the altar, were about five and twenty men with their backs toward the temple of the Lord, and their faces toward the East, and they worshipped the sun toward the East.

17 Then he said unto me, Hast thou seen this, O son of man? Is it a small thing to the house of Judah to commit these abominations which they do here? for they have filled the land with cruelty, and have returned to provoke me: and lo, they have cast out ^r stink before their noses.

1 The destruction of the city. 4 They that shall be saved, are marked. 8 A complaint of the prophet for the destruction of the people.

HE cried also with a loud voice in mine ears, saying, The visitations of ^f the city draw near, and every man hath a weapon in his hand to destroy it.

2 And behold, six ^z men came by the way of the high gate, which lieth toward the ^h North, and every man a weapon in his hand, to destroy it: and one man among them was clothed with linen, with a writer's ^l inkhorn by his side, and they went in and stood beside the brasen altar.

3 And the glory of the God of Israel was ^k gone up from the cherub whereupon he was, and stood on [†] the door of the house, and he called to the man clothed with linen, which had the writer's inkhorn by his side:

4 And the Lord said unto him, Go through the midst of the city, even through the midst of Jerusalem, and set a [‡] mark upon the foreheads of them that ^l mourn and cry for all the abominations that be done in the midst thereof.

5 And to the other he said, that I might hear, Go ye after him through the city, and smite: let your eye spare none, neither have pity.

6 Destroy utterly the old, and the young, and the maids, and the children, and the women, but touch no man upon whom is the ⁿ mark, and begin at my sanctuary. Then they began at the ⁿ antient men, which were before the house.

7 And he said unto them, Defile the house, and fill the courts with the slain, then go forth: and they went out, and slew them in the city.

8 Now when they had slain them, and I had escaped, I fell down upon my face, and cried, saying, ° Ah Lord God, wilt thou destroy all the residue of Israel, in pouring out thy wrath upon Jerusalem?

9 Then said he unto me, The iniquity of the house of Israel and Judah is exceeding great, so that the land is ^p full of blood, and the city full of corrupt judgment: for they say, The Lord hath forsaken the earth, and the Lord seeth us not.

10 As touching me also, mine eye shall not spare them, neither will I have pity, but will recompense their ways upon their heads.

11 And behold, the man clothed with linen, which had the inkhorn by his side, made report, and said, Lord, I have done as thou hast commanded me.

1 Of the man that took hot burning coals out of the middle of the wheels of the cherubims. 8 A rehearsal of the vision of the wheels, of the beasts, and of the cherubims.

AND as I looked, behold, in the ^{*} firmament that was above the head of the ^z cherubims, there appeared upon them like unto the similitude of a throne, as it were a sapphire stone.

2 And he spake unto the man clothed with linen, and said, Go in between the wheels, even under the cherub, and fill thine hands with coals of fire from between the cherubims, and scatter them over ^r the city. And he went in, in my sight.

3 Now the cherubims stood upon the right side of the house, when the man went in, and the cloud filled the inner court.

4 Then the glory of the Lord ^r went up from the cherub, and stood over the door of the house, and the house was filled with the cloud, and the court was filled with the brightness of the Lord's glory.

5 And the ^r sound of the cherubim's wings was heard into the utter court, as the voice of the Almighty God, when he speaketh.

6 And when he had commanded the man clothed with linen, saying, Take fire from between the wheels, and from between the cherubims, then he went in and stood beside the wheel.

7 And one cherub stretched forth his hand from between the cherubims, unto the fire that was between the cherubims, and took thereof, and put it into the hands of him that was clothed with linen: who took it, and went out.

8 And there appeared in the cherubims the likeness of a man's hand under their wings.

9 And when I looked up, behold, four wheels were beside the cherubims, one wheel by one cherub, and another wheel by another cherub, and the appearance of the wheels was as the colour of a ⁿ chrysolite stone.

10 And their appearance (for they were all four of one fashion) was as if one wheel had been in another wheel.

14 And every beast had four faces: the first face was the face of a cherub, and the second face was the face of a man, and the third the face of a lion, and the fourth the face of an eagle.

* Ch. 1. 5. 15 And the cherubims were lifted up: ^a this is the beast that I saw at the river Chebar.

16 And when the cherubims went, the wheels went by them: and when the cherubims lift up their wings to mount up from the earth, the same wheels also turned not from beside them.

17 When the cherubims stood, they stood: and when they were lifted up, they lifted themselves up also: for the ^a spirit of the beast was in them.

18 ^b Then the glory of the Lord departed from above the door of the house, and stood upon the cherubims.

19 And the cherubims lift up their wings, and mounted up from the earth in my sight: when they went out, the wheels also were besides them: and every one stood at the entry of the gate of the Lord's house, at the East side, and the glory of the God of Israel was upon them on high.

* Ch. 1. 15. 20 ^a This is the ^a beast that I saw under the God of Israel by the river Chebar, and I knew that they were the cherubims.

21 Every one had four faces, and every one four wings, and the likeness of man's hands was under their wings.

22 And the likeness of their faces was [the self-same faces which I saw by the river Chebar, and the appearance of the cherubims was the self-same, and they went every one straight forward.

Moreover, the Spirit lift me up, and brought me unto the East gate of the Lord's house, which lieth eastward, and behold, at the entry of the gate were five and twenty men: among whom I saw Jaazaniah the son of Azur, and Pelatiah the son of Benaiah, the princes of the people.

2 Then said he unto me, Son of man, these are the men that imagine mischief, and devise wicked counsel in this city.

3 For they say, ^a It is not near, let us build houses: this city is the ^b cauldron, and we be the flesh.

4 Therefore prophesy against them: son of Def. Chr. man, prophesy. 594.

5 And the Spirit of the Lord fell upon me, and said unto me, Speak, Thus saith the Lord, O ye house of Israel, this have ye said, and I know that which riseth up of your minds.

6 Many have ye murdered in this city, and ye have filled the streets thereof with the slain.

7 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, They that ye have slain and have laid in the midst of it, they are ^c the flesh, and this city is the cauldron, but I will bring you forth of the midst of it.

8 Ye have feared the sword, and I will bring a sword upon you, saith the Lord God.

9 And I will bring you out of the midst thereof, and deliver you into the ^d hands of strangers, and will execute judgments among you.

10 Ye shall fall by the sword, and I will judge you in the border of ^e Israel, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

11 This city shall not be your cauldron, neither shall you be the flesh in the midst thereof, but I will judge you in the border of Israel.

12 And ye shall know that I am the Lord: for ye have not walked in my statutes, neither executed my judgments, but have done after the manners of the heathen, that are round about you.

13 ¶ And when I prophesied, Pelatiah the son of ^f Benaiah died: then fell I down upon my face, and cried with a loud voice, and said, Ah Lord God, wilt thou then utterly destroy all the remnant of Israel?

14 Again, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

15 Son of man, thy ^g brethren, even thy brethren, the men of thy kindred, and all the house of Israel, boly are they unto whom the inhabitants of Jerusalem have said, Depart ye far from the Lord: for the land is given us in possession.

16 Therefore say, Thus saith the Lord God, Although I have cast them far off among the heathen, and although I have scattered them among the countries: yet will I be to them as a little ^h sanctuary in the countries where they shall come.

17 Therefore say, Thus saith the Lord God, I will gather you again from the people, and assemble you out of the countries where you have been scattered, and I will give you the land of Israel.

^g They that remained still at Jerusalem, thus reproached them that were gone into captivity, as though they were cast off and forsaken of God.

^h They shall be yet a little church: shewing that the Lord will ever have some to call upon his name, whom he will preserve and restore, though they be for a time afflicted.

21 But upon them, whose heart is toward their idols, and whose affection goeth after their abominations, I will lay their way upon their own heads, saith the Lord God.

22 ¶ Then did the Cherubims lift up their wings, and the wheels besides them, and the glory of the God of Israel was upon them on high.

23 And the glory of the Lord went up from the midst of the city, and stood upon the mountain which is toward the east side of the city.

24 Afterward the Spirit took me up, and brought me in a vision by the Spirit of God into Chaldea to them that were led away captives: so the vision that I had seen, went up from me.

THE word of the Lord also came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, thou dwellest in the midst of a rebellious house, which have eyes to see, and see ¹ not: they have ears to hear, and hear not: for they are a rebellious house.

3 Therefore, thou son of man, [†] prepare thy stuff to go into captivity, and go forth by day, in their sight: and thou shalt pass from thy place to another place in their sight, if it be possible that they may consider it: for they are a rebellious house.

4 Then shalt thou bring forth thy stuff by day in their sight, as the stuff of him that goeth into captivity: and thou shalt go forth at even in their sight, as they that go forth into captivity.

5 Dig thou through the wall in their sight, and carry out thereby.

6 In their sight shalt thou bear it upon thy shoulders, and carry it forth in the dark: thou shalt cover thy face that thou see not the earth: for I have set thee as a ^m sign unto the house of Israel.

7 And as I was commanded, so I brought forth my stuff by day, as the stuff of one that goeth into captivity: and by night I digged through the wall with mine hand, and brought it forth in the dark, and I bare it upon my shoulder in their sight.

8 And in the morning came the word of the Lord unto me, saying,

10 But say thou unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, This [†] burden concerneth the chief in Jerusalem, and all the house of Israel that are among them.

11 Say, I am your sign: like as I have done, so shall it be done unto them: they shall go into bondage and captivity.

12 And the chiefest that is among them, shall bear upon his shoulder in the dark, and shall go forth: they shall dig through the wall, to carry out thereby: he shall cover his face, that he see not the ground with his eyes.

13 My net will I also spread ^o upon him, and he shall be taken in my net, and I will bring him to Babel to the land of the Chaldeans, yet shall he not see it, though he shall die there.

14 And I will scatter toward every wind all that are about him to help him, and all his garrisons: and I will draw out the sword after them.

15 And they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall scatter them among the nations, and disperse them in the countries.

16 But I will leave a ^p little number of them from the sword, from the famine, and from the pestilence, that they may declare all these abominations among the heathen, where they come, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

17 ¶ Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

18 Son of man, eat thy bread with trembling, and drink thy water with trouble, and with carefulness:

19 And say unto the people of the land, Thus saith the Lord God of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and of the land of Israel, They shall eat their bread with carefulness, and drink their water with desolation: for the land shall be desolate from her abundance, because of the cruelty of them that dwell therein.

20 And the cities that are inhabited shall be left void, and the land shall be desolate, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

21 ¶ And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

22 Son of man, what is that proverb that you have in the land of Israel, saying, The days ^q are prolonged, and all visions [†] fail?

23 Tell them therefore, Thus saith the Lord God, I will make this proverb to cease, and they shall no more use it as a proverb in Israel: but say unto them, the days are at hand, and the effect of every vision.

thy daughters, whom thou hast borne unto me, and these hast thou sacrificed unto them, to ⁱ be devoured: is this thy whoredom a small matter, livered them, to cause them to pass through fire for them?

^d He declareth wherein the dignity of Jerusalem stood: to wit, in that, that the Lord gave them of his beauty and excellency.

^e In abusing my gifts, and in putting thy confidence in thine own wisdom and dignity, which were the occasion of thine idolatry.

^f There was none idolatry so vile wherewith thou didst not pollute thyself.

^g This declareth how the idolaters put their chief delight in those things which please the eyes and outward senses.

^h Thou hast converted my vessels and instruments which I gave thee to serve me with, to the use of thine idols.

ⁱ Meaning, by fire, read Lev. 18. 21. 2 Kings 23. 10.

Bef. Chr. 22 And in all thine abominations and whoredoms thou hast not remembered the days of thy youth, when thou wast naked and bare, and wast polluted in thy blood.

23 And beside all thy wickedness (woe, woe unto thee, saith the Lord God)

24 Thou hast also built unto thee an high place, and hast made thee an high place in every street.

25 Thou hast built thine high place at every [†] corner of the way, and hast made thy beauty to be abhorred: thou hast opened thy feet to every one that passed by, and multiplied thy whoredom.

26 Thou hast also committed fornication with the ^k Egyptians thy neighbours, which have great members, and hast increased thy whoredom, to provoke me.

27 Behold, therefore I did stretch out mine hand over thee, and will diminish thine ordinary, and deliver thee unto the will of them that hate thee, even to the [‡] daughters of the Philistines, which are ashamed of thy wicked way.

28 Thou hast played the whore also with the Assyrians, because thou wast insatiable: yea, thou hast played the harlot with them, and yet couldest not be satisfied.

29 Thou hast moreover multiplied thy fornication from the land of Canaan unto Chaldea, and yet thou wast not satisfied herewith.

30 How weak is thine heart, saith the Lord God, seeing thou dost all these things, even the work of a [‡] presumptuous whorish woman?

31 In that thou buildest thine high place in the corner of every way, and makest thine high place in every street, and hast not been as an harlot ¹ that hath despised a reward,

32 But as a wife that playeth the harlot, and taketh others for her husband:

33 They give gifts to all other whores, but thou givest gifts unto all thy lovers, and rewardest them that they may come unto thee on every side for thy fornication.

34 And the contrary is in thee from other women in thy fornications, neither the like fornication shall be after thee: for in that thou givest a reward, and no reward is given unto thee, therefore thou art contrary.

35 Wherefore, O harlot, hear the word of the Lord.

36 Thus saith the Lord God, Because thy [‡] shame was poured out, and thy filthiness discovered through thy fornications with thy lovers, and with all the idols of thine abominations, and by the blood of thy children, which thou didst offer unto them;

37 Behold, therefore I will gather all ^m thy lovers, with whom thou hast taken pleasure, and all them that thou hast loved, with all them that thou hast hated: I will even gather them round about against thee, and will discover thy filthiness unto them, that they may see all thy filthiness.

38 And I will judge thee after the manner of them that are ⁿ harlots, and of them that shed blood, and I will give thee the blood of wrath and jealousy.

39 I will also give thee into their hands, and they shall destroy thine high place, and shall break down thine high places: they shall strip thee also out of thy cloaths, and shall take thy fair jewels, and leave thee naked and bare.

40 They shall also bring up a company against thee, and they shall stone thee with stones; and thrust thee through with their swords.

41 And they ^{*} shall burn up thine houses with fire, and execute judgments upon thee in the sight of many women: and I will cause thee to cease from playing the harlot, and thou shalt give no reward any more.

42 So will I make my wrath toward thee to rest, and my ^o jealousy shall depart from thee, and I will cease and be no more angry.

43 Because thou hast not remembered the days of thy youth, but hast provoked me with all these things, behold, therefore I also have ^p brought thy way upon thine head, saith the Lord God: yet hast not thou had consideration of all thine abominations.

44 Behold, all that use proverbs, shall use this proverb against thee, saying, As is the mother, ^a so is her daughter.

45 Thou art thy mother's daughter, that hath cast off her husband and her children, and thou art the sister of thy ^r sisters, which forsook their husbands and their children: your mother is an Hittite, and your father an Amorite.

46 And thine elder sister is Samaria, and her ^s daughters that dwell at thy left hand, and thy younger sister that dwelleth at thy right hand, is Sodom and her daughters.

47 Yet hast thou ^t not walked after their ways, nor done after their abominations: but as it had been a very little thing, thou wast corrupted more than they in all thy ways.

48 As I live, saith the Lord God, Sodom thy sister hath not done, neither she nor her daughters, as thou hast done, and thy daughters.

49 Behold, this was the iniquity of thy sister Sodom, ^u Pride, fulness of bread, and abundance of idleness was in her, and in her daughters: neither did she strengthen the hand of the poor and needy.

50 But they were haughty, and committed abomination before me: therefore I took them away as pleased me.

53 Therefore I will bring again ^y their captivity with the captivity of Sodom, and her daughters, and with the captivity of Samaria, and her daughters: even the captivity of thy captives in the midst of them.

54 That thou mayest bear thine own shame, and mayest be confounded in all that thou hast done, in that thou hast ^z comforted them.

55 And thy sister Sodom and her daughters shall return to their former state. Samaria also and her daughters shall return to their former state, ^z when thou and thy daughters shall return to your former state.

56 For thy sister Sodom [†] was not heard of [†] by thy report in the day of thy pride, 57 Before thy wickedness was ^c discovered, as in that same time of the reproach of the daughters of Aram, and of all the daughters of the Philistines round about ^d her, which despise thee on all sides.

58 Thou hast borne therefore thy wickedness, and thine abomination, saith the Lord.

59 For thus saith the Lord God, I might even deal with thee, as thou hast done: when thou didst despise the ^e oath, in breaking the covenant.

60 Nevertheless, I will ^f remember my covenant made with thee in the days of thy youth, and I will confirm unto thee an everlasting covenant.

61 Then thou shalt remember thy ways, and be ashamed, when thou shalt receive ^g thy sisters, both thy elder and thy younger, and I will give them unto thee for daughters, but not ^h by thy covenant.

62 And I will establish my covenant with thee, and thou shalt know that I am the Lord.

The parable of the two eagles.

^a Thou art so wicked, that in respect of thee, Sodom and Samaria were just.

AND the word of the Lord came unto me, [†] saying,

2 Son of man, put forth a parable, and speak a proverb unto the house of Israel,

3 And say, Thus saith the Lord God, The great ^k eagle with great wings, and long wings, and full of feathers which had divers colours, came unto Lebanon, and took the highest branch of the cedar,

4 And brake off the top of his twig, and carried it into the land of ^l merchants, and set it in a city of merchants.

5 He took also of the ^m seed of the land, and planted it in a fruitful ground: he placed it by great waters, and set it as a willow tree.

6 And it budded up, and was ⁿ like a spreading vine of ^o low stature, whose branches turned toward it; and the roots thereof were under it; so it became a vine, and it brought forth branches, and shot forth buds.

7 There was also ^p another great eagle with great wings, and many feathers, and behold, this vine did turn her roots toward it, and spread forth her branches toward it, that she might water it by the trenches of her plantation.

8 It was planted in a good soil by great ^q waters, that it should bring forth branches, and bear fruit, and be an excellent vine.

9 Say thou, Thus saith the Lord God, Shall it prosper? shall ^r he not pull up the roots thereof, and destroy the fruit thereof, and cause them to dry? all the leaves of her bud shall wither without great power, or many people to pluck it up by the roots thereof.

10 Behold, it was planted: but shall it prosper? shall it not be dried up and wither? ^s when the east wind shall touch it, it shall wither in the trenches, where it grew.

11 Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

12 Say now to this rebellious house, Know ye not what these things mean? tell them, Behold, the king of Babel is come to Jerusalem, and hath taken ^t the king thereof, and the princes thereof, and led them with him to Babel:

13 And hath taken one of the king's seed, and made a covenant with him, and hath taken ^u an oath of him: he hath also taken the princes of the land,

THE word of the Lord came unto me again, saying,

2 What mean ye that ye speak this proverb, concerning the land of Israel, saying, ^b The fathers have eaten four grapes, and the children's teeth are set on edge?

3 As I live, saith the Lord God, ye shall use this proverb no more in Israel.

4 Behold, all souls are mine, both the soul of the father, and also the soul of the son, are mine: the soul that sinneth, it shall die.

5 But if a man be just, and do that which is lawful and right,

6 And hath not eaten^c upon the mountains, neither hath lift up his eyes to the idols of the house

8 And hath not given forth upon ^{*} usury, neither hath taken any increase, but hath withdrawn his hand from iniquity, and hath executed true judgment between man and man;

9 And hath walked in my statutes, and hath kept my judgments to deal truly: he is just, he shall surely live, saith the Lord God.

10 ¶ If he beget a son that is [†] a thief, or a shedder of blood, if he do any one of these things:

11 Though he do not all these things, but either hath eaten upon the mountains, or defiled his neighbour's wife;

12 Or hath oppressed the poor and needy, or hath spoiled by violence, or hath not restored the pledge, or hath lift up his eyes unto the idols; or hath committed abomination,

13 Or hath given forth upon usury, or hath taken increase; shall he live? he shall not live: seeing he hath done these abominations, ^a he shall die the death, and his blood shall be upon him.

14 ¶ But if he beget a son that seeth all his father's sins which he hath done, and feareth; neither doth such like;

15 That hath not eaten upon the mountains, neither hath lift up his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel, nor hath defiled his neighbour's wife,

16 Neither hath oppressed any, nor hath withholden the pledge, neither hath spoiled by violence, but hath given his bread to the hungry, and hath covered the naked with a garment,

17 Neither hath withdrawn his hand from the afflicted; nor received usury nor increase, but hath executed my judgments, and hath walked in my statutes, he shall not die in the iniquity of his father: but he shall surely live.

18 His father, because he cruelly oppressed and spoiled his brother by violence, and hath not done good among his people, lo, even he dieth in his iniquity.

19 Yet say ye, Wherefore shall not the son bear the iniquity of the father? Because the son hath executed judgment and justice, and hath kept all my statutes, and done them, he shall surely live.

20 * The same soul that sinneth, shall die: the son shall not bear the iniquity of the father, neither shall the father bear the iniquity of the son: but the righteousness of the righteous shall be upon him, and the wickedness of the wicked shall be upon himself.

21 But if the wicked will return from all his sins that he hath committed, and keep all my^e statutes, and do that which is lawful and right, he shall surely live, and shall not die.

^w Because he took the name of God in vain, and brake his oath which he had confirmed by giving his hand; therefore the prophet declareth that God would not suffer such perjury and infidelity to escape punishment.

^x This promise is made to the church, which shall be as a small remnant, and as the top of a tree.

^y I will trim it, and dress it.

^z Both the Jews and Gentiles shall be gathered into it.

^a All the world shall know that I have plucked down the proud enemies, and set up my church which was low and contemned.

^b The people murmured at the chastisings of the Lord, and therefore used this proverb, meaning that their fathers had sinned, and their children were punished for their transgressions, read Jer. 31. 29.

^c If he hath not eaten of the flesh that hath been offered up to idols, to honour them thereby.

^d He sheweth how the son is punished for his father's fault: that is, if he be wicked as his father was, and doth not repent, he shall be punished as his father was, or else not.

^e He joineth the observation of the commandments with repentance: for none can repent indeed, except he labour to keep the law.

Bef. Chr. 59+ 22 All his transgressions which he committed, they shall not be [†] mentioned unto him, but in his [†] righteousness that he hath done, he shall live.

23 [‡] Have I any desire that the wicked should die, saith the Lord God? [†] or shall he not live, if he return from his ways?

24 But if the righteous turn away from his righteousness, and commit iniquity, and do according to all the abominations that the wicked man doth, shall he live? All his [‡] righteousness that he hath done, shall not be mentioned: but in his transgression that he hath committed, and in his sin that he hath sinned, in them shall he die.

25 Yet ye say, The way of the Lord is not equal: hear now, O house of Israel, Is not my way equal? or are not your ways unequal?

26 For when a righteous man turneth away from his righteousness, and committeth iniquity, he shall even die for the same, he shall even die for his iniquity that he hath done.

27 Again, when the wicked turneth away from his wickedness that he hath committed, and doth that which is lawful and right, he shall save his soul alive.

28 Because he considereth, and turneth away from all his transgressions that he hath committed, he shall surely live, and shall not die.

29 Yet saith the house of Israel, The way of the Lord is not equal. O house of Israel, are not my ways equal? or are not your ways unequal?

30 Therefore I will judge you, O house of Israel, every one according to his ways, saith the Lord God: return therefore and cause others to turn away from all your transgressions: so iniquity shall not be your destruction.

31 Cast away from you all your transgressions whereby ye have transgressed, and make [‡] you a new heart, and a new spirit: for why will ye die, O house of Israel?

32 For I desire not the death of him that dieth, saith the Lord God: cause therefore one another to return, and live ye.

6 In the day that I lift up mine hand unto them, to bring them forth of the land of Egypt, into a land that I had provided for them, flowing with milk and honey, which is pleasant among all lands,

7 Then said I unto them, Let every man cast away the abominations of his eyes,^y and defile not yourselves with the idols of Egypt: for I am the Lord your God.

8 But they rebelled against me, and would not hear me: for none cast away the abominations of^z their eyes, neither did they forsake the idols of Egypt: then I thought to pour out mine indignation upon them, and to accomplish my wrath against them in the midst of the land of Egypt.

9 But I had respect to my^a name, that it should not be polluted before the heathen among whom they were, and in whose sight I made myself known unto them, in bringing them forth of the land of Egypt.

10 Now I carried them out of the land of Egypt, and brought them into the wilderness.

11 And I gave them my statutes, and declared my judgments unto them, * which if a man do, he shall live in them.

12 Moreover, I gave them also my * sabbaths to be a sign between me and them, that they might know that I am the Lord, that sanctify them.

13 But the house of Israel rebelled against me in the wilderness: they walked not in my statutes, and they cast away my judgments, which if a man do, he shall live in them, and my sabbaths have they greatly polluted: then I thought to pour out mine indignation upon them * in the wilderness to consume them.

14 But I had respect to my name, that it should not be polluted before the^b heathen; in whose sight I brought them out.

15 Yet nevertheless, I lift up mine hand unto them in the wilderness, that I would not bring them into the land which I had given them, flowing with milk and honey, which was pleasant above all lands.

16 Because they cast away my judgments, and walked not in my statutes, but have polluted my sabbaths: for their heart went after their idols: 593

18 But I said unto their children in the wilderness, walk ye not in the ordinances of your^d fathers, neither observe their manners, nor defile yourselves with their idols.

19 I am the Lord your God: walk in my statutes, and keep my judgments and do them, 20 And sanctify my sabbaths; and they shall be a sign between me and you, that ye may know that I am the Lord your God.

21 Notwithstanding the children rebelled against me: they walked not in my statutes, nor kept my judgments to do them, which if a man do, he shall live in them, but they polluted my sabbaths: then I thought to pour out mine indignation upon them, and to accomplish my wrath against them in the wilderness.

22 Nevertheless I withdrew mine hand, and had respect to my name, that it should not be polluted before the heathen; in whose sight I brought them forth.

23 Yet I lift up mine hand unto them in the wilderness, that I would scatter them among the heathen, and disperse them through the countries, 24 Because they had not executed my judgments, but had cast away my statutes, and had polluted my sabbaths, and their eyes were after^e their fathers idols.

25 Wherefore I^f gave them also statutes that were not good, and judgments wherein they should not live.

26 And I polluted them in their own^g gifts, in that they caused to pass by the fire all that first openeth the womb, that I might destroy them, to the end that they might know that I am the Lord.

Bef. Chr. 593. THE word of the Lord came again unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, there were two woman, the daughters of one ^k mother.

3 And they committed fornication ^l in Egypt, they committed fornication in their youth: there were their breasts pressed, and there they bruised the teats of their virginity.

4 And the names of ^m them were Aholah the elder, and Aholibah her sister: and they were mine, and they bare sons and daughters: thus were their names, Samaria is Aholah, and Jerusalem Aholibah.

5 And Aholah played the harlot † when ⁿ she was mine, and she was set on fire with her lovers, to wit, with the Assyrians her neighbours;

6 Which were cloathed with blue silk, both captains and princes: they were all pleasant young men, and horsemen riding upon horses.

7 Thus she committed her whoredom with them, even with all them that were the chosen men of Asshur, and with all on whom she doted, and defiled herself with all their idols.

8 Neither left she her fornications, learned of the Egyptians: for in her youth they ^o lay with her, and they bruised the breasts of her virginity, and poured their whoredom upon her.

9 Wherefore I delivered her into the hands of her lovers, even into the hands of the Assyrians, upon whom she doted.

10 These discovered her shame: they took away her sons and her daughters, and slew her with the sword, and she had an evil name among women: for ^p they had executed judgment upon her.

11 And when her sister Aholibah saw this, she marred herself with inordinate love more than she, and with her fornications more than her sister with her fornications.

12 She doted upon the Assyrians her neighbours, both captains and princes clothed with divers suits, horsemen riding upon horses: they were all pleasant young men.

13 Then I saw that she was defiled, and that they were both after one sort,

14 And that she increased her fornications: for when she saw men ^q painted upon the wall, the images of the Chaldeans painted with vermilion,

15 And girded with girdles upon their loins, and with dyed attire upon their heads (looking all like princes after the manner of the Babylonians in Chaldea, the land of their nativity)

16 As soon, I say, as she saw them, she doted upon them, and sent messengers unto them into Chaldea.

17 Now when the Babylonians came to her into the bed of love, they defiled her with their fornication, and she was polluted with them, and her lust departed from them. Bef. Chr. 593.

18 So she discovered her fornication, and disclosed her shame: then mine heart forsook her, like as mine heart had forsaken her sister.

19 Yet she increased her whoredom more, and called to remembrance the days of her youth, wherein she had played the harlot in the land of Egypt.

20 For she doted upon their servants, whose members are as the members of asses, and whose issue is like the issue of horses.

21 Thou calledst to remembrance the wickedness of thy youth, when thy teats were bruised by the Egyptians: therefore the paps of thy youth are thus.

22 Therefore, O Aholibah, thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will raise up thy lovers against thee, from whom thine heart is departed, and I will bring them against thee on every side, 23 To wit, the Babylonians, and all the Chaldeans, Poked, and Shoah, and Koa, and all the Assyrians with them: they were all pleasant young men, captains and princes: all they were valiant and renowned, riding upon horses.

24 Even these shall come against thee with chariots, waggons, and wheels, and with a multitude of people, which shall set against thee buckler and shield, and helmet round about: and † I will leave the punishment unto them, and they shall judge thee according to their † judgments.

25 And I will lay mine indignation upon thee, and they shall deal cruelly with thee: they shall cut off thy ^r nose and thine ears, and thy remnant shall fall by the sword: they shall carry away thy sons and thy daughters, and thy residue shall be devoured by the fire.

26 They shall also strip thee out of thy clothes, and take away thy fair jewels.

27 Thus will I make thy wickedness to cease from thee, and thy fornication out of the land of Egypt: so that thou shalt not lift up thine eyes unto them, nor remember Egypt any more.

28 For thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will deliver thee into the hand of them whom thou hatest: even into the hands of them from whom thine heart is departed.

29 And they shall handle thee despitefully, and shall take away all thy ^s labour, and shall leave thee naked and bare, and the shame of thy fornications shall be discovered, both thy wickedness, and thy whoredom.

30 I will do these things unto thee, because thou hast gone a whoring after the heathen, and because thou art polluted with their idols.

shall slay their sons and their daughters, and burn up their houses with fire.

48 Thus will I cause wickedness to cease out of the land, that all ^d women may be taught not to do after your wickedness.

49 And they shall lay your wickedness upon you, and ye shall bear the sins of your idols, and ye shall know that I am the Lord God.

C H A P. XXIV.

ⁱ He sheweth the destruction of Jerusalem by a parable of a seething-pot. 16 The parable of Ezekiel's wife being dead.

A GAIN in the ^e ninth year, in the tenth month, in the tenth day of the ^f month, came the word of the Lord unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, write thee the name of the day, even of this same day: for the king of Babel set himself against Jerusalem this same day.

3 Therefore speak a parable unto the rebellious house, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Prepare a ^g pot, prepare it, and also pour water into it.

4 Gather the ^h pieces thereof into it, even every good piece, as the thigh and the shoulder, and fill it with the chief bones.

5 Take one of the best sheep, and [†] turn also the ⁱ bones under it, and make it boil well, and see the bones of it therein, † Or, heap.

6 Because the Lord God saith thus, Wo to the bloody city, even to the pot ^k whose scum is therein, and whose scum is not gone out of it: bring it out ^l piece by piece: let no ^m lot fall upon it.

7 For her blood is in the midst of her: she set it upon an high ⁿ rock, and poured it not upon the ground to cover it with dust,

8 That it might cause wrath to arise and take vengeance: even I have set her blood upon an high rock, that it should not be covered.

9 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, * Wo to the bloody city, for I will make [†] the burning great. * Nahum 3. 1.
Hab. 2. 11.
† Or, an heap of wood.

10 Heap on much wood: ^o kindle the fire, consume the flesh, and cast in spice, and let the bones be burnt.

11 Then set it empty upon the coals thereof, that [†] the bras of it may be hot, and may burn, and that the filthiness of it may be molten in it, and that the scum of it may be consumed. † Or, bottom.

12 ^p She hath wearied herself with lyes, and her great scum went not out of her: therefore her scum shall be consumed with fire.

13 Thou remainest in thy filthiness and wickedness: because I would ^q have purged thee, and thou wast not purged, thou shalt not be purged from ^g Whereby was meant Jerusalem.

^h That is, the citizens, and the chief men thereof.

ⁱ Meaning, of the innocents, whom they had slain, who were the cause of the kindling of God's wrath against them.

^k Whose iniquities and wicked citizens there yet remain.

^l Signifying, that they should not be destroyed all at once, but by little and little.

^m Spare no estate or condition.

ⁿ The city shewed her cruelty to all the world, and was not ashamed thereof, neither yet hid it.

^o Meaning, that the city should be utterly destroyed, and that he would give the enemies an appetite thereunto.

^p The city hath flattered herself in vain.

^q I laboured by sending my prophets to call thee to repentance, but thou wouldst not.

590. from thy filthiness, till I have caused my wrath to light upon thee.

14 I the Lord have spoken it: it shall come to pass, and I will do it: I will not go back, neither will I spare, neither will I repent: according to thy ways, and according to thy works shall they judge thee, saith the Lord God.

15 ¶ Also the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

16 Son of man, behold, I take away from thee the pleasure of thine eyes with a plague: yet shalt thou neither mourn nor weep, neither shall thy tears run down.

17 Cease from sighing: make no mourning for the dead, and bind the tire of thine head upon thee, and put on thy shoes upon thy feet, and cover not thy lips, and eat not the bread of men.

18 So I spake unto the people in the morning, and at even my wife died: and I did in the morning as I was commanded.

19 And the people said unto me, Wilt thou not tell us what these things mean toward us, that thou dost so?

20 Then I answered them, The word of the Lord came unto me, saying, 21 Speak unto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will pollute my sanctuary, even the pride of your power, the pleasure of your eyes, and your hearts desire, and your sons and your daughters whom ye have left shall fall by the sword.

22 And ye shall do as I have done: ye shall not cover your lips, neither shall ye eat the bread of men.

23 And your tire shall be upon your heads, and your shoes upon your feet: ye shall not mourn nor weep, but ye shall pine away for your iniquities, and mourn one toward another.

24 Thus Ezekiel is unto you a sign: according to all that he hath done, ye shall do: and when this cometh, ye shall know that I am the Lord God.

25 Also, thou son of man, shall it not be in the day when I take from them their power, the joy of their honour, the pleasure of their eyes, and the desire of their heart, their sons and their daughters;

26 That he that escapeth in that day, shall come unto thee to tell thee that which he hath heard with his ears?

27 In that day shall thy mouth be opened to him which is escaped, and thou shalt speak, and be no more dumb, and thou shalt be a sign unto them; and they shall know that I am the Lord.

C H A P. XXV.

1 The word of the Lord against Ammon, which rejoiced at the fall of Jerusalem. 8 Against Moab and Seir, Idumea, and the Philistines.

THE word of the Lord came again unto me, saying,

^r That is, the Babylonians.

^s Meaning, his wife, in whom he delighted, as ver. 18.

^t For in mourning they went bare headed and bare footed, and also covered their lips.

^u That is, which the neighbours sent to them that mourned.

^v Meaning, the morning following.

^x By sending the Chaldeans to destroy it, as chap. 7. 12.

^y Wherein you boast and delight.

^z Because ye rejoiced when the enemy destroyed my city and temple.

2 Son of man, set thy face against the Ammonites, and prophesy against them, Bef. Chr: 590:

3 And say unto the Ammonites, Hear the word of the Lord God, Thus saith the Lord God, Because thou saidst, Ha, ha, against my sanctuary, when it was polluted, and against the land of Israel when it was desolate, and against the house of Judah when they went into captivity,

4 Behold; therefore I will deliver thee to the men of the East for a possession, and they shall set their palaces in thee, and make their dwellings in thee: they shall eat thy fruit, and they shall drink thy milk.

5 And I will make Rabbah a dwelling-place for camels, and the Ammonites a sheepcote, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

6 For thus saith the Lord God; Because thou hast clapped thy hands, and stamped with the foot, and rejoicest in heart with all thy despite against the land of Israel:

7 Behold, therefore, I will stretch out mine hand upon thee, and will deliver thee to be spoiled of the heathen, and I will root thee out from the people, and I will cause thee to be destroyed out of the countries, and I will destroy thee, and thou shalt know that I am the Lord.

8 Thus saith the Lord God, because that Moab and Seir do say, Behold, the house of Judah is like unto all the heathen, 9 Therefore behold, I will open the side of Moab, even of the cities of his cities, I say, in his frontiers with the pleasant country, Beth-jeshimoth, Baal-meon, and Kiriathaim.

10 I will call the men of the East against the Ammonites, and will give them in possession, so that the Ammonites shall no more be remembered among the nations.

11 And I will exercise judgment upon Moab, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

12 ¶ Thus saith the Lord God, Because that Edom hath done evil by taking vengeance upon the house of Judah, and hath committed great offence, and revenged himself upon them, 13 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, I will also stretch out mine hand upon Edom, and destroy man and beast out of it, and I will make it desolate from Teman, and they of Dedan shall fall by the sword.

14 And I will execute my vengeance upon Edom by the hand of my people Israel, and they shall do in Edom according to mine anger, and according to mine indignation, and they shall know my vengeance, saith the Lord God.

15 Thus saith the Lord God, Because the Philistines have executed vengeance, and revenged themselves with a despiteful heart, to destroy it for the old hatred, 16 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will stretch out mine hand upon the Philistines, and I will cut off the Cherethims, and destroy the remnant of the sea-coast.

17 And

^a That is, to the Babylonians.

^b They shall chase thee away, and take thy gorgeous houses to dwell in.

^c Called also Philadelphia, which was the chief city of the Ammonites, and full of conduits, 2 Sam. 12. 27.

^d So that no power or strength should be able to resist the Babylonians.

^e Which were certain garrisons of Philistines, whereby they oft-times molested the Jews: of the Cherethims, David also had a guard, 2 Sam. 8. 18.

17 And I will execute great vengeance upon them with rebukes of my indignation, and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall lay my vengeance upon them.

C H A P. XXVI.

¹ He prophesieth that Tyrus shall be overthrown, because it rejoiced at the destruction of Jerusalem.

¹⁵ The wondering and astonishment of the merchants for the destruction of Tyrus.

AND in the ^f eleventh year, in the first day of the month, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

² Son of man, because that Tyrus hath said against Jerusalem, Aha, the ^g gate of the people is broken: it is turned unto me: for seeing she is desolate, I shall be ^h replenished:

³ Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against thee, O Tyrus, and I will bring up many nations against thee, as the sea mounteth up with his waves.

⁴ And they shall destroy the walls of Tyrus, and break down her towers: I will also scrape her dust from her, and make her like the top of a rock.

⁶ And her ⁱ daughters which are in the fields, shall be slain by the sword, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

⁸ He shall slay with the sword thy daughters in the field, and he shall make a fort against thee, and lift up the buckler against thee.

⁹ He shall set engines of war before him against thy walls, and with his weapons break down thy towers.

¹⁰ The dust of his horses shall cover thee, for their multitude: thy walls shall shake at the noise of the horsemen, and of the wheels, and of the chariots, when he shall enter into thy gates, as into the entry of a city that is broken down.

¹² And they shall rob thy riches, and spoil thy merchandize, and they shall break down thy walls, and destroy thy pleasant houses, and they shall cast thy stones, and thy timber, and thy dust into the midst of the water.

¹³ * Thus will I cause the sound of thy songs to cease, and the sound of thine harps shall be no more heard.

^f Either of the captivity of Jeconiah, or of the reign of Zedekiah.

^g That is, the famous city of Jerusalem, whereunto all people resorted.

^h My riches and fame shall increase: thus the wicked rejoice at their fall, by whom they may have any profit or advantage.

ⁱ The towns that belonged unto her.

^k For Tyrus was much built by art, and by labour of men was won out of the sea. Some refer this unto the images of the noble men, which they had erected up for their glory and renown.

^l I will make thee so bare, that thou shalt have nothing

¹⁴ I will lay thee like the top of a rock: ¹ thou shalt be for a spreading of nets: thou shalt be built no more: for I the Lord have spoken it, saith the Lord God.

¹⁵ Thus saith the Lord God to Tyrus, Shall not the isles tremble at the sound of thy fall: and at the cry of thy wounded, when they shall be slain and murdered in the midst of thee?

¹⁷ And they shall take up a lamentation for thee, and say to thee, How art thou destroyed, that wast inhabited ⁿ of the sea men, the renowned city, which was strong in the sea, both she and her inhabitants, which cause their fear to be on all that haunt therein!

¹⁸ Now shall the isles be astonished in the day of thy fall: yea, the isles that are in the sea shall be troubled at thy departure.

¹⁹ For thus saith the Lord God, When I shall make thee a desolate city, like the cities that are not inhabited, and when I shall bring the deep upon thee, and great waters shall cover thee,

²⁰ When I shall cast thee down with them that descend into the pit, with the people ^o of old time, and shall set thee in the low parts of the earth, like the old ruins, with them, I say, which go down to the pit, so that thou shalt not be inhabited, and I shall shew my glory in the land of the ^p living:

²¹ I will ^q bring thee to nothing, and thou shalt be no more: though thou be sought for, yet shalt thou never be found again, saith the Lord God.

C H A P. XXVII.

The prophet bewaileth the desolation of Tyrus, shewing what were the riches, power and authority thereof in time past.

THE word of the Lord came again unto me, saying,

² Son of man, take up a lamentation for Tyrus,

⁴ Thy borders are in the [†] midst of the sea, and thy builders have made thee of perfect beauty.

[†] The governors and rulers of other countries that dwell by the sea: whereby he signifieth, that her destruction should be so horrible that all the world should hear thereof and be afraid.

^o Meaning, merchants, which by their traffic did enrich her wonderfully, and increase her power.

^p Which were dead long ago.

^q Meaning, in Judea, when it shall be restored.

^r Which serveth all the world with thy merchandize.

^s This mountain was called Hermon: but the Amorites called it Shenir, Deut. 3. 9.

6 Of the oaks of Bashan have they made thine oars: the company of the Assyrians have made thy banks of ivory, brought out of the isles of Chittim.

7 Fine linen with broidered work, brought from Egypt, was spread over thee to be thy sail, blue silk and purple, brought from the isles of Elislah, was thy covering.

8 The inhabitants of Zidon and Arvad were thy mariners, O Tyrus: thy wise men that were in thee, they were thy pilots.

9 The ancients of Gebal, and the wise men thereof were in thee thy caulkers, all the ships of the sea with their mariners were in thee to occupy thy merchandize.

10 They of Persia, and of Lud, and of Phut were in thine army: thy men of war they hanged the shield and helmet in thee: they set forth thy beauty.

11 The men of Arvad with thine army were upon thy walls round about, and the Gammadims were in thy towers: they hanged their shields upon thy walls round about: they have made thy beauty perfect.

12 They of Tarshish were thy merchants for the multitude of all riches, for silver, iron, tin, and lead, which they brought to thy fairs.

13 They of Javan, Tubal, and Meshech were thy merchants, concerning the lives of men, and they brought vessels of brass for thy merchandize.

14 They of the house of Togarmah brought to thy fairs, horses, and horsemen, and mules.

15 The men of Dedan were thy merchants: and the merchandize of many isles were in thine hands: they brought thee for a present horns, teeth, and peacocks.

16 And they of Aram were thy merchants for the multitude of thy wares: they occupied in thy fairs with emeralds, purple and broidered work, and fine linen, and coral, and pearl.

17 They of Judah and of the land of Israel were thy merchants: they brought for thy merchandize wheat of Minnith, and Pannag, and honey, and oil, and balm.

18 They of Damascus were thy merchants in the multitude of thy wares, for the multitude of all riches, as in the wine of Helbon and white wool.

19 They of Dan also and of Javan, going to and fro, occupied in thy fairs: iron work, cassia and calamus were among thy merchandize.

20 They of Dedan were thy merchants in precious cloths for the chariots, 21 They of Arabia, and all the princes of Kedar, occupied with thee, in lambs, and rams, and goats: in these were they thy merchants.

22 The merchants of Sheba and Raamah were thy merchants: they occupied in thy fairs with the chief of all spices, and with all precious stones and gold.

23 They of Haram and Canneh and Eden, the merchants of Sheba, Ashur, and Chilmad were thy merchants.

24 These were thy merchants in all sorts of things, in raiment of blue silk, and of broidered work, and in coffer for the rich apparel, which were bound with cords: chains also were among thy merchandize.

25 The ships of Tarshish were thy chief in thy merchandize, and thou wast replenished and made very glorious in the midst of the sea.

26 Thy robbers have brought thee into great waters: the East wind hath broken thee in the midst of the sea.

27 Thy riches and thy fairs, thy merchandize, thy mariners and pilots, thy caulkers and the occupiers of thy merchandize, and all the men of war that are in thee, and all thy multitude which is in the midst of thee, shall fall in the midst of the sea in the day of thy ruin.

28 The suburbs shall shake at the sound of the cry of thy pilots.

29 And all that handle the oar, the mariners, and all the pilots of the sea, shall come down from their ships, and shall stand upon the land,

30 And shall cause their voice to be heard against thee, and shall cry bitterly, and shall cast dust upon their heads, and wallow themselves in the ashes.

31 They shall pluck off their hair for thee, and gird them with a sackcloth, and they shall weep for thee with sorrow of heart, and bitter mourning.

32 And in their mourning they shall take up a lamentation for thee, saying, What city is like Tyrus, so destroyed in the midst of the sea!

33 When thy wares went forth of the seas, thou filledst many people, and thou didst enrich the kings of the earth with the multitude of thy riches, and of thy merchandize.

34 When thou shalt be broken by the seas, in the depths of the waters, thy merchandize and all thy multitude, which was in the midst of thee, shall fall.

35 All the inhabitants of the isles shall be astonished at thee, and all their kings shall be fore afraid, and troubled in their countenance.

36 The merchants among the people shall hiss at thee: thou shalt be a terror, and never shalt be any more.

fit in the seat of God, in the midst of the sea, yet thou art but a man and not God: and though thou didst think in thine heart, that thou wast equal with God,

3 Behold, thou art wiser than Daniel: there is no secret that they can hide from thee.

4 With thy wisdom and thine understanding thou hast gotten thee riches, and hast gotten gold and silver into thy treasures.

5 By thy great wisdom and by thine occupying hast thou increased thy riches, and thine heart is lifted up because of thy riches.

6 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because thou didst think in thine heart, that thou wast equal with God,

7 Behold, therefore, I will bring strangers upon thee, even the terrible nations: and they shall draw their swords against the beauty of thy wisdom, and they shall defile thy brightness.

8 They shall cast thee down into the pit, and thou shalt die the death of them that are slain in the midst of the sea.

9 Wilt thou say then before him that slayeth thee, I am a God? but thou shalt be a man and no God, in the hands of him that slayeth thee.

10 Thou shalt die the death of the uncircumcised by the hands of strangers: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord God.

11 Moreover the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

12 Son of man, take up a lamentation upon the king of Tyrus, and say unto him, Thus saith the Lord God, Thou sealest up the sum, and art full of wisdom and perfect in beauty.

13 Thou hast been in Eden the garden of God: every precious stone was in thy garment, the ruby, the topaz and the diamond, the chrysolite, the onyx, and the jasper, the sapphire, emerald, and the carbuncle and gold: the workmanship of thy timbrels and of thy pipes was prepared in thee in the day that thou wast created.

14 Thou art the anointed cherub, that covereth, and I have set thee in honour: thou wast upon the holy mountain of God: thou hast walked in the midst of the stones of fire.

15 Thou wast perfect in thy ways from the day that thou wast created, till iniquity was found in thee.

16 By the multitude of thy merchandize, they have filled the midst of thee with cruelty, and thou hast sinned: therefore I will cast thee as profane out of the mountain of God: and I will destroy thee, O covering cherub, from the midst of the stones of fire.

17 Thine heart was lifted up because of thy beauty, and thou hast corrupted thy wisdom by reason of thy brightness. I will cast thee to the ground: I will lay thee before kings, that they may behold thee.

18 Thou hast defiled thy sanctification by the multitude of thine iniquities, and by the iniquity of thy merchandize: therefore will I bring forth a fire from the midst of thee, which shall devour thee: and I will bring thee to ashes upon the earth, in the sight of all them that behold thee, 19 All they that know thee among the people, shall be astonished at thee: thou shalt be a terror, and never shalt thou be any more.

20 Again, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

21 Son of man, set thy face against Zidon, and prophesy against it,

22 And say, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against thee, O Zidon, and I will be glorified in the midst of thee: and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall have executed judgments in her, and shall be sanctified in her.

23 For I will send into her pestilence, and blood into her streets, and the slain shall fall in the midst of her: the enemy shall come against her with the sword on every side, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

24 And they shall be no more a pricking thorn unto the house of Israel, nor any grievous thorn of all that are round about them, and despised them, and they shall know that I am the Lord God.

25 Thus saith the Lord God, When I shall have gathered the house of Israel from the people where they are scattered, and shall be sanctified in them in the sight of the heathen, then shall they dwell in the land that I have given to my servant Jacob.

26 And they shall dwell safely therein, and shall build houses, and plant vineyards: yea, they shall dwell safely, when I have executed judgments upon all round about them that despise them, and they shall know that I am the Lord their God.

C H A P. XXIX.

He prophesieth against Pharaoh and Egypt. 13 The Lord promiseth that he will restore Egypt after forty years. 18 Egypt is the reward of king Nebuchadnezzar for the labour which he took against Tyrus.

IN the tenth year, and in the tenth month, in the twelfth day of the month, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, set thy face against Pharaoh the king of Egypt, and prophesy against him, and against all Egypt,

3 Speak and say, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against thee, Pharaoh king of Egypt, the great dragon, that lieth in the midst of ¹ Thus he speaketh by derision: for Daniel had declared notable signs of his wisdom in Babylon, when Ezekiel wrote this.

² Like the rest of the heathen and infidels, which are God's enemies.

³ He derideth the vain opinion and confidence that the Tyrians had in their riches, strength and pleasures.

⁴ He meaneth the royal state of Tyrus, which for the excellency and glory thereof he compareth to the cherubims which covered the ark: and by this word 'anointed' he signifieth the same.

⁵ I did thee this honour to make thee one of the builders of my temple, which was when Hiram sent unto Solomon things necessary for the work.

⁶ To wit, among my people Israel, which shined as precious stones.

⁷ Which was when I first called thee to this dignity.

⁸ Thou shalt have no part among my people.

⁹ That is, the honour whereunto I called thee.

¹⁰ By executing my judgments against thy wickedness.

¹¹ That is, Nebuchadnezzar.

¹² He sheweth for what cause God will assemble his church, and preserve it still, though he destroy his enemies: to wit, that they should praise him, and give thanks for his great mercies.

¹⁴ He compareth Pharaoh to a dragon, which hideth himself in the river Nilus, as Isa. 51. 9.

of his rivers, which hath said, The river is mine, and I have made it for myself.

4 But I will put ^a hooks in thy jaws, and I will cause the fish of thy rivers to stick unto thy scales, and I will draw thee out of the midst of thy rivers, and all the fish of thy rivers shall stick unto thy scales.

5 And I will leave thee in the wilderness, both thee and all the fish of thy rivers: thou shalt fall upon the open field: thou shalt not be brought together, nor gathered: for I have given thee for meat to the beasts of the field, and to the fowls of the heaven.

6 And all the inhabitants of Egypt shall know that I am the Lord, because they have been a staff of ^w reed to the house of Israel.

7 When they took hold of thee with their hand, thou didst break and rent all their shoulder: and when they leaned upon thee, thou brakest and madest all their loins to [‡] stand ^x upright.

8 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will bring a sword upon thee, and destroy man and beast out of thee.

9 And the land of Egypt shall be desolate and waste, and they shall know that I am the Lord: because he hath said, ^y The river is mine, and I have made it.

10 Behold, therefore, I come unto thee, and upon thy rivers, and I will make the land of Egypt utterly waste and desolate, from the tower of Sevenh, even unto the borders of the [†] black-moors.

11 No foot of man shall pass by it, nor foot of beast shall pass by it, neither shall it be inhabited forty years.

12 And I will make the land of Egypt desolate in the midst of the countries that are desolate, and her cities shall be desolate among the cities that are desolate, for forty years: and I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and will disperse them through the countries.

13 Yet thus saith the Lord God, ^{*} At the end of forty years will I gather the Egyptians from the people where they were scattered.

14 And I will bring again the captivity of Egypt, and will cause them to return into the land of Pathros, into the land of their habitation, and they shall be there a ² small kingdom.

15 It shall be the smallest of the kingdoms, neither shall it exalt itself any more above the nations: for I will diminish them, that they shall no more rule the nations.

16 And it shall be no more the confidence of the house of Israel, to bring their ³ iniquity to remembrance by looking after them; so shall they know that I am the Lord God.

17 ¶ In the ^b seven and twentieth year also, in the first month, and in the first day of the month, came the word of the Lord unto me, saying,

18 Son of man, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel caused his army to serve a great ^c service against Tyrus: every head was made bald, and every shoulder was made bare: yet had he no wages, nor his ^d army for Tyrus, for the service that he served against it.

19 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will give the land of Egypt unto Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babel: and he shall take her multitude, and spoil her spoil, and take her prey, and it shall be the wages of his army.

20 I have given him the land of Egypt for his labour, that he served [‡] against it, because they wrought [‡] for me, saith the Lord God.

21 In that day will I cause the horn of the house of Israel to grow, and I will give thee an open mouth in the midst of them, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

C H A P. XXX.

The destruction of Egypt, and the cities thereof.

THE word of the Lord came again unto me, saying;

2 Son of man, prophesy, and say, Thus saith the Lord God, Howl and cry; Wo be unto this day.

3 For the day is near, and the day of the Lord is at hand, a cloudy day, and it shall be the time of the heathen.

4 And the sword shall come upon Egypt, and fear shall be in Ethiopia, when the slain shall fall in Egypt, when they shall take away her multitude, and when her foundations shall be broken down.

5 ^e Ethiopia, and Phut, and Lud, and all the common people, and Cub, and the men of the land that is in league, shall fall with them by the sword.

6 Thus saith the Lord, They also that maintain Egypt, shall fall, and the pride of her power shall come down: from the tower of ^f Sevenh shall they fall by the sword, saith the Lord God.

7 And they shall be desolate in the midst of the countries that are desolate, and her cities shall be in the midst of the cities that are wasted.

8 And they shall know that I am the Lord, when I have set a fire in Egypt; and when all her helpers shall be destroyed.

9 And that day shall there messengers go forth from me in ships, to make the careless Moors afraid, and fear shall come upon them; as in the day of Egypt: for lo, it cometh.

10 Thus saith the Lord God, I will also make the multitude of Egypt to cease by the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel.

11 For he, and his people with him; even the terrible nations, shall be brought to destroy the land: and they shall draw their swords against Egypt, and fill the land with the slain.

12 And I will make the rivers dry, and sell the land into the hands of the wicked; and I

8 T will

^a I will send enemies against thee, which shall pluck thee and thy people, which trust in thee; out of thy sure places.

^w Read 2 Kings 8. 21: Isa. 36. 6:

^x When they felt their hurt, they would stay no more upon thee, but stood upon their feet, and put their trust in others.

^y Thus God cannot suffer that man should arrogate any thing to himself, or put his trust in any thing save in him alone.

² Meaning, that they should not have full dominion, but be under the Persians, Grecians and Romans, and the cause is, that the Israelites should no more put their trust in them; but learn to depend on God.

³ Lest I should by this means punish their sins.

^b Counting from the captivity of Jeconiah:

^c He took great pains at the siege of Tyrus; and his army was sorely handled.

^d Signifying, that Nebuchadnezzar had more pains than profit by the taking of Tyrus.

^e By Phut and Lud are meant Africa and Lybia.

^f Which was a strong city of Egypt, chap. 29. 10

Def. Chr. will make the land waste, and all that therein 572 is, by the hands of strangers: I the Lord have spoken it.

13 Thus saith the Lord God, I will also destroy the idols, and I will cause their idols to cease out of † Noph, and there shall be no more a prince of the land of Egypt, and I will send a fear in the land of Egypt:

14 And I will make Pathros desolate, and will set fire in † Zoan, and I will execute judgment in No.

15 And I will pour my wrath upon † Sin, which is the strength of Egypt: and I will destroy the multitude of † No.

16 And I will set fire in Egypt: Sin shall have great sorrow, and No shall be destroyed, and Noph shall have sorrows daily.

17 The young men of † Aven, and of † Phi-beseh shall fall by the sword: and these cities shall go into captivity.

18 At Tehaphneches the day^s shall restrain his light, when I shall break there the^s bars of Egypt: and when the pomp of her power shall cease in her, the cloud shall cover her, and her daughters shall go into captivity,

19 Thus will I execute judgments in Egypt, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

20 ¶ And in the¹ eleventh year, in the first month, and in the seventh day of the month, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

21 Son of man, I have broken the arm of Pharaoh king of Egypt: and lo, it shall not be bound up to be healed, neither shall they put a roll to bind it, and so make it strong, to hold the sword.

22 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against Pharaoh king of Egypt, and will break his¹ arm, that was strong, but it is broken, and I will cause the sword to fall out of his hand.

23 And I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and will disperse them through the countries.

24 And I will strengthen the arm of the king of Babel, and put my sword in his hand, but I will break Pharaoh's arms, and he shall cast out sighings, as the sighings of him that is wounded before him.

25 But I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babel, and the arms of Pharaoh shall fall down, and they shall know that I am the Lord² when I shall put my sword into the hand of the king of Babel, and he shall stretch it out upon the land of Egypt.

26 And I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and disperse them among the countries, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

C H A P. XXXI.

A comparison of the prosperity of Pharaoh, with the prosperity of the Assyrians. 10 He prophesied a like destruction to them both.

^s Meaning, that there shall be great sorrow and afflic-tion.

¹ That is, the strength and force.

² Of the captivity of Jeconiah, or of Zedekiah's reign.

³ For Nebuchadnezzar destroyed Pharaoh Necho at Carchemish, Jer. 46. 26.

⁴ His force and power.

⁵ Whereby we see that tyrants have no power of themselves, neither can do any more harm than God appoint-eth, and when he will they must cease.

AND in the^h eleventh year, in the third^h month, and in the first day of the month, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, speak unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, and to his multitude, Whom art thou^o like in thy greatness?

3 Behold, Ashur was like a cedar in Lebanon with fair branches, and with thick shadowing boughs, and shot up very high, and his top was among the thick boughs:

4 The waters nourished him, and the deep exalted him on high with her rivers running round about his plants, and sent out her^p little rivers unto all the trees of the † field.

5 Therefore his height was exalted above all the trees of the field, and his boughs were multiplied, and his branches were long, because of the multitude of the waters which the deep sent out.

6 All the fowls of the heaven made their nests in his boughs, and under his branches did all the beasts of the field bring forth their young, and under his shadow dwelt all mighty nations.

7 Thus was he fair in his greatness, and in the length of his branches: for his root was near great waters.

8 The cedars in the garden^q of God could not hide him: no fir-tree was like his branches, and the chesnut-tree was not like his boughs: all the trees in the garden of God were not like unto him in his beauty.

9 I made him fair by the multitude of his branches: so that all the trees of Eden, that were in the garden of God, envied him.

10 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because † he is lifted up on high, and hath shot up his top among the thick boughs, and his heart is lift up in his height:

11 I have therefore delivered him into the hands of the^r mightiest among the heathen: he shall handle him, for I have cast him away for his wickedness.

12 And the strangers have destroyed him, even the terrible nations, and they have left him upon the mountain, and in all the vallies his branches are fallen, and his boughs are^s broken by all the rivers of the land: and all the people of the earth are departed from his shadow, and have forsaken him.

13 Upon his ruin shall all the fowls of the heaven remain, and all the beasts of the field shall be upon his branches,

14 So that none of all the trees by the waters shall be exalted by their height, neither shall shoot up their top among the thick boughs, neither shall their leaves stand up in their height which drink so much water: for they are all delivered unto death in the nether parts of the earth, in the midst of the children of men, among them that go down to the pit.

15 Thus saith the Lord God, In the day when he went down to hell, I caused them to mourn,

^h Of Zedekiah's reign, or of Jeconiah's captivity.

^o Meaning, that he was not like in strength to the king of the Assyrians, whom the Babylonians overcame.

^p Many other nations were under their dominion.

^q Signifying, that there was no greater power in the world than his was.

^r That is, of Nebuchadnezzar, who afterward was the monarch and only ruler of the world.

^s Hereby is signified the destruction of the power of the Assyrians by the Babylonians.

588. Bef. Chr. mourn, and I¹ covered the deep for him, and I did restrain the floods thereof, and the great waters were stayed: I caused Lebanon to mourn for him, and all the trees of the field fainted.

16 I made the nations to shake at the sound of his fall, when I cast him down to hell, with them that descend into the pit, and all the excellent trees of Eden, and the best of Lebanon: even all that are nourished with waters, shall^u be comforted in the nether parts of the earth.

17 They also went down to hell with him, unto them that be slain with the sword, and his arm, and they that dwell under his shadow in the midst of the heathen.

18 To whom^v art thou thus like in glory and in greatness among the trees of Eden? yet thou shalt be cast down with the trees of Eden, unto the nether parts of the earth: thou shalt sleep in the midst of the^x uncircumcised, with them that be slain by the sword: this is Pharaoh and all his multitude, saith the Lord God.

C H A P. XXXII.

2 The prophet is commanded to bewail Pharaoh king of Egypt. 12 He propheseth that destruction shall come unto Egypt through the king of Babylon.

AND in the^y twelfth year, in the twelfth month, and in the first day of the month, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, take up a lamentation for Pharaoh king of Egypt, and say unto him, Thou art like a^z lion of the nations, and art as a † dragon in the sea: thou castedst out thy rivers,^a and troubledst the waters with thy feet, and stampedst in their rivers.

10r, whale.

* Ch. 12, 13, and 17, 20.

3 Thus saith the Lord God, * I will therefore spread my net over thee with a great multitude of people, and they shall make thee to come up into my net.

4 Then will I leave thee upon the land, and I will cast thee upon the open field, and I will cause all the fowls of the heaven to remain upon thee, and I will fill all the beasts of the field with thee.

5 And I will lay thy flesh upon the mountains, and fill the vallies^b with thine height.

6 I will also water with thy blood the land wherein thou^c swimmest, even to the mountains, and the rivers shall be full of thee.

7 And when I shall^d put thee out, I will cover the heaven, and make the stars thereof dark: * I will cover the sun with a cloud, and the moon shall not give her light.

* Isa. 13, 10, Joel 2, 31, and 3, 15, Matt. 24, 29.

8 All the lights of heaven will I make dark for thee, and bring^e darkness upon thy land, saith the Lord God.

¹ The deep waters that caused him to mount so high (meaning his great abundance and pomp) shall now lament as though they were covered with sackcloth.

^u To cause this destruction of the king of Assyria to seem more horrible, he setteth forth other kings and princes which are dead, as though they rejoiced at the fall of such a tyrant.

^v Meaning, that Pharaoh's power was nothing so great as his was.

^x Read chap. 28, 10.

^y Which was the first year of the general captivity under Zedekiah.

^z Thus the scriptures compare tyrants to cruel and huge beasts, which devour all that be weaker than they, and such as they may overcome.

^a Thou preparedst great armies.

^b With heaps of the carcases of thine army.

^c As Nilus overflowed Egypt, so will I make the blood

9 I will also trouble the hearts of many people, when I shall bring thy destruction among the nations, and upon the countries which thou hast not known. Bef. Chr. 588.

10 Yea, I will make many people amazed at thee, and their kings shall be astonished with fear for thee, when I shall make my sword to glitter against their faces, and they shall be afraid at every moment: every man for his own life in the day of thy fall.

11 For thus saith the Lord God, The sword of the king of Babel shall come upon thee.

12 By the swords of the mighty will I cause thy multitude to fall: they all shall be terrible nations, and they shall destroy the^f pomp of Egypt, and all the multitude thereof shall be consumed.

13 I will destroy also all the beasts thereof from the great water sides, neither shall the foot of man trouble them any more, nor the hoofs of beasts trouble them.

14 Then will I make^g their waters deep, and cause their rivers to run like oil, saith the Lord God.

15 When I shall make the land of Egypt desolate, and the country, with all that is therein, shall be laid waste: when I shall smite all them which dwell therein, then shall they know that I am the Lord.

16 This is the mourning wherewith they shall lament her: the daughters of the nations shall lament her: they shall lament for Egypt, and for all her multitude, saith the Lord God.

17 ¶ In the twelfth year also, in the fifteenth day of the month, came the word of the Lord unto me, saying,

18 Son of man, lament for the multitude of Egypt, and^h cast them down, even them and the daughters of the mighty nations, unto the nether parts of the earth, with them that go down into the pit.

19 Whom dost thou passⁱ in beauty? go down and sleep with the uncircumcised.

20 They shall fall in the midst of them that are slain by the sword: ^k she is delivered to the sword: draw her down, and all her multitude.

21 The most mighty and strong shall speak to^l him out of the midst of hell with them that help her: they are gone down and sleep with the uncircumcised that be slain with the sword.

22 Ashur is there and all her company: their graves are about him: all they are slain and fallen by the sword.

23 Whose graves are made in the side of the pit, and his multitude are round about his grave: all they are slain and fallen by the sword, which caused fear to be in the land of the living.

24 There

of thine hosts to overflow it.

^d The word signifieth, to be put out as a candle is put out.

^e By this manner of speech is meant the great sorrow that shall be for the slaughter of the king and his people.

^f This came to pass in less than four years after this prophecy.

^g To wit, of the Chaldeans thine enemies, which shall quietly enjoy all thy commodities.

^h That is, prophesy that they shall be cast down: thus the Lord giveth his prophets power both to plant and to destroy by his word, read Jer. 1, 10.

ⁱ Have not other kingdoms, more beautiful than thou, perished?

^k That is, Egypt.

^l To make the matter more sensible, he bringeth in Pharaoh, whom the dead shall meet and marvel at him, read Isa. 14, 9.

24 There is ^a Elam and all his multitude round about his grave: all they are slain and fallen by the sword which are gone down with the uncircumcised into the nether parts of the earth, which caused themselves to be feared in the land of the ^a living, yet have they borne their shame with them that are gone down to the pit.

25 They have made his bed in the midst of the slain with all his multitude: their graves are round about him: all these uncircumcised are slain by the sword: though they have caused their fear in the land of the living, yet have they borne their shame with them that go down to the pit: they are laid in the midst of them that be slain.

26 There is ^a Meshech, Tubal, and all their multitude, their graves are round about them: all these uncircumcised were slain by the sword, though they caused their fear to be in the land of the living.

27 And they shall not lie with the valiant ^a of the uncircumcised that are fallen, which are gone down to the grave, with their weapons of war, and have laid their swords under their heads, but their iniquity shall be upon their bones: because they were the fear of the mighty in the land of the living.

28 Yea, thou shalt be broken in the midst of the uncircumcised, and lie with them that are slain with the sword.

29 There is Edom, his kings, and all his princes, which with their strength are laid by them that were slain by the swords: they shall sleep with the uncircumcised, and with them that go down to the pit.

30 There be all the princes of the ^a North, with all the Zidonians, which are gone down with the slain, with their fear: they are ashamed of their strength, and the uncircumcised sleep with them that be slain by the sword, and bear their shame with them that go down to the pit.

31 Pharaoh shall see them, and he shall be comforted over all his multitude: Pharaoh, and all his army shall be slain by the sword, saith the Lord God.

32 For I have caused my ^a fear to be in the land of the living: and he shall be laid in the midst of the uncircumcised, with them that are slain by the sword, even Pharaoh and all his multitude, saith the Lord God.

C H A P. XXXIII.

2 The office of the governors and ministers. 14 He strengtheneth them that despair, and boldeneth them with the promise of mercy. 30 The word of the Lord against the mockers of the prophet.

A GAIN, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

- ^a Meaning, the Persians.
- ^a Whom in this life all the world feared.
- ^a That is, the Cappadocians and Italians, or Spaniards, as Josephus writeth.
- ^a Which died not by cruel death, but by the course of nature, and are honourably buried with their coat-armour, and signs of honour.
- ^a The kings of Babylon.
- ^a As the wicked rejoice when they see others partakers of their miseries.
- ^a I will make the Egyptians afraid of me, as they caused others to fear them.
- ^a He sheweth, that the people ought to have continually governors and teachers which may have a care over them,

2 Son of man, speak to the children of thy people, and say unto them, When I bring the sword upon a land, if the people of the land take a man [†] from among them, and make him their watchman,

3 If when he seeth the sword come upon the land, he blow the trumpet, and warn the people,

4 Then he that heareth the sound of the trumpet, and will not be warned, if the sword come, and take him away, his blood shall be upon his own head.

5 For he heard the sound of the trumpet, and would not be admonished: therefore his blood shall be upon him: but he that receiveth warning, shall save his life.

6 But if the watchman see the sword come, and blow not the trumpet, and the people be not warned: if the sword come, and take any person from among them, he is taken away for his ^a iniquity, but his blood will I require at the watchman's hand.

7 ^{*} So thou, O son of man, I have made thee a watchman unto the house of Israel: therefore thou shalt hear the word at my ^a mouth, and admonish them from me. Ch. 3. 17.

8 When I shall say unto the wicked, O wicked man, thou shalt die the death: if thou doest not speak, and admonish the wicked of his way, that wicked man shall die for his iniquity, but his blood will I ^{*} require at thine hand.

9 Nevertheless, if thou warn the wicked of his way, to turn from it, if he do not turn from his way, he shall die for his iniquity, but thou hast delivered thy soul.

10 Therefore, O thou son of man, speak unto the house of Israel, Thus ye speak and say, If our transgressions and our sins be upon us, and we are consumed because of them, ^a how should we then live?

11 Say unto them, As I live, saith the Lord God, ^a I desire not the death of the wicked, but that the wicked turn from his way and live: turn you, turn you, from your evil ways, for why will ye die, O ye house of Israel?

12 Therefore thou son of man, say unto the children of thy people, ^a The righteousness of the righteous shall not deliver him in the day of his transgression, nor the wickedness of the wicked shall cause him to fall therein, in the day that he returneth from his wickedness, neither shall the righteous live for his righteousness in the day that he sinneth.

13 When I shall say unto the righteous, that he shall surely live, if he trust to his own righteousness, and commit iniquity, all his righteousness shall be no more remembered, but for his iniquity that he hath committed, he shall die for the same.

14 Again, when I shall say unto the wicked, Thou shalt and to warn them ever of the dangers which are at hand.

^a Signifying, that the wicked shall not escape punishment, though the watchmen be negligent; but if the watchman blow the trumpet, and then he will not obey, he shall deserve double punishment.

^a Which teacheth that he that receiveth not his charge at the Lord's mouth, is a spy, and not a true watchman.

^a The watchman must answer for the blood of all that perish through his negligence.

^a Thus the wicked, when they hear God's judgments for their sins, despair of his mercies, and murmur.

^a Read chap. 18. 23.

^a Read of this righteousness, chap. 18. 22, 24.

587. Bef. Chr. shalt die the death, if he turn from his sin and do that which is lawful and ^b right.

15 To wit, if the wicked restore the pledge, and give again that he had robbed, and walk in the statutes of life, without committing iniquity, he shall surely live, and not die.

16 None of his sins that he hath committed, shall be mentioned unto him: because he hath done that which is lawful and right, he shall surely live.

• Ch. 18. 25. 17 Yet the children of thy people say, * The way of the Lord is not equal: but their own way is equal.

18 When the righteous turneth from his righteousness, and committeth iniquity, he shall even die thereby.

19 But if the wicked return from his wickedness, and do that which is lawful and right, he shall live thereby.

20 Yet ye say, The word of the Lord is not equal. O ye house of Israel, I will judge you every one after his ways.

21 Also in the twelfth year of ^c our captivity, in the tenth month, and in the fifth day of the month, one that had escaped out of Jerusalem came unto me, and said, The city is smitten.

22 Now the ^d hand of Lord had been upon me in the evening afore he that had escaped came, and had opened my mouth, until he came to me in the morning, and when he had opened my ^e mouth, I was no more dumb.

23 Again, the word of the Lord came unto me, and said,

24 Son of man, these that dwell in the desolate places of the land of Israel, talk and say, Abraham was but one, and he possessed the land: but we are many, therefore the land shall be given us in possession.

25 Wherefore say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Ye eat with the ^f blood, and lift up your eyes toward your idols, and shed blood: should ye then possess the land?

26 Ye lean upon your ^g swords: ye work abomination, and ye defile every one his neighbour's wife: should ye then possess the land?

27 Say thus unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, As I live, so surely they that are in the desolate places shall fall by the sword: and him that is in the open field, will I give unto the beasts to be devoured: and they that be in the forts and in the caves, shall die of the pestilence.

28 For I will lay the land desolate and waste, and the ^h pomp of her strength shall cease: and the mountains of Israel shall be desolate, and none shall pass through.

29 Then shall they know that I am the Lord, when I have laid the land desolate and waste, because of all their abominations that they have committed.

• Ch. 7. 24. and 24. 21. and 30. 6, 7.

^b Hereby he condemneth all them of hypocrisy, which pretend to forsake wickedness, and yet declare not themselves such by their fruits, that is, in obeying God's commandments, and by godly life.

^c When the prophet was led away captive with Jeconiah.

^d I was endued with the spirit of prophecy, chap. 8. 2.

^e Whereby is signified, that the ministers of God cannot speak till God give them courage, and open their mouths, chap. 24. 27. and 29. 21. Eph. 6. 19.

^f Thus the wicked think themselves more worthy to enjoy God's promise than the saints of God, to whom they were made: and would bind God to be subject to them, though they would not be bound to him.

^g Contrary to the law, Lev. 17. 14.

^h As they that are ready still to shed blood.

30 Also thou son of man, the children of thy people that ⁱ talk of thee by the walls and in the doors of houses; and speak one to another, every one to his brother, saying, Come, I pray you, and hear what is the word that cometh from the Lord.

31 For they come unto thee, as the people useth to come: and my people sit before thee and hear thy words, but they will not do them: for with their mouths they make ^k jests, and their heart goeth after their covetousness.

32 And lo, thou art unto them as a ^l jesting song of one that hath a pleasant voice, and can sing well, for they hear thy words, but do them not.

33 And when this cometh to pass (for lo, it will come) then shall they know that a prophet hath been among them.

† Or, pleasant, and love song.

C H A P. XXXIV.

2 Against the shepherds that despise the flock of Christ, and seek their own gain. 7 The Lord saith that he will visit his dispersed flock, and gather them together. 23 He promiseth the true shepherd Christ, and with him peace.

AND the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, prophesy against the shepherds of Israel, prophesy and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God unto the shepherds, * Wo be ^m unto the ⁿ shepherds of Israel, that feed themselves: should not the shepherds feed the flocks? ^{Jer. 23. 1.}

3 Ye eat the ^o fat, and ye cloath you with the wool: ye kill them that are fed, but ye feed not the sheep.

4 The ^p weak have ye not strengthened, the sick have ye not healed, neither have ye bound up the broken, nor brought again that which was driven away, neither have ye sought that which was lost: but with cruelty, and with rigour have ye ruled them.

5 And they were scattered without a shepherd: and when they were dispersed, they were ^q devoured of all the beasts of the field.

6 My sheep wandered through all the mountains, and upon every high hill: yea, my flock was scattered through all the earth, and none did seek or search after them.

7 Therefore ye shepherds, hear the word of the Lord.

8 As I live, saith the Lord God, surely because my flock was spoiled, and my sheep were devoured of all the beasts of the field: having no shepherd, neither did my shepherds seek my sheep, but the shepherds fed themselves and fed not my sheep;

9 Therefore, hear ye the word of the Lord, O ye shepherds.

10 Thus

ⁱ In derision.

^k This declareth, that we ought to hear God's word with such zeal and affection, that we should in all points obey it: else we abuse the word to our own condemnation, and make of his ministers as though they were jests to serve men's foolish fancies.

^l By the shepherds he meaneth the king, the magistrates, priests, and prophets.

^m Ye seek to enrich yourselves by their commodities, and so spoil their riches and substance.

ⁿ He describeth the office and duty of a good pastor: who ought to love and succour his flock, and not to be cruel toward them.

^o For lack of good government and doctrine they perished.

10 Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against the shepherds, and will require my sheep at their hands, and cause them to cease from feeding the sheep: neither shall the shepherds feed themselves any more: for I will deliver my sheep from their mouths, and they shall no more devour them.

11 For thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will search my sheep and seek them out.

12 As a shepherd searcheth out his flock, when he hath been among his sheep that are scattered, so will I seek out my sheep, and will deliver them out of all places where they have been scattered in the cloudy and dark day.

13 And I will bring them out from the people, and gather them from the countries, and will bring them to their own land, and feed them upon the mountains of Israel, by the rivers, and in all the inhabited places of the country.

14 I will feed them in a good pasture, and upon the high mountains of Israel shall their fold be: there shall they lie in a good fold, and in fat pasture shall they feed upon the mountains of Israel.

15 I will feed my sheep, and bring them to their rest, saith the Lord God.

16 I will seek that which was lost, and bring again that which was driven away, and will bind up that which was broken, and will strengthen the weak: but I will destroy the fat and the strong, and I will feed them with judgment.

17 Also you my sheep, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I judge between sheep and sheep, between the rams and the goats.

18 Seemeth it a small thing unto you to have eaten up the good pasture, but ye must tread down with your feet the residue of your pasture? and to have drunk of the great waters, but ye must trouble the residue with your feet?

19 And my sheep eat that which ye have trodden with your feet: and drink that which ye have troubled with your feet.

20 Therefore thus saith the Lord God unto them, Behold, I, even I will judge between the fat sheep and the lean sheep.

21 Because ye have thrust with side and with shoulder, and pushed all the weak with your horns, till ye have scattered them abroad, 22 Therefore will I help my sheep, and they shall no more be spoiled, and I will judge between sheep and sheep.

23 And I will set up a shepherd over them, and he shall feed them, even my servant David, he shall feed them, and he shall be their shepherd.

24 And I the Lord will be their God, and my servant David shall be the prince among them. I the Lord have spoken it.

25 And I will make with them a covenant of peace, and will cause the evil beasts to cease out of the land: and they shall dwell safely in the wilderness, and sleep in the woods.

26 And I will set them as a blessing even round about my mountain: and I will cause rain to come down in due season, and there shall be rain of blessing.

27 And the tree of the field shall yield her fruit, and the earth shall give her fruit, and they shall be safe in the land, and shall know that I am the Lord, when I have broken the cords of their yoke, and delivered them out of the hands of those that served themselves of them.

28 And they shall no more be spoiled of the heathen, neither shall the beasts of the land devour them, but they shall dwell safely, and none shall make them afraid.

^k Ch. 6. 2. AL S O thou son of man, prophesy unto the ^l mountains of Israel, and say, Ye mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord.

2 Thus saith the Lord God, Because the ^m enemy hath said against you, Aha, even the ⁿ high places of the world are ours in possession,

4 Therefore ye mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord God, Thus saith the Lord God to the mountains and to the hills, to the rivers and to the vallies, and to the waste and desolate places, and to the cities that are forsaken: which are spoiled and had in derision of the residue of the heathen that are round about:

5 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Surely, in the fire of mine indignation have I spoken against the residue of the heathen, and against all Idumea, which ^p have taken my land for their

7 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, I have ^t lifted up mine hand, surely the heathen that are about you shall bear their shame.

15 Neither will I cause men to hear in thee the shame of the heathen any more, neither shalt thou bear the reproach of the people any more, neither shalt cause thy folk to fall any more, saith the Lord God.

16 ^{ae} Moreover the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

¹ He propheseth the bringing again of the people, be-ten tribes with the two.

THE hand of the Lord was upon me, and carried me out in the Spirit of the Lord, and set me down in the midst of the [†] field, ^{†0:549.}
which was full of ^a bones.

2 And he led me round about by them, and behold, there ^{were} very many in the open field, and lo, ^{they were} very dry.

3 And he said unto me, Son of man, can these bones live? And I answered, O Lord God, thou knowest.

4 Again he said unto me, Prophecy upon these bones, and say unto them, O ye dry bones, hear the word of the Lord.

5 Thus saith the Lord God unto these bones, Behold, I will cause breath to enter into you, and ye shall live.

6 And I will lay sinews upon you, and make flesh grow upon you, and cover you with skin, and put breath in you, that ye may live, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

7 So I prophesied, as I was commanded: and as I prophesied, there was a noise, and behold, ^{there was} a shaking, and the bones came together, bone to his bone.

8 And when I beheld, lo, the sinews and the flesh grew upon them, and above, the skin covered them, but there was no breath in them.

9 Then said he unto me, Prophecy, unto the wind: prophecy, son of man, and say to the wind, Thus saith the Lord God, Come from the four ³ winds, O breath, and breathe upon these slain, that they may live.

10 So I prophesied, as he had commanded me:
and the breath came into them, and they lived, and stood up upon their feet, an exceeding great army.

11 Then he said unto me, Son of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel. Behold, they say, Our bones are dried, and our hope is gone away, ^{and} we are clean cut off.

12 Therefore prophecy, and say unto them,
Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, my people,
I will open your graves, and cause you to come up out of your sepulchres, and bring you into the land of Israel.

22 And I will make them one people in the land, upon the mountains of Israel; ^f and one king shall be king to them all: and they shall be no more two people, neither be divided any more henceforth into two kingdoms.

23 Neither shall they be polluted any more with their idols, nor with their abominations, nor with any of their transgressions: but I will save them out of all their dwelling places, wherein they have sinned, and will cleanse them: so shall they be my people, and I will be their God.

24 And David my ^g servant shall be king over them, and they shall have one shepherd: they shall also walk in my judgments, and observe my statutes, and do them.

25 And they shall dwell in the ^h land that I have given unto Jacob my servant, where your fathers have dwelt, and they shall dwell therein, even they, and their sons, and their sons sons for ever, and my servant David shall be their prince for ever.

18 At the same time also when Gog shall come against the land of Israel, saith the Lord God, my wrath shall arise in mine anger.

19 For in mine indignation and in the fire of my wrath have I spoken it: surely at that time there shall be a great shaking in the land of Israel,

20 So that the fishes of the sea, and the fowls of the heaven, and the beasts of the field, and all that move and creep upon the earth, and all the men that are upon the earth, shall tremble at my presence, and the mountains shall be overthrown, and the stars shall fall, and every wall shall fall to the ground.

21 For I will call for a sword against him throughout all my mountains, saith the Lord God: every man's sword shall be against his brother.

22 And I will plead against him with pestilence, and with blood, and I will cause to rain upon him, and upon his bands, and upon the great people that are with him, a fore rain and hailstones, fire and brimstone.

4 Thou shalt fall upon the mountains of Israel, and all thy bands, and the people that is with thee: for I will give thee unto the birds, and to every feathered fowl and beast of the field, to be devoured.

5 Thou shalt fall upon the open field: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord God.

6 And I will send a fire on Magog, and among them that dwell safely in the isles, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

7 So will I make mine holy name known in the midst of my people Israel, and I will not suffer them to pollute mine holy name any more, and the heathen shall know that I am the Lord, the holy One of Israel.

8 Behold, it is come, and it is done, saith the Lord God: this is the day whereof I have spoken.

9 And they that dwell in the cities of Israel, shall go forth, and shall burn and set fire upon the weapons, and on the shields, and bucklers, upon the bows, and upon the arrows, and upon the staves in their hands, and upon the spears, and they shall burn them with fire seven years.

10 So that they shall bring no wood out of the field, neither cut down any out of the forests: for they shall burn the weapons with fire, and they shall rob those that robbed them: and spoil those that spoiled them, saith the Lord God.

11 And at the same time will I give unto Gog a place there for burial in Israel, even the valley whereby men go toward the east part of the sea: and it shall cause them that pass by to stop their noses, and there shall they bury Gog with all his multitude: and they shall call it the valley of Hamon-gog.

12 And seven months long shall the house of Israel be burying of them, that they may cleanse the land.

13 Yea, all the people of the land shall bury them, and they shall have a name when I shall be glorified, saith the Lord God, 14 And they shall chuse men to go continually through the land with them that travel, to bury those that remain upon the ground to cleanse it: they shall search to the end of seven months.

23 And the heathen shall know that the house of Israel went into captivity for † their iniquity, because they trespassed against me: therefore hid I my face from them, and gave them into the hand of their enemies: so fell they all by the sword.

24 According to their uncleanness, and according to their transgressions have I done unto them, and hid my face from them.

25 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Now will I bring again the captivity of Jacob, and have compassion upon the whole house of Israel, and will be jealous for mine holy name.

26 After that they have borne their shame, and all their transgression whereby they have transgressed against me, when they dwelt safely in their land, and without fear of any.

* Ch. 36. 2. 27 When I have brought them again from the people, and gathered them out of their enemies land, and am † sanctified in them in the sight of many nations, 28 Then shall they know that I am the Lord their God, which caused them to be led into captivity among the heathen: but I have gathered them unto their own land, and have left none of them any more there.

29 Neither will I hide my face any more from them: for I have poured out my Spirit upon the house of Israel, saith the Lord God.

C H A P. XL.

The restoring of the city and the temple.

IN the five and twentieth year of our being in captivity, in the^h beginning of the year, in the tenth day of the month, in the fourteenth year after that the city was smitten, in the self-same day the hand of the Lord was upon me, and brought me thither.

2 Into the land of Israel brought he me by † a divine vision, and set me upon a very high mountain, whereupon was as the building of a city toward the South.

3 And he brought me thither, and behold, there was a † man, whose similitude was to look to like brass, with a linen thread in his hand, and a reed to measure with: and he stood at the gate.

4 And the man said unto me, Son of man, behold with thine eyes, and hear with thine ears, and set thine heart upon all that I shall shew thee: for to the intent that they might be shewed thee, art thou brought hither: declare all that thou seest unto the house of Israel.

5 And behold, I saw a wall on the outside of the house round about: and in the man's hand was a reed to measure with, of six cubits long, by the cubit, and an hand breadth: so he measured the breadth of the building with one reed, and the height with one reed.

6 Then came he unto the gate which looketh toward the East, and went up the stairs thereof, and measured the † post of the gate, which was one reed broad, and † the other post of the gate, which was one reed broad.

7 And every chamber was one reed long, and one reed broad, and between the chambers were five cubits: and the post of the gate by the porch of the gate within was one reed.

8 He measured also the porch of the gate within, with one reed.

9 Then measured he the porch of the gate of eight cubits, and the † posts thereof, of two cubits, and the porch of the gate was inward.

10 And the chambers of the gate eastward were three on this side, and three on that side: they three were of one measure, and the posts had one measure on this side, and one on that side.

11 And he measured the breadth of the entry of the gate ten cubits, and the height of the gate thirteen cubits.

12 The space also before the chambers was one cubit on this side, and the space was one cubit on that side, and the chambers were six cubits on this side, and six cubits on that side.

13 He measured then the gate from the roof of a chamber to the top of the gate: the breadth was five and twenty cubits, door against door.

14 He made also posts of threescore cubits, and the posts of the court and of the gate had one measure round about.

15 And upon the fore-front of the entry of the gate unto the fore-front of the porch of the gate within, were fifty cubits.

16 And there were narrow windows in the chambers, and in their posts within the gate round about, and likewise to the arches: and the windows went round about within: and upon the posts were palm-trees.

17 ¶ Then brought he me into the outward court, and lo, there were chambers, and a pavement made for the court round about, and thirty chambers were upon the pavement.

18 And the pavement was by the side of the gates

19 Then he measured the breadth from the fore-front of the lower gate without, unto the fore-front of the court within, an hundred cubits Eastward and Northward.

20 And the gate of the outward court, that looked toward the North, measured he after the length and breadth thereof.

21 And the chambers thereof were three on this side, and three on that side, and the posts thereof, and the arches thereof, were after the measure of the first gate: the length thereof was fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits.

22 And their windows and their arches, with their palm-trees, were after the measure of the gate that looketh toward the East, and the going up unto it had seven steps, and the arches thereof were before them.

23 And the gate of the inner-court stood over-against the gate toward the North, and toward the East, and he measured from gate to gate an hundred cubits.

24 After that, he brought me toward the South, and lo, there was a gate toward the South, and he measured the posts thereof, and the arches thereof, according to these measures.

25 And there were windows in it, and in the arches thereof round about like those windows: the height was fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits.

26 And there were seven steps to go up to it, and the arches thereof were before them: and it had palm-trees, one on this side, and another on that side, upon the posts thereof.

27 ¶ And there was a gate in the inner court toward the South, and he measured from gate to gate toward the South an hundred cubits.

28 And he brought me into the inner court by the south-gate, and he measured the south-gate, according to these measures.

29 And the chambers thereof, and the posts thereof, and the arches thereof, according to these measures, and there were windows in it, and the arches thereof round about, it was fifty cubits long, and five and twenty cubits broad.

30 And the arches round about were five and twenty cubits long, and five cubits broad.

31 And the arches thereof were toward the outer court, and palm-trees were upon the posts thereof, and the going up to it had eight steps.

32 ¶ Again, he brought me into the inner court toward the East, and he measured the gate according to these measures.

33 And the posts thereof, and the arches thereof, were according to these measures, and there were windows therein, and in the arches thereof round about: it was fifty cubits long, and five and twenty cubits broad.

34 And the arches thereof were toward the outer court, and palm-trees were upon the posts thereof, on this side and on that side, and the going up to it had eight steps.

35 ¶ After he brought me to the North-gate, and measured it, according to these measures,

36 The chambers thereof, the posts thereof, and the arches thereof, and there were windows therein round about: the height was fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits. 574.

37 And the posts thereof were toward the outer court, and palm-trees were upon the posts thereof on this side, and on that side, and the going up to it had eight steps.

38 And every¹ chamber, and the entry thereof, was under the posts of the gates: there they washed the burnt-offering.

39 And in the porch of the gate stood two tables on this side, and two tables on that side, upon the which they slew the burnt-offering, and the sin-offering, and the trespass-offering.

40 And at the side beyond the steps, at the entry of the North-gate, stood two tables, and on the other side, which was at the porch of the gate, were two tables.

41 Four tables were on this side, and four tables on that side, by the side of the gate, even eight tables whereupon they slew their sacrifice.

42 And the four tables were of hewn stone for the burnt-offering, of a cubit and an half long, and a cubit and an half broad, and one cubit high: whereupon also they laid the instruments wherewith they slew the burnt-offering and the sacrifice.

43 And within were boards an hand broad fastened round about, and upon the tables lay the flesh of the offering.

44 And without the inner-gate were the chambers of the singers in the inner-court, which was at the side of the North-gate: and their prospect was toward the South, and one was at the side of the East gate, having the prospect toward the North.

45 And he said unto me, This chamber, whose prospect is toward the South, is for the priests that have the charge to keep the house.

46 And the chamber whose prospect is toward the North, is for the priests that have the charge to keep the altar: these are the sons of Zadok among the sons of Levi, which may come near to the Lord to minister unto him.

47 So he measured the court, an hundred cubits long, and an hundred cubits broad, even four square: likewise the altar that was before the house.

48 And he brought me to the porch of the house, and measured the^m posts of the porch, five cubits on this side, and five cubits on that side: and the breadth of the gate was three cubits on this side, and three cubits on that side.

49 The length of the porch was twenty cubits, and the breadth eleven cubits, and he brought me by the steps whereby they went up to it, and there were pillars by the posts, one on this side, and another on that side.

1 The disposition and order of the building of the temple, and the other things thereto belonging.

Afterward he brought me to the temple, and measured the posts, six cubits broad on the one side, and six cubits broad on the other side, which was the breadth of the tabernacle.

2 And the breadth of the entry was ten cubits,

¹ In all he maketh six courts, two on the east side, two on the north, and two on the south side.

² He speaketh of the chambers, which were in the porch

^m By the posts of the porch, he meaneth the wall, which was five cubits thick on either side of the alley or porch.

574. bits, and the sides of the entry were five cubits on the one side, and five cubits on the other side, and he measured the length thereof forty cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits.

3 Then went^a he in, and measured the posts of the entry two cubits, and the entry six cubits, and the breadth of the entry seven cubits.

4 So he measured the length thereof twenty cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits before the temple. And he said unto me, This is the most holy place.

5 After, he measured the wall of the house six cubits, and the breadth of every chamber four cubits round about the house, on every side.

6 And the chambers were chamber upon chamber, three and thirty foot high, and they entered into the wall made for the chambers which was round about the house, that the posts might be fastened therein, and not be fastened in the wall of the house.

7 And it was large, and went round, mounting upward to the chambers: for the stair of the house was mounting upward round about the house: therefore the house was larger upward: so they went up from the lowest chamber to the highest by the midst.

8 I saw also the house high round about: the foundations of the chambers were a full reed of six great cubits.

9 The thickness of the wall which was for the chamber without was five cubits, and that which remained was the place of the chambers that were within.

10 And between the chambers was the wideness of twenty cubits round about the house on every side.

11 And the doors of the chambers were toward the place that remained, one door toward the North, and another door toward the South, and the breadth of the place that remained was five cubits round about.

12 Now the building that was before the separate place toward the west corner was seventy cubits broad, and the wall of the building was five cubits thick, round about, and the length ninety cubits.

13 So he measured the house an hundred cubits long, and the separate place and the building with the walls thereof were an hundred cubits long.

14 Also the breadth of the forefront of the house, and of the separate place toward the East, was an hundred cubits.

15 And he measured the length of the building, over-against the separate place which was behind it, and the chambers on the one side and on the other side an hundred cubits with the temple within, and the arches of the court.

16 The posts and the narrow windows, and the chambers round about, on^o three sides over-against the posts, cieled with cedar wood round about, and from the ground up to the windows, and the windows were cieled.

17 And from above the door unto the inner house and without, and by all the wall round about within and without, it was cieled according to the measure.

18 And it was made with cherubims and palm-trees, so that a palm-tree was between a cherub and a cherub: and every cherub had two faces.

19 So that the face of a man was toward the palm-tree on the one side, and the face of a lion toward the palm-tree on the other side: thus was it made through all the house round about.

20 From the ground unto above the door were cherubims and palm-trees made as in the wall of the temple.

21 The posts of the temple were squared, and thus to look unto was the similitude and form of the sanctuary.

22 The altar of wood was three cubits high, and the length thereof two cubits, and the corners thereof, and the length thereof, and the sides thereof were of wood. And he said unto me, This is the table that shall be before the Lord.

23 And the temple and the sanctuary had two doors.

24 And the doors had two wickets, even two turning wickets, two wickets for one door, and two wickets for another door.

25 And upon the doors of the temple there were made cherubims and palm-trees, like as was made upon the walls, and there were thick planks upon the forefront of the porch without.

26 And there were narrow windows and palm-trees on the one side, and on the other side, by the sides of the porch, and upon the sides of the house, and thick planks.

Of the chambers of the temple for the priests, and the holy things.

THEN brought he me into the outer court by the way toward the North, and he brought me into the chamber that was over-against the separate place, and which was before the building, toward the North.

2 Before the length of an hundred cubits was the north door, and it was fifty cubits broad.

3 Over-against the twenty cubits which were for the inner court, and over-against the pavement which was for the outer court, was chamber against chamber in three rows.

4 And before the chambers was a gallery of ten cubits wide, and within was a way of one cubit, and their doors toward the North.

5 Now the^p chambers above were narrower: for those chambers seemed to eat up these, to wit, the lower, and those that were in the midst of the building:

6 For they were in three rows; but had not pillars as the pillars of the court: therefore there was a difference from them beneath and from the middlemost, even from the ground.

7 And the wall that was without, over-against the chambers, toward the outer court on the forefront of the chambers, was fifty cubits long.

8 For the length of the chambers that were in the outer court was^q fifty cubits: and lo, before the temple were an hundred cubits.

9 And under these chambers was the entry, on the east side, as one goeth into them from the outward court.

10 The chambers were in the thickness of the wall of the court toward the East, over-against the separate place, and over-against the building.

11 And the way before them was after the manner of the chambers, which were toward the North, as long as they, and as broad as they: and all their entries were like, both according to their fashions, and according to their doors.

12 And according to the doors of the chambers, that were toward the South, was a door in the corner of the way, even the way directly before the wall toward the East, as one entereth.

13 Then said he unto me, The North chambers and the South chambers, which are before the separate place, they be holy chambers, wherein the priests that approach unto the Lord shall eat the most holy things: there shall they lay the most holy things, and the meat-offering, and the sin-offering, and the trespass-offering: for the place is holy.

14 When the priests enter therein, they shall not go out of the holy place into the outer court, but there they shall lay their garments wherein they minister: for they are holy, and shall put on other garments, and so shall approach to those things which are for the people.

15 Now when he had made an end of measuring the inner-house, he brought me forth toward the gate whose prospect is toward the East, and measured it round about.

16 He measured the east side with the measuring rod, five hundred reeds, even with the measuring reed round about.

17 He measured also the north side, five hundred reeds, even with the measuring reed round about.

18 And he measured the south side, five hundred reeds with the measuring reed.

19 He turned about also to the west side, and measured five hundred reeds with the measuring reed.

20 He measured it by the four sides: it had a wall round about, five hundred reeds long, and five hundred broad, to make a separation between the sanctuary and the profane place.

2 He seeth the glory of God going into the temple, from whence it had before departed. 7 He mentioneth the idolatry of the children of Israel, for the which they were consumed and brought to naught. 9 He is commanded to call them again to repentance.

Afterward he brought me to the gate, even the gate that turneth toward the East.

2 And behold, the glory of the God of Israel came from out of the East, whose voice was like a noise of great waters, and the earth was made light with his glory.

3 And the vision which I saw was like the vision, even as the vision that I saw when I came to destroy the city: and the visions were like the vision that I saw by the river Chebar: and I fell upon my face.

5 So the Spirit took me up and brought me into the inner-court, and behold, the glory of the Lord filled the house.

6 And I heard one speaking unto me out of the house: and there stood a man by me,

7 Which said unto me, Son of man, this place is my throne; and the place of the soles of my feet, whereas I will dwell among the children of Israel for ever, and the house of Israel shall no more defile mine holy name, neither they, nor their kings, by their fornication, nor by the carcases of their kings in their high places.

8 Albeit they set their thresholds by my thresholds, and their posts by my posts (for there was but a wall between me and them) yet have they defiled mine holy name with their abominations that they have committed: wherefore I have consumed them in my wrath.

9 Now therefore let them put away their fornication, and the carcases of their kings far from me, and I will dwell among them for ever.

10 ¶ Thou son of man, shew this house to the house of Israel, that they may be ashamed of their wickedness, and let them measure the pattern.

12 This is the description of the house, It shall be upon the top of the mount: all the limits thereof round about shall be most holy. Behold, this is the description of the house: ^{† II. 1. 2.}

13 And these are the measures of the altar, after the cubits, the cubit is a cubit and an handbreadth, even the bottom shall be a cubit, and the breadth a cubit, and the border thereof by the edge thereof round about shall be a span: and this shall be the height of the altar.

14 And from the bottom which toucheth the ground to the lower piece shall be two cubits: and the breadth one cubit, and from the little piece to the great piece shall be four cubits, and the breadth one cubit.

15 So the altar shall be four cubits, and from the altar upwards shall be four horns.

16 And the altar shall be twelve cubits long, and twelve broad, and four-square in the four corners thereof.

17 And the frame shall be fourteen cubits long, and fourteen broad in the four-square corners thereof, and the border about it shall be half a cubit, and the bottom thereof shall be a cubit about, and the steps thereof shall be turned toward the East.

18 ¶ And he said unto me, Son of man, thus saith the Lord God, These are the ordinances of the altar in the day when they shall make it to offer the burnt-offering thereon, and to sprinkle blood thereon.

CHAP. XLVI.

The sacrifices of the sabbath, and of the new moons. 8 Through which doors they must go in, or come out of the temple, &c.

THUS saith the Lord God, The gate of the inner court, that turneth toward the East, shall be shut the six working days: but on the sabbath it shall be opened, and in the day of the new moon it shall be opened.

2 And the prince shall enter by the way of the porch of that gate without, and shall stand by the post of the gate, and the priest shall make his burnt-offering, and his peace-offerings; and he shall worship at the threshold of the gate: after, he shall go forth, but the gate shall not be shut till the evening.

3 Likewise, the people of the land shall worship at the entry of this gate before the Lord on the sabbaths, and in the new moons.

4 And the burnt-offering that the prince shall offer unto the Lord on the sabbath day, shall be six lambs without blemish, and a ram without blemish.

5 And the meat-offering shall be an ephah for a ram: and the meat-offering for the lambs a gift of his hand, and an hin of oil to an ephah.

6 And in the day of the new moon it shall be a young bullock without blemish, and six lambs and a ram: they shall be without blemish.

7 And he shall prepare a meat-offering, even an ephah for a bullock, and an ephah for a ram, and for the lambs ^m according as his hand shall bring, and an hin of oil to an ephah.

8 And when the prince shall enter, he shall go in by the way of the porch of that gate, and he shall go forth by the way thereof.

9 But when the people of the land shall come before the Lord in the solemn feasts, he that entereth in by the way of the north gate to worship, shall go out by the way of the south gate: and he that entereth by the way of the south gate, shall go forth by the way of the north gate: he shall not return by the way of the gate whereby he came in, but they shall go forth over-against it.

10 And the prince shall be in the midst of them: he shall go in when they go in, and when they go forth, they shall go forth together.

11 And in the feasts, and in the solemnities, the meat-offering shall be an ephah to a bullock, and an ephah to a ram, and to the lambs the gift of his hand, and an hin of oil to an ephah.

12 Now when the prince shall make a free burnt-offering, or peace-offerings freely unto the Lord, one shall then open him the gate that turneth toward the East, and he shall make his burnt-offering and his peace-offerings as he did on the sabbath day: after he shall go forth, and when he is gone forth, one shall shut the gate.

13 Thou shalt daily make a burnt-offering unto the Lord of a lamb of one year without blemish: thou shalt do it every morning.

14 And thou shalt prepare a meat-offering for it every morning, the sixth part of an ephah, and the third part of an hin of oil, to mingle with the fine flour: this meat-offering shall be continually by a perpetual ordinance unto the Lord.

15 Thus shall they prepare the lamb, and the meat-offering, and the oil every morning, for a continual burnt-offering.

16 ¶ Thus saith the Lord God, If the prince give a gift of his inheritance unto any of his sons, it shall be his sons, and it shall be their possession by inheritance.

17 But if he give a gift of his inheritance to one of his servants, then it shall be his to the year of liberty: after, it shall return to the prince, but his inheritance shall remain to his sons for them.

18 Moreover, the prince shall not take of the people's inheritance, nor thrust them out of their possession: but he shall cause his sons to inherit of his own possession, that my people be not scattered every man from his possession.

19 ¶ After, he brought me through the entry, which was at the side of the gate, into the holy chambers of the priests, which stood toward the North: and behold, there was a place at the west side of them.

20 Then said he unto me, This is the place where the priests shall set the trespass-offering, and the sin-offering, where they shall bake the meat-offering, that they should not bear them into the outer court, ^p to sanctify the people.

21 Then he brought me forth into the outer court, and caused me to go by the four corners of the court: and behold, in every corner of the court there was a court.

22 In the four corners of the court there were courts joined of forty cubits long, and thirty broad: these four corners were of one measure.

23 And there went a wall about them, even about those four, and kitchens were made under the walls round about.

24 Then said he unto me, This is the kitchen where the ministers of the house shall set the sacrifice of the people.

Afterward he brought me unto the door of the house: and behold, ^s waters issued out from the threshold of the house eastward: for the forefront of the house stood toward the East, and the waters ran down from under the right side of the house, at the south side of the altar.

2 Then brought he me out toward the north gate, and led me about by the way without unto the outer gate, by the way that turneth eastward: and behold, there came forth waters on the right side.

3 And when the man that had the line in his hand went forth eastward, he measured a thousand cubits, and he brought me through the waters: the waters were to the ancles.

4 Again, he measured a thousand, and brought me through the waters: the waters were to the knees: again, he measured a thousand, and brought me through: the waters were to the loins.

13 And over-against the border of the priests, the Levites shall have five and twenty thousand long, and ten thousand broad: all the length shall be five and twenty thousand, and the breadth ten thousand.

14 And they shall not sell of it, neither change it, nor abalienate the first fruits of the land: for it is holy unto the Lord.

15 And the five thousand that are left in the breadth over-against the five and twenty thousand, shall be a profane place for the city, for housing, and for suburbs, and the city shall be in the midst thereof.

16 And these shall be the measures thereof, the north part five hundred and four thousand, and the south part ^e five hundred and four thousand, and the east part five hundred and four thousand, and the west part five hundred and four thousand.

DANIEL.

THE ARGUMENT.

The great providence of God, and his singular mercy toward his church, are most lively here set forth, who never leaveth his desolate, but now in their greatest miseries and afflictions giveth them prophets, as Ezekiel and Daniel, whom he adorned with such graces of his holy Spirit, that Daniel above all other had most special revelations of such things as should come to the church, even from the time that they were in captivity, to the last end of the world, and to the general resurrection, as of the four monarchies and empires of the world, to wit, of the Babylonians, Persians, Grecians, and Romans. Also of the certain number of the times even unto Christ, when all ceremonies and sacrifices should cease, because he should be the accomplishment thereof: moreover, he sheweth Christ's office, and the cause of his death, which was by his sacrifice to take away sins, and to bring everlasting life. And as from the beginning, God ever exercised his people under the cross, so he teacheth here, that after that Christ is offered, he will still leave this exercise to his church until the dead rise again, and Christ gather his into his kingdom in the heavens.

CHAP. I.

Ref. Chr.
607.

1 The captivity of Jehoiakim king of Judah. 4 The king chooseth certain young men of the Jews to learn his law. 5 They have the king's ordinary appointed, 8 but they abstain from it.

IN the ^a third year of the reign of Jehoiakim king of Judah, came Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel unto Jerusalem, and besieged it.

2 And the Lord gave Jehoiakim king of Judah into his hand, with part of the vessels of the house of God, which he carried into the land of ^b Shinar, to the house of his god, and he brought the vessels into his god's treasury.

3 And the king spake unto ^c Ashpenaz the master of his ^d eunuchs, that he should bring certain of the children of Israel, of the ^e king's seed, of the princes:

4 Children in whom was no blemish, but ^f well-favoured, and instructed in all wisdom, and well seen in knowledge, and able to utter knowledge, and such as were able to stand in the king's palace, and whom they might teach the ^g learning and the tongue of the Chaldeans.

5 And the king appointed them provision every day of a ^h portion of the king's meat, and of the wine which he drank, so nourishing them ⁱ three years, that at the end thereof they might ^j stand before the king.

6 Now among these were certain of the children of Judah, Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah: Ref. Chr.

606.

7 Unto whom the chief of the eunuchs ¹ gave other names: for he called Daniel, Belteshazzar, and Hananiah, Shadrach, and Mishael, Meshach, and Azariah, Abednego.

8 ¶ But Daniel had determined in his heart, that he would not ^m defile himself with the portion of the king's meat, nor with the wine which he drank: therefore he required the chief of the eunuchs that he might not defile himself.

9 (Now God had brought Daniel into favour and tender love with the chief of the eunuchs)

10 And the chief of the eunuchs said unto Daniel, ⁿ I fear my lord the king, who hath appointed your meat and your drink: therefore if he see your faces worse liking than the other children which are of your sort, then shall ye make me lose mine head unto the king.

11 Then said Daniel to Melzar, whom the chief of the eunuchs had set over Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, 12 Prove thy servants, I beseech thee, ^o ten days, and let them give us ^p pulse to eat, and water to drink.

13 Then let our countenances be looked upon before thee, and the countenances of the children that eat of the portion of the king's meat: and as thou seest, deal with thy servants.

^a Read 2 Kings 24. 1. and Jer. 25. 1.

^b Which was a plain by Babylon, where was the temple of their great god, and is here taken for Babylon.

^c Who was as master of the wards.

^d He calleth them Eunuchs, whom the king nourished and brought up to be rulers of other countries afterward.

^e His purpose was to keep them as hostages, and that he might shew himself victorious, and also by their good industry and learning of his religion, they might favour rather him than the Jews, and so to be able to serve him as governors in their land: moreover, by this means the Jews might be better kept in subjection, fearing otherwise to procure hurt to these noble men.

^f The king required three things, that they should be of noble birth, that they should be witty and learned, and that they should be of a strong and comely nature, that they might do him better service: this did he for his own commodity, therefore it is not to praise his liberality: yet in this he is worthy praise, that he esteemed learning, and knew that it was a necessary mean to govern by.

^g That they might forget their own religion and country fashions, to serve him the better to his purpose: yet it is not to be thought that Daniel did learn any knowledge that was not godly: in all points he refused the abuse of things and superstition, insomuch that he would not eat the meat that the king appointed him, but was content to learn the knowledge of natural things.

^h That by their good entertainment they might learn to forget the mediocrity of their own people.

¹ To the intent that in this time they might both learn the manners of the Chaldeans, and also their tongue.

² As well to serve at the table, as in other offices.

⁴ Not that he thought any religion to be in the meat or drink (for afterward he did eat) but because the king should not entice him by this sweet poison to forget his religion and accustomed sobriety, and that in his meat and drink he might daily remember of what people he was: and Daniel bringeth this in, to shew how God from the beginning assisted him with his Spirit, and at length called him to be a prophet.

⁵ He supposed they did this for their religion, which was contrary to the Babylonians, and therefore herein he representeth them which are of no religion: for neither he would condemn theirs, nor maintain his own.

⁶ Meaning, that within this space he might have the trial, and that no man shall be able to discern it: and thus he spake, being moved by the Spirit of God.

⁷ Not that it was a thing abominable to eat dainty meats, and to drink wine, as both before and after they did; but if they should have hereby been won to the king, and have refused their own religion, that meat and drink had been accursed.

16 Thus Melzar took away the portion of their meat, and the wine that they should drink, and gave them pulse.

17 As for these four children, God gave them knowledge, and understanding in all learning^r and wisdom: also he gave Daniel understanding of all^s visions and dreams.

18 Now when the time was^t expired, that the king had appointed to bring them in, the chief of the eunuchs brought them before Nebuchadnezzar.

19 And the king communed with them: and among them all was found none like Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah: therefore stood they before the king.

20 And in all matters of wisdom, and understanding, that the king inquired of them, he found them ten times better than all the enchanters and astrologers that were in all his realm.

21 And Daniel was unto^u the first year of king Cyrus.

C H A P. II.

1 The dream of Nebuchadnezzar. 13 The king commandeth all the wise men of Babylon to be slain, because they could not interpret his dream. 16 Daniel requireth time to solve the question. 24 Daniel is brought unto the king, and sheweth him his dream and the interpretation thereof. 44 Of the everlasting kingdom of Christ.

AND in the second^v year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar, Nebuchadnezzar dreamed^w dreams, wherewith his spirit was^x troubled, and his^y sleep was upon him.

2 Then the king commanded to call the enchanters, and the astrologers, and the forcerers, and the^z Chaldeans, for to shew the king his dreams: so they came and stood before the king.

3 And the king said unto them, I have dreamed a dream, and my spirit was troubled to know the dream.

4 Then spake the Chaldeans to the king in the^b Aramites language, O king, live for ever: shew thy servants the dream, and we shall shew the interpretation.

5 And the king answered and said to the Chaldeans, The thing is gone from me. If ye will not make me understand the dream, with Bef. Chr. 603. the interpretation thereof, ye^c shall be drawn in pieces, and your houses shall be made a jakes.

6 But if ye declare the dream and the interpretation thereof, ye shall receive of me gifts and rewards, and great honour: therefore shew me the dream and the interpretation thereof.

7 They answered again, and said, Let the king shew^d his servants the dream, and we will declare the interpretation thereof.

8 Then the king answered, and said, I know certainly that ye would † gain the time, because ye see the thing is gone from me.

† Heb. ve-
dcur-ticums. 9 But if ye will not declare me the dream, there is but one judgment for you: for ye have prepared lying and corrupt words to speak before me till the time be changed: therefore tell me the dream, that I may know if ye can declare me the interpretation thereof.

10 Then the Chaldeans answered before the king, and said, There is no man upon earth that can declare the king's matter: yea, there is neither king nor prince, nor lord that asked such things at an enchanter, or astrologer, or Chaldean.

11 For it is a rare thing that the king requireth, and there is none other that can declare it before the king, except the gods, whose dwelling is not with flesh.

12 For this cause the king was angry and in great fury, and commanded to destroy all the wise men of Babel, 13 ¶ And when sentence was given, the wise men were slain: and they^e sought Daniel and his fellows to be put to death.

14 Then Daniel answered with counsel and wisdom to Arioch the king's † chief steward, which was gone forth to put to death the wise men of Babel, the guard. 15 Yea, he answered and said unto Arioch the king's captain, Why is the sentence so hasty from the king? Then Arioch declared the thing to Daniel.

† Or, the

16 So Daniel went, and desired the king that he would give him leisure, and that he would shew the king the interpretation thereof.

17 ¶ Then Daniel went to his house, and shewed the matter to Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah his companions, 18 That they should beseech the God of heaven for grace in this secret, that Daniel and his fellows should not perish with the rest of the wise men of Babel.

19 Then

^a This bare feeding, and that also of Moses when he fled from the court of Egypt, declareth, that we must live in such sobriety as God doth call us unto, seeing he will make it more profitable unto us than all dainties: for his blessing only sufficeth.

^r Meaning, in the liberal sciences and natural knowledge, and not in the magical arts which are forbidden, Deut. 18. 11.

^s So that he only was a prophet, and none of the other: for by dreams and visions God appeared to his prophets, Numb. 12. 6.

^t Of the three years above-mentioned, ver. 5.

^u That is, he was esteemed in Babylon as a prophet, so long as that commonwealth stood.

^v The father and the son were both called by this name: so that this is meant of the son when he reigned alone: for he reigned also after a sort with his father.

^w Not that he had many dreams, but because many matters were contained in this dream.

^x Because it was so rare and strange a dream, that he had not had the like.

^y He was so heavy with sleep, that he began to sleep again. Some read, and his sleep was broken from him.

^z For all these astrologers and forcerers called themselves by this name of honour, as though all the wisdom and knowledge of the country depended upon them, and that all other countries were void of the same.

^b That is, in the Syrian tongue, which differed not much from the Chaldean, save it seemed to be more eloquent, and therefore the learned used to speak it: as the Jewish writers do to this day.

^c This is a just reward of their arrogance (which vaunted of themselves that they had the knowledge of all things) that they should be proved fools, and that to their perpetual shame and confusion.

^d Herein appeared their ignorance, that notwithstanding their brags, yet they were not able to tell the dream, except he entered them into the matter, and therefore they would pretend knowledge where was but mere ignorance, and so as deluders of the people, they were worthy to die.

^e Which declareth that God would not have his servants joined in the company of these forcerers and astrologers, whose arts were wicked, and therefore justly ought to die, though the king did it upon a rage, and no zeal.

Es. Chr. 603. 19 Then was the secret revealed unto Daniel in a vision by night: therefore Daniel praised the God of heaven.

20 And Daniel answered, and said, * The name of God be praised for ever and ever: for wisdom and strength are his,

21 And he changeth the times and seasons: he taketh away kings: he setteth up kings: he giveth wisdom unto the wise, and understanding to those that understand.

22 He discovereth the deep and secret things: he knoweth what is in the darkness, and the light dwelleth with him.

23 I thank thee, and praise thee, O thou God of my fathers, that thou hast given me wisdom and strength, and hast shewed me now the thing that we desired of thee: for thou hast declared unto us the king's matter.

24 ¶ Therefore Daniel went unto Arioch, whom the king had ordained to destroy the wise men of Babel: he went and said thus unto him, Destroy not the wise men of Babel, but bring me before the king, and I will declare unto the king the interpretation.

25 Then Arioch brought Daniel before the king in haste, and said thus unto him, I have found a man of the children of Judah that were brought captives, that will declare unto the king the interpretation.

26 Then answered the king, and said unto Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, Art thou able to shew me the dream which I have seen, and the interpretation thereof?

27 Daniel answered in the presence of the king, and said, The secret which the king hath demanded, can neither the wise, the astrologers, the enchanters, nor the soothsayers declare unto the king:

28 But there is a God in heaven that revealeth secrets, and sheweth the king Nebuchadnezzar what shall be in the latter days. Thy dream, and the things which thou hast seen in thine head upon thy bed, is this.

29 O king, when thou wast in thy bed, thoughts came into thy mind, what should come to pass hereafter, and he that revealeth secrets, telleth thee what shall come.

30 As for me, this secret is not shewed me for any wisdom that I have, more than any other living, but only to shew the interpretation, and that thou mightest know the thoughts of thine heart.

^f He sheweth that man hath neither wisdom nor knowledge, but very dark blindness and ignorance of himself: for it cometh only of God that man understandeth any thing.

^g To whom thou madest thy promise, and who lived in thy fear: whereby he excludeth all other gods.

^h Meaning, power to interpret it.

ⁱ Whereby appeareth that many were slain, as ver. 13. and the rest at Daniel's offer, were preserved on condition: not that Daniel favoured their wicked profession, but that he had respect to equity, because the king proceeded according to his wicked affection, and not considering if their science were lawful or no.

^k He affirmeth that man by reason and art is not able to attain to the cause of God's secrets, but the understanding only thereof must come of God: whereby he smiteth the king with a certain fear and reverence of God, that he might be the more apt to receive the high mysteries that should be revealed.

^l Because he had said, that God only must reveal: the signification of this dream, the king might have asked why Daniel did enterprise to interpret it, and therefore he sheweth, that he was but God's minister, and had no gifts but such as God had given him to set forth his glory.

^m By gold, silver, brass and iron, are meant the Chaldean, Persian, Macedonian and Roman kingdom, which should successively rule all the world, till Christ (which is here called the stone) come himself, and destroy the last 31 O king, thou sawest, and behold, there was a great image: this great image, whose glory was so excellent, stood before thee, and the form thereof was terrible.

32 This image's head was of fine gold, his breast and his arms of silver, his belly and his thighs of brass, 33 His legs of iron, and his feet were part of iron, and part of clay.

34 Thou beheldest it till a stone was cut without hands, which smote the image upon his feet that were of iron and clay, and brake them to pieces.

35 Then was the iron, the clay, the brass, the silver, and the gold broken all together, and became like the chaff of the summer flowers, and the wind carried them away, that no place was found for them: and the stone that smote the image became a great mountain, and filled the whole earth.

36 This is the dream, and we will declare before the king the interpretation thereof.

37 ¶ O king, thou art a king of kings: for the God of heaven hath given thee a kingdom, power, and strength, and glory.

38 And in all places where the children of men dwell, the beasts of the field, and the fowls of the heaven hath he given into thine hand, and hath made thee ruler over them all: thou art this head of gold.

39 And after thee shall arise another kingdom, inferior to thee, of silver, and another third kingdom shall be of brass, which shall bear rule over all the earth.

40 And the fourth kingdom shall be strong as iron: for as iron breaketh in pieces, and subdueth all things, and as iron bruiseeth all these things, so shall it break in pieces, and bruise all.

41 Whereas thou sawest the feet and toes, part of potters clay, and part of iron: the kingdom shall be divided, but there shall be in it of the strength of the iron, as thou sawest the iron mixed with the clay and earth.

42 And as the toes of the feet were part of iron, and part of clay, so shall the kingdom be partly strong, and partly broken.

43 And whereas thou sawest iron mixed with clay and earth, they shall mingle themselves with the seed of men: but they shall not join one and this was to assure the Jews that their afflictions should not end with the empire of the Chaldeans, but that they should patiently abide the coming of Messiah, which should be at the end of this fourth monarchy.

ⁿ Daniel leaveth out the kingdom of the Assyrians, which was before the Babylonians, both because it was not a monarchy and general empire, and also because he would declare the things that were to come, to the coming of Christ, for the comfort of the elect among these wonderful alterations: and he calleth the Babylonian kingdom the golden head, because in respect of the other three, it was the best, and yet was of itself wicked and cruel.

^o Meaning, the Persians, which were not inferior in dignity, power and riches, but were worse touching ambition, cruelty, and all kinds of vice; shewing, that the world should grow worse and worse, till it was restored by Christ.

^p That is, of the Macedonians shall be of brass, not alluding to the hardness thereof, but to the vileness, in respect of silver.

^q That is, the Roman empire shall subdue all these other aforesaid, which after Alexander were divided into the Macedonians, Grecians, Syrians and Egyptians.

^r They shall have civil wars and continual discords among themselves.

^s They shall by marriages and affinities think to make themselves strong: yet shall they never be joined in hearts.

Bef. Chr. 603. one with another, as iron cannot be mixed with clay.

44 And in the days of these kings, shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom, which shall never be destroyed: and this kingdom shall not be given to another people, but it shall break and destroy all these kingdoms, and it shall stand for ever.

45 Whereas thou sawest, that the stone was cut out of the mountain without hands, and that it brake in pieces the iron, the brass, the clay, the silver, and the gold: so the great God hath shewed the king what shall come to pass hereafter, and the dream is true, and the interpretation thereof is sure.

46 ¶ Then the king Nebuchadnezzar fell upon his face, and bowed himself unto Daniel, and commanded that they should offer meat-offerings, and sweet odours unto him.

47 Also the king answered unto Daniel, and said, I know of a truth that your God is a God of gods, and the Lord of kings, and the revealer of secrets, seeing thou couldest open this secret.

48 So the king made Daniel a great man, and gave him many and great gifts. He made him governor over the whole province of Babel, and chief of the rulers, and above all the wise men of Babel.

49 Then Daniel made request to the king, and he set Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, over the charge of the province of Babel: but Daniel sat in the gate of the king.

C H A P. III.

1 The king setteth up a golden image. 8 Certain are accused because they despised the king's commandment, and are put into a burning oven. 25 By belief in God they are delivered from the fire. 26 Nebuchadnezzar confesseth the power of God after the sight of the miracle.

NEbuchadnezzar the king made an image of gold, whose height was threescore cubits, and the breadth thereof six cubits: he set it up in the plain of Dura, in the province of Babel.

^c His purpose is to shew that all the kingdoms of the world are transitory, and that the kingdom of Christ shall only remain for ever.

^a Meaning Christ, who was sent of God, and not set up by man, whose kingdom at the beginning should be small, and without beauty to man's judgment, but should at length grow and fill the whole earth, which he calleth a great mountain, as ver. 35. And this kingdom, which is not only referred to the person of Christ, but also to the whole body of his church, and to every member thereof, shall be eternal: for the Spirit that is in them, is life eternal, Rom. 8. 10.

^b Though this humbling of the king seemed to deserve commendation, yet because he joined God's honour with the prophet's, it is to be reprov'd, and Daniel herein erred, if he suffered it: but it is credible that Daniel admonished him of his fault, and did not suffer it.

^d This confession was but a sudden motion, as it was also in Pharaoh, Exod. 9. 27, 28. but his heart was not touched, as appeared soon afterward.

^e Not that the prophet was desirous of gifts or honour, but because by this means he might relieve his poor brethren which were grievously oppressed in this their captivity, and also he received them, lest he should offend this cruel king, which willingly gave them.

^f He did not this for their private profit, but that the whole church, which was then there in affliction, might have some release and ease by this benefit.

^g Meaning, that either he was a judge, or that he had the whole authority, so that none could be admitted to the king's presence but by him.

^h Under pretence of religion and holiness, in making an

2 Then Nebuchadnezzar the king sent forth to gather together the nobles, the princes, and the dukes, the judges, the receivers, the counsellors, the officers, and all the governors of the provinces, that they should come to the dedication of the image which Nebuchadnezzar the king had set up.

3 So the nobles, princes and dukes, the judges, the receivers, the counsellors, the officers, and all the governors of the provinces, were assembled unto the dedicating of the image that Nebuchadnezzar the king had set up: and they stood before the image which Nebuchadnezzar had set up.

4 Then an herald cried aloud, Be it known to you, O people, nations, and languages,

5 That when you hear the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harp, sackbut, psaltery, dulcimer, and all instruments of musick, ye fall down and worship the golden image that Nebuchadnezzar the king hath set up:

6 And whosoever falleth not down and worshippeth, shall the same hour be cast into the midst of an hot fiery furnace.

7 Therefore as soon as all the people heard the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harp, sackbut, psaltery, and all instruments of musick, all the people, nations, and languages fell down, and worshipped the golden image that Nebuchadnezzar the king had set up.

8 ¶ By reason whereof at that same time came men of the Chaldeans, and grievously accused the Jews:

9 For they spake and said to the king Nebuchadnezzar, O king, live for ever:

10 Thou, O King, hast made a decree, that every man that shall hear the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harp, sackbut, psaltery, and dulcimer, and all instruments of musick, shall fall down and worship the golden image:

11 And whosoever falleth not down, and worshippeth, that he should be cast into the midst of an hot fiery furnace:

12 There are certain Jews whom thou hast set over the charge of the province of Babel, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego: these men, image to his idol Bel, he sought his own ambition and vain glory: and this declareth that he was not touched with the true fear of God before, but that he confessed him on a sudden motion, as the wicked when they are overcome with the greatness of his works. The Greek interpreters write, that this was done eighteen years after the dream, and as may appear the king feared lest the Jews by their religion should have altered the state of his commonwealth, and therefore he meant to bring all to one kind of religion, and so rather sought his own greatness than God's glory.

^c Shewing, that the idol is not known for an idol so long as he is with the workman: but when the ceremonies and customs are received and used, and the consent of the people is there, then of a block they think they have made a god.

^d This was sufficient with the wicked at all times to approve their religion, if the king's authority were alledged for the establishing thereof, not considering in the mean season what God's word did permit.

^e These are the two dangerous weapons wherewith Satan useth to fight against the children of God, the consent of the multitude, and the cruelty of the punishment: for tho' some feared God, yet the multitude which consented to the wickedness, astonished them: and here the king required not an inward consent but an outward gesture, that the Jews might by little and little learn to forget their true religion.

^f It seemeth that they named not Daniel, because he was greatly in the king's favour, thinking if these three had been destroyed, they might have had better occasion to accuse Daniel: and this declareth that this policy of erecting this image was invented by the malicious flatterers, which sought nothing but the destruction of the Jews, whom they accused of rebellion and ingratitude.

Bef. Chr. 580.

men, O king, have not regarded thy commandment, neither will they serve thy gods, nor worship the golden image that thou hast set up.

13 ¶ Then Nebuchadnezzar, in his anger and wrath, commanded that they should bring Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego: so these men were brought before the king.

14 ¶ And Nebuchadnezzar spake, and said unto them, What disorder? will not you, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, serve my god, nor worship the golden image that I have set up?

15 ¶ Now therefore, are ye ready, when ye hear the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harp, sackbut, psaltery, and dulcimer, and all instruments of musick, to fall down, and worship the image which I have made? for if ye worship it not, ye shall be cast immediately into the midst of an hot fiery furnace: for who is that God that can deliver you out of mine hands?

16 Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego answered, and said to the king, O Nebuchadnezzar, we are not careful to answer thee in this matter.

17 Behold, our God whom we serve, is able to deliver us from the hot fiery furnace, and he will deliver us out of thine hand, O king.

18 But if not, be it known unto thee, O king, that we will not serve thy gods, nor worship the golden image which thou hast set up.

19 ¶ Then was Nebuchadnezzar full of rage, and the form of his visage was changed against Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego: therefore he charged and commanded that they should heat the furnace at once seven times more than it was wont to be heated.

20 And he charged the most valiant men of war that were in his army, to bind Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, and to cast them into the hot fiery furnace.

21 So these men were bound in their coats, their hose, and their cloaks, with their other garments, and cast into the midst of the hot fiery furnace.

22 Therefore, because the king's commandment was strait, that the furnace should be exceeding hot, the flame of the fire slew those men that brought forth Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego.

23 And these three men, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego fell down bound into the midst of the hot fiery furnace,

24 ¶ Then Nebuchadnezzar the king was astonished, and rose up in haste, and spake, and said unto his counsellors, Did not we cast three men bound into the midst of the fire? Who answered, and said unto the king, It is true, O king.

25 And he answered, and said, Lo, I see four men loose, walking in the midst of the fire, and they have no hurt, and the form of the fourth is like the son of God.

26 Then the king Nebuchadnezzar came near to the mouth of the hot fiery furnace, and spake and said, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, the servants of the high God, go forth, and come hither: so Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego came forth of the midst of the fire.

27 Then the nobles, princes, and dukes, and the king's counsellors came together to see these men, because the fire had no power over their bodies: for not an hair of their head was burnt, neither were their coats changed, nor any smell of fire come upon them.

28 Wherefore Nebuchadnezzar spake and said, Blessed be the God of Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, who hath sent his angel, and delivered his servants, that put their trust in him, and have changed the king's commandment, and yielded their bodies rather than they would serve or worship any god, save their own God.

29 Therefore I make a decree, that every people, nation and language, which speak any blasphemy against the God of Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, shall be drawn in pieces, and their houses shall be made a jakes, because there is no god that can deliver after this sort.

30 Then the king promoted Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, in the province of Babel.

31 Nebuchadnezzar king, unto all people, nations and languages, that dwell in all the world, Peace be multiplied unto you:

32 I thought it good to declare the signs and wonders that the high God hath wrought toward me.

33 How great are his signs, and how mighty are his wonders! his kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and his dominion is from generation to generation.

C H A P. IV.

2 Another dream of Nebuchadnezzar, which Daniel declareth. 29 The prophet declareth how of a proud king he should become as a beast. 31 After he confesseth the power of God, and is restored to his former dignity.

Nebuchadnezzar being at rest in mine house, and flourishing in my palace,

2 Saw a dream, which made me afraid, and the ¶ Signifying, that he would receive them to grace, if they would now at the length obey his decree.

¶ For they should have done injury to God, if they should have doubted in this holy cause, and therefore they say, that they are resolved to die for God's cause.

¶ They ground on two points, first, on the power and providence of God over them, and secondly, on their cause, which was God's glory, and the testifying of his true religion with their blood, and so make open confession, that they will not so much as outwardly consent to idolatry.

¶ This declareth that the more that tyrants rage, and the more witty they shew themselves in inventing strange and cruel punishments, the more is God glorified by his servants, to whom he giveth patience and constancy to abide the cruelty of their punishment, for either he delivereth them from death, or else for this life giveth them a better.

¶ For the angels were called the sons of God, because of their excellency: therefore the king called this angel, whom God sent to comfort his in these great torments, the son of God.

¶ This commendeth their obedience unto God, that they would not for any fear depart out of this furnace till the time appointed, as Noah remained in the ark till the Lord called him forth.

¶ He was moved by the greatness of the miracle to praise God, but his heart was not touched. And here we see that miracles are not sufficient to convert men to God, but that doctrine must chiefly be adjoined, without the which there can be no faith.

¶ If this heathen king, moved by God's Spirit, would not see blasphemy unpunished, but made a law and set a punishment to such transgressors, much more ought all they that profess religion, take order that such impiety reign not, lest according as their knowledge and charge is greater, so they suffer double punishment.

¶ Meaning, so far as his dominion extended.

¶ Read chap. 2. 44.

¶ There was no trouble that might cause me to dream, and therefore it came only of God.

¶ This was another dream besides that which he saw of the four empires: for Daniel both declared what that dream was, and what it meant: and here he only expoundeth the dream.

the thoughts upon my bed, and the visions of mine head troubled me.

3 Therefore made I a decree, that they should bring all the wise men of Babel before me, that they might declare unto me the interpretation of the dream.

4 So came the enchanters, the astrologers, the Chaldeans, and the soothsayers, to whom I told the dream, but they could not shew me the interpretation thereof.

5 Till at the last Daniel came before me, (whose name was Belteshazzar, according to the name of my god, which hath the spirit of the holy gods in him) and before him I told the dream, saying,

6 O Belteshazzar, chief of the enchanters, because I know that the spirit of the holy gods is in thee, and no secret troubleth thee, tell me the vision of my dream that I have seen, and the interpretation thereof.

7 Thus were the visions of mine head in my bed: And behold, I saw a tree in the midst of the earth, and the height thereof was great:

8 A great tree and strong, and the height thereof reached unto heaven, and the sight thereof to the ends of all the earth.

9 The boughs thereof were fair, and the fruit thereof much, and in it was meat for all: it made a shadow under it for the beasts of the field, and the fowls of the heaven dwelt in the boughs thereof, and all flesh fed of it.

10 I saw in the visions of mine head upon my bed, and behold, a watchman and an holy one came down from heaven, 11 And cried aloud, and said thus, Hew down the tree, and break off his branches: shake off his leaves, and scatter his fruit, that the beasts may flee from under it, and the fowls from his branches.

12 Nevertheless, leave the stump of his roots in the earth, and with a band of iron and brass bind it among the grass of the field, and let it be wet with the dew of heaven, and let his portion be with the beasts among the grass of the field.

13 Let his heart be changed from man's nature, and let a beast's heart be given unto him, and let seven times be passed over him.

14 The sentence is according to the decree of the watchmen, and according to the word of the holy ones: the demand was answered, to the intent that living men may know that the most High hath power over the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will, and appointeth over it the most abject among men.

² This no doubt was a great grief to Daniel, not only to have his name changed, but to be called by the name of a vile idol, which thing Nebuchadnezzar did, to make him forget the true religion of God.

³ Which also was a great grief to the prophet, to be numbered among the forcerers, and men whose practices were wicked, and contrary to God's word.

⁴ By the tree is signified the dignity of a king, whom God ordaineth to be a defence for all kind of men, and whose state is profitable for mankind.

⁵ Meaning, the angel of God, which neither eateth nor sleepeth, but is ever ready to do God's will, and is not infected with man's corruption, but is ever holy: and in that that he commandeth to cut down this tree, he knew that it should not be cut down by man, but by God.

⁶ Hereby he meaneth that Nebuchadnezzar should not only for a time lose his kingdom, but be like a beast.

⁷ God hath decreed this judgment, and the whole army

15 This is the dream, that I king Nebuchadnezzar have seen: therefore thou, O Belteshazzar, declare the interpretation thereof: for all the wise men of my kingdom are not able to shew me the interpretation: but thou art able, for the spirit of the holy gods is in thee.

16 ¶ Then Daniel (whose name was Belteshazzar) held his peace by the space of one hour, and his thoughts troubled him, and the king spake, and said, Belteshazzar, let neither the dream, nor the interpretation thereof, trouble thee. Belteshazzar answered, and said, My lord, the dream be to them that hate thee, and the interpretation thereof to thine enemies.

17 The tree that thou sawest, which was great and mighty, whose height reached unto the heaven, and the sight thereof through all the world,

18 Whose leaves were fair, and the fruit thereof much, and in it was meat for all, under the which the beasts of the field dwelt, and upon whose branches the fowls of the heaven did sit,

19 It is thou, O king, that art great and mighty: for thy greatness is grown, and reacheth unto heaven, and thy dominions to the ends of the earth.

20 Whereas the king saw a watchman, and an holy one, that came down from heaven, and said, Hew down the tree and destroy it, yet leave the stump of the roots thereof in the earth, and with a band of iron and brass bind it among the grass of the field, and let it be wet with the dew of heaven, and let his portion be with the beasts of the field, till seven times pass over him.

21 This is the interpretation, O king, and it is the decree of the most High, which is come upon my lord the king:

22 That they shall drive thee from men, and thy dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field: they shall make thee eat grass as the oxen, and they shall wet thee with the dew of heaven: and seven times shall pass over thee, till thou know that the most High beareth rule over the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will.

23 Whereas they said, that one should leave the stump of the tree roots, thy kingdom shall remain unto thee: after that, thou shalt know that the heavens have the rule.

24 Wherefore, O king, let my counsel be acceptable unto thee, and break off thy sins by righteousness, and thine iniquities by mercy toward the poor: lo, let there be an healing of thine error.

25 All

of heaven have, as it were, subscribed unto it, like as also they desire the execution of his decree against all them that lift up themselves against God.

² He was troubled for the great judgment of God which he saw ordained against the king: and so the prophets used, on the one part, to denounce God's judgments for the zeal they bear to his glory: and on the other part, to have compassion upon man, and also to consider, that they should be subject to God's judgments, if they did not regard them with pity.

³ Whereby he meaneth a long space, as seven years. Some interpret seven months, and others seven weeks, but it seemeth he meant of years.

⁴ Not that his shape or form was changed into a beast, but that he was either stricken mad, and so avoided man's company, or was cast out for his tyranny, and so wandered among the beasts, and ate herbs and grass.

⁵ Daniel sheweth the cause why God thus punished him:

⁶ Cease from provoking God to anger any longer by thy sins, that he may mitigate his punishment, if thou shew by thine upright life that thou hast true faith and repentance.

⁷ Suffer the errors of thy former life to be redressed.

25 All these things shall come upon the king Nebuchadnezzar.

26 At the end of twelve months, he walked in the royal palace of Babel.

27 And the king spake, and said, Is not this great Babel, that I have built for the house of the kingdom, by the might of my power, and for the honour of my majesty?

28 While the word was in the king's mouth; a voice came down from heaven, saying, O king Nebuchadnezzar, to thee be it spoken, Thy kingdom is departed from thee,

29 And they shall drive thee from men, and thy dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field:
they shall make thee to eat grass as the oxen, and seven times shall pass over thee, until thou knowest that the most High beareth rule over the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will.

30 The very same hour was this thing fulfilled upon Nebuchadnezzar, and he was driven from men, and did eat grass as the oxen, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven, till his hairs were grown as eagles feathers, and his nails like birds claws.

31 And at the end of these days, I Nebuchadnezzar lift up mine eyes unto heaven, and mine understanding was restored unto me, and I gave thanks unto the most High, and I praised and honoured him that liveth for ever, whose power is an everlasting power, and his kingdom is from generation to generation.

32 And all the inhabitants of the earth are reputed as nothing: and according to his will he worketh in the army of heaven, and in the inhabitants of the earth, and none can stay his hand, nor say unto him, What doest thou?

33 At the same time was mine understanding restored unto me, and I returned to the honour of my kingdom: my glory and my beauty was restored unto me, and my counsellors and my princes sought unto me, and I was established in my kingdom, and my glory was augmented toward me.

34 Now therefore, I Nebuchadnezzar praise and extol and magnify the King of heaven, whose works are all truth, and his ways judgment; and those that walk in pride, he is able to abase.

CHAPTER V.

1 Belshazzar king of Babylon seeth an hand-writing on the wall. 8 The soothsayers called of the king cannot expound the writing. 25 Daniel readeth

After that Daniel had declared this vision: and this his pride declareth that it is not in man to convert to God, except his Spirit move him, seeing that these terrible threatenings could not move him to repent.

When the term of these seven years was accomplished.

He confesseth God's will to be the rule of all justice, and a most perfect law whereby he governeth both man and angel, and devils, so that none ought to murmur, or ask a reason of his doing, but only to stand content therewith, and give him the glory.

By whom it seemeth that he had been put from his kingdom before.

He doth not only praise God for his deliverance, but also confesseth his fault, that God may only have the glory, and man the shame, and that he may be exalted, and man cast down.

Daniel reciteth the history of king Belshazzar, Evilmerodach's son, to shew God's judgments against the wicked for the deliverance of his church, and how the prophecy of Jeremiah was true, that they should be delivered after seventy years.

The kings of the east parts then used to sit alone commonly, and disdained that any should sit in their company:

it, and interpreteth it also. 30 The king is slain. Ref. Chr.
31 Darius enjoyeth the kingdom. 538.

KING Belshazzar made a great feast to a thousand of his princes, and drank wine before the thousand.

2 And Belshazzar, while he tasted the wine, † commanded to bring him the golden and silver vessels, which his father Nebuchadnezzar had brought from the temple in Jerusalem, that the king and his princes, his wives and his concubines, might drink therein. † Or, ever-come with wine.

3 Then were brought the golden vessels that were taken out of the temple of the Lord's house at Jerusalem, and the king and his princes, his wives and his concubines, drank in them.

4 They drank wine, and praised the gods of gold, and of silver, of brass, of iron, of wood, and of stone.

5 At the same hour appeared fingers of a man's hand, which wrote over-against the candlestick upon the plaister of the wall of the king's palace, and the king saw the palm of the hand that wrote.

6 Then the king's countenance was changed, and his thoughts troubled him, so that the joints of his loins were loosed; and his knees smote one against the other.

7 Wherefore the king cried aloud, that they should bring the astrologers, the Chaldeans and the soothsayers. And the king spake, and said to the wise men of Babel, Whosoever can read this writing, and declare me the interpretation thereof, shall be clothed with purple, and shall have a chain of gold about his neck, and shall be the third ruler in the kingdom.

8 Then came all the king's wise men, but they could neither read the writing, nor shew the king the interpretation.

9 Then was king Belshazzar greatly troubled, and his countenance was changed in him, and his princes were astonished.

10 Now the queen, by reason of the talk of the king and his princes, came into the banquet-house, and the queen spake, and said, O king, live for ever: let not thy thoughts trouble thee, nor let thy countenance be changed:

11 There is a man in thy kingdom, in whom is the spirit of the holy gods, and in the days of thy father, light and understanding and wisdom, like the wisdom of the gods, was found in him:
whom the king Nebuchadnezzar thy father, the king, I say, thy father, made chief of the inchanters, astrologers, Chaldeans, and sooth-sayers.

12 Because and now to shew his power, and how little he set by his enemy, which then besieged Babylon, he made a solemn banquet, and used excess in their company, which is meant here by drinking wine: thus the wicked are most dissolute and negligent, when their destruction is at hand.

Meaning, his grandfather.

In contempt of the true God, they praised their idols;
not that they thought that the gold or silver were gods, but that there was a certain virtue and power in them to do them good, which is also the opinion of all idolaters.

That it might the better be seen.

So he that before contemned God, was moved by this sight to tremble for fear of God's judgments.

Thus the wicked in their troubles seek many means, which draw them from God, because they seek not to him who is the only comfort in all afflictions.

To wit, his grandmother; Nebuchadnezzar's wife, which for her age was not before at the feast, but came thither when she heard of these strange news.

Read chap. 4. 6. and this declareth, that both this name was odious unto him, and also that he did not use these vile practices, because he was not among them when all were called.

Bef. Chr. 538. 12 Because a more excellent spirit, and knowledge, and understanding (for he did expound dreams, and declare hard sentences, and dissolved doubts) were found in him, even in Daniel, whom the king named Belteshazzar: now let Daniel be called, and he will declare the interpretation.

13 ¶ Then was Daniel brought before the king, and the king spake, and said unto Daniel, Art thou that Daniel, which art of the children, of the captivity of Judah, whom my father the king brought out of Jewry?

14 Now, I have heard of thee, that ^x the spirit of the holy gods is in thee, and that light, and understanding, and excellent wisdom is found in thee.

15 Now therefore, wise men, and astrologers have been brought before me, that they should read this writing, and shew me the interpretation thereof: but they could not declare the interpretation of the thing.

16 Then heard I of thee, that thou couldst shew interpretations, and dissolve doubts: now if thou canst read the writing, and shew me the interpretation thereof, thou shalt be clothed with purple, and shalt have a chain of gold about thy neck, and shalt be the third ruler in the kingdom.

17 Then Daniel answered, and said before the king, Keep thy rewards to thyself, and give thy gifts to another: yet I will read the writing unto the king, and shew him the interpretation.

18 O king, bear thou, The most high God gave unto ^y Nebuchadnezzar thy father a kingdom, and majesty, and honour, and glory.

19 And for the majesty that he gave him, all people, nations, and languages trembled, and feared before him: he put to death whom he would: he smote whom he would: whom he would he set up, and whom he would he put down.

20 But when his heart was puffed up, and his mind hardened in pride, he was deposed from his kingly throne, and they took his honour from him.

21 And he was driven from the sons of men, and his heart was made like the beasts, and his dwelling was with the wild asses: they fed him with grass like oxen, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven, till he knew that the most high God bare rule over the kingdom of men, and that he appointeth over it whomsoever he pleaseth.

22 And thou his son, O Belshazzar, hast not humbled thine heart, though thou knewest all these things,

23 But hast lifted thyself up against the Lord of heaven, and they have brought the vessels of his house before thee, and thou and thy princes, thy wives and thy concubines, have drunk wine in them, and thou hast praised the gods of silver and gold, of brass, iron, wood and stone, which neither see, neither hear, nor understand: and the God, in whose hand thy breath is, and all thy ways, him hast thou not glorified.

24 ^z Then was the palm of the hand sent from him, and hath written this writing.

25 And this is the writing that he hath written, ^a MENE, MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN.

26 This is the interpretation of the thing, MENE, God hath numbered thy kingdom, and hath finished it.

27 TEKEL, Thou art weighed in the balance, and art found [†] too light.

28 PERES, Thy kingdom is divided, and given to the Medes and Persians.

29 Then at the commandment of Belshazzar they clothed Daniel with purple, and put a chain of gold about his neck, and made a proclamation concerning him, that he should be the third ruler in the kingdom.

30 The same night was Belshazzar the king of the Chaldeans slain.

31 And Darius ^b of the Medes took the kingdom, being threescore and two years old.

C H A P. VI.

^r Daniel is made ruler over the governors. 5 An act against Daniel. 16 He is put into a den of lions by the commandment of the king. 23 He is delivered by faith in God. 24 Daniel's accusers are put unto the lions. 25 Darius by a decree magnifieth the God of Daniel.

IT pleased Darius to set over the kingdom ^c an hundred and twenty governors, which should be over the whole kingdom,

2 And over these, three rulers (of whom Daniel was one) that the governors might give accounts unto them, and the king should [†] have no damage.

3 Now this Daniel ^d was preferred above the rulers and governors, because the spirit was excellent in him, and the king thought to set him over the whole realm.

4 ¶ Wherefore the rulers and governors sought an occasion against Daniel concerning the kingdom: but they could find none occasion or fault: for he was so faithful, that there was no blame nor fault found in him.

5 Then said these men, We shall not find an occasion against this Daniel, except we find it against him concerning the law of his God.

6 Therefore the rulers and these governors went together to the king, and said thus unto him, King Darius, live for ever.

7 All the rulers of the kingdom, the officers and governors, the counsellors and dukes, have consulted together to make a decree for the king, and to establish a statute, that whosoever shall ask

† Or, wast- ing.

† Or, not be troubled.

^x For the idolaters thought that the angels had power as God, and therefore had them in like estimation as they had God, thinking that the spirit of prophecy and understanding came of them.

^y Before he read the writing, he declareth to the king his great ingratitude toward God, who could not be moved to give him the glory, considering his wonderful work toward his grandfather, and so sheweth, that he doth not sin of ignorance, but of malice.

^z After that God had so long time deferred his anger, and patiently waited for thine amendment.

^a This word is twice written for the certainty of the thing, shewing that God had most surely counted; signify ing also that God hath appointed a term for all kingdoms, and that a miserable end shall come on all that raise themselves against him.

^b Cyrus his son-in-law gave him this title of honour, although Cyrus in effect had the dominion.

^c Read Esther chap. 1. 1.

^d This heathen king preferred Daniel a stranger to all his nobles and familiars, because the graces of God were more excellent in him than in others.

^e Thus the wicked cannot abide the graces of God in others, but seek by all occasions to deface them: therefore against such assaults there is no better remedy than to walk uprightly in the fear of God, and to have a good conscience.

537. Beh. Chr. ask a petition of any god or man for thirty days, save of thee, O king, he shall be cast into the den of lions.

8 Now, O king, confirm the decree, and seal the writing, that it be not changed according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not.

9 Wherefore king Darius sealed the writing and the decree.

10 ¶ Now when Daniel understood that he had sealed the writing, he went into his house, and his window being open in his chamber toward Jerusalem, he kneeled upon his knees three times a day, and prayed, and praised his God, as he did aforesaid.

11 Then these men assembled, and found Daniel praying, and making supplication unto his God.

12 So they came, and spake unto the king, concerning the king's decree, Hast thou not sealed the decree, that every man that shall make a request to any god or man within thirty days, save to thee, O king, shall be cast into the den of lions? The king answered and said, The thing is true, according the law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not.

13 Then answered they, and said unto the king, This Daniel, which is of the children of the captivity of Judah, regardeth not thee, O king, nor the decree that thou hast sealed, but maketh his petition three times a day.

14 When the king heard these words, he was sore displeased with himself, and set his heart on Daniel to deliver him: and he laboured till the sun went down, to deliver him.

15 Then these men assembled unto the king, and said unto the king, Understand, O king, that the law of the Medes and Persians is, that no decree nor statute which the king confirmeth may be altered.

16 ¶ Then the king commanded, and they brought Daniel, and cast him into the den of lions: ~~now~~ the king spake, and said unto Daniel, Thy God, whom thou alway servest, even he will deliver thee.

17 And a stone was brought, and laid upon the mouth of the den, and the king sealed it with his own signet, and with the signet of his princes, that the purpose might not be changed concerning Daniel.

18 Then the king went unto his palace, and remained fasting, neither were the instruments of musick brought before him, and his sleep went from him.

^f Herein is condemned the wickedness of the king, who would be set up as a god, and passed not what wicked laws he approved for the maintenance of the same.

^e Because he would not by his silence shew that he consented to this wicked decree, he set open his windows toward Jerusalem, when he prayed: both to stir up himself with the remembrance of God's promises to his people when they should pray toward that temple, and also that others might see that he would neither consent in heart nor deed for these few days, to any thing that was contrary to God's glory.

^b Thus the wicked maintain evil laws by constancy and authority, which is oft-times either lightness or stubbornness, whereas the innocents thereby perish: and therefore governors neither ought to fear, nor be ashamed to break such.

ⁱ This declareth that Darius was not touched with the true knowledge of God, because he doubted of his power.

^k My just cause and uprightness in this thing wherein I was charged, is approved of God.

^l For he did disobey the king's commandment to obey God, and so did no injury to the king, who ought to command nothing whereby God should be dishonoured.

^m Because he committed himself wholly unto God whose 19 ¶ Then the king rose early in the morning, and went in all haste unto the den of lions. Beh. Chr. 537.

20 And when he came to the den, he cried with a lamentable voice unto Daniel: and the king spake, and said unto Daniel, O Daniel, the servant of the living God, is not thy God, (whom thou alway servest) able to deliver thee from the lions?

21 Then Daniel said unto the king, O king, live for ever.

22 My God hath sent his angel, and hath shut the lions' mouths; that they have not hurt me: for my justice was found out before him: and unto thee, O king, I have done no hurt.

23 Then was the king exceedingly glad for him, and commanded that they should take Daniel out of the den: so Daniel was brought out of the den, and no manner of hurt was found upon him, because he believed in his God.

24 And by the commandment of the king, these men which had accused Daniel, were brought, and were cast into the den of lions, even they, their children, and their wives: and the lions had the mastery of them, and brake all their bones a-pieces or ever they came at the ground of the den.

25 ¶ Afterward king Darius wrote, Unto all people, nations and languages, that dwell in all the world: Peace be multiplied unto you.

26 I make a decree, that in all the dominion of my kingdom, men tremble and fear before the God of Daniel: for he is the living God, and remaineth for ever, and his kingdom shall not perish, and his dominion shall be everlasting:

27 He rescueth and delivereth, and he worketh signs and wonders in heaven and in earth, who hath delivered Daniel from the power of the lions.

28 So this Daniel prospered in the reign of Darius, and in the reign of Cyrus of Persia.

C H A P. VII.

1 A vision of four beasts is shewed unto Daniel. 8 The ten horns of the fourth beast. 27 Of the everlasting kingdom of Christ.

IN the first year of Belshazzar king of Babel, Daniel saw a dream, and there were visions in his head, upon his bed: then he wrote the dream, and declared the sum of the matter.

2 Daniel,

cause he did defend, he was assured, that nothing but good could come unto him: wherein we see the power of faith, as Heb. 11. 33.

^a This is a terrible example against all the wicked, which do against their conscience make cruel laws to destroy the children of God, and also admonisheth princes how to punish such, when their wickedness is come to light: though not in every point, or with such-like circumstances, yet to execute true justice upon them.

^o This proveth not that Darius did worship God aright, or else was converted: for then he would have destroyed all superstition and idolatry, and not only given God the chief place, but also have set him up, and caused him to be honoured according to his word: but this was a certain confession of God's power, whereunto he was compelled by this wonderful miracle.

^p Which hath not only life in himself, but is the only fountain of life, and quickeneth all things, so that without him there is no life.

^q Whereas the people of Israel looked for a continual quietness after these seventy years, as Jeremiah had declared, he sheweth that this rest shall not be a deliverance from all troubles, but a beginning, and therefore encourageth them

Bef. Chr. 2 Daniel spake and said, I saw in my vision 555 by night, and behold, the four winds of heaven strove upon the great sea:

3 And four great beasts came up from the sea, one diverse from another.

4 The first was as a lion, and had eagles wings: I beheld, till the wings thereof were pluckt off, and it was lifted up from the earth, and set upon his feet as a man, and a man's heart was given him.

5 And behold, another beast which was the second, was like a bear, and stood upon the one side: and he had three ribs in his mouth between his teeth, and they said thus unto him, Arise, and devour much flesh.

6 After this, I beheld, and lo, there was another like a leopard, which had upon his back four wings of a fowl: the beast had also four heads, and dominion was given him.

7 After this, I saw in the visions by night, and behold, the fourth beast was fearful and terrible, and very strong. It had great iron teeth: it devoured and brake in pieces and stamped the residue under his feet: and it was unlike to the beasts that were before it: for it had ten horns.

8 As I considered the horns, behold, there came up among them another little horn, before whom there were three of the first horns pluckt away: and behold, in this horn were eyes like the eyes of a man, and a mouth speaking presumptuous things.

them to look for a continual affliction, till the Messiah be uttered and revealed, by whom they should have a spiritual deliverance, and all the promises fulfilled: whereof they should have a certain token in the destruction of the Babylonical kingdom.

^r Which signified that there should be horrible troubles and afflictions in all the corners of the world, and at sundry times.

^s Meaning, the Assyrian and Chaldean empire, which was most strong and fierce in power, and must soon come to their authority, as though they had wings to fly, yet their wings were pulled by the Persians, and they went on their feet, and were made like other men, which is here meant by man's heart.

^t Meaning, the Persians, which were barbarous and cruel.

^u They were small in the beginning, and were shut up in the mountains, and had no bruit.

^w That is, destroyed many kingdoms, and was insatiable.

^x To wit, the angels by God's commandment, who by this means punished the ingratitude of the world.

^y Meaning, Alexander king of Macedonia.

^z That is, his four chief captains, which had the empire among them after his death. Seleucus had Asia the great, Antigonus the less, Cassander, and after him Antipater, was king of Macedonia, and Ptolomæus had Egypt.

^a It was not of himself, nor of his own power, that he got all these countries: for his armies contained but thirty thousand men, and he overcame in one battle Darius, which had ten hundred thousand, when he was so heavy with sleep that his eyes were scarce open, as the stories report: therefore this power was given him of God.

^b That is, the Roman empire, which was as a monster, and could not be compared to any beast, because the nature of none was able to express it.

^c Signifying, the tyranny and greediness of the Romans.

^d That which the Romans could not quietly enjoy in other countries, they would give it to other kings and rulers, that at all times when they would they might take it again: which liberality is here called, the stamping of the rest under the feet.

^e That is, sundry and divers provinces which were governed by the deputies and proconsuls, whereof every one may be compared to a king:

^f Which is meant of Julius Cæsar, Augustus, Tiberius, Caligula, Claudius and Nero, &c. who were as kings in effect, but because they could not rule but by the consent of the senate, their power is compared to a little horn. For Mahomet came not of the Roman empire; and the pope hath no vocation of government: therefore this cannot be applied

9 I beheld, till the thrones were set up, and the Ancient of days did sit, whose garment was white as snow, and the hair of his head like the pure wool: his throne was like the fiery flame, and his wheels as burning fire.

10 A fiery stream issued and came forth from before him: thousand thousands ministered unto him, and ten thousand thousands stood before him: the judgment was set, and the books opened.

11 Then I beheld, because of the voice of the presumptuous words, which the horn spake: I beheld, even till the beast was slain, and his body destroyed, and given to the burning fire.

12 As concerning the other beasts, they had taken away their dominion: yet their lives were prolonged for a certain time and season.

13 ¶ As I beheld in visions by night, behold, one like the Son of man came in the clouds of heaven, and approached unto the Ancient of days, and they brought him before him.

14 And he gave him dominion and honour, and a kingdom, that all people, nations, and languages should serve him: his dominion is an everlasting dominion, which never shall be taken away: and his kingdom shall never be destroyed.

15 ¶ I Daniel was troubled in my spirit, in the midst of my body, and the visions of mine head made me afraid.

16 Therefore I came unto one of them that stood by, and asked him the truth of all this:

this:

unto them: and also in this prophecy the prophet's purpose is chiefly to comfort the Jews unto the revelation of Christ. Some take it for the whole body of Antichrist.

^s Meaning, a certain portion of the ten horns: that is, a part from the whole estate was pluckt away. For Augustus took from the senate the liberty of chusing the deputies to send into the provinces, and took the government of certain countries to himself.

^b These Roman emperors at the first used a certain humanity and gentleness, and were content that others, as the consuls and senates, should bear the name of dignity, so that they might have the profit, and therefore in elections and counsels would behave themselves according as did other senators: yet against their enemies, and those that would resist them, they were fierce and cruel, which is here meant by the proud mouth.

ⁱ Meaning, the places where God and his angels should come to judge these monarchies; which judgment should begin at the first coming of Christ.

^k That is, God, which was before all times, and is here described as man's nature is able to comprehend some portion of his glory.

^l That is, an infinite number of angels, which were ready to execute his commandment.

^m This is meant of the first coming of Christ, when as the will of God was plainly revealed by his gospel.

ⁿ Meaning, that he was astonished; when he saw these emperors in such dignity and pride, and so suddenly destroyed at the coming of Christ, when this fourth monarchy was subject to men of other nations.

^o As the three former monarchies had an end at the time that God appointed, although they flourished for a time, so shall this fourth have, and they that patiently abide God's appointment, shall enjoy the promises.

^p Which is meant of Christ, who had not yet taken upon him man's nature, neither was the son of David according to the flesh, as he was afterward: but appeared then in a figure, and that in the clouds: that is, being separate from the common sort of men by manifest signs of his divinity.

^q To wit, when he ascended into the heavens, and his divine majesty appeared, and all power was given unto him in respect of that, that he was our Mediator.

^r This is meant of the beginning of Christ's kingdom, when God the Father gave unto him all dominion, as to the Mediator, to the intent that he should govern here his church in earth continually, till the time that he brought them to eternal life.

^s Through the strangeness of the vision.

^t Meaning, of the angel, as ver. 10.

555. Ref. Chr. this: so he told me, and shewed me the interpretation of these things.

17 These great beasts which are four, are four kings which shall arise out of the earth, 18 And they shall take the ^a kingdom of the saints of the ^b Most High, which shall possess the kingdom for ever, even for ever and ever.

19 ¶ After this I would know the truth of the fourth beast, which was so ^c unlike to all the others, very fearful, whose teeth were of iron, and his nails of brass: which devoured, brake in pieces, and stamped the ^d residue under his feet.

20 Also to know of the ten horns that were in his head, and of the other which came up, before whom three fell, and of the horn that had eyes, and of the mouth that spake presumptuous things, whose ^e look was more stout than his fellows.

21 I beheld, and the same ^f horn made battle against the saints, yea, and prevailed against them, 22 Until ^g the Ancient of days came, and judgment was given to the saints of the Most High: and the time approached that the saints possessed the kingdom.

23 Then he said, The fourth beast shall be the fourth kingdom in the earth, which shall be unlike to all the kingdoms, and shall devour the whole earth, and shall tread it down and break it in pieces.

24 And the ten horns out of this kingdom are ten kings that shall rise: and another shall rise after them, and he shall be unlike to the first, and he shall subdue ^h three kings,

25 And shall speak words against ⁱ the Most High, and shall consume the saints of the Most High, and think that he may ^j change times and laws, and they shall be given into his hand, until a ^k time and times, and the dividing of time.

26 But the ^l judgment shall sit, and they that take away his dominion to consume and destroy it unto the end. Ref. Chr. 555.

27 And the ^m kingdom, and dominion, and the greatness of the kingdom under the whole heaven, shall be given to the holy people of the Most High, whose kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and all ⁿ powers shall serve and obey him.

28 Even this is the end of the matter, I Daniel had many ^o cogitations which troubled me, and my countenance changed in me: but I kept the matter in mine heart.

C H A P. VIII.

*A vision of a battle between a ram and a goat. 20
The understanding of the vision.*

IN the third year of the reign of king Belshazzar, a vision appeared unto me, even unto me Daniel, ¹ after that which appeared unto me at the first.

2 And I saw in a vision, and when I saw it, I was in the palace of Shushan, which is in the province ^a of Elam, and in a vision methought I was by the river of Ulai.

3 Then I looked up and saw, and behold, there stood before the river a ^b ram, which had two horns: and these two horns were high: but one was ^c higher than another, and the highest came up last.

4 And I saw the ram pushing against the West, and against the North, and against the South: so that no ^d beasts might stand before him, nor could deliver out of his hand, but he did what he listed, and became great.

5 And as I considered, behold, ^e a goat came from the West over the whole earth, and touched not the ground: and this goat had an ^f horn that appeared between his eyes.

6 And he came unto the ram that had the two horns, whom I had seen standing by the river, and ran unto him in his fierce rage.

7 And

^a Because Abraham was appointed heir of all the world, Rom. 4. 13. and in him all the faithful, therefore the kingdom thereof is theirs by right, which these four beasts or tyrants should invade and usurp until the world were restored by Christ: and this was to confirm them that were in troubles, that their afflictions should have an end at length.

^b That is, of the most high things, because God hath chosen them out of this world, that they should look up to the heavens, whereon all their hope dependeth.

^c For the other three monarchies were governed by a king, and the Roman empire by consuls: the Romans changed their governors yearly, and the other monarchies retained them for term of life: also the Romans were the strongest of all the other, and were never quiet among themselves.

^d Read ver 7.

^e This is meant of the fourth beast, which was more terrible than the other.

^f Meaning, the Roman emperors, who were most cruel against the church of God, both of the Jews and of the Gentiles.

^g Till God shewed his power in the person of Christ, and by the preaching of the gospel gave unto his some rest, and so obtained a famous name in the world, and were called the church of God, or the kingdom of God.

^h Read the exposition hereof, ver. 8.

ⁱ That is, shall make wicked decrees and proclamations against God's word, and send throughout all their dominion, to destroy all that did profess it.

^j These emperors shall not consider that they have their power of God, but think it is in their own power to change God's laws and man's, and as it were the order of nature, as appeareth by Octavius, Tiberius, Caligula, Nero, Domitianus, &c.

^k God shall suffer them thus to rage against his saints for a long time, which is meant by the time and times, but at length he will assuage these troubles, and shorten the times for his elect's sake, Matt. 24. 22. which is here meant by the dividing of time.

^l God by his power shall restore things that were out of order, and so destroy this little horn, that it shall never rise up again.

^m He sheweth wherefore the beast should be destroyed, to wit, that his church might have rest and quietness, which though they do not fully enjoy here, yet they have it in hope, and by the preaching of the gospel enjoy the beginning thereof, which is meant, by these words, 'under the heaven:' and therefore he here speaketh of the beginning of Christ's kingdom in this world, which kingdom the faithful have by the participation that they have with Christ their head.

ⁿ That is, some of every sort that bear rule.

^o Tho' he had many motions in his heart, which moved him to and fro to seek out this matter curiously: yet he was content with that which God revealed, and kept it in memory, and wrote it for the use of the church.

¹ After the general vision he cometh to certain particular visions: as touching the destruction of the monarchy of the Persians and Macedonians: for the ruin of the Babylonians was at hand, and also he had sufficiently spoken thereof.

^a That is, of Persia.

^b Which representeth the kingdom of the Persians and Medes, which were joined together.

^c Meaning, Cyrus, which after grew greater in power than Darius his uncle and father-in-law.

^d That is, no kings or nations.

^e Meaning, Alexander that came from Greece, with great speed and expedition.

^f Though he came in the name of all Greece, yet he bare the title and dignity of the general captain, so that the strength was attributed to him which is meant by this horn.

553. Bef. Chr. 7 And I saw him come unto the ram, and being moved against him, he smote the ram, and brake his two horns: and there was no power in the ram to stand against him, but he cast him down to the ground, and stamped upon him, and there was none that could deliver the ram out of his power.

8 Therefore the goat waxed exceeding great, and when he was at the strongest, his great horn was broken: and for it came up four that appeared toward the four winds of the heaven.

9 And out of one of them came forth a little horn, which waxed very great toward the South, and toward the East, and toward the pleasant land.

10 Yea, it grew up unto the host of heaven, and it cast down some of the host, and of the stars to the ground, and trod upon them,

11 And extolled himself against the Prince of the host, from whom the daily sacrifice was taken away, and the place of his sanctuary was cast down.

12 And a time shall be given him over the daily sacrifice for the iniquity: and it shall cast down the truth to the ground, and thus shall it do, and prosper.

13 Then I heard one of the saints speaking, and one of the saints spake unto a certain one, saying, How long shall I endure the vision of the daily sacrifice, and the iniquity of the desolation to tread both the sanctuary and the army under foot?

14 And he answered me, Unto the evening and the morning, two thousand and three hundred: then shall the sanctuary be cleansed.

15 ¶ Now when I Daniel had seen the vision, and sought for the meaning, behold, there stood before me like the similitude of a man.

16 And I heard a man's voice between the banks of Ulai, which called, and said, Gabriel, make this man to understand the vision.

17 So he came where I stood: and when he came, I was afraid, and fell upon my face: but he said unto me, Understand, O son of man: Bef. Chr. 553. for in the last time shall be the vision.

18 Now as he was speaking unto me, I being asleep, fell on my face to the ground: but he touched me, and set me up in my place.

19 And he said, Behold, I will shew thee what shall be in the last wrath: for in the end of the time appointed it shall come.

20 The ram which thou sawest having two horns, are the kings of the Medes and Persians.

21 And the goat is the king of Greece, and the great horn that is between his eyes is the first king.

22 And that that is broken, and four stood up for it, are four kingdoms, which shall stand up of that nation, but not in his strength.

23 And in the end of their kingdom, when the rebellious shall be consumed, a king of fierce countenance, and understanding dark sentences, shall stand up:

24 And his power shall be mighty, but not in his strength: and he shall destroy wonderfully, and shall prosper, and practise, and shall destroy the mighty, and the holy people.

25 And through his policy also, he shall cause craft to prosper in his hand, and he shall extol himself in his heart, and by peace shall destroy many: he shall also stand up against the Prince of princes, but he shall be broken down without hand.

26 And the vision of the evening and the morning, which is declared, is true: therefore seal thou up the vision, for it shall be after many days.

27 And I Daniel was stricken and sick certain days: but when I rose up, I did the king's business, and I was astonished at the vision, but none understood it.

C H A P. IX.

4 Daniel desireth to have that performed of God, which he had promised concerning the return of the

^a Alexander overcame Darius in two sundry battles, and so had the two kingdoms of the Medes and Persians.

^b Alexander's great power was broken, for when he had overcome all the East, he thought to return toward Grecia to subdue them that there had rebelled, and so died by the way.

^c That is, which were famous: for almost in the space of fifteen years, there were fifteen divers successors before this monarchy was divided to these four, whereof Cassander had Macedonia, Seleucus Syria, Antigonus Asia the less, and Ptolomæus Egypt.

^d Which was Antiochus Epiphanes, who was of a servile and flattering nature, and also there were other between him and the kingdom, and therefore is here called the little horn, because neither princely conditions, nor any other thing was in him, why he should obtain this kingdom.

^e That is, toward Egypt.

^f Whereby he meaneth Ptolemais.

^g That is, Judea.

^h Antiochus raged against the elect of God, and trod his precious stars under feet, which are so called, because they are separated from the world.

ⁱ That is, God, who governeth and maintaineth his church.

^k He laboured to abolish all religion, and therefore cast God's service out of his temple, which God had chosen as a little corner from all the rest of the world to have his name there truly called upon.

^l He sheweth that their sins are the cause of all these horrible afflictions: and yet comforteth them, in that he appointeth this tyrant a time, whom he would not suffer utterly to abolish his religion.

^m This horn shall abolish for a time the true doctrine, and so corrupt God's service.

ⁿ Meaning, that he heard one of the angels asking this question of Christ, whom he calleth a certain one, or a secret one, or a marvellous one.

^o That is, the Jews sins, which were the cause of this destruction.

^p That is, which suppresseth God's religion, and his people.

^q Christ answered me for the comfort of the church.

^r That is, until so many natural days be past, which make six years three months and an half, for so long under Antiochus was the temple profaned.

^s Which was Christ, who in this manner declared himself to the old fathers, how he would be God manifested in the flesh.

^t This power to command the angel, declared that he was God.

^u The effect of this vision shall not yet appear, but a long time after.

^v Meaning that great rage which Antiochus should shew against the church.

^w That is, out of Greece.

^x They shall not have like power as had Alexander.

^y Noting, that this king Antiochus was impudent and cruel, and also crafty, that he could not be deceived.

^z That is, not like Alexander's strength.

^{aa} Both the Gentiles that dwell about him, and also the Jews.

^{ab} Whatsoever he goeth about by his craft, he shall bring it to pass.

^{ac} That is, under pretence of peace: or as it were in sport.

the people from their banishment in Babylon. 5 A true confession. 20 Daniel's prayer is heard. 21 Gabriel the angel expoundeth unto him the vision of the seventy weeks. 24 The anointing of Christ. 25 The building again of Jerusalem. 26 The death of Christ.

judged us, by bringing upon us a great plague: for under the whole heaven hath not been the like, as hath been brought upon Jerusalem.

13 All this plague is come upon us, as it is written in the law of Moses: yet made we not our prayer before the Lord our God, that we might turn from our iniquities, and understand thy truth.

14 Therefore hath the Lord † made ready the plague, and brought it upon us: for the Lord our God is righteous in all his works which he doth: for we would not hear his voice.

15 * And now, O Lord our God, that hast brought thy people out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand, and hast gotten thee renown, as appeareth this day, we have sinned, we have done wickedly.

16 O Lord, according to all thy^m righteousness, I beseech thee, let thine anger and thy wrath be turned away from the city Jerusalem thine holy mountain: for because of our sins, and for the iniquities of our fathers, Jerusalem and thy people are a reproach to all that are about us.

17 Now therefore, O our God, hear the prayer of thy servant, and his supplications, and cause thy face to^a shine upon thy sanctuary that lieth waste, for the^o Lord's sake.

18 O my God, incline thine ear and hear: open thine eyes and behold our desolations, and the city whereupon thy name is called: for we do not present our supplications before thee for our^p own righteousness, but for thy great tender mercies.

19 O Lord, hear, O Lord, forgive, O Lord,^q consider, and do it: defer not, for thine own sake, O my God: for thy name is called upon thy city, and upon thy people.

20 ¶ And whiles I was speaking and praying, and confessing my sin, and the sin of my people Israel, and did present my supplication before the Lord my God, for the holy mountain of my God, 21 Yea, while I was speaking in prayer, even the man * Gabriel, whom I had seen before in the vision, came flying, and touched me about the time of the evening oblation.

22 And he informed me, and talked with me, and said, O Daniel, I am now come forth to give thee knowledge and understanding.

23 At the beginning of thy supplications the commandment came forth, and I am come to shew thee, for thou art greatly beloved: therefore understand the matter and consider the vision.

24 Seventy

IN the first year of Darius the son of^b Ahasuerus, of the seed of the Medes, which was made king over the^c realm of the Chaldeans,

2 Even in the first year of his reign, I Daniel understood by^e books, the number of the years, whereof the Lord had spoken unto Jeremiah the prophet, that he would accomplish seventy years in the desolation of Jerusalem.

3 And I turned my face unto the Lord God, and^f fought by prayer and supplications, with fasting and sackcloth and ashes,

4 And I prayed unto the Lord my God, and made my confession, saying, O Lord God, which art^g great and fearful, and keepest covenant and mercy toward them which love[†] thee, and toward them that keep thy commandments,

5 We have sinned, and have committed iniquity, and have done wickedly, yea, we have rebelled, and have departed from thy precepts, and from thy judgments:

6 For we would not obey thy servants the prophets, which spake in thy name to our kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, and to all the people of the land.

7 O Lord, ^h righteousness belongeth unto thee, and unto us † open shame, as appeareth this day, to every man of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem: yea, unto all Israel, both near and far off, through all the countries whither thou hast driven them, because of their offences that they have committed against thee.

8 O Lord, unto us appertaineth open shame, to our^k kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, because we have sinned against thee.

9 Thy compassion and forgiveness is in the Lord our God, albeit we have rebelled against him:

10 For we have not obeyed the^l voice of the Lord our God, to walk in his laws, which he had laid before us by the ministry of his servants the prophets.

11 Yea, all Israel have transgressed thy law, and are turned back, and have not heard thy voice: therefore the¹ curse is poured upon us, and the oath that is written in the law of Moses the servant of God, because we have sinned against him.

12 And he hath confirmed his words, which he spake against us, and against our judges that

^b Who was also called Astyages.

^c For Cyrus, led with ambition, went about wars in other countries, and therefore Darius had the title of the kingdom, though Cyrus was king in effect.

^e For though he was an excellent prophet, yet he daily increased in knowledge by reading of the scriptures.

^f He speaketh not of that ordinary prayer, which he used in his house thrice a day, but of a rare and vehement prayer, lest their sins should cause God to delay the time of their deliverance prophesied by Jeremiah.

^g That is, hast all power in thyself to execute thy terrible judgments against obstinate sinners, as thou art rich in mercy to comfort them which obey thy word, and love thee.

^h He sheweth that whensoever God punisheth, he doth it for just cause: and thus the godly never accuse him of rigour as the wicked do, but acknowledge that in themselves there is just cause why he should so intreat them.

^k He doth not excuse the kings because of their autho-riety, but prayeth chiefly for them as the chief occasions of these great plagues.

^l He sheweth that they rebel against God, which serve him not according to his commandment and word.

¹ As Deut. 27. 15. or the curse confirmed by an oath.

^m That is, according, to all thy merciful promises and the performance thereof.

ⁿ Shew thyself favourable.

^o That is, for thy Christ's sake, in whom thou wilt accept all our prayers.

^p Declaring, that the godly flee only unto God's mercies, and renounce their own works, when they seek for remission of their sins.

^q Thus he could not content himself with any vehemency of words: for he was so led with a fervent zeal, considering God's promise made to the city, in respect of his church, and for the advancement of God's glory.

538. ^{Bef. Chr.} 24 Seventy ^a weeks are determined upon ^r thy people, and upon thy holy city, to finish the wickedness, and to seal up the ^s sins, and to reconcile the iniquity, and to bring in everlasting righteousness, and to seal up the vision and prophecy, and to anoint the most Holy.

25 Know therefore and understand, that from ^t the going forth of the commandment to bring again the people, and to build Jerusalem, unto Messiah the prince, shall be seven ^u weeks and ^v threescore and two weeks, and the street shall be built again, and the wall, even in a [†] troublesome time.

† Heb. in streets of Jerusalem.

26 And after threescore and ^{*} two weeks, shall Messiah be slain, and shall ^v have nothing, and the people of ^z the prince that shall come shall destroy the city and the sanctuary, and the end thereof shall be with a flood: and unto the end of the battle it shall be destroyed by desolations.

27 And he ^a shall confirm the covenant with many for one week: and in the midst of the week he shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to ^b cease, ^c and for the overspreading of the abominations, he shall make it desolate, even until the consummation determined shall be poured upon the desolate.

C H A P. X.

There appeareth unto Daniel a man clothed in linen:

11 Which sheweth him wherefore he is sent.

IN the ^d third year of Cyrus king of Persia, a thing was revealed unto Daniel (whose name was called Belteshazzar) and the word was true, but the time appointed was ^e long, and he understood the thing, and had understanding of the vision.

2 At the same time I Daniel was in heaviness for three weeks of days.

3 I ate no pleasant bread, neither came flesh nor wine in my mouth, neither did I anoint myself at all, till three weeks of days were fulfilled.

4 Then in the four and twentieth day of the ^f first month, as I ^g was by the side of that great river, even Hiddekel,

5 And I lift up mine eyes, and looked, and ^{Bef. Chr.} behold, there was a man ^b clothed in linen, whose ⁵³⁴ loins were girded with fine gold of ^{} Uphaz: ^{ Jer. 10. 9.}

6 His body also was like the chrysolite, and his face (to look upon) like the lightning, and his eyes as lamps of fire, and his arms and his feet were like in colour to polished brass, and the voice of his words was like the voice of a multitude.

7 And I Daniel alone saw the vision: for the men that were with me saw not the vision: but a great fear fell upon them, so that they fled away and hid themselves.

8 Therefore I was left alone, and saw this great vision, and there remained no strength in me: for [†] my strength was turned in me into corruption, and I retained no power.

9 Yet heard I the voice of his words: and when I heard the voice of his words, I slept on my face: and my face was toward the ground.

10 And behold, an ^k hand touched me, which set me upon my knees, and upon the palms of mine hands.

11 And he said unto me, O Daniel, a man greatly beloved, understand the words that I speak unto thee, and stand in thy place: for unto thee am I now sent. And when he had said this word unto me, I stood trembling.

12 Then said he unto me, Fear not, Daniel: for from the first day that thou didst set thine heart to understand, and to humble thyself before thy God, thy words were heard, and I am come for thy words.

13 But the [†] prince of the kingdom of Persia withstood me one and twenty days: but lo, ^m Michael one of the chief princes, came to help me, and I remained there by the kings of Persia.

14 Now I am come to shew thee what shall come to thy people in the latter days: for yet the ⁿ vision is for many days.

15 And when he spake these words unto me, I set my face toward the ground, and held my tongue.

16 And behold, ^o one like the similitude of the sons of man touched my lips: then I opened

^a He alludeth to Jeremiah's prophecy, who prophesied that their captivity should be seventy years: but now God's mercy should sevenfold exceed his judgment, which should be four hundred and ninety years, even to the coming of Christ, and so then it should continue for ever.

^r Meaning Daniel's nation, over whom he was careful.

^s To shew mercy, and to put sin out of remembrance.

^t That is, from the time that Cyrus gave them leave to depart.

^u These weeks make forty-nine years, whereof 46 are referred to the time of the building of the temple, and three to the laying of the foundation.

^v Counting from the sixth year of Darius, who gave the second commandment for the building of the temple, are sixty-two weeks, which make four hundred and thirty-nine years, which comprehend the time from this building of the temple, unto the baptism of Christ.

^w In this last week of the seventy shall Christ come and preach, and suffer death.

^x He shall seem to have no beauty, nor to be of any estimation, as Isa. 53. 2.

^z Meaning Titus, Vespasian's son, who should come and destroy both the temple and the people, without all hope of recovery.

^a By the preaching of the gospel he confirmed his promise, first to the Jews, and after to the Gentiles.

^b Christ accomplished this by his death and resurrection.

^c Meaning, that Jerusalem and the sanctuary should be utterly destroyed for their rebellion against God, and their idolatry: or as some read, that the plagues shall be so great, that they shall all be astonished at them.

^d He noteth this third year, because at this time the building of the temple began to be hindered by Cambyfes, Cyrus's son, when the father made war in Asia minor against the Scythians, which was a discouraging to the godly, and a great fear to Daniel.

^e Which is to declare that the godly should not hasten too much, but patiently abide the issue of God's promise.

^f Called Abib, which containeth part of March and part of April.

^g Being carried by the spirit of prophecy to have the sight of this river Tygris.

^h This was the angel of God, which was sent to assure Daniel in this prophecy that followeth.

ⁱ The word also signifieth, comeliness or beauty, so that for fear he was like a dead man for deformity.

^k Which declareth, that when we are stricken down with the majesty of God, we cannot rise, except he also lift us up with his hand, which is his power.

[†] Meaning, Cambyfes, who reigned in his father's absence, and did not only for this space hinder the building of the temple, but would have further raged, if God had not sent me to resist him, and therefore have I staid for the profit of the church.

^m Though God could by one angel destroy all the world, yet to assure his children of his love, he sendeth forth double power, even Michael, that is, Christ Jesus, the head of angels.

ⁿ For though the prophet Daniel should end and cease, yet his doctrine should continue till the coming of Christ, for the comfort of his church.

^o This was the same angel that spake with him before in the similitude of a man.

534 Bes. Chr. my mouth and spake, and said unto him that stood before me, O my lord, ² by the vision my sorrows are returned upon me, and I have retained no strength.

17 For how can the servant of this my lord talk with my lord, being such one? for as for me, straightway there remained no strength in me, neither is there breath left in me.

18 Then there came again and touched me, one like the appearance of a man, and he strengthened me, 19 And said, O man, greatly beloved, fear not: ⁵ peace be unto thee: be strong and of good courage. And when he had spoken unto me, I ¹ was strengthened, and said, Let my Lord speak, for thou hast strengthened me.

20 Then said he, Knowest thou wherefore I am come unto thee? but now will I return to fight with the prince of Persia: and when I am gone forth, lo, the ² prince of Grecia shall come.

21 But I will shew thee that which is decreed in the scripture of truth: ¹ and there is none that holdeth with me in these things, but Michael your prince.

CHAP. XI.

A prophecy of the kingdoms which should be enemies to the church of God, as of Persia, 3 of Grecia, 5 of Egypt, 28 of Syria, 36 and of the Romans.

ALSO I, in the first year of Darius of the Medes, even I ² stood to encourage and to strengthen him.

2 And now will I shew thee the truth, Behold, there shall stand up yet ² three kings in Persia, and the fourth shall be far richer than they all: and by his strength, and by his riches, he shall stir up ² all against the realm of Grecia.

3 But a ² mighty king shall stand up, that shall rule with great dominion, and do according to his pleasure.

² I was overcome with fear and sorrow, when I saw the vision.

⁵ He declareth hereby, that God would be merciful unto the people of Israel.

¹ Which declareth, that when God smiteth down his children, he doth not immediately lift them up at once, (for now the angel had touched him twice) but by little and little.

⁵ Meaning, that he would not only himself bridle the rage of Cambyses, but also the other kings of Persia, by Alexander the king of Macedonia.

¹ For this angel was appointed for the defence of the church under Christ, who is the head thereof.

² The angel assureth Daniel, that God hath given him power to perform these things, seeing he appointed him to assist Darius, when he overcame the Chaldeans.

² Whereof Cambyses that now reigned, was the first, the second Smerdis, the third Darius the son of Hystaspes, and the fourth Xerxes, which all were enemies to the people of God, and stood against them.

² For he raised up all the East countries to fight against the Grecians: and albeit he had in his army nine hundred thousand men, yet in four battles he was discomfited and fled away with shame.

² That is, Alexander the Great.

² For when his estate was most flourishing, he overcame himself with drink, and so fell into a disease, or, as some write, was poisoned by Cassander.

² For his twelve chief princes first divided his kingdom among themselves.

² After this his monarchy was divided into four: for Seleucus had Syria, Antigonus Asia minor, Cassander the kingdom of Macedonia, and Ptolomæus Egypt.

² Thus God revenged Alexander's ambition and cruelty, in causing his posterity to be murdered, partly of the father's chief friends, and partly one of another.

² Note of these four shall be able to be compared to the

4 And when he shall stand up, ² his kingdom shall be broken, ⁵ and shall be divided toward ⁶ the four winds of heaven, and not to his ⁴ posterity, nor according to his ⁶ dominion which he ruled: for his kingdom shall be pluckt up, even to be for others besides ¹ those.

5 And the ⁵ king of the South shall be mighty, and one of ² his princes, and shall prevail against him, and bear rule: his dominion shall be a great dominion.

6 And in the end of the years they shall be joined together: for the king's ¹ daughter of the South shall come to the king of the North to make an agreement, but she shall not retain the power of ² the arm, neither shall ¹ he continue, nor his ² arm: but she shall be delivered to death, and they that brought her, and he ² that begat her, and he that comforted her in these times.

7 But out of the bud of her ⁶ roots shall one stand up in his stead, ² which shall come with an army, and shall enter into the fortrefs of the king of the North, and do with them as he list, and shall prevail.

8 And shall also carry captives into Egypt, their gods with their molten images, and with their precious vessels of silver and of gold, and he shall continue ² more years than the king of the North.

9 So the king of the South shall come into his kingdom, and shall return into his own land.

10 Wherefore his ² sons shall be stirred up, and shall assemble a mighty great army: and one shall come, and overflow, and pass through: then shall he ¹ return, and be stirred up at his fortrefs.

11 And the king of the South shall be angry, and shall come forth, and fight with him, even with the king of the North: for he shall set forth a great ² multitude, and the multitude shall be given into his hand.

12 Then

power of Alexander.

⁵ To wit, Ptolomæus king of Egypt.

² That is, Antiochus, the son of Seleucus, and one of Alexander's princes, shall be more mighty: for he should have both Asia and Syria.

¹ That is, Berenice the daughter of Ptolomæus Philadelphus, shall be given in marriage to Antiochus Theos, thinking by this affinity, that Syria and Egypt should have a continual peace together.

² That force and strength shall not continue: for soon after Berenice and her young son, after her husband's death, was slain of her step-son Seleucus Calinicus, the son of Laodice, the lawful wife of Antiochus, but put away for this woman's sake.

² Some read, she that begat her, and thereby understand her nurse, which brought her up: so that all they that were the occasion of this marriage, were destroyed.

¹ For this Ptolomæus reigned six and forty years.

² Meaning, Seleucus, and Antiochus the Great, the sons of Calinicus, shall make war against Ptolomæus Philopater, the son of Philadelphus.

² For his elder brother Seleucus died, or was slain whilst the wars were preparing.

¹ That is, Philopater, when he shall see Antiochus to take great dominions from him in Syria, and also ready to invade Egypt.

² For Antiochus had six thousand horsemen, and three score thousand footmen.

Bef. Chr. 534. 12 Then the multitude shall be proud, and their heart shall be lifted up: for he shall cast down thousands: but he shall not still prevail.

13 For the king of the North ^v shall return, and shall set forth a greater multitude than afore, and shall come forth (after certain years) with a mighty army, and great riches.

14 And at the same time there shall ^x many stand up against the king of the South: also the rebellious children of thy ^y people shall exalt themselves to establish the vision, but they shall fall.

15 So the king of the North shall come, and cast up a mount; and take the strong city: and the arms of the South shall ^z not resist, neither his chosen people, neither shall there be any strength to withstand.

16 But he that shall come, shall do unto him as he list, and none shall stand against him: and he shall stand in the ^a pleasant land, which by his hand shall be consumed.

17 Again he shall ^b set his face to enter with the power of his whole kingdom, and his confederates with him: thus shall he do; and he shall give him the ^c daughter of women; to destroy ^d her: but ^e she shall not stand on his side, neither before him.

18 After this, shall he turn his face unto the ^f isles, and shall take many, but a prince ^g shall cause his shame to light upon him, besides that he shall cause his own shame to turn upon ^h himself.

19 For he shall turn his face towards the forts of ⁱ his own land: but he shall be overthrown and fall, and be no more ^k found.

20 ^l Then shall stand up in his place, in the glory of the kingdom, one that shall raise taxes: but after few days he shall be destroyed, neither in ^m wrath, nor in battle.

^x For not only Antiochus came against him, but also Philip king of Macedonia, and these two brought great power with them.

^y For under Onias, which falsely alledged that place of Isa. 19. 19. certain of the Jews retired with him into Egypt, to fulfil this prophecy: also the angel sheweth that all these troubles which are in the church, are by the providence and counsel of God.

^z The Egyptians were not able to resist Stopas, Antiochus's captain.

^a He sheweth that he shall not only afflict the Egyptians, but also the Jews, and shall enter into their country, whereof he admonished them before, that they may know that all these things come by God's providence.

^b This was the second battle that Antiochus fought against Ptolomæus Epiphanes.

^c To wit, a beautiful woman, which was Cleopatra, Antiochus's daughter.

^d For he regarded not the life of his daughter, in respect of the kingdom of Egypt.

^e She shall not agree to his wicked counsel, but shall love her husband as her duty requireth, and not seek his destruction.

^f That is, toward Asia, Greece, and those isles which are in the sea called Mediterranean: for the Jews called all countries Isles, which were divided from them by sea.

^g For whereas Antiochus was wont to contemn the Romans, and put their ambassadors to shame in all places, Attilius the consul, or Lucius Scipio, put him to flight, and caused his shame to turn on his own head.

^h By his wicked life, and obeying of foolish counsel.

ⁱ For fear of the Romans he shall flee to his holds.

^k For when as under the pretence of poverty he would have robbed the temple of Jupiter Dodonæus, the countrymen slew him.

^l That is, Seleucus shall succeed his father Antiochus.

^m Not by foreign enemies, or battle, but by treason.

ⁿ Which was Antiochus Epiphanes, who, as is thought,

21 And in his place shall stand up a ⁿ vile person, to whom they shall not give the honour of the kingdom: but he shall come in peaceably, and obtain the kingdom by flatteries.

22 And the ^o arms shall be overthrown with a flood before him, and shall be broken: and also the prince of the ^p covenant.

23 And after ^q the league made with him, he shall work deceitfully: for he shall come up, and overcome with a ^r small people.

24 He shall enter into the quiet and plentiful province, and he shall do that which his ^s fathers have not done, nor his fathers fathers: he shall divide among them the prey and the spoil, and the substance, yea, and he shall forecast his devices against the strong holds, even for a ^t time.

25 Also he shall stir up his power, and his courage against the king of the South, with a great army, and the king of the South shall be stirred up to battle with a very great and mighty army: but he shall not ^u stand: for they shall forecast and practise against him.

26 Yea, they that feed of the portion of ^v his meat, shall destroy him: and his army ^x shall overflow: and many shall fall, and be slain.

27 And both these kings hearts shall be to do ^y mischief, and they shall talk of deceit at one table, but it shall not avail: for ^z yet the end shall be at the time appointed.

28 Then shall he return into his land with great ^a substance: for his heart shall be against the holy covenant: so shall he do and return to his own land.

29 At the time appointed he shall return, and come toward the South: but the last shall not be as the first.

30 For the ships ^b of Chittim shall come against him:

was the occasion of Seleucus his brother's death, and was of a vile, cruel and flattering nature, and defrauded his brother's son of the kingdom, and usurped the kingdom without the consent of the people.

^o He sheweth that great foreign powers shall come to help the young son of Seleucus, against his uncle Antiochus, and yet shall be overthrown.

^p Meaning Ptolomæus Philometor, Philopater's son, who was this child's cousin german, and is here called the prince of the covenant, because he was the chief, and all others followed his conduct.

^q For after the battle, Philometor and his uncle Antiochus made a league.

^r For he came upon him unawares, and when he suspected his uncle Antiochus nothing.

^s Meaning, in Egypt.

^t He will content himself with the small holds for a time, but ever labour by craft to attain to the chiefest.

^u He shall be overcome with treason.

^v Signifying his princes, and the chief about him.

^x Declaring, that his soldiers shall burst out, and venture their lives to slay and be slain for the safeguard of their prince.

^y The uncle and the nephew shall take truce, and banquet together, yet in their hearts they shall imagine mischief one against another.

^z Signifying, that it standeth not in the counsel of men to bring things to pass, but in the providence of God, who ruleth the kings by a secret bridle, that they cannot do what they list themselves.

^a Which he shall take of the Jews in spoiling of Jerusalem and the temple, and this is told them before, to move them to patience, knowing that all things are done by God's providence.

^b That is, the Roman power shall come against him: for P. Popilius the ambassador appointed him to depart in the Romans name, to which thing he obeyed, although with grief, and to revenge his rage, he came against the people of God the second time.

him: therefore he shall be sorry and return, and 534- rest against the holy covenant: so shall he do, he shall even return^e and have intelligence with them that forsake the holy covenant.

31 And arms^e shall stand on his part, and they shall pollute the sanctuary^e of strength, and shall take away the daily sacrifice, and they shall set up the abominable desolation.

32 And such as wickedly^f break the covenant shall he cause to sin by flattery: but the people that do know their God, shall prevail and prosper.

33 And they that understand among^g the people, shall instruct many: yet they shall fall by sword, and by flame, by captivity and by spoil many days.

34 Now when they shall fall, they shall be holpen with a^h little help: but many shall cleave unto themⁱ feignedly.

35 And some of^j them of understanding shall fall to try them, and to purge, and to make them white, till the time be out: for there is a time appointed.

36 And the^k king shall do what him list: he shall exalt himself, and magnify himself against all that is God, and shall speak marvellous things against the God of gods, and shall prosper, till the wrath^l be accomplished: for the determination is made.

37 Neither shall he regard the^m God of his fathers, nor the desiresⁿ of women, nor care for any god: for he shall magnify himself above all.

38 But in his place shall he honour the^o god Mauzzim, and the god whom his fathers knew not shall he honour with^p gold and with silver, and with precious stones, and pleasant things.

39 Thus shall he do in^q the holds of Mauzzim with a strange god whom he shall acknowledge: he shall increase his glory, and shall cause them to rule over many, and shall divide the land for gain.

^e With the Jews which shall forsake the covenant of the Lord: for first he was called against the Jews by Jason the high priest, and this second time by Menelaus.

^f A great faction of the wicked Jews shall hold with An-tichus.

^g So called, because the power of God was nothing de-mitted, although this tyrant set up in the temple the image of Jupiter Olympius, and so began to corrupt the pure service of God.

^h Meaning, such as bare the name of Jews: but indeed were nothing less: for they sold their souls, and betrayed their brethren for gain.

ⁱ They that remain constant among the people shall teach others by their example, and edify many in the true religion.

^j Whereby he exhorteth the godly to constancy, although they should perish a thousand times, and though their mi-series endure never so long.

^k As God will not leave his church destitute, yet will he not deliver it all at once, but so help, as they may still seem to fight under the cross, as he did in the time of the Maccabees, whereof he here prophesieth.

^l That is, there shall be even of this small number, many hypocrites.

^m To wit, of them that fear God, and will lose their life for the defence of true religion, signifying also that the church must continually be tried and purged, and ought to look for one persecution after another: for God hath appointed the time, therefore we must obey.

ⁿ Because the angel's purpose is to shew the whole course of the persecutions of the Jews unto the coming of Christ, he now speaketh of the monarchy of the Romans, which he nameth by the name of a king, who were without all religion, and contemned the true God.

^o So long the tyrants shall prevail as God hath appointed to punish his people, but he sheweth it is but for a time.

^p The Romans shall observe no certain form of religion as other nations, but shall change their gods at their pleasure, yet contemn them, and prefer themselves to their gods.

40 And at the end of time shall the king of the the^r South push at him, and the king of the North shall come against him like a whirlwind with chariots and with horsemen, and with many ships, and he shall enter into the countries, and shall overflow and pass through.

41 He shall enter also into the^s pleasant land, and many countries shall be overflowed: but these shall escape out of his hand, even Edom and Moab, and the chief of the children of Ammon.

42 He shall stretch forth his hands also upon the countries, and the land of Egypt shall not escape.

43 But he shall have power over the treasures of gold and of silver, and over all the precious things of Egypt, and of the Lybians, and of the blackmoors where he shall pass.

44 But the tidings out of the East and the North shall^t trouble him: therefore he shall go forth^u with great wrath to destroy and root out many.

45 And he shall plant the tabernacles^v of his palace between the seas in the glorious and holy mountain, yet he shall come to his end, and none shall help him.

C H A P. XII.

1 Of the deliverance of the church by Christ.

AND at that^w time shall Michael stand up, the great prince, which standeth for the children of thy people, and there shall be a time of trouble, such as never was since there began to be a nation unto that same time: and at that time thy people shall be delivered, every one that shall be found written in the book.

2 And many^x of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to shame and perpetual contempt.

3 And

^p Signifying that they should be without all humanity: for the love of women is taken for singular or great love, as 2 Sam. 1. 26.

^q That is, the God of power and riches: they shall esteem their own power above all their gods, and worship it.

^r Under pretence of worshipping the gods, they shall enrich their city with the most precious jewels of all the world, because that hereby all men should have them in admiration for their power and riches.

^s Although in their hearts they had no religion, yet they did acknowledge the gods, and worshipped them in their temples, lest they should have been despised as atheists:
 but this was to encrease their fame and riches: and when they got any country, they so made others the rulers thereof, that the profit ever came to the Romans.

^t That is, both the Egyptians and Syrians shall at length fight against the Romans, but they shall be overcome.

^u The angel forewarneth the Jews that when they should see the Romans invade them, and that the wicked should escape their hands, that then they should not think but that all this was done by God's providence, forasmuch as he warned them of it so long before, and therefore he would still preserve them.

^v Hearing that Crassus was slain, and Antonius discom-fitted.

^w For Augustus overcame the Parthians, and recovered that which Antonius had lost.

^x The Romans after this reigned quietly throughout all countries, and from sea to sea, and in Judea: but at length for their cruelty God shall destroy them.

^y The angel here noteth two things: first, that the church shall be in great affliction and trouble at Christ's coming, and next, that God will send his angel to deliver it, whom here he calleth Michael, meaning Christ, which is published by the preaching of the gospel.

^z Meaning, all shall rise at the general resurrection, which thing he here nameth, because the faithful should have ever their respect to that: for in the earth there shall be no sure comfort.

534. ^{Bef. Chr.} 3 And they that be ^c wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament: and they that turn many to righteousness, shall shine as the stars for ever and ever.

4 But thou, O Daniel, ^e shut up the words, and seal the book ^f till the end of the time: many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased.

5 ¶ Then I Daniel looked, and behold, there stood other two, the one on this side of the brink of the ^g river, and the other on that side of the brink of the river.

6 And one said unto the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, When shall be the end of these wonders?

7 And I heard the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, when he held up his ^h right hand, and his left hand unto heaven, and sware by him that liveth for ever, that it shall tarry for a ⁱ time, two times and an half: and when he shall have accomplished ^k to scatter the power of the holy people, all these things shall be finished.

^c Who have kept the true fear of God, and his religion.
^d He chiefly meaneth the ministers of God's word, and next all the faithful which instruct the ignorant, and bring them to the true knowledge of God.

^e Though the most part despise this prophecy, yet keep thou it sure, and esteem it as a treasure.

^f Till the time that God hath appointed for the full revelation of these things: and then many shall run to and fro to search the knowledge of these mysteries, which things they obtain now by the light of the gospel.

^g Which was Tygris.

^h Which was as it were a double oath, and did the more confirm the thing.

ⁱ Meaning, a long time, a longer time, and at length a short time: signifying, that their troubles should have an end.

8 Then I heard it, but I understood it not: ^{Bef. Chr.} then said I, O my lord, what shall be the end ^{534.} of these things?

9 And he said, Go thy way, Daniel: for the words are closed up, and sealed, till the end of the time.

10 Many shall be purified, made white, and tried: but the wicked shall do wickedly, and none of the wicked shall have understanding: but the wise shall understand.

11 And from the time that the ^l daily sacrifice shall be taken away, and the abominable desolation set up, there ^m shall be a thousand two hundred and ninety days.

12 Blessed is he that waiteth and cometh to the thousand three hundred and ⁿ five and thirty days.

13 But go ^o thou thy way till the end be: for thou shalt rest, and stand up in thy lot at the end of the days.

^k When the church shall be scattered and diminished in such sort, as it shall seem to have no power.

^l From the time that Christ by his sacrifice shall take away the sacrifice and ceremonies of the law.

^m Signifying, that the time shall be long of Christ's second coming, and yet the children of God ought not to be discouraged, though it be deferred.

ⁿ In this number he addeth a month and an half to the former number, signifying, that it is not in man to appoint the time of Christ's coming, but that they are blessed that patiently abide his appearing.

^o The angel warneth the prophet patiently to abide till the time appointed come, signifying that he should depart this life and rise again with the elect, when God had sufficiently humbled and purged his church.

H O S E A

T H E A R G U M E N T.

After that the ten tribes had fallen away from God by the wicked and subtil counsel of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, and instead of his true service commanded by his word, worshipped him according to their own fancies and traditions of men, giving themselves to most vile idolatry and superstition, the Lord from time to time sent them prophets to call them to repentance: but they grew ever worse and worse, and still abused God's benefits. Therefore now when their prosperity was at the highest under Jeroboam the son of Joash, God sent Hosea and Amos to the Israelites (as he did at the same time Isaiah and Micah to them of Judah) to condemn them of their ingratitude: and whereas they thought themselves to be greatly in the favour of God, and to be his people, the prophet calleth them bastards and children born in adultery: and therefore sheweth them that God would take away their kingdom, and give them to the Assyrians to be led away captives. Thus Hosea faithfully executed his office for the space of seventy years, though they remained still in their vices and wickedness, and derided the prophets, and contemned God's judgments. And because they should neither be discouraged with threatenings only, nor yet flatter themselves by the sweetness of God's promises, he setteth before them the two principal parts of the law, which are the promise of salvation, and the doctrine of life: for the first part he directeth the faithful to Messiah, by whom only they should have true deliverance: and for the second, he useth threatenings and menaces to bring them from their wicked manners and vices, and this is the chief scope of all the prophets, either by God's promises to allure them to be godly, or else by threatenings of his judgments to fear them from vice: and albeit that the whole law contain these two points, yet the prophets moreover note peculiarly both the time of God's judgments and the manner.

C H A P. I.

- 1 The time wherein Hosea prophesied. 2 The idolatry of the people. 10 The calling of the Gentiles. 11 Christ is the head of all people.

THE word of the Lord that came unto Hosea the son of Beeri, in the days of ^a Uziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, ^b kings of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam the son of Joash king of Israel.

2 At the beginning the Lord spake by Hosea, and the Lord said unto Hosea, Go, take unto thee a wife ^c of fornications, and children of fornications: for the land hath committed great whoredom, departing from the Lord.

3 So he went, and took ^d Gomer, the daughter of Diblaim, which conceived and bare him a son.

4 And the Lord said unto him, Call his name ^e Jezreel: for yet a little, and I will visit the blood of Jezreel upon the ^f house of Jehu, and will cause to cease the kingdom of the house of Israel.

5 And at that ^g day will I also break the bow of Israel in the valley of Jezreel.

6 She conceived yet again, and bare a daughter, and God said unto him, Call her name ^h Lo-ruhamah: for I will no more have pity upon the house of Israel: but I will utterly ⁱ take them away.

7 Yet I will have mercy upon the house of Judah, and will ^k save them by the Lord their God, and will not save them by bow, nor by sword, nor by battle, by horses, nor by horsemen.

8 Now when she had weaned Lo-ruhamah, she conceived and bare a son.

9 Then said God, Call his name ^l Lo-ammi: for ye are not my people: therefore will I not be yours.

10 Yet the number of the ^m children of Israel shall be as the sand of the sea, which cannot be measured nor told: and in the place where it

^a Called also Azariah, who being a leper was deposed from his kingdom.

^b So that it may be gathered by the reign of these four kings, that he preached above sixty years.

^c That is, one that of long time hath accustomed to play the harlot: not that the prophet did this thing in effect, but he saw this in a vision, or else was commanded by God to set forth under this parable or figure the idolatry of the synagogue, and of the people her children.

^d Gomer signifieth a consumption or corruption, and Diblaim clusters of figs, declaring that they were all corrupt like rotten figs.

^e Meaning, that they should be no more called Israelites, of the which name they boasted, because Israel did prevail with God: but that they were as bastards, and therefore should be called Jezreelites, that is, scattered people, alluding to Jezreel, which was the chief city of the ten tribes under Ahab, where Jehu shed so much blood, 2 Kings 10. 8, 11.

^f I will be revenged upon Jehu for the blood that he shed in Izreel: for albeit God stirred him up to execute his judgments, yet he did them for his own ambition, and not for the glory of God, as the end declared: for he built up that idolatry which he had destroyed.

^g When the measure of their iniquity is full, and I shall take vengeance and destroy all their policy and force.

^h That is, not obtaining mercy, whereby he signifieth that God's favour was departed from them.

ⁱ For the Israelites never returned after that they were taken captives by the Assyrians.

^j For after their captivity he restored them miraculously by the means of Cyrus, Ezra 1. 1.

^k That is, not my people.

^l Because they thought that God could not have been true in his promise except he had preserved them, he declareth that though they were destroyed, yet the Israelites, was said unto them, Ye are not my people, it shall be said unto them, Ye are the sons of the living God. Bef. Chr. 785.

11 Then shall the children of Judah and the children of Israel be ^a gathered together, and appoint themselves one head, and they shall come up out of the land: for great is the ^b day of Jezreel.

C H A P. II.

- 1 The people is called to repentance. 5 He sheweth their idolatry, and threateneth them except they repent.

SAY unto your ^c brethren, Ammi, and to your sisters, Ruhamah,

2 Plead with your ^d mother: plead with her, for she is not my wife, neither am I her husband, but let her take away her fornications out of her sight, and her adulteries ^e from between her breasts,

3 ^f Lest I strip her naked, and set her as in the day that she was ^g born, and make her as a wilderness, and leave her like a dry land, and slay her for thirst.

4 And I will have no pity upon her children: for they be the ^h children of fornications.

5 For their mother hath played the harlot: she that conceived them, hath done shamefully: for she said, I will go after my ⁱ lovers that gave me my bread and my water, my wool and my flax, mine oil and my drink.

6 Therefore behold, I will ^j stop thy way with thorns, and make an hedge, that she shall not find her paths.

7 Though she follow after her lovers, yet shall she not come at them: though she seek them, yet shall she not find them: then shall she say, ^k I will go and return to my first husband: for at that time was I better than now.

8 Now she did not know that I gave her corn, ^l and wine, and oil, and multiplied her silver and gold, which they bestowed upon Baal.

9 There-

which are the sons of the promise, should be without number, which stand both of the Jews and the Gentiles, Rom. 9. 26.

^a To wit, after the captivity of Babylon, when the Jews were restored, but chiefly this is referred to the time of Christ, who should be the head both of the Jews and Gentiles.

^b The calamity and destruction of Jezreel shall be so great, that to restore them shall be as a miracle.

^c Seeing, that I have promised you deliverance, it remaineth that you encourage one another to embrace the same, considering that ye are my people, on whom I will have mercy.

^d God sheweth, that the fault was not in him, but in their synagogue, and their idolatries, that he forsook them, Isa. 50. 1.

^e Meaning, that their idolatry was so great, that they were not ashamed, but boasted of it, Ezek. 16. 25.

^f For though this people were as an harlot for their idolatries, yet he had left them with their apparel and dowry, and certain signs of his favour; but if they continued still, he would utterly destroy them.

^g When I brought her out of Egypt, Ezek. 16. 4. 39.

^h That is, bastards, and begotten in adultery.

ⁱ Meaning, the idols which they served, and by whom they thought they had wealth and abundance.

^j I will punish thee, that then thou mayest try whether thine idols can help thee, and bring thee unto such straightness, that thou shalt have no lust to play the wanton.

^k This he speaketh of the faithful which are truly converted, and also sheweth the use and profit of God's rods.

^l This declareth that idolaters defraud God of his honour, when they attribute his benefits to their idols.

Bel. Chr. 785.

9 Therefore will I return, and take away my corn in the time thereof, and my wine in the season thereof, and will recover my wool and my flax lent to cover her shame.

10 And now will I discover ^b her lewdness in the sight of her lovers, and no man shall deliver her out of mine hand.

11 I will also cause all her mirth to cease, her feast days, her new moons, and her sabbaths, and all her solemn feasts.

12 And I will destroy her vines and her fig-trees, whereof she hath said, These are my rewards that my lovers have given me: and I will make them as a forest, and the wild beasts shall eat them.

13 And I will visit upon her the days of ^c Baalim, wherein she burnt incense to them: and she decked herself with her ^d ear-rings and her jewels, and she followed her lovers, and forgot me, saith the Lord.

14 Therefore behold, I will ^e allure her, and bring her into the wilderness, and speak friendly unto her.

15 And I will give her her vineyards from thence, and the valley ^f of Achor for the door of hope, and she shall ^g sing there as in the days of her youth, and as in the day when she came up out of the land of Egypt.

16 And at that day, saith the Lord, thou shalt call me ^h Ishi, and shalt call me no more ⁱ Baali.

17 For I will take away the names of Baalim out of her mouth, and they shall be no more remembered by their ^k names.

18 And in that day will I make a covenant for them with the wild beasts, and with the fowls of the heaven, and with that that creepeth upon the earth: and I will break the bow and the sword and the battle out of the earth, and will make them to sleep safely.

19 And I will marry thee unto me for ever: yea, I will marry thee unto me in righteousness, and in judgment, and in mercy, and in compassion.

20 I will even marry thee unto me in ^m faithfulness, and thou shalt know the Lord.

21 And in that day I will hear, saith the Lord, I will even hear ⁿ the heavens, and they shall hear the earth.

22 And the earth shall hear the corn, and the wine, and the oil, and they shall hear Izrael.

^a Signifying, that God will take away his benefits when man by his ingratitude doth abuse them.
^b That is, all her service, ceremonies, and inventions, whereby she worshipped her idols.
^c I will punish her for her idolatry.
^d By shewing how harlots trim themselves to please others, he declareth how the superstitious idolaters set a great part of their religion in decking themselves on their holy days.
^e By my benefits in offering her grace and mercy, even in that place where she shall think herself destitute of all help and comfort.
^f Which was a plentiful valley, and wherein they had great comfort when they came out of the wilderness, as Josh. 7. 26. and is called the door of hope, because it was a departing from death, and an entry into life.
^g She shall then praise God, as she did when she was delivered out of Egypt.
^h That is, mine husband, knowing that I am joined to thee by an inviolable covenant.
ⁱ That is, my master: which name was applied to their idols.
^k No idolatry shall once come into their mouth, but they shall serve me purely according to my word.
^l Meaning, that he will so bless them, that all creatures shall favour them.
^m With a covenant that never shall be broken.

23 And will sow her unto me in the earth, and I will have mercy upon her that was not pitied: and I will say to them which were not my people, * Thou art my people: and they shall say, Thou art my God.

Ref. Chr. 785.
 * Rom. 9. 25. 1 Pet. 2. 10.

CHAP. III.

1 The Jews shall be cast off for their idolatry. 5 Afterward they shall return to the Lord.

THEN said the Lord to me, ^o Go yet, and love a woman (beloved of her husband, and was an harlot) according to the love of the Lord toward the children of Israel: yet they looked to other gods, and ^p loved the wine bottles.

2 So ^q I bought her to me for fifteen pieces of silver, and for an homer of barley, and an half bomer of barley.

3 And I said unto her, Thou shalt abide with me ^r many days: thou shalt not play the harlot, and thou shalt be to none other man, and I will be so unto thee.

4 For the children of Israel shall ^s remain many days without a king, and without a ^t prince, and without an offering, and without an image, and without an ephod, and without Teraphim.

5 Afterward shall the children of Israel convert, and seek the Lord their God, and ^u David their king, and shall fear the Lord, and his goodness in the latter days.

CHAP. IV.

A complaint against the people, and the priests of Israel.

HEAR the word of the Lord, ye children of Israel: for the Lord ^v hath a controversy with the inhabitants of the land, because there is no truth, nor mercy, nor knowledge of God in the land.

2 By swearing, and lying, and killing, and stealing, and whoring they break out, and ^w blood toucheth blood.

3 Therefore shall the land mourn, and every one that dwelleth therein shall be cut off, with the beasts of the field, and with the fowls of the heaven, and also the fishes of the sea shall be taken away.

4 Yet

^v Then shall the heaven desire rain for the earth, which shall bring forth for the use of man.
^w Herein the prophet representeth the person of God, which loved his church before he called her, and did not withdraw the same when she gave herself unto idols.
^x That is, gave themselves wholly to pleasures, and could not take up, as they that are given to drunkenness.
^y Yet I loved her, and paid a small portion for her, lest she perceiving the greatness of my love, should have abused me, and not been under duty: for fifteen pieces of silver were but half the price of a slave, Exod. 21. 32.
^z I will try thee a long time as in thy widowhood, whether thou wilt be mine or no.
^{aa} Meaning, not only all the time of their captivity, but also unto Christ.
^{ab} That is, they should neither have policy nor religion, and their idols also wherein they put their confidence, should be destroyed.
^{ac} This is meant of Christ's kingdom, which was promised unto David to be eternal, Psalm 72. 17.
^{ad} Because the people would not obey the admonitions of the prophet, he citeth them before the judgment-seat of God, against whom they chiefly offended, Isa. 7. 13. Zech. 12. 10. Micah 6. 1, 2.
^{ae} In every place appeareth a liberty to most heinous vices, so that one followeth on the neck of another.

Beh. Chr. 4 Yet let none rebuke nor reprove another:
732 for thy people are as they that rebuke the priest.

5 Therefore shalt thou fall in the day, and the prophet shall fall with thee in the night, and I will destroy thy mother.

6 My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge: because thou hast refused knowledge, I will also refuse thee that thou shalt be no priest to me: and seeing thou hast forgotten the law of thy God, I will also forget thy children.

7 As they were increased, so they sinned against me: therefore will I change their glory into shame.

8 They eat up the sins of my people, and lift up their minds in their iniquity.

9 And there shall be like people, like priest:
for I will visit their ways upon them, and reward them their deeds.

10 For they shall eat, and not have enough:
they shall commit adultery, and shall not increase, because they have left off to take heed to the Lord.

11 Whoredom, and wine, and new wine take away their heart.

12 My people ask counsel at their stocks, and their staff teacheth them: for the spirit of fornications hath caused them to err, and they have gone a whoring from under their God.

13 They sacrifice upon the tops of the mountains, and burn incense upon the hills under the oaks and the poplar-tree and the elm, because the shadow thereof is good: therefore your daughters shall be harlots, and your spouses shall be whores.

14 I will not visit your daughters when they are harlots, nor your spouses when they are whores: for they themselves are separated with harlots, and sacrifice with whores: therefore the people that doth not understand, shall fall.

15 Though thou, Israel, play the harlot, yet let not Judah sin: come not ye unto Gilgal, neither go ye up to Beth-aven, nor swear, The Lord liveth.

7 As though he would say, that it were in vain to rebuke them: for no man can abide it: yea, they will speak against the prophets and priests, whose office it is chiefly to rebuke them.

8 Ye shall perish all together: the one because he would not obey, and the other, because he would not admonish.

9 That is, the synagogue, wherein thou boastest.

10 That is, the priests shall be cast off, because that for lack of knowledge they are not able to execute their charge, and instruct others, Deut. 33. 3. Mal. 2. 7.

11 Meaning, the whole body of the people, which were weary with hearing the word of God.

12 The more I was beneficial unto them.

13 To wit, the priests seek to eat the people's offerings, and flatter them in their sins.

14 Signifying, that as they have sinned together, so shall they be punished together.

15 Shewing, that their wickedness shall be punished on all sorts: for though they think by the multitude of wives to have many children, yet they shall be deceived of their hope.

16 In giving themselves to pleasures, they become like brute beasts.

17 Thus he speaketh by derision in calling them his people, which now for their sins they were not: for they sought help of stocks and sticks.

18 They are carried away with a rage.

19 Because they take away God's honour and give it to idols, therefore he will give them up to their lusts, that they shall dishonour their own bodies, Rom. 1. 28.

20 I will not correct your shame to bring you to amendment, but let you run headlong to your own damnation.

16 For Israel is rebellious as an unruly heifer. Beh. Chr.
Now the Lord will feed them as a lamb in a large place. 780.

17 Ephraim is joined to idols: let him alone.

18 Their drunkenness stinketh: they have committed whoredom: their rulers love to say with shame, Bring ye.

19 The wind hath bound them up in her wings, and they shall be ashamed of their sacrifices.

C H A P. V.

1 Against the priests and rulers of Israel. 13 The help of man is in vain.

O Ye priests, hear this, and hearken ye, O house of Israel, and give ye ear, O house of the king: for judgment is toward you, because ye have been a snare on Mizpah, and a net spread upon Tabor.

2 Yet they were profound to decline to slaughter, though I have been a rebuker of them all.

3 I know Ephraim, and Israel is not hid from me: for now, O Ephraim, thou art become an harlot, and Israel is defiled.

4 They will not give their minds to turn unto their God: for the spirit of fornication is in the midst of them, and they have not known the Lord.

5 And the pride of Israel doth testify to his face: therefore shall Israel and Ephraim fall in the iniquity: Judah also shall fall with them.

6 They shall go with their sheep, and with their bullocks to seek the Lord: but they shall not find him, for he hath withdrawn himself from them.

7 They have transgressed against the Lord:
for they have begotten strange children: now shall a month devour them with their portions.

8 Blow ye the trumpet in Gibeah, and the shaum in Ramah: cry out at Beth-aven, after thee, O Benjamin.

9 Ephraim shall be desolate in the day of rebuke

10 God complaineth that Judah is infected, and willet them to learn by their example to return in time.

11 For albeit the Lord had honoured this place in time past by his presence, yet because it was abused by their idolatry, he would not that his people should resort thither.

12 He calleth Bethel, that is, the house of God, Bethaven, that is, the house of iniquity, because of their abomi-nations set up there, signifying, that no place is holy, where God is not purely worshipped.

13 God will so disperse them, that they shall not remain in any certain place.

14 They are so impudent in receiving bribes, that they will command men to bring them unto them.

15 To carry them suddenly away.

16 The priests and princes caught the poor people in their snare, as the fowlers did the birds in these two high mountains.

17 Notwithstanding they seemed to be given altogether to holiness and to sacrifices, which here he calleth slaughter in contempt.

18 Though I had admonished them continually by my prophets.

19 They boasted themselves not only to be Israelites, but also Ephraimites, because their king Jeroboam came of that tribe.

20 Meaning, their contemning of all admonitions.

21 That is, their children are degenerate, so that there is no hope in them.

22 Their destruction is not far off.

23 That is, all Israel comprehended under this part, signifying, that the Lord's plagues should pursue them from place to place, till they were destroyed.

780. rebuke: among the tribes of Israel have I caused to ^c know the truth.

10 The princes of Judah were like them that ^d remove the bound, therefore will I pour out my wrath upon them like water.

11 Ephraim is oppressed, and broken in judgment, because he willingly walked after the ^e commandment.

12 Therefore will I be unto Ephraim as a moth, and to the house of Judah as a rottenness.

13 When Ephraim saw his sickness, and Judah his wound, then went Ephraim unto ^f Asshur, and sent unto king ^g Jareb: yet could he not heal you, nor cure you of your wound.

14 For I will be unto Ephraim as a lion; and as a lion's whelp to the house of Judah: I, even I, will spoil, and go away: I will take away, and none shall rescue it.

15 I will go, and return to my place, till they acknowledge their fault, and seek me: in their affliction they will seek me diligently.

C H A P. VI.

1 Affliction causeth a man to turn to God: 9 The wickedness of the priests.

COME, and let us ^h return to the Lord: for he hath spoiled, and he will heal us: he hath wounded us, and he will bind us up.

2 After two days will ⁱ he revive us, and in the third day he will raise us up, and we shall live in his sight.

3 Then shall we have knowledge, and endeavour ourselves to know the Lord: his going forth is prepared as the morning, and he shall come unto us as the rain, and as the latter rain unto the earth.

4 O Ephraim, what shall I do unto thee? O Judah, how shall I entreat thee? for ^k your goodness is as a morning cloud, and as the morning dew it goeth away.

5 Therefore have I ^l cut down by the prophets: I have slain them by the words of my mouth, and thy ^m judgments were as the light that goeth forth.

6 For I desired ⁿ mercy and not sacrifice, and the knowledge of God more than burnt-offerings.

7 But they ^o like men have transgressed the covenant: there have they trespassed against me.

^c By the success they shall know that I have surely determined this.

^d They have turned upside down all political order, and all manner of religion.

^e To wit, after king Jeroboam's commandment, and did not rather follow God.

^f Instead of seeking for remedy at God's hand.

^g Who was king of the Assyrians.

^h He sheweth the people how they ought to turn to the Lord, that he might call back his plagues.

ⁱ Though he correct us from time to time, yet his help will not be far off, if we return to him.

^k You seem to have a certain holiness and repentance, but it is upon the sudden, and as a morning cloud.

^l I have still laboured by my prophets, and as it were framed you to bring you to amendment, but all was in vain: for my word was not meat to feed them, but a sword to slay them.

^m My doctrine which I taught thee, was most evident.

ⁿ He sheweth to what scope his doctrine tended, that they should join the obedience of God, and the love of their neighbour with outward sacrifice.

^o That is, light and weak persons.

^p Which was the place where the priests dwelt, and which

8 ^p Gilcad is a city of them that work iniquity, and is polluted with blood. Bef. Chr. 780.

9 And as thieves wait for a man; so the company of priests murder in the way by consent: for they work mischief.

10 I have seen villany in the house of Israel: there is the whoredom of Ephraim: Israel is defiled.

11 Yea; Judah hath set a ^q plant for thee; while I would return the captivity of my people.

C H A P. VII.

1 Of the vices and wantonness of the people. 12 Of their punishment.

WHEN I would have healed Israel; then the iniquity of Ephraim was discovered, and the wickedness of Samaria: for they have dealt falsely: and ^r the thief cometh in, and the robber spoileth without.

2 And they consider not in their hearts, that I remember all their wickedness: now their own inventions have beset them about: they are in my sight.

3 They make the ^s king glad with their wickedness; and the princes with their lyes.

4 They are all adulterers, and as a very ^t oven heated by the baker, which ceaseth from raising up and from kneading the dough until it be leavened.

5 This is the ^u day of our king: the princes have made him sick with flaggons of wine: he stretcheth out his hand to scorners.

6 For they have made ready their heart like an oven, while they lie in wait: their baker sleepeth all the night: in the morning it burneth as a flame of fire.

7 They are all hot as an oven, and have ^v devoured their judges: all their kings are fallen: there is none among them that calleth unto me.

8 Ephraim hath ^x mixed himself among the people, Ephraim is as a cake on the hearth not turned.

9 Strangers have devoured his strength, and he knoweth it not: yea, ^y grey hairs are here and there upon him, yet he knoweth not.

10 And the pride of Israel testifieth to his face, and they do not return to the Lord their God, nor seek him for all this.

11 Ephraim also is like a dove deceived, without ^z heart: they call to Egypt: they go to Ashur.

12 But should have been best instructed in my word.

^q That is, doth imitate thine idolatry, and hath taken grafts of thy trees.

^r Meaning, that there was no one kind of vice among them, but that they were subject to all wickedness, both secret and open.

^s They esteem their wicked king Jeroboam above God, and seek but how to flatter and please him.

^t He compareth the rage of the people to a burning oven which the baker heateth still, till his dough be leavened and raised.

^u They used all riot and excess in their feasts and solemnities, whereby their king was overcome with surfeit, and brought into diseases, and delighted in flatteries.

^v By their occasion God hath deprived them of all good rulers.

^x That is, he counterfeiteth the religion of the Gentiles, yet is but as a cake baked on the one side, and raw on the other, that is, neither thorough hot, nor thorough cold, but partly a Jew, and partly a Gentile.

^y Which are a token of his manifold afflictions.

^z That is, without all judgment, as they that cannot tell whether it is better to cleave only to God, or to seek the help of man:

Def. Chr. 700. 12 But when they shall go, I will spread my net upon them, and draw them down as the fowls of the heaven: I will chastise them as their congregation hath heard.

13 Wo unto them, for they have fled away from me: destruction shall be unto them, because they have transgressed against me: though I have redeemed them, yet they have spoken lyes against me.

14 And they have not cried unto me with their hearts, when they howled upon their beds: they assembled themselves for corn, and wine, and they rebel against me.

15 Though I have bound and strengthened their arm, yet do they imagine mischief against me.

16 They return, but not to the most High: they are like a deceitful bow: their princes shall fall by the sword, for the rage of their tongues: this shall be their derision in the land of Egypt.

C H A P. VIII.

1 The destruction of Judah and Israel, because of their idolatry.

SET the trumpet to thy mouth, he shall come as an eagle against the house of the Lord, because they have transgressed my covenant, and trespassed against my law.

2 Israel shall cry unto me, My God, we know thee.

3 Israel hath cast off the thing that is good: the enemy shall pursue him.

4 They have set up a king, but not by me: they have made princes, and I knew it not: of their silver and their gold have they made them idols: therefore shall they be destroyed.

5 Thy calf, O Samaria, hath cast thee off: mine anger is kindled against them: how long will they be without innocency!

6 For it came even from Israel: the workman made it, therefore it is not God: but the calf of Samaria shall be broken in pieces.

7 For they have sown the wind, and they shall reap the whirlwind, it hath no stalk: the bud shall bring forth no meal: if so be it bring forth, the strangers shall devour it.

8 Israel is devoured, now shall they be among the Gentiles as a vessel wherein is no pleasure.

9 For they are gone up to Asshur: they are as a wild ass alone by himself: Ephraim hath hired lovers.

^a According to my curses made to the whole congregation of Israel.

^b That is, divers times redeemed them, and delivered them from death.

^c When they were in affliction, and cried out for pain, they sought not unto me for help.

^d They only seek their own commodity and wealth, and not for me their God.

^e Because they boast of their own strength, and pass not when they speak against me and my servants, Psalm 73. 9.

^f God encourageth the prophet to signify the speedy coming of the enemy against Israel, which was once the people of God.

^g They shall cry like hypocrites, but not from the heart, as their deeds declare.

^h That is, Jeroboam, by whom they sought their own liberty, and not to obey my will.

ⁱ That is, upright judgment, and godly life.

^k Meaning, the calf was invented by themselves, and of their fathers in the wilderness.

^l Saying, that their religion hath but a shew, and is itself is but vanity.

^m They never cease, but run to and fro to seek help.

ⁿ Tribute, that is the tribute which the king and the princes shall lay upon them: which means the Lord useth to bring them to repentance.

10 Yet though they have hired among the nations, now will I gather them, and they shall sorrow a little, for the burden of the king and the princes.

11 Because Ephraim hath made many altars to sin, his altars shall be to sin.

12 I have written to them the great things of my law, but they were counted as a strange thing.

13 They sacrifice flesh for the sacrifices of mine offerings, and eat it: but the Lord accepteth them not: now will he remember their iniquity, and visit their sins: they shall return to Egypt.

14 For Israel hath forgotten his Maker; and buildeth temples, and Judah hath increased strong cities: but I will send a fire upon his cities, and it shall devour the palaces thereof.

C H A P. IX.

Of the hunger and captivity of Israel.

REJOICE not, O Israel, for joy, as other people: for thou hast gone a whoring from thy God: thou hast loved a reward upon every corn floor.

2 The floor and the wine-press shall not feed them, and the new wine shall fail in her.

3 They shall not dwell in the Lord's land, but Ephraim will return to Egypt, and they will eat unclean things in Asshur.

4 They shall not offer wine to the Lord, neither shall their sacrifices be pleasant unto him: but they shall be unto them as the bread of mourners: all that eat thereof shall be polluted: for their bread for their souls shall not come into the house of the Lord.

5 What will ye do then in the solemn day, and in the day of the feast of the Lord?

6 For lo, they are gone from destruction: but Egypt shall gather them up, and Memphis shall bury them: the nettle shall possess the pleasant places of their silver, and the thorn shall be in their tabernacles.

7 The days of visitation are come: the days of recompence are come: Israel shall know it: the prophet is a fool: the spiritual man is mad, for the multitude of thine iniquity: therefore the hatred is great.

8 The watchman of Ephraim should be with my God: but the prophet is the snare of a fowler in all his ways, and hatred in the house of his God.

9 They

^a Thus the idolaters count the word of God as strange in respect of their own invention.

^b Saying, that they offer it to the Lord, but he accepteth no service which he himself hath not appointed.

^c For though all other people should escape, yet thou shalt be punished.

^d Thou hast committed idolatry in hope of reward, and to have thy barns filled, Jer. 44. 17. as an harlot that had rather live by playing the whore, than to be entertained of her own husband.

^e Their outward things that thou seekest, shall be taken from thee.

^f All these doings both touching policy and religion shall be rejected as things polluted.

^g The meat-offering, which they offered for themselves.

^h When the Lord shall take away all the occasions of serving him, which shall be the most grievous point of your captivity, when ye shall see yourselves cut off from God.

ⁱ Though they think to escape by fleeing the destruction that is at hand, yet shall they be destroyed in the place whither they flee for succour.

^k Then they shall know that they were deluded by them who challenged to themselves to be their prophets and spiritual men.

^l The prophet's duty is to bring men to God, and not to be a snare to pull them from God.

9 They ^z are deeply set: they are corrupt as in the days of Gibeah: therefore he will remember their iniquity, he will visit their sins.

10 I found Israel like ^a grapes in the wilderness: I saw your fathers as the first ripe in the fig-tree at her first time, but they went to Baal-Peor, and separated themselves unto that shame, and their abominations were according to ^b their lovers.

11 Ephraim their glory shall flee away like a bird: from the birth ^c and from the womb, and from the conception.

12 Though they bring up their children, yet I will deprive them from being men: yea, woe to them when I depart from them.

13 Ephraim, as I saw, is as a tree ^d in Tyrus planted in a cottage: but Ephraim shall bring forth his children to the murderer.

14 O Lord, give them: what wilt thou give them? give them a ^e barren womb and dry breasts.

15 All their wickedness is in ^f Gilgal, for there do I hate them: for the wickedness of their inventions, I will cast them out of mine house: I will love them no more: all their princes are rebels.

16 Ephraim is smitten, their root is dried up: they can bring no fruit: yea, though they bring forth, yet will I slay even the dearest of their body.

17 My God will cast them away, because they did not obey him: and they shall wander among the nations.

ISRAEL is an ^z empty vine, yet hath it brought forth fruit unto itself, and according to the multitude of the fruit thereof, he hath increased the altars: according to the ^a goodness of their land they have made fair images.

2 Their heart is ¹ divided: now shall they be found faulty: he shall break down their altars: he shall destroy their images.

3 For now they shall say, We have no ^k king, because we feared not the Lord: and what should a king do to us?

^z This people is so rooted in their wickedness, that Gibeah, which was like to Sodom, was never more corrupt, Judges 19. 22.

^a Meaning, that he so esteemed them, and delighted in them.

^b They were as abominable unto me, as their lovers, the idols.

^c Signifying, that God would destroy their children by these sundry means, and so consume them by little and little.

^d As they kept tender plants in their houses in Tyrus, to preserve them from the cold air of the sea, so was Ephraim at the first unto me, but now I will give him to the slaughter.

^e The prophet seeing the great plagues of God toward Ephraim, prayeth to God to make them barren, rather than that this great slaughter should come upon their children.

^f The chief cause of their destruction is, that they committed idolatry, and corrupt my religion in Gilgal.

^g Whereof though the grapes were gathered, yet ever as it gathered new strength, it increased new wickedness, so that the correction which should have brought them to obedience, did but utter their stubbornness.

5 The inhabitants of Samaria shall ⁿ fear because of the calf of Beth-aven: for the people thereof shall mourn over it, and the ^o Chemarims thereof that rejoiced in it for the glory thereof, because it is departed from it.

6 It shall be also brought to Ashur for a present unto king Jareb: Ephraim shall receive shame, and Israel shall be ashamed of his own counsel.

7 Of Samaria, the king thereof is destroyed, as the foam upon the water.

8 The high places also of ^p Aven shall be destroyed: even the sin of Israel: the thorn and thistle shall grow upon their altars, and they shall say to the mountains, ^{*} Cover us, and to the hills, Fall upon us.

9 O Israel, thou hast ^q sinned from the days of Gibeah: there they ^r stood: the battle in Gibeah against the children of iniquity did not touch them.

11 And Ephraim is as an heifer used to delight ^w in threshing: but I will pass by her ^x fair neck: I will make Ephraim to ride: Judah shall plow, and Jacob shall break his clods.

12 Sow to yourselves in righteousness: reap after the measure of mercy: ^y break up your fallow ground: for it is time to seek the Lord, till he come and rain righteousness upon you.

13 But you have plowed wickedness: ye have reaped iniquity: you have eaten the fruit of lyes: because thou didst trust in thine own ways; and in the multitude of thy strong men,

14 Therefore shall a tumult arise among thy people, and all thy munitions shall be destroyed, as ^z Shalman destroyed Beth-arbel in the day of battle: the mother with the children was dashed in pieces:

THE ARGUMENT.

The prophet Joel first rebuketh them of Judah, that being now punished with a great plague of famine, remaineth still obstinate. Secondly, he threateneth greater plagues, because they grew daily to a more hardness of heart, and rebellion against God, notwithstanding his punishments. Thirdly, he exhorteth them to repentance, shewing that it must be earnest, and proceed from the heart, because they had grievously offended God. And so doing, he promiseth that God will be merciful, and not forget his covenant that he made with their fathers: but will send his Christ, who shall gather the scattered sheep, and restore them to life and liberty, though they seemed to be dead.

7 He maketh my vine waste, and peelet off the bark of my fig-tree: he maketh it bare, and casteth it down: the branches thereof are made white.

8 Mourn like a virgin girded with sackcloth for the^e husband of her youth.

9 The meat-offering, and the drink-offering, is^f cut off from the house of the Lord: the priests, the Lord's ministers mourn.

10 The field is wasted: the land mourneth: for the corn is destroyed: the^g new wine is dried up, and the oil is decayed.

11 Be ye ashamed, O husbandmen: howl, O ye vine-dressers, for the wheat, and for the barley, because the harvest of the field is perished.

12 The vine is dried up, and the fig-tree is decayed: the pomegranate-tree, and the palm-tree, and the apple-tree, even all the trees of the field are withered: surely also the joy is withered away from the sons of men.

^a Signifying, the princes, the priests and the governors.

^b He calleth the Jews to the consideration of God's judgments, who had now plagued the fruits of the ground for the space of four years, which was for their sins, and to call them to repentance.

^c Meaning, that the occasion of their excess and drunkenness was taken away.

^d This was another plague wherewith God had punished them, when he stirred up the Assyrians against them.

^e Mourn grievously, as a woman which had lost her husband, to whom she hath been married in her youth.

^f The tokens of God's wrath did appear in his temple,

13^h Gird yourselves and lament, ye priests: howl, ye ministers of the altar: come, and lie all night in sackcloth, ye ministers of my God: for the meat-offering, and the drink-offering is taken away from the house of your God.

Ref. Chr. 800.

14 Sanctify you a fast: call a solemn assembly: gather the elders, and all the inhabitants of the land, into the house of the Lord your God, and cry unto the Lord, 15 Alas: for the day, for theⁱ day of the Lord is at hand, and it cometh as a destruction from the Almighty.

16 Is not the meat cut off from our eyes? and joy and gladness from the house of our God?

17 The seed is rotten under their clods: the garners are destroyed: the barns are broken down, for the corn is withered.

18 How did the beasts mourn! the herds of cattle pine away, because they have no pasture, and the flocks of sheep are destroyed.

19 O Lord, to thee will I cry: for the fire hath devoured the pastures of the wilderness, and the flame hath burnt up all the trees of the field.

20 The beasts of the field cry all unto thee: for the rivers of water are dried up, and the^k fire hath devoured the pastures of the wilderness.

CHAP. II.

He prophesieth of the coming and cruelty of their enemies. 13 An exhortation to move them to convert. 18 The love of God toward his people.

BLOW^l the trumpet in Zion, and shout in mine holy mountain: let all the inhabitants of the land tremble: for the day of the Lord is come: for it is at hand.

2 A^m day of darkness, and of blackness, a day of clouds and obscurity, as the morning spread upon the mountains, so is there aⁿ great people, and a mighty: there was none like it from the beginning, neither shall be any more after it, unto the years of many generations.

3 A fire devoureth before him, and behind him a flame burneth up: the land is as the garden infomuch as God's service was left off.

^h All comfort and substance for nourishment is taken away.

ⁱ He sheweth that the only means to avoid God's wrath, and to have all things restored, is unfeigned repentance.

^j We see by these great plagues, that utter destruction is at hand.

^k That is, drought.

^l He sheweth the great judgments of God which are at hand, except they repent.

^m Of affliction and trouble.

Bef. Chr. den of Eden before him, and behind him: a desolate wilderness, so that nothing shall escape him. Bef. Chr. 800.

4 The beholding of him is like the sight of horses, and like the horsemen, so shall they run:

5 Like the noise of chariots in the tops of the mountains shall they leap, like the noise of a flame of fire that devoureth the stubble, and as a mighty people prepared to the battle.

6 Before his face shall the people tremble: all faces shall gather blackness.

7 They shall run like strong men, and go up to the wall like men of war, and every man shall go forward in his ways, and they shall not stay in their paths:

8 Neither shall one thrust another, but every one shall walk in his path: and when they fall upon the sword, they shall not be wounded.

9 They shall run to and fro in the city: they shall run upon the wall: they shall climb up upon the houses, and enter in at the windows like the thief.

10 The earth shall tremble before him, the heavens shall shake, the sun and the moon shall be dark, and the stars shall withdraw their shining, 11 And the Lord shall utter his voice before his host: for his host is very great: for he is strong that doth his word: * for the day of the Lord is great and very terrible, and who can abide it?

12 Therefore also now the Lord saith, Turn you unto me with all your heart, and with fasting, and with weeping, and with mourning, 13 And rent your heart, and not your cloaths: and turn unto the Lord your God, for he is gracious, and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness, and repenteth him of the evil.

14 Who knoweth, if he will return and repent, and leave a blessing behind him, even a meat-offering, and a drink-offering unto the Lord your God?

15 Blow the trumpet in Zion, sanctify a fast, call a solemn assembly.

16 Gather the people: sanctify the congregation, gather the elders: assemble the children, and those that suck the breast: let the bridegroom go forth of his chamber, and the bride out of her bride chamber.

17 Let the priests, the ministers of the Lord, weep between the porch and the altar, and let them say, Spare thy people, O Lord, and give not thine heritage into reproach, that the heathen should rule over them. * Wherefore should they say among the people, Where is their God? Bef. Chr. 800.

18 Then will the Lord be jealous over his land, and spare his people.

19 Yea, the Lord will answer, and say unto his people, Behold, I will send you corn, and wine, and oil, and you shall be satisfied therewith: and I will no more make you a reproach among the heathen, 20 But I will remove far off from you the northern army, and I will drive him into a land barren and desolate, with his face toward the east sea, and his end to the utmost sea, and his stink shall come up, and his corruption shall ascend, because he hath exalted himself to do this.

21 Fear not, O land, but be glad, and rejoice: for the Lord will do great things.

22 Be not afraid, ye beasts of the field: for the pastures of the wilderness are green: for the tree beareth her fruit: the fig-tree and the vine do give their force.

23 Be glad then, ye children of Zion, and rejoice in the Lord your God: for he hath given you the rain of righteousness, * and he will cause to come down for you the rain, even the first rain, and the latter rain in the first month. * Rev. 26. 4. Deut. 11. 14.

24 And the barns shall be full of wheat, and the presses shall abound with wine and oil.

25 And I will render you the years that the grasshopper hath eaten, the canker-worm, and the caterpillar, and the palmer-worm, my great host which I sent among you.

26 So you shall eat and be satisfied, and praise the name of the Lord your God, that hath dealt marvellously with you: and my people shall never be ashamed.

27 Ye shall also know that I am in the midst of Israel: and that I am the Lord your God, and none other, and my people shall never be ashamed.

28 And afterward will I pour out my Spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy: your old men shall dream dreams, and your young men shall see visions.

29 And also upon the servants and upon the maidens in those days will I pour my Spirit.

30 And I will shew wonders in the heavens, and in the earth: blood and fire, and pillars of smoke.

31 The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before the great and terrible day of the Lord come.

32 But whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord, shall be saved: for in mount Zion, and sea to the sea called Mediterranean, yet he would scatter them.

h That as all have sinned, so all may shew forth signs of their repentance, that men seeing the children, which are not free from God's wrath, might be the more lively touched with the consideration of their own sins.

C H A P. III.

Of the judgments of God against the enemies of his people.

FOR behold, in ^r those days and in that time, when I shall bring again the captivity of Judah and Jerusalem,

² I will also gather all nations, and I will bring them down into the ^v valley of Jehoshaphat, and will plead with them there for my people, and for mine heritage Israel, whom they have scattered among the nations, and parted my land.

³ And they have cast lots for my people, and have given the child ^k for the harlot, and sold the girl for wine, that they might drink.

⁴ Yea, and ^l what have you to do with me,
O Tyrus and Zidon, and all the coasts of Palestina? will ye render me ^m a recompense? and if ye recompense me, swiftly and speedily will I render your recompence upon your head:

⁵ For ye have taken my silver, and have carried into your temples my goodly and pleasant things.

⁶ The children also of Judah and the children of Jerusalem have you sold unto the Grecians, that ye might send them far from their border.

⁷ Behold, I will raise them out of the place where ye have sold them, and will render your reward upon your own head.

⁸ And I will sell your sons and your daughters into the hand of the children of Judah: and they ⁿ shall sell them to the Sabeans, to a people far off: for the Lord hath spoken it.

⁹ Publish this among the Gentiles: prepare war, wake up the mighty men: let all the men of war draw near and come up.

¹⁰ ^o Break your plowshares into swords, and your scythes into spears: let the weak say, I am strong. Bef. Chr.

800.

¹¹ Assemble yourselves, and come, all ye heathen, and gather yourselves together round about: there shall the Lord cast down thy mighty men.

¹² Let the heathen be wakened and come up to the valley of Jehoshaphat, for there will I sit to judge all the heathen round about.

¹³ Put in your ^p scythes, for the harvest is ripe: come, get you down, for the wine-press is full: yea, the wine-presses run over, for their wickedness is great.

¹⁴ O multitude, O multitude, come into the valley of threshing: for the day of the Lord is near in the valley of threshing.

¹⁵ The sun and moon shall be darkened, and the stars shall withdraw their light.

¹⁶ The Lord also shall roar out of Zion, and utter his voice from Jerusalem, and the heavens and the earth shall shake, but the Lord will be the hope ^q of his people, and the strength of the children of Israel.

¹⁷ So shall ye know that I am the Lord your God, dwelling in Zion, mine holy mountain:
then shall Jerusalem be holy, and there shall no strangers go ^r through her any more.

¹⁸ And in that day shall the mountains ^s drop down new wine, and the hills shall flow with milk, and all the rivers of Judah shall run with waters, and a fountain shall come forth of the house of the Lord, and shall water the valley of Shittim.

¹⁹ Egypt shall be waste, and Edom shall be a desolate wilderness, for the injuries of the children of Judah, because they have shed innocent blood in their land.

²⁰ But Judah shall dwell for ever, and Jerusalem from generation to generation.

²¹ For I will ^t cleanse their blood that I have not cleansed, and the Lord will dwell in Zion.

^r Meaning hereby the Gentiles, Rom. 10. 13.

^s When I shall deliver my church, which standeth of the Jews and of the Gentiles.

^t It appeareth that he alludeth to that great victory of Jehoshaphat, when as God without man's help destroyed the enemies, 2 Chron. 20. 26. also he hath respect to this word Jehoshaphat, which signifieth pleading or judgment, because God would judge the enemies of his church, as he did there.

^u That which the enemy got for the sale of my people, he bestowed upon harlots and drink.

^v He taketh the cause of his church in hand against the enemy, as though the injury were done to himself.

^w Have I done you wrong, that ye will render me the like?

^x For afterward God sold them by Nebuchadnezzar and Alexander the Great, for the love he bare to his people, and thereby they were comforted as though the price had been theirs.

^y When I shall execute my judgments against mine enemies, I will cause every one to be ready, and to prepare their weapons to destroy one another, for my church sake.

^z Thus he shall encourage the enemies when their wickedness is full ripe to destroy one another, which he calleth the valley of God's judgments.

^{aa} God assureth his against all troubles, that when he de-stroyeth his enemies, his children shall be delivered.

^{ab} The strangers shall no more destroy his church: which if they do, it is the people, which by their sins make the breach for the enemy.

^{ac} He promiseth to his church abundance of graces, read Ezek. 47. 1. which should water and comfort the most bar-ren places, Amos 9. 13.

^{ad} The malicious enemies shall have no part of this grace.

^{ae} He had suffered his church hitherto to lie in their filthiness, but now he promiseth to cleanse them, and to make them pure unto him.

A M O S.

THE ARGUMENT.

Among many other prophets that God raised up to admonish the Israelites of his plagues for their wickedness and idolatry, he stirred up Amos, who was an herdsman or shepherd of a poor town, and gave him both knowledge and constancy to reprove all estates and degrees, and to denounce God's horrible judgments against them, except they did in time repent: showing them, that if God spared not the other nations about them, who had lived as it were in ignorance of God in respect of them, but for their sins will punish them, that they could look for nothing, but an horrible destruction, except they turned to the Lord by unfeigned repentance. And finally, he comforteth the godly with hope of the coming of the Messiah, by whom they should have perfect deliverance and salvation.

C H A P. I.

1 The time of the prophecy of Amos. 3 The word of the Lord against Damascus, 6 the Philistines, Tyris, Idumea and Ammon.

THE words of Amos, who was among the herdmen at ^a Tekoa, which he saw upon Israel, in the days of Uzziah king of Judah, and in the days of ^b Jeroboam the son of Joash king of Israel, two years before the ^c earthquake.

2 And he said, The Lord shall roar from Zion, and utter his voice from Jerusalem, and the dwelling-places of the shepherds shall perish, and the top of ^d Carmel shall wither.

3 ¶ Thus saith the Lord, For ^e three transgressions of Damascus, and for four, I will not turn to it, because they have ^f threshed Gilead with threshing-instruments of iron :

4 Therefore will I send a fire into the house of Hazael, and it shall devour the ^g palaces of Benhadad.

5 I will break also the bars of Damascus, and cut off the inhabitant of Bikeath-aven : and him that holdeth the sceptre out of Beth-eden, and the people of Aram shall go into captivity unto ^h Kir, saith the Lord,

6 Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Azzah, and for four, I will not turn to it, because they ⁱ carried away prisoners, the whole captivity to shut them up in Edom :

7 Therefore will I send a fire upon the walls of Azzah, and it shall devour the palaces thereof :

8 And I will cut off the inhabitant from Ashdod, and him that holdeth the sceptre from Ashkelon, and turn mine hand to Ekron, and the remnant of the Philistines shall perish, saith the Lord God.

9 ¶ Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Tyrus, and for four, I will not turn to it, because they shut the whole captivity in Edom, and have not remembered the ^k brotherly covenant :

10 Therefore will I send a fire upon the walls of Tyrus, and it shall devour the palaces thereof.

11 ¶ Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Edom, and for four, I will not turn to it, because he did pursue his brother with the sword, and did [†] cast off all pity, and his anger spoiled him evermore, and his wrath watched him ¹ alway :

12 Therefore will I send a fire upon Teman, and it shall devour the palaces of Bozrah.

13 ¶ Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of the children of Ammon, and for four, I will not turn to it, because they ^m have ript up the women with child of Gilead, that they might enlarge their border :

14 Therefore will I kindle a fire in the wall of Rabbah, and it shall devour the palaces thereof, with shouting in the day of battle, and with a tempest in the day of the whirlwind.

15 And their king shall go into captivity, he and his princes together, saith the Lord.

C H A P. II.

Against Moab, Judah and Israel.

THUS saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Moab, and for four, I will not turn to it, because it burnt the ⁿ bones of the king of Edom into lime :

2 Therefore will I send a fire upon Moab, and it shall devour the palaces of Kerioth, and Moab shall die with tumult, with shouting, and with the sound of a trumpet.

3 And I will cut off the judge out of the midst thereof, and will slay all the princes thereof with him, saith the Lord.

4 ¶ Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Judah, and for four, ^o I will not turn to it, because they have cast away the law of the Lord, and have not kept his commandments, and their lyes caused them to err, after the which their fathers have walked.

5 Therefore will I send a fire upon Judah, and it shall devour the palaces of Jerusalem.

6 ¶ Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of ^p Israel, and for four, I will not turn to it, because they sold the righteous for silver, and the poor ^q for shoes.

7 They gape over the head of the poor, in the ^r dust of the earth, and pervert the ways of the meek : and a man and his father will go in to a maid to dishonour mine holy name.

8 And they lie down upon cloaths laid to pledge ^s by every altar : and they ^t drink the wine of the condemned in the house of their God.

^a Which was a town six miles from Jerusalem in Judea, but he prophesied in Israel.

^b In his days the kingdom of Israel did most flourish.

^c Which, as Josephus writeth, was when Uzziah would have usurped the priest's office, and therefore was smitten with the leprosy.

^d Whatsoever is fruitful and pleasant in Israel shall shortly perish.

^e He sheweth, first, that all the people round about should be destroyed for their manifold sins : which are meant by three and four, which make seven, because the Israelites should the more deeply consider God's judgments toward them.

^f If the Syrians shall not be spared for committing this cruelty against one city, it is not possible that Israel should escape punishment, which hath committed so many and grievous sins against God and man.

^g The antiquity of their buildings shall not avoid my judgments, read Jer. 49. 27.

^h Tiglath Pileser led the Syrians captive, and brought them to Cyrene, which he calleth here Kir.

ⁱ They joined themselves with the Edomites their enemies, which carried them away captives.

^k For Esau, (of whom came the Edomites) and Jacob were brethren : therefore they ought to have admonished them of their brotherly friendship, and not to have provoked them to hatred.

¹ He was a continual enemy unto him.

^m He noteth the great cruelty of the Ammonites, that spared not the women, but most tyrannously tormented them, and yet the Ammonites came of Lot, who was of the household of Abraham.

ⁿ For the Moabites were so cruel against the king of Edom, that they burnt his bones after that he was dead, which declared their barbarous rage, seeing they would revenge themselves of the dead.

^o Seeing the Gentiles that had not so far knowledge, were thus punished, Judah which was so fully instructed of the Lord's will, might not think to escape.

^p If he spare not Judah, unto whom his promises were made, much more he will not spare this degenerate kingdom.

^q They esteemed most vile bribes more than men's lives.

^r When they have spoiled him and thrown him to the ground, they gape for his life.

^s Thinking by these ceremonies, that is, by sacrificing and being near mine altar, they may excuse all their other wickedness.

^t They spoil others, and offer there ^f unto God, thinking that he will dispense with them when he is made partaker of their iniquity.

787. 8 Yet destroyed I the Amorite before them, whose height was like the height of the cedars, and he was strong as the oaks: notwithstanding I destroyed his fruit from above, and his root from beneath.

9 Also I brought you up from the land of Egypt, and led you forty years through the wilderness, to possess the land of the Amorite.

10 And I raised up of your sons for prophets, and of your young men for Nazarites. Is it not even thus, O ye children of Israel, saith the Lord?

11 But ye gave the Nazarites wine to drink, and commanded the prophets, saying, Prophecy not.

12 Behold, I am pressed under you as a cart is pressed that is full of sheaves.

13 Therefore the swift shall perish from the swift, and the strong shall not strengthen his force, neither shall the mighty save his life.

14 Nor he that handleth the bow shall stand, and he that is swift of foot shall not escape, neither shall he that rideth the horse save his life.

15 And he that is of a mighty courage among the strong men shall flee away naked in that day, saith the Lord.

C H A P. III.

*He reproveth the house of Israel of ingratitude, 11
For the which God will punish them.*

HEAR this word that the Lord pronounceth against you, O children of Israel, even against the whole family which I brought up from the land of Egypt, saying,

1 You only have I known of all the families of the earth: therefore I will visit you for all your iniquities.

2 Can two walk together except they be agreed?

3 Will a lion roar in the forest, when he hath no prey? or will a lion's whelp cry out of his den, if he have taken nothing?

4 Can a bird fall in a snare upon the earth, where no fowler is? or will he take up the snare from the earth, and have taken nothing at all?

5 Or shall a trumpet be blown in the city, and the people be not afraid? or shall there be evil in a city, and the Lord hath not done it?

6 Surely, the Lord God will do nothing, but he revealeth his secret unto his servants the prophets.

^a The destruction of their enemies and his mercy toward them, should have caused their hearts to melt for love toward him.

^b Ye contemned my benefits, and abused my graces, and craftily went about to stop the mouths of my prophets.

^c You have wearied me with your sins, Isa. 1. 14.

^d None shall be delivered by any means.

^e I have only chosen you to be mine among all other people: and yet you have forsaken me.

^f Hereby the prophet signifieth that he speaketh not of himself, but as God guideth and moveth him, which is called the agreement between God and his prophets.

^g Will God threaten by his prophets, except there be some great occasion?

^h Can any thing come without God's providence?

ⁱ Shall his threatenings be in vain?

^k Shall the prophets threaten God's judgments, and the people not be afraid?

^l Doth any adversity come without God's appointment? Isa. 45. 7.

^m God dealeth not with the Israelites as he doth with other people: for he ever warneth them before of his plagues by his prophets.

ⁿ Because the people ever murmured against the prophets, he sheweth, that God's Spirit moved them so to 8 The lion hath roared: who will not be afraid? the Lord God hath spoken: who can but prophesy?

9 Proclaim in the palaces at Ashdod, and in the palaces in the land of Egypt, and say, Assemble yourselves upon the mountains of Samaria: so behold the great tumults in the midst thereof, and the oppressed in the midst thereof.

10 For they know not to do right, saith the Lord: they store up violence and robbery in their palaces.

11 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, An adversary shall come even round about the country, and shall bring down thy strength from thee, and thy palaces shall be spoiled.

12 Thus saith the Lord, As the shepherd taketh out of the mouth of the lion two legs, or a piece of an ear: so shall the children of Israel be taken out that dwell in Samaria, in the corner of a bed, and in Damascus, as in a couch.

13 Hear, and testify in the house of Jacob, saith the Lord God, the God of hosts.

14 Surely in the day that I shall visit the transgressions of Israel upon him, I will also visit the altars of Beth-el, and the horns of the altar shall be broken off, and fall to the ground.

15 And I will smite the winter-house with the summer-house, and the houses of ivory shall perish, and the great houses shall be consumed, saith the Lord.

Against the governors of Samaria.

HEAR this word, ye kine of Bashan that are in the mountain of Samaria, which oppress the poor, and destroy the needy, and they say to their master, Bring, and let us drink.

1 The Lord God hath sworn by his holiness, that lo, the days shall come upon you, that he will take you away with thorns, and your posterity with fish-hooks.

2 And ye shall go out at the breaches, every cow forward: and ye shall cast yourselves out of the palace, saith the Lord.

3 Come to Beth-el, and transgress: to Gilgal, and multiply transgression, and bring your sacrifices in the morning, and your tithes after three years,

4 And offer a thanksgiving of leaven, publish and proclaim the free offering: for this liketh speak as they did.

¹ He calleth the strangers, as the Philistines and Egyptians, to be witnesses of God's judgments against the Israelites for their cruelty and oppression.

² The fruit of their cruelty and theft appeareth by their great riches which they have in their houses.

³ When the lion hath satiate his hunger, the shepherd findeth a leg, or a tip of an ear, to shew that the sheep have been worried.

⁴ Where they thought to have had a sure hold, and to have been in safety.

⁵ Thus he calleth the princes and governors, which being overwhelmed with the great abundance of God's benefits forgot God, and therefore he calleth them by the name of beasts, and not of men.

⁶ They encourage such as have authority over the people, to plunder them, so that they may have profit by it.

⁷ He alludeth to fishers which catch fish by hooks and thorns.

⁸ He speaketh this in contempt of them which resorted to these places, thinking that their great devotion and good intention had been sufficient to have bound God unto them.

⁹ Read Deut. 14. 28.

¹⁰ As Levit. 7. 13.

787. ^{Bef. Chr.} liketh you, O ye children of Israel, saith the Lord God.

6 And therefore have I given you ^w cleanness of teeth in all your cities, and scarceness of bread in all your palaces: yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the Lord.

7 And also I have with-holden the rain from you, when there ^{were} yet three ^x months to the harvest, and I caused it to rain upon one city, and have not caused it to rain upon another city: one piece was rained upon, and the piece whereupon it rained not, withered.

8 So two ^{or} three cities wandered unto one city to drink water, but they were ^y not satisfied: yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the Lord.

9 I have smitten you with blasting and mildew: your great gardens and your vineyards, and your fig-trees, and your olive-trees did the palmer-worm devour: yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the Lord.

10 Pestilence have I sent among you, after the manner of ^z Egypt: your young men have I slain with the sword, and have taken away your horses: and I have made the stink of your tents to come up even unto your nostrils: yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the Lord.

11 I have overthrown you as God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah: and ye were as a ^a fire-brand pluckt out of the burning: yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the Lord.

12 Therefore, thus will I do unto thee, O Israel: and because I will do this unto thee, prepare to ^b meet thy God, O Israel.

13 For lo, he that formeth the mountains and createth the wind, and declareth unto man what is his thought: which maketh the morning darkness, and walketh upon the high places of the earth, the Lord God of hosts is his name.

C H A P. V.

A lamentation for the captivity of Israel.

HEAR ye this word, which I lift upon you, ^{even} a lamentation of the house of Israel.

2 The ^c virgin Israel is fallen, and shall no more rise: she is left upon her land, and there is none to raise her up.

3 For thus saith the Lord God, The city which went out by a thousand, shall leave an ^d hundred: and that which went forth by an hundred, shall leave ten to the house of Israel.

4 For thus saith the Lord unto the house of Israel, Seek ye me, and ye shall live.

5 But seek not to Beth-el, nor enter into ^e Gilgal, and go not to Beer-sheba: for Gilgal shall go into captivity, and Beth-el shall come to nought. ^{Bef. Chr.} 787.

6 Seek the Lord, and ye shall live, lest he break out like fire in the house of Joseph, and devour it, and there be none to quench it in Beth-el.

7 They turn ^f judgment to wormwood, and leave off righteousness in the earth.

8 He ^g maketh Pleiades, and Orion, and he turneth the shadow of death into the morning, and he maketh the day dark as night: he calleth the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the open earth: the Lord is his name.

9 He strengtheneth the destroyer against the mighty: and the destroyer shall come against the fortrefs.

10 They have hated him ^h that rebuked in the gate: and they abhorred him that speaketh uprightly.

11 Forasmuch then as your treading is upon the poor, and ⁱ ye take from him burdens of wheat: ye have built houses of hewn stone, but ye shall not dwell in them: ye have planted pleasant vineyards, but ye shall not drink wine of them.

12 For I know your manifold transgressions, and your mighty sins: they afflict the just, they take rewards, and they oppress the poor in the gate:

13 Therefore ^k the prudent shall keep silence in that time, for it is an evil time.

14 Seek good, and not evil, that ye may live: and the Lord God of hosts will be with you, as you have spoken.

15 Hate the evil, and love the good, and establish judgment in the gate: it may be that the Lord God of hosts will be merciful unto the remnant of Joseph.

16 Therefore the Lord God of hosts, the Lord saith thus, Mourning shall be in all streets: and they shall say in all the high ways, Alas; alas! and they shall call the ^l husbandman to lamentation, and such as can mourn, to mourning.

17 And in all the vines shall be lamentation: for I will pass through thee, saith the Lord.

18 Wo unto you that ^m desire the day of the Lord: what have you to do with it? the day of the Lord is darkness and not light.

19 As if a man did flee from a lion, and a bear met him: or went into the house, and leaned his hand on the wall, and a serpent bit him.

20 Shall not the day of the Lord be darkness, and not light? even darkness and no light in it?

21 I hate and abhor your feast days, and I will not smell in your solemn assemblies.

22 Though

^w You only delight in those outward ceremonies, and have none other respect.

^x That is, lack of bread and meat.

^y I stayed the rain till the fruits of the earth were destroyed with drought, and yet you would not consider it, to return to me by repentance.

^z They could not find water enough where they had heard say it had rained.

^a As I plagued the Egyptians, Exod. 9. 10.

^b You were almost all consumed, and a few of you wonderfully preserved, 2 Kings 14. 26.

^c To turn to him by repentance.

^d He so calleth them, because they so boasted of themselves, or because they were given to wantonness and daintiness.

^e Meaning, that the tenth part should scarcely be saved.

^f In these places they worshipped new idols, which aforetime served for the true honour of God, therefore he saith that these shall not save them.

^g Instead of judgment and equity, they execute cruelty and oppression.

^h He describeth the power of God, Job 9. 9.

ⁱ They hate the prophets, which reprove them in the open assemblies.

^j Ye take both his money and also his food, wherewith he should live.

^k God will so plague them, that they shall not suffer the godly once to open their mouths to admonish them of their faults.

^l So that all degrees shall have matter of lamentation for the great plagues.

^m Thus he speaketh, because the wicked and hypocrites said they were content to abide God's judgments, whereas the godly tremble and fear, Jer. 30. 7. Joel 2. 23. 11. Zeph. 1. 15.

Bef. Chr. 737.

22 Though ye offer me burnt-offerings and meat-offerings, I will not accept them: neither will I regard the peace-offerings of your fat beasts.

23 Take thou away from me the multitude of thy songs (for I will not hear the melody of thy viols)

24 And let judgment run down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty river.

25 Have ye offered unto me sacrifices and offerings in the wilderness forty years, O house of Israel?

26 But you have borne Siccuth your king, and Chiun your images, and the star of your gods, which ye made to yourselves:

27 Therefore will I cause you to go into captivity beyond Damascus, saith the Lord, whose name is the God of hosts.

Against the princes of Israel living in pleasures.

WO to them that are at ease in Zion, and trust in the mountain of Samaria, which were famous at the beginning of the nations: and the house of Israel came to them.

2 Go you unto Calneh, and see: and from thence go you to Hamath the great: then go down to Gath of the Philistines: be they better than these kingdoms? or the border of their land greater than your border?

3 Ye that put far away the evil day, and approach to the seat of iniquity?

4 They lie upon beds of ivory, and stretch themselves upon their beds, and eat the lambs of the flock, and the calves out of the stall.

5 They sing to the sound of the viol: they invent to themselves instruments of music, like David.

6 They drink wine in bowls, and anoint themselves with the chief ointments, but no man is sorry for the affliction of Joseph.

7 Therefore now shall they go captive with the first that go captive, and the sorrow of them that stretched themselves is at hand.

8 The Lord God hath sworn by himself, saith the Lord God of hosts, I abhor the excellency of Jacob, and hate his palaces: therefore will I deliver up the city, with all that is therein.

^a Because ye have corrupted my true service, and remain obstinate in your vices, Isa. 1. 11. Jer. 6. 10.

^b Do your duty to God, and to your neighbour, and so ye shall feel his grace plentifully, if you shew your abundant affections according to God's word.

^c That idol which you esteemed as your king, and carried about as you did Chiun, in the which images you thought that there was a certain divinity.

^d The prophet threateneeth the wealthy, which regarded not God's plagues nor menaces by his prophets.

^e These two cities were famous by their first inhabitants, the Canaanites: and seeing beforetime they did nothing avail them that were there born, why should you look that they should save you which were brought in to dwell in other men's possessions?

^f If God have destroyed these excellent cities in three divers kingdoms, as in Babylon, Syria, and of the Philistines, and hath brought their wide borders into a greater straitness than yours yet are, think you to be better or to escape?

^g Ye that continue still in your wickedness, and think that God's plagues are not at hand, but give yourselves to all idleness, wantonness and riot.

^h As he caused divers kinds of instruments to be made to serve God's glory, so these did contend to invent as many to serve their wanton affections and lusts.

ⁱ They pitied not their brethren, whereof now many were slain and carried away captive.

Bef. Chr. 787.

9 And if there remain ten men in one house, they shall die.

10 And his uncle shall take him up and burn him to carry out the bones out of the house, and shall say unto him that is by the sides of the house, Is there yet any with thee? And he shall say, None. Then shall he say, Hold thy tongue: for we may not remember the name of the Lord.

11 For behold, the Lord commandeth, and he will smite the great house with breaches, and the little house with clefts.

12 Shall horses run upon the rock? or will one plow there with oxen? for ye have turned judgment into gall, and the fruit of righteousness into wormwood.

13 Ye rejoice in a thing of nought: ye say, Have not we gotten us horns by our own strength?

14 But behold, I will raise up against you a nation, O house of Israel, saith the Lord God of hosts: and they shall afflict you, from the entering in of Hamath unto the river of the wilderness.

God sheweth certain visions, whereby he signifieth the destruction of the people of Israel. 10 The false accusation of Amaziab. 12 His crafty counsel.

THUS hath the Lord God shewed unto me, and behold, he formed grasshoppers in the beginning of the shooting up of the latter growth: and lo, it was in the latter growth: after the king's mowing.

2 And when they had made an end of eating the grass of the land, then I said, O Lord God, spare, I beseech thee: who shall raise up Jacob? for he is small.

3 So the Lord repented for this. It shall not be, saith the Lord.

4 Thus also hath the Lord God shewed unto me, and behold, the Lord God called to judgment by fire, and it devoured the great deep, and did eat up a part.

5 Then said I, O Lord God, cease, I beseech thee: who shall raise up Jacob? for he is small.

6 So the Lord repented for this. This also shall not be, saith the Lord God.

^e That is, to some neighbour that dwelleth round about.

^f They shall be so astonished at this destruction, that they shall boast no more of the name of God, and that they are his people: but they shall be dumb when they hear God's name, and abhor it, as they that are desperate or reprobate.

7 ¶ Thus again he shewed me, and behold, the Lord stood upon a wall made by line, ¹ with a line in his hand.

8 And the Lord said unto me, Amos, what seest thou? And I said, A line. Then said the Lord, Behold, I will set a line in the midst of my people Israel, and will pass by them no more.

9 And the high places of Isaac shall be desolate, and the temples of Israel shall be destroyed: and I will rise against the house of Jeroboam with the sword.

10 ¶ Then Amaziah the priest of Beth-el sent to Jeroboam king of Israel, saying, Amos hath conspired against thee in the midst of the house of Israel: the land is not able to bear all his words:

11 For thus Amos saith, Jeroboam shall die by the sword, and Israel shall be led away captive out of their own land.

12 Also ⁿ Amaziah said unto Amos, O thou the Seer, go, flee thou away into the land of Judah, and there eat thy bread, and prophesy there.

13 But prophesy no more at Beth-el: for it is the king's chapel, and it is the king's court.

14 Then answered Amos, and said to Amaziah, I was no ^o prophet, neither was I a prophet's son, but I was an herdman, and a gatherer of wild figs.

15 And the Lord took me as I followed the flock, and the Lord said unto me, Go, prophesy unto my people Israel.

16 Now therefore hear thou the word of the Lord, Thou sayest, Prophesy not against Israel, and speak nothing against the house of Isaac.

17 Therefore thus saith the Lord, ^p Thy wife shall be an harlot in the city, and thy sons and thy daughters shall fall by the sword, and thy land shall be divided by line, and thou shalt die in a polluted land, and Israel shall surely go into captivity forth of his land.

ⁿ That is, when Amos had prophesied that the king should be destroyed: for this wicked priest, more for hatred he bare to the prophet than for love toward the king, thought this accusation sufficient to condemn him, whereas none other could take place.

^o When this instrument of Satan was not able to compass his purpose by the king, he assayed by another practice: that was, to fear the prophet, that he might depart, and not reprove their idolatry there openly, and so hinder his profit.

^p Thus he sheweth by his extraordinary vocation that God had given him a charge which he must needs execute.

^q Thus God useth to approve the authority of his prophets by his plagues and judgments against them, which were malicious enemies, Jer. 28. 12. and 29. 21, 25. as this day he doth against them that persecute the ministers of his gospel.

6 That we may buy the poor for silver, and the needy for shoes: yea, and sell the refuse of the wheat?

7 The Lord hath sworn by the excellency of Jacob, Surely I will never forget any of their works.

8 Shall not the land tremble for this, and every one mourn that dwelleth therein? and it shall rise up wholly as a flood, and it shall be cast out and ^v drowned as by the flood of Egypt.

9 And in that day, saith the Lord God, I will even cause the ^x sun to go down at noon: and I will darken the earth in the clear day.

10 And I will turn your feasts into mourning, and all your songs into lamentation: and I will bring sackcloth upon all loins, and baldness upon every head: and I will make it as the mourning of an only son, and the end thereof as a bitter day.

11 Behold, the days come, saith the Lord God, that I will send a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but of hearing the word of the Lord.

12 And they shall wander from sea to sea, and from the North even unto the East shall they run to and fro to seek the ^y word of the Lord, and shall not find it.

THE ARGUMENT.

The Idumeans which came of Esau, were mortal enemies always to the Israelites, which came of Jacob, and therefore did not only vex them continually with sundry kinds of cruelty, but also stirred up others to fight against them. Therefore when they were now in their greatest prosperity, and did most triumph against Israel, which was in great affliction and misery, God raised up his prophet to comfort the Israelites, forasmuch as God had now determined to destroy their adversaries, which did so sore vex them, and to send them such as should deliver them, and set up the kingdom of Messiah, which he had promised.

Beh. Chr. THE vision of Obadiah. Thus saith the Lord God against Edom, We have heard a rumour from the Lord, and an ambassador is sent among the heathen: arise, and let us rise up against her to battle.

2 Behold, I have made thee small among the heathen: thou art utterly despised.

3 The pride of thine heart hath deceived thee: thou that dwellest in the cliffs of the rocks,

¹ God hath certainly revealed to his prophets that he will raise up the heathen to destroy the Edomites, whereof the rumour is now published, Jer. 49. 14.

² Thus the heathen encourage themselves to rise against Edom.

³ Which despiseth all others in respect of thyself, and yet whose habitation is high, that saith in his heart, Who shall bring me down to the ground?

4 Though thou exalt thyself as the eagle, and make thy nest among the stars, thence will I bring thee down, saith the Lord.

5 Came thieves to thee or robbers by night? how wast thou brought to silence? would they not have stolen till they had enough? if the grape-art but an handful in comparison of others, and art shut up among the hills, as separate from the rest of the world.

⁶ God will so destroy them, that he will leave none, though thieves, when they come, take but till they have enough, and they that gather grapes, ever leave some behind them, Jer.

49. 9.

587. Bet. Chr. grape-gatherers came to thee, would they not leave some grapes?

6 How are the things of Esau sought up, and his treasures searched?

7 All the men of thy confederacy^c have driven thee to the borders: the men that were at peace with thee, have deceived thee, and prevailed against thee: they that eat thy bread, have laid a wound under thee: there is none understanding in him.

8 Shall not I in that day, saith the Lord, even destroy the wise men out of Edom, and understanding from the mount of Esau?

9 And thy strong men, O Teman, shall be afraid, because every one of the mount of Esau shall be cut off by slaughter.

10 For thy cruelty against thy^e brother Jacob, shame shall cover thee, and thou shalt be cut off for ever.

11 When thou stoodest^h on the other side, in the day that the strangers carried away his substance, and strangers entered into his gates, and cast lots upon Jerusalem, even thou wast as one of them.

12 But thou shouldest not have beholden the day of thy brother, in the day that he was madeⁱ a stranger, neither shouldest thou have rejoiced over the children of Judah, in the day of their destruction: thou shouldest not have spoken proudly in the day of affliction.

13 Thou shouldest not have entered into the gate of my people in the day of their destruction, neither shouldest thou have once looked on their affliction in the day of their destruction, nor have laid hands on their substance in the day of their destruction.

14 Neither shouldest thou have stood in the cross ways to cut off them that should escape, neither shouldest thou have shut up the remnant thereof in the day of affliction.

15 For the day^k of the Lord is near, upon all the heathen: as thou hast done, it shall be done to thee: thy reward shall return upon thine head.

16 For as ye have^l drunk upon mine holy mountain, so shall all the heathen drink continually: yea, they shall drink and swallow up, and they shall be^m as though they had not been.

17 But upon Mount Zion shall be deliverance, and it shall be holy, and the house of Jacob shall possess their possessions, 18 And the house of Jacob shall beⁿ a fire, and the house of Joseph a flame, and the house of Esau as stubble, and they shall kindle in them and devour them: and there shall be no remnant of the house of Esau: for the Lord hath spoken it.

19 And they shall possess the south side of the^o mount of Esau, and the plain of the Philistines: and they shall possess the fields of Ephraim, and the fields of Samaria, and Benjamin shall have Gilead.

20 And the captivity of this host of the children of Israel, which were among the^p Canaanites, shall possess unto Zarephath, and the captivity of Jerusalem, which is in Sepharad, shall possess the cities of the South, 21 And they^q that shall save, shall come up to mount Zion to judge the mount of Esau, and the kingdom shall be the Lord's.

^h When Nebuchadnezzar came against Jerusalem, thou joinedst with him, and hadst part of the spoil, and so didst rejoice, when my people, that is, thy brother, were afflicted, whereas thou shouldest have pitied and holpen thy brother.

^m The Edomites shall utterly be destroyed, and yet in despite of all the enemies, I will reserve my church and restore it.

ⁿ God attributeth this power, to consume his enemies, to his church, which power is only proper to himself, as Isa. 10. 17. Deut. 4. 24. Heb. 12. 29.

^o He describeth, how the church shall be enlarged and have great possessions, but this chiefly is accomplished under Christ, whenas the faithful are made heirs and lords of all things by him which is their head.

^p By the Canaanites the Jews mean the Dutchmen: and by Zarephath, France; and by Sepharad, Spain.

When Jonah had long prophesied in Israel and had little profited, God gave him express charge to go and denounce his judgments against Nineveh the chief city of the Assyrians, because he had appointed, that they which were of the heathen, should convert by the mighty power of his word, and that within three days preaching, that Israel might see how horribly they had provoked God's wrath, which for the space of so many years had not converted to the Lord for so many prophets, and so diligent preaching. He prophesied under Joash and Jeroboam, as 2 Kings 14. 25.

C H A P. I.

3 Jonah fled when he was sent to preach. 4 A tempest ariseth, and he is cast into the sea for his disobedience.

THE word of the Lord came ^a also unto Jonah the son of Amittai, saying,

2 Arise, and go to ^b Nineveh, that ^c great city, and cry against it: for their wickedness is come up before me.

3 But Jonah rose up to ^d flee into Tarshish from the presence of the Lord, and went down to ^e Japho: and he found a ship going to Tarshish: so he paid the fare thereof, and went down into it, that he might go with them unto Tarshish from the ^f presence of the Lord.

4 But the Lord sent out a great wind into the sea, and there was a mighty tempest in the sea, so that the ship was like to be broken.

5 Then the mariners were afraid, and cried every man unto his god, and cast the wares that were in the ship, into the sea, to lighten it of them: but Jonah was gone down ^g into the sides of the ship, and he lay down, and was fast asleep.

6 So the ship-master came to him, and said unto him, What meanest thou, O sleeper? Arise, call upon thy ^h God, if so be that God will think upon us, that we perish not.

7 And they said every one to his fellow, Come, and let us cast ⁱ lots, that we may know for whose cause this evil is upon us. So they cast lots, and the lot fell upon Jonah.

8 Then said they unto him, tell us, for whose cause this evil is upon us? what is thine occupation, and whence comest thou? which is thy country, and of what people art thou?

9 And he answered them, I am an Hebrew, and I fear the Lord God of heaven, which hath made the sea, and the dry land.

10 Then were the men exceedingly afraid, and said unto him, Why hast thou done this? (for the men knew that he fled from the presence of the Lord, because he had told them)

11 Then said they unto him, What shall we do unto thee, that the sea may be calm unto us? (for the sea wrought and was troublous)

12 And he said unto them, Take me, and cast me into the sea, so shall the sea be calm unto you: for I know that for my sake this great tempest is upon you.

13 Nevertheless, the men rowed to bring it to the land, but they could not: for the sea wrought, and was troublous against them.

14 Wherefore they cried unto the Lord, and said, ^k We beseech thee, O Lord, we beseech thee, let us not perish for this man's life, and lay not upon us innocent blood: for thou, O Lord, hast done as it pleased thee.

15 So they took up Jonah, and cast him into the sea, and the sea ceased from her raging.

16 Then the men ^l feared the Lord exceedingly, and offered a sacrifice unto the Lord, and made vows.

17 Now the Lord had prepared a great fish to swallow up Jonah: and Jonah was in the ^m belly of the fish three days and three nights.

1 Jonah is in the fish's belly. 2 His prayer. 10 He is delivered.

THEN Jonah prayed unto the Lord his God, ⁿ out of the fish's belly,

2 And said, I cried in mine affliction unto the Lord, and he heard me: out of the ^o belly of hell cried I, and thou heardest my voice.

3 For thou hadst cast me into the bottom in the midst of the sea, and the floods compassed me about: all thy surges and all thy waves passed over me.

4 Then I said, I am ^p cast away out of thy sight: yet will I look again toward thine holy temple.

5 The waters compassed me about unto the soul: the depth closed me round about, and the weeds were wrapt about my head.

6 I went down to the bottom of the mountains: the earth with her bars was about me for ever, yet hast thou brought up my ^q life from the pit, O Lord my God.

7 When my soul fainted within me, I remembered the Lord: and my prayer came unto thee into thine holy temple.

8 They that wait upon lying ^r vanities, forsake their own ^s mercy.

9 But

^a After that he had preached a long time in Israel: and so Ezekiel, after that for a time he had prophesied in Judah, he had visions in Babylon, Ezek. 1. 1.

^b For seeing the great obstination of the Israelites, he sent his prophet to the Gentiles, that they might provoke them to repentance, or at least, make them inexcusable: for Nineveh was the chief city of the Assyrians.

^c For as authors write, it contained in circuit about eight and forty miles, and had a thousand and five hundred towers, and at this time there were an hundred and twenty thousand children therein, chap. 4. 11.

^d Whereby he declareth his weakness, that would not promptly follow the Lord's calling, but gave place to his own reason, which persuaded him that he should nothing at all profit there, seeing he had done so small good among his own people, chap. 4. 2.

^e Which was the haven and port to take shipping thither, called also Joppa.

^f From that vocation whereunto God had called him, and wherein he would have assisted him.

^g As one that would have cast off this care and solicitude, by seeking rest and quietness.

^h As they had called on their idols, which declareth that idolaters have no stay nor certainty, but in their troubles seek they cannot tell to whom.

ⁱ Which declareth, that the matter was in great extremity and doubt, which thing was God's motion in them, for the trial of the cause: and this may not be done but in matters of great importance.

^k This declarath that the very wicked in their necessities flee unto God for succour, and also that they are touched with a certain fear to shed man's blood, whereas they know no manifest sign of wickedness.

^l They were touched with a certain repentance of their life past, and began to worship the true God, by whom they saw themselves so wonderfully delivered: but this was done for fear and not of a pure heart and affection, neither according to God's word.

^m Thus the Lord would chastise his prophet with a most terrible spectacle of death, and hereby also confirmed him of his favour and support in this his charge, which was enjoined him.

ⁿ Being now swallowed up of death and seeing no remedy to escape, his faith brake out unto the Lord, knowing that out of the very hell he was able to deliver him.

^o For he was now in the fish's belly, as in a grave or place of darkness.

^p This declared what his prayer was, and how he laboured between hope and despair, considering the neglect of his vocation, and God's judgments for the same: but yet in the end faith got the victory.

^q Thou hast delivered me from the belly of the fish, and all these dangers, as it were raising me from death to life.

^r They that depend upon any thing save on God alone. ^s They refuse their own felicity, and that goodness which they should else receive of God.

10 And the Lord spake unto the fish, and it cast out Jonah upon the dry land.

C H A P. III.

1 Jonah is sent again to Nineveh. 5 The repentance of the king of Nineveh.

AND the word of the Lord came unto ^aJonah the second time, saying,

2 Arise, go unto ^bNineveh that great city, and preach unto it the preaching which I bid thee.

3 So Jonah arose and went to Nineveh according to the word of the Lord: now Nineveh was a ^cgreat and excellent city of three days journey.

4 And Jonah began to enter into the city a day's ^djourney, and he cried, and said, Yet forty days, and Nineveh shall be overthrown.

5 So the people of Nineveh ^ebelieved God, and proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth, from the greatest of them, even to the least of them.

6 For the word came unto the king of Nineveh, and he arose from his throne, and he laid his robe from him, and covered him with sackcloth, and sat in ashes.

7 And he proclaimed and said through Nineveh, (by the counsel of the king and his nobles) saying, Let neither man nor ^fbeast, bullock nor sheep, taste any thing, neither feed, nor drink water.

8 But let man and beast put on sackcloth, and ^gcry mightily unto God: yea, let every man turn from his evil way, and from the wickedness that is in their hands.

9 ^hWho can tell if God will turn and repent, and turn away from his fierce wrath, that we perish not?

10 And God saw their ⁱworks, that they turned from their evil ways: and ^jGod repented of the evil that he said that he would do unto them, and he did it not.

^a This is a great declaration of God's mercy, that he receiveth him again, and sendeth him forth as his prophet, which had before shewed so great infirmity.

^b Read chap. 1. 2.

^c He went forward one day in the city and preached, and so he continued till the city was converted.

^d For he declared that he was a prophet sent to them from God, to denounce his judgments against them.

^e Not that the dumb beasts had sinned, or could repent, but that by their example man might be astonished, considering that for his sin the anger of God hanged over all creatures.

^f He willed that the men should earnestly call unto God for mercy.

^g For partly by the threatening of the prophet, and partly by the motion of his conscience, he doubted whether God would shew them mercy.

^h That is, the fruits of their repentance, which did proceed of faith, which God had planted by the ministry of his prophet.

ⁱ Read Jer. 18. 8.

^j Because hereby he should be taken as a false prophet,

C H A P. IV.

The great goodness of God toward his creatures.

Therefore it displeas'd ^aJonah exceedingly, and he was angry.

2 And he prayed unto the Lord, and said, I pray thee, O Lord, was not this my saying, when I was yet in my country? therefore I prevented it to flee unto ^bTarshish: for I knew that thou art a gracious God, and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness, and repentest thee of the evil.

3 Therefore now, O Lord, take, I beseech thee, my life ^cfrom me: for it is better for me to die than to live.

4 Then said the Lord, dost thou well to be ^dangry?

5 So Jonah went out of the city, and sat on the east side of the city, and there made him a booth, and sat under it in the shadow ^etill he might see what should be done in the city.

6 And the Lord God prepared a ^fgourd, and made it to come up over Jonah, that it might be a shadow over his head, and deliver him from his grief. So Jonah was exceedingly glad of the gourd.

7 But God prepared a worm when the morning rose the next day, and it smote the gourd, that it withered.

8 And when the sun did arise, God prepared also a fervent east wind, and the sun beat upon the head of Jonah, that he fainted, and wished in his heart to die, and said, It is better for me to die than to live.

9 And God said unto Jonah, Dost thou well to be angry for the gourd? And he said, I do well to be ^gangry unto the death.

10 Then said the Lord, Thou hast had pity on the gourd, for the which thou hast not laboured, neither madest it grow, which came up in a night, and perished in a night:

11 And should ^hI not spare Nineveh that great city, wherein are six-score thousand persons that ⁱcannot discern between their right hand, and their left hand, and also much cattle?

and so the name of God, which he preached, should be blasphemed.

^a Read chap. 1. 3.

^b Thus he prayed of grief, fearing lest God's name by this forgiveness might be blasphemed, as though he sent his prophets forth to denounce his judgments in vain.

^c Wilt thou be judge when I do things for my glory, and when I do not?

^d For he doubted as yet, whether God would shew them mercy or not, and therefore after forty days he departed out of the city, looking what issue God would send.

^e Which was a further means to cover him from the heat of the sun, as he remained in his booth.

^f This declareth the great inconveniences whereinto God's servants do fall, when they give place to their own affections. and do not in all things willingly submit themselves to God.

^g Thus God mercifully reproveth him, which would pity himself, and this gourd, and yet would restrain God to shew his compassion to so many thousand people.

^h Meaning, that they were children and infants.

THE ARGUMENT.

Micah the prophet, of the tribe of Judah, served in the work of the Lord concerning Judah and Israel at the least thirty years: at what time Isaiah prophesied. He declareth the destruction, first of the one kingdom, and then of the other, because of their manifold wickedness, but chiefly for their idolatry. And to this may be noted the wickedness of the people, the cruelty of the princes and governors, and the permission of false prophets, and the delighting in them. Then he setteth forth the coming of Christ, his kingdom, and the felicity thereof. This prophet was not that Micah which resisted Ahab and all his false prophets, as 1 Kings 22. 8. but another of the same name.

CHAP. I.

1 The destruction of Judah and Israel because of their idolatry.

THE word of the Lord, that came unto Micah the ^a Morashite in the days of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, which he saw concerning Samaria and Jerusalem.

2 Hear, ^b all ye people: hearken thou, O earth, and all that therein is, and let the Lord God be witness against you, even the Lord from his holy temple.

3 For behold, the Lord cometh out of his place, and will come ^c down, and tread upon the high places of the earth.

4 And the mountains shall melt under him (so shall the vallies cleave) as wax before the fire, and as the waters that are poured downward.

5 For the wickedness of Jacob is all this, and for the sins of the house of Israel: what is the wickedness of Jacob? Is not ^d Samaria? and which are the ^e high places of Judah? Is not Jerusalem?

6 Therefore I will make Samaria as an heap of the field, and for the planting of a vineyard, and I will cause the stones thereof to tumble down in the valley, and I will discover the foundations thereof.

7 And all the graven images thereof shall be broken, and all the ^f gifts thereof shall be burnt with the fire, and all the idols thereof will I destroy: for she gathered it of the hire of an harlot, and they shall return ^g to the wages of an harlot.

8 Therefore I will mourn and howl: I will go without cloaths, and naked: I will make lamentation like the dragons, and mourning as the ostriches.

^a Born in Maresah, a city of Judah.

^b Because of the malice and obstinacy of the people whom he had so oft exhorted to repentance, he summoneth them to God's judgments, taking all creatures and God himself to witness, that the preaching of his prophets, which they have abused, shall be revenged.

^c Meaning hereby, that God will come to judgment against the strong cities and holds.

^d Samaria, which should have been an example to all Israel of true religion and justice, was the puddle and stews of all idolatry and corruption, and boasted themselves of their father Jacob.

^e That is, the idolatry and infection.

^f Which they gathered by evil practices, and thought that their idols had enriched them therewith, for their service done unto them.

^g The gain that came by their idols, shall be consumed as a thing of nought; for as the wages or riches of harlots are wickedly gotten, so are they vilely and speedily spent.

^h Let the Philistines our enemies rejoice at our destruction.

ⁱ Which was a city near to Jerusalem, Josh. 18. 23. there called Ophrah, and signifieth dust: therefore he will-

9 For her plagues are grievous: for it is come into Judah: the enemy is come unto the gate of my people, unto Jerusalem.

10 Declare ye it not at ^h Gath, neither weep ye: for the house of ⁱ Aphrah roll thyself in the dust.

11 Thou that dwellest at ^k Shaphir, go together naked with shame: she that dwelleth at Zaanan shall not come forth in the mourning of Beth-ezel: the enemy shall ^l receive of you for his standing.

13 O thou inhabitant of Lachish, bind the chariot to the ⁿ beasts ^o of price: she ^o is the beginning of the sin to the daughter of Zion: for the transgressions of Israel were found in thee.

14 Therefore shalt thou give presents to Moreseth ^p Gath: the houses of Achzib shall be as a lye to the kings of Israel.

15 Yet will I bring an ^q heir unto thee, O inhabitant of Maresah, he shall come unto Adullam, ^r the glory of Israel.

16 Make thee bald: and shave thee for thy delicate children: enlarge thy baldness as the eagle, for they are gone into captivity from thee.

3 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold, against this family have I devised a plague, whereout ye shall not pluck your necks, and ye shall not go so proudly, for this time is evil.

4 In that day shall they take up a parable against you, and lament with a doleful lamentation, and say, ' We be utterly wasted: he hath changed the portion of my people: how hath he taken it away to restore it unto me? he hath divided our fields.

5 Therefore thou shalt have none that shall cast a cord by lot in ⁿ the congregation of the Lord.

6 ^w They that prophesied, prophesy ye not. ^z They shall not prophesy to them, neither shall they take shame.

7 O thou that art named of the house of Jacob, is the Spirit of the Lord shortened? ^y are these his works? are not my words good unto him ^z that walketh uprightly?

8 But he that was ^z yesterday my people, is risen up on the other side, as against an enemy: they spoil the ^b beautiful garment from them that pass by peaceably, as though they returned from the war.

9 The women of my people have ye cast out from their pleasant houses, and from their children have ye taken away ^c my glory continually.

10 Arise, and depart, for this is not your ^d rest: because it is polluted, it shall destroy you, even with a sore destruction.

11 If a man ^e walk in the spirit, and would lye falsely, saying, ' I will prophesy unto thee of wine, and of strong drink, he shall even be the prophet of this people.

12 I will surely ^z gather thee wholly, O Jacob: I will surely gather the remnant of Israel: I will put them together as the sheep of Bozrah, even as the flock in the midst of their fold: the cities shall be full of bruit of the men.

13 The ^b breaker-up shall come up before them: they shall break out, and pass by the gate, and go out by it, and their king shall go before them, and the Lord shall be ⁱ upon their heads.

¹ Thus the Jews lament, and say, that there is no hope of restitution, seeing their possessions are divided among the enemies.

^u Ye shall have no more lands to divide, as you had in times past, and as you used to measure them in the jubilee.

^w Thus the people warn the prophets that they speak to them no more. for they cannot abide their threatenings.

^x God saith that they shall not prophesy, nor receive any more of their rebukes or taunts.

^y Are these your works according to his law?

^z Do not the godly find my words comfortable?

^a That is, aforesaid.

^b The poor can have no commodity by them, but they spoil them as though they were enemies.

^c That is, their substance and living, which is God's blessing, and as it were part of his glory.

^d Jerusalem shall not be your safeguard, but the cause of your destruction.

^e That is, shew himself to be a prophet.

^f He sheweth what prophets they delight in, that is, in flatterers, which tell them pleasant tales, and speak of their commodities.

^g To destroy thee.

^h The enemy shall break their gates and walls, and lead them into Chaldea.

ⁱ To drive them forward, and to help their enemies.

^k That thing which is just and lawful, both to govern my people aright, and also to discharge your own conscience?

1 Against the tyranny of princes, and false prophets.

AND I said, Hear, I pray you, O heads of Jacob, and ye princes of the house of Israel: should not ye know ^k judgment?

2 But they hate the good, and love the evil: they pluck off their skins from them, and their flesh from their bones.

3 And they eat also the ^l flesh of my people, and flay off their skin from them, and they break their bones, and chop them in pieces as for the pot, and as flesh within the cauldron.

4 Then ^m shall they cry unto the Lord, but he will not hear them: he will even hide his face from them at that time, because they have done wickedly in their works.

5 Thus saith the Lord, Concerning the prophets that deceive my people, and ⁿ bite them with their teeth, and cry peace, but if a man put not into their mouths, they prepare war against him.

6 Therefore ^o night shall be unto you for a vision, and darkness shall be unto you for a divination, and the sun shall go down over the prophets, and the day shall be dark over them.

7 Then shall the seers be ashamed, and the soothsayers confounded: yea, they shall all ^p cover their lips, for they have none answer of God.

8 Yet notwithstanding I am full ^q of power by the Spirit of the Lord, and of judgment, and of strength to declare unto Jacob his transgression, and to Israel his sin.

9 Hear this, I pray you, ye heads of the house of Jacob, and princes of the house of Israel: they abhor judgment, and pervert all equity.

10 They build up Zion with ^r blood, and Jerusalem with iniquity.

11 The heads thereof judge for rewards, and the priests thereof teach for hire, and the prophets thereof prophesy for money: yet will they lean upon the Lord, and say, Is not the Lord among us? no evil can come upon us.

12 Therefore shall Zion for your sake be ^s plowed as a field, and Jerusalem shall be an heap, and ¹ The prophet condemneth the wicked governors, not only of covetousness, theft and murder, but compareth them to wolves, lions, and most cruel beasts.

^u That is, when I shall visit their wickedness: for though I hear the godly before they cry, Isa. 1. 65. 24. yet I will not hear those though they cry, Isa. 15. and Ezek. 8. 18. James 2. 12. 1 Pet. 3. 11, 12.

^w They devour all their substance, and then flatter them, promising that all shall go well: but if one restrain from their bellies, then they invent all ways to mischief.

^x As you have loved to walk in darkness, and to prophesy lyes, so God shall reward you with gross blindness and ignorance, so that when all others shall see the bright beams of God's graces, ye shall as blind men grope as in the night.

^y When God shall discover them to the world, they shall be afraid to speak: for all shall know that they were but false prophets, and did belye the word of God.

^z The prophet being assured of his vocation by the Spirit of God, letteth himself alone against all the wicked, shewing how God both gave him gifts, ability and knowledge, to discern between good and evil, and also constancy to reprove the sins of the people, and not to flatter them.

^a They build them houses by bribery, which he calleth blood and iniquity.

^b They will say, that they are the people of God, and abuse his name as a pretence to cloak their hypocrisy.

2 Yea, many nations shall come and say, Come, and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, and to the house of the God of Jacob, and he will ⁴ teach us his ways, and we will walk in his paths: for the law shall go forth of Zion, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem,

3 And he shall judge among many people, and ⁵ rebuke mighty nations afar off, and they shall break their swords into mattocks, and their spears into ⁶ scythes: nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, neither shall they ⁷ learn to fight any more.

4 But they shall sit every man under his vine, and under his fig-tree, and none shall make them afraid: for the mouth of the Lord of hosts hath spoken it.

An exhortation to the dumb creatures to bear the judgment against Israel being unkind. 6 What manner of sacrifices do please God.

HEARKEN ye now what the Lord saith, Arise thou, and contend before the mountains, and let the hills hear thy voice.

2 Hear ye, O mountains, the Lord's quarrel, and ye mighty foundations of the earth: for the Lord hath a quarrel against his people, and he will plead with Israel.

3 O my people, what have I done unto thee? or wherein have I grieved thee? testify against me.

king of Moab had devised, and what Balaam, Bef. Chr. the son of Beor, answered him, from Shittim unto Gilgal, that ye may know the righteousness of the Lord.

6 Wherewith shall I come before the Lord, and bow myself before the high God? shall I come before him with burnt-offerings, and with calves of a year old?

7 Will the Lord be pleased with thousands of rams, or with ten thousand rivers of oil? shall I give my first-born for my transgression, even the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul?

8 He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good, and what the Lord requireth of thee: surely to do justly, and to love mercy, and to humble thyself to walk with thy God.

9 The Lord's voice crieth unto the city, and the man of wisdom shall see thy name: Hear the rod, and who hath appointed it.

10 Are yet the treasures of wickedness in the house of the wicked, and the scant measure that is abominable?

11 Shall I justify the wicked balances, and the bag of deceitful weights?

12 For the rich men thereof are full of cruelty, and the inhabitants thereof have spoken lies, and their tongue is deceitful in their mouth.

13 Therefore also will I make thee sick in smiting thee, and in making thee desolate, because of thy sins.

14 Thou shalt eat and not be satisfied, and thy casting down shall be in the midst of thee, and thou shalt take hold, but shalt not deliver: and that which thou deliverest, will I give up to the sword.

15 Thou shalt sow, but not reap: thou shalt tread the olives, but thou shalt not anoint thee with oil: and make sweet wine, but shalt not drink wine.

16 For the statutes of Omri are kept, and all the manner of the house of Ahab, and ye walk in their counsels, that I should make thee waste, and the inhabitants thereof an hissing: therefore ye shall bear the reproach of my people.

anger: but they will never be brought to mortify their own affections, and give themselves willingly to serve God as he commandeth.

^b The prophet in few words calleth them to the observation of the second table, to know if they will obey God aright or no, saying, that God hath prescribed them to do this.

^c Meaning, that when God speaketh to any city or nation, the godly will acknowledge his Majesty, and consider not the mortal man that bringeth the threatening, but God that sendeth it.

^d That is, of Jerusalem.

^e Thou shalt be consumed with inward grief and evils.

^f Meaning, that the city should go about to save her men, as they that lay hold on that which they would preserve.

^g You have received all the corruption and idolatry, wherewith the ten tribes were infected under Omri, and Ahab his son: and to excuse your doings, you alledge the king's authority by his statutes, and also wisdom and policy in so doing, but you shall not escape punishment, but as I shewed you great favour, and took you for my people, so shall your plagues be accordingly, Luke 12. 47.

WO is me, for I am as the summer gatherings, and as the grapes of the vintage: there is no cluster to eat: my soul desired the first ripe fruits.

2 The good man is perished out of the earth, and there is none righteous among them: they all lie in wait for blood: every man hunteth his brother with a net.

3 To make good for the evil of their hands, the prince asked, and the judge judgeth for a reward: therefore the great man he speaketh out the corruption of his soul: so they wrap it up.

4 The best of them is as a brier, and the most righteous of them is sharper than a thorn hedge: the day of thy watchmen and thy visitation cometh: then shall be their confusion.

5 Trust ye not in a friend, neither put ye confidence in a counsellor: keep the doors of thy mouth from her that lieth in thy bosom:

6 For the son revileth the father: the daughter riseth up against her mother: the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law, and a man's enemies are the men of his own house.

7 Therefore I will look unto the Lord: I will wait for God my Saviour: my God will hear me.

8 Rejoice not against me, O mine enemy: though I fall, I shall arise: when I shall sit in darkness, the Lord shall be a light unto me.

9 I will bear the wrath of the Lord, because I have sinned against him, until he plead my cause, and execute judgment for me: then will he bring me forth to the light, and I shall see his righteousness.

10 Then she that is mine enemy, shall look upon it, and shame shall cover her, which said unto me, Where is the Lord thy God? Mine eyes shall behold her: now shall she be trodden down as the mire of the streets.

11 This is the day that thy walls shall be built: this day shall drive far away the decree.

12 In this day also they shall come unto thee from Ashur, and from the strong cities, and from the strong holds even unto the river, and from sea to sea, and from mountain to mountain.

13 Notwithstanding, the land shall be desolate because of them that dwell therein, and for the fruits of their inventions.

14 Feed thy people with thy rod, the flock of thine heritage (which dwell solitary in the wood) as in the midst of Carmel: let them feed in Bashan and Gilead, as in old time.

15 According to the days of thy coming out of the land of Egypt, will I shew unto him marvellous things.

16 The nations shall see, and be confounded for all their power: they shall lay their hand upon their mouth: their ears shall be deaf.

17 They shall lick the dust like a serpent: they shall move out of their holes like worms: they shall be afraid of the Lord our God, and shall fear because of thee.

18 Who is a God like unto thee, that taketh away iniquity, and passeth by the transgression of the remnant of his heritage? He retaineth not his wrath for ever, because mercy pleaseth him.

19 He will turn again, and have compassion upon us: he will subdue our iniquities, and cast all their sins into the bottom of the sea.

20 Thou wilt perform thy truth to Jacob, and mercy to Abraham, as thou hast sworn unto our fathers in old time.

^a The prophet taketh upon him the person of the earth, which complaineth that all her fruits are gone, so that none is left: that is, that there is no godly man remaining: for all are given to cruelty and deceit, so that none spareth his own brother.

^b He sheweth that the prince, the judge, and the rich man are linked together, all to do evil, and to cloke the doings one of another.

^c That is, the rich man that is able to give money, abstraineth from no wickedness nor injury.

^d These men agree among themselves, and conspire with one consent to do evil.

^e They that are of most estimation, and are counted most honest among them, are but thorns and briers to prick.

^f Meaning of the prophets and governors.

^g The prophet sheweth that the only remedy for the godly in desperate evils, is to flee unto God for succour.

^h This is spoken in the person of the church, which calleth the malignant church her enemy.

ⁱ To wit, when God shall shew himself a deliverer of his church and a destroyer of his enemies.

^k Meaning, the cruel empire of the Babylonians.

^l When the church shall be restored, they that were enemies afore shall come out of all the corners of the world unto her, so that neither holds, rivers, seas, nor mountains shall be able to let them.

^m Afore this grace appear, he sheweth how grievously the hypocrites themselves shall be punished, seeing that the earth itself, which cannot sin, shall be made waste because of their wickedness.

ⁿ The prophet prayeth to God to be merciful unto his church, when they should be scattered abroad as in solitary places in Babylon, and to be beneficial unto them as in time past.

^o God promiseth to be favourable to his people, as he had been aforetime.

^p They shall be as dumb men, and dare brag no more.

^q They shall be astonished and afraid to hear men speak, lest they should hear of their destruction.

^r They shall fall flat on the ground for fear.

^s As though he would not see it, but wink at it.

^t Meaning, of his elect.

^u The church is assured that God will declare in effect the truth of his merciful promise which he had made of old to Abraham, and to all that should apprehend the promise by faith.

N A H U M.

THE ARGUMENT.

As they of Nineveh shewed themselves prompt and ready to receive the words of God at Jonah's preaching, and so turned to the Lord by repentance: so after a certain time, rather giving themselves to worldly means to increase their dominion, than seeking to continue in the fear of God, and trade wherein they had begun, they cast off the care of religion, and so returned to their vomit, and provoked God's just judgment against them, in afflicting his people. Therefore their city Nineveh was destroyed, and Meroch-baladan king of Babel (or, as some think, Nebuchadnezzar) enjoyed the empire of the Assyrians. But because God hath continual care of his church, he stirreth up his prophet to comfort the godly, shewing that the destruction of their enemies should be for their consolation. And as it seemeth, he prophesied about the time of Hezekiah, and not in the time of Manasseh his son, as the Jews write.

C H A P. I.

Of the destruction of the Assyrians, and of the deliverance of Israel.

THE ^aburden of Nineveh. ^bThe book of the vision of Nahum the ^cElkeshite.

2 God is ^djealous, and the Lord revengeth: the Lord revengeth: even the Lord ^eof anger, the Lord will take vengeance on his adversaries, and he reserveth wrath for his enemies.

3 The ^fLord is slow to anger, but he is great in power, and will not surely clear the wicked: the Lord hath his way in the whirlwind and in the storm, and the clouds are the dust of his feet.

4 He rebuketh the sea, and drieth it, and he drieth up all the rivers: Bashan is wasted and Carmel, and the flower of Lebanon is wasted.

5 The mountains tremble for him, and the hills melt, and the earth is burnt at his sight, yea, the world, and all that dwell therein.

6 ^gWho can stand before his wrath? or who can abide in the fierceness of his wrath? his wrath is poured out like fire, and the rocks are broken by him.

7 The Lord is good ^hand as a strong hold in the day of trouble, and he knoweth them that trust in him.

8 But passing over as with a flood, he will utterly destroy the ⁱplace thereof, and darkness shall pursue his enemies.

9 What do ye ^kimagine against the Lord? he will make an utter destruction: affliction shall not rise up the second time:

10 For he shall come as unto ^lthorns folded one in another, and as unto drunkards in their drunkenness: they shall be devoured as stubble fully dried.

11 There ^mcometh one out of thee: that imagineth evil against the Lord, even a wicked counsellor.

12 Thus saith the Lord, Though they be ⁿquiet, and also many, yet thus shall they be cut off when he shall pass by: though I have afflicted thee, I will afflict thee no more.

13 For now I will break his yoke from thee, and will burst thy bonds in sunder.

^a Read Isa. 13. 1.

^b The vision or revelation, which God commanded Nahum to write concerning the Ninevites.

^c That is, born in a poor village in the tribe of Simeon.

^d Meaning, of his glory.

^e With his he is but angry for a time, but his anger never awageth toward the reprobate, though for a time he defer it.

^f Thus the wicked would make God's mercy an occasion to sin, but the prophet willeth them to consider his force and justice.

^g If all creatures be at God's commandment, and none is able to resist his wrath, shall man flatter himself, and think by any means to escape when he provoketh his God to anger?

^h Lest the faithful should be discouraged by hearing the power of God, he sheweth them that his mercies appertain unto them, and that he hath care over them.

ⁱ Signifying, that God will suddenly destroy Nineveh, and the Assyrians, in such sort, as they shall lie in perpetual darkness, and never recover their strength again.

^k He sheweth that the enterprises of the Assyrians against Judah and the church, were against God, and therefore he would to destroy them at once, that he should not need to return the second time.

^l Though the Assyrians think themselves like thorns that prick on all sides, yet the Lord will set fire on them, and as drunken men are not able to stand against any force, so they shall be nothing able to resist him.

^m Which may be understood either of Sennacherib, or of 14 And the Lord hath given a commandment ^{Ref. Chr.} concerning thee, that no more of thy name be ^{713.} fown: out of the house of thy gods will I cut off the graven and the molten image: I will make it thy grave for thee, for thou art vile.

15 ^{*}Behold, upon the mountains the feet of ⁿhim that declareth and publisheth ^opeace: O ^{Ref. Chr.} Judah, keep thy solemn feasts, perform thy vows: for the wicked shall no more pass through thee: he is utterly cut off.

THE ^pdestroyer is come before thy face: keep the munition: look to the way: make thy loins strong: increase thy strength mightily.

2 For the Lord hath ^rturned away the glory of Jacob, as the glory of Israel: for the emptiers have emptied them out, and ^smarred their vine-branches.

3 The shield of his mighty men is made red: ^tthe valiant men are in scarlet: the chariots shall be as in the fire, and flames in the day of his preparation, and ^uthe fir-trees shall tremble.

4 The chariots shall rage in the streets: they shall run to and fro in the high-ways, they shall seem like lamps: they shall shoot like the lightning.

5 ^vHe shall remember his strong men: they shall stumble as they go: they shall make haste to the walls thereof, and the defence shall be prepared.

6 The gates of the rivers shall be opened, and the palace shall melt.

7 And Huzzab the queen shall be led away captive, and her maids shall lead her as with the voice of doves, smiting upon their breasts.

8 But Nineveh is ^xof old like a pool of water: yet they shall flee away. Stand, stand, shall they cry: but none shall look back.

the whole body of the people of Nineveh.

ⁿ Though they think themselves in most safety, and of greatest strength, yet when God shall pass by, he will destroy them: notwithstanding, he comforteth his church, and promiseth to make an end of punishing them by the Assyrians.

^o Meaning Sennacherib, who should have no more children, but be slain in the house of his gods, 2 Kings 19. 36, 37.

^p Which peace the Jews should enjoy by the death of Sennacherib.

^q That is, Nebuchadnezzar is in a readiness to destroy the Assyrians: and the prophet derideth the enterprises of the Assyrians which prepared to resist him.

^r Seeing God hath punished his own people Judah and Israel, he will now punish the enemies by whom he scourged them: read Isa. 10. 12.

^s Signifying, that the Israelites were utterly destroyed.

^t Both to fear the enemy, and also that they themselves should not so soon espy blood one of another to discourage them.

^u Meaning, their spears should shake and crash together.

^v Then the Assyrians shall seek by all means to gather their power, but all things shall fail them.

^w The Assyrians will flatter themselves and say, that Nineveh is so ancient that it can never perish, and is as a fish-pool, whose waters they that walk on the banks cannot touch: but they shall be scattered, and shall not look back, though men would call them.

^y God commandeth the enemies to spoil Nineveh, and promiseth them infinite riches and treasures.

2 A complaint against the wicked that persecute the just.

THE burden which Habakkuk the prophet did see.

2 O Lord, how long shall I cry, and thou wilt not hear? even cry out unto thee ^a for violence, and thou wilt not help?

3 Why dost thou shew me iniquity, and cause me to behold sorrow? for spoiling and violence are before me: and there are that raise up strife and contention.

4 Therefore the law is dissolved, and judgment doth never go forth: for the wicked doth ^b compass about the righteous: therefore ^c wrong judgment proceedeth.

5 Behold among the heathen, and regard and wonder, and marvel: for I will work a work in your days: ^d ye will not believe it, though it be told you.

6 For lo, I raise up the Chaldeans, that bitter and furious nation, which shall go upon the breadth of the land to possess the dwelling-places that are not theirs.

7 They are terrible ^e and fearful: ^e their judgment and their dignity shall proceed of themselves.

8 Their horses also are swifter than the leopards, and are more fierce than the wolves in the ^f evening: and their horsemen are many: and their horsemen shall come from far: they shall flee as the eagle hasting to meat.

9 They come all to spoil: before their faces shall be an ^g east wind, and they shall gather the captivity ^h as the sand.

10 And they shall mock the kings, and the princes shall be a scorn unto them: they shall deride every strong hold: for they shall gather ⁱ dust, and take it.

11 Then shall they ^j take courage, and transgress and do wickedly, imputing this their power unto their god.

12 Art not thou of old, O Lord my God, mine Holy one? we shall ^k not die: O Lord, thou hast ordained them for judgment, and, O God, thou hast established them for correction.

13 Thou art of pure eyes, and canst not see evil: thou canst not behold wickedness: wherefore dost thou look upon the transgressors, and holdest thy tongue when the wicked devoureth the man that is more righteous than he? Bef. Chr. 626.

14 And makest men as the ^l fishes of the sea, and as the creeping things, that have no ruler over them?

15 They take up all with the ancle: they catch it in their net, and gather it in their yarn, whereof they rejoice and are glad.

16 Therefore they sacrifice unto their ^m net, and burn incense unto their yarn, because by them their portion is fat, and their meat plentifulous.

17 Shall they therefore stretch out their net, and not spare continually to slay ⁿ the nations?

3 For the vision is yet for an appointed time, but at the ^q last it shall speak, and not lye: though it tarry, wait: for it shall surely come, and shall not stay.

4 Behold, ^r he that lifteth up himself, his mind is not upright in him: but the just shall live by his faith:

5 Yea, indeed the proud man is as ^s he that transgresseth by wine: therefore shall he not endure, because he hath enlarged his desire as the hell, and is as death, and cannot be satisfied, but gathereth unto him all nations, and heapeth unto him all people.

6 Shall not all these take up a parable against him, and a ranting proverb against him, and say, Ho, he that increaseth that which is not his! ^t how long? and he that ladeth himself with thick clay?

7 Shall ^u they not rise up suddenly, that shall bite thee? and awake, that shall stir thee? and thou shalt be their prey?

^a Signifying, that the covetous man is the mine of his own house, when as he thinketh to enrich it by cruelty and oppression.

^b The stones of the house shall cry, and say, that they are built of blood, and the wood shall answer, and say the same of itself.

^c Meaning, that God will not defer his vengeance long, but will see and destroy all their labours, as though they were consumed with fire.

^d In the destruction of the Babylonians his glory shall appear through all the world.

^e He reproacheth thus the king of Babylon, who as he was drunken with covetousness and cruelty, so he provoked others to the same, and inflamed them by his rage, and so in the end brought them to shame.

Seeing the great rebellion of the people, and that there was now no hope of amendment, he denounceth the great judgment of God which was at hand, shewing that their country should be utterly destroyed, and they carried away captives by the Babylonians. Yet for the comfort of the faithful he prophesied of God's vengeance against their enemies, as the Philistines, Moabites, Assyrians, and others, to assure them that God had a continual care over them. And as the wicked should be punished for their sins and transgressions: So he exhorteth the godly to patience, and to trust to find mercy by reason of the free promise of God made unto Abraham: therefore quietly to abide till God shew them the effect of that grace, whereby in the end they should be gathered unto him, and counted as his people and children.

THE ARGUMENT.

When the time of the seventy years captivity prophesied by Jeremiah was expired, God raised up Haggai, Zechariah, and Malachi, to comfort the Jews, and to exhort them to the building of the temple, which was a figure of the spiritual temple and church of God, whose perfection and excellence stood in Christ. And because that all were given to their own pleasures and commodities, he declareth that that plague of famine, which God then sent among them, was a just reward of their ingratitude, in that they contemned God's honour, who had delivered them. Yet he comforteth them, if they will return to the Lord, with the promise of greater felicity, forasmuch as the Lord will finish the work that he hath begun, and send Christ whom he had promised, and by whom they should attain to perfect joy and glory.

CHAP. I.

1 The time of the prophecy of Haggai. 8 An exhortation to build the temple again.

IN the second year of king^a Darius, in the sixth month, the first day of the month, came the word of the Lord (by the ministry of the prophet Haggai) unto^b Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, a prince of Judah, and to Joshua the son of Josedech the high priest, saying,
2 Thus speaketh the Lord of hosts, saying,

This people say, The time is not yet come that the Lord's house should be builded.

3 Then came the word of the Lord by the ministry of the prophet Haggai, saying,

4 Is it time for yourselves to dwell in your cieled houses, and this house lie waste?

5 Now therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts, Consider your own ways in your hearts.

6 Ye have sown much, and bring in little: ye eat, but ye have not enough: ye drink, but ye

^a Who was the son of Hystaspis, and the third king of the Persians, as some think.
^b Because the building of the temple began to cease, by reason that the people were discouraged by their enemies: and if these two notable men had need to be stirred up, and admonished of their duties, what shall we think of other governors, whose doings are either against God, or very cold in his cause?

^c Not that they condemned the building thereof, but they preferred policy and private profit to religion, being content with small beginnings.
^d Shewing, that they sought not only their necessities, but their very pleasures before God's honour.
^e Consider the plagues of God upon you for preferring your policies to his religion, and because ye seek not him first of all.

Can ye are not filled: ye clothe you, but ye be not warm: and he that earneth wages, putteth the wages into a broken bag.

7 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Consider your own ways in your hearts.

8 Go^f up to the mountain and bring wood, and build this house, and I will be favourable in it, and I will be glorified, saith the Lord.

9 Ye looked for much, and lo, it came to little: and when ye brought it home, I did blow^u upon it. And why, saith the Lord of hosts? Because of mine house that is waste, and ye run every man to his own house.

10 Therefore the heaven over you stayed itself from dew, and the earth stayed her fruit, 11 And I called for a drought upon the land, and upon the mountains, and upon the corn, and upon the wine, and upon the oil, upon all that the ground bringeth forth: both upon men and upon cattle, and upon all the labour of the hands.

12 When Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, and Joshua the son of Josedech the high priest, with all the remnant of the people, heard the voice of the Lord their God, and the works of the prophet Haggai (as the Lord their God had sent him) then the people did fear before the Lord.

13 Then spake Haggai the Lord's messenger in the Lord's message unto the people, saying, I am with you, saith the Lord.

14 And the Lord stirred up¹ the spirit of Zerubbabel, the son of Shealtiel, a prince of Judah, and the spirit of Joshua the son of Josedech the high priest, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people, and they came, and did the work in the house of the Lord of hosts their God.

CH A P. II.

He sheweth that the glory of the second temple shall exceed the first.

IN the four and twentieth day of the sixth month, in the second year of king Darius,

2 In the seventh month, in the one and twentieth day of the month, came the word of the Lord by the ministry of the prophet Haggai, saying,

3 Speak now to Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel prince of Judah, and to Joshua the son of Josedech the high priest, and to the residue of the people, saying,

4 Who is left among you, that saw this house in her first glory, and how do you see it now? is it not in your eyes, in comparison of it, as nothing?

5 Yet now be of good courage, O Zerubbabel, saith the Lord, and be of good comfort, O Joshua, son of Josedech the high priest: and be strong, all ye people of the land, saith the Lord, and do it: for I am with you, saith the Lord of hosts,

6 According to the word that I covenanted with you, when ye came out of Egypt: so my Spirit shall remain among you: fear ye not:

7 For thus saith the Lord of hosts, Yet a little while, and I will shake the heavens and the earth, and the sea, and the dry land:

8 And I will move all nations, and the desire of all nations shall come, and I will fill this house with glory, saith the Lord of hosts.

9 The silver is mine, and the gold is mine, saith the Lord of hosts.

10 The glory of this last house shall be greater than the first, saith the Lord of hosts: and in this place will I give peace, saith the Lord of hosts.

11 ¶ In the four and twentieth day of the ninth month, in the second year of Darius, came the word of the Lord unto the prophet Haggai, saying,

12 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Ask now the priests concerning the law, and say, 13 If one bear holy flesh in the skirt of his garment, and with his skirt do touch the bread, or the pottage, or the wine, or the oil, or any meat, shall it be holy? And the priests answered, and said, No.

14 Then said Haggai, If a polluted person touch any of these, shall it be unclean? And the priests answered, and said, It shall be unclean.

15 Then answered Haggai, and said, So is this people, and so is this nation before me, saith the Lord: and so are all the works of their hands, and that which they offer here, is unclean.

16 And now, I pray you consider in your minds, from this day, and afore, even afore a stone was laid upon a stone in the temple of the Lord:

17 Before these things were, when one came to an heap of twenty measures, there were but ten: when one came to the wine-press for to draw

^f Meaning, that they should leave off their own commodities, and go forward in the building of God's temple, and in the setting forth of his religion.

² That is, I will hear your prayers according to my promise, 1 Kings 8. 21, 29.

³ That is, my glory shall be set forth by you.

⁴ And so brought it to nothing.

⁵ This declared that God was the author of the doctrine, and that he was but the minister, as Exod. 14. 31. Judges 7. 20. Acts 15. 28.

⁶ Which declareth that men are unapt and dull to serve the Lord, neither can they obey his word or his messengers, before God reform their hearts, and give them new spirits, John 6. 44.

⁷ For the people, according as Isa. 32. 11, and Ezek. 41. 1. had prophesied, thought this temple should have been more excellent than Solomon's temple, which was destroyed by the Babylonians, but the prophets meant the spiritual temple, the church of Christ.

⁸ That is, go forward in building the temple.

⁹ He exhorteth them to patience, though they see not as yet this temple so glorious as the prophets had declared: for this should be accomplished in Christ, by whom all things should be renewed.

¹⁰ Meaning Christ, whom all ought to look for and desire: or by desire, he may signify all precious things, as riches, and such like.

¹¹ Therefore when his time cometh, he can make all the treasures of the world to serve his purpose: but the glory of this second temple doth not stand in material things, neither can it be built.

¹² Meaning all spiritual blessings and felicity purchased by Christ, Phil. 4. 7.

¹³ That is, the flesh of the sacrifices, whereby he signifieth that that thing which of itself is good, cannot make another thing so, and therefore they ought not to justify themselves by their sacrifices and ceremonies: but contrary, he that is unclean and not pure of heart, doth corrupt those things and make them detestable unto God, which else are good and godly.

¹⁴ Consider how God did plague you with famine afore you began to build the temple.

¹⁵ That is, before the building was begun.

Ref. Chr. draw out fifty vessels out of the press, there were but twenty.

18 I smote you with blasting and with mildew, and with hail, in all the labours of your hands: yet you turned not to me, saith the Lord.

19 Consider, I pray you, in your minds, from this day, and afore, from the four and twentieth day of the ninth month, even from the day that the foundation of the Lord's temple was laid: consider it in your minds.

20 Is the seed yet in the barn? as yet the vine, and the fig-tree, and the pomegranate, and the olive-tree hath not brought forth: from this day will I bless you.

21 And again the word of the Lord came unto Haggai in the four and twentieth day of the month, saying,

22 Speak unto Zerubbabel the prince of Judah, and say, I will shake the heavens and the earth, 23 And I will overthrow the throne of kingdoms, and I will destroy the strength of the kingdoms of the heathen, and I will overthrow the chariots, and those that ride in them, and the horse and the riders shall come down, every one by the sword of his brother.

24 In that day, saith the Lord of hosts, will I take thee, O Zerubbabel my servant, the son of Shealtiel, saith the Lord, and will make thee as a signet: for I have chosen thee, saith the Lord of hosts.

From the time they began to build the temple, he promised that God would bless them: and albeit as yet the fruit was not come forth, yet in the gathering they should have plenty.

He exhorteth them to patience, and to abide till the harvest came, and then they should see God's blessings.

I will make a change and renew all things in Christ, of whom Zerubbabel here is a figure.

Hereby he sheweth that there shall be no let nor hindrance when God will make this wonderful restitution of his church.

Signifying, that his dignity should be most excellent, which thing was accomplished in Christ.

Z E C H A R I A H.

T H E A R G U M E N T.

Two months after that Haggai had begun to prophesy, Zechariah was also sent of the Lord to help him in the labour, and to confirm the same doctrine. First therefore he putteth them in remembrance for what cause God had so sore punished their fathers: and yet comforteth them, if they will repent unfeignedly, and not abuse this great benefit of God in their deliverance, which was a figure of that true deliverance that all the faithful should have from death and sin by Christ. But because they still remained in their wickedness, and coldness to set forth God's glory, and were not yet made better by their long banishment, he rebuketh them most sharply: yet for the comfort of the repentant, he ever mixeth the promise of grace, that they might by this means be prepared to receive Christ, in whom all should be sanctified to the Lord.

C H A P. I.

1 He exhorteth the people to turn to the Lord, and to eschew the wickedness of their fathers. 16 He signifieth the restitution of Jerusalem and the temple.

IN the eighth month of the second year of Darius, came the word of the Lord unto Zechariah the son of Barachiah, the son of Iddo the prophet, saying,

2 The Lord hath been fore displeased with your fathers.

3 Therefore say thou unto them, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Turn ye unto me, saith the Lord of hosts, and I will turn unto you, saith the Lord of hosts.

4 Be ye not as your fathers, unto whom the former prophets have cried, saying, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Turn you now from your evil ways, and from your wicked works: but they would not hear, nor hearken unto me, saith the Lord.

5 Your fathers, where are they? and do the prophets live for ever?

6 But did not my words and my statutes, which I commanded by my servants the prophets, take hold of your fathers? and they returned, and said, As the Lord of hosts hath determined to do unto us, according to our own ways, and according to our works, so hath he dealt with us.

7 Upon the four and twentieth day of the eleventh month, which is the month Shebat, in the second year of Darius, came the word of the Lord unto Zechariah the son of Barachiah, the son of Iddo the prophet, saying,

8 I saw by night, and behold a man riding upon a red horse, and he stood among the myrrh-trees, that were in a bottom, and behind him

Who was the son of Hystaspis.

This was not that Zechariah whereof is mention, 2 Chron. 24. 20. but had the same name, and is called the son of Barachiah, as he was, because he came of those progenitors, as of Jehoiada or Barachiah and Iddo.

He speaketh this to fear them with God's judgments, that they should not provoke him as their fathers had done, whom he so grievously punished.

Let your fruits declare that you are God's people, and that he hath wrought in you by his Spirit, and mortified you: for else man hath no power to return to God, but God must convert him, as Jer. 31. 18. Lament. 5. 21. Isa. 21. 8. and 31. 6. and 45. 21.

Though your fathers be dead, yet God's judgments in punishing them ought still to be before your eyes: and though the prophets be dead, yet their doctrine remaineth for ever, 2 Pet. 1. 15.

Seeing ye saw the force of my doctrine in punishing your fathers, why do not ye fear the threatenings contained in the same, and declared by my prophets?

As men astonished with my judgments, and not that they were touched with true repentance.

Which containeth part of January, and part of February.

This vision signifieth the restoration of the church, but as yet it should not appear to man's eyes, which is here meant by the night, by the bottom, and by the myrrh-trees which are so black, and give a dark shadow: yet he compareth God to a king, who hath his posts and messengers abroad, by whom he still worketh his purpose, and bringeth his matters to pass.

Who was the chief among the rest of the horsemen.

¹⁰ And the man that stood among the myrrh-trees, answered, and said, These are they whom the Lord hath sent to go through the world.

¹¹ And they answered the angel of the Lord, that stood among the myrrh-trees, and said, We have gone through the world: and behold, all the world sitteth still, and is at rest.

¹² Then the ² angel of the Lord answered and said, O Lord of hosts, how long wilt thou be unmerciful to Jerusalem, and to the cities of Judah, with whom thou hast been displeased now these threescore and ten years?

¹³ And the Lord answered the angel that talked with me, with good words and comfortable words.

¹⁴ So the angel that communed with me, said unto me, Cry thou, and speak, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, I am ^a jealous over Jerusalem and Zion with a great zeal, ¹⁵ And am greatly angry against the careless heathen: for I was angry but ^a little, and they helped forward the affliction.

The restoring of Jerusalem and Judah.

I Lift up mine eyes again and looked, and behold, a ^a man with a measuring line in his hand.

⁴ And said unto him, Run, speak to this ^a young man, and say, Jerusalem shall be inhabited without walls, for the multitude of men and cattle therein:

⁵ For I, saith the Lord, will be unto her a wall of ^a fire round about, and will ^a be the glory in the midst of her.

⁶ Ho, ho, come forth, and flee from the land of the ^a North, saith the Lord: for I have scattered you into the four ^a winds of the heaven, saith the Lord.

⁷ ^a Save thyself, O Zion, that dwellest with the daughter of Babel.

⁸ For thus saith the Lord of hosts, After this ^b glory hath he sent me unto the nations which spoiled you: for he that toucheth you, toucheth the ^c apple of his eye, ⁹ For behold, I will lift up mine hand ^d upon them: and ^e they shall be a spoil to those that served them, and ye shall know that the Lord of hosts hath ^f sent me.

¹⁰ Rejoice, and be glad, O daughter Zion: for lo, I come, and will dwell in the midst of thee, saith the Lord.

¹¹ And many nations shall be joined to the Lord in that day, and shall be my people: and I will dwell in the midst of thee, and thou shalt know that the Lord of hosts hath sent me unto thee.

¹² And the Lord shall inherit Judah his portion in the holy land, and shall chuse Jerusalem again. 13 Let

² That is, Christ the mediator prayed for the salvation of his church, which was now troubled when all the countries about them were at rest.

⁴ In destroying the reprobate I shewed myself but a little angry toward my church, but the enemy would have destroyed them also, and considered not the end of my chastisements.

⁵ To measure out the buildings.

⁶ The abundance shall be so great, that the places of store shall not be able to contain these blessings that God will send, but shall even break for fullness.

⁷ Which signified all the enemies of the church, East, West, North, and South.

⁸ These carpenters or smiths, are God's instruments, which with their mallets and hammers break these hard and strong horns which would overthrow the church, and declare that no enemy's horn is so strong, but God hath an hammer to break it in pieces.

⁹ That is, the angel, who was Christ: for in respect of his office he is oft times called an Angel, but in respect of his eternal essence, is God, and so called.

^a Meaning himself, Zechariah. Signifying, the spiritual Jerusalem and church under Christ, which should be extended by the gospel through all the world, and should need no material walls, nor trust in any worldly strength, but should be safely preserved, and dwell in peace among all their enemies.

^b To defend my church, to fear the enemies, and to destroy them if they approach near.

^c In me they shall have their full felicity and glory.

^d He calleth to them which partly for fear, and partly for their own ease, remained still in captivity, and so preferred their own private commodities to the benefits of God promised in his church.

^e As it was I that scattered you, so have I power to restore you.

^f By flying from Babylon and coming to the church.

^g Seeing that God hath begun to shew his grace among you by delivering you, he continueth the same still toward you, and therefore sendeth me his angel, and his Christ, to defend you from your enemies, that they shall not hurt you, neither by the way nor at home.

^h Ye are so dear unto God, that he can no more suffer your enemies to hurt you, than a man can abide to be thrust in the eye, Psalm 17. 8.

ⁱ Upon the heathen your enemies.

^j They shall be your servants, as you have been theirs.

^k This must necessarily be understood of Christ, who being God equal with his Father, was sent as he was mediator to dwell in his church, and to govern them.

C H A P. III.

A prophecy of Christ and of his kingdom:

AND he shewed me Joshua the high priest, standing before the angel of the Lord, and ^b Satan stood at his right hand to resist him.

² And the ¹ Lord said unto Satan, The Lord reprove thee, O Satan: even the Lord that hath chosen Jerusalem, reprove thee. Is not this a ^k brand taken out of the fire?

³ Now Joshua was clothed with filthy garments, and stood before the angel.

⁴ And he answered and spake unto those that stood before him, saying, Take away the ¹ filthy garments from him. And unto him he said, Behold, I have ^m caused thine iniquity to depart from thee, and I will clothe thee with change of raiment.

⁵ And I said, let them ⁿ set a fair diadem upon his head. So they set a fair diadem upon his head, and clothed him with garments, and the angel of the Lord stood by.

⁶ And the angel of the Lord testified unto Joshua, saying,

⁷ Thus saith the Lord of hosts, If thou wilt walk in my ways, and keep my watch, thou shalt also ^o judge mine house, and shalt also keep my ^p courts, and I will give thee place among ^q these that stand by.

⁸ Hear now, O Joshua the high priest, thou and thy fellows that sit before thee: for they are monstrous persons: but behold, I will bring forth the ^r Branch my servant.

⁹ For lo, the ^s stone that I have laid before Joshua: upon one stone shall be seven eyes:
behold I ^u will cut out the graving thereof, saith the Lord of hosts, and I will take ^v away the iniquity of this land in one day.

^k He prayed to Christ the mediator for the state of the church.

^b Which declareth that the faithful have not only war with flesh and blood, but with Satan himself, and spiritual wickednesses, Eph. 6. 12.

¹ That is, Christ speaketh to God as the mediator of his church, that he would rebuke Satan: and here he sheweth himself to be the continual preserver of his church.

^k Meaning, that Joshua was wonderfully preserved in the captivity, and now Satan sought to afflict and trouble him when he was doing his office.

¹ In respect of the glorious garments and precious stones that the priests did wear before the captivity: and by this contemptible state the prophet signifieth that these small beginnings should be made excellent, when Christ shall make the full restitution of his church.

^m He sheweth of what apparel he speaketh, which is when our filthy sins are taken away and we are clad with God's mercies, which is meant of the spiritual restitution.

ⁿ The prophet prayeth that besides the raiment, the priest might also have tire for his head accordingly, that is, that the dignity of the priesthood might be perfect: and this was fulfilled in Christ, who was both priest and King: and here all such are condemned that can content themselves with any mean reformation in religion, seeing the prophet desireth the perfection, and obtaineth it.

^o That is, have rule and government in my church, as thy predecessors have had.

^p Whereby he meaneth to have the whole charge and ministry of the church.

^q That is, the angels who represented the whole number of the faithful: signifying, that all the godly should willingly receive him.

^r Because they follow my word, they are contemned in the world, and esteemed as monsters, Isa. 8. 18.

^s That is, Christ, who did so humble himself, that not only he became the servant of God, but also the servant of men: and therefore in him they should have comfort, although in the world they were contemned, Isa. 11. 1. Jer.

10 In that day, saith the Lord of hosts, shall ye call every man his neighbour under the ^x vine, and under the fig-tree.

C H A P. IV.

The vision of the golden candlestick, and the exposition thereof.

AND the angel that talked with me, came again and waked me, as a man that is raised out of his sleep,

² And said unto me, What seest thou? And I said, I have looked, and behold, a ^y candlestick all of gold, with a bowl upon the top of it, and his seven lamps therein, and seven ^z pipes to the lamps, which were upon the top thereof,

³ And two olive-trees over it, one upon the right side of the bowl, and the other upon the left side thereof.

⁴ So I answered, and spake to the angel that talked with me, saying, What are these, my Lord?

⁵ Then the angel that talked with me, answered and said unto me, Knowest thou not what these be? And I said, No, my lord.

⁶ Then he answered and spake unto me, saying, This is the word of the Lord unto ^a Zerub-babel, saying, Neither by ^b an army nor strength, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord of hosts.

⁷ Who art thou, O ^c great mountain, before Zerubbabel? thou shalt be a plain, and ^d he shall bring forth the head stone thereof, with shout-ings, crying, Grace, grace unto it.

⁸ Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

⁹ The hands of Zerubbabel have laid the foundations of this house: his hands shall also finish it, and ^e thou shalt know that the Lord of hosts hath sent me unto you.

¹⁰ For who hath despised the day of the ^f

23. 5. and 33. 14, 15:

¹ He sheweth that the ministers cannot build, before God lay the first stone, which is Christ, who is full of eyes, both because he giveth light unto all others, and that all ought to seek light at him, chap. 4. 10.

^u That is, I will make it perfect in all points, as a thing wrought by the hand of God.

^v Though I have punished this land for a time, yet I will even now be pacified, and visit their sins no more.

^x Ye shall then live in peace and quietness, that is, in the kingdom of Christ. Ita. 2. 2. Micah 4. 4. Hag. 2. 10.

^y Which was ever in the midst of the temple, signifying, that the graces of God's Spirit should shine there in most abundance, and in all perfection.

^z Which conveyed the oil that dropped from the trees into the lamps, so that the light never failed: and this vision was to confirm the faithful, that God had sufficient power in himself to continue his graces, and to bring his promise to pass, though he had no help of man.

^a Who was a figure of Christ, and therefore this doctrine was directed to all the church, who are his body and members.

^b He sheweth that God's power only is sufficient to preserve his church, though he use not man's help thereunto.

^c He compareth the power of the adversaries to a great mountain, who thought the Jews nothing in respect of them, and would have hindered Zerubbabel, who represented Christ, whom the enemies daily labour to let, in the building of his spiritual temple, but all in vain.

^d Though the enemies think to stay this building, yet Zerubbabel shall lay the highest stone thereof, and bring it to perfection, so that all the godly shall rejoice, and pray unto God that he would continue his grace and favour toward the temple.

^e Meaning, the prophet, that I am Christ sent of my Father for the building and preservation of my spiritual temple.

^f Signifying, [that all were discouraged at the small and poor beginnings of the temple.

Beh. Can. see the stone of ¹ tin in the hand of Zerubbabel :

through the whole world.

12 And I spake moreover, and said unto him, What be these two olive branches, which through the two golden pipes empty themselves into the gold?

13 And he answered me, and said, Know-est thou not what these be? And I said, No, my lord.

14 Then said he, These are the two ¹ olive branches, that stand with the ruler of the whole earth.

C H A P. V.

1 *The vision of the flying book, signifying the curse of thieves, and such as abuse the name of God.
6 By the vision of the measure is signified the bringing of Judah's afflictions into Babylon.*

THEN I turned me, and lifted up mine eyes and looked, and behold, a flying book.

2 And he said unto me, What seest thou?
And I answered, I see a flying ² book : the length thereof is twenty cubits, and the breadth thereof ten cubits.

3 Then said he unto me, This is the curse that goeth forth over the whole earth : for every one that ³ stealeth, shall be cut off as well on this ⁴ side, as on that : and every one that ⁵ sweareth, shall be cut off as well on this side, as on that.

4 I will bring it forth, saith the Lord of hosts, and it shall enter into the house of the thief, and into the house of him that falsely sweareth by my name : and it shall remain in the midst of his house, and shall consume it, with the timber thereof, and the stones thereof.

5 Then the angel that talked with me, went forth, and said unto me, Lift up now thine eyes, and see what is this that goeth forth.

6 And I said, What is it? And he said,
This is an ⁶ ephah that goeth forth. He said moreover, This is the ⁷ sight of them through all the earth.

¹ Whereby he signifieth the plummet and line, that is that Zerubbabel which represented Christ, should go forward with his building, to the joy and comfort of the godly, though the world be against him, and though his for a while be discouraged, because they see not things pleasant to the eye.

² That is, God hath seven eyes : meaning, a continual providence : so that neither Satan nor any power in the world can go about to bring any thing to pass to hinder his work. chap. 3. 9.

³ Which were ever green and full of oil, so that still they poured forth oil into the lamps : signifying that God will continually maintain and preserve his church, and endue it still with abundance and perfection of graces.

⁴ Because the Jews had provoked God's plagues by contempting his word, and casting off all judgment and equity, he threateth that God's curses written in this book had justly light both on them and their fathers : but now if they would repent, God would send the same among the Chal-deans their former enemies.

⁵ That is, useth any injury toward his neighbour.

⁶ Meaning, wheresoever he be in the world.

⁷ He that transgresseth the first table, and serveth not God aright, but abuseth God's name.

⁸ Which was a measure, in dry things, containing about ten pottles.

⁹ That is, all the wickedness of the ungodly is in God's sight, which he keepeth in a measure, and can shut it or open it at his pleasure.

¹⁰ To cover the measure.

¹¹ Which representeth iniquity, as in the next verse.

7 And behold, there was lift up a ¹ talent of ² lead :
and this is a ³ woman that sitteth in the ⁴ midst of the ephah.

8 And he said, This is ⁵ wickedness, and he cast it into the midst of the ephah, and he cast the weight of lead upon the mouth thereof.

9 Then lift I up mine eyes, and looked : and behold, there came out two ⁶ women, and the wind was in their wings (for they had wings like the wings of a stork) and they lift up the ephah between the earth and the heaven.

10 Then said I to the angel that talked with me, Whither do these bear the ephah?

11 And he said unto me, ⁷ To build it an house in the land of Shinar, and it shall be established and set there upon her own place.

C H A P. VI.

By the four chariots he describeth the four monar-chies.

AGAIN, I turned and lift up mine eyes, and looked : and behold, there came four ¹ chariots out from between two ² mountains, and the mountains were mountains of brass.

2 In the first chariot were ³ red horses, and in the second chariot ⁴ black horses,

3 And in the third chariot ⁵ white horses, and in the fourth chariot horses of ⁶ divers colours, and reddish.

4 Then I answered, and said unto the angel that talked with me, What are these, my lord?

5 And the angel answered, and said unto me,
These are the ⁷ four spirits of the heaven, which go forth from standing with the Lord of all the earth.

6 That with the black horse went forth into the land of the North, and the white went out after them, and they of divers colours went forth toward the ⁸ south country.

7 And the ⁹ reddish went out, and required to go and pass through the world : and he said, Go pass through the world. So they went throughout the world.

8 Then

¹ Signifying, that Satan should not have such power against the Jews to tempt them, as he had in time past, but that God would shut up iniquity in a measure, as in a prison.

² Which declared that God would execute his judgments by the means of weak and infirm means.

³ To remove the iniquity and afflictions that came for the same from Judah, to place it for ever in Babylon.

⁴ By chariots here, as by horses afore, he meaneth the swift messengers of God, to execute and declare his will.

⁵ By the brazen mountains he meaneth the eternal counsel and providence of God, whereby he hath from before all eternity decreed what shall come to pass, and that which neither Satan nor all the world can alter.

⁶ Which signified the great cruelty and persecutions that the church had endured under divers enemies.

⁷ Signifying, that they had endured great afflictions under the Babylonians.

⁸ These represented their state under the Persians, which restored them to liberty.

⁹ Which signified that God would sometime give his church rest, and pour his plagues upon their enemies, as he did in destroying Nineveh and Babylon, and other their enemies.

¹⁰ Meaning, all the actions and motions of God's Spirit, which according to his unchangeable counsel he causeth to appear through all the world.

¹¹ That is, toward Egypt, and other countries thereabout.

¹² That is, they of divers colours, which ask leave, to signify that Satan hath no power to hurt or afflict, till God give it him, Job 1. 12.

8 Then cried he upon me, and spake unto me, saying, Behold, these that go toward the north country, have pacified my^h spirit in the north country.

9 And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

10 Take of them of the captivity, even of Heldai, and of Tobijah, and Jedaiah, which are come from Babel, and come thou the same day, and go unto the houseⁱ of Joshia, the son of Zephaniah.

11 Take even silver, and gold, and make crowns, and set them upon the^k head of Joshua, the son of Josedech the high priest,

12 And speak unto him, saying, Thus speaketh the Lord of hosts, and saith, Behold the man whose name is the^l Branch, and he shall grow up^m out of his place, and he shallⁿ build the temple of the Lord, 13 Even he shall build the temple of the Lord, and he shall bear the^o glory, and shall sit and rule upon his throne, and he shall be a priest upon his throne, and the counsel of peace shall be between them^p both.

14 And the crowns shall be to^q Helem, and to Tobijah, and to Jedaiah, and to^r Hen the son of Zephaniah, for a^s memorial in the temple of the Lord.

15 And they that are^t far off, shall come and build in the temple of the Lord, and ye shall know that the Lord of hosts hath sent me unto you. And this shall come to pass, if ye will^u obey the voice of the Lord your God.

C H A P. VII.

5 The true fasting. 11 The rebellion of the people is the cause of their affliction.

AND in the fourth year of king Darius, the word of the Lord came unto Zechariah in the fourth day of the ninth month, even in^w Chisleu,

2 For^x they had sent unto the house of God Sharezer, and Regem-melech, and their men to pray before the Lord, ^h By punishing the Chaldeans mine anger ceased, and you were delivered.

ⁱ To receive of him and the other three, money to make the two crowns: which were men of great authority among the Jews, and doubted of the restitution of the kingdom, and of the priesthood, and hurt others by their example.

^k Because this could not be attributed to any one according to the law, therefore it followeth that Joshua must represent the Messiah, who was both priest and king.

^l Meaning, Christ, of whom Joshua was the figure: for in Greek they were both called Jesus.

^m That is, of himself without the help of man.

ⁿ Which declareth that none could build this temple, whereof Haggai speaketh, but only Christ: and therefore it was spiritual and not material, Haggai 2. 10.

^o Whereof Joshua had but a shadow.

^p The two offices of the kingdom and priesthood shall be so joined together, that they shall no more be dissevered.

^q Who was also called Heldai.

^r He was also called Joshia.

^s That they may acknowledge their infirmity, which looked that all things should have been restored incontinently: and of this their infidelity these two crowns shall remain as tokens, Acts 1. 6.

^t That is, the Gentiles by the preaching of the gospel shall help toward the building of this spiritual temple.

^u If ye will believe and remain in the obedience of faith.

^w Which contained part of November and part of December.

^x That is, the rest of the people that remained yet in Chaldea, sent to the church at Jerusalem for the resolution of these questions, because these feasts were consented upon by the agreement of the whole church, the one in the month that the temple was destroyed, and the other when Gedaliah

3 And to speak unto the priests, which were in the house of the Lord of hosts, and to the prophets, saying, Should I^y weep in the fifth month, and^z separate myself as I have done these so many^a years?

4 Then came the word of the Lord of hosts unto me, saying,

5 Speak unto all the people of the land, and to the^b priests, and say, When ye fasted, and mourned in the fifth and seventh month, even these seventy years, did ye fast unto me? ^c do I approve it?

6 And when ye did eat, and when ye did drink, did ye not eat^d for yourselves, and drink for yourselves?

7 Should ye not hear the words which the Lord^e hath cried by the ministry of the former prophets when Jerusalem was inhabited, and in prosperity, and the cities thereof round about her, when the South and the plain was inhabited?

8 And the word of the Lord came unto Zechariah, saying,

9 Thus speaketh the Lord of hosts, saying, Execute true judgment, and shew mercy and compassion, every man to his brother:

10 And oppress not the widow, nor the fatherless, the stranger nor the poor, and let none of you imagine evil against his brother in your heart.

11 But they refused to hearken, and^z pulled away the shoulder, and stopped their ears, that they should not hear.

12 Yea, they made their hearts as an adamant stone, lest they should hear the law, and the words which the Lord of hosts sent in his^b Spirit by the ministry of the former prophets: therefore came a great wrath from the Lord of hosts.

13 Therefore it is come to pass, that as he cried, and they would not hear, so they cried, and I would not hear, saith the Lord of hosts.

14 But I scattered them among all the nations, whom they knew not: thus the land was desolate was slain. Jer. 41. 2.

^y By weeping and mourning, appear what exercises they used in their fasting.

^z That is, prepare myself with all devotion to this fast.

^a Which was now since the time the temple was destroyed.

^b For there were both of the people and of the priests, which doubted as touching this controversy, besides them that yet remained in Chaldea, and reasoned of it, as one of the chief points of their religion.

^c For they thought they had deserved toward God, because of this fast, which they invented of themselves: and though fasting of itself be good, yet because they thought it a service toward God, and trusted therein, it is here reprov'd.

^d Did ye not eat and drink for your own commodity and necessity? and so likewise ye did obtain according to your own fancies, and not after the prescript of my law.

^e Hereby he condemneth their hypocrisy, which thought by their fasting to please God, and by such things as they invented, and in the mean season would not serve him as he had commanded.

^f He sheweth that they did not fast with a sincere heart, but for hypocrisy, and that it was not done of a pure religion, because that they lacked these offices of charity, which should have declared that they were godly, Matt. 23. 23.

^g And would not carry the Lord's burden, which was sweet and easy, but would bear their own which was heavy and grievous to the flesh, thinking to merit thereby: which similitude is taken of oxen, which shrink at the yoke, Nehem. 9. 29.

^h Which declareth that they rebelled not only against the prophets, but against the Spirit of God, that spake in them.

519. Ref. Chr. isolate^r after them, that no man passed through nor returned: for they laid the pleasant land^k waste.

C H A P. VIII.

2 Of the return of the people unto Jerusalem, and of the mercy of God toward them. 16 Of good works. 20 The calling of the Gentiles.

A GAIN, the word of the Lord of hosts came to me, saying,

2 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, I was^l jealous for Zion with great jealousy, and I was jealous for her with great wrath.

3 Thus saith the Lord, I will return unto Zion, and will dwell in the midst of Jerusalem: and Jerusalem shall be called a city of truth, and the mountain of the Lord of hosts, the holy mountain.

4 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, There shall yet old^m men and old women dwell in the streets of Jerusalem, and every man with his staff in his hand for very age,

5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls, playing in the streets thereof.

6 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Though it beⁿ impossible in the eyes of the remnant of this people in these days, should it therefore be impossible in my sight, saith the Lord of hosts?

7 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Behold I will deliver my people from the east country, and from the west country:

8 And I will bring them, and they shall dwell in the midst of Jerusalem, and they shall be my people, and I will be their God in truth, and in righteousness.

9 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Let your^o hands be strong, ye that hear in these days these words by the mouth of the prophets, which were in the day that the foundation of the house of the Lord of hosts was laid, that the temple might be builded.

10 For before these days there was no hire for^p man, nor any hire for beast, neither was there any peace to him that went out or came in, because of the affliction: for I set all men, every one against his neighbour.

11 But now, I will not intreat the residue of this people as aforetime, saith the Lord of hosts.

12 For the seed shall be prosperous: the vine shall give her fruit, and the ground shall give her increase, and the heavens shall give their dew, and I will cause the remnant of this people to possess all these things.

^l That is, after they were carried captive.

^k By their sins, whereby they provoked God to anger.

^l I loved my city with a singular love, so that I could not abide that any should do her any injury.

^m Because she shall be faithful and loyal toward me her husband.

ⁿ Though their enemies did greatly molest and trouble them, yet God would come and dwell among them, and so preserve them so long as nature would suffer them to live, and increase their children in great abundance.

^o He sheweth wherein our faith standeth, that is, to believe that God can perform that which he hath promised, though it seem never so impossible to man. Rom. 4. 20. Gen. 18. 14.

^p So that their return shall not be in vain: for God will accomplish his promise, and their prosperity shall be sure and stable.

^q Let neither respect of your private commodities, neither counsel of others, nor fear of enemies discourage you in the going forward with the building of the temple, but be constant, and obey the prophets which encourage you there

13 And it shall come to pass; that as ye were a curse among the heathen; O house of Judah, and house of Israel, so will I deliver you; and ye shall be a blessing: fear not, but let your hands be strong:

14 For thus saith the Lord of hosts, As I thought to punish^r you, when your fathers provoked me unto wrath, saith the Lord of hosts; and repented not,

15 So again have I determined in these days to do well unto Jerusalem, and to the house of Judah: fear ye not.

16 These are the things that ye shall do, speak ye every man the truth unto his neighbour: execute judgment truly and uprightly in your gates, 17 And let none of you imagine evil in your hearts against his neighbour, and love no false oath: for all these are the things that I hate, saith the Lord.

18 And the word of the Lord of hosts came unto me, saying,

19 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, The fast of the fourth month, and the fast of the fifth, and the fast of the seventh, and the fast of the tenth, shall be to the house of Judah joy and gladness, and prosperous high feasts: therefore love the truth and peace.

20 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, that there shall yet come^s people, and the inhabitants of great cities, 21 And they that dwell in one city, shall go to another, saying, * Up, let us go and pray before the Lord, and seek the Lord of hosts: I will go also.

22 Yea, great people, and mighty nations shall come to seek the Lord of hosts in Jerusalem, and to pray before the Lord.

23 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, in those days shall ten men take hold of all languages of the nations, even take hold of the skirt of him that is a Jew, and say, We will go with you: for we have heard that God is with you.

^u Which fast was appointed when the city was besieged, and was the first fast of these four: and here the prophet sheweth, that if the Jews will repent and turn wholly to God, they shall have no more occasion to fast, or to shew signs of heaviness: for God will send them joy and gladness.

^v He declareth the great zeal that God should give the Gentiles to come to his church, and to join with the Jews in his true religion, which should be in the kingdom of Christ.

^w Whereby he meaneth Syria.

^x God's anger shall abide upon their chief city, and not spare so much as that.

^y When the Jews shall convert and repent, then God will destroy their enemies.

Ref. Chr. 587.

2 And Hamath also shall border ^a thereby : Tyrus also and Zidon, though they be ^b very wise.

3 For Tyrus did build herself a strong hold, and heaped up silver as the dust, and gold as the mire of the streets.

4 Behold, the Lord will spoil her, and he will smite her ^c power in the sea, and she shall be devoured with fire.

5 Ashkelon shall see it, and fear, and Azzah also shall be very sorrowful, and Ekron : for her countenance shall be ashamed, and the king shall perish from Azzah, and Ashkelon shall not be inhabited.

6 And the ^d stranger shall dwell in Ashdod, and I will cut off the pride of the Philistines.

7 And I will take away his blood out of his mouth, and his abominations from between his ^e teeth : but he that remaineth, even he shall be for our God, and he shall be as a prince in Judah, but ^f Ekron shall be as a Jebusite.

8 And I will camp about ^g mine house against the army, against him that passeth by, and against him that returneth, and no oppressor shall come upon them any more : for now ^h have I seen with mine eyes.

9 Rejoice greatly, O daughter Zion, shout for joy, O daughter Jerusalem, behold thy king cometh unto thee : ⁱ he is just, and saved himself, poor and riding upon ^k an ass, and upon a colt the foal of an ass.

10 And I will cut off the chariots from Ephraim, and the horse from Jerusalem : the bow of the battie shall be broken, and he shall speak peace unto the heathen, and his dominion shall be from ^m sea unto sea, and from the ⁿ river to the end of the land.

11 ^o Thou also shalt be saved through the blood of thy covenant : I have loosed thy ^p prisoners out of the pit wherein is no water.

12 Turn you to the ^q strong hold, ye ^r prisoners of hope : even to-day do I declare, that I will render the ^s double unto thee :

^a That is, by Damascus, meaning, that Hamath or Antiochia should be under the same rod and plague.

^b He secretly sheweth the cause of their destruction, because they deceived all other by their craft and subtilty, which they cloaked with this name of wisdom.

^c Though they of Tyrus think themselves invincible by reason of the sea, that compasseth them round about, yet they shall not escape God's judgments.

^d Meaning, that all should be destroyed save a very few, that should remain as strangers.

^e He promiseth to deliver the Jews when he shall take vengeance on their enemies for their cruelty, and wrongs done to them.

^f As the Jebusites had been destroyed, so should Ekron and all the Philistines.

^g He sheweth that God's power only shall be sufficient to defend his church against all adversaries, be they never so cruel, or assemble their power never so often.

^h That is, God hath now seen the great injuries and afflictions wherewith they have been afflicted by their enemies.

ⁱ That is, he hath righteousness and salvation in himself for the use and commodities of his church.

^k Which declareth that they should not look for such a king as should be glorious in the eyes of man, but should be poor, and yet in himself have all power to deliver his : and this is meant of Christ, as Matt. 21. 5.

^l No power of man or creature shall be able to let this kingdom of Christ, and he shall peaceably govern them by his sword.

^m That is, from the Red sea, to the sea called Syriacum : and by these places which the Jews knew, he meaneth an infinite space and compass over the whole world.

ⁿ That is, from Euphrates.

^o Meaning, Jerusalem, or the church which is saved by the blood of Christ, whereof the blood of the sacrifices was a figure, and is here called the covenant of the church, because God made it with his church, and left it with them

13 For Judah have I ^t bent as a bow for me : Bef. Chr. Ephraim's hand have I filled, and I have raised ^u up thy sons, O Zion, against thy sons, O Greece, and have made thee as a giant's sword. 587.

14 And the Lord shall be seen over them, and his arrow shall go forth as the lightning : and the Lord God shall blow the trumpet, and shall come forth with the whirlwinds of the south.

15 The Lord of hosts shall defend them, and they shall devour them, ^v and subdue them with sling-stones, and they shall drink, and make a noise as through wine, and they shall be filled like bowls, and as the horns of the altar.

16 And the Lord their God shall deliver them in that day as the flock of his people : for they shall be as the ^w stones of the crown lifted up upon his land :

17 For how great is his goodness ! and how great is his beauty ! corn shall make the young men chearful, and new wine the maids.

CHAP. X.

1 The vanity of idolatry. 3 The Lord promiseth to visit and comfort the house of Israel.

ASK you of the ^x Lord rain in the time of the latter rain : so shall the Lord make white clouds, and give you showers of rain, and to every one grafs in the field.

2 Surely ^y the idols have spoken vanity, and the soothsayers have seen a lye, and the dreamers have told a vain thing : they comfort in vain : therefore ^z they went away as sheep : they were troubled, because there was no shepherd.

3 My wrath was kindled against the shepherds, and I did visit the ^a goats : but the Lord of hosts will visit his flock, the house of Judah, and will make them as ^b his beautiful horse in the battle.

for the love that he bare unto them.

^p God sheweth that he will deliver his church out of all dangers, seem they never so great.

^q That is, into the holy land, where the city and the temple are, where God will defend you.

^r Meaning, the faithful, which seemed to be in danger of their enemies on every side, and yet lived in hope that God would restore them to liberty.

^s That is, double benefits and prosperity, in respect of that which your fathers enjoyed from David's time to the captivity.

^t I will make Judah and Ephraim, that is, my whole church, victorious against all enemies, which he here meaneth by the Grecians.

^u He promiseth that the Jews shall destroy their enemies, and have abundance and excess of all things, as there is abundance on the altar when the sacrifice is offered : which things are not to move them to intemperance, but to sobriety and a thankful remembrance of God's great liberality.

^v The faithful shall be preserved and revered of all, that the very enemies shall be compelled to esteem them : for God's glory shall shine in them, as Josephus declareth of Alexander the Great when he met Iadi the high priest.

^w The prophet reproveth the Jews, because by their own infidelity they put back God's graces promised, and so famine came by God's just judgment : therefore to avoid this plague he willet them to turn to God, and to pray in faith to him, and so he will give them abundance.

^x He calleth to remembrance God's punishments in times past, because they trusted not in him, but in their idols and sorcerers, who ever deceived them.

^y That is, the Jews went into captivity.

^z Meaning, the cruel governors, which did oppress the poor sheep, Ezek. 34. 16, 17.

^a He will be merciful to his church, and cherish them as a king or prince doth his best horse, which shall be for his own use in the war.

Bef. Chr. 587. 4 Out^c of him shall the corner come forth out of him the nail, out of him the bow of battle, and out of him every^d appointer of tribute also.

5 And they shall be as the mighty men, which tread down their enemies in the mire of the streets in the battle, and they shall fight, because the Lord is with them, and the riders on horses shall be confounded.

6 And I will strengthen the house of Judah, and I will preserve the house^e of Joseph, and I will bring them again, for I pity them: and they shall be as though I had not cast them off: for I am the Lord their God, and will hear them.

7 And they of Ephraim shall be as a giant, and their heart shall rejoice as through wine: yea, their children shall see it, and be glad: and their heart shall rejoice in the Lord.

8 I will^f hiss for them, and gather them, for I have redeemed them: and they shall increase, as they have increased.

9 And I will^g sow them among the people, and they shall remember me in far countries: and they shall live with their children and^h turn again.

10 I will bring them again also out of the land of Egypt, and gather them out of Asshur: and I will bring them into the land of Gilead and Lebanon, and place shall not be found for them.

11 And heⁱ shall go into the sea with affliction, and shall smite the waves in the sea, and all the depths of the river shall dry up: and the pride of Asshur shall be cast down, and the scepter of Egypt shall depart away.

12 And I will strengthen them in the Lord, and they shall walk in his name, saith the Lord.

^c Out of Judah shall the chief governor proceed, who shall be as a corner to uphold the building, and as a nail to fasten it together.

^d Over their enemies.

^e That is, the ten tribes, which should be gathered under Christ, to the rest of the church.

^f Whereby he declareth the power of God, who needeth no great preparation, when he will deliver his: for with a beck or hiss he can call them from all places suddenly.

^g Though they shall yet be scattered and seem to be lost, yet it shall be profitable unto them: for there they shall come to the knowledge of my name, which was accomplished under the gospel among whom it was first preached.

^h Not that they should return into their country, but be gathered and joined in one faith, by the doctrine of the gospel.

ⁱ He alludeth to the deliverance of the people out of Egypt, when the angel smote the floods and rivers.

^j Because the Jews thought themselves so strong by reason of this mountain, that no enemy could come to hurt them, the prophet sheweth, that when God sendeth the enemies, it shall shew itself ready to receive them.

^k Showing that if the strong men were destroyed, the weaker were not able to resist.

^l Seeing that Lebanon was destroyed, which was the strongest munition, the weaker places could not think to hold out.

^m That is, the renown of Judah and Israel should perish.

ⁿ Which being now destined to be slain, were delivered as out of the lion's mouth.

O oaks of Bashan, for the^m defenced forest is cut down.

3 There is the voice of the howling of the shepherds, for theirⁿ glory is destroyed: the voice of the roaring of lions whelps, for the pride of Jordan is destroyed.

4 Thus saith the Lord my God, Feed the sheep of the^o slaughter.

5 They that possess them, slay them^p and sin not: and they that sell them, say, ^q Blessed be the Lord, for I am rich, and their own shepherds spare them not.

6 Surely I will no more spare those that dwell in the land, saith the Lord: but lo, ^r I will deliver the men every one into his neighbour's hand, and into the hand of his^s king: and they shall smite the land, and out of their hands I will not deliver them.

7 For I fed the sheep of slaughter, even the^t poor of the flock, and I took unto me^u two staves: the one I called Beauty, and the other I called Bands, and I fed the sheep.

8 ^v Three shepherds also I cut off in one month, and my soul loathed^x them, and their soul abhorred me.

9 Then said I, I will not feed you: that that dieth, let it die: and that that perisheth, let it perish: and let the remnant eat, every one the flesh of his neighbour.

10 And I took my staff, even Beauty, and brake it, that I might disannul my covenant, which I had made with all people.

11 And it was broken in that day: and so the^y poor of the sheep that waited upon me knew that it was the word of the Lord.

12 And I said unto them, If ye think it good, give me my^z wages: and if not, leave off: so they weighed for my wages thirty pieces of silver.

13 And the Lord said unto me, Cast it unto the^a potter: a goodly price, that I was valued at of them: And I took the thirty pieces of silver, and cast them to the potter in the house of the Lord.

14 Then brake I mine other staff, even the Bands, that I might dissolve the brotherhood between Judah and Israel.

15 And

^p Their governors destroy them without any remorse of conscience, or yet thinking that they do evil.

^q He noteth the hypocrites, which ever have the name of God in their mouths, though in their life and doings they deny God, attributing their gain to God's blessings, which cometh of the spoil of their brethren.

^r I will cause one to destroy another.

^s Their governors shall execute cruelty over them.

^t That is, the small remnant whom he thought worthy to shew mercy unto.

^u God sheweth his great benefits toward his people, to convince them of greater ingratitude, which would neither be ruled by his most beautiful order of government, neither continue in the bands of brotherly unities, and therefore he breaketh both the one and the other. Some read, for bands, destroyers; but in the fourteenth verse the first reading is confirmed.

^v Whereby he sheweth his care and diligence, that he would suffer them to have no evil rulers, because they should consider his great love.

^w Meaning, the people, because they would not acknowledge these great benefits of God.

^x He sheweth that the least part ever profit by God's judgments.

^y Besides their ingratitude, God accuseth them of malice and wickedness, which did not only forget his benefits, but esteemed them as things of nought.

^z Shewing, that it was too little to pay his wages, which could scarce suffice to make a few tiles for to cover the temple.

15 And the Lord said unto me, Take to thee yet the ^b instruments of a foolish shepherd.

16 For lo, I will raise up a shepherd in the land, which shall not look for the thing that is lost, nor seek the tender lambs, nor heal that that is hurt, nor feed that that ^c standeth up: but he shall eat the flesh of the fat, and tear their claws in pieces.

17 O idol shepherd that leaveth the flock: the sword shall be upon his ^d arm, and upon his right eye. His arm shall be clean dried up, and his right eye shall be utterly darkened.

C H A P. XII.

Of the destruction and building again of Jerusalem.

THE burden of the word of the Lord upon ^e Israel, saith the Lord, which spread the heavens, and laid the foundation of the earth and formed the spirit of man within him.

2 Behold, I will make Jerusalem a ^f cup of poison unto all the people round about: and also with Judah will he be, in the siege against Jerusalem.

3 And in that day I will make Jerusalem an heavy stone for all people: all that lift it up, shall be torn, though all the people of the earth be gathered together against it.

4 In that day, saith the Lord, will I smite every horse with astonishment, and his rider with madness, and I will open mine eyes upon the house of Judah, and will smite every horse of the people with blindness.

5 And the princes of Judah shall say in their hearts, The ^g inhabitants of Jerusalem shall be my strength in the Lord of hosts their God.

6 In that day will I make the princes of Judah like coals of fire among the wood, and like a firebrand in the sheaf, and they shall devour all the people round about on the right hand and on the left: and Jerusalem shall be inhabited again in her own place, even in Jerusalem.

7 The Lord also shall preserve the ^h tents of Judah, as aforetime: therefore the glory of the house of David shall not boast, nor the glory of the inhabitants of Jerusalem against Judah.

8 In that day shall the Lord defend the inha-

^b Signifying, that they should have a certain kind of regiment and outward shew of government: but in effect, it should be nothing: for they should be wolves and devouring beasts instead of shepherds.

^c And is in health and sound.

^d By the arm he signifieth strength, as he doth wisdom and judgment by the eye: that is, the plague of God shall take away both thy strength and judgment.

^e That is, the ten tribes, which neglected God's benefit in delivering their brethren, and had rather remain in captivity than to return home, when God called them.

^f Jerusalem shall be defended against all her enemies: so shall God defend all Judah, and shall destroy the enemies.

^g Every captain that had many under him afore, shall now think that the small power of Jerusalem shall be sufficient to defend them against all enemies, because the Lord is among them.

^h The people which are now as it were dispersed by the fields, and lie open to their enemies, shall be no less preserved by my power, then if they were under their kings, (which is meant by the house of David) or in their defended cities.

ⁱ They shall have the feeling of my grace by faith, and know that I have compassion on them.

^k That is, whom they have continually vexed with their obstinacy, and grieved my Spirit, John 19. 37. where it is referred to Christ's body, which here is referred to the Spirit of God.

^l They shall turn to God by true repentance, whom before they had so grievously offended by their ingratitude.

bitants of Jerusalem, and he that is feeble among them in that day shall be as David: and the house of David shall be as God's house, and as the angel of the Lord before them.

9 And in that day will I seek to destroy all the nations that come against Jerusalem.

10 And I will pour upon the house of David, and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, the Spirit of ⁱ grace and of compassion, and they shall look upon me whom they have ^k pierced, and they shall lament for ^l him, as one mourneth for his only son, and be sorry for him as one is sorry for his first born.

11 In that day shall there be a great mourning in Jerusalem, as the ^m mourning of ⁿ Hadadrimmon in the valley of Megiddon.

12 And the ^o land shall bewail, every family ^p apart: the family of the ^q house of David apart, and their wives apart: the family of the house of Nathan apart, and their wives apart:

13 The family of the house of Levi apart, and their wives apart: the family ^r of Shimei apart, and their wives apart:

14 All the families that ^s remain, every family apart, and their wives apart.

C H A P. XIII.

1 Of the fountain of grace. 2 Of the clean riddance of idolatry. 3 The zeal of the godly against false prophets.

IN that day there ^t shall be a fountain opened to the house of David, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, for sin and for uncleanness.

2 And in that day, saith the Lord of hosts, I will cut off the ^u names of the idols out of the land: and they shall no more be remembered: and I will cause the ^v prophets and the unclean spirit to depart out of the land.

3 And when any shall yet ^x prophesy, his father and his mother that begat him, shall say unto him, Thou shalt not live, for thou speakest lyes in the name of the Lord: and his father and his mother that begat him, ^y shall thrust him through, when he prophesieth.

4 And in that day shall the prophets be ^z ashamed

^m They shall lament and repent exceedingly for their offences against God.

ⁿ Which was the name of a town and place near to Megiddo, where Josiah was slain, 2 Chron. 35. 22.

^o That is, in all places where the Jews shall remain.

^p Signifying that this mourning or repentance should not be a vain ceremony: but every one touched with his own grief shall lament.

^q Under these certain families he containeth all the tribes, and sheweth that both the kings and the priests had by their sins pierced Christ.

^r Called also Simeon.

^s To wit, which were elect by grace, and preserved from the common destruction.

^t He sheweth what shall be the fruit of their repentance, to wit; remission of sins, by the blood of Christ, which shall be a continual running fountain and purge them from all uncleanness.

^u He promiseth that God will also purge them from all superstition, and that their religion shall be pure.

^v Meaning, the false prophets and teachers, who are the corrupters of all religion, whom the prophet here calleth unclean spirits.

^x That is, when they shall prophesy lyes, and make God, who is the author of truth, a cloak thereunto.

^y He sheweth what zeal the godly shall have under the kingdom of Christ, Deut. 13. 6, 9.

^z God shall make them ashamed of their errors and lyes, and bring them to repentance: and they shall no more wear prophets apparel to make their doctrine seem more holy.

Beh. Chr. 587. ashamed every one of his vision, when he hath prophesied: neither shall they wear a rough garment to deceive.

5 But he shall say, I am no^a prophet: I am an husbandman: for man taught me to be an herdman from my youth up.

6 And one shall say unto him, What are these^b wounds in thine hands? Then shall he answer, Thus was I wounded in the house of my friends.

7 ¶ Arise, O sword, upon my^c shepherd, and upon the man that is my fellow, saith the Lord of hosts: smite the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered: and I will turn mine hand upon the little ones.

8 And in all the land, saith the Lord, ^d two parts therein shall be cut off, and die: but the third shall be left therein.

9 And I will bring that third part through the fire, and will fine them as the silver is fined, and will try them as gold is tried: they shall call on my name, and I will hear them: I will say, It is my people: and they shall say, The Lord is my God.

C H A P. XIV.

1 Of the doctrine that shall proceed out of the church, and of the restoration thereof.

BEHOLD, the day of the Lord cometh, and thy spoil shall be^e divided in the midst of thee.

2 For I will gather all nations against Jerusalem to battle, and the city shall be taken, and the houses spoiled, and the women defiled, and half of the city shall go into captivity, and the residue of the people shall not be cut off from the city.

3 Then shall the Lord God go forth, and fight against those nations, as when he^f fought in the day of battle.

4 And his feet shall stand in that day upon the^g mount of Olives, which is before Jerusalem on the east side, and the mount of Olives shall cleave in the midst thereof: toward the East and toward the West there shall be a very great^h valley, and half of the mountain shall remove toward the North, and half of the mountain toward the South.

5 And ye shall flee unto theⁱ valley of the mountains: for the valley of the mountains shall reach unto Azal: yea, ye shall flee like as ye fled from the^k earthquake in the days of Uzziah king of Judah: and the Lord^l my God shall come, and all the saints with thee.

6 And in that day shall there be no clear light, but dark.

7 And there shall be a day (it is known to the Lord)^m neither day nor night, but about the evening time it shall be light.

8 And in that day shall thereⁿ waters of life go out from Jerusalem, half of them toward the east sea, and half of them toward the uttermost sea, and shall be both in summer and winter.

9 And the Lord shall be king over all the earth: in that day shall there be one^o Lord, and his name shall be one.

10 All the land shall be turned^p as a plain from Geba to Rimmon, toward the south of Jerusalem, and it shall be lifted up, and inhabited in her place: from Benjamin's gate unto the place of the first gate, unto the corner gate, and from the tower of Hananeel, unto the king's wine-presses.

11 And men shall dwell in it, and there shall be no more destruction, but Jerusalem shall be safely inhabited.

12 And this shall be the plague, wherewith the Lord will smite all people that have fought against Jerusalem: their flesh shall consume away, though they stand upon their feet, and their eyes shall consume in their holes, and their tongues shall consume in their mouth.

13 But in that day^q a great tumult of the Lord shall be among them, and every one shall take^r the hand of his neighbour, and his hand shall rise up against the hand of his neighbour, 14 And Judah shall fight against Jerusalem, and the arm of the heathen shall be gathered round about, with^s gold and silver, and great abundance of apparel.

15 Yet this shall be the plague of the horse, of the mule, of the camel, and of the ass, and of all the beasts that be in these tents as this^t plague.

16 But it shall come to pass that every one that is left of all the nations, which came against Jerusalem, shall go up from year to year to worship the King the Lord of hosts, and to keep the feast of tabernacles.

17 And

^a They shall confess their former ignorance, and be content to labour for their living.

^b Hereby he sheweth, that though their parents and friends dealt more gently with them and put them not to death, yet they would so punish their children that became false prophets, that the marks and signs should remain for ever.

^c The prophet warreth the Jews, that before this great comfort shall come under Christ, there should be an horrible dissipation among the people. for their governors and pastors should be destroyed, and the people should be as scattered sheep: and the evangelist applieth this to Christ, because he was the head of all pastors, Matt. 26. 31.

^d The greatest part shall have no portion of these blessings, and yet they that shall enjoy them shall be tried with great afflictions, so that it shall be known that only God's power and his mercies do preserve them.

^e He armeth the godly against the great temptations that should come before they enjoyed this prosperous estate, promised under Christ, that when these dangers should come, they might know that they were warned of them before.

^f As your fathers and you have had experience, both at the Red sea, and at all other times.

^g By this manner of speech the prophet sheweth God's power and care over his church, and how he will as it were by miracle save it.

^h So that out of all the parts of the world they shall see Jerusalem, which was before hid with this mountain: and this he meaneth of the spiritual Jerusalem the church.

ⁱ He speaketh of the hypocrites, which could not abide God's presence, but should flee into all places, where they might hide them among the mountains.

^k Read Amos 1. 1.

^l Because they did not credit the prophet's words, he turneth to God and comforteth himself in that that he knew that these things should come, and saith, Thou, O God, with thine angels, wilt come to perform this great thing.

^m Signifying, that there should be great troubles in the church, and that the time hereof is in the Lord's hands, yet at length (which is here meant by the evening) God would send comfort.

ⁿ That is, the spiritual graces of God, which should ever continue in most abundance.

^o All idolatry and superstition shall be abolished, and there shall be one God, one faith, and one religion.

^p This new Jerusalem shall be seen through all the world, and shall excel the first in excellency, wealth, and greatness.

^q God will not only raise up war without, but sedition at home, to try them.

^r To hurt and oppress him.

^s The enemies are rich, and therefore shall not come for a prey, but to destroy and shed blood.

^t As the men should be destroyed, ver. 12.

Bef. Chr. 587. 17 And whoso will not come up of all the families of the earth unto Jerusalem to worship the King the Lord of hosts, even upon them shall come no rain.

18 And if the family of ^u Egypt go not up, and come not, it shall not rain upon them. This shall be the plague wherewith the Lord will smite all the heathen, that come not up to keep the feast of tabernacles.

19 This shall be the punishment of Egypt, and the punishment of all the nations that come not up to keep the feast of tabernacles.

^u By the Egyptians, which were greatest enemies to true religion, he meaneth all the Gentiles.

^v Signifying, that to what service they were put now (whether to labour, or to serve in war) they were now holy, because the Lord had sanctified them.

Bef. Chr. 587. 20 In that day there shall be written upon the bridles of the horses, The holiness unto the Lord, and the ^z pots in the Lord's house shall be like the bowls before the altar.

21 Yea, every pot in Jerusalem and Judah shall be holy unto the Lord, of hosts: and all they that sacrifice, shall come and take of them, and see the therein: and in that day there shall be no more the ^y Canaanite in the house of the Lord of hosts.

^z As precious the one as the other, because they shall be sanctified.

^y But all should be pure and clean, and there shall neither be hypocrite, nor any that shall corrupt the true service of God.

This prophet was one of the three which God raised up for the comfort of his church after the captivity; and after him there was no more until John Baptist was sent, which was either a token of God's wrath, or an admonition that they should with more fervent desires look for the coming of Messiah. He confirmeth the same doctrine that the two former do, but chiefly he reproveth the priests for their covetousness, and for that they served God after their own fancies; and not according to the prescript of his word. He also noteth certain peculiar sins, which were then among them, as marrying of idolatrous and many wives, murmurings against God, impatience, and sack like. Notwithstanding, for the comfort of the godly, he declareth that God would not forget his promise made unto their fathers, but would send Christ his messenger, in whom the covenant should be accomplished, whose coming should be terrible to the wicked, and bring all consolation and joy unto the godly.

C H A P. I.

A complaint against Israel, and chiefly the priests.

TH E ^a burden of the word of the Lord to Israel by the ministry of Malachi.

2 I have loved you, saith the Lord: yet ye say, ^b Wherein hast thou loved us? Was not Esau Jacob's brother, saith the Lord? yet I loved Jacob,

3 And I ^c hated Esau, and made his mountains waste, and his heritage a wilderness for dragons.

4 Though Edom say, We are impoverished, but we will return and build the desolate places, yet saith the Lord of hosts, They shall build, but I will destroy it: and they shall call them, The border of wickedness, and the people with whom the Lord is angry for ever.

5 And your eyes shall see it, and ye shall say, The Lord will be magnified upon the border of Israel.

^a Read Isa. 13. 1.

^b Which declareth their great ingratitude that did not acknowledge this love, which was so evident in that he chose Abraham from out of all the world, and next, chose Jacob the younger brother, of whom they came, and left Esau the elder.

^c For besides that the signs of my hatred appeared, even when he was made servant unto his younger brother, being yet in his mother's belly, and also afterward in that he was put from his birthright, yet even now before your eyes the signs hereof are evident, in that his country lieth waste, and he shall never return to inhabit it, whereas ye my people, whom the enemy hated more than them, are by my grace and love toward you delivered, read Rom. 9. 13.

^d Besides the rest of the people he condemneth the priests chiefly, because they should have reprov'd others for their hypocrisy and obstinacy against God, and not have hardened them by their example to greater evils.

^e He noteth their gross hypocrisy, which would not see

Bef. Chr. 397. 6 A son honoureth his father, and a servant his master. If then I be a father, where is mine honour? and if I be a master, where is my fear; saith the Lord of hosts unto you, ^d O priests, that despise my name? and ye say, ^e Wherein have we despised thy name?

7 Ye offer ^f unclean bread upon mine altar; and you say, Wherein have we polluted thee? In that ye say, The table of the Lord is not ^g to be regarded.

8 And if ye offer the blind for sacrifice, it is not ^h evil: and if ye offer the lame and sick, it is not evil: offer it now unto thy prince: will he be content with thee, or accept thy person, saith the Lord of hosts?

9 And now, I pray you, ⁱ pray before God, that he may have mercy upon us: this hath been by your means: will he regard your ^k persons, saith the Lord of hosts?

their faults, but most impudently covered them, and so were blind guides.

^f Ye receive all manner of offerings for your own greediness, and do not examine whether they be according to my law or no.

^g Not that they said thus, but by their doings they declared no less.

^h You make it no fault: whereby he condemneth them that think it sufficient to serve God, partly, as he hath commanded, and partly, after man's fancy, and so come not to that pureness of religion which he requireth, and therefore, in reproach, he sheweth them that a mortal man would not be content to be so served.

ⁱ He derideth the priests, who bare the people in hand that they prayed for them, and sheweth that they were the occasion that these evils came upon the people.

^k Will God consider your office and state, seeing you are so covetous and wicked?

Def. Chr. 10 Who is there even among you¹ that would shut the doors, and kindle not fire on mine altar in vain? I have no pleasure in you, saith the Lord of hosts, neither will I accept an offering at your hand.

11 For from the rising of the sun unto the going down of the same, my name is² great among the Gentiles, and in every place incense shall be offered unto my name and a pure offering: for my name is great among the heathen, saith the Lord of hosts.

12 But ye have polluted it, in that ye say, The table of the Lord is³ polluted, and the fruit thereof, even his meat is not to be regarded.

13 Ye said also, Behold, it is a⁴ weariness, and ye have snuffed at it, saith the Lord of hosts, and ye offered that which was torn, and the lame and the sick: thus ye offered an offering: should I accept this of your hand, saith the Lord?

14 But cursed be the deceiver, which hath in his flock⁵ a male, and voweth and sacrificeth unto the Lord a corrupt thing: for I am a great king, saith the Lord of hosts, and my name is terrible among the heathen.

C H A P. II.

Threatenings against the priests, being the seducers of the people.

AND now, O ye⁶ priests, this commandment is for you.

2 If ye will not hear it, nor consider it in your heart, to give glory⁷ unto my name, saith the Lord of hosts, I will even send a curse upon you, and will curse your⁸ blessings: yea, I have cursed them already, because ye do not consider it in your heart.

3 Behold, I will corrupt⁹ your seed, and cast dung upon your faces, even the¹⁰ dung of your solemn feasts, and you shall be like unto it.

4 And ye shall know that I have¹¹ sent this commandment unto you, that my covenant, which

I made with Levi might stand, saith the Lord of hosts.

5 My¹² covenant was with him of life and peace: and I¹³ gave him fear, and he feared me, and was afraid before¹⁴ my name.

6 The law of¹⁵ truth was in his mouth, and there was no iniquity found in his lips: he walked with me in peace and equity, and did turn many away from iniquity:

7 For the priests¹⁶ lips should preserve knowledge, and they should seek the law at his mouth: for he is the¹⁷ messenger of the Lord of hosts.

8 But ye are gone out of the way: ye have caused many to fall by the law: ye have broken the covenant of Levi, saith the Lord of hosts.

9 Therefore have I also made you to be despised, and vile before all the people, because ye kept not my ways, but have been partial in the law.

10 Have we not all one¹⁸ father? hath not one God made us? why do we transgress every one against his brother, and break the covenant of¹⁹ our fathers?

11 Judah hath transgressed, and an abomination is committed in Israel and in Jerusalem: for Judah hath defiled the holiness of the Lord, which he loved, and hath married the²⁰ daughter of a strange god.

12 The Lord will cut off the man that doth this: both the master and the servant out of the tabernacle of Jacob, and him that²¹ offereth an offering unto the Lord of hosts.

13 And this have ye done again, and²² covered the altar of the Lord with tears, with weeping and with mourning: because the offering is no more regarded, neither received acceptably at your hands.

14 Yet ye say,²³ Wherein? Because the Lord hath been witness between thee and the wife of thy youth, against whom thou hast transgressed: yet is she thy²⁴ companion, and the wife of thy covenant.

15 And

² God sheweth that their ingratitude, and neglect of his true service, shall be the cause of the calling of the Gentiles: and here the prophet that was under the law framed his words to the capacity of the people, and by the altar and sacrifice he meaneth the spiritual service of God which should be under the gospel, when an end shall be made to all these legal ceremonies by Christ's only sacrifice.

³ Both the priests and the people were infected with this error, that they passed not what they offered: for they thought that God was as well content with the lean as with the fat: but in the mean season they shewed not that obedience to God which he required, and so committed both impiety, and also shewed their contempt of God, and covetousness.

⁴ The priests and people were both weary with serving God, and passed not what manner of sacrifice and service they gave to God, for that which was least profitable, was thought good enough for the Lord.

⁵ That is, hath ability to serve the Lord according to his word, and yet will serve him according to his covetous mind.

⁶ He speaketh unto them chiefly, but under them he containeth the people also.

⁷ To serve me according to my word.

⁸ That is, the abundance of God's benefits.

⁹ Your seed sown shall come to no profit.

¹⁰ You boast of your holiness, sacrifices and feasts, but they shall turn to your shame, and be as vile as dung.

¹¹ The priests objected against the prophet that he could not reprove them, but he must speak against the priesthood, and the office established of God by promise: but he sheweth that the office is nothing slandered when their villain-and dung are called by their own names.

¹² He sheweth what were the two conditions of the covenant made with the tribe of Levi: on God's part, that he would give them long life and felicity; and on their part, that they should faithfully serve him according to his word.

¹³ I prescribed Levi a certain law to serve me.

¹⁴ He served me, and set forth my glory with all humility and submission.

¹⁵ He sheweth that the priests ought to have knowledge to instruct others in the word of the Lord.

¹⁶ He is as the treasure-house of God's word, and ought to give to every one according to their necessity, and not to reserve it for himself.

¹⁷ Shewing, that whosoever doth not declare God's will, is not his messenger and priest.

¹⁸ The prophet accuseth the ingratitude of the Jews toward God and man: for seeing they were all born of one father Abraham, and God had elected them to be his holy people, they ought neither to offend God nor their brethren.

¹⁹ Whereby they had bound themselves to God to be an holy people.

²⁰ They have joined themselves in marriage with them that are of another religion.

²¹ That is, the priests.

²² Ye cause the people to lament, because that God doth not regard their sacrifices, so that they seem to sacrifice in vain.

²³ This is another fault whereof he accuseth them, that is, that they brake the laws of marriage.

²⁴ As the one half of thyself.

¹ She that was joined to thee by a solemn covenant, and by the invocation of God's name.

15 And did not^m he make one? yet had heⁿ abundance of spirit: and wherefore one? because he fought a godly^o seed: therefore keep yourselves in your^p spirit, and let none trespass against the wife of his youth.

16 If thou hatest^q her, put her away, saith the Lord God of Israel, yet he covereth^r the injury under his garment, saith the Lord of hosts: therefore keep yourselves in your spirit, and transgress not.

17 Ye have^s wearied the Lord with your words: yet ye say, Wherein have we wearied him? When ye say, every one that^t doth evil, is good in the sight of the Lord, and he delighteth in them. Or where is the God of^u judgment?

C H A P. III.

1 Of the messenger of the Lord, John Baptist, and of Christ's office.

BEHOLD, I will send my^v messenger, and he shall prepare the way before me: and the^w Lord whom ye seek, shall speedily come to his temple: even the^x messenger of the covenant, whom ye desire: behold, he shall come, saith the Lord of hosts.

2 But who^y may abide the day of his coming? and who shall endure when he appeareth? for he is like a purging fire, and like fullers soap.

3 And he shall sit down to try and fine the silver: he shall even fine the sons of^z Levi, and purify them as gold and silver, that they may bring offerings unto the Lord in righteousness.

4 Then shall the offerings of Judah and Jerusalem be acceptable unto the Lord, as in old time and in the years afore.

5 And I will come near to you to judgment, and I will be a swift witness against the soothsayers, and against the adulterers, and against false swearers, and against those that wrongfully keep back the hireling's wages, and vex the widow and the fatherless, and oppress the stranger, and fear not me, saith the Lord of hosts.

6 For I am the Lord: I change not, and ye sons of Jacob^b are not consumed.

^m Did not God make man and woman as one flesh, and not many?

ⁿ By his power and virtue he could have made many women for one man.

^o Such as should be born in lawful and moderate marriage, wherein is no excess of lusts.

^p Contain yourselves within your bounds, and be sober in mind, and bridle your affections.

^q Not that he doth allow divorcement, but of the two faults he sheweth which is the less.

^r He thinketh it sufficient to keep his wife still, albeit he take others, and so as it were covereth his fault.

^s Ye murmured against God, because he heard not you as soon as ye called.

^t In thinking that God favoured the wicked, and had not respect to them that serve him.

^u Thus they blasphemed God in condemning his power and justice, because he judged not according to their fancies.

^v This is meant of John Baptist, as Christ expoundeth it, Luke 7. 27.

^w Meaning, Messiah, as Psalm 40. 1, 7. Dan. 9. 17, 25.

^x That is, Christ, by whom the covenant was made and ratified, who is called the angel or messenger of the covenant, because he reconcileth us to his Father: and is Lord or King, because he hath the government of his church.

^y He sheweth that the hypocrites, which wish so much for the Lord's coming, will not abide when he draweth near: for he will consume them, and purge his and make them clean.

^z He beginneth at the priests, that they might be lights, and shine unto others.

7 From the days of your fathers, ye are gone away from mine ordinances, and have not kept^a them: return unto me, and I will return unto you, saith the Lord of hosts: but he said, Wherein shall we return?

8 Will a^b man spoil his gods? yet have ye spoiled me: but ye say, Wherein have we spoiled thee? In^c tithes and offerings.

9 Ye are cursed with a curse: for ye have spoiled me, even this whole nation.

10 Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open the windows of heaven unto you, and pour you out a blessing^d without measure.

11 And I will rebuke the^e devourer for your sakes, and he shall not destroy the fruit of your ground, neither shall your vine be barren in the field, saith the Lord of hosts.

12 And all nations shall call you blessed: for ye shall be a pleasant land, saith the Lord of hosts.

13 Your words have been stout^f against me, saith the Lord: yet ye say, What have we spoken against thee?

14 Ye have said, It is in vain to serve God: and what profit is it that we have kept his commandment, and that we walked humbly before the Lord of hosts?

15 Therefore we count the proud blessed: even they that work wickedness are set up, and they that tempt God, yea, they are^g delivered.

16^h Then spake they that feared the Lord, every one to his neighbour, and the Lord hearkened and heard it, and aⁱ book of remembrance was written before him for them that feared the Lord, and that thought upon his name.

17 And they shall be to me, saith the Lord of hosts, in that day^j that I shall do this, for a flock, and I will^k spare them, as a man spareth his own son that serveth him.

18 Then shall you return, and discern between the righteous and wicked, between him that serveth God, and him that serveth him not.

CHAP.

^b They murmured against God because they saw not his help ever present to defend them: and therefore he accuseth them of ingratitude, and sheweth that in that they are not daily consumed, it is a token that he doth still defend them: and so his mercy toward them never changeth.

^c Read Zech. 1. 3.

^d There are none of the heathen so barbarous, that will defraud their gods of their honour, or deal deceitfully with them.

^e Whereby the service of God should have been maintained, and the priests and the poor relieved.

^f Not having respect how much ye need, but I will give you in all abundance: so that ye shall lack place to put my blessings in.

^g Meaning, the caterpillar, and whatsoever destroyeth corn and fruits.

^h The prophet condemneth them of double blasphemy against God: first, in that they said, that God had no respect to them that served him; and next, that the wicked were more in his favour than the godly.

ⁱ They are not only preferred to honour, but also delivered from dangers.

^j After these admonitions of the prophet, some were lively touched, and encouraged others to fear God.

^k Both because the thing was strange that some turned to God in that great and universal corruption, and also that this might be an example of God's mercies to all penitent sinners.

^l When I shall restore my church according to my promise, they shall be as mine own proper goods.

^m That is, forgive their sins, and govern them with my spirit.

The day of the Lord before the which Elijab should come.

FOR behold, the day cometh that shall burn as an oven, and all the proud, yea, and all that do wickedly, shall be stubble, and the day that cometh shall burn them up, saith the Lord of hosts, and shall leave them neither root nor branch.

2 But unto you that fear my name, shall the Sun of righteousness arise, and health shall be under his wings, and ye shall go forth, and grow up as fat calves.

• He prophesieth of God's judgments against the wicked, who would not receive Christ, when as God should send him for, the restoration of his church.

• Meaning, Christ, who with his wings, or beams of his grace, should lighten and comfort his church, Eph. 5. 14. and he is called the Sun of righteousness, because in himself he hath all perfection; and also the justice of the Father dwelleth in him, whereby he regenerateth us into righteousness, cleanseth us from the filth of this world, and reformeth us to the image of God.

• Ye shall be set at liberty, and increase in the joy of the Spirit, 2 Cor. 3. 17.

• Because the time was come that the Jews should be destitute of prophets until the time of Christ, because they should with more fervent minds desire his coming, the prophet exhorteth them to exercise themselves diligently in

3 And ye shall tread down the wicked: for they shall be dust under the soles of your feet in the day that I shall do this, saith the Lord of hosts.

4 Remember the law of Moses my servant, which I commanded unto him in Horeb for all Israel, with the statutes and judgments.

5 Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet before the coming of the great and fearful day of the Lord.

6 And he shall turn the heart of the fathers to the children; and the heart of the children to their fathers, lest I come and smite the earth with a curse.

studying the law of Moses in the mean season, whereby they might continue in the true religion, and also be armed against all temptations.

• This Christ expoundeth of John Baptist, Matt. 11: 13, 14. who both for his zeal, and restoring of religion, is aptly compared to Elijah.

• Which as it is true for the wicked, so doth it waken the godly, and call them to repentance.

• He sheweth wherein John's office should stand: in the turning of men to God, and joining of the father and children in one unity of faith: so that the father shall turn to the religion of his son which is converted unto Christ, and the son shall embrace the faith of the true fathers, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

• The second point of his office was to denounce God's judgments against them that would not receive Christ.

The P R I N T E R to the Diligent R E A D E R.

DEAR Christian Reader, to the intent that thou mightest the better enjoy the benefit of these notes or expositions upon the New Testament, I thought it not amiss to declare unto thee the use of the same.

The notes that are directed by figures of arithmetic, as ¹, ², ³, ⁴, &c. throughout the Evangelists and Acts, declare the effect or sum of the doctrine contained between one of the said figures, and the next that followeth: as for example, from the figure ¹, in the first line and first word of Matthew, unto the figure ², in the eighteenth verse of the same chapter, the doctrine there gathered is set down in this sort: 'Jesus came of Abraham of the tribe of Judah, and of the stock of David, as God promised.' And in the Epistles in like sort they declare the method and art which the apostles use, and how every argument or reason dependeth one upon another: these figures are begun again at the beginning of every chapter.

Lastly, the notes which go by order of the letters of the alphabet placed in the text, with the like answering unto them at the bottom of the page, serve to expound and lighten the dark words and phrases immediately following them. As in the first line and second word, the letter ^a being referred unto ^a, at the bottom of the page, sheweth that this word, Book, signifieth, 'A rehearsal, as the Hebrews use to speak: as Gen. 5. 1. The book of the generations.' These letters begin at the beginning of every chapter, continuing unto ^z, and so beginning again with ^a, if there be so many notes that they do exceed in number the letters of one alphabet. This have I faithfully done for thy commodity, reap thou the fruit, and give the praise to God.

Farewel.

THE HOLY GOSPEL

OF JESUS CHRIST,

According to ST. MATTHEW.

CHAP. I.

1 That Jesus is that Messias, the Saviour promised to the fathers. 18 The nativity of Christ.

THE book of the generation of Jesus Christ the son of David, the son of Abraham:

2 Abraham begat Isaac. And Isaac begat Jacob. And Jacob begat Judas and his brethren.

3 And Judas begat Phares, and Zara of Thamar. And Phares begat Esrom. And Esrom begat Aram.

4 And Aram begat Aminadab. And Aminadab begat Naasson. And Naasson begat Salmon.

5 And Salmon begat Booz of Rachab. And Booz begat Obed of Ruth. And Obed begat Jesse.

6 And Jesse begat David the king. And David the king begat Solomon of her that was the wife of Urias.

7 And Solomon begat Roboam. And Roboam begat Abia. And Abia begat Afa.

8 And Afa begat Josaphat. And Josaphat begat Joram. And Joram begat Ozias.

9 And Ozias begat Joatham. And Joatham begat Achaz. And Achaz begat Ezekias.

10 And Ezekias begat Manasses. And Manasses begat Amon. And Amon begat Josias.

11 And Josias begat Jakim. And Jakim begat Jechonias, and his brethren, about the time they were carried away to Babylon.

12 And after they were carried away into Babylon, Jechonias begat Salathiel. And Salathiel begat Zorobabel.

13 And Zorobabel begat Abiud. And Abiud begat Eliakim. And Eliakim begat Azor.

14 And Azor begat Sadoc. And Sadoc begat Achim. And Achim begat Eliud.

15 And Eliud begat Eleazar. And Eleazar begat Matthan. And Matthan begat Jacob.

16 And Jacob begat Joseph the husband of Mary, of whom was born Jesus, that is called Christ.

17 So all the generations from Abraham to David are fourteen generations: and from David until they were carried away into Babylon, fourteen generations: and after they were carried away into Babylon until Christ, fourteen generations.

18 ¶ Now the birth of Jesus Christ was thus. When as his mother Mary was betrothed to Joseph, before they came together, she was found with child of the Holy Ghost.

19 Then Joseph her husband being a just man, and not willing to make her a publick example, was minded to put her away secretly.

20 But while he thought these things, behold, the angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a dream, saying, Joseph the son of David, fear not to take Mary thy wife: for that which is conceived in her, is of the Holy Ghost.

21 And she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name Jesus: for he shall save his people from their sins.

22 And all this was done, that it might be fulfilled, which is spoken of the Lord by the prophet, saying,

23 Behold, a virgin shall be with child, and shall bear a son, and they shall call his name Emmanuel, which is by interpretation, God with us.

24 ¶ Then Joseph, being raised from sleep, did as the angel of the Lord had enjoined him, and took his wife.

B 25 But

1 Jesus Christ came of Abraham, of the tribe of Judah, and of the stock of David, as God promised.

2 Rehearsal: as the Hebrews use to speak, as Gen. 5. 1. The book of the generations.

b Of the ancestors of whom Christ came.

c Which Christ is also the son of Abraham.

d That is, the captivity fell in the days of Jakim and Jechonias: for Jechonias was born before their carrying away into captivity.

e All these which are reckoned up in the pedigree of David's stock, as they begat one another orderly in their degrees.

2 Christ the true Immanuel, and therefore Jesus (that is, Saviour) is conceived in the virgin by the Holy Ghost, as it was foretold by the prophets.

f Receive her at her parents and kinsfolks hands.

g Which was promised and made sure to thee to be thy wife.

h Of the mother's substance by the Holy Ghost.

i Christ is born of the same virgin which never knew man, and is called Jesus of God himself, by the angel.

C H A P. II.

The wise men, who are the first fruits of the Gentiles, worship Christ. 14 Joseph fleeth into Egypt with Jesus, and his mother. 16 Herod slayeth the children.

* Luke 2. 5. The 4th year before the common account called Anno Domini.

WHEN * Jesus then was born at Bethlehem in * Judea, in the days of Herod the king, behold there came ^b wise men from the East to Jerusalem,

2 Saying, Where is that king of the Jews that is born? for we have seen his star in the East, and are come to worship him.

3 When king Herod heard this, he was ^c troubled, and all Jerusalem with him.

4 And gathering together all the ^d chief priests and ^e scribes of the people, he asked of them, where Christ should be born.

5 And they said unto him, At Bethlehem in Judea: for so it is written by the prophet,

* Mic. 5. 2. Jan. 7. 42

6 * And thou Bethlehem in the land of Juda, art not the ^f least among the princes of Juda: For out of thee shall come the governor that ^g shall feed my people Israel.

7 Then Herod privily called the wise men, and diligently inquired of them the time of the star that appeared.

8 And sent them to Bethlehem, saying, Go, and search diligently for the babe: and when ye have found him, bring me word again, that I may come also and worship him.

9 ¶ So when they had heard the king, they departed: and lo, the star which they had seen in the East, went before them, till it came and stood over the place where the babe was.

10 And when they saw the star, they rejoiced with an exceeding great joy, 11 And went into the house, and found the babe with ^h Mary his mother, and fell ⁱ down, and worshipped him, and opened their ^j treasures, and presented unto him gifts, even gold, and frankincense, and myrrh.

12 And after they were ^k warned of God in a dream, that they should not go again to Herod, they returned into their country another way.

13 ¶ ^l After their departure, behold, the an-

² Christ a poor child laid down in a crib, and nothing set by of his own people, receiveth notwithstanding a noble witness of his divinity from heaven, and of his kingly estate, of strangers: which his own also unwittingly allow of, although they do not acknowledge him.

³ For there was another in the tribe of Zebulun.

⁴ Wise and learned men: it is a Persian word which they use in good part.

⁵ Was much moved, for he was a stranger, and came to the kingdom by force: and the Jews were troubled: for wickedness is mad and raging.

⁶ The chief priests, that is, such as were of Aaron's family, which were divided into four and twenty orders, 1 Chron. 24. 5. and 2 Chron. 36. 14.

⁷ They that expound the law to the people, for the Hebrews take this word of another, which signifieth as much as to expound and declare.

⁸ Though thou be a small town, yet shalt thou be very famous and noble through the birth of the Messias, who shall be born in thee.

⁹ That shall rule and govern: for kings are fitly called feeders and shepherds of the people.

¹⁰ A kind of humble and lowly reverence.

¹² God warned and told them of it, when as they asked gel of the Lord appeared to Joseph in a dream, saying, Arise, and take the babe and his mother, and flee into Egypt, and be there till I bring thee word: for Herod will seek the babe to destroy him.

14 So he arose, and took the babe and his mother by night, and departed into Egypt,

15 And was there unto the death of Herod, that that might be fulfilled which is spoken of the Lord by the * prophet, saying, Out of Egypt ¹ have I called my son.

16 ¶ Then Herod, seeing that he was mocked of the wise men, was exceeding wroth, and sent forth, and slew all the male children that were in Bethlehem, and in all the coasts thereof, from two years-old and under, according to the time which he had diligently searched out of the wise men.

17 Then was that fulfilled which was spoken ¹ by the prophet Jeremiah, saying, 18 * In Rama was ² a voice heard, mourning, and weeping, and great howling: ³ Rachel weeping for her children, and would not be comforted, because they were not.

19 ³ And when Herod was dead, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared in a dream to Joseph in Egypt, 20 Saying, Arise, and take the babe and his mother, and go into the land of Israel, for they are dead which sought the babe's life.

21 Then he arose up, and took the babe and his mother, and came into the land of Israel.

22 But when he heard that Archelaus did reign in Judea instead of his father Herod, he was afraid to go thither: yet after he was warned of God in a dream, he turned aside into the parts of Galilee, 23 And went and dwelt in a city called Nazareth, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophets, which was, That he should be called a Nazarite.

⁵ That is to say, All that compass about Bethlehem: for Rachel, Jacob's wife, who died in childbed, was buried in the way that leadeth to this town, which is also called Ephrata, because of the fruitfulness of the soil, and plenty of corn.

⁷ Not when Joseph went to dwell at Nazareth, but a great while after, about the space of five and twenty years: for in the thirtieth year of his age was Jesus baptized of John: therefore by those days is meant, at that time that Jesus remained as yet an inhabitant of the town of Nazareth.

⁹ In an hilly country, which was notwithstanding inhabited, for Zechariah dwelt there, Luke 1. 39. and there was Job's house, 1 Kings 2. 34. and besides these, Joshua maketh mention of six towns that were in this wilderness, chap. 5. 61.

A. D. 26. 2 And said, ^c Repent: for the ^d kingdom of heaven is at hand.

3 For this is he of whom it is spoken by the Prophet Esaias, saying, * The voice of him that crieth in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord: ^e make his paths straight.

4 * And this John had his garment of camel's hair, and a girdle of a skin about his loins: his meat was also ^f locusts and wild honey.

5 * Then went out to him ^g Jerusalem and all Judea, and all the region round about Jordan.

6 And they were baptized of him in Jordan, ^h confessing their sins.

7 ⁱ Now when he saw many of the Pharisees, and of the Sadducees come to his baptism, he said unto them, * O generation of vipers, who hath forewarned you to flee from the anger to come?

8 ^j Bring forth therefore fruit worthy amendment of life.

9 ^k And think not to say ^l with yourselves, * We have Abraham to our father: for I say unto you, that God is able even of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham.

10 And now also is the ax put to the root of the trees: * therefore every tree which bringeth not forth good fruit, is hewn down, and cast into the fire.

11 * ^m Indeed I baptize you with water to amendment of life, but he that cometh after me is mightier than I, whose shoes I am not worthy to bear, he will baptize you with the Holy Ghost, and with fire:

12 ⁿ Which hath his fan in his hand, and will make clean his floor, and gather his wheat into his garner, but will burn up the chaff with unquenchable fire:

13 ¶ * ^o Then came Jesus from Galilee to Jordan unto John, to be baptized of him.

14 But John earnestly put him back, saying, I have need to be baptized of thee, and comest thou to me?

15 Then Jesus answering, said to him, Let be now: for thus it becometh us to fulfill all ^p righteousness. So he suffered him.

16 And Jesus, when he was baptized, came straight out of the water. And lo, the heavens were opened unto ^q him, and John saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon him. A. D. 27.

17 ^r And lo, a voice came from heaven, saying, * This is my beloved son, in whom I am ^s well pleased. * Col. 1. 13. 2 Pet. 1. 17.

4 But he answering, said, It is written, * Man shall not live by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God. * Deut. 8. 3.

5 Then the devil took him up into the holy city; and set him on a ^v pinnacle of the temple,

6 And said unto him, If thou be the Son of God, cast thyself down: for it is written, * that he will give his angels charge over thee; and with their hands they shall lift thee up, lest at any time thou shouldest dash thy foot against a stone. * Ps. 91. 11.

7 Jesus said unto him, It is written again, * Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God. * Deut. 6. 16.

8 Again the devil took him up into an exceeding high mountain, and shewed him all the kingdoms of the world; and the glory of them,

9 And said to him, All these will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me.

10 Then said Jesus unto him, Avoid, satan: for it is written, * Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve. * Deut. 6. 13. and 10. 20.

11 * Then the devil left him: and behold, the angels came and ministered unto him. * Mark 1. 13. Luke 4. 13.

3 Christ came not to bring any new way of righteousness and salvation into the world, but to fulfil that in deed which was shadowed by the figures of the law, by delivering them through grace from the curse of the law: and moreover to teach the true use of obedience, which the law appointed, and to grave in our hearts the force of obedience.

4 That the prophecies may be accomplished.

4 He beginneth with the true expounding of the law, and setteth it against the old (but yet false) glosses of the scribes: so far is he from abolishing the least commandment of his Father.

5 He shall have no place in the church.

5 The true meaning of the sixth commandment.

1 He speaketh of the judgment of God, and of the difference of sins, and therefore applieth his words to the form of civil judgments, which were then used.

2 Of that judgment which was ruled by those men, who had the hearing and deciding of money matters, and such other small causes.

1 By that judgment which stood of three and twenty judges, who had the hearing and deciding of weighty affairs, and matters of life and death: as the highest judges of all were to the number of seventy and one, which had the hearing of most weighty affairs, as the matter of an whole tribe, or of an high priest, or of a false prophet.

2 Whereas we read here, hell, it is in the text itself, Gehenna, which is an Hebrew word made of two, and is as much to say, as the valley of Hinnom, which otherwise the Hebrews called Tophet: it was a place where the Israelites were wont most cruelly to sacrifice their children to false gods, whereupon it was taken for a place appointed to torment the reprobates in. Jer. 7. 31.

2 The Jews used four kinds of punishments, before their government was taken away by Herod, hanging, beheading, stoning and burning: this is it that Christ shot at, because burning was the greatest punishment, therefore in that he maketh mention of a judgment, a council, and a fire, he sheweth that some sins are worse than other some, but yet they are all such, that we must give an account for them, and shall be punished for them.

6 The covetous Pharisees taught, that God was appeased by the sacrifices appointed in the law, which they themselves devoured. But Christ on the contrary side denieth; that God accepteth any man's offering, unless he maketh satisfaction to his brother whom he hath offended: and saith moreover, that these stubborn and stiff-necked despisers of their brethren shall never escape the wrath and curse of God before they have made full satisfaction to their brethren.

6 He applieth all this speech to the state of his time; when as there was an altar standing in Jerusalem: and therefore they are very foolish that gather hereupon, that we must build altars, and use sacrifices: but they are more fools, which draw that to purgatory, which is spoken of peace-making and atonement one with another.

7 Cut off all cause of enmity:

1 Thou shalt be dealt withal to the utmost extremity.

7 He is taken for an adulterer before God, whatsoever he be, that coveteth a woman: and therefore we must keep our eyes chaste, and all the members we have, yea, and we must eschew all occasions which might move us to evil, how dear soever it cost us.

1 He nameth the right eye, and the right hand; because the parts of the right side of our body are the chiefest, and readiest to commit any wickedness.

2 Word for word, do cause thee to offend: for sins are stumbling blocks, as it were, that is to say, rocks which we are cast upon.

2 The meaning of the third commandment, against the froward opinion and judgment of the scribes; which excused by oaths or indirect forms of swearing.

1 Whatsoever you vouch, vouch it barely; and whatsoever you deny, deny it barely, without any more words.

2 From an evil conscience, or from the devil.

33 ¶ Ye have heard, that it hath been said,
 34 An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth.
 39 But I say unto you, * Resist not evil: but 40 whoever shall smite thee on the right cheek, 41 turn to him the other also.
 40 And if any man will sue thee at the law, and 41 take away thy coat, let him have thy cloak also.
 41 And whosoever will compel thee to go a 42 mile, go with him twain.
 42 * Give to him that asketh, and from him
 43 that would borrow of thee, turn not away.
 43 Ye have heard, that it hath been said, * Thou
 44 shalt love thy neighbour, and hate thine enemy.
 44 But I say unto you, * Love your enemies:
 45 bleis them that curse you: do good to them
 46 that hate you, * and pray for them which hurt
 47 you, and persecute you,
 48 * That ye may be the children of your 49 Father that is in heaven: for he maketh his 50 sun to arise on the evil and the good, and sendeth
 51 rain on the just and unjust.
 46 For if ye love them which love you, what 47 reward shall you have? Do not the Publicans
 48 even the same?
 47 And if ye be friendly to your brethren 48 only, what singular thing do ye? do not even 49 the Publicans likewise?
 48 Ye shall therefore be perfect, as your Fa-
 49 ther which is in heaven is perfect.

¶ He sheweth clean contrary to the doctrine of the scribes, that the sum of the second table must be so understood, that we may in no wise render evil for evil, but rather suffer double injury, and do well to them that are our deadly enemies.

¶ A double reason: the one is taken of the relatives,
 The children must be like their father: the other is taken most part given to covetousness.

¶ And this maketh alms vain.

¶ This word, Reward, is always taken in the scriptures for a free recompence, and therefore the schoolmen do fondly set it to be answerable to a deserving, which they call merit.

¶ Counterfeits, for hypocrites were players that played a which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly.

7 Also when ye pray, use no vain repetitions as the heathen: for they think to be heard for their much babbling.

8 Be ye not like them therefore: for your Father knoweth whereof ye have need, before ye ask of him.

9 * After this manner therefore pray ye, * Our Father which art in heaven, hallowed be thy name.

10 Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done even in earth, as it is in heaven.

11 Give us this day our daily bread.

12 And forgive us our debts, as we also forgive our debtors.

13 And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil: for thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory for ever. Amen.

14 * * For if ye do forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you.

15 But if ye do not forgive men their trespasses, no more will your Father forgive you your trespasses.

16 * Moreover, when ye fast, look not sour as the hypocrites: for they disfigure their faces, that they might seem unto men to fast. Verily
 I say unto you, that they have their reward.

17 But when thou fastest, anoint thine head, and wash thy face,

18 That thou seem not unto men to fast, but unto thy Father which is in secret: and thy Father which seeth in secret, will reward thee openly.

19 ¶ Lay not up treasures for yourselves up-and where thieves dig through and steal:

20 * But lay up treasures for yourselves in heaven, where neither the moth nor canker corrupteth, and where thieves neither dig through nor steal.

21 For where your treasure is, there will your hearts be also.

22 ¶ * The light of the body is the eye: if then thine eye be single, the whole body shall be light.

 tle light of nature that is in them.

¶ The judgment of the mind: that as the body is with the eyes, so our whole life may be ruled with right reason, that is to say, with the Spirit of God wherewith we are lightened.

¶ God will be worshipped of the whole man.

¶ Which be at jarr together; for if two agree, they are as

31. D. for either he shall hate the one, and love the other: or else he shall lean to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and riches.

25. Therefore I say unto you, Be not careful for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink: nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. Is not the life more worth than meat? and the body than raiment?

26 Behold the fowls of the heaven: for they sow not, neither reap, nor carry into the barns: yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are ye not much better than they?

27 Which of you by taking care is able to add one cubit unto his stature?

28 And why care ye for raiment? Learn how the lilies of the field do grow: they are not wearied, neither spin:

29 Yet I say unto you, that even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.

30 Wherefore if God so cloath the grafs of the field, which is to-day, and to-morrow is cast into the oven, shall he not do much more unto you, O ye of little faith?

31 Therefore take no thought, saying, What shall we eat? or what shall we drink? or wherewith shall we be cloathed?

32 (For after all these things seek the Gentiles) for your heavenly Father knoweth, that ye have need of all these things.

33 But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness, and all these things shall be ministered unto you.

34 Care not then for the morrow: for the morrow shall care for itself: the day hath enough with his own grief.

C H A P. VII.

1 We may not give judgment of our neighbour. 6 Nor cast that which is holy to dogs. 13 The broad and strait way. 15 False prophets. 18 The tree and fruit. 24 The house built upon a rock, 26 and on the sand.

JUDGE not, that ye be not judged. 2 For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged: and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.

3 And why seekest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, and perceivest not the beam that is in thine own eye?

4 Or how sayest thou to thy brother, Suffer me to cast out the mote out of thine eye, and behold, a beam is in thine own eye?

5 Hypocrite, first cast out that beam out of thine own eye, and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye. A. D. 31.

6 Give ye not that which is holy to dogs, neither cast ye your pearls before swine, lest they tread them under their feet, and turning again, all to rent you.

7 Ask, and it shall be given you: seek, and ye shall find: knock, and it shall be opened unto you.

8 For whosoever asketh, receiveth: and he that seeketh, findeth: and to him that knocketh, it shall be opened.

9 For what man is there among you, which if his son ask him bread, would give him a stone?

10 Or if he ask fish, will he give him a serpent?

11 If ye then, which are evil, can give to your children good gifts, how much more shall your Father which is in heaven, give good things to them that ask him?

12 Therefore whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, even so do ye to them: for this is the law and the prophets.

13 Enter in at the strait gate: for it is the wide gate and broad way that leadeth to destruction: and many there be which go in thereat.

14 Because the gate is strait; and the way narrow that leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it.

15 Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheeps cloathing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves.

16 Ye shall know them by their fruits. Do men gather grapes of thorns? or figs of thistles?

17 So every good tree bringeth forth good fruit: and a corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit.

18 A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit: neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit.

19 Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit, is hewn down, and cast into the fire.

20 Therefore by their fruits ye shall know them.

21 Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven, but he that doth my Father's will which is in heaven.

22 Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not by thy name prophesied? and by thy name done many great works?

26 But whosoever heareth these my words, and doth them not, shall be likened to a foolish man, which hath builded his house upon the sand:

27 And the rain fell, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house, and it fell, and the fall thereof was great.

28 ¶ * And it came to pass, when Jesus had ended these words, the people were astonished at his doctrine, 29 For he taught them as one having authority, and not as the scribes.

3 The leper cleansed. 5 The centurion's faith. 11 The calling of the Gentiles, 12 and casting out of the Jews. 14 Peter's mother-in-law healed. 19 A scribe desirous to follow Christ. 23 The tempest on the sea. 28 Two possessed with devils, cured. 32 The devils go into the swine.

NOW when he was come down from the mountain, great multitudes followed him.

2 * 1 And lo, there came a leper, and worshipped him, saying, Master, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean.

3 And Jesus putting forth his hand, touched him, saying, I will, be thou clean: and immediately his leprosy was cleansed.

4 Then Jesus said unto him, See thou tell no man, but go, and shew thyself unto the priests, and offer the gift that * Moses commanded for a witness unto them.

5 ¶ * 2 When Jesus was entered into Capernaum, there came unto him a centurion, beseeching him,

6 And said, Master, my servant lieth sick at home of the palsy, and is grievously pained.

7 And Jesus said unto him, I will come and heal him.

8 But the centurion answered, saying, Master, I am not worthy that thou shouldest come under my roof: but speak the word only, and my servant shall be healed.

9 For I am a man also under the authority of another, and have soldiers under me: and I say to one, Go, and he goeth: and to another, Come, and he cometh: and to my servant, Do this, and he doth it.

10 Wden Jesus heard that, he marvelled, and said to them that followed him, Verily, I say unto you, I have not found so great faith even in Israel.

11 But I say unto you, that many shall come from the East and West, and shall sit down with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, in the kingdom of heaven:

12 And the children of the kingdom shall be cast out into utter * darkness, there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

13 Then Jesus said unto the centurion, Go thy way, and as thou hast believed, so be it unto thee. And his servant was healed the same hour.

14 ¶ * 3 And when Jesus came to Peter's house, he saw his wife's mother laid down, and sick of a fever, 15 And he touched her hand, and the fever left her: so she arose, and ministered unto them.

16 * When the even was come, they brought unto him many that were possessed with devils: and he cast out the spirits with his word, and healed ^c all that were sick:

17 That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by * Isaiah the prophet, saying, He took our infirmities, and bare our sicknesses.

20 But Jesus said unto him, The foxes have holes, and the birds of the heaven have ^e nests, but the Son of man hath not whereon to rest his head.

21 ¶ ⁵ And another of his disciples said unto him, Master, suffer me first to go and bury my father.

23 ¶ * ⁶ And when he was entered into the ship, his disciples followed him.

24 And behold, there arose a great tempest in the sea, so that the ship was covered with waves: but he was asleep.

25 Then his disciples came, and awoke him, saying, Master, save us: we perish.

26 And he said unto them, Why are ye fearful, O ye of little faith? Then he arose, and rebuked the winds and the sea: and so there was a great calm.

3 And behold, certain of the Scribes said within themselves, This man blasphemeth.

4 But when Jesus saw their thoughts, he said, Wherefore think ye evil things in your hearts?

5 For whether is it easier to say, Thy sins are forgiven thee, or to say, Arise, and walk?

6 And that ye may know that the Son of man hath authority on earth to forgive sins, (then said he to the sick of the palsy) Arise, take up thy bed, and go to thine house.

11 And when the Pharisees saw that, they said to his disciples, Why eateth your master with Publicans and sinners?

12 Now when Jesus heard it, he said unto them, The whole need not a physician, but they that are sick.

14 ¶ * 3 Then came the disciples of John to him, saying, Why do we and the Pharisees fast oft, and thy disciples fast not? Mark 2. 18. Luke 5. 33.

15 And Jesus said unto them, Can the children of the marriage chamber mourn as long as the bridegroom is with them? But the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken from them, and then shall they fast.

16 Moreover, no man pieceth an old garment with a piece of new cloth, for that that should fill it up, taketh away from the garment, and the breach is worse.

17 Neither do they put new wine into old vessels: for then the vessels would break, and the wine would be spilt, and the vessels should perish: but they put new wine into new vessels, and so are both preserved.

18 ¶ * 4 While he thus spake unto them, behold, there came a certain ruler, and worshipped him, saying, My daughter is now deceased, but come and lay thine hand on her, and she shall live. * Mark 5. 22. Luke 8. 41.

19 And Jesus arose, and followed him with his disciples.

20 (And behold, a woman which was diseased with an issue of blood twelve years, came behind him, and touched the hem of his garment.

21 For she said in herself, If I may touch but his garment only, I shall be whole.

22 Then Jesus turned him about, and seeing her, did say, Daughter, be of good comfort: thy faith hath made thee whole. And the woman was made whole at that same moment.)

23 Now when Jesus came into the ruler's house, and saw the minstrels and the multitude making noise,

27 And as Jesus departed thence, two blind men followed him, crying, and saying, O son of David, have mercy upon us.

28 And when he was come into the house, the blind came to him: and Jesus said unto them, Believe ye that I am able to do this? And they said unto him, Yea, Lord.

29 Then touched he their eyes, saying, According to your faith be it unto you.

30 And their eyes were opened, and Jesus gave them great charge, saying, See that no man know it.

31 But when they were departed, they spread abroad his fame throughout all that land.

32 ¶ And as they went out, behold, they brought to him a dumb man possessed with a devil.

33 And when the devil was cast out, the dumb spake: then the multitude marvelled, saying, The like was never seen in Israel.

34 But the Pharisees said, * He casteth out devils through the prince of devils.

35 ¶ And * Jesus went about all cities and towns, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness, and every disease among the people.

1 The gift of healing given to the apostles. 5 They are sent to preach the gospel. 13 Peace. 14 Shaking off the dust. 16 Affliction. 22 Continuance unto the end. 23 Flying from persecution. 28 Fear. 29 Two sparrows. 30 Hairs of our head. 32 To acknowledge Christ. 34 Peace and the sword. 35 Variance. 37 Love of parents. 38 The cross. 39 To lose the life. 40 To receive a preacher.

AND * he called his twelve disciples unto him, and gave them power against unclean spirits, to cast them out, and to heal every sickness, and every disease.

2 Now the names of the twelve apostles are

* By healing these two blind, Christ sheweth that he is the light of the world.

* An example of that power, that Christ hath over the devil.

* Although the ordinary pastors cease, yet Christ hath not cast off the care of his church.

* Word for word, cast them out: for men are very slow in so holy a work.

* The apostles are sent to preach the gospel in Israel.

* Theophylact saith, that Peter and Andrew are called the first, because they were first called.

* A man of Kerioth. Now Kerioth was in the tribe of Judah, Josh. 15. 25.

* The sam of the gospel, or preaching of the apostles.

* Miracles are dependences of the word.

* The ministers of the word must cast away all cares that might hinder them the least wise that might be.

* For this journey, to wit, both that nothing might hinder them, and also that they might feel some taste of God's these. The first is Simon, called Peter, and Andrew his brother: James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother:

3 Philip and Bartholomew: Thomas, and Matthew the Publican: James the son of Alphaeus, and Lebbeus, whose surname was Thaddeus:

4 Simon the Canaanite, and Judas Iscariot, who also betrayed him.

5 These twelve did Jesus send forth, and commanded them, saying, Go not into the way of the Gentiles, and into the cities of the Samaritans enter ye not:

6 But go rather * to the lost sheep of the house of Israel.

7 * And as ye go, preach, saying, The kingdom of heaven is at hand.

8 Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers: raise up the dead: cast out the devils. Freely ye have received, freely give.

9 * Possess not gold, nor silver, nor money in your girdles,

10 Nor a scrip for the journey, neither two coats, neither shoes, nor a staff: * for the workman is worthy of his meat.

11 And into * whatsoever city or town ye shall come, enquire who is worthy in it, and there abide till ye go thence.

12 And when ye come into an house, salute the same.

13 And if the house be worthy, let your peace come upon it: but if it be not worthy, let your peace return to you.

14 * And whosoever shall not receive you, nor hear your words, when ye depart out of that house, or that city, * shake off the dust of your feet.

15 Truly I say unto you, it shall be easier for them of the land of Sodom and Gomorrah, in the day of judgment, than for that city.

16 ¶ * Behold, I send you as sheep in the midst of wolves: be ye therefore wise as serpents, and innocent as doves.

17 But beware of men, for they will deliver you up to the councils, and will scourge you in their synagogues.

18 And ye shall be brought to the governors and kings for my sake, in witness to them, and to the Gentiles.

19 * But when they deliver you up, take no thought how or what ye shall speak: for it shall be given you in that hour what ye shall say.

20 For it is not ye that speak, but the Spirit of your Father which speaketh in you.

21 And the brother shall betray the brother to providence: for at their return back, the Lord asketh of them, whether they lacked any thing by the way, Luke. 22. 35.

* God will provide you meat. * Happy are they that receive the preaching of the gospel: and unhappy are they that refuse it.

* It is a manner of speech taken from the Hebrews, whereby they meant all kind of happiness.

* Christ sheweth how the ministers must behave themselves under the cross.

* You shall be in great danger.

* You shall not so much as revenge an injury: and by the mixing of these beasts natures together, he will not have our wisdom to be malicious, nor our simplicity mad, but a certain form of good nature as exquisitely framed of both them as may be.

* For in the cause of religion men are wolves one to another.

A. D. 31. to death, and the father the son, and the children shall rise against their parents, and shall cause them to die.

22 And ye shall be hated of all men for my name: * but he that endureth to the end, he shall be saved.

23 And when they persecute you in this city, flee into another: for verily I say unto you, ye shall not go over all the cities of Israel, till the Son of man be come.

24 * The disciple is not above his master, nor the servant above his lord.

25 It is enough for the disciple to be as his master is, and the servant as his lord. * If they have called the master of the house ¹ Beeizebub, how much more them of his household?

26 ¹ Fear them not therefore: * for there is nothing covered, that shall not be disclosed: nor hid, that shall not be known.

27 What I tell you in darkness, that speak ye in light: and what ye hear in the ear, that preach ye on the ^m houles.

28 And ⁿ fear ye not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul: but rather fear him, which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell.

29 Are not two sparrows sold for a^o farthing? and one of them shall not fall on the ground without your Father.

30 * Yea, and all the hairs of your head are numbered.

31 Fear ye not therefore, ye are of more value than many sparrows.

32 ⁷ * Whosoever therefore shall confess me before men, him will I confess also before my Father which is in heaven.

33 But whosoever shall deny me before men, him will I also deny before my Father which is in heaven.

34 * ⁸ Think not that I am come to send peace into the earth: I came not to send peace, but the sword.

35 For I am come to set a man at variance against his father, and the daughter against her mother, and the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law.

36 * And a man's enemies shall be they of his own household.

37 * ⁹ He that loveth father or mother more than me, is not worthy of me. And he that loveth son or daughter more than me, is not worthy of me.

38 * And he that taketh not his cross, and followeth after me, is not worthy of me.

39 * He that will ¹⁰ find his life, shall lose it: and he that loseth his life for my sake, shall find it.

40 ¹⁰ He that receiveth you, receiveth me: and he that receiveth me, receiveth him that sent me.

41 * ¹¹ He that receiveth a prophet in ⁹ the name of a prophet, shall receive a prophet's reward: and he that receiveth a righteous man in the name of a righteous man, shall receive the reward of a righteous man.

42 * And whosoever shall give unto one of these ¹¹ little ones to drink a cup of cold water only, in the name of a disciple, verily, I say unto you, he shall not lose his reward.

2 John sendeth his disciples to Christ. 7 Christ's testimony of John. 13 The law and the prophets. 18 Christ and John. 21 Chorazin, Bethsaida. 25 The gospel revealed to children. 28 They that are weary and laden.

AND ¹ it came to pass, that when Jesus had made an end of ¹ commanding his twelve disciples, he departed thence to teach and to preach in ^b their cities.

2 ¶ * And when John heard in the prison the works of Christ, he sent two of his disciples, and said unto him,

4 And Jesus answering, said unto them, Go, and shew John what things ye hear and see.

5 The blind receive sight, and the halt do walk: the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear: the dead are raised up, and the ^{*} poor receive the gospel.

6 And blessed is he that shall not be offended in me.

7 ² And as they departed, Jesus began to speak unto the multitude of John, What went ye out into the wilderness to see? a reed shaken with the wind?

8 But what went ye out to see? a man clothed in soft raiment? Behold, they that wear soft clothing are in kings houses.

9 But what went ye out to see? A prophet? Yea, I say unto you, and more than a prophet.

10 For this is he of whom it is written, * Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.

11 Verily, I say unto you, Among them which are begotten of women, arose there not a greater than John Baptist: notwithstanding, he that is the least in the ^c kingdom of heaven is greater than he.

12 And from ^{*} the time of John Baptist hitherto, the kingdom of heaven suffereth violence, and the violent take it by force.

¹⁹ In the new state of the church, where the true glory of God shineth: the persons are not compared together, but the kinds of doctrine, the preaching of John with the law and the prophets, and again, the most clear preaching of the gospel with John.

A. D. 30. 13 For all the prophets and the law prophesied unto John.

14 And if ye will receive it, this is that Elias which was to come.

15 ¶ He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

16 ¶ But whereunto shall I liken this generation? It is like unto little children which sit in the markets, and call unto their fellows, 17 And say, We have piped unto you, and ye have not danced: we have mourned unto you, and ye have not lamented.

18 For John came neither eating nor drinking, and they say, He hath a devil.

19 The Son of man came eating and drinking, and they say, Behold a glutton and a drinker of wine, a friend unto Publicans and sinners: but wisdom is justified of her children.

20 ¶ Then began he to upbraid the cities wherein most of his great works were done, because they repented not.

21 Wo be to thee, Chorazin: Wo be to thee, Bethsaida: for if the great works, which were done in you, had been done in Tyre and Sidon, they had repented long ago in sackcloth and ashes.

22 But I say unto you, It shall be easier for Tyre and Sidon at the day of judgment than for you.

23 And thou Capernaum, which art lifted up unto heaven, shalt be brought down to hell: for if the great works, which have been done in thee, had been done among them of Sodom, they had remained to this day.

24 But I say unto you, that it shall be easier for them of the land of Sodom in the day of judgment, than for thee.

25 ¶ At that time, Jesus answered, and said, I give thee thanks, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because thou hast hid these things from the wise and men of understanding, and hast opened them unto babes.

26 It is so, O Father, because thy good pleasure was such.

27 ¶ All things are given unto me of my Father: and no man knoweth the Son, but the Father: neither knoweth any man the Father, but the Son, and he to whom the Son will reveal him.

28 Come unto me, all ye that are weary and laden, and I will ease you.

29 Take my yoke on you, and learn of me, that I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls.

30 ¶ For my yoke is easy, and my burden light.

¶ There are none more stout and stubborn enemies of the gospel than they to whom it ought to be most acceptable.

¶ He blameth the frowardness of this age, by a proverb, in that they could be moved neither with rough nor gentle dealing.

¶ That which the most part refuse, the elect and chosen embrace.

¶ Wise men do acknowledge the wisdom of the gospel, when they receive it.

¶ The proud reject the gospel offered unto them, to their great hurt and smart, which turneth to the salvation of the simple.

¶ Through the ministry of Christ, who only sheweth the truth of all things pertaining to God.

¶ This word sheweth that he contenteth himself in his Father's counsel.

C H A P. XII.

1 The disciples pluck the ears of corn. 6 Mercy, sacrifice. 10 The withered hand is healed. 12 We must do good on the sabbath. 22 The possessed is holpen. 25 A kingdom divided. 31 Sin, blasphemy. 33 The good or evil tree. 34 Vipers. 41 The Ninevites. 42 The queen of Sheba. 48 The true mother and brethren of Christ.

AT that time Jesus went on a sabbath day through the corn, and his disciples were an hungred, and began to pluck the ears of corn, and to eat.

2 And when the Pharisees saw it, they said unto him, Behold, thy disciples do that which is not lawful to do upon the sabbath.

3 But he said unto them, Have ye not read what David did when he was an hungred, and they that were with him?

4 How he entered into the house of God, and did eat the shewbread, which was not lawful for him to eat, neither for them which were with him, but only for the priests?

5 Or have ye not read in the law, how that on the sabbath days the priests in the temple break the sabbath, and are blameless?

6 But I say unto you, that here is one greater than the temple.

7 Wherefore if ye knew what this is, I will have mercy, and not sacrifice, ye would not have condemned the innocent.

8 For the Son of man is Lord even of the sabbath.

9 ¶ And he departed thence, and went into their synagogue:

10 And behold, there was a man which had his hand dried up. And they asked him, saying, Is it lawful to heal upon a sabbath day? that they might accuse him.

11 And he said unto them, What man shall there be among you, that hath a sheep, and if it fall on a sabbath-day into a pit, doth he not take it, and lift it out?

12 How much more then is a man better than a sheep? therefore it is lawful to do well on the sabbath day.

13 Then said he to the man, Stretch forth thine hand. And he stretched it forth, and it was made whole as the other.

14 ¶ Then the Pharisees went out, and consulted against him, how they might destroy him.

15 But when Jesus knew it, he departed thence: and great multitudes followed him, and he healed them all,

16 And charged them in threatening wise, that they should not make him known,

17 That

1. God's will is the only rule of righteousness.

2. There is no true knowledge of God, nor quietness of mind, but only in Christ alone.

3. May easily be borne. For his commandments are not grievous, for all that is born of God overcometh the world. 1 John 5. 4.

4. Of the true sanctifying of the sabbath, and the abrogating of it.

5. The Hebrews call it bread of faces, because it stood before the Lord all the week upon the golden table appointed to that service, Levit. 24. 6.

6. When the priests do God's service upon the sabbath day, yet they break not the law: much less doth the Lord of the sabbath break the sabbath.

7. The ceremonies of the law are not against the love of our neighbour.

8. How far and in what respect we may give place to the unbridled rage of the wicked.

17 That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Esaias the prophet, saying, 18 * Behold my servant whom I have chosen, my beloved in whom my soul delighteth: I will put my Spirit on him, and he shall shew^c judgment to the Gentiles.

19 He shall not strive, nor cry, neither shall any man hear his voice in the streets.

20 A bruised reed shall he not break, and smoking flax shall he not quench, till he^d bring forth judgment unto victory.

21 And in his name shall the Gentiles trust.

22 ¶ * Then was brought to him one possessed with a devil, both blind and dumb, and he healed him, so that he which was blind and dumb, both spake and saw.

23 And all the people were amazed, and said, Is not this that son of David?

24 But when the Pharisees heard it, they said, * This man casteth the devils no otherwise out but through Beelzebub, the prince of devils.

25^e But Jesus knew their thoughts, and said to them, Every kingdom divided against itself, is brought to nought: and every city or house divided against itself, shall not stand.

26 So if Satan cast out Satan, he is divided against himself: how shall then his kingdom endure?

27 Also if I through Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your children cast them out? Therefore they shall be your judges.

28 But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God, then is the kingdom of God come unto you.

29 Else how can a man enter into a strong man's house, and spoil his goods, except he first bind the strong man, and then spoil his house?

30 He that is not with me, is against me: and he that gathereth not with me, scattereth.

31 * Wherefore I say unto you, Every sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men: but the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men.

32 And whosoever shall speak a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him: ⁶ but whosoever shall speak against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, nor in the world to come.

33 Either make the tree good, and his fruit good: or else make the tree evil, and his fruit evil: for the tree is known by the fruit.

34⁷ O generations of vipers, how can you speak good things, when ye are evil? For of the * abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh.

35 A good man out of the good treasure of his heart bringeth forth good things: and an evil man out of an evil treasure bringeth forth evil things.

36 But I say unto you, that of every^e idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof at the day of judgment.

37 For by thy words thou shalt be justified, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned.

38 ¶ * Then answered certain of the Scribes and of the Pharisees, saying, Master, we would see a sign of thee.

39 But he answered and said to them, An evil and^f adulterous generation seeketh a sign, but no sign shall be given unto it, save that sign of the prophet Jonas.

40 * For as Jonas was three days and three nights in the whale's belly: so shall the Son of man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth.

41⁹ The men of Nineveh shall rise in judgment with this generation, and condemn it: for they^{*} repented at the preaching of Jonas: and behold, a greater than Jonas is here.

42 * The queen of the⁸ South shall rise in judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: for she came from the^h utmost parts of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon: and behold, a greater than Solomon is here.

43 ¶ * Now when the unclean spirit is gone out of a man, he walketh throughout dry places, seeking rest, and findeth none.

44 Then he saith, I will return into mine house from whence I came: and when he is come, he findeth it empty, swept and garnished.

45 ¶ Then he goeth and taketh unto him seven other spirits worse than himself, and they enter in, and dwell there: * and the end of that man is worse than the beginning. Even so shall it be with this wicked generation.

46 ¶¹⁰ * While he yet spake to the multitude, behold, his mother and his brethren stood without, desiring to speak with him.

47 Then one said unto him, Behold, thy mother and thy brethren stand without, desiring to speak with thee.

48 But he answered and said to him that told him, Who is my mother? and who are my brethren?

49¹¹ And he stretched forth his hand toward his disciples, and said, Behold my mother and my brethren.

50 For whosoever shall do my Father's will which is in heaven, the same is my brother and sister and mother.

^c By judgment is meant a settled state, because Christ was to publish true religion among the Gentiles, and to cast out superstition, which thing wheresoever it is done, the Lord is said to reign and judge there: that is to say, to govern and rule matters.

^d He shall pronounce sentence and judgment, maugre the world and Satan, and shew himself conqueror over all his enemies.

^e A truth, be it never so manifest, is subject to the slander of the wicked: yet notwithstanding it ought to be avouched stoutly.

^f The kingdom of Christ, and the kingdom of the devil cannot consist together.

^g Of blasphemy against the Holy Ghost.

^h Hypocrites at the length bewray themselves even by their own mouth.

^e Vain and unprofitable trifles, which the most part of men spend their lives in.

⁸ Against froward desirers of miracles.

^f Bastards which fell from Abraham's faith, or forsook the true worship of God.

⁹ Christ teacheth by the sorrowful example of the Jews, that there are none more miserable than they which put out the light of the gospel, which was kindled in them.

⁸ He meaneth the queen of Sheba, whose country is South, in respect of the land of Israel, 1 Kings 10.

^h For Sheba is situate in the utmost coast of happy Arabia, upon the mouth of the Arabian sea.

C H A P. XIII.

The parable of the sower. 11 and 34 Why Christ spake in parables. 18 The exposition of the parables. 24 The parable of the tares. 31 Of the mustard seed. 33 Of the leaven. 44 Of the hidden treasure. 45 Of the pearl. 47 Of the draw-net cast into the sea. 53 Christ is not received of his countrymen the Nazarites.

Mark 4. 1. Luke 8. 4-5.

THE same day went Jesus out of the house, and sat by the sea side.

2 And great multitudes resorted unto him, so that he went into a ship, and sat down: and the whole multitude stood on the shore.

3 Then he spake many things to them in parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow.

4 And as he sowed, some fell by the way-side, and the fowls came and devoured them up.

5 And some fell upon stony ground, where they had not much earth, and anon they sprung up, because they had no depth of earth.

6 And when the sun was up, they were parched, and for lack of rooting, withered away.

7 And some fell among thorns, and the thorns sprung up, and choked them.

8 Some again fell in good ground, and brought forth fruit, one corn an hundred-fold, some sixty-fold, and another thirty-fold.

9 He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

10 ¶ Then the disciples came, and said to him, Why speakest thou to them in parables?

11 And he answered, and said unto them, Because it is given unto you to know the secrets of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given.

¶ Chap. 25. 29.

12 For whosoever hath, to him shall be given, and he shall have abundance: but whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken away even that he hath.

13 Therefore speak I to them in parables, because they seeing, do not see: and hearing, they hear not, neither understand.

¶ 16. 6. 9. Mark 4. 12. Luke 8. 10. John 12. 40. Acts 23. 26. Rom. 11. 8.

14 So in them is fulfilled the prophecy of Esaias, which prophecy saith, By hearing, ye shall hear, and shall not understand: and seeing, ye shall see, and shall not perceive.

15 For this people's heart is waxed fat, and their ears are dull of hearing, and with their eyes they have winked, lest they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and should understand with their hearts, and should return that I might heal them.

16 But blessed are your eyes, for they see: and your ears, for they hear.

¶ Luke 10. 24.

17 For verily, I say unto you, that many prophets and righteous men have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them: and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them.

18 ¶ Hear ye therefore the parable of the sower.

19 Whensoever any man heareth the word of that kingdom, and understandeth it not, that evil one cometh, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart: and this is he which hath received the seed by the way side.

20 And he that received seed in the stony ground, is he which heareth the word, and incessantly with joy receiveth it, 21 Yet hath he no root in himself, and dureth but a season: for as soon as tribulation or persecution cometh because of the word, by and by he is offended.

22 And he that received the seed among thorns, is he that heareth the word: but the care of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches, choke the word, and he is made unfruitful.

23 But he that received the seed in the good ground, is he that heareth the word, and understandeth it, which also beareth fruit, and bringeth forth, some an hundred-fold, some sixty-fold, and some thirty-fold.

24 ¶ Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is like unto a man which sowed good seed in his field:

25 But while men slept, there came his enemy, and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way.

26 And when the blade was sprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also.

27 Then came the servants of the household-er, and said unto him, Master, sowedst not thou good seed in thy field? from whence then hath it tares?

28 And he said to them, Some envious man hath done this. Then the servants said unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up?

29 But he said, Nay, lest while ye go about to gather the tares, ye pluck up also with them the wheat.

30 Let both grow together until the harvest, and in time of harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye first the tares, and bind them in sheaves to burn them: but gather the wheat into my barn.

31 ¶ Another parable he put forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is like unto a grain of mustard-seed, which a man taketh and soweth in his field:

¶ Mark 4. 30. Luke 13. 18.

32 Which indeed is the least of all seeds: but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs, and it is a tree, so that the birds of heaven come and build in the branches thereof.

33 ¶ Another parable spake he to them, The ¶ Luke 17. 21.

1 Christ sheweth, in putting forth this parable of the sower, that the seed of life which is sown in the world, cometh not on so well in one as in another, and the reason is, for that men, for the most part, either do not receive it, or suffer it not to ripen.

2 The gift of understanding and of faith is proper to the elect, and all the rest are blinded through the just judgment of God.

3 The condition of the church under, and since Christ, is better than it was in the time of the fathers under the law.

4 Though there be mention made of the heart, yet this sowing is referred to hearing, without understanding. For whether the seed be received in the heart or no, yet he that soweth, soweth to the heart.

5 Christ sheweth in another parable of the evil seed mixt with the good, that the church shall never be free and quit from offences, both in doctrine and manners, until the day appointed for the restoring of all things do come, and therefore the faithful have to arm themselves with patience and constancy.

6 God beginneth his kingdom with very small beginnings, to the end that by the growing on of it, beside the expectation and hope of all men, his mighty power and working may be the more set forth.

A. D. 31. The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman taketh and hideth in three pecks of meal, till all be leavened.

34 ¶ All these things spake Jesus unto the multitude in parables, and without parables spake he not to them, 35 That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying, * I will open my mouth in parables, and will utter the things which have been kept secret from the foundation of the world.

36 Then sent Jesus the multitude away, and went into the house. And his disciples came unto him, saying, Declare unto us the parable of the tares of the field.

37 ¶ Then answered he, and said to them, He that soweth the good seed, is the Son of man.

38 And the field is the world, and the good seed are the children of the kingdom, and the tares are the children of that wicked one.

39 And the enemy that soweth them, is the devil, * and the harvest is the end of the world, and the reapers be the angels.

40 As then the tares are gathered and burned in the fire, so shall it be in the end of this world.

41 The Son of man shall send forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them which do iniquity.

42 And shall cast them into a furnace of fire. There shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth.

43 ¶ Then shall the just men shine as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

44 ¶ Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a treasure hid in the field, which when a man hath found, he hideth it, and for joy thereof departeth, and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field.

45 ¶ Again, the kingdom of heaven is like to a merchant-man, that seeketh good pearls, 46 Who having found a pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had, and bought it.

47 ¶ Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a draw-net cast into the sea, that gathereth of all kinds of things, 48 Which, when it is full, men draw to land, and sit and gather the good into vessels, and cast the bad away.

49 So shall it be at the end of the world. The angels shall go forth, and sever the bad from among the just,

50 And shall cast them into a furnace of fire: there shall be wailing, and gnashing of teeth.

51 ¶ Jesus said unto them, Understand ye all these things? They said unto him, Yea, Lord. A. D. 31.

52 Then said he unto them, Therefore every Scribe which is taught unto the kingdom of heaven, is like unto an householder, which bringeth forth out of his treasure things both new and old.

53 ¶ And it came to pass, that when Jesus had ended these parables, he departed thence, 54 ¶ And came into his own country, and taught them in their synagogue, so that they were astonished, and said, Whence cometh this wisdom and great works unto this man? * Mark 6. 1. Luke 4. 16.

55 Is not this the carpenter's son? Is not his mother called Mary, * and his brethren James, * and Joses, and Simon, and Judas? * John 6. 42.

56 And are not his sisters all with us? Whence then hath he all these things?

57 And they were offended with him. Then Jesus said to them, * A prophet is not without honour, save in his own country, and in his own house. * Mark 6. 4. Luke 4. 24. John 4. 44.

58 And he did not many great works there, for their unbelief's sake.

A T * that time Herod the Tetrarch heard of the fame of Jesus, * Mark 6. 14. Luke 9. 7.

2 And said unto his servants, This is that John Baptist, he is risen again from the dead, and therefore great * works are wrought by him.

3 * For Herod had taken John, and bound him, and put him in prison for Herodias sake, his brother Philip's wife. * Mark 6. 17. Luke 3. 19.

4 For John said unto him, It is not * lawful for thee to have her. * Lev. 18. 16. and 20. 21.

5 And when he would have put him to death, he feared the multitude, because they counted him as a * prophet. * Chap. 21. 26.

6 But when Herod's birth-day was kept, the daughter of Herodias danced before them, and pleased * Herod.

7 Wherefore he promised with an oath, that he would give her whatsoever she would ask.

8 And she being before instructed of her mother, said, Give me here John Baptist's head in a platter.

9 And the king was sorry; nevertheless, because

6 He expoundeth the former parable of the good and evil seed.

7 Few men understand how great the riches of the kingdom of heaven are; and no man can be partaker of them, but he that redeemeth them with the loss of all his goods.

8 There are many in the church, which notwithstanding are not of the church, and therefore at length shall be cast out: but the full and perfect cleansing of them is deferred to the last day.

9 They ought to be diligent, which have not only to be wise for themselves, but to dispense the wisdom of God to others.

10 Men do not only sin of ignorance, but also wittingly and willingly lay stumbling-blocks in their own ways, that when God calleth them, they may not obey, and so most plainly destroy and cast away themselves.

11 Here is in John an example of invincible courage, which all faithful ministers of God's word ought to follow: in Herod, an example of tyrannous vanity, pride and cruelty, and to be short, of a courtly conscience, and of their miserable slavery, which have once given themselves over to pleasures: in Herodias and her daughter, an example of whorelike wantonness and womanlike cruelty.

* By works, he meaneth that force and power, whereby works are wrought, and not the works, as is seen oft before.

b There were three Herods: the first of them was Antipater's son, who is also called Alcalonius, in whose reign Christ was born, and he it was that caused the children to be slain. The second was called Antipas, Magnus his son, whose mother's name was Malthaca or Martaca, and this was called Tetrarch, by reason of enlarging his dominion, when Archelaus was banished to Vienne in France. The third was Agrippa, Magnus his nephew by Aristobulus, and he it was that slew James.

A. D. 31. cause of the oath, and them that sat with him at the table, he commanded it to be given her.

10 And sent, and beheaded John in the prison.

11 And his head was brought in a platter, and given to the maid, and she brought it unto her mother.

12 And his disciples came, and took up the body, and buried it, and went and told Jesus.

• Mark 6. 35. Luke 9. 12. John 6. 5. 13 And when Jesus heard it, he departed thence by ship into a desert place apart. And when the multitude had heard it, they followed him on foot out of the cities.

14 And Jesus went forth, and saw a great multitude, and was moved with compassion toward them, and he healed their sick.

• Mark 6. 35. Luke 9. 12. John 6. 5. 15 ¶ And when even was come, his disciples came to him, saying, This is a desert place, and the time is already past: let the multitude depart, that they may go into the towns, and buy them victuals.

16 But Jesus said to them, They have no need to go away: give ye them to eat.

17 Then said they unto him, We have here but five loaves and two fishes.

18 And he said, Bring them hither to me.

19 And he commanded the multitude to sit down on the grass, and took the five loaves and the two fishes, and looked up to heaven, and blessed, and brake, and gave the loaves to his disciples, and the disciples to the multitude.

20 And they did all eat, and were sufficed, and took up of the fragments that remained, twelve baskets full.

21 And they that had eaten, were about five thousand men, beside women, and little children.

22 ¶ And straightway Jesus compelled his disciples to enter into a ship, and to go over before him, while he sent the multitude away.

• Mark 6. 45. 46. 47. John 6. 16. 17. 18. 23 And as soon as he had sent the multitude away, he went up into a mountain alone to pray: and when the evening was come, he was there alone.

24 And the ship was now in the midst of the sea, and was tossed with waves: for it was a contrary wind.

25 And in the fourth watch of the night, Jesus went unto them, walking on the sea.

26 And when his disciples saw him walking on the sea, they were troubled, saying, It is a spirit, and cried out for fear.

27 But straightway Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good comfort, it is I: be not afraid.

² Christ refresheth a great multitude with five loaves and two little fishes, shewing thereby that they shall want nothing, which lay all things aside, and seek the kingdom of heaven.

³ We must sail through mighty tempests, and Christ will never forsake us, so that we go whither he hath commanded us.

⁴ By the fourth watch is meant the time near to day breaking: for in old time they divided the night into four watches, in which they scouted.

⁵ A spirit, as it is here taken, is that which a man imagineth to himself vainly in his mind, persuading himself that he seeth something, and seeth nothing.

⁶ By faith we tread under our feet even the tempests themselves, but yet by the virtue of Christ, which helpeth that virtue, which he of his mercy hath given.

⁷ This Gennesaret was a lake nigh to Capernaum, which is also called the sea of Galilee, and Tyberias, so that the country itself grew to be called by that name.

⁸ In that that Christ healeth the sick, we are given to understand, that we must seek remedy for spiritual diseases at his hands, and that we are bound not only to run ourselves, but also to bring others unto him.

28 ¶ Then Peter answered him, and said, Master, if it be thou, bid me come unto thee on the water.

29 And he said, Come. And when Peter was come down out of the ship, he walked on the water, to go to Jesus.

30 But when he saw a mighty wind, he was afraid: and as he began to sink, he cried, saying, Master, save me.

31 So immediately Jesus stretched forth his hand, and caught him, and said unto him, O thou of little faith, wherefore didst thou doubt?

32 And as soon as they were come into the ship, the wind ceased.

33 Then they that were in the ship, came and worshipped him, saying, Of a truth thou art the Son of God.

35 And when the men of that place knew him, they sent out into all that country round about, and brought unto him all that were sick,

³ Their wicked boldness in corrupting the commandments of God, and that upon pretence of godliness, and usurping authority to make laws, is here reproved.

⁴ By honour is meant, all kind of duty which children owe to their parents.

⁵ The meaning is this: whatsoever I bestow upon the temple, is to thy profit, for it is as good as if I gave it thee, for (as the Pharisees of our time say) it shall be meritorious for thee: for under this colour of religion they raked all to themselves, as though he that had given anything to the temple, had done the duty of a child.

⁶ You made it of no power and authority as much as lay in you: for otherwise the commandments of God stand fast in the church of God, in despite of the world and Satan.

⁷ The same men are condemned for hypocrisy and superstition, because they made the kingdom of God to stand in outward things.

33 And his disciples said unto him, Whence should we get so much bread in the wilderness, as should suffice so great a multitude?

34 And Jesus said unto them, How many loaves have ye? And they said, Seven, and a few little fishes.

35 Then he commanded the multitude to ^k sit down on the ground,

22 And when the young man heard that saying, he went away sorrowful: for he had great possessions.

23 Then Jesus said unto his disciples, Verily I say unto you, that a rich man shall hardly enter into the kingdom of heaven.

24 And again, I say unto you, It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.

25 And when his disciples heard it, they were exceedingly amazed, saying, Who then can be saved?

26 And Jesus beheld them, and said unto them, With men this is impossible, but with God all things are possible.

1 Labourers hired into the vineyard. 15 The evil eye. 17 He foretelleth his passion. 20 Zebedee's sons. 22 The cup. 28 Christ is our minister. 30 Two blind men.

FOR the kingdom of heaven is like unto a certain householder, which went out at the dawning of the day to hire labourers into his vineyard.

2 And he agreed with the labourers for a penny a day, and sent them into his vineyard.

3 And he went out about the third hour, and saw others standing idle in the market-place,

4 And said unto them, Go ye also into my vineyard, and whatsoever is right, I will give it you: and they went their way.

5 Again he went out about the sixth and ninth hour, and did likewise.

• Rich men have need of a singular gift of God to escape out of the snares of Satan.

• Word for word, it is of less labour.

• Theophylact noteth that by this word is meant a cable rope, but Caninius aliedgeth out of the Talmudists, that it is a proverb, and the word, 'Camel,' signifieth the beast itself.

• It is not lost that is neglected for God's sake.

• The regeneration is taken for that day, wherein the elect shall begin to live a new life, that is to say, when they shall enjoy the heavenly inheritance, both in body and soul.

• To have begun well, and not to continue unto the end, doth not only not profit, but also hurteth very much.

• God is bound to no man, and therefore he calleth whomsoever, and whensoever he listeth. This only every man ought to take heed of, and hereupon bestow his whole endeavour, that he go forward and come to the mark without all stopping or staggering, and not curiously to examine other men's doings, or the judgments of God.

• Word for word, sell in time: it is a kind of speech taken from song.

• The last hour, for the day was twelve hours long, and

6 And he went out about the eleventh hour, and found other standing idle, and said unto them, Why stand ye here all the day idle?

7 They said unto him, Because no man hath hired us. He said unto them, Go ye also into my vineyard, and whatsoever is right, that shall ye receive.

8 ¶ And when even was come, the master of the vineyard said unto his steward, Call the labourers, and give them their hire, beginning at the last, till thou come to the first.

9 And they which were hired about the eleventh hour, came and received every man a penny.

10 Now when the first came, they supposed that they should receive more, but they likewise received every man a penny.

11 And when they had received it, they murmured against the master of the house, 12 Saying, These last have wrought but one hour, and thou hast made them equal unto us, which have borne the burden and heat of the day.

13 And he answered one of them, saying, Friend, I do thee no wrong: didst thou not agree with me for a penny?

14 Take that which is thine own, and go thy way: I will give unto this last as much as to thee.

15 Is it not lawful for me to do as I will with mine own? Is thine eye evil, because I am good?

16 So the last shall be first, and the first last: for many are called, but few chosen.

• Nought, that is to say, dost thou envy at my goodness towards them? for the Hebrews by an evil eye mean envy, because such dispositions appear chiefly in the eyes, as above chap. 6. 23. It is set to answer the word, 'single,' and is taken there for corrupt: for whereas he said there above vers. 22. If thine eye be single, he addeth in the 23d, But if thine eye be wicked, or corrupt; the word being the same in that place, as it is here.

• Christ goeth to the cross necessarily, but yet willingly. • They that least ought, are the greatest persecutors of Christ.

• The ignominy of the cross is the sure way to the glory of everlasting life.

• The manner of the heavenly kingdom is quite contrary to the earthly kingdom.

• This is spoken by a figure, taking the cup for that which is contained in the cup. And again, the Hebrews understand by this word 'cup,' sometimes, the manner of punishment which is rendered to sin, as Psalm 11. 6. or the joy that is given to the faithful, as Psalm 23. 5. and sometimes a lot, or condition, as Psalm 16. 5.

A. D. 33. baptism that I shall be baptized with? They said to him; We are able.

23 And he said unto them; Ye shall drink indeed of my cup, and shall be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with: but to sit at my right hand, and at my left hand; is not mine to give, but it shall be given to them for whom it is prepared of my Father.

24 * And when the other ten heard this, they disdained at the two brethren.

25 Therefore Jesus called them unto him, and said, Ye know that the lords of the Gentiles have domination over them: and they that are great, exercise authority over them.

26 But it shall not be so among you: but whosoever will be great among you, let him be your servant.

27 And whosoever will be chief among you; let him be your servant.

31 And the multitude rebuked them, because they should hold their peace: but they cried the more, saying; O Lord; the son of David, have mercy on us.

32 Then Jesus stood still, and called them, and said, What will ye that I should do to you?

33 They said to him, Lord; that our eyes may be opened.

34 And Jesus, moved with compassion, touched their eyes, and immediately their eyes received sight; and they followed him.

1 Christ rideth on an ass into Jerusalem. 12 He casteth out the sellers. 13 The house of prayer. 19 The withered fig-tree. 25 John's baptism. 28 Who do the will of God. 30 Publicans; harlots. 33 God's vineyard. The Jews. 38 The son killed of the husbandmen. 42 The corner stone.

AND * 1 when they drew near to Jerusalem, and were come to Bethphage, unto the mount of the Olives, then sent Jesus two disciples,

2 Saying to them; Go into the town that is over-against you, and anon ye shall find an ass bound, and a colt with her: loose them; and bring them unto me.

3 And if any man say aught unto you; say ye; that the Lord hath need of them, and straight-way he will let them go.

4 All this was done that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying;

5 ¶ * Tell ye the daughter of Sion; Behold, thy King cometh unto thee, meek; and sitting upon an ass, and a colt, the foal of an ass used to the yoke.

6 So the disciples went; and did as Jesus had commanded them,

7 And brought the ass and the colt, and put on them their cloaths, and set him thereon.

8 And a great multitude spread their garments in the way: and others cut down branches from the trees; and strewed them in the way.

9 Moreover; the people that went before; and they also that followed, cried; saying; Hosanna to the son of David, Blessed be he that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hosanna thou which art in the highest heavens.

10 * And when he was come into Jerusalem, all the city was moved; saying, Who is this?

11 And the people said; This is Jesus that prophet of Nazareth in Galilee.

12 ¶ And Jesus went into the temple of God; and cast out all them that sold and bought in the temple; and overthrew the tables of the money-changers; and the seats of them that sold doves;

13 And said to them; It is written; My house shall be called the house of prayer: but ye have made it a den of thieves.

14 Then the blind and the halt came to him in the temple; and he healed them.

15 2 But when the chief priests and Scribes saw the marvels that he did, and the children crying in the temple; and saying; Hosanna to the son of David; they disdained;

16 And said unto him, Hearst thou what these say? And Jesus said unto them; Yea: read ye never; * By the mouth of babes and sucklings thou hast made perfect the praise?

17 ¶ 3 So he left them; and went out of the city into Bethany; and lodged there.

18 4 And * in the morning; as he returned into the city; he was hungry;

19 And seeing a fig-tree in the way, he came to it, and found nothing thereon; but leaves only, and said to it; Never fruit grow on thee henceforwards: And anon the fig-tree withered:

20 And when his disciples saw it; they marvelled; saying; How soon is the fig-tree withered!

* This is applied to affliction, as David commonly useth.

† The almightiness of Christ his divinity is not shut out by this, but it sheweth the debasing of himself by taking man's nature upon him.

‡ Somewhat sharply and roughly.

§ Christ by healing these blind men with an only touch, sheweth that he is the only light of the world.

¶ Himself, not by other men's means.

‡ Christ by his humility triumphing over the pride of this world, ascendeth to true glory, by ignominy of the cross.

§ He that shall say any thing to you, shall let them go, to wit, the ass and the colt.

¶ The city of Sion. An Hebrew kind of speech, commonly used in the Lamentations of Jeremiah.

‡ Their uppermost garments.

§ Upon their garments, not upon the ass and the colt.

¶ This was an ancient kind of crying, which they used in the feast of tabernacles, when they carried boughs, according as God commanded; Levit. 23. 40. And the word is corruptly made of two, for we should say, Hoshiangena, which is as much to say, Save, I pray thee.

† Well be it to him that cometh in the name of the Lord, that is to say, whom the Lord hath given us for our king.

‡ That is; all the men of Jerusalem were moved.

§ Such as should be masters of godliness, are they that do most envy the glory of Christ: but in vain.

¶ Thou hast made most perfect. We read in David, Thou hast established or grounded; and if the matter be considered well, it is all one that the Evangelist saith, for that is stable and sure, which is most perfect.

‡ Christ doth so forsake the wicked, that yet he hath a consideration and regard of his church.

§ Hypocrites shall at length have their masks discovered, and vizards plucked from their faces.

¶ How great the force of faith is.

A. D. * Verily I say unto you, if ye have faith, and doubt not, ye shall not only do that which I have done to the fig-tree, but also if ye say unto this mountain, Take thyself away, and cast thyself into the sea, it shall be done.

22 * And whatsoever ye shall ask in prayer, if ye believe, ye shall receive it.

23 * And when he was come into the temple, the chief priests and the elders of the people came unto him, as he was teaching, and said, By what authority dost thou these things? and who gave thee this authority?

24 Then Jesus answered and said unto them, I also will ask of you a certain thing, which if you tell me, I likewise will tell you by what authority I do these things.

25 The baptism of John, whence was it? from heaven, or of men? Then they reasoned among themselves, saying, If we shall say, From heaven, he will say unto us, Why did ye not then believe him?

26 And if we say, Of men, we fear the multitude, * for all hold John as a prophet.

27 Then they answered Jesus, and said, We cannot tell. And he said unto them, Neither tell I you by what authority I do these things.

28 ¶ But what think ye? A certain man had two sons, and came to the elder, and said, Son, go and work to day in my vineyard.

29 But he answered, and said, I will not: yet afterwards he repented himself, and went.

30 Then came he to the second, and said likewise. And he answered, and said, I will, Sir: yet he went not.

31 Whether of them twain did the will of the father? They said unto him, the first. Jesus said unto them, Verily I say unto you, that the Publicans and the harlots go before you into the kingdom of God.

32 For John came unto you in the way of righteousness, and ye believed him not: but the Publicans and the harlots believed him, and ye, though ye saw it, were not moved with repentance afterward, that ye might believe him.

33 ¶ Hear another parable, There was a certain householder, * which planted a vineyard, and hedged it round about, and made a winepress therein, and built a tower, and let it out to husbandmen, and went into a strange country.

34 And when the time of the fruit drew near, he sent his servants to the husbandmen to receive the fruits thereof.

³ From God, and so it is plainly seen, how these are set one against another.

⁴ Beat their heads about it and mused, or laid their heads together.

⁵ It is no new thing to see them to be the worst of all men, which ought to shew the way of godliness to others.

⁷ Living uprightly, being of a good and honest conversation: for the Hebrews use this word, 'way,' for life and manners.

⁸ Those men oftentimes are the cruellest enemies of the church, to whose fidelity it is committed: But the vocation of God is neither tied to time, place, nor person.

35 And the husbandmen took his servants, and beat one, and killed another, and stoned another.

36 Again he sent other servants, more than the first: and they did the like unto them.

37 But last of all he sent unto them his own son, saying, They will reverence my son.

38 But when the husbandmen saw the son, they said among themselves, * This is the heir: come, let us kill him, and let us take his inheritance.

39 So they took him, and cast him out of the vineyard, and slew him.

40 When therefore the lord of the vineyard shall come, what will he do to those husbandmen?

41 They said unto him, He will cruelly destroy those wicked men, and will let out his vineyard unto other husbandmen, which shall deliver him the fruits in their seasons.

42 Jesus said unto them, Read ye never in the scriptures, * The stone which the builders refused, the same is made the head of the corner? * This was the Lord's doing, and it is marvellous in our eyes.

43 Therefore I say unto you, The kingdom of God shall be taken from you, and shall be given to a nation which shall bring forth the fruits thereof.

44 * And whosoever shall fall on this stone, he shall be broken: but on whomsoever it shall fall, it will dash him in pieces.

45 And when the chief priests and Pharisees had heard his parables, they perceived that he spake of them.

⁶ The chief stone in the corner is called the head of the corner: which beareth up the couplings or joints of the whole building.

⁹ As chaff useth to be scattered with the wind, for he useth a word which signifieth properly to separate the chaff from the corn with winnowing, and to scatter it abroad.

¹⁰ The wicked can do nothing but what God will.

¹¹ Not all the whole company of them that are called by the voice of the gospel, are the true church before God: for the most part of them had rather follow the commodities of his life: and some do most cruelly persecute those that call them:

A. D. 33. 3 And sent forth his servants, to call them that were bid to the wedding, but they would not come.

4 Again he sent forth other servants, saying, Tell them which are bidden, Behold, I have prepared my dinner: mine oxen and my fatlings are ^a killed, and all things are ready: come unto the marriage.

5 But they made light of it, and went their ways, one to his farm, and another about his merchandize.

6 And the remnant took his servants, and intreated them sharply, and slew them.

7 ² But when the king heard it, he was wroth, and sent forth his warriors, and destroyed those murderers, and burnt up their city.

8 Then said he to his servants, Truly the ^b wedding is prepared: but they which were bidden, were not worthy.

9 ³ Go ye therefore out into the high ways, and as many as you find, bid them to the marriage.

10 So these servants went out into the high ways, and gathered together all that ever they found, both good and ^c bad: so the wedding was furnished with guests.

11 ⁴ Then the king came in to see the guests, and saw there a man which had not on a wedding garment.

12 And he said unto him, Friend, how camest thou in hither, and hast not on a wedding garment? and he was ^d speechless.

13 Then said the king to the ^e servants, Bind him hand and foot: take him away, and cast him into utter darkness: * there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

14 * For many are called, but few chosen.

15 ¶ * Then went the Pharisees, and took counsel how they might ^f tangle him in talk.

16 And they sent unto him their disciples with the ^g Herodians, saying, Master, we know that thou art true, and teachest the way of God ^h truly, neither carest for any man: for thou considerest not the ⁱ person of men.

17 ⁵ Tell us therefore, how thinkest thou? Is it lawful to give ^k tribute unto Cesar, or not?

25 Now there were with us seven brethren, and the first married a wife, and deceased, and having no issue, left his wife unto his brother.

26 Likewise also the second, and the third, unto the seventh.

27 And last of all the woman died also.

28 Therefore in the resurrection, whose wife shall she be of the seven? for all had her.

29 Then Jesus answered, and said unto them, Ye are deceived, not knowing the scriptures, nor the power of God.

30 For in the resurrection they neither marry wives, nor wives are bestowed in marriage, but are as the ⁿ angels of God in heaven.

31 And concerning the resurrection of the dead, have ye not read what is spoken unto you of God, saying, 32 * I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob? God is not the God of the dead, but of the living. Exod. 3. 6. Mark 12. 27.

 45 If then David call him Lord, how is he then his son?

1 How the Scribes, teaching the people the law of Moses, behave themselves. 5 Their phylacteries and fringes. 7 Greetings. 8 We are brethren. 9 The Father. 10 The servant. 13 To shut the kingdom of heaven. 14 To devour widows houses. 15 A proselyte. 16 To swear by the temple. 23 To tybe mint. 25 To cleanse the outside of the cup. 27 Painted sepulchres. 33 Serpents, vipers. 37 The hen.

THEN spake Jesus to the multitude, and to his disciples,
 2 Saying, The * Scribes and the Pharisees fit in Moses' seat.
 3 All therefore whatsoever they bid you observe, that observe and do: but after their works do not: for they say, and do not.
 4 ¶ For they bind heavy burdens, and grievous to be borne, and lay them on mens shoulders, but they themselves will not move them with one of their fingers.

5 All their works they do for to be seen of men: for they make their phylacteries broad, and make long the fringes of their garments.
 6 And love the chief place at feasts, and to have the chief seats in the assemblies,
 7 And greetings in the markets, and to be called of men, Rabbi, Rabbi.
 8 ¶ But be not ye called Rabbi: for one is your doctor, to wit, Christ, and all ye are brethren.
 9 And call no man your father upon the earth: for there is but one your Father, which is in heaven.
 10 Be not called doctors: for one is your doctor, even Christ.
 11 But he that is greatest among you, let him be your servant.
 12 For whosoever will exalt himself, shall be brought low: and whosoever will humble himself shall be exalted.
 13 ¶ Woe therefore be unto you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites, because ye shut up the kingdom of heaven before men: for ye yourselves go not in, neither suffer ye them that would enter, to come in.
 14 ¶ Woe be unto you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites: for ye devour widows houses, even under a colour of long prayers: wherefore ye shall receive the greater damnation.
 15 Woe be unto you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites: for ye compass sea and land to make one of your proselytes: and when he is made ye make him twofold more the child of hell than yourselves.
 16 Woe be unto you, blind guides, which say, Whosoever sweareth by the temple, it is nothing: but whosoever sweareth by the gold of the temple, he offendeth.
 17 Ye fools and blind, whether is greater, the gold, or the temple that sanctifieth the gold?
 18 And whosoever sweareth by the altar, it is nothing: but whosoever sweareth by the offering that is upon it, offendeth.

* The Hebrew text readeth, Deut. 6. 5. with thine heart, soul, and strength: and in Mark 12. 30. and Luke 10. 27. we read, with soul, heart, strength, and thought.
 * Another man.
 * Christ proveth manifestly that he is David's son according to the flesh, but otherwise David's Lord and very God.
 * Of whose stock or family: for the Hebrews call a man's posterity sons.
 * We ought to hear whatsoever any wicked teachers teach us purely out of the word of God, yet so that we eschew their evil manners.
 * Because God appointed the order, therefore the Lord would have his word to be heard even from the mouth of hypocrites and hirelings.
 * Provided always, that they deliver Moses his doctrine which they profess, which thing the metaphor of the seat sheweth, which they occupied as teachers of Moses his learning.
 * Hypocrites for the most part are most severe exactors of those things which they themselves chiefly neglect.
 * Hypocrites are ambitious.
 * It was a thread, or ribband of blue silk in the fringe of a corner, the beholding whereof made them to remember the laws and ordinances of God: and therefore was it called a phylactery, as ye would say, a keeper, Num. 15. 38. Deut. 6. 8. which order the Jews afterward abused, as they do now-a-days, which hang St. John's gospel about their necks: a thing condemned many years ago in the council of Antioch.
 * Wood for word, twined tassels of thread, which hang at the nethermost hems of their garments.
 * When assemblies and councils are gathered together.
 * This word Rabbi signifieth one that is above his fellows, and is as good as a number of them: and we may see by the repeating of it, how proud a title it was. Now they were called Rabbi, which by laying on of hands were uttered and declared to the world to be wise men.

 * Modesty is a singular ornament of God's ministers.
 * Seek not ambitiously after it: for our Lord doth not forbid us to give the magistrate and our masters the honour that is due to them. Augulline de sermone verbi Domini ex Math. cap. 11.
 * He seemeth to allude to a place of Isaiah, chap. 54. 13 and Jer. 31. 24.
 * He shootheth at a fashion which the Jews used, for they called the rabbins our fathers.
 * It seemeth that the Scribes did very greedily hunt after such titles, whom, verse 16. he calleth blind guides.
 * He seemeth to allude to the name of the Rabbins, for Rab signifieth one that is aloft.
 * Hypocrites can abide none to be better than themselves.
 * Christ, when he reproveth any man sharply, useth this word, to give us to understand, that there is nothing more detestable than hypocrisy and falshood in religion.
 * Which are even at the door.
 * It is a common thing amongst hypocrites to abuse the pretence of zeal to coverousness and extortion.
 * Word for word, under a colour of long praying. And this word, 'even,' noteth a double naughtiness in them: the one, that they devoured widows goods: the other, that they did it under a colour of godliness.
 * The dry part: now that part of the earth is called dry, which the Lord hath given us to dwell upon.
 * Is a debtor. Sins are called in the Syrian tongue, debts: and it is certain that Christ spake in the Syrian tongue.
 * Causeth the gold to be counted holy, which is dedicated to an holy use.

A. D. 33. 19 Ye fools and blind, whether is greater, the offering, or the altar which sanctifieth the offering?

20 Whosoever therefore sweareth by the altar, sweareth by it, and by all things thereon.

21 * And whosoever sweareth by the temple, sweareth by it, and by him that dwelleth therein.

22 * And he that sweareth by heaven, sweareth by the throne of God, and by him that sitteth thereon.

23 ¶ 7 * Woe be to you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites: for ye tythe the mint and anise, and cummin, and leave the weightier matters of the law, as judgment, and mercy, and fidelity. These ought ye to have done, and not to have left the other.

24 Ye blind guides, which strain at a gnat, and swallow a camel.

25 ¶ 8 * Woe be to you, * Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites: for ye make clean the outer side of the cup, and of the platter: but within they are full of bribery and excess.

26 Thou blind Pharisee, cleanse first the inside of the cup and platter, that the outside of them may be clean also.

27 Woe be to you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites: for ye are like unto whited tombs, which appear beautiful outward, but are within full of dead men's bones, and of all filthiness.

28 So are ye also: for outward ye appear righteous unto men, but within ye are full of hypocrisy and iniquity.

29 ¶ 9 * Wo be unto you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites: for ye build the tombs of the prophets, and garnish the sepulchres of the righteous, 30 And say, If we had been in the days of our fathers, we would not have been partners with them in the blood of the prophets.

31 So then ye be witnesses unto yourselves, that ye are the children of them that murdered the prophets.

32 * Fulfil ye also the measure of your fathers.

33 O serpents, the generation of vipers, how should ye escape the damnation * of hell?

34 10 Wherefore behold, I send unto you prophets, and wise men, and scribes, and of them ye shall kill and crucify: and of them shall ye scourge in your synagogues, and persecute from city to city, 35 11 That upon you may come all the righteous blood that was shed upon the earth, * from the blood of Abel the righteous, unto the blood of Zecharias, the son of Barachias, * whom ye slew between the temple and the altar.

36 Verily I say unto you, all these things shall come upon this generation. A. D. 33.

37 12 * Jerusalem, Jerusalem, which killest the prophets, and stonest them which are sent to thee, how often would I have gathered thy children together, as the hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and ye would not!

38 Behold, your habitation shall be left unto you desolate.

39 For I say unto you, ye shall not see me henceforth, till that ye say, Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord.

CHAP. XXIV.

2 The destruction of the temple. 4 The signs of Christ's coming. 12 Iniquity. 23 False Christs. 29 The signs of the end of the world. 31 The angels. 32 The fig-tree. 37 The days of Noah. 42 We must watch. 45 The servant.

AND * Jesus went out, and departed from the temple, and his disciples came to him, to shew him the building of the temple. * Mark 13. 1. Luke 21. 5. 6.

2 * And Jesus said unto them, See ye not all these things? Verily I say unto you, * there shall not be here left a stone upon a stone, that shall not be cast down. * Luke 19. 44.

3 And as he sat upon the mount of Olives, his disciples came unto him apart, saying, Tell us when these things shall be, and what sign shall be of thy coming, and of the end of the world.

4 2 And Jesus answered, and said unto them, * Take heed that no man deceive you, * Ephes. 5. 6. Coloss. 2. 18.

5 For many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ, and shall deceive many.

6 And ye shall hear of wars, and rumours of wars: see that ye be not troubled, for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet.

7 For nation shall rise against nation, and realm against realm, and there shall be famine, and pestilence, and earthquakes in divers places.

8 All these are but the beginning of sorrows.

9 * Then shall they deliver you up to be afflicted, and shall kill you, and ye shall be hated of all nations for my name's sake. * Ch. 10. 17. Luke 21. 12, 13. John 15. 20, and 16. 2.

10 And then shall many be offended, and shall betray one another, and shall hate one another, 11 And many false prophets shall arise, and shall deceive many.

12 And because iniquity shall be increased, the love of many shall be cold.

13 But blessed of the Lord.

12 Where the mercy of God was greatest, there was greatest wickedness and rebellion, and at length the most sharp judgments of God.

2 He speaketh of the outward ministry, and as he was promised for the saving of this people, so was he also careful for it, even from the time that the promise was made to Abraham.

1 The destruction of the city, and especially of the temple, is foretold.

2 The church shall have a continual conflict with infinite miseries and offences, and that more is, with false prophets, until the day of victory and triumph cometh.

2 That is, when those things are fulfilled, yet the end shall not come.

b Every where.

c Word for word, of great torments, like unto women in travail.

0 If heaven be God's throne, then is he no doubt above all this world.

7 Hypocrites are careful in trifles, and neglect the greatest things of purpose.

1 Faithfulness in keeping of promises.

8 Hypocrites are too much careful of outward things, and the inward they utterly contemn.

9 Hypocrites when they go most about to cover their wickedness, then do they by the just judgment of God shame themselves.

10 A proverb used of the Jews, which hath this meaning, Go ye on also, and follow your ancestors, that at length your wickedness may come to the full.

A. D. 13 * 3 But he that endureth to the end, he shall be saved.

14 And this ⁴ gospel of the kingdom shall be preached through the whole ⁵ world, for a witness unto all nations, and then shall the end come.

15 ¶ When ye ⁶ therefore shall see the ⁷ abomination of desolation spoken of by ⁸ Daniel the prophet, set in the holy place (let him that readeth consider it)

16 Then let them which be in Judea, flee into the mountains.

17 Let him which is on the house top, not come down to take any thing out of his house.

18 And he that is in the field, let not him return back to fetch his ⁹ clothes.

19 And woe shall be to them that are with child, and to them that give suck in those days.

20 But pray that your flight be not in the winter, neither on the ¹⁰ sabbath day.

21 For then shall be great tribulation, such as was not from the beginning of the world to this time, nor shall be.

22 And except ¹¹ those days should be shortened, there should no ¹² flesh be saved: but for the elect's sake those days shall be shortened.

23 ¶ Then if any shall say unto you, Lo, here is Christ, or there, believe it not.

24 For there shall arise false Christs, and false prophets, and shall shew great signs and wonders, so that if it were possible, they should deceive the very elect.

25 Behold, I have told you before.

26 Wherefore if they shall say unto you, Behold, he is in the desert, go not forth: behold, he is in the secret places, believe it not.

27 For as the lightning cometh out of the East, and is seen in the West, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be.

28 ¶ For wheresoever a dead ¹³ carcase is, thither will the eagles be gathered together.

29 ¶ And immediately after the tribulations or those days, shall the sun be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars shall fall from heaven, and the powers of heaven shall be shaken.

30 And then shall appear the ¹⁴ sign of the son of man in heaven: and then shall all the ¹⁵ kindreds of the earth ¹⁶ mourn, and they shall see the Son of man ¹⁷ come in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory.

31 ¶ And he shall send his angels with a great sound of a trumpet, and they shall gather together his elect from the ¹⁸ four winds, and from one end of the heavens unto the other.

32 ¶ Now learn the parable of the fig-tree: when her bough is yet ¹⁹ tender, and it putteth forth leaves, ye know that summer is near.

33 So likewise ye, when ye see all these things, know that the kingdom of God is near, even at the doors.

34 Verily I say unto you, this ²⁰ generation shall not pass, till all these things be done.

35 ¶ Heaven and earth shall pass away: but my words shall not pass away.

36 ¶ But of that day and hour knoweth no man, no not the angels of heaven, but my Father only.

37 But as the days of Noah were, so likewise shall the coming of the Son of man be.

38 ¶ For as in the days before the flood, they did ²¹ eat and drink, marry, and give in marriage, unto the day that Noah entered into the ark, 39 And knew nothing till the flood came, and took them all away: so shall also the coming of the Son of man be.

40 ¶ Then two shall be in the field: the one shall be received, and the other shall be refused.

41 ¶ Two women shall be grinding at the mill: the one shall be received, and the other shall be refused.

42 ¶ Watch therefore: for ye know not what hour your Master will come.

⁵ The abomination of desolation, that is to say, which all men detest and cannot abide, by reason of the foul and shameful filthiness of it: and he speaketh of the idols that were set up in the temple, or as others think, he meant the marring of the doctrine of the church.

⁸ These things which beset the people of the Jews in the thirty-four years, when as the whole land was wasted, and at length the city of Jerusalem taken, and both it, and their temple destroyed, are mixed with those which shall come to pass before the last coming of our Lord.

²² It is sufficient for us to know that God hath appointed a latter day for the restoring of all things, but when it shall be, it is hidden from us all, for our profit, that we may be so much the more watchful, that we be not taken, as they were in old time, in the flood.

45 * Who then is a faithful servant and wise, whom his master hath made ruler over his household, to give them meat in season?

46 Blessed is that servant, whom his master when he cometh, shall find so doing.

47 Verily I say unto you, he shall make him ruler over all his goods.

48 But if that evil servant shall say in his heart, My master doth defer his coming,

CHAP. XXV.

1 The virgins looking for the bridegroom. 13 We must watch. 14 The talents delivered unto the servants. 24 The evil servant. 30 After what sort the last judgment shall be. 41 The cursed.

THEN ¹ the kingdom of heaven shall be likened unto ten virgins, which took their lamps, and ² went forth to meet the bridegroom:

2 And five of them were wise, and five foolish.

3 The foolish took their lamps, but took no oil with them.

4 But the wise took oil in their vessels with their lamps.

5 Now while the bridegroom, tarried long, all ^b slumbered and slept.

6 And at midnight there was a cry made, Behold, the bridegroom cometh: go out to meet him.

7 Then all those virgins arose, and trimmed their lamps.

8 And the foolish said to the wise, Give us of your oil, for our lamps are out.

9 But the wise answered, saying, Not so, lest there will not be enough for us and you: but go ye rather to them that sell, and buy for yourselves.

10 And while they went to buy, the bridegroom came: and they that were ready, went in with him to the wedding, and the gate was shut.

11 Afterwards came also the other virgins, saying, Lord, Lord, open to us.

12 But he answered, and said, Verily I say unto you, I know you not. A. D. 33.

13 * Watch therefore: for ye know neither the day nor the hour when the Son of man will come. * Ch. 24. 42. Mark 13. 35.

14 * ² For the kingdom of heaven is as a man that going into a strange country, called his servants, and delivered to them his goods. * Luke 19. 12, 13.

15 And unto one he gave five talents, and to another two, to another one, to every man after his own ^c ability, and straightway went from home.

16 Then he that had received the five talents; went and occupied with them, and gained other five talents.

17 Likewise also, he that received two, he also gained other two.

18 But he that received that one, went, and digged it in the earth, and hid his master's money:

19 But after a long season, the master of those servants came, and reckoned with them.

20 Then came he that had received five talents, and brought other five talents; saying, Master; thou deliveredst unto me five talents: behold, I have gained with them other five talents.

21 Then his master said unto him, It is well done, good servant and faithful, thou hast been faithful in little; I will make thee ruler over much: ^d enter into thy master's joy:

22 Also he that had received two talents, came, and said; Master, thou deliveredst unto me two talents: behold, I have gained two other talents more.

23 His master said unto him; It is well done; good servant and faithful: thou hast been faithful in little; I will make thee ruler over much: enter into thy master's joy.

24 Then he which had received the one talent, came; and said, Master, I knew that thou wast an hard man, which reapest where thou sowedst not, and gatherest where thou strewedst not:

25 I was therefore afraid, and went, and hid thy talent in the earth: behold, thou hast thine own.

26 And his master answered, and said unto him, Thou evil servant; and slothful, thou knewest that I reap where I sowed not, and gather where I strewed not.

27 Thou oughtest therefore to have put my money to the ^e exchangers, and then at my coming should I have received mine own with vantage.

28 Take therefore the talent from him, and give it unto him which hath ten talents.

29 * For unto every man that hath, it shall be given, and he shall have abundance, and from him that hath not, even that he hath, shall be taken away. * Ch. 13. 12. Mark 4. 25. Luke 8. 18. and 19. 26.

^y To wit, from the rest, or will cut him into two parts, which was a most cruel kind of punishment: wherewith, as Justine Martyr witnesseth, Isaiah the prophet was executed by the Jews: the like kind of punishment we read of, 1 Sam. 15. 33. and Dan. 3. 29.

² We must desire strength at God's hand, which may serve us as a torch while we walk through this darkness, to bring us to our desired end: otherwise if we become slothful and negligent as weary of our pains and travel, we shall be shut out of the doors.

^c Christ witnesseth that there shall be a long time between his departure to his Father, and his coming again to us, but yet notwithstanding, that he will at that day take an account not only of the rebellions and obstinate, how they have bestowed that which they received of him, but also of his household servants, which have not through slothfulness employed those gifts which he bestowed upon them.

^c According to the wisdom and skill in dealing, which was given them.

A. D. into utter * darkness: there shall be weeping, and gnashing of teeth.

31 ¶ And when the Son of man cometh in his glory, and all the holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory.

32 And before him shall be gathered all nations: and he shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd separateth the sheep from the goats.

33 And he shall set the sheep on his right-hand, and the goats on the left.

34 Then shall the King say to them on his right hand, Come, ye blessed of my Father: take the inheritance of the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world.

35 For I was an hungred, and ye gave me meat: I thirsted, and ye gave me drink: I was a stranger, and ye took me in unto you.

36 I was naked, and ye clothed me: I was sick, and ye visited me: I was in prison, and ye came unto me.

37 Then shall the righteous answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungred, and fed thee? or athirst, and gave thee drink?

38 And when saw we thee a stranger, and took thee in unto us? or naked, and clothed thee?

39 Or when saw we thee sick, or in prison, and came unto thee?

40 And the King shall answer, and say unto them, Verily I say unto you, inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it to me.

41 Then shall he say unto them on the left-hand, Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire, which is prepared for the devil and his angels.

42 For I was an hungred, and ye gave me no meat: I thirsted, and ye gave me no drink:

43 I was a stranger, and ye took me not in unto you: I was naked, and ye clothed me not: sick, and in prison, and ye visited me not.

44 Then shall they also answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungred, or athirst, or a stranger, or naked, or sick, or in prison, and did not minister unto thee?

45 Then shall he answer them, and say, Verily I say unto you, inasmuch as ye did it not to one of the least of these, ye did it not to me.

46 And these shall go into everlasting pain, and the righteous into life eternal.

* A lively setting forth of the everlasting judgment which is to come.

† Blessed and happy, upon whom my Father hath most abundantly bestowed his benefits.

‡ Christ witnesseth by his voluntary going to death, that he will make full satisfaction for the sin of Adam, by his obedience.

§ God himself and not men appointed the time that Christ should be crucified in.

¶ By this word feast, is meant the whole feast of unleavened bread: the first and eighth day whereof, were so holy, that they might do no manner of work therein, though the whole company of the Sanhedrim determined otherwise: and yet it came to pass through God's providence, that Christ suffered at that time, to the end that all the people of Israel might be witnesses of his everlasting sacrifice.

‡ By this sudden work of a sinful woman, Christ giveth the guests to understand of his death and burial which was nigh, the favour whereof shall bring life to all sinners which flee unto him. But Judas taketh an occasion hereby to accomplish his wicked purpose and counsel.

§ For these things were done before Christ came to Jerusalem, and yet some think that the Evangelists recite two histories.

¶ These boxes were of alabaster, which in old time men

AND * it came to pass, when Jesus had finished all these sayings, he said unto his disciples,

2 † Ye know, that after two days is the pass-over, and the Son of man shall be delivered to be crucified.

3 ‡ Then assembled together the chief priests, and the Scribes, and the elders of the people into the hall of the high priest, called Caiaphas,

4 And consulted together, that they might take Jesus by subtilty, and kill him.

5 But they said, Not on the † feast day, lest any uproar be among the people.

6 ¶ And when Jesus was in Bethany, in the house of Simon the leper, 7 ‡ There came unto him a woman, which had a † box of very costly ointment, and poured it on his head as he sat at the table.

8 And when his † disciples saw it, they had indignation, saying, What needed this † waste?

9 For this ointment might have been sold for much, and been given to the poor.

10 † And Jesus knowing it, said unto them, Why trouble ye the woman? for she hath wrought a good work upon me.

11 ‡ For ye have the poor always with you, but me shall ye not have always.

12 For † in that she poured this ointment on my body, she did it to bury me.

13 Verily I say unto you, Wheresoever this gospel shall be preached throughout all the world, there shall also this that she hath done, be spoken of for a memorial of her.

14 ¶ Then one of the twelve, called Judas Iscariot, went unto the chief priests, 15 And said, What will ye give me, and I will deliver him unto you? And they appointed unto him thirty † pieces of silver.

16 And from that time he sought opportunity to betray him.

17 ¶ Now † on the first day of the feast of unleavened bread, the disciples came to Jesus, saying made hollow to put in ointments: for some write that alabaster keepeth ointment very well without corruption, Pliny, book 13. ch. 1.

‡ This is a figure called Synecdoche: for it is said but of Judas, that he was moved thereat, John 12. 14.

† Unprofitable spending.

‡ We ought not rashly to condemn that which is not orderly done.

§ Christ who was once anointed in his own person, must always be anointed in the poor.

¶ In that she poured this ointment upon my body, she did it to bury me.

‡ Christ verily purposing to bring us into our country out of hand, and so to abrogate the figure of the law, fulfilleth the law, neglecting the contrary tradition and custom of the Jews: and therewithal sheweth that all things shall so come to pass by the ministry of men, that the secret council of God shall govern them.

§ This was the fourteenth day of the first month: and the first day of unleavened bread should have been the fifteenth, but because this day's evening (which after the manner of the Romans was referred to the day before) did belong by the Jews manner to the day following, therefore it is called the first day of unleavened bread.

A. D. 53. saying unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eat the passover?

18 And he said, Go ye into the city to such a man, and say to him, The Master saith, My time is at hand: I will keep the passover at thine house with my disciples.

19 And the disciples did as Jesus had given them charge, and made ready the passover.

20 * So when the even was come, he ^b sat down with the twelve.

21 And as they did eat, he said, * Verily I say unto you, that one of you shall betray me.

22 And they were exceeding sorrowful, and began every one of them to say unto him, Is it I, Master?

23 And he answered, and said, * He that dippeth his hand with me in the dish, he shall betray me.

24 Surely the Son of man goeth his way, as it is written of him: but woe be to that man, by whom the Son of man is betrayed: it had been good for that man, if he had never been born.

25 Then Judas ^k which betrayed him, answered and said, Is it I, Master? He said unto him, Thou hast said it.

26 ¶ ⁷ * And as they did eat, Jesus took the bread, and when he had ^l blessed, he brake it, and gave it to the disciples, and said, Take, eat: ^m This is my body.

27 Also he took the cup, and when he had given thanks, he gave it them, saying, Drink ye ⁿ all of it.

28 ^o For this is my blood of the ^p new Testament, that is shed for many for the remission of of sins.

29 I say unto you, that I will not drink henceforth of this fruit of the vine, until that day, when I shall drink it new with you in my Father's kingdom.

30 And when they had sung ^q a psalm, they went out into the mount of Olives.

31 ¶ ⁸ * Then said Jesus unto them, All ye shall be offended by me this night: for it is written, I ^r will smite the shepherd, and the sheep of the flock shall be scattered.

^b Because the law appointed them to be shod, and have their slaves in their hands, as though they were in haste, thereby it is to be gathered, that they sat not down when they did eat the passover, but stood, for otherwise when they went to meat, they put off their shoes: therefore he speaketh here in this place, not of the passover, but of the supper which was celebrated after that the passover was solemnly done.

^l That is to say, whom I vouchsafed to come to my table, alluding to the place, Psalm 41. 10. which is not so to be understood as though at the self-same instant that the Lord spake these words, Judas had had his hand in the dish (for that had been an undoubted token) but it is meant of his tabling and eating with him.

^k Whose head was about nothing else but to betray him.

⁷ Christ minding forthwith to fulfil the promises of the old covenant, instituteth a new covenant with new signs.

^l Mark saith, had given thanks: and therefore blessing is not a consecrating, with a conjuring kind of murmuring and force of words; and yet the bread and the wine are changed, not in nature, but in quality, for they become undoubted tokens of the body and blood of Christ, not of their own nature or force of words, but by Christ his institution, which must be recited, and laid forth, that faith my find what to lay hold on, both in the word and in the elements.

^m This is a figurative speech, which is called Metonymia: that is to say, the putting of one name for another: so calling the bread his body, which is the sign and sacrament of his body, and yet notwithstanding, it is so a figurative and changed kind of speech, that the faithful do receive Christ indeed with all his gifts (though by a spiritual means) and become one with him.

ⁿ Therefore they which took away the cup from the people, did against Christ his institution.

32 But * after I am risen again, I will go before you into Galilee.

33 But Peter answered, and said unto him, Though that all men should be offended by thee, yet will I never be offended.

34 * Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, that this night, before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice.

35 Peter said unto him, Though I should die with thee, I will in no case deny thee. Likewise also said all the disciples.

36 ¶ ⁹ * Then went Jesus with them into a place which is called Gethsemane, and said unto his disciples, Sit ye here, while I go, and pray yonder.

37 And he took unto him Peter, and the two sons of Zebedee, and began to wax sorrowful, and ^r grievously troubled.

38 ¹⁰ Then said Jesus unto them, My soul is very heavy, even unto the death: tarry ye here, and watch with me.

39 So he went a little further, and fell on his face, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if it be possible, ^s let this ^t cup pass from me: nevertheless, not as I will, but as thou wilt.

40 ¹¹ After, he came unto the disciples, and found them asleep, and said to Peter, What ^u could ye not watch with me one hour?

41 Watch, and pray, that ye enter not into temptation: the spirit indeed is ready, but the flesh is weak.

42 Again he went away the second time, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if this cup cannot pass away from me, but that I must drink it, thy will be done.

43 And he came, and found them asleep again, for their eyes were heavy.

44 So he left them, and went away again, and prayed the third time, saying the same words.

45 Then came he to his disciples, and said unto them, Sleep henceforth, and take your rest: behold, the hour is at hand, and the Son of man is given into the hands of sinners.

46. Rise,

^o To wit, this cup or wine, is my blood sacramentally, as Luke 22. 10.

^p Or, the covenant, that is to say, whereby the new league and covenant is made: for in making of leagues, they used pouring of wine and shedding of blood.

^q When they had made an end of their solemn singing, which some think was six psalms, beginning at the 112th to the 117th.

^r Christ being more careful of his disciples than of himself, forewarneth them of their flight, and putteth them in better comfort.

^s Christ having regard to the weakness of his disciples, leaving all the rest in safety, taketh with him but three to be witnesses of his anguish, and goeth of purpose into the place appointed to betray him in.

^t The word which he useth, signifieth great sorrow, and marvellous and deadly grief: which thing, as it betokeneth the truth of man's nature, which shunneth death, as a thing that is entered in against nature; so it sheweth, that though Christ were void of sin, yet he sustained this horrible punishment, because he felt the wrath of God kindled against us for sins, which he revenged and punished in his person.

^u Christ a true man, going about to suffer the punishment which was due unto us, for forsaking of God, is forsaken of his own: he hath a terrible conflict with the horror and fear of the curse of God: out of which he escaping as conqueror, causeth us not to be any more afraid of death.

^v Let it pass me, and not touch me.

^w That is, which is at hand, and is offered and prepared for me: a kind of speech which the Hebrews use, for the wrath of God, and the punishment he sendeth: above, ch. 20. 22.

47 * And while he yet spake, lo, Judas, one of the twelve, came, and with him a great multitude with swords and staves, ^a from the high priests and elders of the people.

48 Now he that betrayed him, had given them a token, saying, Whomsoever I shall kiss, that is he, lay hold on him.

49 And forthwith he came to Jesus, and said, God save thee, Master, and kissed him.

50 ^b Then Jesus said unto him, * Friend, wherefore art thou come? Then came they, and laid hands on Jesus, and took him.

51 And behold, one of them which were with Jesus, stretched out his hand, and drew his sword, and struck a servant of the high priest, and smote off his ear.

52 ¹⁴ Then said Jesus unto him, Put up thy sword into his place: ^c for all that ^d take the sword, shall perish with the sword.

53 ¹⁵ Either thinkest thou, that I cannot now pray unto my Father, and he will give me more than twelve legions of angels?

54 * How then should the * scriptures be fulfilled, which say, that it must be so?

55 The same hour said Jesus to the multitude, Ye be come out as it were against a thief, with swords and staves to take me: I sat daily teaching in the temple among you, and ye took me not.

56 But all this was done, that the scriptures of the prophets might be fulfilled. * Then all the disciples forsook him, and fled.

57 ¶ ¹⁶ And they took Jesus, and led him to ^e Caiaphas the high priest, where the Scribes and the elders were assembled.

58 And Peter followed him afar off unto the high priest's ^b hall, and went in, and sat with the servants, to see the end.

59 Now * the chief priests and the elders, and all the whole council, sought false witnesses against Jesus, to put him to death.

60 But they found none: and though many false witnesses came, yet found they none: but at the last came two false witnesses, 61 And said, This man said, * I can destroy the temple of God, and build it in three days.

62 Then the chief priest arose, and said to him, Answerest thou nothing? ^c What is the matter that these men witness against thee?

63 But Jesus held his peace. Then the chief priest answered, and said to him, I charge thee

¹² Christ offereth himself willingly to be taken, that in so obeying willingly, he might make satisfaction for the wilful fall of man.

^a Sent from the high priests.

¹³ Christ is taken, that we might be delivered.

² Christ reprehendeth Judas tauntingly, and rebuketh him sharply, for he knew well enough for what cause he came.

¹⁴ Our vocation must be the rule of our zeal.

⁷ They take the sword to whom the Lord hath not given it, that is to say, they which use the sword, and are not called to it.

¹⁵ Christ was taken, because he was willing to be taken.

² By this questioning, he answereth a sly objection, for they might have asked him, why he did not in this his great extremity of danger, call to his Father for aid: but to this he answereth by a question.

¹⁶ Christ being innocent, is condemned of the high priest for that wickedness whereof we are guilty.

² From Annas to Caiaphas, before whom the multitude was assembled, John 18. 13.

64 * Jesus said to him, Thou hast said it: nevertheless I say unto you, ^d Hereafter shall ye see the Son of man, sitting ^e at the right hand of the power of God, and come in the ^f clouds of the heaven.

65 Then the high priest ² rent his cloaths, saying, He hath blasphemed, what have we any more need of witnesses? behold, now ye have heard his blasphemy.

66 What think ye? They answered, and said, He is guilty of death.

67 * Then spat they in his face, and buffeted him, and others smote him with rods.

68 Saying, Prophecy to us, O Christ, who is he that smote thee?

69 ¶ ¹⁷ Peter ^b sat without in the hall, and a maid came to him, saying, Thou also wast with Jesus of Galilee:

70 But he denied before them all, saying, I wot not what thou sayest.

71 And when he went out into the porch, another maid saw him, and said unto them that were there, This man was also with Jesus of Nazareth.

72 And again he denied with an oath, saying, I know not the man.

73 So after a while came unto him they that stood by, and said unto Peter, Surely thou art also one of them: for even thy speech bewrayeth thee.

74 Then began he to ⁱ curse himself, and to swear, saying, I know not the man. And immediately the cock crew.

75 Thon Peter remembered the words of Jesus, which had said unto him, Before the cock crew thou shalt deny me thrice. So he went out, and wept bitterly.

^c How cometh it to pass that these men witness against thee?

^d This word distinguisheth his first coming from the latter.

^e Sitting with God in like and equal honour at the right hand of his power, that is, in greatest power: for the right hand signifieth among the Hebrews, that that is mighty, and of great power.

^f Clouds of heaven, look afore, ch. 24. 30.

² This was an usual matter among the Jews: for so were they bound to do, when they heard any Israelite to blaspheme God, and it was a tradition of their Talmud in the book of the Magistrates, in the title of the four kinds of death.

¹⁷ Peter by the wonderful providence of God, appointed to be a witness of all these things, is prepared to the example of singular constancy, by the experience of his own incredulity.

CHRIST'S CRUCIFIXION

A. D. 33. 2 And led him away bound, and delivered him unto Pontius Pilate the governor.

3 ¶ Then when Judas which betrayed him, saw that he was condemned, he repented himself, and brought again the thirty pieces of silver to the chief priests and elders,

4 Saying, I have sinned, betraying the innocent blood. But they said, What is that to us? see thou to it.

5 And when he had cast down the silver pieces in the temple, he departed, and went and hanged himself.

6 And the chief priests took the silver pieces, and said, It is not lawful for us to put them into the treasure, because it is the price of blood.

7 And they took counsel, and bought with them a potter's field, for the burial of strangers:

8 Wherefore that field is called, * The field of blood, until this day.

9 (Then was fulfilled that which was spoken by Jeremiah the prophet, saying, * And they took thirty silver pieces, the price of him that was valued, whom they of the children of Israel valued,

10 And they gave them for the potter's field, as the Lord appointed me.)

11 ¶ * And Jesus stood before the governor, and the governor asked him, saying, Art thou the king of the Jews? Jesus said unto him, Thou sayest it.

12 And when he was accused of the chief priests and elders, he answered nothing.

13 Then said Pilate unto him, Hearest thou not how many things they lay against thee?

14 But he answered him not to one word, in so much that the governor marvelled greatly.

15 Now at the feast, the governor was wont to deliver unto the people a prisoner whom they would.

16 And they had then a notable prisoner, called Barabbas.

17 When they were then gathered together, Pilate said unto them, Whether will ye that I let loose unto you Barabbas, or Jesus which is called Christ?

18 (For he knew well that for envy they had delivered him.)

19 Also when he was set down upon the judgment seat, his wife sent to him, saying, Have thou nothing to do with that just man: for I have suffered many things this day in a dream by reason of him.)

20 * But the chief priests and the elders had persuaded the people that they should ask Barabbas, and should destroy Jesus.

21 Then the governor answered, and said unto them, Whether of the twain will ye that I let loose unto you? And they said, Barabbas.

22 Pilate said unto them, What shall I do then with Jesus, which is called Christ? They all said to him, Let him be crucified.

23 Then said the governor, But what evil hath he done? Then they cried the more, saying, Let him be crucified.

24 When Pilate saw that he availed nothing, but that more tumult was made, he took water, and washed his hands before the multitude, saying, I am innocent of the blood of this just man: look you to it.

25 Then answered all the people, and said, His blood be on us, and on our children.

26 Thus let he Barabbas loose unto them, and scourged Jesus, and delivered him to be crucified.

27 ¶ * Then the soldiers of the governor took Jesus into the common hall, and gathered about him the whole band,

28 And they stripped him, and put about him a scarlet robe,

29 And platted a crown of thorns, and put it upon his head, and a reed in his right hand, and bowed their knees before him, and mocked him, saying, God save the king of the Jews:

30 And spitted upon him, and took a reed, and smote him on the head.

31 Thus when they had mocked him, they took the robe from him, and put his own raiment on him, and led him away to crucify him.

32 * And as they came out, they found a man of Cyrene, named Simon: him they compelled to bear his cross.

33 * And when they came unto the place called Golgotha, (that is to say, the place of dead men's skulls)

34 They gave him vinegar to drink, mingled with gall: and when he had tasted thereof, he would not drink.

K 35 ¶ And

^e Seeing this prophecy is read in Zech. 11 12. it cannot be denied but Jeremiah's name crept into the text either through the printer's fault, or by some others ignorance: it may be also that it came out of the margin, by reason of the breviation of the letters, the one being jou, and the other zou, which are not much unlike: but in the Syrian text the prophet's name is not set down at all.

^f The evangelist doth not follow the prophet's words, but his meaning, which he sheweth to be fulfilled.

^g Christ holdeth his peace when he is accused, that we may not be accused: acknowledging our guiltiness, and therewithal his own innocency.

^h Christ is first quitted of the same judge, before he be condemned, that we might see how the just died for the unjust.

ⁱ Christ being quit by the testimony of the judge himself, is notwithstanding condemned by the same, to quit us before God.

^g It was a manner in old time, when any man was murdered, and in other slaughters, to wash their hands in water, to declare themselves guiltless.

^h Of the murder; an Hebrew kind of speech.

ⁱ If there be any offence committed in slaying him, let us and our posterity smart for it.

^j Christ suffereth that reproach which was due to our sins, notwithstanding in the mean time by the secret providence of God, he is intituled king by them which did him that reproach.

^k They cast a cloak about him, and wrapped it about him, for it lacked sleeves.

^l John and Mark make mention of a purple robe, which is also a very pleasant red, but these prophane and malapert saucy soldiers clad Jesus in this array, to mock him withal, who was indeed a true king.

^m They compelled Simon to bear his burdensome cross, whereby it appeareth that Jesus was so sore handled before, that he fainted by the way, and was not able to bear his cross through: for John writeth that he did bear the cross, to wit, at the beginning.

ⁿ He is led out of the city, that we might be brought into the heavenly kingdom.

^o Christ found no comfort any where, that in him we might be filled with all comfort.

36 And they sat, and watched him there.

37 ¶ They set up also over his head, his name written, THIS IS JESUS THE KING OF THE JEWS.

38 ¶ And there were two thieves crucified with him, one on the right hand, and another on the left.

39 ¶ And they that passed by, reviled him, wagging their heads, 40 And saying, * Thou that destroyest the temple, and buildest it in three days, save thyself: if thou be the Son of God, come down from the cross.

41 Likewise also the high priests mocking him, with the Scribes and elders, and Pharisees, said, 42 He saved others, but he cannot save himself: if he be the king of Itrael, let him now come down from the cross, and we will believe in him.

43 * He trusted in God, let him deliver him now, if he will have him: for he said, I am the Son of God.

44 The self same thing also the ² thieves which were crucified with him, cast in his teeth.

45 ¶ Now from the sixth hour was there darkness over all the land unto the ninth hour.

46 And about the ninth hour Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying, * Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani? that is, My God, my God, why hast thou ^o forsaken me?

¹ He is made a curse, that in him we may be blessed: he is spoiled of his garments, that we might be enriched by his nakedness.

³ Christ began then to judge the world, when after his judgment he hung between two thieves.

⁴ To make full satisfaction for us, Christ suffereth and overcometh not only the torments of the body, but also the most horrible torments of the mind.

⁵ This is spoken by the figure Synecdoche, for there was but one of them that did revile him.

⁶ Heaven itself is darkened for very horror, and Jesus crieth out from the depth of hell, and in the mean while he is mocked.

⁷ To wit, in this misery: and this crying out is proper to his humanity, which notwithstanding was void of sin, but yet it felt the wrath of God which is due to our sins.

⁸ They allude to Elias's name, not for want of understanding the tongue, but of a prophane impudency and sauciness: and he repeated those words, to the end that this better hearing upon the name might be understood.

⁹ Christ after he had overcome other enemies, at length provoked on himself upon death itself.

¹⁰ Christ, when he was dead, shewed himself to be God almighty, even his enemies confessing the same.

resurrection, and went into the holy city, and appeared unto many.

54 When the centurion, and they that were with him watching Jesus, saw the earthquake, and the things that were done, they feared greatly, saying, Truly this was the Son of God.

55 ¶ And many women were there, beholding him afar off, which had followed Jesus from Galilee, ministering unto him, 56 Among whom was Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Joses, and the nother of Zebedee's sons.

57 ¶ ¹⁵ * And when the even was come, there came a rich man of Arimathea, named Joseph, who had also himself been Jesus' disciple.

58 He went to Pilate, and asked the body of Jesus. Then Pilate commanded the body to be delivered.

59 So Joseph took the body, and wrapped it in a clean linen cloth, 60 And put it in his new tomb, which he had hewn out in a rock, and rolled a great stone to the door of the sepulchre, and departed.

61 And there was Mary Magdalene, and the other Mary, sitting over-against the sepulchre.

62 ¶ ¹⁶ Now the next day that followed the preparation of the sabbath, the high priests and Pharisees assembled to Pilate, 63 And said, Sir, we remember that that deceiver said, while he was yet alive, Within three days I will rise.

64 Command therefore, that the sepulchre be made sure until the third day, lest his disciples come by night, and steal him away, and say unto the people, He is risen from the dead: so shall the last error be worse than the first.

65 Then Pilate said unto them, Ye have a watch: go, and make it sure, as ye know.

66 And they went, and made the sepulchre sure with the watch, and sealed the stone.

C H A P. XXVIII.

2 And behold, there was a great earthquake: for

¹ Which divided the holiest of all.

² That is to say, the stones cleave in sunder, and the graves did open themselves, to shew by this token, that death was overcome: and the resurrection of the dead followed the resurrection of Christ, as appeareth by the next verse following.

³ Christ is buried, not privily or by stealth, but by the governor's consent by a famous man in a place, not far distant, in a new sepulchre, so that it cannot be doubted of his death.

⁴ The keeping of the sepulchre is committed to Christ's own murderers, that there might be no doubt of his resurrection.

⁵ The soldiers of the garrison which were appointed to keep the temple.

⁶ Christ having put death to flight in the sepulchre, riseth by his own power, as straightway the angel witnesseth.

⁸ When the morning of the first day after the sabbath began to dawn: and that first day is the same which we now call Sunday, or the Lord's day.

A. D. 33. for the angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it.
 3 And his countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow.
 4 And for fear of him the keepers were astonished, and became as dead men.
 5 But the angel answered, and said to the women, Fear ye not: for I know that ye seek Jesus which was crucified:
 6 He is not here, for he is risen, as he said: come, see the place where the Lord was laid,
 7 And go quickly, and tell his disciples, that he is risen from the dead: and behold, he goeth before you into Galilee: there ye shall see him: lo, I have told you.
 8 So they departed quickly from the sepulchre with fear and great joy, and did run to bring his disciples word.
 9 And as they went to tell his disciples, behold, Jesus also met them, saying, God save you. And they came, and took him by the feet, and worshipped him.
 10 Then said Jesus unto them, Be not afraid. Go, and tell my brethren, that they go into Galilee, and there shall they see me.
 11 Now when they were gone, behold, some of the watch came into the city, and shewed unto the high priests all the things that were done.

 12 And they gathered them together with the elders, and took counsel; and gave large money unto the soldiers, 13 Saying, Say, his disciples came by night, and stole him away, while we slept.
 14 And if this matter come before the governor to be heard, we will persuade him, and so use the matter, that you shall not need to care.
 15 So they took the money, and did as they were taught: and this saying is noised among the Jews unto this day.
 16 ¶ Then the eleven disciples went into Galilee, into a mountain where Jesus had appointed them.
 17 And when they saw him, they worshipped him: but some doubted.
 18 And Jesus came, and spake unto them, saying, All power is given unto me, in heaven, and in earth.
 19 Go therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and the Son, and the Holy Ghost, 20 Teaching them to observe all things, whatsoever I have commanded you: and lo, I am with you always, until the end of the world, Amen.

THE beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ the son of God:
 2 As it is written in the prophets, * Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.
 3 The voice of him that crieth in the wilderness, is, Prepare the way of the Lord: make his paths straight.
 4 John did baptize in the wilderness, and preach the baptism of amendment of life for remission of sins.

 5 And all the country of Judea, and they of Jerusalem went out unto him, and were all baptized of him in the river Jordan, confessing their sins.
 6 * Now John was clothed with camel's hair, and with a girdle of a skin about his loins, and he did eat locust and wild honey,
 7 And preached, saying, A stronger than I cometh after me, whose shoes latchet I am not worthy to stoop down and unloose.
 8 Truth it is, I have baptized you with water: but he will baptize you with the Holy Ghost.
 9 ¶ And it came to pass in those days, that

¹ John goeth before Christ, as it was forespoken by the prophets.
² This is the figure Metonymia, whereby is meant the book of the prophets, Malachi and Isaiah.
³ The prophet useth the present tense, when he speaketh of a thing to come, being as sure of it, as if he saw it.
⁴ A metaphor taken from the usage of kings, which use to have others go before them.
⁵ The sum of John's doctrine, or rather Christ's, is remission of sins and amendment of life.
⁶ The Jews used many kinds of washings; but here is spoken of a peculiar kind of washing, which hath all the parts of true baptism, amendment of life, and forgiveness of sins.

⁷ John and all ministers cast their eyes upon Christ the Lord.
⁸ The evangelist his meaning was to express the condition of the basest servant.
⁹ He sheweth that all the force of baptism proceedeth from Christ, who baptizeth within.
¹⁰ Christ doth consecrate our baptism in himself:

A. D. 27. that Jesus came from Nazareth, a city of Galilee, and was baptized of John in Jordan.

10 ⁵ And as soon as ² he was come out of the water, John saw the heavens cloven in twain, and the Holy Ghost descending upon him like a dove.

11 Then there was a voice from heaven, saying, Thou art my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

¹² ⁶ And immediately the Spirit ¹ driveth him into the wilderness.

13 And he was there in the wilderness forty days, and was tempted of Satan: he was also with the wild beasts, and the angels ministered unto him.

¹⁴ ⁷ Now after that John was committed to prison, Jesus came into Galilee, preaching the gospel of the kingdom of God, 15 And saying, The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand: repent and believe the gospel.

¹⁶ ⁸ And as he walked by the sea of Galilee, he saw Simon, and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea, (for they were fishers.)

17 Then Jesus said unto them, Follow me, and I will make you to be fishers of men.

18 And straightway they forsook their nets, and followed him.

19 ⁹ And when he had gone a little further thence, he saw James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother, as they were in the ship, mending their nets.

20 And anon he called them: and they left their father Zebedee in the ship with his hired servants, and went their way after him.

²¹ ⁹ So ² they entered into ² Capernaum, and straightway on the sabbath-day he entered into the synagogue, and taught.

22 And they were astonished at his doctrine, for he taught them as one that had authority, and not as the Scribes.

²³ ¹⁰ And there was in their synagogue a man ¹ in whom was an unclean spirit, and he cried out, 24 Saying, Ah, what have we to do with thee, O ² Jesus of Nazareth? Art thou come to destroy us? I know thee what thou art, even that ² Holy one of God.

25 And Jesus rebuked him, saying, Hold thy peace, and come out of him.

26 And the unclean spirit ⁰ tare him, and cried with a loud voice, and came out of him.

27 And they were all amazed, so that they demanded one ² of another, saying, What thing is this? what new doctrine is this? for he ² commandeth even the foul spirits with authority, and they obey him.

⁶ Christ being tempted overcome.

¹ Here is no violent and forcible driving out meant: but the divine power claddeth Christ, (who had lived until this time as a private man) with a new person, and prepareth him to the combat that was at hand, and to his ministry.

⁷ After that John is taken, Christ sheweth himself fully.

⁹ The calling of James and John.

¹⁰ He preacheth that doctrine, by which alone Satan is driven out of the world, which also he confirmeth by a miracle.

28 And immediately his fame spread abroad throughout all the region ¹ bordering on Galilee.

29 ¹¹ And as soon as they were come out of the synagogue, they entered into the house of Simon and Andrew, with James and John.

30 And Simon's wife's mother lay sick of a fever, and anon they told him of her.

31 And he came and took her by the hand, and lifted her up, and the fever forsook her by and by, and she ministered unto them.

32 And when even was come, at what time the sun setteth, they brought unto him all that were diseased, and them that were possessed with devils.

33 And the whole city was gathered together at the door.

34 And he healed many that were sick of divers diseases: and he cast out many devils, and suffered not the devils to say that they knew him.

35 And in the morning very early before day, Jesus arose and went out into a solitary place, and there prayed.

36 And Simon, and they that were with him, followed carefully after him.

37 And when they had found him, they said unto him, All men seek for thee.

38 Then he said unto them, Let us go into the ¹ next towns, that I may preach there also: for I came out for that purpose.

39 And he preached in their synagogues throughout all Galilee, and cast the devils out.

40 ¹² And there came a leper to him, beseeching him, and kneeled down unto him, and said to him, If thou wilt, thou canst make me clean.

41 And Jesus had compassion, and put forth his hand, and touched him, and said to him, I will: be thou clean.

42 And as soon as he had spoken, immediately the leprosy departed from him, and he was made clean.

43 And after he had given him a strait commandment, he sent him away forthwith, 44 ¹³ And said unto him, See thou say nothing to any man, but get thee hence, and shew thyself to the ² priest, and offer for thy cleansing those things which Moses commanded for a testimonial unto them.

45 But when he was departed, ² he began to tell many things, and to publish the matter: so that Jesus could no more openly enter into the city, but was without in desert places: and they came to him from every quarter.

C H A P. II.

A. D. 31. 3 and 4 One sick of the palsy, having his sins forgiven him, is healed. 14 Matthew is called. 19 Fastings and afflictions are foretold. 23 The disciples pluck the ears of corn. 26 The shew-bread.

AFTER * a few days, he entered into Capernaum again, and it was noised that he was in the ^a house.

2 And anon, many gathered together, inso-much that the ^b places about the door could not receive any more: and he preached the word unto them.

3 And there came unto him that brought one sick of the palsy, borne of four men.

4 And because they could not come near unto him for the multitude, they uncovered the roof of the house where he was: and when they had broken it open, they ^c let down the ^d bed, wherein the sick of the palsy lay.

5 Now when Jesus saw their faith, he said to the sick of the palsy, Son, thy sins are forgiven thee.

6 And there were certain of the Scribes sitting there, and ^e reasoning in their hearts,

7 Why doth this man speak such blasphemies? * Who can forgive sins, but God only?

8 And immediately when Jesus perceived in his spirit, that thus they reasoned with themselves, he said unto them, Why reason ye these things in your hearts?

9 Whether is it easier to say to the sick of the palsy, Thy sins are forgiven thee? Or to say, Arise, take up thy bed, and walk?

10 But that ye may know, that the Son of man hath authority in earth to forgive sins, (he said unto the sick of the palsy)

11 I say unto thee, Arise, and take up thy bed, and get thee hence into thine own house.

12 And by and by he arose, and took up his bed, and went forth before them all, inso-much that they were all ^f amazed, and glorified God, saying, We never saw such a thing.

13 ¶ ^g Then he went forth again toward the sea, and all the people resorted unto him, and he taught them.

14 * And as Jesus passed by, he saw ^h Levi, the son of Alphaeus, sit at the receipt of custom, and said unto him, Follow me. And he arose, and followed him.

15 ¶ And it came to pass, as Jesus sat at table in his house, many Publicans and sinners sat at table with Jesus and his disciples: for there were many that followed him.

16 And when the Scribes and Pharisees saw him eat with the Publicans and sinners, they said unto his disciples, How is it that he eateth and drinketh with Publicans and sinners?

17 Now when Jesus heard it, he said unto them, The whole have no need of a physician, but the sick. * I came not to call the righteous, but the sinners to repentance.

18 * ³ And the disciples of John, and the Pharisees did fast, and came and said unto him, Why do the disciples of John and of the Pharisees fast, and thy disciples fast not?

19 And Jesus said unto them, Can the children of the marriage-chamber fast, whilst the bridegroom is with them? as long as they have the bridegroom with them, they cannot fast.

20 But the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken from them, and then shall they fast in those days.

21 Also no man seweth a piece of new cloth in an old garment: for else the new piece that filled it up, taketh away somewhat from the old, and the breach is worse.

22 Likewise no man putteth new wine into old vessels: for else the new wine breaketh the vessels, and the wine runneth out, and the vessels are lost: but new wine must be put into new vessels:

23 ¶ * ⁴ And it came to pass, as he went through the corn on the ^b sabbath-day, that his disciples, as they went on their way, began to pluck the ears of corn.

24 And the Pharisees said unto him, Behold, why do they on the sabbath-day that which is not lawful?

25 And he said to them, Have ye never read what * David did when he had need, and was an hungred, both he, and they that were with him?

26 How he went into the house of God, in the days of ⁱ Abiathar the high priest, and did eat the shew-bread, which was not lawful to eat, but for the * priests, and gave also to them which were with him?

27 And he said to them, The sabbath was made for man, and not man for the sabbath.

28 Wherefore the Son of man is Lord even of the ^k sabbath.

4 And he said to them, Is it lawful to do a good deed on the sabbath-day, or to do evil? to save the life, or to kill? But they held their peace.

5 Then he looked round about on them angry, mourning also for their hardness of their hearts, and said to the man, Stretch forth thine hand. And he stretched it out: and his hand was restored as whole as the other.

6 And the Pharisees departed, and straightway gathered a council with the Herodians against him, that they might destroy him.

7 But Jesus avoided with his disciples to the sea: and a great multitude followed him from Galilee, and from Judea,

8 And from Jerusalem, and from Idumea, and beyond Jordan: and they that dwelled about Tyre and Sidon, when they had heard what great things he did, came unto him in great number.

9 And he commanded his disciples, that a little ship should wait for him, because of the multitude, lest they should throng him.

10 For he had healed many, insomuch that they pressed upon him to touch him, as many as had plagues.

11 And when the unclean spirits saw him, they fell down before him, and cried, saying, Thou art the Son of God.

12 And he sharply rebuked them, to the intent that they should not utter him.

13 Then he went up into a mountain, and called unto him whom he would, and they came unto him.

14 And he appointed twelve, that they should be with him, and that he might send them to preach,

15 And that they might have power to heal sicknesses, and to cast out devils.

16 And the first was Simon, and he named Simon, Peter.

17 Then James the son of Zebedee, and John, James's brother (and surnamed them Boanerges, which is, the sons of thunder,)

18 And Andrew, and Philip, and Bartholomew, and Matthew, and Thomas, and James the son of Alphaeus, and Thaddeus, and Simon the Canaanite, 19 And Judas Iscariot, who also betrayed him, and they came home.

20 And the multitude assembled again, so that they could not so much as eat bread.

21 And when his kinsfolks heard of it, they went out to lay hold on him: for they said that he was beside himself.

22 And the Scribes which came down from Jerusalem, said, He hath Beelzebub, and through the prince of the devils he casteth out devils.

23 But he called them unto him, and said unto them in parables, How can Satan drive out Satan?

24 For if a kingdom be divided against itself, that kingdom cannot stand.

25 Or if a house be divided against itself, that house cannot continue.

26 So if Satan make insurrection against himself, and be divided, he cannot endure, but is at an end.

27 No man can enter into a strong man's house, and take away his goods, except he first bind the strong man, and then spoil his house.

28 Verily I say unto you, all sins shall be forgiven unto the children of men, and blasphemies, wherewith they blaspheme:

29 But he that blasphemeth against the Holy Ghost, shall never have forgiveness, but is culpable of eternal damnation.

30 Because they said, He had an unclean spirit.

31 Then came his brethren and mother, and stood without, and sent unto him, and called him.

32 And the people sat about him, and they said unto him, Behold, thy mother, and thy brethren seek for thee without.

33 But he answered them, saying, Who is my mother and my brethren?

34 And he looked round about on them which sat in compass about him, and said, Behold my mother and my brethren.

35 For whosoever doth the will of God, he is my brother, and my sister, and my mother.

A. D. 31. 2 And he taught them many things in parables, and said unto them in his doctrine,
 3 Harken: Behold, there went out a sower to sow.
 4 And it came to pass as he sowed, that some fell by the way side, and the fowls of the heaven came, and devoured it up.
 5 And some fell on stony ground, where it had not much earth, and by and by sprang up, because it had not depth of earth.
 6 But as soon as the sun was up, it was burnt up, and because it had not root, it withered away.
 7 And some fell among the thorns, and the thorns grew up, and choaked it, so that it gave no fruit.
 8 Some again fell in good ground, and did yield fruit that sprung up, and grew, and it brought forth, some thirty-fold, some sixty-fold, and some an hundred-fold.
 9 Then he said unto them, He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.
 10 And when he was alone, they that were about him with the twelve, asked him of the parable.
 11 And he said unto them, To you it is given to know the mystery of the kingdom of God: but unto them that are without, all things be done in parables.
 12 * That they seeing, may see, and not discern: and they hearing, may hear, and not understand: lest at any time they should turn, and their sins should be forgiven them.
 13 Again he said unto them, Perceive ye not this parable? how then shall ye understand all other parables?
 14 The sower soweth the word.
 15 And these are they that receive the seed by the way side, in whom the word is sown: but when they have heard it, Satan cometh immediately, and taketh away the word that was sown in their hearts.
 16 And likewise they that receive the seed in stony ground, are they, which when they have heard the word, straightway receive it with gladness.
 17 Yet have they no root in themselves, and endure but a time: for when trouble and persecution ariseth for the word, immediately they be offended.
 18 Also they that receive the seed among the thorns, are such as hear the word:
 19 But the cares of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches, and the lusts of other things enter in, and choak the word, and it is unfruitful.
 20 But they that have received seed in good ground, are they that hear the word, and receive it, and bring forth fruit: one corn thirty, another sixty, and some an hundred.

 21 ¶ ² Also he said unto them, * Cometh the candle in, to be put under a bushel, or under the bed, and not to be put on a candlestick?
 22 * For there is nothing hid, that shall not be opened: neither is there a secret, but that it shall come to light.
 23 If any man have ears to hear, let him hear.
 24 ³ And he said unto them, Take heed what ye hear. * With what measure ye mete it shall be measured unto you: and unto you that hear, shall more be given.
 25 * For unto him that hath, shall it be given: and from him that hath not, shall be taken away even that he hath.
 26 ¶ ⁴ Also he said, So is the kingdom of God, as if a man should cast seed in the ground, 27 And ⁵ should sleep, and rise up night and day, and the seed should spring and grow up, ⁶ he not knowing how.
 28 For the earth bringeth forth fruit ¹ of itself, first the blade, then the ears, after that, full corn in the ears.
 29 And as soon as the fruit sheweth itself, anon he putteth in the sickle, because the harvest is come.
 30 ¶ ⁵ He said moreover, Whereunto shall we liken the kingdom of God? or with what comparison shall we compare it?
 31 It is like a grain of mustard-seed, which when it is sown in the earth, is the least of all seeds that be in the earth:
 32 But after that it is sown, it groweth up, and is greatest of all herbs, and beareth great branches, so that the fowls of heaven may build under the shadow of it.
 33 And * with many such parables he preached the word unto them, ⁸ as they were able to hear it.
 34 And without parables spake he nothing unto them, but he ¹ expounded all things to his disciples apart.
 35 ¶ * Now the same day when even was come, he said unto them, Let us pass over unto the other side.
 36 And they left the multitude, and took him as he was in the ship, and there were also with him other little ships.
 37 ⁶ And there arose a great storm of wind, and the waves dashed into the ship, so that it was now full.

11 Now there was there in the ⁶ mountains, a great herd of swine, feeding.

12 And all the devils besought him, saying, Send us into the swine, that we may enter into them.

13 And incontinently Jesus gave them leave. Then the unclean spirits went out, and entered into the swine, and the herd ran headlong from the high bank into the ⁷ sea (and there were about two thousand swine) and they were choaked up in the sea.

14 And the swincherds fled, and told it in the city, and in the country, and they came out to see what it was that was done.

15 And they came to Jesus, and saw him that had been possessed with the devil, and had the Legion, sit both clothed, and in his right mind: and they were afraid. A. D. 31.

16 And they that saw it, told them what was done to him that was possessed with the devil, and concerning the swine.

17 Then they began to pray him, that he would depart from their coasts.

18 And when he was come into the ship, he that had been possessed with the devil, prayed him that he might be with him.

19 Howbeit, Jesus would not suffer him, but said unto him, Go thy way home to thy friends, and shew them what great things the Lord hath done unto thee, and how he hath had compassion on thee.

20 So he departed, and began to publish in Decapolis, what great things Jesus had done unto him: and all men did marvel.

21 ¶ And when Jesus was come over-again by ship unto the other side, a great multitude gathered together to him, and he was near unto the sea.

22 = And ⁸ behold, there came one of the rulers of the synagogue, whose name was Jairus: and when he saw him, he fell down at his feet. M. 3. 12. Luke 8. 27.

23 And besought him instantly, saying, My little daughter lieth at point of death: I pray thee that thou wouldest come and lay thine hands on her, that she may be healed and live.

24 Then he went with him, and a great multitude followed him, and thronged him.

25 (² And there was a certain woman, which was diseased with an issue of blood twelve years,

26 And had suffered many things of many physicians, and had spent all that she had, and it availed her nothing, but she became much worse,

27 When she had heard of Jesus, she came in the press behind, and touched his garment:

28 For she said, If I may but touch his cloaths, I shall be whole.

29 And straightway the course of her blood was dried up, and she felt in her body, that she was healed of that plague.

30 And immediately when Jesus did know in himself the virtue that went out of him, he turned him round about in the press, and said, Who hath touched my cloaths?

31 And his disciples said unto him, Thou seeest the multitude throng thee, and sayest thou, Who did touch me?

32 And he looked round about to see her that had done that.

33 And the woman feared and trembled: for she knew what was done in her, and she came and fell down before him, and told him the whole truth.

34 And he said to her, Daughter, thy faith hath made thee whole: go in peace, and be whole of thy plague.)

35 While he yet spake, there came from the same ruler of the synagogue's house certain which said,

¹ How cometh it to pass that you have no faith?

² Many have the virtue of Christ in admiration, and yet they will not redeem it with the loss of the least thing they have.

³ Look Matt. 8. 30.

⁴ Word for word, in an unclean spirit: now they are said to be in the spirit, because the spirit holdeth them fast locked up, and as it were bound.

⁵ That is, assure me by an oath, that thou wilt not vex me.

⁶ That devil that played the messenger for his fellows.

⁷ This whole country is for the greater part of it very hilly, for the mountains of Gilead run through it.

⁸ Strabo in the sixteenth book saith that in Gadaris there is a standing pool of very naughty water, which if beasts taste of, they shed their hair, nails, or hoofs and horns.

⁹ The whole company assembled not disorderly, but in every synagogue there were certain men which governed the people.

¹⁰ Jesus being touched with true faith, although it be but weak, doth heal us by his virtue.

A. D. 31. said, Thy daughter is dead: why diseafest thou the Master any further?

36 As soon as Jesus heard that word spoken, he said unto the ruler of the synagogue, Be not afraid: only believe.

37 And he suffered no man to follow him, save Peter and James, and John the brother of James.

38 So he came unto the house of the ruler of the synagogue, and saw the tumult, and them that wept and wailed greatly.

39 And he went in, and said unto them, Why make ye this trouble, and weep? the child is not dead, but sleepeth.

40 And they laughed him to scorn: but he put them all out, and took the father, and the mother of the child, and them that were with him, and entered in where the child lay,

41 And took the child by the hand, and said unto her, Talitha-cumi, which is by interpretation, Maiden, I say unto thee, arise.

42 And straightway the maiden arose, and walked: for she was of the age of twelve years, and they were astonished out of measure.

43 And he charged them straightly that no man should know of it, and commanded to give her meat.

2 Christ preaching in his country, his own contempt him. 6 The unbelief of the Nazarites. 7 The apostles are sent. 13 They cast out devils: they anoint the sick with oil. 14 Herod's opinion of Christ. 18 The cause of John's imprisonment. 22 Dancing. 27 John beheaded. 29 Buried. 30 The apostles return from preaching. 34 Christ teacheth in the desert. 37 He feedeth the people with five loaves. 48 The apostles are troubled on the sea. 56 The sick that touch Christ's garment are healed.

AND he departed thence, and came into his own country, and his disciples followed him.

2 And when the sabbath was come, he began to teach in the synagogue, and many that heard him, were astonished, and said, From whence hath this man these things? and what wisdom is this that is given unto him, that even such great works are done by his hands?

3 Is not this that carpenter, Mary's son, the brother of James and Joseph, and of Judah and Simon? and are not his sisters here with us? And they were offended in him.

4 But Jesus said unto them, A prophet is not without honour, but in his own country,

5 Fathers apprehend by faith, the promises of life even for their children.

6 Such as mock and scorn Christ are unworthy to be witnesses of his goodness.

7 The three disciples.

8 The faithless world doth no whit at all diminish the virtue of Christ, but wittingly and willingly deprived itself of the efficacy of it, being offered unto them.

9 The word signifieth powers, or virtues, whereby are meant those wonderful works that Christ did, which shewed and set forth the virtue and power of his godhead to all the world, Matt. 7. 22.

10 After the manner of the Hebrews, who by brethren and sisters understand all their kinsfolks.

11 Not only that hath that honour, which of right is due to him, taken from him, but is also evil spoken of, and misrepresented.

12 That is, he would not: for we must needs have faith if we will receive the works of God.

13 The disciples are prepared to the general apostleship, by a peculiar sending forth.

and among his own kindred; and in his own house. A. D. 31.

5 And he could there do no great works, save that he laid his hands upon a few sick folk, and healed them.

6 And he marvelled at their unbelief, and went about by the towns on every side, teaching.

7 And he called unto him the twelve, and began to send them forth two and two, and gave them power over unclean spirits,

8 And commanded them, that they should take nothing for their journey, save a staff only: neither scrip, neither bread, neither money in their girdles:

9 But that they should be shod with sandals, and that they should not put on two coats.

10 And he said unto them, Whosoever ye shall enter into an house, there abide till ye depart thence.

11 And whosoever shall not receive you, nor hear you, when ye depart thence, shake off the dust that is under your feet, for a witness unto them. Verily I say unto you, It shall be easier for Sodom or Gomorrah at the day of judgment, than for that city.

12 And they went out, and preached, that men should amend their lives.

13 And they cast out many devils: and they anointed many that were sick, with oil, and healed them.

14 Then king Herod heard of him (for his name was made manifest) and said, John Baptist is risen again from the dead, and therefore great works are wrought by him.

15 Other said, It is Elias, and some said, it is a prophet, or as one of those prophets.

16 So when Herod heard it, he said, it is John whom I beheaded: he is risen from the dead.

17 For Herod himself had sent forth, and had taken John, and bound him in prison for Herodias's sake, which was his brother Philip's wife, because he had married her.

18 For John said unto Herod, It is not lawful for thee to have thy brother's wife.

19 Therefore Herodias laid wait against him, and would have killed him, but she could not.

20 For Herod feared John, knowing that he was a just man, and an holy, and revered him, and when he heard him, he did many things, and heard him gladly.

21 But rulers ought not to have their minds set, nor on things that are necessary for this life, if they may be an hindrance unto them, be it never so little.

22 The word signifieth properly women's shoes.

23 That is, they should take no change of garments with them, that they might be lighter for this journey, and make more speed.

24 That is, change not your inns in this short journey.

25 The Lord is a most severe revenger of his servants.

26 That oil was a token and a sign of this marvellous virtue: and seeing that the gift of healing is ceased a good while since, the ceremony which is yet retained of some, is to no purpose.

27 The gospel confirmeth the godly, and vexeth the wicked.

A. D. 31. But the time being convenient, when Herod on his birth-day made a banquet to his princes and captains, and chief estates of Galilee:

22 And the daughter * of the same Herodias came in, and danced, and pleased Herod, and them that sat at table together, the king said unto the maid, Ask of me what thou wilt, and I will give it thee.

23 And he swore unto her, Whatsoever thou shalt ask of me, I will give it thee, ^{even} unto the half of my kingdom.

24 * So she went forth and said to her mother, What shall I ask? and she said, John Baptist's head.

25 Then she came in straightway with haste unto the king, and asked, saying, I would that thou shouldst give me even now in a charger the head of John Baptist.

26 Then the king was very sorry: yet for his oath's sake, and for their sakes which sat at table with him, he would not refuse her.

27 And immediately the king sent the hangman, and gave charge that his head should be brought in. So he went and beheaded him in the prison.

28 And brought his head in a charger, and gave it to the maid, and the maid gave it to her mother.

29 And when his disciples heard it, they came and took up his body, and put it in a tomb.

30 ¶ And the apostles gathered themselves together to Jesus, and told him all things, both what they had done, and what they had taught.

31 * And he said unto them, Come ye apart into the wilderness, and rest awhile: for there were many comers and goers, that they had no leisure to eat.

32 * So they went by ship out of the way into a desert place.

33 But the people saw them when they departed, and many knew him, and ran a-foot thither out of all cities, and came thither before them, and assembled unto him.

34 * Then Jesus went out, and saw a great multitude, and had compassion on them, because they were like sheep which had no shepherd: and he began to teach them many things.

35 * And when the day was now far spent, his disciples came unto him, saying, This is a desert place, and now the day is far passed.

36 Let them depart, that they may go into the country and towns about, and buy them bread: for they have nothing to eat.

37 But he answered, and said unto them, Give ye them to eat. And they said unto him, Shall we go and buy two hundred pennyworth of bread, and give them to eat?

* Which the same Herodias had not by Herodes Antipas, but by Philip, and Josephus called her Salome.

* For women used not to sit at table with men.

* The word signifieth one that beareth a dart, and the king's guard was so called, because they did bear darts.

* Such as follow: Christ shall want nothing, no not in the wilderness, but shall have abundance. And how wicked a thing is it, not to look for this transitory life at his hands, who giveth everlasting life?

* This is a kind of demand and wondering, not without a privy mock, which men do commonly use, when beginning to be in a fume, they deny, to do a thing.

* Which is about twenty crowns: which is five pounds.

* Word for word, by baskets, after the manner of the Hebrews, who have no distributives, as chap. 6. 7. Now he collecteth the rows of the sitters, baskets.

* The word signifieth the beds in a garden, and it is word for word, by beds and beds, meaning thereby that they sat down in rows one by another, as beds in a garden.

38 * Then he said unto them, How many loaves have ye? go and look. And when they knew it, they said, Five, and two fishes.

39 So he commanded them to make them all sit down by companies upon the green grass.

40 Then they sat down by rows, by hundreds, and by fifties.

41 And he took the five loaves, and the two fishes, and looked up to heaven, and gave thanks, and brake the loaves, and gave them to his disciples to set before them, and the two fishes he divided among them all.

42 So they did all eat, and were satisfied.

43 And they took up twelve baskets full of the fragments, and of the fishes.

44 And they that had eaten, were about five thousand men.

45 ¶ And straightway he caused his disciples to go into the ship, and to go before unto the other side unto Bethsaida, while he sent away the people.

46 Then as soon as he had sent them away, he departed into a mountain to pray.

47 * And when even was come, the ship was in the midst of the sea, and he alone on the land.

48 And he saw them troubled in rowing, (for the wind was contrary unto them;) and about the fourth watch of the night, he came unto them walking upon the sea, and would have passed by them.

49 And when they saw him walking upon the sea, they supposed it had been a spirit, and cried out.

50 For they all saw him, and were sore afraid: but anon he talked with them, and said unto them, Be ye of good comfort: it is I, be not afraid.

51 Then he went up unto them into the ship, and the wind ceased, and they were much more amazed in themselves, and marvelled.

52 For they had not considered the matter of the loaves, because their hearts were hardened.

53 ¶ And they came over, and went into the land of Gennesaret, and arrived.

54 * So when they were come out of the ship, straightway they knew him, 55 And ran about throughout all that region round about, and began to carry hither and thither in couches all that were sick, where they heard that he was.

56 And whithersoever he entered into towns, or cities, or villages, they laid their sick in the streets, and prayed him that they might touch at the least the edge of his garment. And as many as touched him, were made whole.

* The faithful servants of God after their little labour, are subject to a great tempest, which Christ doth so moderate, being present in power, although absent in body, that he bringeth them to an happy haven, at such time, and by such means, as they looked not for: a lively image of the church tossed to and fro in this world.

* His disciples.

* They were so far from leaving to be amazed, when they knew that it was no spirit, that they were much more astonished than ever they were before, when they saw the wind and the seas obey his commandments.

* Either they perceived not, or had not well considered that miracle of the five loaves, insomuch that that virtue of Christ was no less strange to them, than if they had not been present at that miracle which was done but a little before.

C H A P. VII.

2 The apostles are found fault with for eating with unwashen hands. 4 The Pharisees traditions about washings. Hypocrites. 8 Man's traditions more set by than God's. 10 Parents must be honoured. 14 The things that do indeed defile a man. 25 The woman of Canaan. 32 The deaf and dumb man is healed.

THEN gathered unto him the Pharisees, and certain of the Scribes which came from Jerusalem.

2 And when they saw some of his disciples eat meat with common hands, (that is to say, unwashen) they complained.

3 (For the Pharisees, and all the Jews, except they wash their hands oft, eat not, holding the tradition of the elders.

4 And when they come from the market, except they wash, they eat not: and many other things there be, which they have taken upon them to observe, as the washing of cups, and pots, and of brasen vessels, and of beds.)

5 Then asked him the Pharisees and Scribes, Why walk not thy disciples according to the tradition of the elders, but eat meat with unwashen hands?

6 Then he answered and said unto them, Surely Isaiah hath prophesied well of you, hypocrites, as it is written, This people honoureth me with their lips, but their heart is far away from me.

7 But they worship me in vain, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men.

8 For ye lay the commandment of God apart, and observe the tradition of men, as the washing of pots and of cups, and many other such like things ye do.

9 And he said unto them, Well ye reject the commandment of God, that ye may observe your own tradition.

10 For Moses said, Honour thy father and thy mother: and Whosoever shall speak evil of father or mother, let him die the death.

11 But ye say, If a man say to father or mother, Corban, that is, By the gift that is offered by me, thou mayest have profit, he shall be free.

12 So ye suffer him no more to do any thing for his father, or his mother;

13 Making the word of God of none authority, by your tradition which ye have ordained: and ye do many such like things.

1 None do more resist the wisdom of God, than they that should be wisest, and that upon a zeal of their own traditions: for men do not please themselves more in any thing than in superstition, that is to say, in a worship of God fondly devised of themselves.

2 Word for word, eat bread: a kind of speech which the Hebrews use, taking bread for all kind of food.

3 For the Pharisees would not eat their meat with unwashen hands, because they thought that their hands were defiled with common handling of things, Matt. 15. 11, 12.

4 Observing diligently.

5 That is to say, from civil affairs and worldly, they go not to meat, unless they wash themselves first.

6 By these words are understood all kinds of vessels, which are appointed for our daily use.

7 Why live they not? a kind of speech taken from the Hebrews: for among them, the way is taken for trade of life.

8 Hypocrisy is always joined with superstition.

9 The more earnest the superstitious are, the more they are mad in promising themselves God's favour by their devices.

10 The devices of superstitious men do not only not fulfil the law of God, (as they blasphemously persuade themselves) but also do utterly take it away.

11 True religion, which is clean contrary to superstition,

14 Then he called the whole multitude unto him, and said unto them, Hearken you all unto me, and understand.

15 There is nothing without a man, that can defile him, when it entereth into him: but the things which proceed out of him, are they which defile the man.

16 If any have ears to hear, let him hear.

17 And when he came into an house, away from the people, his disciples asked him concerning the parable.

18 And he said unto them, What? are ye without understanding also? Do ye not know that whatsoever thing from without entereth into a man, cannot defile him, 19 Because it entereth not into his heart, but into the belly, and goeth out into the draught, which is the purging of all meats?

20 Then he said, That which cometh out of man, that defileth man.

21 For from within, even out of the heart of men, proceed evil thoughts, adulteries, fornications, murders, 22 Thefts, covetousness, wickedness, deceit, uncleanness, a wicked eye, backbiting, pride, foolishness.

23 All these evil things come from within, and defile a man.

24 ¶ And from thence he arose, and went into the borders of Tyre and Sidon, and entered into an house, and would that no man should have known: but he could not be hid.

25 For a certain woman, whose little daughter had an unclean spirit, heard of him, and came, and fell at his feet.

26 (And the woman was a Greek, a Syrophenician by nation) and she besought him that he would cast out the devil out of her daughter.

27 But Jesus said unto her, Let the children first be fed: for it is not good to take the children's bread, and to cast it unto whelps.

28 Then she answered, and said unto him, Truth, Lord: yet indeed the whelps eat under the table of the children's crumbs.

29 Then he said unto her, For this saying, go thy way: the devil is gone out of thy daughter.

30 And when she was come home to her house, she found the devil departed, and her daughter lying on the bed.

31 ¶ And he departed again from the coasts of Tyre and Sidon, and came unto the sea of Galilee; and all the enemies of true religion, although they seem to have taken deep root, shall be plucked up.

5 Without hope of pardon, he shall be put to death.

6 For that that goeth into the draught, purgeth all meats:

7 All kind of craftiness, whereby men profit themselves by other mens losses.

8 Cankered malice.

9 That which the proud do reject when it is offered unto them, that same do the modest and humble sinners, as it were violently wring out.

13 He useth this word Whelps, rather than the word Dogs, that he may seem to speak more contumeliously.

14 As if she said, It is as thou sayest, Lord, for it is enough for all the whelps, if they can but gather up the crumbs that are under the table: therefore I crave the crumbs, and not children's bread.

15 As the Father created us to this life, in the beginning, in his only Son, so doth he also in him alone renew us unto everlasting life.

32 And they brought unto him one that was deaf, and stammered in his speech, and prayed him to put his hands upon him.

33 Then he took him aside from the multitude, and put his fingers in his ears, and did spit, and touched his tongue.

34 And looking up to heaven, he sighed, and said unto him, Ephphatha, that is, Be opened.

35 And straightway his ears were opened, and the string of his tongue was loosed, and he spake plain.

36 And he commanded them that they should tell no man: but how much soever he forbade them, the more a great deal they published it.

37 And were beyond measure astonished, saying, He hath done all things well: he maketh both the deaf to hear, and the dumb to speak.

1 The miracle of the seven loaves. 11 The Jews seek signs. 15 To beware of the leaven of the Pharisees. 22 A blind man healed. 27 The people's sundry opinions of Christ. 29 The apostles acknowledge Christ. 31 He foretelleth his death. 33 Peter, Satan. 35 To save and lose the life. 38 To be ashamed of Christ.

IN those days, when there was a very great multitude, and had nothing to eat, Jesus called his disciples to him, and said unto them,

2 I have compassion on the multitude, because they have now continued with me three days, and have nothing to eat:

3 And if I send them away fasting to their own houses, they would faint by the way: for some of them came from far.

4 Then his disciples answered him, Whence can a man satisfy these with bread here in the wilderness?

5 And he asked them, How many loaves have ye? And they said, Seven.

6 Then he commanded the multitude to sit down on the ground: and he took the seven loaves, and gave thanks, brake them, and gave to his disciples to set before them, and they did set them before the people.

7 They had also a few small fishes: and when he had given thanks, he commanded them also to be set before them.

8 So they did eat, and were sufficed, and they took up of the broken meat that was left, seven baskets full.

- Word for word, they will fall in fender, or be dashed; for when men fall in a swoon, their senses fall out from a waker.

1 The stubborn enemies of the doctrine of the gospel, giving no credit to the miracles already done, require new ones: Christ being angry with them, doth utterly forsake them.

2 A common kind of speech, which the Hebrews use, whereby it meant that the Pharisees went from their houses on purpose to encounter with him.

3 Their sight came over from a heart root, for the Law gave very much moved with these men's so great infidelity.

4 Used for a sign, is a signification: it is a cutted kind of speech very common among the Hebrews: where in some places words as such will be understood, but not be taken for a sign, or some such like. And when they speak out the words, they say, The Lord do thus and thus by me.

9 (And they that had eaten, were about four thousand) so he sent them away.

10 ¶ And anon he entered into a ship with his disciples, and came into the parts of Dalmanutha.

11 ¶ And the Pharisees came forth, and began to dispute with him, seeking of him a sign from heaven, and tempting him.

12 Then he sighed deeply in his spirit, and said, Why doth this generation seek a sign? Verily I say unto you, A sign shall not be given into this generation.

13 ¶ So he left them, and went into the ship again, and departed to the other side.

14 ¶ And they had forgotten to take bread, neither had they in the ship with them but one loaf.

15 And he charged them, saying, Take heed, and beware of the leaven of the Pharisees, and of the leaven of Herod.

16 And they reasoned among themselves, saying, It is, because we have no bread.

17 And when Jesus knew it, he said unto them, Why reason ye thus, because ye have no bread? perceive ye not yet, neither understand? how ye your hearts yet hardened?

18 Have ye eyes, and see not? and have ye ears, and hear not? and do ye not remember?

19 ¶ When I brake the five loaves among you, how many baskets full of broken meat took ye up? They said unto him, Twelve.

20 And when I brake seven among four thousand, how many baskets full of the leavings of broken meat took ye up? And they said, Seven.

21 Then he said unto them, How is it that ye understand not?

22 And he came to Bethsaida, and they brought a blind man unto him, and desired him to touch him.

23 Then he took the blind by the hand, and led him out of the town, and spat in his eyes, and put his hands upon him, and asked him if he saw aught?

24 And he looked up, and said, I see men: for I see them walking like trees.

25 After that, he put his hands again upon his eyes, and made him look again. And he was restored to his sight, and saw every man as far off clearly.

26 And he sent him home to his house, saying, Neither go into the town, nor tell it to any in the town.

27 ¶ And Jesus went out, and his disciples

2 We must especially take heed of them which corrupt the word of God, what degree soever they be of, either to the church, or in civil policy.

3 They that have their minds fixed on earthly things, are utterly blind in heavenly things, although they be never so plainly set forth unto them.

4 How cometh it to pass, that you understand not these things which are so plain and evident?

5 A true image of our regeneration, which Christ separating us from the world, worketh and accomplisheth by little and little in us.

6 He perceived some moving of men when he could not see in their bodies.

7 He commanded him again, to try indeed, whether he could see or no.

8 Christ will not have his miracles to be separated from his doctrine.

29 And he said unto them, But whom say ye that I am? Then Peter answered, and said unto him, Thou art that Christ.

30 And he sharply charged them, that concerning him they should tell no man.

31 Then he began to teach them, that the Son of man must suffer many things, and should be reprov'd of the elders, and of the high priests, and of the Scribes, and be slain, and within three days rise again.

32 And he spake that thing boldly. Then Peter took him aside, and began to rebuke him.

33 Then he turned back, and looked on his disciples, and rebuked Peter, saying, Get thee behind me, Satan: for thou understandest not the things that are of God, but the things that are of men.

34 ¶ And he called the people unto him with his disciples, and said unto them, Whosoever will follow me, let him forsake himself, and take up his cross, and follow me, 35 For whosoever will save his life, shall lose it: but whosoever shall lose his life for my sake and the gospel's, he shall save it.

36 For what shall it profit a man, though he should win the whole world, if he lose his soul?

37 Or what exchange shall a man give for his soul?

38 * For whosoever shall be ashamed of me, and of my words, among this adulterous and sinful generation, of him shall the Son of man be ashamed also, when he cometh in the glory of his Father with the holy angels.

CHAP. IX.

2 Christ's transfiguration. 7 Christ must be heard. 11 Of Elias and John Baptist. 14 The possessed is healed. 23 Faith can do all things. 31 Christ foretelleth his death. 33 Who is greatest among the apostles. 36 Christ taketh a child in his arms. 42 To offend. 50 Salt. Peace.

AND * he said unto them, Verily I say unto you, that there be some of them that stand here, which shall not taste of death till they have seen the kingdom of God come with power.

2 * And six days after, Jesus taketh unto him Peter, and James, and John, and carrieth them up into an high mountain out of the way alone, and his shape was changed before them.

3 And his raiment did shine, and was very white as snow, so white as no fuller can make upon the earth.

4 And there appeared unto them Elias with Moses, and they were talking with Jesus.

5 Then Peter answered, and said to Jesus, Master, it is good for us to be here: let us make also three tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias.

6 Yet he knew not what he said: for they were afraid.

7 And there was a cloud that shadowed them, and a voice came out of the cloud, saying, * This is my beloved Son: hear him,

8 And suddenly they looked round about, and saw no more any man save Jesus only with them.

9 * And as they came down from the mountain, he charged them that they should tell no man what they had seen, save when the Son of man were risen from the dead again.

10 So they kept that matter to themselves, and demanded one of another, what the rising from the dead again should mean?

11 Also they asked him, saying, Why say the Scribes, that * Elias must first come?

12 And he answered, and said unto them, Elias verily shall first come, and restore all things: and * as it is written of the Son of man, he must suffer many things, and be set at nought.

13 But I say unto you, that Elias is come, (and they have done unto him whatsoever they would) as it is written of him.

14 ¶ * And when he came to his disciples, he saw a great multitude about them, and the Scribes disputing with them.

15 And straightway all the people, when they beheld him, were amazed, and ran to him, and saluted him.

16 Then he asked the Scribes, What dispute you among yourselves?

17 And one of the company answered, and said, Master, I have brought my son unto thee, which hath a dumb spirit:

18 And wheresoever he taketh him, he tear-eth him, and he foameth, and gnasheth his teeth, and pineth away: and I spake to thy disciples, that they should cast him out, and they could not.

19 Then he answered him, and said, O faithless generation, how long now shall I be with you! how long now shall I suffer you! Bring him unto me. N 20 So

7 Christ hath appointed his times to the preaching of the gospel, and therefore here deferreth it to a more convenient time, lest sudden haste should rather hinder than further the mystery of his coming.

8 Christ suffered all that he suffered for us, not unwillingly, neither unawares, but foreknowing it, and willingly.

9 None are more mad than they that are wise beside the word of God.

10 This is not godly, but worldly wisdom.

10 The disciples of Christ must bear stoutly what burden soever the Lord layeth upon them, and subdue the affections of the flesh.

11 They are the most foolish of all men, which purchase the enjoying of this life with the loss of everlasting bliss.

12 When he shall begin his kingdom through the preaching of the gospel, that is to say, after the resurrection.

13 The heavenly glory of Christ, which should with in a short space be abased upon the cross, is avouched by visible signs, by the presence and talk of Elias and Moses, and by the voice of the Father himself, before three of his disciples, which were witnesses, against whom lieth no exception.

b Did sparkle as it were.

c They were beside themselves for fear.

2 The Lord hath appointed his times for the publishing of the gospel.

d Even very hardly as it were.

e They questioned not together touching the general resurrection, which shall be in the latter day, but they understood not what he meant by that which he spake of his own peculiar resurrection.

3 The foolish opinion of the Rabbies is here refuted, touching Elias coming, which was, that either Elias should rise again from the dead, or that his soul should enter into some other body.

4 Christ sheweth by a miracle even to the unworthy, that he is come to bridle the rage of Satan.

f Vexeth him inwardly, as the cholic useth to do.

A. D. 32. 20 So they brought him unto him: and as soon as the spirit saw him, he tare him, and he fell down on the ground, wallowing and foaming.

21 Then he asked his father, How long time is it since he hath been thus? And he said, Of a child:

22 And oft-times he casteth him into the fire, and into the water, to destroy him: but if thou canst do any thing, help us, and have compassion upon us.

23 And Jesus said unto him, If thou canst believe it, all things are possible to him that believeth.

24 And straightway the father of the child crying with tears, said, Lord, I believe: help my unbelief.

25 When Jesus saw that the people came running together, he rebuked the unclean spirit, saying unto him, Thou dumb and deaf spirit, I charge thee, come out of him, and enter no more into him, 26 Then the spirit cried, and rent him sore, and came out, and he was as one dead, insomuch that many said, He is dead.

27 But Jesus took his hand, and lift him up, and he arose.

28 And when he was come into the house, his disciples asked him secretly, Why could not we cast him out?

29 And he said unto them, This kind can by no other means come forth, but by prayer and fasting.

Matt. 17. 22. Luke 9. 22. 30 ¶ And they departed thence, and went together through Galilee, and he would not that any should have known it.

31 For he taught his disciples, and said unto them, The Son of man shall be delivered into the hands of men, and they shall kill him, but after that he is killed, he shall rise again the third day.

32 But they understood not that saying, and were afraid to ask him.

Matt. 18. 1. Luke 9. 45. 33 After, he came to Capernaum: and when he was in the house, he asked them, What was it that ye disputed among you by the way?

34 And they held their peace: for by the way they reasoned among themselves, who should be the chiefest.

35 And he sat down, and called the twelve, and said to them, If any man desire to be first, the same shall be last of all, and servant unto all.

36 And he took a little child, and set him in the midst of them, and took him in his arms, and said unto them, 37 Whosoever shall receive one of such little children in my name, receiveth me: and whosoever receiveth me, receiveth not me, but him that sent me.

38 ¶ Then John answered him, saying, Master, we saw one casting out devils by thy name, which followeth not us, and we forbid him, because he followeth us not.

39 But Jesus said, Forbid him not: for there is no man that can do a miracle by my name, that can lightly speak evil of me.

40 For whosoever is not against us, is on our part.

41 And whosoever shall give you a cup of water to drink for my name's sake, because ye belong to Christ, verily I say unto you, he shall not lose his reward.

42 And whosoever shall offend one of these little ones that believe in me, it were better for him rather, that a mill-stone were hanged about his neck, and that he were cast into the sea.

43 Wherefore if thine hand cause thee to offend, cut it off: it is better for thee to enter into life maimed, than having two hands to go into hell, into the fire that never shall be quenched.

44 Where their worm dieth not, and the fire never goeth out.

45 Likewise, if thy foot cause thee to offend, cut it off: it is better for thee to go halt into life, than having two feet to be cast into hell, into the fire that never shall be quenched,

46 Where their worm dieth not, and the fire never goeth out.

47 And if thine eye cause thee to offend, pluck it out: it is better for thee to go into the kingdom of God with one eye, than having two eyes to be cast into hell fire, 48 Where the worm dieth not, and the fire never goeth out.

49 For every man shall be salted with fire: and every sacrifice shall be salted with salt.

50 Salt is good: but if the salt be unfavoury, wherewith shall it be seasoned? Have salt in yourselves, and have peace one with another.

C H A P. X.

9 The wife only for fornication is to be put away. 13 Little children are brought to Christ. 17 A rich man asketh Jesus how he may possess eternal life. 28 The apostles forsook all things for Christ's sake. 33 Christ foretelleth his death. 35 Zebedee his sons request. 46 Blind Bartimeus healed.

AND he arose from thence, and went into the coasts of Judea by the far side of Jordan, and the people resorted unto him again: and as he was wont, he taught them again.

2 Then

So soon as Jesus had looked upon the boy that was brought unto him, the devil began to rage after his manner.

There is nothing but Christ can and will do it, for them that will believe in him.

The nearer the virtue of Christ is, the more outrageously doth Satan rage.

We have need of faith, and therefore of prayer and fasting, to cast Satan out of his old possession.

He and his disciples together.

Christ forwarneth us with great diligence, to the end we should not be oppressed with sudden calamities, but the steadfastness of man is wonderful.

Only humility doth exalt.

Where he was wont to make his abode.

He doth not only receive me, but also him that sent me.

God, who is the author of an ordinary vocation, worketh also extraordinarily so oft as it pleaseth him. But an extraordinary vocation is tried by the doctrine and the effects.

God is so severe a revenger of offences, that it is better to suffer any loss, than to be an occasion of offence unto any.

Their worm which shall be cast into that flame.

We must be seasoned and powdered by God, both that we may be acceptable sacrifices unto him, and also that we, being knit together, may season one another.

That is, shall be consecrate unto God, being seasoned with the incorruptible word.

That is to say, departed and went from thence: for in the Hebrew tongue sitting and dwelling are all one, and so are rising and going forth.

Mark Ch. 10. V. 13 &c.

Little Children brought to Christ.

J. W. the 1st

A. D. 33. 2 Then the Pharisees came and asked him, if it were lawful for a man to put away his wife: and tempted him.

3 And he answered, and said unto them, What did * Moses command you?

4 And they said, Moses suffered to write a bill of divorcement, and to put her away.

5 ¹ Then Jesus answered, and said unto them, For the hardness of your heart he wrote this ^b precept unto you.

* Gen. 1. 27. Matt 19. 4. 6 But at the beginning of the creation * God made them male and female:

* Gen. 2. 24. 1 Cor. 6. 16. Eph. 5. 31. 7 * For this cause shall man leave his father and mother, and cleave unto his wife,

8 And they twain shall be one flesh: so that they are no more twain, but one flesh.

* 1 Cor. 7. 10. 9 * Therefore, what God hath coupled together, let no man separate.

10 And in the house his disciples asked him again of that matter.

* Matt. 7. 32. an. 19. 9. Luk. 10. 12. 11 And he said unto them, * Whosoever shall put away his wife and marry another, committeth adultery ^c against her.

12 And if a woman put away her husband, and be married to another, she committeth adultery.

* Matt. 19. 13. Luk. 18. 15. 13 ¶ * ² Then they brought little children to him, that he should touch them, and his disciples rebuked those that brought them.

14 But when Jesus saw it, he was displeased, and said to them, Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God.

15 Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God ³ as a little child, he shall not enter therein.

16 And he took them up in his arms, and put his hands upon them, and blessed them.

* Matt. 19. 16. Luk. 18. 18. 17 ¶ ⁴ And when he was gone out on the way, there came one * running, and kneeled to him, and asked him, Good Master, what shall I do that I may possess eternal life?

18 Jesus said to him, Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, even God.

* Exod. 20. 13. 19 Thou knowest the commandments, * Thou shalt not commit adultery. Thou shalt not kill. Thou shalt not steal. Thou shalt not bear false witness. Thou shalt ^d hurt no man. Honour thy father and mother.

20 Then he answered, and said to him, Master, all these things have I observed from my youth.

21 And Jesus looked upon him, and loved him, and said unto him, One thing is lacking unto thee. Go and sell all that thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven, and come, follow me, and take up the cross.

A. D. 33. 22 But he was sad at that saying, and went away sorrowful: for he had great possessions.

23 And Jesus looked round about, and said unto his disciples, How hardly do they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God!

24 And his disciples were afraid at his words. But Jesus answered again, and said unto them, Children, how hard is it for them that trust in riches, to enter into the kingdom of God!

25 It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.

26 And they were much more astonished, saying with themselves, Who then can be saved?

27 But Jesus looked upon them, and said, With men it is impossible, but not with God: for with God all things are possible.

28 ¶ * ⁵ Then Peter began to say unto him, * Matt. 19. 27. Luk. 18. 28. Lo, we have forsaken all, and have followed thee.

29 Jesus answered, and said, Verily I say unto you, there is no man that hath forsaken house, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my sake and the gospel's, 30 But he shall receive an ^e hundred-fold, now at this present, houses, and brethren, and sisters, and mothers, and children, and lands ^f with persecutions; and in the world to come, eternal life.

31 * But many that are first, shall be last: and the last, first. * Matt. 19. 30. Luke 13. 30.

32 ¶ * ⁶ And they were in the way, going up to Jerusalem, and Jesus went before them, and they were troubled, and as they followed, they were afraid: and Jesus took the twelve again, and began to tell them what things should come unto him,

33 Saying, Behold, we go up to Jerusalem, and the Son of man shall be delivered unto the high priests, and to the Scribes, and they shall condemn him to death, and shall deliver him to the Gentiles.

34 And they shall mock him, and scourge him, and spit upon him, and kill him: but the third day he shall rise again.

35 ¶ * ⁷ Then James and John the sons of Zebedee came unto him, saying, Master, ⁸ we would that thou shouldst do for us that we desire. * Matt. 20. 20.

36 And he said unto them, What would ye that I should do for you?

37 And they said unto him, Grant unto us, that we may sit, one at thy right hand, and the other at thy left hand in thy glory.

38 But Jesus said unto them, Ye know not what ye ask: Can ye drink of the cup that I shall drink

¹ God did never allow those divorces which the law did tolerate.

^b Look Matt. 19. For Moses gave them no commandment to put away their wives, but rather made a good proviso for the wives against the stubborn hardness of their husbands.

^c Whom he putteth away, for he is an adulterer by keeping company with another.

^d God of his goodness comprehendeth in the covenant not only the fathers, but the children also: and therefore he blesteth them.

^e We must in malice become children, if we will enter into the kingdom of heaven.

^f Two things are chiefly to be eschewed of them which earnestly seek eternal life: that is to say, an opinion of their merits or deservings, which is not only understood, but condemned by the due consideration of the law: and the love of riches, which turneth aside many from that race wherein they ran with a good courage.

^d Neither by force nor deceit, nor any other means whatsoever.

^e To neglect all things in comparison of Christ is a sure way to eternal life, so that we fall not away by the way.

^f An hundred-fold as much, if we look to the true use and commodities of this life, so that we measure them after the will of God, and not after the wealth itself, and our greedy desire.

^g Even in the midst of persecution.

^h The disciples are again prepared to patience, not to be overcome by the foretelling unto them of his death, which was at hand, and therewithal of life, which should most certainly follow ⁱ we must first strive before we triumph.

^k We pray thee

A. D. 33. drink of, and be baptized with the baptism that I shall be baptized with?

33 And they said unto him, We can. But Jesus said unto them, Ye shall drink indeed of the cup that I shall drink of, and be baptized with the baptism wherewith I shall be baptized:

40 But to sit at my right hand and at my left, is not mine to give, but it shall be given to them for whom it is prepared.

41 And when the ten heard that, they began to disdain at James and John.

42 But Jesus called them unto him, and said to them, Ye know that they which are princes among the Gentiles, have domination over them: and they that be great among them, exercise authority over them:

43 But it shall not be so among you: but whosoever will be great among you, shall be your servant.

44 And whosoever will be chief of you, shall be the servant of all.

45 For even the Son of man came not to be served, but to serve, and to give his life for the ransom of many.

46 ¶ Then they came to Jericho: and as he went out of Jericho with his disciples, and a great multitude, Bartimeus the son of Timeus, a blind man, sat by the way's side, begging.

47 And when he heard that it was Jesus of Nazareth, he began to cry, and to say, Jesus the son of David, have mercy on me.

48 And many rebuked him, because he should hold his peace: but he cried much more, O son of David, have mercy on me.

49 Then Jesus stood still, and commanded him to be called: and they called the blind, saying unto him, Be of good comfort: arise, he calleth thee.

50 So he threw away his cloak, and arose, and came to Jesus.

51 And Jesus answered, and said unto him, What wilt thou that I do unto thee? And the blind said unto him, Lord, that I may receive sight.

52 Then Jesus said unto him, Go thy way: thy faith hath saved thee. And by and by he received his sight, and followed Jesus in the way.

C H A P. XI.

1 Christ entereth into Jerusalem riding on an ass.
13 The fruitless fig-tree is cursed. 15 Sellers and buyers are cast out of the temple. 23 The force of faith. 24 Faith in prayer. 25 The brother's offences must be pardoned. 27 The priests ask by what authority he wrought those things that he did. 30 Whence John's baptism was.

AND * when they came near to Jerusalem, to Bethphage and Bethany, unto the mount of Olives, he sent forth two of his disciples,

2 And said unto them, Go your ways into that town that is over-against you, and as soon as ye shall enter into it, ye shall find a colt tied, whereon never man sat: loose him, and bring him. A. D. 33.

3 And if any man say unto you, Why do ye this? Say that the Lord hath need of him, and straightway he will send him hither.

4 And they went their way, and found a colt tied by the door without, in a place where two ways met, and they loosed him.

5 Then certain of them that stood there said unto them, What do ye loosing the colt?

6 And they said unto them, as Jesus had commanded them: So they let them go.

7 ¶ * And they brought the colt to Jesus, and cast their garments on him, and he sat upon him. * John 12. 14.

8 And many spread their garments in the way: others cut down branches off the trees, and strewed them in the way.

9 And they that went before, and they that followed, cried, saying, Hosanna: ^a blessed be he that cometh in the name of the Lord:

10 ^b Blessed be the kingdom that cometh in the name of the Lord of our father David: Hosanna, O thou which art in the highest heavens.

11 * So Jesus entered into Jerusalem, and into the temple: and when he had looked about on all things, and now it was evening, he went forth unto Bethany with the twelve. * Matt. 21. 10. Luke 19. 44.

12 * And on the morrow when they were come out from Bethany, he was hungry. * Matt. 21. 19.

13 ^c And seeing a fig-tree afar off, that had leaves, he went to see if he might find any thing thereon: but when he came unto it, he found nothing but leaves: for the time of figs was not yet.

14 Then Jesus answered, and said to it, Never man eat fruit of thee hereafter while the world standeth: and his disciples heard it.

15 ¶ ^d And they came to Jerusalem, and Jesus went into the temple, and began to cast out them that sold and bought in the temple, and overthrew the tables of the money changers, and the seats of them that sold doves.

16 Neither would he suffer that any man should carry a ^e vessel through the temple.

17 And he taught, saying unto them, Is it not written, * Mine house shall be ^d called the house of prayer unto all nations? * but you have made it a den of thieves. * Is. 56. * Jer. 7. 11.

18 And the Scribes and high priests heard it, and sought how to destroy him: for they feared him, because the whole multitude was astonished at his doctrine.

19 But when even was come, Jesus went out of the city.

20 ¶ * ^f And in the morning as they journeyed together, they saw the fig-tree dried up from the roots. * Matt. 21. 19.

21 Then

^b They to whom it is decreed and appointed.

^c Christ only, being called upon by faith, healeth our blindness.

^d A lively image of the spiritual kingdom of Christ on earth.

^e Well be it to him that cometh to us from God, or that is sent of God.

^b Happy and prosperous.

^c An example of that vengeance which hangeth over the heads of hypocrites.

^d Christ sheweth indeed that he is the true King and High Priest, and therefore the revenger of the divine service of the temple.

^e That is, any prophane instrument, of which those fellows had a number, that made the court of the temple a market-place.

^f Shall openly be so accounted and taken.

^g The force of faith is exceeding great, and charity is ever joined with it.

A. D. 21 Then Peter remembered, and ſaid unto 33 him, Maſter, behold, the fig-tree which thou curſ-edſt, is withered.
 22 And Jeſus answered, and ſaid unto them,
 Have^e the faith of God.
 23 For verily I ſay unto you, that whoſoever ſhall ſay unto this mountain, Be thou taken away, and caſt into the ſea, and ſhall not waver in his heart, but ſhall believe that thoſe things which he ſaith, ſhall come to paſs, whatſoever he ſaith, ſhall be done to him.
 * Matt. 7. 7. Luke 11. 9. 24 * Therefore I ſay unto you, Whatſoever ye deſire when ye pray, believe that^f ye ſhall have it, and it ſhall be done unto you.
 * Matt. 6. 14. 25 * But when^g ye ſhall ſtand, and pray, forgive, if ye have any thing againſt any man, that your Father alſo which is in heaven, may forgive you your trespaffes.
 26 For if ye will not forgive, your Father, which is in heaven, will not pardon you your trespaffes.
 * Matt. 21. Luke 20. 1. 27 ¶ *^h Then they came again to Jeruſalem: and as he walked in the temple, there came to him the high prieſts, and the Scribes, and the elders,
 28 And ſaid unto him, By what authority doeſt thou theſe things? and who gave thee this authority, that thou ſhouldeſt do theſe things?
 29 Then Jeſus answered, and ſaid unto them,
 I will alſo aſk of you a certain thing, and answer ye me, and I will tell you by what authority I do theſe things.
 30 The baptiſm of John, was it from heaven, or of men? answer me.
 31 And they thought with themſelves, ſaying, If we ſhall ſay, From heaven, he will ſay,
 Why then did ye not believe him?
 32ⁱ But if we ſay, Of men, we fear the people: for all men counted John, that he was a prophet indeed.
 33 Then they answered, and ſaid unto Jeſus,
 We cannot tell. And Jeſus answered, and ſaid unto them, Neither will I tell you by what authority I do theſe things.

A. D. 21 Then the second took her, and he died, wife:

22 So those seven had her, and left no issue: last of all the wife died also.

23 In the resurrection then, when they shall rise again, whose wife shall she be of them? for seven had her to wife.

24 Then Jesus answered, and said unto them, Are ye not therefore deceived, because ye know not the scriptures, neither the power of God?

25 For when they shall rise again from the dead, neither men marry, nor wives are married, but are as the angels which are in heaven.

32 Then that Scribe said unto him, Well, Master, thou hast said the truth, that there is one God, and there is none but he.

33 And to love him with all the heart, and with all the understanding, and with all the soul and with all the strength, and to love his neighbour as himself, is more than all the whole burnt-offerings and sacrifices.

6 For many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ, and shall deceive many.

7 Furthermore, when ye shall hear of wars, and rumours of wars, be ye not troubled: for such things must needs be: but the end shall not be yet.

8 For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom, and there shall be earthquakes in divers quarters, and there shall be famine and troubles: these are the beginnings of sorrows.

9 But take ye heed to yourselves: for they shall deliver you up to the councils, and to the synagogues: ye shall be beaten, and brought before

* Sacrifices and outward worship never pleased God, unless such necessary duties as we owe to God and our neighbours went afore.

⁵ Christ proveth his Godhead even out of David himself, of whom he came according to the flesh.

⁶ Word for word, in the Holy Ghost, and there is great force in this kind of speech, whereby is meant, that it was not so much David, as the Holy Ghost that spake, who did in a manner possess David.

⁶ The manners of ministers are not rashly to be followed as an example.

⁸ Whilſt he taught them.

⁸ The word is a stole, which is a kind of woman's garment, long even down to the heels, and is taken generally for any garment made for comeliness, but in this place it seemeth to signify that fringed garment mentioned in Deut. 22. 11.

⁷ The doing of our duties, which God alloweth, is not esteemed according to the outward value, but to the inward affections of the heart.

¹ Money of any kind of metal, as the Romans used, who in the beginning did stamp or coin brass, and after used it for current money.

11 * But when they lead you, and deliver you up, be not careful beforehand, neither study what ye shall say: but what is given you at the same time, that speak: for it is not ye that speak, but the Holy Ghost.

12 Yea, and the brother shall deliver the brother to death, and the father the son, and the children shall rise against their parents, and shall cause them to die.

13 And ye shall be hated of all men for my name's sake: but whosoever shall endure to the end, he shall be saved.

14 * Moreover, when ye shall see the abomination of the desolation (spoken of by Daniel the prophet) set where it ought not, (let him that readeth, consider it) then let them that be in Judea, flee into the mountains:

15 And let him that is upon the house, not come down into the house, neither enter therein, to fetch any thing out of his house.

16 And let him that is in the field, not turn back again to take his garment.

17 Then woe shall be to them that are with child, and to them that give suck in those days.

18 Pray therefore that your flight be not in the winter.

19 For in those days shall be such tribulation as was not from the beginning of the creation which God created unto this time, neither shall be.

20 And except that the Lord had shortened these days, no flesh should be saved: but for the elect's sake, which he hath chosen, he hath shortened those days.

21 Then * if any man say to you, Lo, here is Christ, or lo, he is there, believe it not.

22 For false Christs shall rise, and false prophets, and shall shew signs and wonders, to deceive, if it were possible, the very elect.

23 But take ye heed: behold, I have shewed you all things before.

24 ¶ Moreover, in those days, after that tribulation, * the sun shall wax dark, and the moon shall not give her light, 25 And the stars of heaven shall fall: and the powers which are in heaven shall shake.

26 And then shall they see the Son of man coming in the clouds with great power and glory.

27 * And he shall then send his angels, and shall gather together his elect from the four winds, and from the utmost part of the earth to the utmost part of heaven.

28 Now learn a parable of the fig-tree: When her bough is yet tender, and it bringeth forth leaves, ye know that summer is near.

29 So in like manner, when ye see these things come to pass, know that the kingdom of God is near, even at the doors.

30 Verily I say unto you, that this generation shall not pass, till all these things be done.

31 Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away.

32 * But of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels which are in heaven, neither the Son himself, but the Father.

33 * Take heed: watch, and pray: for ye know not when the time is.

34 For the Son of man is as a man going into a strange country, who leaveth his house, and giveth authority to his servants, and to every man his work, and commandeth the porter to watch.

35 Watch ye therefore, (for ye know not when the master of the house will come, at even, or at midnight, at the cock crowing, or in the dawning,) 36 Lest if he come suddenly, he should find you sleeping.

37 And those things that I say unto you, I say unto all men, Watch.

c By any kind of artificial and cunning kind of tale what to speak.

d For me.

e When the heathen and prophane people shall not only enter into the temple, and defile both it and the city, but also clean destroy it.

f This is a kind of speech which the Hebrews use, and it hath a great force in it, for it giveth us to understand that in all that time one misery shall so follow upon another, as if the time itself were very misery itself. So the prophet Amos 5. 20. saith, that the day of the Lord shall be darkness.

2 The latter day is not curiously to be searched for, which the Father alone knoweth: but let us rather take heed, that it come not upon us unawares.

3 By the will of God against the counsel of men, it came to pass that Christ should be put to death upon the solemn day of the passover, that in all respects the truth might agree to the figure.

2 Rash judgments are frustrate before God.

2 Which is about six pounds English.

3 Christ suffered himself to be anointed once or twice for certain considerations: but his will is to be daily anointed in the poor.

- A. D. 33. 8 * She hath done that she could: she came aforehand to anoint my body to the burying.
- 9 Verily I say unto you, wheresoever this gospel shall be preached throughout the whole world, this also that she hath done, shall be spoken of in remembrance of her.
- ¹⁰ ¶ * 10 Then Judas Iscariot, one of the twelve, went away unto the high priests, to betray him unto them.
- 11 And when they heard it, they were glad, and promised that they would give him money: therefore he sought how he might conveniently betray him.
- ¹² ¶ * 12 Now the first day of unleavened bread, when they sacrificed the passover, his disciples said unto him, Where wilt thou that we go and prepare, that thou mayest eat the passover?
- 13 Then he sent forth two of his disciples, and said unto them, Go ye into the cities, and there shall a man meet you, bearing a pitcher of water: follow him.
- 14 And whithersoever he goeth in, say ye to the good man of the house, the Master saith, Where is the lodging where I shall eat the passover with my disciples?
- 15 And he will shew you an upper chamber, which is large, trimmed and prepared, there make it ready for us.
- 16 So his disciples went forth, and came to the city, and found as he had said unto them, and made ready the passover.
- 17 ¶ And at even he came with the twelve.
- ¹⁸ * 18 And as they sat at table, and did eat, Jesus said, Verily I say unto you, that one of you shall betray me, which eateth with me.
- 19 Then they began to be sorrowful, and to say to him one by one, Is it I? and another, Is it I?
- 20 And he answered, and said unto them, It is one of the twelve that dippeth with me in the platter.
- ²¹ Truly the Son of man goeth his way, as it is written of him: * but woe be to that man, by whom the Son of man is betrayed: it had been good for that man, if he had never been born.
- ²² * And as they did eat, Jesus took the bread, and when he had given thanks, he brake it, and gave it to them, and said, Take, eat, this is my body.
- 23 Also he took the cup, and when he had given thanks, gave it to them: and they all drank of it.
- 24 And he said unto them, This is my blood of that New Testament, which is shed for many.
- 25 Verily I say unto you, I will drink no more of the fruit of the vine, until that day that I drink it new in the kingdom of God.
- 26 And when they had sung a psalm, they went out to the mount of Olives.
- 27 ¶ * 27 Then Jesus said unto them, All ye shall be offended by me this night: for it is written, * I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered.
- 28 But after that I am risen, I will go into Galilee before you.
- 29 And Peter said unto him, Although all men should be offended at thee, yet would not I.
- 30 Then Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, this day, even in this night, before the cock crow twice, thou shalt deny me thrice.
- 31 But he said more earnestly, If I should die with thee, I will not deny thee: likewise also said they all.
- 32 ¶ * 32 After, they came into a place, named Gethsemane: then he said to his disciples, Sit ye here, till I have prayed.
- 33 And he took with him Peter, and James, and John, and he began to be troubled, and in great heaviness.
- 34 And said unto them, My soul is very heavy, even unto the death: tarry here, and watch.
- 35 So he went forward a little, and fell down on the ground, and prayed, that if it were possible, that hour might pass from him.
- 36 And he said, Abba, Father, all things are possible unto thee: take away this cup from me: nevertheless not that I will, but that thou wilt, be done.
- 37 Then he came, and found them sleeping, and said to Peter, Simon, sleepest thou? couldest not thou watch one hour?
- 38 ¶ Watch ye, and pray, that ye enter not into temptation: the spirit indeed is ready, but the flesh is weak.
- 39 And again he went away, and prayed, and spake the same words.
- 40 And he returned, and found them asleep again: for their eyes were heavy: neither knew they what they should answer him.
- 41 And he came the third time, and said unto them, Sleep henceforth, and take your rest: it is enough: the hour is come: Behold, the Son of man is delivered into the hands of sinners.
- 42 Rise up: let us go: lo, he that betrayeth me is at hand.
- 43 And

* This woman, by the secret instinct of the Spirit, anointing Christ, setteth before men's eyes, his death and burial, which were at hand.

* Covetousness, cloaked with a zeal of charity, is an occasion to betray and crucify Christ.

* Christ being made subject to the law for us, doth celebrate the passover according to the law: and therewithal by a miracle sheweth, that notwithstanding he in the flesh shall straightway suffer, yet that he is God.

* That is, upon which day, and at the evening of the same day, which was the beginning of the fifteenth. Look Matt. 26. 17.

* They used to sacrifice.

* This is spoken thus, by the figure Metonymia, which is usual in sacraments, and by the passover is meant the Paschal Lamb.

* The Greek word signifieth, that part of the house that is highest from the ground, to what use soever it be put; but because they used to sup in that part of the house, they called it a supping-chamber.

* The figure of the law which is by and by to be fulfilled, is abrogated: and in place thereof are put figures of the new covenant answerable unto them, which shall continue to the world's end.

* That useth to eat meat with me.

* Christ foretelleth how he shall be forsaken of his, but yet that he will never forsake them.

* Here is set forth in an excellent person, a most sorrowful example of man's rashness and weakness.

* That doubling of words setteth out more plainly Peter's vehement affirmation.

* Christ suffering for us, in that flesh which he took upon him for our sakes, the most horrible terrors of the curse of God, receiveth the cup at his Father's hands, which he, being just, doth straightway drink off for the unjust.

* This doubling of the word was used in those days when their languages were so mixed together: for this word, Abba, is a Syrian word.

* An horrible example of sluggishness of men, even as the disciples whom Christ had chosen.

11. D. of the Jews? And he answered, and said unto him, Thou sayest it.

3 And the high priests accused him of many things.

4 Wherefore Pilate asked him again, saying, Answerest thou nothing? behold how many things they witness against thee.

5 But Jesus answered no more at all, so that Pilate marvelled.

6 Now at the feast Pilate did deliver a prisoner unto them, whomsoever they would desire.

7 Then there was one named Barabbas, which was bound with his fellows, that had made insurrection, who in the insurrection had committed murder.

8 And the people cried aloud, and began to desire that he would do as he had ever done unto them.

9 Then Pilate answered them, and said, Will ye that I let loose unto you the king of the Jews?

10 For he knew that the high priests had delivered him of envy.

11 But the high priests had moved the people to desire that he would rather deliver Barabbas unto them.

12 And Pilate answered, and said again unto them, What will ye then that I do with him, whom ye call the king of the Jews?

13 And they cried again, Crucify him.

14 Then Pilate said unto them, But what evil hath he done? and they cried the more fervently, Crucify him.

15 So Pilate, willing to content the people, loosed them Barabbas, and delivered Jesus, who he had scourged him, that he might be crucified.

16 Then the soldiers led him away into the hall, which is the common hall, and called together the whole band, 17 And clad him with purple, and platted a crown of thorns, and put it about his head.

18 And began to salute him, saying, Hail, king of the Jews.

19 And they smote him on the head with a reed, and spat upon him, and bowed the knees, and did him reverence.

20 And when they had mocked him, they took the purple off him, and put his own clothes on him, and led him out to crucify him.

21 And they compelled one that passed by, called Simon of Cyrene (which came out of the country, and was father of Alexander and Rufus), to bear his cross.

22 * + And they brought him to a place named Golgotha, which is by interpretation, the place of dead men's skulls.

23 And they gave him to drink wine mingled with myrrh: but he received it not.

24 * 5 And when they had crucified him, they parted his garments, casting lots for them what every man should have.

25 And it was the third hour when they crucified him.

26 And the title of his cause was written above, THAT KING OF THE JEWS.

27 They crucified also with him two thieves, the one on the right hand, and the other on his left.

28 Thus the scripture was fulfilled, which saith, * And he was counted among the wicked.

29 And they that went by, railed on him, wagging their heads, and saying, * Hey, thou that destroyest the temple, and buildest it in three days, 30 Save thyself, and come down from the cross.

31 Likewise also even the high priests, mocking, said among themselves with the Scribes, He saved other men, himself he cannot save.

32 Let Christ the king of Israel now come down from the cross, that we may see and believe. They also that were crucified with him, reviled him.

33 ¶ Now when the sixth hour was come, darkness arose over all the land until the ninth hour.

34 And at the 7 ninth hour, Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying, * Eloi, Eloi, lama-sabachthani? which is by interpretation, My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?

35 And some of them that stood by, when they heard it, said, Behold, he calleth Elias.

36 And one ran and filled a * sponge full of vinegar, and put it on a reed, and gave him to drink, saying, Let him alone: let us see if Elias will come, and take him down.

37 And Jesus cried with a loud voice, and gave up the ghost.

38 And the vail of the temple was rent in twain, from the top to the bottom.

39 Now when the centurion, which stood over-against him, saw that he thus crying gave up the ghost, he said, Truly this man was the Son of God.

40 ¶ There were also women, which beheld afar off, among whom was Mary Magdalene,

* Used to deliver.

2 Corin going about to take away the sins of men, who went about to usurp the throne of God himself, is condemned as one that hunted after the kingdom; and mocked with a false shew of a kingdom; that we on the other side, who shall indeed be eternal kings, might receive the crown of glory at God's own hand.

3 The rage of the wicked hath no measure, but in the mean season, even the weakness of Christ, being in pain under the heavy burden of the cross, doth manifestly shew that a man is led to be sacrificed.

4 Christ led out of the walls of the earthly Jerusalem, into a place of dead men's carcases, as a man most unclean, not washing himself, but touching our sins, which were laid upon him, to the end that we being made clean by his blood, might be brought into the heavenly sanctuary.

5 Christ hangeth upon the cursed cross, and as the wickedest child that ever was, most vilely reproved: that we being clothed with his righteousness, and clothed with his curse, and sanctified by his only oblation, may be taken up into heaven.

6 How angry God was against our sins, which he punished in our surety, his son, it appeareth by this horrible darkness.

6 By this word Land he meaneth Palestine: so that the strangeness of the wonder is so much the more set forth in that, that at the feast of the passover, and in the full moon, when the sun shined over all the rest of the world, and at mid-day, that corner of the world, wherein so wicked an act was committed, was overcovered with most gross darkness.

7 Christ striving mightily with Satan, with sin, and with death, all three armed with the horrible curse of God, grievously tormented in body hanging upon the cross, and in soul plunged in the depth of hell, yet he riddeth himself, crying with a mighty voice: and notwithstanding the wound which he received of death, in that he died, yet by smiling both things above and things beneath, by renting of the vail of the temple, and by the testimony wrung out of them which murdered him, he sheweth evidently unto the rest of his enemies which are as yet obdurate, and mock at him, that he shall be known out of hand to be conqueror and Lord of all.

8 Christ, to the great shame of men which forsok the Lord, chose women for his witnesses, which beheld all this whole action.

A. D. 33. lene, and Mary the mother of James the less, and of Joses, and Salome, 41 Which also, when he was in Galilee, * followed him, and ministered unto him, and many other women which came up with him unto Jerusalem.

42 * And now when the night was come (because it was the day of preparation that is before the sabbath)

43 * Joseph of Arimathea, an ^d honourable counsellor, which also looked for the kingdom of God, came, and went in ^e boldly unto Pilate, and asked the body of Jesus.

44 And Pilate marvelled, if he were already dead, and called unto him the centurion, and asked of him whether he had been any while dead.

45 And when he knew the truth of the centurion, he gave the body to Joseph:

46 Who bought a linen cloth, and took him down, and wrapped him in the linen cloth, and laid him in a tomb that was hewn out of a rock, and rolled a stone unto the door of the sepulchre:

47 And Mary Magdalene, and Mary, Joses' mother, beheld where he should be laid.

³ The apostles are appointed, and their office is limited unto them, which is to preach that which they heard of him, and to minister the sacraments, which Christ hath instituted, having besides power to do miracles.

^d Not to the Jews only, nor in Judea only, but to all men, and every where: and so must all the apostles do.

FOrasmuch as ¹ many have ² taken in hand to set forth the story of those things, whereof we are fully persuaded,

² As they have delivered them unto us, which from the beginning saw them their selves, and were ministers of the word,

³ It seemed good also to me (^c most noble Theophilus) as soon as I had searched out perfectly all things ^c from the beginning, to write unto thee thereof from point to point,

⁴ That thou mightest ^c acknowledge the certainty of those things, whereof thou hast been instructed.

IN ⁵ the ^f time of ^s Herod king of Judea, there was a certain priest named Zacharias, of the ^s ^a course of Abia: and his wife was of the daughters of Aaron, and her name was Elizabeth.

⁶ Both were ¹ just before God, and ^k walked in all the ^l commandments and ordinances of the Lord, ⁼ without reproof.

⁷ And they had no child, because that Elizabeth was barren: and both were well stricken in age,

⁸ And it came to pass, as he executed the priest's office before God, as his course came in order,

⁹ ^a According to the custom of the priest's office, his lot was to burn incense, when he went into the ^a temple of the Lord.

¹⁰ And the whole multitude of the people were without in prayer, ^{*} while the incense was burning.

¹¹ Then appeared unto him an angel of the Lord standing at the right side of the altar of incense.

¹² And when Zacharias saw him, he was troubled; and fear fell upon him.

¹³ But the angel said unto him, Fear not, Zacharias: for thy prayer is heard, and thy wife shall bear thee a son, and thou shalt call his name John.

¹⁴ And thou shalt have joy and gladness, and many shall rejoice at his birth.

¹⁵ For he shall be great in the ^o sight of the Lord, and shall neither drink wine, nor ^p strong drink: and he shall be filled with the Holy Ghost, even from his mother's womb.

¹⁶ ^{*} And many of the children of Israel shall ^h turn to the Lord their God.

¹⁸ Then Zacharias said unto the angel, Whereby shall I know this? for I am an old man, and my wife is of a great age.

¹⁹ And the angel answered, and said unto him, I am Gabriel ^x that stand in the presence of God, and am sent to speak unto thee, and to shew thee these good tidings.

²⁰ And behold, thou shalt be dumb, and not be able to speak, until the day that these things be done, because thou believedst not my words, which shall be fulfilled in their season.

²¹ Now the people waited for Zacharias, and marvelled that he tarried so long in the temple.

²² And when he came out, he could not speak unto them: then they perceived that he had seen

¹ Luke commendeth the witnesses that saw this history.

² Many took it in hand, but did not perform. Luke wrote his gospel before Matthew and Mark.

³ Luke was not an eye-witness, and therefore it was not he to whom the Lord appeared, when Cleopas saw him; and he was taught not only by Paul, but by others of the apostles also.

^c That is, most mighty, and therefore Theophilus was a very honourable man, and in place of great dignity.

^d Luke began his gospel a great deal further off than the other did.

^e Have fuller knowledge of those things, which before thou knewest but meanly.

^f John who was another Elias, and appointed to be the herald of Christ, coming of the stock of Aaron, and of two famous and blameless parents, hath shewed in his conception, which was against the course of nature, a double miracle, to the end that men should be more readily stirred up to the hearing of his preaching, according to the forewarning of the prophets.

^m Whom no man could justly reprove. Now so it is, that the fruits of justification are set forth here, and not the cause, which is faith only, and nothing else.

ⁿ The temple was one, and the court another, for Zacharias went out of the court or outward room, where all the people were, and therefore are said to be without, in the temple.

seen a vision in the temple: for he made signs unto them, and remained dumb.

23 And it came to pass, when the days of his office were fulfilled, that he departed to his own house.

24 And after those days, his wife Elizabeth conceived, and hid herself five months, saying, 25 Thus hath the Lord dealt with me, in the days wherein he looked on me, to take from me my rebuke among men.

26 ¶ And in the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent from God unto a city of Galilee, named Nazareth, 27 * To a virgin affianced to a man, whose name was Joseph, of the house of David, and the virgin's name was Mary.

28 And the angel went in unto her, and said, Hail, thou that art freely beloved: the Lord is with thee: a blessed art thou among women.

29 And when she saw him, she was troubled at his saying, and thought what manner of salutation that should be.

30 Then the angel said unto her, Fear not, Mary: for thou hast found favour with God.

31 * For lo, thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bear a son, * and shalt call his name JESUS.

32 He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the most High, and the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David.

33 * And he shall reign over the house of Jacob for ever, and of his kingdom shall be no end.

34 Then said Mary unto the angel, How shall this be, seeing I know not man?

35 And the angel answered, and said unto her, The Holy Ghost shall come upon thee, and the power of the most High shall overshadow thee: therefore also that holy thing which shall be born of thee, shall be called the Son of God.

36 And behold, thy cousin Elizabeth, she hath also conceived a son in her old age: and this is her sixth month, which was called barren.

37 For with God shall nothing be impossible.

38 Then Mary said, Behold the servant of the Lord: be it unto me according to thy word. So the angel departed from her.

39 ¶ And Mary arose, in those days, and went into the hill country with haste to a city of Judah:

40 And entered into the house of Zacharias, and saluted Elizabeth.

41 And it came to pass, as Elizabeth heard the salutation of Mary, the babe sprang in her belly, and Elizabeth was filled with the Holy Ghost.

42 And she cried with a loud voice, and said, Blessed art thou among women, because the fruit of thy womb is blessed.

43 And whence cometh this to me, that the mother of my Lord should come to me?

44 For lo, as soon as the voice of thy salutation sounded in mine ears, the babe sprang in my belly for joy.

45 And blessed is she that believed: for those things shall be performed, which were told her from the Lord.

46 Then Mary said, My soul magnifieth the Lord,

47 And my spirit rejoiceth in God my Saviour.

48 For he hath looked on the poor degree of his servant: for behold, from henceforth shall all ages call me blessed,

49 Because he that is mighty hath done for me great things, and holy is his name.

50 And his mercy is from generation to generation on them that fear him.

51 * He hath shewed strength with his arm: * he hath scattered the proud in the imagination of their hearts.

¹ The angel serving the Lord which should be born, is sent to the virgin Mary, in whom the Son of the most High, promised to David, is conceived by the virtue of the Holy Ghost.

² As much is to be said of Mary, otherwise Christ had not been of the stock, nor the son of David.

³ It might be rendered word for word, full of favour and grace, and he sheweth straight after, laying out plainly unto us, what that favour is, in that he saith, the Lord is with thee.

⁶ So speak the Hebrews, saying that men have found favour, which are in favour.

⁷ He shall be declared so to be, for he was the Son of God from everlasting, but was made manifest in the flesh in his time.

⁸ The greatness of the matter causeth the virgin to ask this question, not that she distrusteth any whit at all, for she asketh only of the manner of the conceiving, so that it is plain she believed all the rest.

⁹ So speak the Hebrews, signifying by this modest kind of speech, the company of man and wife together, and this is the meaning of it: how shall this be, for seeing I shall be Christ his mother, I am very sure, I shall not know any man; for the godly virgin had learned by the prophets, that the Messiah should be born of a virgin.

¹⁰ That is, the Holy Ghost shall cause thee to conceive by his mighty power.

¹¹ That pure thing and void of all spot of uncleanness: for he that was to take away sin, must needs be void of sin.

¹² Declared, and shewed to the world, to be the Son of God.

¹³ Though Elizabeth was of the tribe of Levi, yet she might be Mary's cousin: for whereas it was forbidden by the law, for maidens to be married to men of other tribes, this could not let, but that the Levites might take them wives out of any tribe: for the Levites had no portion allotted them, when the land was divided among the people.

¹ This is now the sixth month from the time when she conceived.

² Elizabeth being great with child of John, and Mary with Christ, by the inspiration of the Holy Ghost, do rejoice each for other.

³ Which is on the south side of Jerusalem.

⁴ That is to say, Hebron, which was in times past called Kirjath-arba, which was one of the towns that was given to the Levites in the tribe of Judah, and is said to be in the mountains of Judah, Josh. 14. 15. and 21. 11.

⁵ This was no ordinary nor usual kind of moving.

27 And all that heard him, were astonished at his understanding and answers.

28 So when they saw him, they were amazed, and his mother said unto him, Son, why hast thou thus dealt with us? behold, thy father and I have sought thee with very heavy hearts.

29 Then said he unto them, How is it that ye sought me? know ye not that I must go about my Father's business?

30 But they understood not the word that he spake to them.

31 Then he went down with them, and came to Nazareth, and was subject to them: and his mother kept all these sayings in her heart.

32 And Jesus increased in wisdom, and stature, and in favour with God and man.

C H A P. III.

4 John exhorteth to repentance. 15 His testimony of Christ. 20 Herod putteth him in prison. 21 Christ is baptized. 23 His pedigree.

NOW in the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius Cæsar, Pontius Pilate being governor of Judea, and Herod being tetrarch of Galilee, and his brother Philip tetrarch of Iturea, and of the country of Trachonitis, and Lysanias the tetrarch of Abylene,

2 (*When ^a Annas and Caiaphas were the high priests) the word of God came unto John the son of Zacharias in the wilderness.

3 * And he came into all the coasts about Jordan, preaching the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins,

4 As it is written in the book of the sayings of Isaiah the prophet, which saith, * The voice of him that crieth in the wilderness is, Prepare ye the way of the Lord: make his paths straight.

5 Every valley shall be filled, and every mountain and hill shall be brought low, and crooked things shall be made straight, and the rough ways shall be made smooth.

6 And all flesh shall see the salvation of God.

7 Then said he to the people that were come out to be baptized of him, * O generation of vipers, who hath forewarned you to flee from the wrath to come?

8 Bring forth therefore fruits worthy amendment of life, and begin not to say with yourselves, We have Abraham to our father: for I say unto you, that God is able of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham.

9 Now also is the ax laid unto the root of the trees: therefore every tree which bringeth not forth good fruit, shall be hewn down, and cast into the fire.

10 ¶ Then the people asked him, saying, What shall we do then?

11 And he answered, and said unto them, * He that hath two coats, let him part with him that hath none: and he that hath meat, let him do likewise.

12 Then came there Publicans also to be baptized, and said unto him, Master, what shall we do?

13 And he said unto them, Require no more than that which is ^b appointed unto you.

14 The soldiers likewise demanded of him, saying, And what shall we do? And he said unto them, Do violence to no man, neither accuse any falsely, and be content with your ^c wages.

15 As the people waited, and all men mused in their hearts of John, if he were not that Christ, 16 John answered, and said to them all, * Indeed I baptize you with water, but one stronger than I cometh, whose shoes I latchet I am not worthy to unloose: he will baptize you with the Holy Ghost, and with fire.

17 Whose fan is in his hand, and he will make clean his floor, and will gather the wheat into his garner, but the chaff will he burn up with fire that never shall be quenched.

18 Thus then exhorting with many other things, he preached unto the people.

19 * But when Herod the tetrarch was rebuked of him, for Herodias his brother Philip's wife, and for all the evils which Herod had done, 20 He added yet this above all, that he shut up John in prison.

21 * Now it came to pass as all the people were baptized, and that Jesus was baptized, and did pray, that the heaven was opened:

22 And

^a As Christ grew up in age, so the virtue of his Godhead shewed itself more and more.

^b The Scribes and Pharisees are stirred up to hear the wisdom of Christ in his time, by an extraordinary deed.

^c All duties which we owe to men, as they are not to be neglected; so are they according to our vocation, not to be preferred before the glory of God.

^d Christ very man is made like unto us in all things, except sin.

^e John cometh at the time foretold of the prophets, and layeth the foundation of the gospel which is exhibited unto us, setting forth the true observing of the law, and free mercy in Christ, which cometh after him, using also baptism, the effectual sign both of regeneration, and also of forgiveness of sin.

^a Josephus calleth him Ananus.

^b Require no more than that sum that is appointed for the tribute-money.

^c Which was paid them partly in money, and partly in victuals.

^d If we will rightly and fruitfully receive the sacraments, we must neither rest in the signs, neither in him that ministereth the signs, but lift up our eyes to Christ, who is the author of the sacraments, and the giver of that which is represented by the sacraments.

^e The gospel is the fan of the world.

^f John's preaching is confirmed with his death.

^g Our baptism is sanctified in the head of the church, and Christ also is pronounced, by the voice of the Father, to be our everlasting King, Priest, and Prophet.

C H A P. IV.

2 Of Christ's temptation, and fasting. 16 He teacheth in Nazareth to the great admiration of all.

24 A prophet that teacheth in his own country is contemned. 33 One possessed of the devil is cured. 38 Peter's mother-in-law healed: 40 and divers sick persons are restored to health. 41

The devils acknowledge Christ.

6 The stock of Christ, according to the flesh, is brought by order even to Adam, and so to God, that it might appear, that he only it was whom God promised to Abraham and David, and appointed from everlasting to his church, which is gathered together of all sorts of men.

1 Christ being carried away (as it were out of the world into the desert) after the fast of forty days, and the overcoming of Satan thrice, coming as it were suddenly from heaven beginneth his office.

2 Christ being stirred up of Satan first to distrust in God, secondly to the desire of riches and honour, and lastly to vain confidence of himself, overcometh him thrice by the word of God.

3 By this word Power, are the kingdoms themselves meant.

A N D 1 Jesus, full of the Holy Ghost, returned from Jordan, and was led by that spirit into the wilderness. A. D. 27.

2 * And was there forty days tempted of the devil; and in those days he did eat nothing: but when they were ended, he afterwards was hungry. * Mat. 4. 1. Mark 1. 12.

3 2 Then the devil said unto him, If thou be the Son of God, command this stone that it be made bread.

4 But Jesus answered him, saying, It is written, * That man shall not live by bread only, but by every word of God. * Deut. 8. 3. Matt. 4. 4.

5 Then the devil took him up into an high mountain, and shewed him all the kingdoms of the world, in the twinkling of an eye.

6 And the devil said unto him, All this power will I give thee, and the glory of those kingdoms: for that is delivered unto me: and to whomsoever I will, I give it.

7 If thou therefore wilt worship me, they shall be all thine.

8 But Jesus answered him, and said, Hence from me, Satan: for it is written, * Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him alone thou shalt serve. * Deut. 6. 13. and 10. 20.

9 Then he brought him to Jerusalem, and set him on a pinnacle of the temple, and said unto him, If thou be the Son of God, cast thyself down from hence,

10 For it is written, * That he will give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee: * Ps. 91. 12.

11 And with their hands they shall lift thee up, lest at any time thou shouldest dash thy foot against a stone.

12 And Jesus answered, and said unto him, It is said, * Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God. * Deut. 6. 16.

13 And when the devil had ended all the temptation, he departed from him for a little season.

14 ¶ And Jesus returned by the power of the Spirit into Galilee: and there went a fame of him throughout all the region round about.

15 For he taught in their synagogues, and was honoured of all men.

16 * 3 And he came to Nazareth, where he had been brought up, and (as his custom was) went into the synagogue on the sabbath-day, and stood up to read. * Mat. 13. 54. Mark 9. 1. John 4. 43.

17 And there was delivered unto him the book of the prophet Esaias: and when he had opened the book, he found the place, where it was written,

18 * The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath anointed me, that I should preach the gospel to the poor: he hath sent me, that I should heal the broken-hearted, that I should preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering which have the power; and so it is spoken by the figure Metonymia.

6 That is sure so, for he is prince of the world, yet not absolutely, and as the sovereign over it, but by sufferance and way of intreaty, and therefore he saith not true, that he can give it to whom he will.

7 Out of an high place, which had a goodly champaign country underneath it, he shewed him the situation of all countries.

8 Who Christ is, and wherefore he came, he sheweth out of the prophet Esaias.

9 Their books in those days were rolled up as scrolls upon a roller: and so Christ unrolled or untold it, which is here called opened.

A. D. 31. ¹ Verifying of sight to the blind, that I should set at liberty them that are bruised :

19 And that I should preach the acceptable year of the Lord.

20 And he closed the book, and gave it again to the minister, and sat down : and the eyes of all that were in the synagogue were fastened on him.

21 Then he began to say unto them, This day is the scripture fulfilled in your ears.

22 ² And all ³ bare him witness, and ⁴ wondered at the ⁵ gracious words which proceeded out of his mouth, and said, Is not this Joseph's son ?

23 Then he said unto them, Ye will surely say unto me this proverb, Physician, heal thyself : whatsoever we have heard done in Capernaum, do it here likewise in thine own country.

⁶ And he said, Verily I say unto you, ⁷ No prophet is accepted in his own country.

⁸ But I tell you of a truth, many widows were in Israel in the days of ⁹ Elias, when heaven was shut three years and six months, when great famine was throughout all the ¹⁰ land :

26 But unto none of them was Elias sent, save unto Sarepta, a city of Sidon, unto a certain widow.

¹¹ Also many lepers were in Israel, in the time of ¹² Elias the prophet : yet none of them was made clean, saving Naaman the Syrian.

28 ¹³ Then all ¹⁴ that were in the synagogue, when they heard it, were filled with wrath, 29 And rose up, and thrust him out of the city, and led him unto the edge of the hill, whereon their city was built, to cast him down headlong.

30 But he passed through the midst of them, and went his way.

¹⁵ And came down into Capernaum, a city of Galilee, and there taught them on the sabbath-days.

32 ¹⁶ And they were astonished at his doctrine : for his word was with authority.

33 ¹⁷ And in the synagogue there was a man which had a spirit of an unclean devil, which cried with a loud voice, 34 ¹⁸ Saying, Oh, what have we to do with thee, thou Jesus of Nazareth ? art thou come to destroy us ? I know who thou art, ¹⁹ even the holy One of God.

35 And Jesus rebuked him, saying, I hold thy peace, and come out of him. Then the devil, throwing him in the midst of ²⁰ them, came out of him, and hurt him nothing at all.

36 So fear came on them all, and they spake among themselves, saying, What thing is this ?

¹ Familiarity causeth Christ to be contemned, and therefore he oftentimes goeth to strangers.

² Approved those things which he spake with common consent and voice; for this word Witness signifieth in this place, and many other, to allow and approve a thing with open confession.

³ Not only the doctors, but also the common people were present at this conference of the scriptures: and besides that, their mother tongue was used, for else how could the people have wondered? Paul appointed the same order in the church at Corinth, as 1 Cor. 14.

⁴ Words full of the mighty power of God, which appeared in all his doings, as well, and allured men marvelously unto him, Psalm 45. 2. grace is poured into thy lips.

⁵ Land of Israel, look Mark 15. 38.

⁶ The more sharply the world is rebuked, the more it rageth openly: but the life of the godly is not simply subject to the pleasure of the wicked.

for with authority and power he commandeth the foul spirits, and they come out.

37 And the fame of him spread abroad throughout all the places of the country round about.

38 ¶ ²¹ And he rose up, and came out of the synagogue, and entered into Simon's house. And Simon's wife's mother was taken with a great fever, and they required him for her.

39 Then he stood over her, and rebuked the fever, and it left her, and immediately she arose, and ministered unto them.

40 Now at the sun-setting, all they that had sick folks of divers diseases, brought them unto him, and he laid his hands on every one of them, and healed them.

41 ²² And devils also came out of many, crying, and saying, Thou art that Christ, that Son of God : but he rebuked them, and suffered them not to say, that they knew him to be that Christ.

42 ²³ And when it was day he departed, and went forth into a desert place, and the people sought him, and came to him, and kept him that he should not depart from them.

43 But he said unto them, Surely I must also preach the kingdom of God to other cities : for therefore am I sent.

44 And he preached in the synagogues of Galilee.

C H A P. V.

1 Christ teacheth out of the ship. 6 Of the draught of fish. 12 The leper. 16 Christ prayeth in the desert. 18 One sick of the palsy. 27 Levi the publican. 34 The fastings and afflictions of the apostles after Christ's ascension. 36, 37, 38. Faint-hearted and weak disciples are likened to old bottles and worn garments.

THEN ¹ it came to pass, as the people ² pressed upon him to hear the word of God, that he stood by the lake of Gennefaret,

2 And saw two ships stand by the lake's side, but the fishermen were gone out of them, and were washing their nets.

3 And he entered into one of the ships, which was Simon's, and required him that he would thrust off a little from the land : and he sat down, and taught the people out of the ship.

4 ¶ Now when he had left speaking, he said unto Simon, Launch out into the deep, and let down your nets to make a draught.

5 Then Simon answered, and said unto him, Master, we have travailed fore all night, and have taken nothing : nevertheless at thy word I will let down the net.

6 And when they had so done, they inclosed

¹ Christ astonisheth not only men, be they never so blockish, but even the devils also, whether they will or not.

² In that, that Christ healeth the diseases of the body with his word only, he proveth that he is God Almighty, sent for man's salvation.

³ Satan, who is a continual enemy to the truth, ought not to be heard, no not then, when he speaketh the truth.

⁴ No colour of zeal ought to hinder us in the race of our vocation.

⁵ Christ advertiseth the four disciples, which he had taken unto him, of the office of the apostleship, which should hereafter be committed unto them.

⁶ Did, as it were, lie upon him, so desirous they were both to see him and hear him, and therefore he taught them out of a ship.

⁷ The word signifieth him that hath rule over any thing.

A. D. 31. fed a great multitude of fishes, so that their net brake.

7 And they beckoned to their partners, which were in the other ship, that they should come and help them: who came then, and filled both the ships, that they did sink.

8 Now when Simon Peter saw it, he fell down at Jesus's knees, saying, Lord, go from me: for I am a sinful man.

9 For he was utterly astonished, and all that were with him, for the draught of fishes which they took.

10 And so was also James and John, the sons of Zebedee, which were companions with Simon. Then Jesus said unto Simon, Fear not: from henceforth thou shalt catch men.

11 And when they had brought the ships to land, they forsook all, and followed him.

* Matt 8.2. Mark 1.40. 12 ¶ * 2 Now it came to pass, as he was in a certain city, behold, there was a man full of leprosy, and when he saw Jesus, he fell on his face, and besought him, saying, Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean.

13 So he stretched forth his hand, and touched him, saying, I will, be thou clean. And immediately the leprosy departed from him.

14 And he commanded him that he should tell it to no man: but go, saith he, and shew thyself to the priest, and offer for thy cleansing as * Moses hath commanded, for a witness unto them.

15 3 But so much more went there a fame abroad of him, and great multitudes came together to hear, and to be healed of him of their infirmities.

16 But he kept himself apart in the wilderness, and prayed.

17 ¶ 4 And it came to pass on a certain day, as he was teaching, that the Pharisees and doctors of the law far by, which were come out of every town of Galilee, and Judea, and Jerusalem, and the power of the Lord ^c was in him to heal them.

* Matt 9.2. Mark 2.3. 18 * Then behold, men brought a man lying in a bed, which was taken with a palsy, and they sought means to bring him in, and to lay him before him.

19 And when they could not find by what way they might bring him in, because of the press, they went up on the house, and let him down through the tiling, bed and all, in the midst before Jesus.

20 And when he saw their faith, he said unto him, Man, thy sins are forgiven thee.

21 Then the Scribes and the Pharisees began to reason, saying, Who is this that speaketh blasphemies? who can forgive sins, but God only?

22 But when Jesus perceived their reasoning, he answered, and said unto them, What reason ye in your hearts?

23 Whether is it easier to say, Thy sins are forgiven thee, or to say, Rise and walk?

² Christ by healing the leper with his only touch, and sending him to the priest, witnesseth that it is he, through whom, and by whom, apprehended by faith, all we which are unclean, according to the law, by the witness of God himself, are pronounced to be pure and clean.

³ Christ had rather to be famous by his doctrine than by miracles and therefore he departeth from them that seek him as a physician of the body, and not as the author of salvation.

⁴ Christ in healing him that was sick of the palsy, sheweth the cause of all diseases, and the remedy.

24 But that ye may know that the Son of man hath authority to forgive sins in earth, (he said unto the sick of the palsy) I say to thee, Arise: take up thy bed, and go to thine house.

25 And immediately he rose up before them, and took up his bed whereon he lay, and departed to his own house, praising God.

26 And they were all amazed, and praised God, and were filled with fear, saying, Doubtless we have seen strange things to day.

27 ¶ * 5 And after that, he went forth, and saw a Publican named Levi, sitting at the receipt of custom, and said unto him, Follow me.

28 And he left all, rose up, and followed him.

29 Then Levi made him a great feast in his own house, where there was a great company of Publicans, and of others that sat at table with them.

30 But they that were Scribes and Pharisees among them, murmured against his disciples, saying, Why eat ye and drink ye with Publicans and sinners?

31 Then Jesus answered, and said unto them, They that are whole, need not the physician, but they that are sick.

32 * I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance.

33 ¶ * 6 Then they said unto him, Why do the disciples of John fast often, and pray, and the disciples of the Pharisees also, but thine eat and drink?

34 7 And he said unto them, Can ye make the children of the wedding-chamber to fast, as long as the bridegroom is with them.

35 But the days will come, even when the bridegroom shall be taken away from them: then shall they fast in those days.

36 Again he spake also unto them a parable, No man putteth a piece of a new garment into an old vesture: for then the new renteth it, and the piece taken out of the new, agreeth not with the old.

37 Also no man poureth new wine into old vessels: for then the new wine will break the vessels, and it will run out, and the vessels will perish:

38 But new wine must be poured into new vessels: so both are preserved

39 Also no man that drinketh old wine, straightway desireth new: for he saith, The old is more profitable.

C H A P. VI.

1 The disciples pull the ears of corn on the sabbath.

6 Of him that had a withered hand. 13 The election of the apostles. 20 The blessings and curses. 27 We must love our enemies. 46 With what fruit the word of God is to be heard.

AND

^c The mighty power of Christ's Godhead shewed itself in him at that time.

⁵ The church is a company of sinners, through the grace of Christ repentant, which banquet with him, to the great offence of the proud and envious worldlings.

⁶ It is the point of hypocrites and ignorant men to put an holiness in fasting, and in things indifferent.

⁷ Laws generally made without any consideration of circumstance, for fasting, and other things of like sort, are not only tyrannous, but very hurtful in the church.

A. D. 31. AND it came to pass on a second solemn sabbath, that he went through the corn fields, and his disciples plucked the ears of corn, and did eat, and rub them in their hands.

2 And certain of the Pharisees said unto them, Why do ye that which is not lawful to do on the sabbath-days?

3 Then Jesus answered them, and said, Have ye not read this, that David did when he himself was an hungred, and they which were with him,

4 How he went into the house of God, and took and ate the shewbread, and gave also to them which were with him, which was not lawful to eat, but for the priests only?

5 And he said unto them, The Son of man is lord also of the sabbath day.

6 It came to pass also on another sabbath, that he entered into the synagogue, and taught, and there was a man, whose right hand was dried up.

7 And the Scribes and Pharisees watched him, whether he would heal on the sabbath day, that they might find an accusation against him.

8 But he knew their thoughts, and said unto the man which had the withered hand, Arise, and stand up in the midst. And he arose, and stood up.

9 Then said Jesus unto them, I will ask you a question. Whether is it lawful on the sabbath days to do good, or to do evil? to save life, or to destroy?

10 And he beheld them all in compass, and said unto the man, Stretch forth thine hand. And he did so, and his hand was restored again as whole as the other.

11 Then they were filled full of madness, and communed one with another, what they might do to Jesus.

12 And it came to pass in those days, that he went into a mountain to pray, and spent the night in prayer to God.

13 And when it was day, he called his disciples, and of them he chose twelve, which also he called apostles.

14 (Simon whom he named also Peter, and Andrew his brother, James and John, Philip and Bartholomew:

15 Matthew and Thomas: James the son of Alphaeus, and Simon called Zelotes:

16 Judas, James's brother, and Judas Iscariot, which also was the traitor.)

17 Then he came down with them, and stood in a plain place, with the company of his disciples, and a great multitude of people out of all Judea and Jerusalem, and from the sea coast of Tyre and Sidon, which came to hear him, and to be healed of their diseases:

18 And they that were vexed with foul spirits, and they were healed.

19 And the whole multitude sought to touch him: for there went virtue out of him, and healed them all.

20 And he lifted up his eyes upon his disciples, and said, Blessed be ye poor: for yours is the kingdom of God.

21 Blessed are ye that hunger now: for ye shall be satisfied: blessed are ye that weep now: for ye shall laugh.

22 Blessed are ye, when men hate you, and when they separate you, and revile you, and put out your name as evil for the Son of man's sake.

23 Rejoice ye in that day, and be glad: for behold, your reward is great in heaven: for after this manner their fathers did to the prophets.

24 But woe be to you that are rich: for ye have received your consolation.

25 Woe be to you that are full: for ye shall hunger. Woe be to you that now laugh: for ye shall wail and weep.

26 Woe be to you, when all men speak well of you: for so did their fathers to the false prophets.

27 But I say unto you which hear, Love your enemies: do well to them which hate you.

28 Bless them that curse you, and pray for them which hurt you.

29 And unto him that smiteth thee on the one cheek, offer also the other: and him that taketh away thy cloak, forbid not to take thy coat also.

30 Give to every man that asketh of thee: and of him that taketh away the things that be thine, ask them not again.

31 And as ye would that men should do to you, so do ye to them likewise.

32 For if ye love them which love you, what thank shall ye have? for even sinners love those that love them.

33 And if ye do good for them which do good for you, what thank shall ye have? for even the sinners do the same.

34 And if ye lend to them of whom ye hope to receive, what thank shall ye have? for even the sinners lend to sinners, to receive the like.

35 Where-

Christ sheweth against the superstitious, who stick in every trifle, that the law of the very sabbath was not given to be kept without exception: much less that the salvation of man should consist in the outward keeping of it.

Epiphanius noteth well in his treatise, where he confuteth Ebion, that the time when the disciples plucked the ears of corn, was in the feast of unleavened bread: Now whereas in those feasts, which were kept many days together, as the feast of tabernacles, and as the passover, their first day, and the last were of like solemnity, Lev. 23. Luke fitly calleth the last day the second sabbath, though Theoph. understandeth it of any other of them, that followed the first.

Charity is the rule of all ceremonies.

Whoso helpeth not his neighbour, when he can, he killeth him.

In that that Christ useth earnest and long prayer in choosing twelve of his own company, to the office of the apostleship, he sheweth how religiously we ought to behave ourselves in the choice of ecclesiastical persons.

From all the sea coast, which is called, Syrophenicia.

Christ teacheth against all philosophers, and especially the epicures, that the chiefest felicity of man is laid up in no place here in earth, but in heaven; and that persecution for righteousness sake, is the right way unto it.

Cast you out of their synagogues, as John expoundeth it, chap. 16. 2. which is the sharpest punishment the church hath, if so be the elders judge rightfully, and by the word of God.

Leap (as cattle do which are provender pricked) for exceeding joy.

That is, you reap now of your riches, all the commodity and blessings you are ever like to have, and therefore you have not to look for any other reward, Matt. 6. 2.

Christian charity, which differeth much from the worldly, doth not only not revenge injuries, but comprehendeth even our most grievous enemies, and that for our Father's sake which is in heaven: so far is it from seeking its own profit in doing well.

What is there in this your work, that is to be accounted of? for if you look to have commodity by loving, seek those commodities which are commodities indeed: love your enemies, and so shall you shew to the world that you look for those commodities which come from God.

A. D. 31. 35 Wherefore love ye your enemies, and do good, and lend, ^h looking for nothing again, and your reward shall be great, and ye shall be children of ^{*} the most High: for he is kind to the unkind, and to the evil.

36 Be ye therefore merciful, as your Father also is merciful.

37 ¶ ^{*} ⁶ Judge not, and ye shall not be judged: condemn not, and ye shall not be condemned: ¹ forgive, and ye shall be forgiven.

38 Give, and it shall be given unto you: ^{*} a good measure, ^k pressed down, shaken together, and running over, shall men give into your bosom: for with what measure ye mete, with the same shall men mete to you again.

39 ⁷ And he spake a parable unto them, * Can the blind lead the blind? shall they not both fall into the ditch?

40 * The disciple is not above his master: but whosoever will be a perfect disciple shall be as his master.

41 ¶ ^{*} ⁸ And why seeest thou a mote in thy brother's eye, and considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye?

42 Either how canst thou say to thy brother, Brother, let me pull out the mote that is in thine eye, when thou seeest not the beam that is in thine own eye? Hypocrite, cast out the beam out of thine own eye first, and then shalt thou see perfectly to pull out the mote that is in thy brother's eye.

43 ¶ ^{*} ⁹ For it is not a good tree that bringeth forth evil fruit: neither an evil tree that bringeth forth good fruit.

44 * For every tree is known by his own fruit: ^{*} for neither of thorns gather men figs, nor of bushes gather they grapes.

45 A good man, out of the good treasure of his heart, bringeth forth good: and an evil man, out of the evil treasure of his heart, bringeth forth evil: for of the abundance of the heart his mouth speaketh.

46 ¶ ^{*} But why call ye me Lord, Lord, and do not the things that I speak?

47 ¹⁰ Whosoever cometh to me, and heareth my words, and doth the same, I will shew you to whom he is like:

48 He is like a man who built an house, and digged deep, and laid the foundation on a rock: and when the waters arose, the flood beat upon that house, and could not shake it: for it was grounded upon a rock.

49 But he that heareth and doth not, is like a man that built an house upon the earth without foundation, against which the flood did beat, and it fell by and by: and the fall of that house was great.

^h When you will lend, do it only to benefit and pleasure withal, and not for hope to receive the principal again.

⁶ Brotherly reprehensions must not proceed of curiosity nor churlishness nor malice; but they must be just, moderate and loving.

¹ He speaketh not here of civil judgments, and therefore by the word, Forgive, is meant that good nature which the christians use in suffering and pardoning wrongs.

^k These are borrowed kinds of speeches, taken from them which use to measure dry things, as corn and such like, who use a frank kind of dealing therein, and thrust it down and shake it together, and press it, and heap it.

⁷ Unskilful reproachers hurt both themselves and others: for such as the master is, such is the scholar.

W H E N ^{} he ¹ had ended all his sayings in ^{} Matt. 8. 5. the audience of the people, he entered into Capernaum.

2 And a certain centurion's servant was sick, and ready to die, which was dear unto him.

3 And when he heard of Jesus, he sent unto him the elders of the Jews, beseeching him that he would come, and heal his servant.

4 So they came to Jesus, and besought him instantly, saying, that he was worthy that he should do this for him:

5 For he loveth, said they, our nation, and he hath built us a synagogue.

6 Then Jesus went with them: but when he was now not far from the house, the centurion sent friends to him, saying unto him, Lord, trouble not thyself: for I am not worthy that thou shouldest enter under my roof:

7 Wherefore I thought not myself worthy to come unto thee: but say the word, and my servant shall be whole:

8 For I likewise am a man set under authority and have under me soldiers, and I say unto one, Go, and he goeth: and to another, Come, and he cometh: and to my servant, Do this, and he doeth it.

9 When Jesus heard these things, he marvelled at him, and turned him, and said to the people that followed him, I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no not in Israel.

10 And when they that were sent, turned back to the house, they found the servant that was sick, whole.

11 ² And it came to pass the day after, that he went into a city called ^a Nain, and many of his disciples went with him, and a great multitude.

12 Now when he came near to the gate of the city, behold, there was a dead man carried out, who was the only begotten son of his mother, which was a widow, and much people of the city was with her.

13 And when the Lord saw her, he had compassion on her, and said unto her, Weep not.

14 And he went and touched the coffin (and they that bare him stood still) and he said, Young man, I say unto thee, Arise.

15 And he that was dead, sat up, and began to speak, and he delivered him to his mother.

16 Then there came a fear on them all, and they

⁹ He is a good man, not that is skilful to reprehend others, but he that proveth his uprightness both in word and deed.

¹⁰ Affliction doth at the length discern true godliness from false and feigned.

¹ Christ admonisheth the Jews, by setting before them the example of the centurion, that for their obstinacy and rebellion he will go to the Gentiles.

² Christ avoucheth openly his power over death.

^a Nain is the name of a town in Galilee, which was situate on the other side of Kison, which falleth into the sea of Galilee.

A. D. 31. they glorified God, saying, A great Prophet is risen among us, and God hath visited his people.

17 And this rumour of him went forth throughout all Judea, and throughout all the region round about.

18 And the disciples of John shewed him of all these things.

19 So John called unto him two certain men of his disciples, and sent them to Jesus, saying, Art thou he that should come, or shall we wait for another?

20 And when the men were come unto him, they said, John Baptist hath sent us unto thee, saying, Art thou he that should come, or shall we wait for another?

21 And at that time he cured many of their sicknesses, and plagues, and of evil spirits, and unto many blind men he gave sight freely.

22 And Jesus answered, and said unto them, Go your ways, and shew John what things ye have seen and heard: that the blind see, the halt go, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, and the poor receive the gospel.

23 And blessed is he that shall not be offended in me.

24 And when the messengers of John were departed, he began to speak unto the people, of John, What went ye out into the wilderness to see? A reed shaken with the wind?

25 But what went you out to see? A man clothed in soft raiment? behold, they which are gorgeously apparelled, and live delicately, are in kings courts.

26 But what went ye forth to see? A prophet? yea, I say unto you, and greater than a prophet.

27 This is he of whom it is written, * Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.

28 For I say unto you, there is no greater prophet than John, among them that are begotten of women: nevertheless, he that is the least in the kingdom of God, is greater than he.

29 Then all the people that heard, and the Publicans justified God, being baptized with the baptism of John.

30 But the Pharisees and the expounders of the law despised the counsel of God against themselves, and were not baptized of him.

31 And the Lord said, Whereunto shall I liken the men of this generation? and what thing are they like unto?

32 They are like unto little children sitting in the market place, and crying one to another, and saying, We have piped unto you, and ye have not danced: we have mourned to you, and ye have not wept.

33 For John Baptist came neither eating bread, nor drinking wine: and ye say, He hath the devil.

34 The Son of man is come, and eateth and drinketh: and ye say, Behold, a man which is a glutton, and a drinker of wine, a friend of Publicans and sinners:

35 But wisdom is justified of all her children.

36 ¶ And one of the Pharisees desired him that he would eat with him: and he went into the Pharisee's house, and sat down at table.

37 And behold, a woman in the city, which was a sinner, when she knew that Jesus sat at table in the Pharisee's house, she brought a box of ointment:

38 And she stood at his feet behind him weeping, and began to wash his feet with tears, and did wipe them with the hairs of her head, and kissed his feet, and anointed them with the ointment.

39 Now when the Pharisee which bade him, saw it, he spake within himself, saying, If this man were a prophet, he would surely have known who, and what manner of woman this is which toucheth him, for she is a sinner.

40 And Jesus answered, and said unto him, Simon, I have somewhat to say unto thee. And he said, Master, say on.

41 There was a certain lender which had two debtors: the one owed five hundred pence, and the other fifty:

42 When they had nothing to pay, he forgave them both: Which of them therefore, tell me, will love him most?

43 Simon answered, and said, I suppose that he, to whom he forgave most. And he said unto him, Thou hast truly judged.

44 Then he turned to the woman, and said unto Simon, See'st thou this woman? I entered into thine house, and thou gavest me no water to my feet: but she hath washed my feet with tears, and wiped them with the hairs of her head.

45 Thou gavest me no kiss: but she, since the time I came in, hath not ceased to kiss my feet.

46 Mine head with oil thou didst not anoint: but she hath anointed my feet with ointment.

47 Wherefore I say unto thee, Many sins are forgiven her: for she loved much. To whom a little is forgiven, he doth love a little.

48 And he said unto her, Thy sins are forgiven thee.

49 And

* John sendeth from the prison his unbelieving disciples, to Christ himself to be confirmed.

† When John's disciples came to Christ.

‡ That which the prophets shewed long before, John sheweth at hand; and Christ himself doth present it daily unto us in the gospel, but for the most part in vain, for that many seek nothing else but foolish toys and vain glory.

§ Said that he was just, good, faithful and merciful.

¶ To their own hurt.

‡ What way soever God followeth in offering us the gospel, the most part of men procure offences unto themselves; yet notwithstanding some church is gathered together.

§ Proud men deprive themselves of the benefits of the presence of Christ, even then, when he is at home with them in their houses, which the humble and base do enjoy.

¶ Rashness is the fellow of pride.

‡ The Pharisee respecteth the law, which holdeth them defiled that touch the defiled.

§ To love Christ, is a sure and perpetual witness of remission of sins.

¶ That is, saith Theophylact, she hath shewed her faith abundantly. And Basil, in his Sermon of Baptism saith, He that oweth much, hath much forgiven him, that he may love much more. And therefore Christ's saying is so plain by the similitude, that it is a wonder to see the enemies of the truth draw and rack this place so fondly, to establish their meritorious works; for the greater sum a man hath forgiven him, the more he loveth him that hath been so gracious to him. And this woman sheweth by duties of love, how great the benefit was she had received. And therefore the charity that is here spoken of, is not to be taken for the cause, but as a sign: for Christ saith not as the Pharisees did, that she was a sinner, but beareth her witness that the sins of her life past are forgiven her.

A. D. 31. 49 And they that sat at table with him, began to say within themselves, Who is this that even forgiveth sins?

50 And he said to the woman, Thy faith hath saved thee: ^a go in peace.

2 Women that minister unto Christ of their substance.

4 The parable of the sower. 16 The candle. 19 Christ's mother and brethren. 22 He rebuketh the winds. 26 Of Legion. 37 The Gadarenes reject Christ. 41 Jairus's daughter healed. 43 The woman delivered from the issue of blood. 52 Weeping for the dead.

AND it came to pass afterward, that he himself went through every city and town, preaching and publishing the kingdom of God, and the twelve were with him,

2 And certain women, which were healed of evil spirits, and infirmities, as ^{*} Mary which was called Magdalene, out of whom went seven devils:

3 And Joanna the wife of Chuza, Herod's steward, and Susanna, and many other which ministered unto him of their substance.

4 ^{*} Now when much people were gathered together, and were come unto him out of all cities, he spake by a parable.

5 A sower went out to sow his seed: and as he sowed, some fell by the way's side, and it was trodden under feet, and the fowls of heaven devoured it up.

6 And some fell on the stones, and when it was sprung up, it withered away, because it lacked moistness.

7 And some fell among thorns, and the thorns sprang up with it, and choaked it.

8 And some fell on good ground, and sprang up, and bare fruit, an hundred-fold. And as he said these things, he cried, He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

9 Then his disciples asked him, demanding what parable that was.

10 And he said, Unto you it is given to know the ^a secrets of the kingdom of God, but to other in parables, that when ^{*} they see, they should not see: and when they hear, they should not understand.

11 ^{*} The parable is this, The seed is the word of God.

12 And they that are beside the way, are they that hear: afterward cometh the devil, and taketh away the word out of their hearts, lest they should believe, and be saved.

13 But they that are on the stones, are they

^s He confirmeth the benefit which he had bestowed with a blessing.

^t The self-same gospel is sown every where, but not with like fruit: and that through the only fault of men themselves.

^u These things are called secret, which may not be uttered: for the word used here, is as much as we say in our tongue, to hold a man's peace.

^v That is, so soon as they have heard the word, they go about their business.

^w They bring not forth perfect and full fruit to the ripening: or they begin, but they bring not to an end.

^x Which seeketh not only to seem such a one, but is so indeed: so that this word, Honest, respecteth the outward life; and the word Good, is referred to the good gifts of the mind.

^y With much ado, for the devil and the flesh fight against the Spirit of God, which is a new guest.

^z That that every man hath received in private, he ought to bestow to the use and profit of all men.

^{aa} Heavenly gifts are lost with niggardliness, and increase with liberality.

which when they have heard, receive the word with joy, but they have no roots: which for a while believe, but in the time of temptation go away.

14 And that which fell among thorns, are they which have heard, and after ^b their departure are choaked with cares, and with riches, and voluptuous living, and ^c bring forth no fruit.

15 But that which fell in good ground, are they which with an ^d honest and good heart hear the word, ^e and keep it, and bring forth fruit with patience.

16 ¶ ^{*} No man when he hath lighted a candle covereth it under a vessel, neither putteth it under the bed, but setteth it on a candlestick, that they that enter in may see the light.

17 ^{*} For nothing is secret, that shall not be evident: neither any thing hid, that shall not be known, and come to light.

18 ³ Take heed therefore how ye hear: for ^{*} whosoever hath, to him shall be given: and whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken even that ² which it seemeth that he hath.

19 ¶ ^{*} Then came to him his mother and his brethren, and could not come near to him for the press.

20 And it was told him by certain which said, Thy mother and thy brethren stand without, and would see thee.

21 But he answered and said unto them, My mother and my brethren are these which hear the word of God and do it.

22 ¶ ^{*} And it came to pass on a certain day, that he went into a ship with his disciples, and he said unto them, Let us go over unto the other side of the lake. And they launched forth.

23 And as they sailed, he ^b fell asleep, and there came down a storm of wind on the lake, and ⁱ they were filled with water, and were in jeopardy.

24 Then they went to him, and awoke him, saying, Master, Master, we perish. And he arose, and rebuked the wind, and the waves of water: and they ceased, and it was calm.

25 Then he said unto them, Where is your faith? and they feared, and wondered among themselves, saying, Who is this that commandeth both the winds and water, and they obey him!

26 ¶ ^{*} So they sailed unto the region of the Gadarenes, which is over-against Galilee.

^f That is, with what minds you come to hear the word, and how you behave yourselves, when you have heard it.

^g Either to himself, or to others, or to both; for there are none so proud as these fellows, if it were possible to see that that they cloke; neither are there that deceive the simple more than they do.

^h There is no knot of flesh and blood among men so nigh and straight, as the band which is between Christ, and them who embrace him with a true faith.

ⁱ It is expedient for us sometimes to come into extreme danger, as though Christ passed not for us, that we may have a better trial, both of his power, and also of our weakness.

^j Jesus fell asleep, and it appeareth that he was very fast asleep, because they called him twice before he awoke.

^k Not the disciples, but the ship.

^l Christ sheweth by casting out a Legion of devils, by his word only, that his heavenly virtue was appointed to deliver men from the slavery of the devil: but foolish men will not, for the most part, redeem this so excellent grace freely offered unto them, with the least loss of their pelting self.

28 And when he saw Jesus, he cried out, and fell down before him, and with a loud voice said, What have I to do with thee, Jesus, the Son of God the most High? I beseech thee torment me not.

29 For he commanded the foul spirit to come out of the man: (for oft-times he had caught him: therefore he was bound with chains, and kept in fetters: but he brake the bands, and was carried of the devil into the wilderness.)

30 Then Jesus asked him, saying, What is thy name? and he said, Legion, because many devils were entered into him.

31 And they besought him, that he would not command them to go out into the deep.

32 And there was thereby an herd of many swine, feeding on an hill: and the devils besought him, that he would suffer them to enter into them. So he suffered them.

33 Then went the devils out of the man, and entered into the swine: and the herd was carried with violence from a steep place down into the lake, and was choked.

34 When the herdmen saw what was done, they fled: and when they were departed, they told it in the city, and in the country.

35 Then they came out to see what was done, and came to Jesus, and found the man out of whom the devils were departed sitting at the feet of Jesus, clothed, and in his right mind: and they were afraid.

36 They also which saw it, told them by what means he that was possessed with the devil was healed.

37 Then the whole multitude of the country about the Gadarenes besought him that he would depart from them: for they were taken with a great fear: and he went into the ship, and returned.

38 Then the man, out of whom the devils were departed, besought him that he might be with him: but Jesus sent him away, saying, 39 Return into thine own house, and shew what great things God hath done to thee. So he went his way, and preached¹ throughout all the city, what great things Jesus had done unto him.

46 And Jesus said, Some one hath touched me: for I perceive that virtue is gone out of me.

47 When the woman saw that she was not hid, she came trembling, and fell down before him, and told him before all the people for what cause she had touched him, and how she was healed immediately.

48 And he said unto her, Daughter, be of good comfort: thy faith hath saved thee: go in peace.)

49 While he yet spake, there came one from the ruler of the synagogue's house, which said to him, Thy daughter is dead: disease not the Master.

50 When Jesus heard it, he answered him, saying, Fear not: believe only, and she shall be saved.

51 And when he went into the house, he suffered no man to go in with him, save Peter, and James, and John, and the father and mother of the maid.

52 And all wept, and⁴ sorrowed for her: but he said, Weep not: for she is not dead, but sleepeth.

53 And they laughed him to scorn, knowing that she was dead.

54 So he thrust them all out, and took her by the hand, and cried, saying, Maid, arise.

⁴ The word signifieth to beat and strike, and is transferred to the mournings and lamentations that are at burials, at which times men use such kind of behaviour.

⁶ The twelve apostles are sent forth at the only commandment of Christ, and furnished with the power of the Holy Ghost: both that none of the Israelites might pretend ignorance, and also that they might be better prepared to their general embassy.

The apostles sent out.

3 And he said to them, * Take nothing to your journey, neither staves nor scrip, neither bread nor silver, neither have two coats apiece.
 4 And whatsoever house ye enter into, there abide, and thence depart.
 5 And how many soever will not receive you, when ye go out of that city, * shake off the very dust from your feet, for a testimony against them.
 6 And they went out; and went through every town, preaching the gospel, and healing every where.
 7 ¶ * Now Herod the tetrarch heard of all that was done by him: and he ^b doubted, because that it was said of some, that John was risen again from the dead:
 8 And of some, that Elias had appeared: and of some, that one of the old prophets was risen again.
 9 Then Herod said, John have I beheaded: who then is this of whom I hear such things? and he desired to see him.
 10 ¶ * ³ And when the apostles returned, they told him what great things they had done.
 11 Then he took them to him, and went aside into a ^c solitary place; near to the city called Bethsaida.
 12 But when the people knew it, they followed him: and he received them, and spake unto them of the kingdom of God; and healed them that had need to be healed.
 13 * And when the day began to wear away, the twelve came; and said unto him, Send the people away, that they may go into the towns and villages round about, and lodge, and get meat: for we are here in a desert place.
 14 But he said unto them, Give ye them to eat. And they said, We have no more but five loaves and two fishes, ^d except we should go and buy meat for all this people.
 15 For they were about five thousand men. Then he said to his disciples, Cause them to sit down by fifties in a company.
 16 And they did so, and caused all to sit down.
 17 Then he took the five loaves, and the two fishes, and looked up to heaven, and ^e blessed them, and brake, and gave to the disciples, to set before the people.
 18 So they did all eat, and were satisfied: and there was taken up of that remained to them twelve baskets full of broken meat.
 19 ¶ * ⁴ And it came to pass, as he was ^f alone praying, his disciples were with him: and he asked them, saying, Whom say the people that I am?
 20 They answered, and said, John Baptist:

and others say, Elias: and some say, that one of the old prophets is risen again.
 20 And he said unto them, But whom say ye that I am? Peter answered, and said, That Christ of God.
 21 And he warned and commanded them, that they should tell that to no man, 22 ⁵ Saying, * The Son of man must suffer many things, and be reprov'd of the elders, and of the high priests and Scribes, and be slain, and the third day rise again.
 23 ¶ * And he said to them all, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross ⁶ daily, and follow me.
 24 * For whosoever will save his life, shall lose it: and whosoever shall lose his life for my sake, the same shall save it.
 25 * For what advantageth it a man, if he win the whole world, and destroy himself, or lose himself?
 26 * For whosoever shall be ashamed of me, and of my words, of him shall the Son of man be ashamed, when he shall come in his glory, and in the glory of the Father, and of the holy angels.
 27 * And I tell you of a surety, there be some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they have seen the kingdom of God.
 28 * ⁶ And it came to pass about an eight days after those words, that he took Peter, and John, and James, and went up into a mountain to pray.
 29 And as he prayed, the fashion of his countenance was changed, and his garment was white and glittered.
 30 And behold, two men talked with him; which were Moses and Elias:
 31 Which appeared in glory, and told of his ^h his departing, which he should accomplish at Jerusalem.
 32 But Peter and they that were with him, were heavy with sleep: and when they awoke, they saw his glory, and the two men standing with him.
 33 And it came to pass, as they departed from him, Peter said unto Jesus, Master, it is good for us to be here: let us therefore make three tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias: and wist not what he said.
 34 While he thus spake, there came a cloud, and overshadowed them, and they feared when they were entering into the cloud.
 35 * And there came a voice out of the cloud, saying, This is that my beloved Son, hear him.
 36 And when the voice was past, Jesus was found alone: and they kept it close, and told no man

^a When you depart out of any city, depart from thence, where you first took up your lodging: so that in few words the Lord forbiddeth them to change their lodgings; for the publishing of this gospel, was as it were a thorough passage, that none of Judea might pretend ignorance, as though he had not heard that Christ was come.
^b So soon as the world heareth tidings of the gospel, it is divided into divers opinions, and the tyrants especially are afraid.
^c He stuck, as it were, fast in the mire.
^d They shall lack nothing that follow Christ, no not in the wilderness.
^e The word signifieth a desert: note, this was not in the town Bethsaida, but part of the fields belonging to the town.
^f This is imperfectly spoken, and therefore we must understand something, as this, We cannot give them to eat, unless we go and buy, &c.
^g He gave God thanks for these loaves and fishes, and withal prayed him to feed this so great a multitude with so small a quantity, and to be short, that this whole banquet might be to the glory of God.

^h Although the world be tossed up and down, betwixt divers errors, yet we ought not to contemn the truth, but be so much the more desirous to know it, and be more constant to confess it.
ⁱ Alone from the people.
^j Christ himself attained to the heavenly glory, by the cross and invincible patience.
^k Even as one day followeth another, so doth one cross follow another, and the cross is by the figure Metonymia taken for the miseries of this life: for to be hanged, was the sorest and cruellest punishment that was amongst the Jews.
^l Lest the disciples of Christ should be offended at the debasing himself in his flesh, he teacheth them that it is voluntary, shewing therewithal for a space, the brightness of his glory.
^m What death he should die in Jerusalem.

40 Now I have besought thy disciples to cast him out, but they could not.

41 Then Jesus answered, and said, O generation faithless and crooked, how long now shall I be with you, and suffer you? bring thy son hither.

42 And while he was yet coming, the devil rent him, and tare him: and Jesus rebuked the unclean spirit, and healed the child, and delivered him to his father.

¹ Until Christ was risen again from the dead.

² Christ is offended with nothing so much as with incredulity, although he bear with it for a time.

³ As it saith in the falling sickness.

⁴ We have no cause to promise ourselves rest and quietness in this world, seeing that they themselves which seemed to fawn upon Christ, do shortly after crucify him.

⁵ Give diligent ear unto them, and when you have once heard them, see that you keep them.

⁶ The end of ambition is ignominy: but the end of modest obedience is glory.

⁷ Extraordinary things are neither rashly to be allowed nor condemned.

⁸ Christ goeth willingly to death.

⁹ Word for word, he hardened his face: that is, he resolved with himself to die, and therefore ventured upon his journey, and cast away all fear of death, and went on.

¹⁰ We must take heed of the immoderateness of zeal and fond imitation, even in good causes, that whatsoever we do we do it to God's glory, and the profit of our neighbour.

¹¹ So speak the Hebrews, that is, you know not what will, mind, and counsel you are of: so the gifts of God are called the Spirit, because they are given of God's Spirit, and went and entered into a town of the Samaritans, to prepare him lodging.

57 ¶ And it came to pass, that as they went in the way, * a certain man said unto him, I will follow thee, Lord, whithersoever thou goest.

58 And Jesus said unto him, The foxes have holes, and the birds of the heaven nests, but the Son of man hath not whereon to lay his head.

60 And Jesus said unto him, Let the dead bury their dead: but go thou, and preach the kingdom of God.

61 ¶ Then another said, I will follow thee, Lord: but let me first go bid them farewell which are at mine house.

62 And Jesus said unto him, No man that putteth his hand to the plough, and looketh back, is apt to the kingdom of God.

CHAP. X.

1 The seventy disciples. 10 The unthankful cities charged with impiety. 17 The disciples returning home, are warned to be humble. 30 Who is our neighbour. 38 Of Martha and her sister Mary.

AFTER * these things, the Lord appointed other seventy also, and sent them two and two before him, into every city and place, whither he himself should come.

2 And he said unto them, * The harvest is great, but the labourers are few: pray therefore the Lord of the harvest to send forth labourers into his harvest.

3 * Go your ways: behold, I send you forth as lambs among wolves.

4 Bear no bag, neither scrip, nor shoes, and salute * no man by the way.

5 * And into whatsoever house ye enter, first say, Peace be to this house.

6 And so are they that are contrary to them which proceed of the wicked spirit of covetousness, of pride, and madness.

¹³ Such as follow Christ, must prepare themselves to suffer all discommodities.

¹⁴ The calling of God ought to be preferred, without all controversy, before all duties that we owe to man.

¹⁵ Who notwithstanding that they live in this frail life of man, yet are strangers from the true life, which is everlasting and heavenly.

¹⁶ Such as follow Christ, must at once renounce all worldly cares.

¹⁷ The seventy are sent as the second forewarners of the coming of Christ.

¹⁸ The faithful ministers of the word are in this world as lambs among wolves: but if they be diligent to do their duty, he that sent them will also preserve them.

¹⁹ This is spoken after the manner of a figure, which men use when they put down more in words than is meant: usual among the Hebrews, when they command a thing to be done speedily without delay, as 2 Kings 4. 29. for otherwise courteous and gentle salutations are points of christian duties: as for this calling, it was but for a season.

A. D. 38 ¶ Now it came to pass, as they went, that he entered into a certain town, and a certain woman named Martha received him into her house.

39 And she had a sister called Mary, which also sat at Jesus' feet, and heard his preaching.

40 But Martha was cumbered about much serving: and came unto him, and said, Master, dost thou not care that my sister hath left me to serve alone? bid her therefore that she help me.

41 And Jesus answered, and said unto her, Martha, Martha, thou carest and art troubled about many things:

42 But one thing is needful: Mary hath chosen the good part, which shall not be taken away from her.

C H A P. XI.

1 He teacheth his apostles to pray. 14 The dumb devil driven out. 27 A woman of the company lifteth up her voice. 29 The Jews require signs. 37 He being feasted of the Pharisee, reproveth the outward shew of holiness.

AND so it was, that as he was praying in a certain place, when he ceased, one of his disciples said unto him, Lord, teach us to pray, as John also taught his disciples.

2 ¶ And he said unto them, When ye pray, say, Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name: Thy kingdom come: Let thy will be done, even in earth, as it is in heaven:

3 Our daily bread give us^a for the day:

4 And forgive us our sins: for even we forgive every man that is indebted to us: And lead us not into temptation: but deliver us from evil.

5 ¶ Moreover he said unto them, Which of you shall have a friend, and shall go to him at midnight, and say unto him, Friend, lend me three loaves:

6 For a friend of mine is come out of the way to me, and I have nothing to set before him:

7 And he within should answer, and say, Trouble me not: the door is now shut, and my children are with me in bed: I cannot rise and give them to thee.

8 I say unto you, Though he would not rise and give him, because he is his friend, yet doubtless because of his^b importunity, he would rise, and give him as many as he needed.

9 ¶ And I say unto you, Ask, and it shall be given you: seek, and ye shall find: knock, and it shall be opened unto you.

10 ¶ For every one that asketh, receiveth: and he that seeketh, findeth: and to him that knocketh, it shall be opened.

11 ¶ If a son shall ask bread of any of you that is a father, will he give him a stone? or if he ask a fish, will he for a fish give him a serpent? Or if he ask an egg, will he give him a scorpion?

13 If ye then which are evil, can give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your heavenly Father give the Holy Ghost to them that desire him?

14 ¶ Then he cast out a devil which was dumb: and when the devil was gone out, the dumb spake, and the people wondered.

15 ¶ But some of them said, He casteth out devils through Beelzebub, the chief of the devils.

16 And others tempted him, seeking of him a sign from heaven.

17 ¶ But he knew their thoughts, and said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself shall be desolate, and an house divided against an house, falleth.

18 So if Satan also be divided against himself, how shall his kingdom stand? because ye say that I cast out devils through Beelzebub.

19 If I through Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your children cast them out? Therefore shall they be your judges.

20 But if I by the^d finger of God cast out devils, doubtless the kingdom of God is come unto you.

21 When a strong man armed keepeth his palace, the things that he possesseth are in peace.

22 But when a stronger than he cometh upon him, and overcometh him, he taketh from him all his armour wherein he trusted, and divideth his spoils.

23 ¶ He that is not with me, is against me: and he that gathereth not with me, scattereth.

24 ¶ When the unclean spirit is gone out of a man, he walketh through dry places, seeking rest: and when he findeth none, he saith, I will return unto mine house whence I came out.

25 And when he cometh, he findeth it swept and garnished.

26 Then goeth he, and taketh to him seven other spirits worse than himself: and they enter in, and dwell there: so the last state of that man is worse than the first.

27 ¶ And it came to pass, as he said these things, a certain woman of the company lifted up her voice, and said unto him, Blessed is the womb that bare thee, and the paps which thou hast sucked.

28 But he said, Yea, rather blessed are they that hear the word of God, and keep it.

29 ¶ And

^a Christ careth not to be entertained delicately, but to be heard diligently, that is it which he especially requireth.

^b A form of true prayer.

^c That is, as much as is needful for us this day; whereby we are not debarred to have an honest care for the maintenance of our lives, but that carping care, which killeth a number of men, is cut off and restrained.

^d We must pray with faith.

^e Word for word, impudency: but that impudency which is spoken of here, is not to be found fault withal, but is very commendable before God, for he liketh well of such importunity.

^f An example of horrible blindness, and such as cannot be healed, when as upon an evil conscience, and pretended malice, the power of God is blasphemed.

^g The true way to know the true Christ from the false.

is this, that the true Christ hath no accord or agreement with Satan. And it remaineth, that after we know him, we acknowledge him.

^h By the name and power of Beelzebub.

ⁱ That is, by the power of God: so it is said Exod. 8. 19.

^k The word signifieth properly an open and void room before an house, and so by translation is taken for noble-men's houses.

^l Against indifferent men, and such as love to have a mean, which seek means to reconcile Christ and Satan together.

^m He that doth not continue, is in worse case than he that never began.

ⁿ Christ seeketh not praise in himself, but in our salvation.

A. D. 29 ¶ * And when the people were gathered thick together, he began to say, This is a wicked generation: they seek a sign, and there shall no sign be given them, but the sign of * Jonas the prophet.

30 For as Jonas was a sign to the Ninevites: so also shall the Son of man be to this generation.

31 ¶ The queen of the South shall rise in judgment with the men of this generation, and shall condemn them: for she came from the utmost parts of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon, and behold, a greater than Solomon is here.

32 The men of Nineveh shall rise in judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: for they * repented at the preaching of Jonas: and behold, a greater than Jonas is here.

33 ¶ * No man, when he hath lighted a candle, putteth it in a private place, neither under a bushel, but on a candlestick, that they which come in may see the light.

34 ¶ The light of the body is the eye: therefore when thine eye is single, then is thy whole body light: but if thine eye be evil, then thy body is dark.

35 Take heed therefore, that the light which is in thee be not darkness.

36 If therefore thy whole body shall be light, having no part dark, then shall all be light, even as when a candle doth light thee with the brightness.

37 ¶ ¹⁰ And as he spake, a certain Pharisee belought him to dine with him: and he went in, and sat down at table.

38 And when the Pharisee saw it, he marvelled that he had not first washed before dinner.

39 ¶ And the Lord said to him, Indeed ye Pharisees make clean the outside of the cup, and of the platter: but the inward part is full of ravening and wickedness.

40 Ye fools, did not he that made that which is without, make that which is within also?

41 Therefore give alms ^f of those things which you have, and behold, all things shall be clean unto you.

42 ¶ ¹¹ But woe be to you, Pharisees: for ye ^e tithe the mint and the rue, and ^h all manner of herbs, and pass over ⁱ judgment, and the love of God: these ought ye to have done, and not to have left the other undone.

43 ¶ ¹² Woe be to you, Pharisees: for ye love the uppermost seats in the synagogues, and greetings in the markets.

44 ¶ ¹³ Woe be to you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites: * for ye are as graves which appear not, and the men that walk over them, perceive not.

45 ¶ ¹⁴ Then answered one of the lawyers, and said unto him, Master, thus saying, thou puttest us to rebuke also.

46 And he said, Woe be to you also, ye lawyers: * for ye lade men with burdens grievous to be borne, and ye yourselves touch not the burdens with one of your fingers.

47 ¶ ¹⁵ Woe be to you: * for ye build the sepulchres of the prophets, and your fathers killed them.

48 Truly ^k ye bear witness, and allow the deeds of your fathers: for they killed them, and ye build their sepulchres.

49 Therefore said the wisdom of God, I will send them prophets and apostles, and of them they shall slay, and ^l persecute away,

50 That the blood of all the prophets, ^m shed from the foundation of the world, may be required of this generation:

51 From the blood of * Abel unto the blood of * Zacharias, which was slain between the altar and the temple: verily I say unto you, it shall be required of this generation.

52 ¶ ¹⁶ Woe be to you, lawyers: for ye have ⁿ taken away the key of knowledge: ye entered not in yourselves, and them that came in, ye forbade.

53 ¶ ¹⁷ And as he said these things unto them, the Scribes and Pharisees began to urge him fore, and to ^o provoke him to speak of many things, 54 Laying wait for him, and seeking to catch something of his mouth, whereby they might accuse him.

IN

* They that are fond desirers of miracles, instead of miracles, shall receive punishment.

⁹ Our minds are therefore lightened with the knowledge of God, that we should give light unto others, and therefore our chiefest labour ought to be to pray for that light.

¹⁰ The service of God consisteth not in outward cleanliness and devised rites, or ceremonies, but in the spiritual righteousness of the heart and charity.

^f That is, according to your ability: as who would say, instead of your extortions, which hindered you, that you could not eat cleanly, use charity, and, according as your ability shall serve you, be good to the poor, and so shall that, that is within the platter, be sanctified, though the platter be unwashed.

¹¹ It is the property of hypocrites to stand stoutly for little trifles, and let pass greater matters.

^e You decide by God's law, that the tenth part is due to be paid.

^h Of all kinds of herbs some, as Augustine expoundeth it in his Enchiridion to Laurence, cap. 99. where he sheweth, in like sort, how that place of Paul, 1 Tim. 2. 4. God will have all men to be saved, is to be expounded after the same manner.

ⁱ That is to say, that is right and reason to do: for this word judgment, containeth the commandments of the second table, and the other words, the love of God, containeth the first.

¹² Hypocrisy and ambition are commonly joined together.

¹³ Hypocrites deceive men with an outward shew.

¹⁴ Hypocrites are very severe against other men, but think all things lawful to themselves.

¹⁵ Hypocrites honour those saints when they are dead, whom they most cruelly persecute when they are alive.

^k When you persecute God's servants, like madmen, even as your fathers did, though you colour it with a pretence of godliness, yet notwithstanding, in that you beautify the sepulchres of the prophets, what do you else but glory in your fathers cruelty, and set up monuments (as it were) in glory and triumph of it?

^l They shall so vex and trouble them, that at length they shall banish them.

^m That you may be called to an account for it, yea, and be punished for the shedding of that blood of the prophets.

ⁿ They have of long time chiefly hindered the people from entering into the knowledge of God, which ought to be the door-keepers of the church.

^o You have hidden and taken away, so that it cannot be found any where.

¹⁷ The more the world is reprehended, the worse it is, and yet mult we not betray the truth.

^p They proposed many questions to him, to draw something out of his mouth, which they might traiterously carp at.

A. D. 11 ¹ At the mean time there gathered together
¹² an innumerable multitude of people, so
¹³ that they trod one another: and he began ¹⁴ to say unto his disciples first, Take heed to ¹⁵ yourselves of the leaven of the Pharisees, which ¹⁶ is hypocrisy.

¹⁷ For there is nothing covered, that shall ¹⁸ not be revealed: neither hid, that shall not be ¹⁹ known.

²⁰ Wherefore whatsoever ye have spoken in ²¹ darkness, it shall be heard in the light: and that ²² which ye have spoken in the ear, in secret places,
²³ shall be preached on the houses.

²⁴ And I say unto you, my friends, be not ²⁵ afraid of them that kill the body, and after that ²⁶ are not able to do any more.

²⁷ But I will ²⁸ forewarn you, whom ye shall ²⁹ fear: fear him, which after he hath killed, hath ³⁰ power to cast into hell: yea, I say unto you,
³¹ him fear.

³² Are not five sparrows bought for two ³³ farthings, and yet not one of them is forgotten
³⁴ before God?

³⁵ Yea, and all the hairs of your head are ³⁶ numbered: fear not therefore: ye are more of ³⁷ value than many sparrows.

³⁸ Also I say unto you, Whosoever shall ³⁹ confess me before men, him shall the Son of man
⁴⁰ confess also before the angels of God.

⁴¹ But he that shall deny me before men,
⁴² shall be denied before the angels of God.

⁴³ And whosoever shall speak a word
⁴⁴ against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven ⁴⁵ him: but unto him that shall blaspheme the ⁴⁶ Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven.

⁴⁷ And when they shall bring you into ⁴⁸ the synagogues, and unto the rulers and prin-⁴⁹ ces, take no thought how, or what thing ye
⁵⁰ shall answer, or what ye shall speak.

⁵¹ For the Holy Ghost shall teach you in the ⁵² same hour what ye ought to say.

⁵³ And one of the company said unto him,
⁵⁴ Master, bid my brother divide the inheritance
⁵⁵ with me.

⁵⁶ And he said unto him, Man, who made ⁵⁷ me a judge, or a divider over you?

⁵⁸ Wherefore he said unto them, Take heed,
⁵⁹ and beware of ⁶⁰ covetousness: for though a man have abundance, yet his life ¹ standeth not in his ² riches. A. D. 33.

³ And he put forth a parable unto them,
⁴ saying, The ⁵ ground of a certain rich man
⁶ brought forth fruits plenteously.

⁷ Therefore he ⁸ thought with himself, say-
⁹ ing, What shall I do, because I have no ¹⁰ room, ¹¹ where I may lay up my fruits?

¹² And he said, This will I do, I will pull
¹³ down my barns, and build greater, and therein
¹⁴ will I gather all my fruits, and goods.

¹⁵ And I will say to my soul, Soul, thou hast
¹⁶ much goods laid up for many years: live at ease,
¹⁷ eat, drink, and ¹⁸ take thy pastime.

¹⁹ But God said unto him, O fool, this night
²⁰ will they fetch away thy soul from thee: then ²¹ whose shall those things be which thou hast pro-²² vided?

²³ So is he that gathereth riches ²⁴ to himself,
²⁵ and is not rich in God.

²⁶ And he spake unto his disciples, There-²⁷ fore I say unto you, ²⁸ Take no thought for your ²⁹ life, what ye shall eat: neither for your body, ³⁰ what ye shall put on. ³¹ Mar. 1. 25. 1 Pet. 5. 7. Pl. 55. 22.

³² The life is more than meat: and the body
³³ more than the raiment.

³⁴ Consider the ravens: for they neither sow ³⁵ nor reap: which neither have storehouse nor ³⁶ barn, and yet God feedeth them: how much ³⁷ more are ye better than fowls?

³⁸ And which of you with taking thought
³⁹ can add to his stature one cubit?

⁴⁰ If ye then be not able to do the least thing,
⁴¹ why take ye thought for the remnant?

⁴² Consider the lilies how they grow: they ⁴³ labour not, neither spin they: yet I say unto ⁴⁴ you, that Solomon himself in all his royalty was ⁴⁵ not clothed like one of these.

⁴⁶ If then God so cloath the grass which is ⁴⁷ to-day in the field, and to-morrow is cast into ⁴⁸ the oven, how much more will he cloath you, O
⁴⁹ ye of little faith?

⁵⁰ Therefore ask not what ye shall eat, or ⁵¹ what ye shall drink, neither ⁵² hang you in sus-⁵³ pense.

⁵⁴ For all such things the people of the ⁵⁵ world seek for: and your Father knoweth that ⁵⁶ ye have need of these things.

31 But

² pointed by him for his people, must both take good heed of ³ them which corrupt the purity of doctrine with goodly gloss-
⁴ es, and also take pains, through the help of God, to set ⁵ forth sincere doctrine, openly without fear.

⁶ Word for word, ten thousands of people, a certain num-
⁷ ber for an uncertain.

⁸ Although hypocrites have princes to execute their ⁹ cruelty, yet there is no cause why we should be afraid of ¹⁰ them the least jot that may be, seeing they can do nothing
¹¹ but what pleaseth God, and God will not any thing that ¹² may be against the salvation of his elect.

¹³ He warneth them of dangers that presently hang over ¹⁴ their heads, for those that come upon the sudden, do make ¹⁵ the greater wound.

¹⁶ Great is the reward of a constant confession, and hor-
¹⁷ rible is the punishment of the denying of Christ, yea, im-¹⁸ possible to be called back again shall the punishment be, if ¹⁹ upon set purpose, both with mouth and heart, we blaspheme ²⁰ a known truth.

²¹ It is a great and hard conflict to confess the truth, yet
²² he that can do all things, and is almighty, will not be ²³ wanting to the weakest, which strive and contend in his ap-²⁴ pointed time.

²⁵ Christ would not for three causes be a judge to divide ²⁶ an inheritance. First, for that he would not foster up and ²⁷ cherish the Jewish opinion that the Jews had of Messiah:
²⁸ Secondly, for that he would distinguish the civil government from the ecclesiastical: Thirdly, to teach us to beware ² of them which abuse the shew of the gospel, and also the ³ name of ministers, to their own private commodities.

⁴ By covetousness is meant that greedy desire to get,
⁵ commonly with other men's hurt.

⁶ God is the author and preserver of man's life, goods
⁷ are not.

⁸ There are none more mad than rich men, which hang ⁹ upon their riches.

¹⁰ Or rather country, for here is set forth a man that ¹¹ possesseth not a piece of ground only, but an whole coun-¹² try, as they do which join house to house, and field to field, ¹³ Isa. 5. 8.

¹⁴ Made his reckoning with himself, which is the pro-¹⁵ perty of covetous churis, which spend their life in those ¹⁶ trifles.

¹⁷ Be merry and make good cheer.
¹⁸ Caring for no man but for himself, and minding to ¹⁹ trust in himself.

²⁰ An earnest thinking upon the providence of God, is ²¹ a present remedy against the most foolish and pining care-²² fulness of men for this life.

²³ A metaphor taken of things that hang in the air, for ²⁴ they that are careful for this worldly life, and hang upon ²⁵ the arm of man, have always wandering and doubtful ²⁶ minds, swaying sometimes this way, and sometimes that ²⁷ way.

31 * But rather seek ye after the kingdom of God, and all these things shall be cast upon you.

32 * Fear not, little flock: for it is your Father's pleasure to give you the kingdom.

33 ¶ * 10 Sell that ye have, and give alms: make you bags which wax not old, a treasure that can never fail in heaven, where no thief cometh, neither moth corrupteth.

34 For where your treasure is, there will your hearts be also.

35 ¶ * 11 Let your loins be girded about, and your lights burning.

36 And ye yourselves like unto men that wait for their matter, when he will return from the wedding, that when he cometh and knocketh, they may open unto him immediately.

37 Blessed are those servants, whom the Lord when he cometh shall find waking: verily I say unto you, he will gird himself about, and make them to sit down at table, and will come forth, and serve them.

38 And if he come in the second watch, or come in the third watch, and shall find them so, blessed are those servants.

39 * Now understand this, that if the good man of the house had known at what hour the thief would have come, he would have watched and would have not suffered his house to be digged through.

40 * Be ye also prepared therefore: for the Son of man will come at an hour when ye think not.

41 Then Peter said unto him: Master, tellest thou this parable unto us, or even to all?

42 And the Lord said, Who is a faithful steward and wise, whom the master shall make ruler over his household, to give them their portion of meat in season?

43 Blessed is that servant, whom his master when he cometh, shall find so doing.

44 Of a truth I say unto you, that he will make him ruler over all that he hath:

45 But if that servant say in his heart, My matter doth defer his coming, and shall begin to smite the servants, and maidens, and to eat, and drink, and to be drunken,

46 The master of that servant will come in a day when he thinketh not, and at an hour when he is not ware of, and will cut him off, and give him his portion with the unbelievers.

47 ¶ And that servant that knew his master's will, and prepared not himself, neither did according to his will, shall be beaten with many stripes:

* They shall lack nothing which are careful for the kingdom of heaven.

* It is a foolish thing not to look for small things at his hands which giveth us freely the greatest things.

* A godly bountifulness is a ready way to get true riches.

* This is the figure Metonymia, for by this word Alms is meant that compassion and friendliness of an heart, that tendereth the misery and poor estate of a man, and sheweth forth itself by some gift, and hath the name given it in the Greek tongue, of mercy and compassion: and therefore he is said to give alms who parteth with some thing to another, and giveth to the poor, shewing thereby that he pitieth their poor estate.

* The life of the faithful servants of God in this world, is a certain watchful peregrination, having the light of the word going before it.

* None have more need to watch, than they that have some degree of honour in the household of God.

* That is, every month such measure of corn as was appointed them.

* More than of him, to whom so much was not given.

48 But he that knew it not, and yet did commit things worthy of stripes, shall be beaten with few stripes: for unto whomsoever much is given, of him shall be much required: and to whom men much commit, the more of him will they ask.

49 ¶ * I am come to put fire on the earth: and what is my desire, if it be already kindled?

50 Notwithstanding, I must be baptized with a baptism: and how am I grieved, till it be ended!

51 * Think ye that I am come to give peace on earth? I tell you, nay, but rather debate.

52 For from henceforth there shall be five in one house divided, three against two, and two against three.

53 * The father shall be divided against the son, and the son against the father: the mother against the daughter, and the daughter against the mother: the mother-in-law against her daughter-in-law, and the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law.

54 ¶ * 14 Then said he to the people, When ye see a cloud rise out of the West, straightway ye say, a shower cometh: and so it is.

55 And when ye see the south wind blow, ye say, that it will be hot: and it cometh to pass.

56 Hypocrites, ye can discern the face of the earth, and of the sky: but why discern ye not this time?

57 * Yea, and why judge ye not of yourselves what is right?

58 ¶ * While thou goest with thine adversary to the ruler, as thou art in the way, give diligence in the way, that thou mayest be delivered from him, lest he draw thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the jailor, and the jailor cast thee into prison.

59 I tell thee, thou shalt not depart thence, till thou hast payed the utmost mite.

1 Of the Galileans, 4 and those that were slain under Siloam. 6 The fig-tree that bare no fruit. 11 The woman vexed with the spirit of infirmity, that is, with a disease brought on her by Satan, is healed. 19 The parable of the grain of mustard-seed. 21 Of leaven. 23 How few shall be saved. 32 Herod that fox.

THERE were certain men present at the same season, that shewed him of the Galileans, whose blood Pilate had mingled with their sacrifices. 2 And

* 13 The gospel is the only cause of peace betwixt the godly: and so is it the occasion of great trouble among the wicked.

* 14 Men which are very quick of sight in earthly things, are blind in those things which pertain to the heavenly life, and that through their own malice.

* Which appeareth and gathereth itself together in that part of the air.

* 15 Men that are blinded with the love of themselves, and therefore are detestable and stubborn, shall bear the reward of their folly.

* To him that had to demand and gather the amerciaments, which they were condemned unto, that had wrongfully troubled men. Moreover, the magistrates officers make them which are condemned pay that they owe, yea, and oftentimes if they be obstinate, they do not only take the costs and charges of them, but also imprison them.

* We must not rejoice at the just punishment of others, but rather be instructed thereby to repentance.

* Pontius Pilate was governor of Judea almost ten years, and about the fourth year of his government, which might be about the fifteenth year of Tiberius's reign, Christ finished the work of our redemption by his death.

2 And Jesus answered, and said unto them, surprise ye, that these Galileans were greater sinners than all the other Galileans, because they have suffered such things?

3 I tell you, nay: but except ye amend your lives, ye shall likewise perish.

4 Or think you that those eighteen, upon whom the tower in Siloam fell, and slew them, were sinners above all men that dwell in Jerusalem?

5 I tell you, nay: but except ye amend your lives, ye shall all likewise perish.

6 He spake also this parable, A certain man had a fig-tree planted in his vineyard: and he came and sought fruit thereon, and found none.

7 Then said he to the dresser of his vineyard: Behold, these three years have I come and sought fruit of this fig-tree, and find none: cut it down: why keepeth it also the ground barren?

8 And he answered, and said unto him, Lord, let it alone this year also, till I dig round about it, and dung it.

9 And if it bear fruit, well: if not, then after that thou shalt cut it down.

10 And he taught in one of the synagogues on the sabbath day.

11 And behold, there was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could not lift up herself in any wise.

12 When Jesus saw her, he called her to him, and said to her, Woman, thou art loosed from thy disease.

13 And he laid his hands on her, and immediately she was made straight again, and glorified God.

14 And the ruler of the synagogue answered with indignation, because that Jesus healed on the sabbath day, and said unto the people, There are six days in which men ought to work: in them therefore come and be healed, and not on the sabbath day.

15 Then answered him the Lord, and said, Hypocrite, doth not each one of you on the sabbath day loose his ox or his ass from the stall, and lead him away to the water?

16 And ought not this daughter of Abraham, whom Satan had bound, lo eighteen years, be loosed from this bond on the sabbath day?

17 And when he said these things, all his adversaries were ashamed: but all the people rejoiced at all the excellent things that were done by him.

² To wit, in the place or river: for Siloam was a small river, from whence the conduits of the city came, whereof John 9. 7. and Isa. 8. 6. and therefore it was a tower or castle built upon the conduit side, which fell down suddenly and killed some.

³ Great and long suffering is the patience of God, but yet so that at length he executeth judgment.

⁴ Maketh the ground barren in that part which otherwise were good for vines.

⁵ Christ came to deliver us from the bands of Satan.

⁶ Troubled with a disease which Satan brought.

⁷ For Satan had the woman bound, as if she had been in chains, insomuch that for eighteen years space she could not hold up her head.

⁸ A lively image of hypocrisy: a reward thereof.

⁹ One of the rulers of the synagogue, for it appeareth by Mark 5. 22. and Acts 13. 15. that there were many rulers of the synagogue.

¹⁰ God beginneth his kingdom with small beginnings, that the unlooked-for proceeding of it may better set forth his power.

18 ¶ * Then said he, What is the kingdom of God like? or whereto shall I compare it? A. D. 33.

19 ⁵ It is like a grain of mustard-seed, which a man took, and sowed in his garden, and it grew, and waxed a great tree, and the fowls of the heaven made nests in the branches thereof. * Matt. 13. 31. Mark 4. 31.

20 ¶ * And again he said, Whereunto shall I liken the kingdom of God? * Matt. 13. 33.

21 It is like leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three pecks of flour, till all was leavened.

22 ¶ * ⁶ And he went through all cities and towns, teaching, and journeying towards Jerusalem. * Matt. 9. 35. Mark 6. 6.

23 Then said one unto him, Lord, are there few that shall be saved? And he said unto them, 24 * Strive to enter in at the strait gate: for many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in, and shall not be able. * Matt. 7. 13.

25 When the good man of the house is risen up, and hath shut to the door, and ye begin to stand without, and to knock at the door, saying, Lord, Lord, open to us: and he shall answer and say unto you, I know you not whence ye are:

26 ⁷ Then shall ye begin to say, We have eaten and drunk in thy presence, and thou hast taught in our streets.

27 * But he shall say, I tell you, I know you not whence ye are: depart from me, all ye workers of iniquity. * Mark 7. 23. and 27. 31. Pl. 6. 8.

28 ⁸ There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth, when ye shall see Abraham and Isaac, and Jacob, and all the prophets in the kingdom of God, and yourselves thrust out at doors.

29 Then shall come many from the East, and from the West, and from the North, and from the South, and shall sit at table in the kingdom of God.

30 * And behold, there are last, which shall be first: and there are first, which shall be last. * Matt. 19. 30. and 20. 16.

31 ⁹ The same day there came certain Pharisees, and said unto him, Depart, and go hence: for Herod will kill thee. Mark 12. 1.

32 Then said he unto them, Go ye and tell that fox, Behold, I cast out devils, and will heal still to-day, and to-morrow, and the third day I shall be perfected.

33 ¹⁰ Nevertheless, I must walk to-day, and to-morrow, and the day following: for it cannot be that a prophet should perish out of Jerusalem.

34 * O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, which killest the * Matt. 23. 37.

⁶ Against them which had rather eat with many, than go right with a few; and by that means, through their own slowness, are shut out of the kingdom of God.

⁷ He is in vain in the church, which is not of the church, which thing the cleanness of life sheweth.

⁸ The casting-off of the Jews, and the calling of the Gentiles, is foretold.

¹⁰ We must go forward in the case of our calling, through the midst of terrors, whether they be true or feigned.

¹¹ That deceitful and treacherous man.

¹² That is, a small time, and Theophylact saith, it is a proverb: or else, by to-day, we may understand the time that now is; and by to-morrow, the time to come, meaning thereby, all the time of his ministry and office.

¹³ To wit, when the sacrifice for sin is ended.

¹⁴ There are no where more cruel enemies of the godly than they which are within the sanctuary and church itself; but God seeth it, and will in his time have an account of it.

A. D. 33. the prophets, and stonest them that are sent to thee, how often would I have gathered thy children together, as the hen gathereth her¹ brood under her wings, and ye would not!

35 Behold, your house is left unto you desolate: and verily I tell you, ye shall not see me, until the time come that ye shall say, Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord.

C H A P. XIV.

2 The dropsy healed on the sabbath. 8 The chief places at banquets. 12 The poor must be called to our feasts. 16 Of those that were bid to the great supper. 23 Some compelled to come in. 28 One about to build a tower.

AND¹ it came to pass, that when he was entered into the house of² one of the chief Pharisees on the sabbath day, to eat bread, they watched him.

2 And behold, there was a certain man before him which had the dropsy.

3 Then Jesus answering, spake unto the Lawyers and Pharisees, saying, Is it lawful to heal on the sabbath day?

4 And they held their peace. Then he took him, and healed him, and let him go,

5 And answered them, saying, Which of you shall have an ass, or an ox fallen into a pit, and will not straightway pull him out on the sabbath day?

6 And they could not answer him again to those things.

7 ¶³ He spake also a parable to the guests, when he marked how they chose out the chief rooms, and said unto them,

8 When thou shalt be bidden of any man to a wedding, set not thyself down in the chiefest place, lest a more honourable man than thou be bidden of him.

9 And he that bade both him and thee, come, and say to thee, Give this man room, and thou then begin with shame to take the lowest room.

10 * But when thou art bidden, go and sit down in the lowest room, that when he that bade thee, cometh, he may say unto thee, Friend, sit up higher: then shalt thou have worship in the presence of them that sit at table with thee.

11 * For whosoever exalteth himself, shall be brought low: and he that humbleth himself, shall be exalted.

12 ¶⁴ Then said he also to him that had bidden him, * When thou makest a dinner, or a supper, call not thy friends, nor thy brethren, neither thy kinsmen, nor thy rich neighbours, lest they also bid thee again, and recompence be made thee. A. D. 33.

13 But when thou makest a feast, call the poor, the maimed, the lame, and the blind, 14 And thou shalt be blessed, because they cannot recompense thee: for thou shalt be recompensed at the resurrection of the just.

15 ¶ Now when one of them that sat at table heard these things, he said unto him, Blessed is he that eateth bread in the kingdom of God.

16 Then said he to him, * A certain man made a great supper, and bade many, ^{* Matt. 22. 2. Rev. 19. 9.}

17 And sent his servant at supper time to say to them that were bidden, Come: for all things are now ready.

18 ⁴ But they all with^b one mind began to make excuse: The first said unto him, I have bought a farm, and I must needs go out and see it: I pray thee have me excused.

19 And another said, I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I go to prove them: I pray thee have me excused.

20 And another said, I have married a wife, and therefore I cannot come.

21 So that servant returned, and shewed his master these things. Then was the good man of the house angry, and said to his servant, Go out quickly into the^c streets and lanes of the city, and bring in hither the poor, and the maimed, and the halt, and the blind.

22 And the servant said, Lord, it is done as thou hast commanded, and yet there is room.

23 Then the master said to the servant, Go out into the highways and hedges, and compel them to come in, that mine house may be filled.

24 For I say unto you, that none of those men which were bidden shall taste of my supper.

25 ⁵ Now there went great multitudes with him, and he turned, and said unto them,

26 * If any man come to me, and^d hate not his father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brethren, and sisters: yea, and his own life also, he cannot be my disciple. ^{* Matt. 10. 37.}

27 ⁶ And whosoever beareth not his cross, and cometh after me, cannot be my disciple. ^{ Ch. 9. 29. Matt. 16. 24. Mark 8. 34.}

28 For which of you minding to build a tower, ^e sitteth not down before, and counteth the cost, whether he hath sufficient to perform it,

29 Lest that after he hath laid the foundation, and is not able to perform it, all that behold it, begin to mock him,

² The law of the very sabbath ought not to hinder the offices of charity.

⁴ The reward of pride is ignominy: and the reward of true modesty is glory.

⁵ Against them which lavish out their goods either ambitiously, or for hope of recompence; whereas christian charity respecteth only the glory of God, and the profit of our neighbour.

⁶ The most part, even of them to whom God hath revealed himself, are so mad, that such helps as they have received of God, they willingly turn into lets and hindrances.

^b As of set purpose, and a thing agreed upon before: for though they alledge several causes, yet all of them agree in this, that they have their excuses, that they may not come to supper.

^c Wide and broad quarters.

^d Even those affections, which are of themselves worthy of praise and commendation, must be ruled and ordered, that godliness may have the upper-hand and pre-eminence.

4 The parable of the lost sheep: 8 Of the great: 11 And of the prodigal son.

1 THEN † resorted unto him all the Publicans and sinners to hear him.

2 Therefore the Pharisees and Scribes murmured, saying, He receiveth sinners, and eateth with them.

3 Then spake he this parable to them, saying,

4 What man of you having an hundred sheep, if he lose one of them, doth not leave ninety and nine in the wilderness, and go after that which is lost, until he find it?

5 And when he hath found it, he layeth it on his shoulders with joy.

6 And when he cometh home, he calleth together his friends, and neighbours, saying unto them, Rejoice with me: for I have found my sheep which was lost.

7 I say unto you, that likewise joy shall be in heaven for one sinner that converteth, more than for ninety and nine just men, which need none amendment of life.

8 Either what woman having ten groats, if she lose one groat, doth not light a candle, and sweep the house, and seek diligently till she find it?

9 And when she hath found it, she calleth her friends, and neighbours, saying, Rejoice with me: for I have found the groat which I had lost.

10 Likewise I say unto you, there is joy in the presence of the angels of God, for one sinner that converteth.

11 ¶ He said moreover, A certain man had two sons.

12 And the younger of them said to his father, Father, give me the portion of the goods that falleth to me. So he divided unto them his substance.

13 So not many days after, when the younger son had gathered all together, he took his journey into a far country, and there he wasted his goods with riotous living.

14 Now when he had spent all, there arose a great dearth throughout that land, and he began to be in necessity.

15 Then he went and clave to a citizen of that country, and he sent him to his farm, to feed swine.

16 And he would fain have filled his belly with the husks that the swine ate: but no man gave them him.

17 Then he came to himself, and said, How many hired servants at my father's have bread enough, and I die for hunger!

18 I will rise, and go to my father, and say unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven, and before thee, 19 And am no more worthy to be called thy son: make me as one of thy hired servants.

20 So he arose, and came to his father: and when he was yet a great way off, his father saw him, and had compassion, and ran and fell on his neck, and kissed him.

21 And the son said unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven, and before thee, and am no more worthy to be called thy son.

22 Then the father said to his servants, Bring forth the best robe, and put it on him, and put a ring on his hand, and shoes on his feet.

23 And bring the fat calf, and kill him, and let us eat, and be merry:

24 For this my son was dead, and is alive again: and he was lost, but he is found. And they began to be merry.

25 Now the elder brother was in the field, and when he came and drew near to the house, he heard melody and dancing.

26 And called one of his servants, and asked what those things meant.

27 And he said unto him, Thy brother is come, and thy father hath killed the fat calf, because he hath received him safe and found.

28 Then he was angry, and would not go in: therefore came his father out, and intreated him.

29 But he answered, and said to his father, Lo, these many years have I done thee service, neither brake I at any time thy commandment, and yet thou never gavest me a kid, that I might make merry with my friends.

30 But when this thy son was come, which hath devoured thy goods with harlots, thou hast for his sake killed the fat calf.

31 And he said unto him, Son, thou art ever with me, and all that I have is thine. It was meet that we should make merry, and be glad: for this thy brother was dead, and is alive again: and he was lost, but he is found.

C H A P. XVI.

1 The parable of the steward accused to his master. 13 To serve two masters. 16 The law and the prophets. 19 Of Dives and Lazarus.

AND

7 The disciples of Christ must be wise both for themselves, and for others: otherwise they become the foolishness of all.

8 We must not despair of them which have gone out of the way, but according to the example of Christ, we must take great pains about them.

9 Some publicans and sinners came to Christ from all quarters.

10 Men by their voluntary falling from God, having spoiled themselves of the benefits which they received of him, cast themselves headlong into infinite calamities: but God of his singular goodness, offering himself freely to them, whom he called to repentance, through the greatness of their misery, wherewith they were tamed, doth not only gently receive them, but also enricheth them with far greater gifts, and blesteth them with the chiefest bliss.

11 The beginning of repentance is the acknowledging of the mercy of God, which stirreth us to hope well.

12 Against God, because he is said to dwell in heaven.

13 In the true repentance there is a feeling of our sins joined with sorrow and shame, from whence springeth a confession, after which followeth forgiveness.

14 Such as truly fear God, desire to have all men to be their fellows.

A. D. 33. AND he said also unto his disciples, ¹ There was a certain rich man which had a steward, and he was accused unto him, that he wasted his goods.

² And he called him, and said unto him, How is it that I hear this of thee? Give an account of thy stewardship: for thou mayest be no longer steward.

³ Then the steward said within himself, What shall I do? for my master taketh away from me the stewardship: I cannot dig, and to beg I am ashamed.

⁴ I know what I will do, that when I am put out of the stewardship, they may receive me into their houses.

⁵ Then called he unto him every one of his master's debtors, and said unto the first, How much owest thou unto my master?

⁶ And he said, An hundred measures of oil. And he said unto him, Take thy writing, and sit down quickly, and write fifty.

⁷ Then said he to another, How much owest thou? and he said, An hundred measures of wheat. Then he said to him, Take thy writing, and write fourscore.

⁸ And the lord commended ^a the unjust steward, because he had done wisely. Wherefore the ^b children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of light.

⁹ And I say unto you, Make you friends with the riches of ^c iniquity, that when ye shall want, they may receive you into everlasting ^d habitations.

¹⁰ ^e He that is faithful in the least, he is also faithful in much: and he that is unjust in the least, is unjust also in much.

¹¹ If then ye have not been faithful in the wicked riches, who will trust you in the ^f true treasure?

¹² And if ye have not been faithful in ^g another man's goods, who shall give you that which is your's?

¹³ * ³ No servant can serve two masters: for either he shall hate the one, and love the other: or else he shall lean to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and riches.

¹⁴ All these things heard the Pharisees also,

^a Seeing that men oftentimes purchase friendship to themselves, by other men's coits, it is shame for us, if with a free and liberal bestowing of the goods which the Lord hath given us, to that purpose we do not please him, nor procure the good will of our neighbours, seeing that by this only means, riches, which are oftentimes occasions of sin, are turned to another end and purpose.

^b This parable doth not approve the steward's naughty dealing, for it was very theft: but parables are set forth to shew a thing covertly, and as it were, under a figure to represent the truth, though it agree not thoroughly with the matter itself: so that Christ meaneth by this parable to teach us that worldly men are more heedful in the affairs of this world, than the children of God are careful for everlasting life.

^c Men that are given to this present life, contrary to whom the children of light are set. St. Paul calleth those spiritual, and the other carnal.

^d This is not spoken of goods that are evil gotten, for God will have our bountifulness to the poor proceed and come from a good fountain: but he calleth those riches of iniquity, which men use naughtily.

^e To wit, the poor Christians: for they are the inheritors of these tabernacles. Theoph.

^f We ought to take heed, that for abusing our earthly function and duty, we be not deprived of heavenly gifts: for how can they use spiritual gifts aright, who abuse worldly things?

^g That is, heavenly and true riches: which are contrary to worldly and sitting substance.

which were covetous, and they scoffed at him. A. D. 33.

¹⁵ ⁴ Then he said unto them, Ye are they which justify yourselves before men: but God knoweth your hearts: for that which is highly esteemed among men, is abomination in the sight of God.

¹⁷ * Now it is more easy that heaven and earth should pass away, than that one tittle of the law should fall. ⁵ Matt. 5. 18.

¹⁸ ¶ * Whosoever putteth away his wife, and marrieth another, committeth adultery: and whosoever marrieth her that is ⁸ put away from her husband, committeth adultery. ⁵ Matt. 5. 32. and 19. 9. 1 Cor. 7. 11.

¹⁹ ¶ ⁶ There was a certain rich man, which was clothed in ^h purple and fine linen, and fared well and delicately every day.

²⁰ Also there was a certain beggar named Lazarus, which was laid at his gate full of sores, ²¹ And desired to be refreshed with the crumbs that fell from the rich man's table: yea, and the dogs came and licked his sores.

²² And it was so that the beggar died, and was carried by the angels into Abraham's bosom. The rich man also died, and was buried.

²³ And being in hell in torments, ⁱ he lift up his eyes, and saw Abraham afar off, and Lazarus in his bosom.

²⁴ Then he cried, and said, Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus, that he may dip the tip of his finger in water, and cool my tongue: for I am tormented in this flame.

²⁵ But Abraham said, Son, remember, that thou in thy life-time receivedst thy pleasures, and likewise Lazarus pains: now therefore is he comforted, and thou art tormented.

²⁶ Besides all this, between you and us there is a great gulf set, so that they which would go from hence to you, cannot: neither can they come from thence to us.

²⁷ ⁷ Then he said, I pray thee, therefore, father, that thou wouldest send him to my father's house.

ⁱ In worldly goods which are called other mens, because they are committed to our credit.

³ No man can love God and riches together.

⁴ Our sins are not hidden to God, although they be hidden to men, yea, although they be hidden to them, whose sins they are.

⁸ They that gather by this place, that a man cannot be married again after that he hath put away his wife for adultery, while she liveth, reason fondly: for Christ speaketh of those divorces, which the Jews used, of which sort we cannot take the divorcement for adultery, for adulterers were put to death by the law.

⁶ The end of the poverty and misery of the godly shall be everlasting joy: as the end of the riotousness and cruel pride of the rich shall be everlasting misery, without all hope of mercy.

29 Abraham said unto him, They have Moses and the prophets: let them hear them.

30 And he said, Nay, father Abraham: but if one come to them from the dead, they will amend their lives.

31 Then he said unto him, If they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded, though one rise from the dead again.

C H A P. XVII.

1 Offences. 3 We must forgive him that trespasseth against us. 10 We are unprofitable servants. 11 Of the ten lepers. 20 Of the coming of the kingdom of heaven. 33 False Christs. 36 After what manner Christ's coming shall be.

THEN said he to his disciples, * It cannot be avoided, but that offences will come: but woe be to him by whom they come.

2 It is better for him that a great millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were cast into the sea, than that he should offend one of these little ones.

3 ¶ Take heed to yourselves: if thy brother trespass against thee, rebuke him: and if he repent, forgive him.

4 ¶ And though he sin against thee seven times in a day, and seven times in a day turn again to thee, saying, It repenteth me, thou shalt forgive him.

5 ¶ And the apostles said unto the Lord, Increase our faith.

6 And the Lord said, * If ye had faith, as much as is a grain of mustard-seed, and should say unto this mulberry-tree, Pluck thyself up by the roots, and plant thyself in the sea, it should even obey you.

7 ¶ Who is it also of you, that having a servant plowing, or feeding cattle, would say unto him by and by, when he were come from the field, Go, and sit down at table?

8 And would not rather say to him, Dress wherewith I may sup, and gird thyself, and serve me till I have eaten and drunken, and afterward eat thou, and drink thou?

9 Doth he thank that servant, because he did that which was commanded unto him? I trow not.

10 So likewise ye, when ye have done all those things which are commanded you, say,

We are unprofitable servants: we have done that which was our duty to do.

11 ¶ And so it was when he went to Jerusalem, that he passed through the midst of Samaria, and Galilee.

12 And as he entered into a certain town, there met him ten men that were lepers, which stood afar off.

13 And they lift up their voices, and said, Jesus, Master, have mercy on us.

14 And when he saw them, he said unto them, Go, shew yourselves unto the priests. And it came to pass, that as they went, they were cleansed. ^{Lev. 14. 2.}

15 Then one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, and with a loud voice praised God, 16 And fell down on his face at his feet, and gave him thanks: and he was a Samaritan.

17 And Jesus answered, and said, Are there not ten cleansed? but where are the nine?

18 There is none found that returned to give God praise, save this stranger.

19 And he said unto him, Arise, go thy way, thy faith hath saved thee.

20 ¶ And when he was demanded of the Pharisees, when the kingdom of God should come? he answered them, and said, The kingdom of God cometh not with observation.

21 Neither shall men say, Lo here, or lo there: for behold, the kingdom of God is within you.

22 ¶ And he said unto the disciples, The days will come, when ye shall desire to see one of the days of the Son of man, and ye shall not see it.

23 ¶ Then they shall say to you, Behold here, or behold there: but go not thither, neither follow them. ^{Mat. 24. 23. Luk. 13. 31.}

24 For as the lightning, that lighteneth out of the one part under heaven, shineth unto the other part under heaven, so shall the Son of man be in his day.

25 But first he must suffer many things, and be reproved of this generation.

26 ¶ And as it was in the days of Noah, so shall it be in the days of the Son of man. ^{Gen. 7. 1. Mat. 24. 38. Luk. 17. 26.}

27 They ate, they drank, they married wives, and gave in marriage, unto the day that Noah went into the ark: and the flood came, and destroyed them all.

28 Likewise

* The church is of necessity subject to offences, but the Lord will not suffer them unpunished, if any of the least be offended.

2 Our reprehensions must be just, and proceed of love and charity.

3 God will never be utterly lacking to the godly (although he be not so perfectly with them as they would) even in those difficulties which cannot be overcome by man's reason.

4 If you had no more faith, but the quantity of the grain of mustard-seed.

5 Seeing that God may challenge unto himself of right, both us and all that is ours, he can be debtor unto us for nothing, although we labour manfully even unto death.

6 The most perfect keeping of the law which we can perform, deserveth no reward.

7 Christ doth well even unto such as will be unthankful, but the benefits of God profit them only to salvation, which are thankful.

8 The kingdom of God is not marked of many, although it be most present before their eyes: because they fondly persuade themselves, that it is joined with outward pomp.

b With any outward pomp and shew of majesty, to be known by: for there were otherwise many plain and evident tokens whereby men might have understood that Christ was the Messias, whose kingdom was so long looked for: but he speaketh in this place of those signs which the Pharisees dreamed of, which looked for an earthly kingdom of Messias.

c You look about for Messias, as though he were absent, but he is amongst you, in the midst of you.

d We oftentimes neglect those things when they be present, which we afterward desire when they are gone, but in vain.

e The time will come, that you shall seek for the Son of man with great sorrow of heart, and shall not find him.

f Christ forewarneth us, that false Christs shall come, and that his glory shall suddenly be spread far and wide through the world, after that the ignominy of the cross is put out and extinguished.

g The world shall be taken unawares with the sudden judgment of God: and therefore the faithful ought to watch continually.

A. D. 28 * Likewise also, as it was in the days of 35 Lot: they ate, they drank, they bought, they
 * Gen. 19 sold, they planted, they built.
 29 But in the day that Lot went out of Sodom, it rained fire and brimstone from heaven, and destroyed them all.
 30 After these ensamples shall it be in the day when the Son of man is revealed.
 31 " At that day he that is upon the house, and his stuff in the house, let him not come down to take it out: and he that is in the field, likewise, let him not turn back to that he left behind.

* Gen. 19. 32 * Remember Lot's wife.
 33 * Whosoever will seek to save his soul, shall lose it: and whosoever shall lose it, shall get it life.

34 * I tell you, in that night there shall be two in one bed: the one shall be received, and the other shall be left.

35 Two women shall be grinding together, the one shall be taken, and the other shall be left.

36 Two shall be in the field: one shall be received, and another shall be left.

37 " And they answered, and said to him,
 Where, Lord? and he said unto them, * Where-soever the body is, thither shall also the eagles be gathered together.

CHAP. XVIII.

2 The parable of the unrighteous judge and the widow. 10 Of the Pharisee and the Publican.
 15 Children are of the kingdom of heaven. 22
 To sell all, and give to the poor. 28 The apostles forsake all. 31 Christ foretelleth his death. 35
 The blind man receiveth sight.

A. D. 12. 13. 14. 15. 16. 17. AND he spake also a parable unto them, to this end, that they ought always to pray, and not to wax faint:

2 ^b Saying, There was a judge in a certain city, which feared not God, neither revered man.

3 And there was a widow in that city, which came unto him, saying, Do me justice against mine adversary.

4 And he would not of a long time: but afterward he said with himself, Though I fear not God, nor reverence man,

5 Yet because this widow troubleth me, I will do her right, lest at the last she come and make me weary.

¹¹ We must take good heed that neither distrust, nor the inticements of this world, nor any respect of friendship, hinder us the least that may be.

^c That is, shall save it, so Matthew expoundeth it: for the life that is here spoken of, is everlasting salvation.

¹² The only way to continue, is to cleave to Christ.

¹ God will have us to continue in prayer, not to weary us, but to exercise us; therefore we must so strive with impatience, that long delay cause us not to break off the course of our prayers.

^a Yield to afflictions and adversities, as they do which are out of heart.

^b He doth not compare things that are equal, together, but the less with the greater: if a man get his right at a most unrighteous judge's hands, much more shall the prayers of the godly prevail before God.

^c Word for word, beat me down with her blows, and it is a metaphor taken of wrestlers, which beat their adversaries with their fists or clubs: so do they that are importu-nate, beat the judge's ears with their crying out, even as it were with blows.

^d Though he seems slow in revenging the injuries done to his.

6 And the Lord said, Hear what the unrighteous judge saith.

7 Now shall not God avenge his elect, which cry day and night unto him, yea, though he suffer long for them?

8 I tell you he will avenge them quickly: but when the Son of man cometh, shall he find faith on the earth?

9 ¶ He spake also this parable unto certain which trusted in themselves that they were just,
 and despised other.

10 Two men went up into the temple to pray: the one a Pharisee, and the other a Publican.

11 The Pharisee stood and prayed thus with himself, O God, I thank thee, that I am not as other men, extortioners, unjust, adulterers, or even as this Publican.

12 I fast twice in the week: I give tithes of all that ever I possess.

13 But the Publican standing afar off, would not lift up so much as his eyes to heaven, but smote his breast, saying, O God, be merciful to me a sinner.

14 I tell you, this man departed to his house justified rather than the other: * for every man that exalteth himself shall be brought low, and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted.

15 ¶ They brought unto him also babes, that he should touch them. And when his disciples saw it, they rebuked them.

16 But Jesus called them unto him, and said, Suffer the babes to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God.

17 Verily I say unto you, whosoever receiv-eth not the kingdom of God as a babe, he shall not enter therein.

18 Then a certain ruler asked him, saying,
 Good master, what ought I to do, to inherit eternal life?

19 And Jesus said unto him, Why callest thou me good? none is good, save one, even God.

20 Thou knowest the commandments, * Thou shalt not commit adultery: Thou shalt not kill:
 Thou shalt not steal: Thou shalt not bear false witness: Honour thy father and thy mother.

21 And he said, All these have I kept from my youth.

22 Now when Jesus heard that, he said unto him,

Y

^a Two things especially make our prayers void and of none effect: confidence of our own righteousness, and the contempt of others: and an humble heart is contrary to both these.

³ Although we confess that whatsoever we have, we have it of God; yet are we despised of God, as proud and arrogant, if we put never so little trust in our own works before God.

^c Far from the Pharisee in a lower place.

^f The children were tender and young, in that they were brought, which appeareth more evidently in that, that they were infants: which is to be marked against them that are enemies to the baptizing of children.

⁴ To judge or think of Christ after the reason of our flesh, is the cause of infinite corruptions.

⁵ The children also of the faithful are comprehended in the free covenant of God.

⁶ Them that carried the children whom the disciples drove away.

⁶ Child-like innocency is an ornament of Christians.

⁷ The inticement of riches carrieth away many from the right way.

* Ch. 14, 17, Matt. 23, 12.

* Matt. 19, 13, Mark 10, 13.

* Matt. 19, 16, Mark 10, 17.

* Exod. 20, 13.

A. D. 33. him, Yet lackest thou one thing. Sell all that ever thou hast, and distribute unto the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven, and come follow me.

23 But when he heard those things, he was very heavy: for he was marvellous rich.

24 ^b And when Jesus saw him very sorrowful, he said, With what difficulty shall they that have riches, enter into the kingdom of God!

25 Surely it is easier for a camel to go through a needle's eye, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.

26 Then said they that heard it, And who then can be saved?

27 And he said, The things which are impossible with men, are possible with God.

^a ^b 28 ¶ Then Peter said, Lo, we have left all, and have followed thee.

29 ^c And he said unto them, Verily I say unto you, there is no man that hath left house, or parents, or brethren, or wife, or children for the kingdom of God's sake, 30 Which shall not receive much more in this world, and in the world to come life everlasting.

^d ^e 31 ¶ Then Jesus took unto him the twelve, and said unto them, Behold, we go up to Jerusalem, and all things shall be fulfilled to the Son of man, that are written by the prophets.

32 For he shall be delivered unto the Gentiles, and shall be mocked, and shall be spitefully intreated, and shall be spitted on.

33 And when they have scourged him, they will put him to death: but the third day he shall rise again.

34 But they understood ^b none of these things, and this saying was hid from them, neither perceived they the things which were spoken.

^f ^g 35 ¶ And it came to pass, that as he was come near unto Jericho, a certain blind man sat by the way side, begging.

36 And when he heard the people pass by, he asked what it meant.

37 And they said unto him, that Jesus of Nazareth passed by.

38 Then he cried, saying, Jesus the Son of David, have mercy on me.

39 ^h And they which went before rebuked him that he should hold his peace, but he cried much more, O Son of David, have mercy on me.

40 And Jesus stood still, and commanded him to be brought unto him. And when he was come near, he asked him,

41 Saying, What wilt thou that I do unto thee? And he said, Lord, that I may receive my sight.

42 And Jesus said unto him, Receive thy sight: thy faith hath saved thee.

43 Then immediately he received his sight, and followed him, praising God: and all the people, when they saw this, gave praise to God.

C H A P. XIX.

2 Zaccheus the Publican. 13 Ten pieces of money delivered to servants to occupy withal. 29 Jesus entereth into Jerusalem. 41 He foretelleth the destruction of the city with tears. 45 He casteth the sellers out of the temple.

NOW ¹ when Jesus entered and passed through Jericho,

2 Behold, there was a man named Zaccheus, which was the ² chief receiver of the tribute, and he was rich.

3 And he sought to see Jesus, who he should be, and could not for the press, because he was of a low stature.

4 Wherefore he ran before and climbed up into a wild fig-tree, that he might see him: for he should come that way.

5 And when Jesus came to the place, he looked up, and saw him, and said unto him, Zaccheus, come down at once: for to-day I must abide at thine house.

6 Then he came down hastily, and received him joyfully.

7 ² And when they all saw it, they murmured, saying, that he was gone in to lodge with a sinful man:

8 ³ And Zaccheus stood forth, and said unto the Lord, Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor: and if I have taken from any man by ^b forged cavillation, I restore him four-fold.

9 Then Jesus said to him, This day is salvation come unto this house, forasmuch as he is also become the ^c son of Abraham.

4 From whence John's baptism was. 9 The wickedness of the priests is noted by the parable of the vineyard and the husbandmen. 21 To give tribute to Cæsar. 27 He convinceth the Sadducees denying the resurrection. 41 How Christ is the Son of David.

AND it came to pass, that on one of those days, as he taught the people in the temple, and preached the gospel, the high priests and the Scribes came upon him, with the elders,

2 And spake unto him, saying, Tell us by what authority thou doest these things, or who is he that hath given thee this authority?

3 And he answered, and said unto them, I also will ask you one thing: tell me therefore:

4 The baptism of John, was it from heaven, or of men?

5 And they reasoned within themselves, saying, If we shall say, From heaven, he will say, Why then believed ye him not?

6 But if we shall say, of men, all the people will stone us: for they be persuaded that John was a prophet.

7 Therefore they answered, that they could not tell whence it was.

8 Then Jesus said unto them, Neither tell you by what authority I do these things.

9 ¶ Then began he to speak to the people this parable, A certain man planted a vineyard, and let it forth to husbandmen: and went into a strange country for a great time.

10 And at the time convenient he sent a servant to the husbandmen, that they should give him of the fruit of the vineyard: but the husbandmen did beat him, and sent him away empty.

11 Again he sent yet another servant: and they did beat him, and foully intreated him, and sent him away empty.

12 Moreover he sent the third, and him they wounded, and cast out.

13 Then said the lord of the vineyard, What shall I do? I will send my beloved son: it may be that they will do reverence, when they see him.

14 But when the husbandmen saw him, they reasoned with themselves, saying, This is the heir: come, let us kill him, that the inheritance may be ours.

15 So they cast him out of the vineyard, and killed him. What shall the lord of the vineyard therefore do unto them?

16 He will come and destroy these husbandmen, and will give out his vineyard to others. But when they heard it, they said, God forbid.

17 ¶ And he beheld them, and said, What meaneth this then that is written, * The stone that the builders refused, that is made the head of the corner? A. D. 33. P. 118, 119. H. 28, 16. Act. 4, 11. Rom. 9, 11. 1 Pet. 2, 2.

18 Whosoever shall fall upon that stone, shall be broken: and on whomsoever it shall fall, it will grind him to powder.

19 Then the high priests and the Scribes the same hour went about to lay hands on him: (but they feared the people) for they perceived that he had spoken this parable against them.

20 * 3 And they 2 watched him, and sent forth 3 spies, which should feign themselves just men, 4 to take him in his talk, and to deliver him unto the power and 4 authority of the governor. * Matt. 22, 16. Mark. 12, 13.

21 And they asked him, saying, Master, we know that thou sayest and teachest right, neither dost thou accept 5 man's person, but teachest the way of God truly.

22 Is it lawful for us to give Cæsar tribute, or no?

23 But he perceived their 6 craftiness, and said unto them, Why tempt ye me?

24 Shew me a penny. Whose image and superscription hath it? They answered, and said, Cæsar's.

25 Then he said unto them, * Give then unto Cæsar the things which are Cæsar's, and to God those which are God's. * Rom. 13, 7.

26 And they could not reprove his saying before the people: but they marvelled at his answer, and held their peace.

27 * 4 Then came to him certain of the Sadducees (which deny that there is any resurrection) and they asked him, * Matt. 22, 23. Mark. 12, 18.

28 Saying, Master, * Moses wrote unto us, If any man's brother die having a wife, and he die without children, that his brother should take his wife, and raise up seed unto his brother. * Deut. 25, 5.

29 Now there were seven brethren, and the first took a wife, and he died without children.

30 And the second took the wife, and he died childless.

31 Then the third took her: and so likewise the seven died, and left no children.

32 And last of all the woman died also.

33 Therefore at the resurrection, whose wife of them shall she be? for seven had her to wife.

34 Then Jesus answered, and said unto them, The 5 children of this world marry wives, and are married.

35 But they which shall be counted worthy to enjoy that world, and the resurrection from the dead, neither marry wives, neither are married.

36 For they can die no more, forasmuch as they are equal unto the angels, and are the sons of 39 Then certain of the Scribes answered, and said, Master, thou hast well said.

40 And after that, durst they not ask him any thing at all.

41 * ⁵ Then said he unto them, How say they that Christ is David's son?

42 And David himself saith in the book of the Psalms, * The Lord said unto my Lord, Sit at my right hand, 43 Till I shall make thine enemies thy footstool.

44 Seeing David called him Lord, how is he then his son?

45 ¶ Then in the audience of all the people he said unto his disciples,

46 * ⁶ Beware of the Scribes, which willingly go in long robes, and love salutations in the markets, and the highest seats in the assemblies, and the chief rooms at feasts:

47 Which devour widows ^k houses, and in shew make long prayers: these shall receive greater damnation.

ⁱ That is, before him: a notable saying, the godly do not die, though they die here on earth.

^j Christ is so the son of David, according to the flesh, that he is also his Lord (because he is the everlasting Son of God) according to the Spirit.

^k We must avoid the example of the ambitious and covetous pastors.

^m The poor may exceed in bounty and liberality, even the richest, according to God's judgment.

ⁿ The destruction of the temple is foretold, that that true spiritual building may be built up, whose head builders must, and ought, to be circumspect.

^o These were things that were hanged upon walls and pillars.

there be when these things shall come to pass? A. D.

8 * And he said, Take heed, that ye be not deceived: for many will come ^b in my name, saying, I am Christ, and the time draweth near: follow ye not them therefore.

9 ³ And when ye hear of wars and seditions, be not afraid: for these things must first come, but the end followeth not by and by.

10 Then said he unto them, Nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom.

11 * And great earthquakes shall be in divers places, and hunger, and pestilence, and fearful things, and great signs shall there be from heaven.

12 But before all these, they shall lay their hands on you, and persecute you, delivering you up to the assemblies, and into prisons, and bring you before kings and rulers for my name's sake.

13 And this shall turn to you for ^c a testimonial.

14 * Lay it up therefore in your hearts, that ye cast not beforehand what ye shall answer.

15 For I will give you a mouth, and wisdom, where against all your adversaries shall not be able to speak nor resist.

16 Yea, ye shall be betrayed also of your parents, and of your brethren, and kinsmen, and friends, and some of you shall they put to death.

17 And ye shall be hated of all men for my name's sake.

18 * Yet there shall not one hair of your heads perish.

19 By your patience ^d possess your souls.

20 ¶ * ⁴ And when ye see Jerusalem besieged with soldiers, then understand that the desolation thereof is near.

21 Then let them which are in Judea flee to the mountains: and let them which are in the midst thereof depart out: and let not them that are in the country, enter therein.

22 For these be the days of vengeance, to fulfil all things that are written.

23 But woe be to them that be with child, and to them that give suck in those days: for there shall be great distress in this land, and ^e wrath over this people.

24 And they shall fall on the ^f edge of the sword, and shall be led captives into all nations, and Jerusalem shall be trodden under foot of the Gentiles, until the time of the Gentiles be fulfilled.

25 * ⁵ Then there shall be signs in the sun, and ^b Using my name.

³ The true temple of God is built up even in the midst of incredible tumults, and most sharp miseries, through invincible patience, so that the end thereof cannot be but most happy.

^c This shall be the end of your troubles and afflictions, they shall be witnesses both before God and man, as well of the treacherous and cruel dealing of your enemies, as also of your constancy: a noble saying, that the afflictions of the godly and holy men pertain to the witness of the truth.

^d Though you are compassed about on all sides with many miseries, yet notwithstanding be valiant and courageous, and bear out these things manfully.

⁴ The final destruction of the whole city is foretold.

^e By wrath those things are meant, which God sendeth when he is displeased.

^f Word for word, mouth: for the Hebrews call the edge of a sword, the mouth, because the edge biteth.

⁵ When the times are expired, appointed for the salvation of the Gentiles, and punishment of the Jews. And so he passeth from the destruction of Jerusalem, to the history of the latter judgment.

38 And all the people came in the morning to him, to hear him in the temple.

C H A P. XXII.

3 Judas selleth Christ. 7 The apostles prepare the passover. 24 They strive who shall be chiefest. 31 Satan desireth them. 35 Christ sheweth that they wanted nothing. 42 He prayeth in the mount. 44 He sweateth blood. 50 Malchus's ear cut off, and healed. 57, 58, 60 Peter denieth Christ thrice. 63 Christ is mocked, and stricken. 69 He confesseth himself to be the Son of God.

33. NOW^a the^b feast of unleavened bread drew near, which is called the passover.

^a After divers tempests, the Lord will at the length plainly appear to deliver his church.

^b We must be sober and watchful both day and night for the Lord's coming, that we be not taken at unawares.

^c On all men wheresoever they be.

^d You may so appear, that you will abide the countenance and sentence of the judge without fear.

^e Christ is taken upon the day of the passover, rather by the providence of his Father, than by the will of men.

^f God by his wonderful providence causeth him to be the minister of our salvation, who was the author of our destruction.

^g They that had the charge of keeping the temple, which were none of the priests and bishops, as appeareth by the 53d verse of this chapter.

^h Without tumult, unwitting to the people which used to follow him: and therefore indeed they watched their time, when they knew he was alone in the garden.

ⁱ Christ teacheth his disciples by a manifest miracle, that although he be going to be crucified, yet nothing is hid from him: and therefore that he goeth willingly to death.

^j By the order appointed by the law.

^k The Lamb which was the figure of the passover. And

2 And the high priests and Scribes sought how they might kill him: for they feared the people.

3^m Then entered Satan into Judas, who was called Iscariot, and was of the number of the twelve.

4 And he went his way, and communed with the high priests and captains, how he might betray him to them.

5 So they were glad, and agreed to give him money.

6 And he consented, and sought opportunity to betray him unto them, when the people were away.

7ⁿ Then came the day of unleavened bread, when the passover must be sacrificed.

8 And he sent Peter and John, saying, Go and prepare us the passover, that we may eat it.

9 And they said unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare it?

10 Then he said unto them, Behold, when ye be entered into the city, there shall a man meet you, bearing a pitcher of water: follow him into the house that he entereth in,

11 And say unto the good man of the house, The Master saith unto thee, where is the lodging where I shall eat my passover with my disciples?

12 Then he shall shew you a great high chamber trimmed: there make it ready.

13 So they went, and found as he had said unto them, and made ready the passover.

14^o And when the hour was come, he sat down, and the twelve apostles with him.

15 Then he said unto them, I have earnestly desired to eat this passover with you, before I suffer.

16 For I say unto you, Henceforth I will not eat of it any more, until it be fulfilled in the kingdom of God.

17 And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and said, Take this, and divide it among you.

18 For I say unto you, I will not drink of the fruit of the vine, until the kingdom of God be come.

19^p And he took bread, and when he had given thanks, he brake it, and gave to them, saying, This is my body which is given for you: do this in remembrance of me.

20 Likewise also after supper he took the cup, saying, This cup is that New Testament in my blood, which is shed for you.

21 Yet

this is spoken by the figure Metonymia, which is very usual in the matter of the sacraments.

^q Christ having ended the passover according to the order of the law: forewarneth them that this shall be his last banquet with them, after the manner and necessity of this life.

^r The evening and twilight, at what time this supper was to be kept.

^s I am put to death.

^t Christ establisheth his new covenant, and his communicating with us with new signs.

^u Here is a double metonymia: for first, the vessel is taken for that which is contained in the vessel; as the cup, for the wine which is within the cup. Then the wine is called the Covenant or Testament, whereas indeed it is but the sign of the testament, or rather of the blood of Christ whereby the testament was made: neither is it a vain sign, although it be not all one with the thing that it representeth.

^v This word, That, sheweth the excellency of the testament, and answereth to the place of Jeremiah, chap. 31. 31. where the New Testament is promised.

A. D. 21 * 6 Yet behold, the hand of him that betrayeth me, is with me at the table.

22 7 And truly the Son of man goeth as it is appointed: but woe be to that man, by whom he is betrayed.

23 Then they began to enquire among themselves, which of them it should be, that should do that.

24 ¶ * 8 And there arose also a strife among them, which of them should seem to be the greatest.

25 But he said unto them, The kings of the Gentiles reign over them, and they that bear rule over them, are called ^k bountiful.

26 But ye shall not be so: but let the greatest among you be as the least: and the chiefest as he that serveth.

27 For who is greater, he that sitteth at table, or he that serveth? Is not he that sitteth at table? And I am among you as he that serveth.

28 9 And ye are they which have continued with me in my temptations.

29 Therefore I appoint unto you a kingdom, as my father hath appointed unto me, 30 * That ye may eat and drink at my table in my kingdom, and sit on seats, and judge the twelve tribes of Israel.

31 ¶ 10 And the Lord said, Simon, Simon, behold, ^s Satan hath desired you, ¹ to winnow you as wheat.

32 11 But I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not: therefore when thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren.

33 * 12 And he said unto him, Lord, I am ready to go with thee into prison, and to death.

34 But he said, I tell thee, Peter, the cock shall not crow this day, before thou hast thrice denied that thou knewest me.

35 ¶ And he said unto them, * When I sent you without bag, and scrip, and shoes, lacked ye any thing? And they said, Nothing.

36 ^m Then he said to them, But now he that hath a bag, let him take it, and likewise a scrip: and he that hath none, let him sell his coat, and buy a sword,

37 For I say unto you, That yet the same which is written, must be performed in me, ⁿ Even with the wicked was he numbered: for doubtless those things which are written of me, A. D. 33. have an end. 33.

38 And they said, Lord, behold, here are two swords. And he said unto them, It is enough.

39 ¶ * And he came out, and went (as he was wont) to the mount of Olives: and his disciples also followed him. * Matt. 26. 36. Mark 14. 32. John 18. 1.

40 * 13 And when he came to the place, he said to them, Pray, lest ye enter into temptation. * Matt. 26. 41. Mark 14. 38.

41 14 And he was drawn aside from them about a stone's cast, and kneeled down, and prayed, 42 Saying, Father, if thou wilt, take away this cup from me: nevertheless, not my will, but thine be done.

43 And there appeared an angel unto him from heaven, comforting him.

44 But being in an ⁿ agony, he prayed more earnestly: and his sweat was like ^o drops of blood, trickling down to the ground.

45 15 And he rose up from prayer, and came to his disciples, and found them sleeping for heaviness, 46 And he said unto them, Why sleep ye? rise and pray, lest ye enter into temptation.

47 ¶ * 16 And while he yet spake, behold, a company, and he that was called Judas one of the twelve, went before them, and came near unto Jesus to kiss him. * Matt. 26. 47. Mark 14. 43. John 18. 3.

48 And Jesus said unto him, Judas, betrayest thou the Son of man with a kiss?

49 17 Now when they which were about him saw what would follow, they said unto him Lord, shall we smite with the sword?

50 And one of them smote a servant of the high priest, and struck off his ear.

51 Then Jesus answered, and said, Suffer them thus far: and he touched his ear, and healed him.

52 18 Then Jesus said unto the high priests, and captains of the temple, and the elders which were come to him, Be ye come out as unto a thief with swords and staves?

53 When I was daily with you in the temple, ye stretched not forth the hands against me: but this is your very hour, and the ^p power of darkness.

54 Then

⁶ Christ sheweth again that he goeth to death willingly, although he be not ignorant of Judas's treason.

⁷ That is, his practice, so use the Hebrews to speak, as 2 Kings 14. 19. Is not the hand of Joab in this matter?

⁸ Although the decree of God's providence come necessarily to pass, yet it excuseth not the fault of the instruments.

⁹ The pastors are not called to rule, but to serve.

¹⁰ Have great titles, for so it was the custom to honour princes with some great titles.

¹¹ Such as are partakers of the afflictions of Christ, shall also be partakers of his kingdom.

¹² We must always think upon the wait that Satan layeth for us.

¹³ To toss you and scater you, and also to cast you out.

¹⁴ It is through the prayers of Christ, that the elect do never utterly fall away from the faith: and that for this cause, that they should stir up one another.

¹⁵ Christ sheweth that faith differeth much from vain security, in setting before us the grievous example of Peter.

¹⁶ All this talk is by way of an allegory, as if he said, O my friends and fellow soldiers, you have lived hitherto as it were in peace: but now there is a most sharp battle at hand to be fought, and therefore you must lay all other things aside, and think upon furnishing yourselves in armour. And what this armour is, he shewed by his own example, when he prayed afterwards in the garden, and reproved Peter for striking with the sword.

¹⁷ Christ hath made death acceptable unto us, by overcoming in our name all the horrors of death which had joined with them the curse of God.

¹⁴ Prayers are a sure succour against the most perilous assaults of our enemies.

¹⁵ This agony sheweth that Christ strove much, and was in great distress: for Christ strives not only with the fears of death as other men use to do, for so many martyrs might seem more constant than Christ, but with the fearful judgment of his angry Father, which is the fearfullest thing in the world; and the matter was, for that he took the burden of all our sins upon himself.

¹⁶ These do not only shew that Christ was true man, but other things also which the godly have to consider of, wherein the secret of the redemption of all mankind is contained in the Son of God his debasing himself to the state of a servant: such things as no man can sufficiently declare.

¹⁷ Men are utterly sluggish, even in their greatest dangers, until Christ stir them up.

¹⁸ Christ is willingly betrayed and taken, that by his obedience he might deliver us, which were guilty for the betraying of God's glory.

¹⁹ That zeal which carrieth us out of the bounds of our vocation pleaseth not Christ.

²⁰ Even the very fear of them which took Christ proveth partly their evil conscience, and partly also that all these things were done by God's providence.

²¹ The power that was given to darkness to oppress the light for a season.

A. D. 54 ¶ Then took they him, and led him and brought him to the high priest's house. ⁵³ And Peter followed afar off.

55 ¶ And when they had kindled a fire in the midlt of the hall, and were set down together, Peter also sat down among them.

56 And a certain maid beheld him as he sat by the fire, and having well looked on him, said, This man was also with him.

57 But he denied him, saying, Woman, I know him not.

58 And after a little while, another man saw him, and said, Thou art also of them. But Peter said, Man, I am not.

59 And about the space of an hour after, a certain other affirmed, saying, Verily, even this man was with him: for he is also a Galilean.

60 And Peter said, Man, I know not what thou sayest. And immediately while he yet spake, the cock crew.

61 Then the Lord turned back, and looked upon Peter: and Peter remembered the word of the Lord, how he said unto him, ⁵⁴ before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice.

62 And Peter went out, and wept bitterly.

63 ¶ ⁵⁵ And the men that held Jesus, mocked him, and struck him.

64 And when they had blindfolded him, they smote him on the face, and asked him, saying, Prophecy who it is that smote thee.

65 And many other things blasphemously spake they against him.

66 ¶ ⁵⁶ And as soon as it was day, the elders of the people, and the high priests, and the Scribes came together, and led him into their council, 67 Saying, Art thou that Christ? tell us. And he said unto them, If I tell you, ye will not believe it.

68 And if also I ask you, ye will not answer me, nor let me go.

69 Hereafter shall the Son of man sit at the right hand of the power of God.

70 Then said they all, Art thou then the Son of God? And he said to them, Ye say, that I am.

71 Then said they, What need we any further witness? for we ourselves have heard it of his own mouth.

C H A P. XXIII.

1 He is accused before Pilate. 7 He is sent to Herod. 11 He is mocked. 24 Pilate yieldeth him up to the Jews request. 27 The women bewail him. 33 He is crucified. 39 One of the thieves revileth him. 43 The other is saved by faith. 45 He dieth. 53 He is buried.

THEN ¹ the whole multitude of them arose, and led him unto Pilate.

2 And they began to accuse him, saying, We have found this man ² perverting the nation, and forbidding to pay tribute to Cæsar, saying, That he is Christ, a king.

3 ¶ ³ And Pilate asked him, saying, Art thou the king of the Jews? And he answered him, and said, Thou sayest it.

4 Then said Pilate to the high priests, and to the people, I find no fault in this man.

5 But they were the more fierce, saying, He moveth the people, teaching throughout all Judea, beginning at Galilee, even to this place.

6 ¶ ⁴ Now when Pilate heard of Galilee, he asked whether the man were a Galilean.

7 And when he knew that he was of ⁵ Herod's jurisdiction, he sent him to Herod, which was also at Jerusalem in those days.

8 And when Herod saw Jesus, he was exceedingly glad: for he was desirous to see him of a long season, because he had heard many things of him, and trusted to have seen some sign done by him.

9 Then questioned he with him of many things: but he answered him nothing.

10 The high priests also and the Scribes stood forth, and accused him vehemently.

11 And Herod with his ⁶ men of war, despised him, and mocked him, and arrayed him in white, and sent him again to Pilate.

12 ¶ ⁷ And the same day Pilate and Herod were made friends together: for before they were enemies one to another.

13 ¶ ⁸ Then Pilate called together the high priests, and the ⁷ rulers, and the people,

14 ¶ ⁸ And said unto them, Ye have brought this man unto me, as one that perverted the people: and behold, I have examined him before you, and have found no fault in this man, of those things whereof ye accuse him:

15 ⁹ Neither yet Herod: for I sent you to him: and ⁹ nothing worthy of death is done of him.

16 ¶ ⁹ I will therefore chastise him, and let him loose.

17 (For of necessity he must have let one loose unto them at the feast)

18 Then all the multitude cried at once, saying, Away with him, and deliver unto us Barabbas.

19 ¹⁰ Which for a certain insurrection made in the city, and murder, was cast into prison.

20 Then Pilate spake again to them, willing to let Jesus loose.

21 But they cried, saying, Crucify, crucify him.

22 And

¹⁹ We have to behold in Peter an example both of the frailty of man's nature, and of the singular goodness of God towards his elect.

²⁰ Christ bare the shame that was due to our sins.

²¹ Christ is wrongfully condemned of blasphemy before the high priests judgment seat, that we might be quit before God from the blasphemy which we deserved.

² Christ who is now ready to suffer for the sedition which we raised in this world, is first of all pronounced guiltless, that it might appear that he suffered not for his own sins, (which were none) but for ours.

³ Corrupting the people, and leading them into errors.

⁴ Christ is a laughing-stock to princes, but to their great smart.

⁵ This was Herod Antipas, the tetrarch, in the time of whose government, which was almost the space of 22 years,

John the Baptist preached, and was put to death, and Jesus Christ also died and rose again, and the apostles began to preach, and divers things were done at Jerusalem, almost seven years after Christ's death. This Herod was sent into banishment to Lyons, about the second year of Caius Cæsar.

⁶ Accompanied with his nobles and soldiers, which followed him from Galilee.

⁷ The hatred of godliness joineth the wicked together.

⁸ Christ is quit the second time, even of him of whom he is condemned, that it might appear, how he being just, redeemed us which were unjust.

⁹ Those whom the Jews called the Sanhedrin.

¹⁰ The wisdom of the flesh, of two evils chuseth the less, but God curseth such countels.

Luke Ch. 23. V. 26

Christ going to be Crucified.

S. Butler sc.

A. D. 33. 22 ⁶ And he said unto them the third time, But what evil hath he done? I find no cause of death in him: I will therefore chastise him, and let him loose.

23 But they were instant with loud voices, and required that he might be crucified: and the voices of them and of the high priests prevailed.

24 So Pilate gave sentence, that it should be as they required.

25 And he let loose unto them him that for insurrection and murder was cast into prison, whom they desired, and delivered Jesus to do with him what they would.

³³ 26 ¶ ⁷ And as they led him away, they caught one Simon of Cyrene, coming out of the field, and on him they laid the cross, to bear it after Jesus.

27 ⁸ And there followed him a great multitude of people, and of women, which women bewailed and lamented him.

28 But Jesus turned back unto them, and said, Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for me, but weep for yourselves, and for your children.

29 For behold, the days will come, when men shall say, Blessed are the barren, and the womb that never bare, and the paps that never gave suck.

30 Then shall they begin to say to the mountains, ⁹ Fall on us, and to the hills, Cover us.

³⁴ 31 ^{*} For if they do these things to a green tree, what shall be done to the dry?

³⁵ 32 ^{*} And there were two others, which were evil doers, led with him to be slain.

³⁶ 33 ⁹ And when they were come to the place, which is called Calvary, there they crucified him, and the evil doers: one at the right hand, and the other at the left.

34 ¹⁰ Then said Jesus, Father, forgive them: for they know not what they do. And they parted his raiment, and cast lots.

35 And the people stood, and beheld: and the rulers mocked him with them, saying, He saved others: let him save himself, if he be that Christ, the chosen of God.

36 The soldiers also mocked him, and came and offered him vinegar, 37 And said, If thou be the king of the Jews, save thyself.

38 ¹¹ And a superscription also was written over him, in Greek letters, and in Latin, and in Hebrew, THIS IS THAT KING OF THE JEWS.

A. D. 33.

39 ¶ ⁵ And ¹² one of the evil doers, which were hanged, railed on him, saying, If thou be that Christ, save thyself and us.

40 But the other answered, and rebuked him, saying, Fearest thou not God, seeing thou art in the same condemnation?

41 We are indeed righteously here: for we receive things worthy of that we have done: but this man hath done nothing ^h amiss.

42 And he said unto Jesus, Lord, remember me, when thou comest into thy kingdom.

43 Then Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, to-day shalt thou be with me in ⁱ Paradise.

44 ¶ ¹³ And it was about the sixth hour: and there was a darkness over all the land, until the ninth hour.

45 ¹⁴ And the sun was darkened, and the vail of the temple rent through the midst.

46 And Jesus cried with a loud voice, and said, ^{*} Father, into thine hands I commend my spirit. And when he thus had said, he gave up the ghost.

47 ¶ ¹⁵ Now when the centurion saw what was done, he glorified God, saying, Of a surety this man was just.

48 And all the people that came together to that sight, beholding the things which were done, smote their breasts, and returned.

49 ¹⁶ And all his acquaintance stood afar off, and the women that followed him from Galilee, beholding these things.

50 ¶ ¹⁷ And behold, there was a man named Joseph, which was a counsellor, a good man and a just:

51 (He did not consent to the counsel and deed of them) which was of Arimathea, a city of the Jews: who also himself waited for the kingdom of God.

52 He went unto Pilate, and asked the body of Jesus, 53 And took it down: and wrapped it in a linen cloth, and laid it in a tomb hewn out of a rock, wherein was never man yet laid.

54 And that day was the preparation, and the sabbath ^k drew on.

55 ¹⁸ And the women also that followed after, which came with him from Galilee, beheld the sepulchre, and how his body was laid.

⁸ The triumph of the wicked hath a most horrible end.

⁹ As if he said, If they do thus to me that am fruitful and always flourishing, and who live for ever, by reason of my Godhead, what will they do to you that are unfruitful, and void of all lively righteousness?

¹⁵ Christ in the midst of the humbling himself upon the cross, sheweth indeed, that he hath both power of life to save the believers, and of death to revenge the rebellious.

^h More than he ought.

¹⁶ Christ gathereth together, and defendeth his little flock, in the midst of the tormentors.

¹⁷ Christ through his famous burial, confirmeth the truth both of his death and resurrection, by the plain and evident witness of Pilate.

^k Word for word, dawning, as now beginning, for the light of the former day drew toward the going down, and that was the day of preparation for the feast, which was to be kept the day following.

¹⁸ Christ being set upon by the devil, and all his instruments, and being even in death's mouth, setteth weak women in his foreward, minding straightway to triumph over those terrible enemies, without any great endeavour.

A. D. 33. 56 And they returned, and prepared odours, and ointments, and rested the sabbath day according to the commandment.

C H A P. XXIV.

1 The women came to the sepulchre. 9 They report that which they heard of the angels unto the apostles. 13 Christ doth accompany two going to Emmaus. 27 He expoundeth the scriptures unto them. 39 He offereth himself to his apostles to be handled. 49 He promiseth the Holy Ghost. 51 He is carried up into heaven.

• Mark 16. 1.
John 20. 1.

NOW the ¹ first day of the week ² early in the morning, they came to the sepulchre, and brought the odours, which they had prepared, and certain women with them.

2 And they found the stone rolled away from the sepulchre,

3 And went in, but found not the body of the Lord Jesus.

4 And it came to pass, that as they were amazed thereat, behold, two men suddenly stood by them in shining vestures.

5 And as they were afraid, and bowed down their faces to the earth, they said to them, Why seek ye him that liveth, among the dead?

• Luke 22.
Mark 16. 5.
Mark 9. 31.

6 He is not here, but is risen: remember ^{*} how he spake unto you, when he was yet in Galilee,

7 Saying, that the Son of man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men, and be crucified, and the third day rise again.

8 And they remembered his words,

9 ² And returned from the sepulchre, and told all these things unto the eleven, and to all the remnant.

10 Now it was Mary Magdalene, and Joanna, and Mary the mother of James, and other women with them, which told these things unto the apostles.

11 But their words seemed unto them as a feigned thing, neither believed they them.

• John 20. 6.

12 ³ Then arose Peter, and ran unto the sepulchre, and ^b looked in, and saw the linen clothes laid by themselves, and departed, wondering in himself at that which was come to pass.

• Mark 16. 7.

13 ⁴ And behold, two of them went that same day to a town which was from Jerusalem about threescore furlongs, called Emmaus.

14 And they talked together of all these things that were done.

15 And it came to pass, as they communed together, and reasoned, that Jesus himself drew near, and went with them.

16 ⁵ But their eyes were holden, that they could not know him.

17 And he said unto them, What manner of communications are these that ye have one to another as ye walk and are sad? A. D. 33.

18 And ⁴ the one (named Cleopas) answered, and said unto him, Art thou only a stranger in Jerusalem, and hast not known the things that are come to pass therein in these days?

19 And he said unto them, What things? And they said unto him, Of Jesus of Nazareth, which was a prophet, mighty in deed and in word before God, and all the people.

20 ⁵ And how the high priests and our rulers delivered him to be condemned to death, and have crucified him.

21 But we trusted that it had been he that should have delivered Israel: and as touching all these things, to-day is the third day, that they were done.

22 Yea, and certain women among us made us astonished, which came early unto the sepulchre, 23 And when they found not his body, they came, saying, that they had also seen a vision of angels, which said, that he was alive.

24 Therefore certain of them which were with us, went to the sepulchre, and found it even so as the women said, but him they saw not.

25 Then he said unto them, O fools and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken!

26 Ought not Christ to have suffered these things, and to enter into his glory?

27 And he began at Moses, and at all the prophets, and interpreted unto them in all the scriptures the things which were written of him.

28 And they drew near unto the town which they went to, but he made as though he would have gone further.

29 But they constrained him, saying, Abide with us: for it is towards night, and the day is far spent. So he went in to tarry with them.

30 And it came to pass, as he sat at table with them, he took the bread, and blessed, and brake it, and gave it to them.

31 Then their eyes were opened, and they knew him: and he was ⁶ no more seen of them.

32 And they said between themselves, Did not our hearts burn within us, while he talked with us by the way, and when he opened to us the scriptures?

33 And they rose up the same hour, and returned to Jerusalem, and found the eleven gathered together, and them that were with them, 34 Which said, The Lord is risen indeed, and hath appeared to Simon.

35 Then they told what things were done in the way, and how he was known of them in ^f breaking of bread.

36 And

¹ Poor silly women even beside their expectation are chosen to be the first witnesses of the resurrection, that there might be no suspicion either of deceit or violence.

² Very early, as Mark saith: or as John saith, while it was yet dark, that is, when it was yet scarce the dawning of the day.

³ The cowardly and dastardly mind of the disciples is upbraided by the stout courage of women (so wrought by God's great mercies) to shew that the kingdom of God consisteth in an extraordinary power.

⁴ Christ useth the incredulity of his disciples, to the fuller setting forth of the truth of his resurrection, lest they should seem to have believed that too lightly, which they preached afterward to all the world.

⁵ As it were holding down his head, and bowing his neck, looked diligently in.

⁶ The resurrection is proved by two other witnesses, which saw it, and that it was no forged thing framed of purpose in their own brains, all the circumstances do declare.

⁶ Were holden back and stayed, God so appointing it, no doubt: and therefore his body was not invisible, but their eyes were dimmed.

⁷ Some of the old fathers think that the other disciple was this our Evangelist, but Epiphanius writing against the Saturnalians saith, it was Nathaniel; but all these are uncertainties.

⁸ It appeareth by the conferring of the forewarnings of the prophets, that all these things are true and certain which the evangelists have put down in their writing of Christ.

⁹ Suddenly taken away, and therefore we may not imagine that he was there in such a body as could not be seen. but believe indeed that he changed his place.

^f When he brake bread, which that people used, as the Jews use yet at this day at the beginning of their meals, and say a prayer.

A. D. 33. ¹³ ¹⁶ ¹⁹ 36 ¶ * 6 And as they spake these things, Jesus himself stood in the midst of them, and said unto them, Peace be to you.

37 But they were abashed and afraid, supposing that they had seen a spirit.

38 Then he said unto them, Why are ye troubled? and wherefore do ^s doubts arise in your hearts?

39 Behold mine hands and my feet, for it is I myself: handle me and see: for a spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye see me have.

40 And when he had thus spoken, he shewed them his hands and feet.

41 And while they yet believed not for joy, and wondered, he said unto them, Have ye here any meat?

42 And they gave him a piece of a broiled fish, and of an honeycomb.

43 And he took it, and did eat before them.

44 7 And he said unto them, These are the words which I spake unto you while I was yet with you, that all must be fulfilled which are written of me in the law of Moses, and in the prophets, and in the Psalms.

45 Then opened he their understanding, that they might understand the scriptures,

46 And said unto them, Thus it is written, and thus it behoved Christ to suffer, and to rise again from the dead the third day, 47 And that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name among all nations, ^h beginning at Jerusalem.

48 Now ye are witnesses of these things.

49 And behold, I do send the * promise of my Father upon you: but tarry ye in the city of Jerusalem, ⁱ until ye be endued with the power from on high.

50 ⁸ Afterward he led them out into Bethany, and lift up his hands and blessed them.

51 And it came to pass, that as he blessed them, * he departed from them, and was carried up into heaven.

52 And they worshipped him, and returned to Jerusalem with great joy, 53 And were continually in the temple, praising and lauding God, Amen.

⁶ The Lord himself sheweth by certain and necessary signs, that he was risen again, and that in the same body which he took upon him.

⁷ Divers and doubtful thoughts which fall oft into men's heads, when any strange thing falleth out, whereof there is no great likelihood.

⁷ The preaching of the gospel, which was promised to the prophets, and performed in his time, is committed unto the apostles: the sum whereof is, Repentance and remission of sins.

^h The apostles, who are the preachers of the gospel, beginning at Jerusalem.

ⁱ Until the Holy Ghost come down from heaven upon you.

⁸ Christ ascendeth into heaven, and departing bodily from his disciples, filleth their hearts with the Holy Ghost.

The Holy Gospel of JESUS CHRIST, according to St. J O H N.

CHAP. I.

1 That Word begotten of God before all worlds, 2 and which was ever with the Father, 14 is made man. 6, 7 For what end John was sent from God. 16 His preaching of Christ's office. 19, 20 The record that he bare given out unto the priests. 40 The calling of Andrew, 42 of Peter, 43 Philip, 45 and Nathaniel.

IN ¹ the ² beginning ^b was ^c that Word, and that Word was ^d with God, and that ^c Word was God.

¹ The Son of God is of one and the self-same eternity or everlastingness, and of one and the self-same essence or nature with the Father.

² From the beginning, as the evangelist saith, ¹ Epistle 1. 1. as though he said, that the Word began not then to have his being, when God began to make all that was made: for the Word was even then when all things that were made, began to be made, and therefore he was before the beginning of all things.

^b He had his being.

^c This word That, pointeth out unto us a peculiar and choice thing above all others, and putteth a difference between this Word, which is the Son of God, and the laws of God, which otherwise are called the word of God.

^d This word With, pointeth out the distinction of persons unto us.

^e This word (Word) is the first in order in the sentence, and is that which the learned call (Subjectum) and this word (God) is the latter in order, and the same which the learned call (Prædicatum).

² The Son of God declareth that same his everlasting Godhead, both by the creating of all things, and also by the preserving of them, and especially by the excellent gifts of reason and understanding, wherewith he hath beautified man above all other creatures.

2 This same was in the beginning with God.

3 * 2 All ^f things were made by it, and ^g without it ^h was made nothing that was made.

4 ⁱ In it ^k was life, and that life was ^l the light of men.

5 ³ And that light shineth in the darkness, and the darkness ^m comprehended it not.

6 ¶ * 4 There was a man sent from God, whose name was John.

7 This same came for a witness, to bear witness

^f Paul expoundeth this place, Col. 1. 15. and 16 verses.

^g That is, as the Father did work, so did the Son work with him: for, he was fellow-worker with him.

^h Of all those things which were made, nothing was made without him.

ⁱ That is, by him: and it is spoken after the manner of the Hebrews, meaning thereby that by his force and working power, all life cometh to the world.

^k To wit, even then, when all things are made by him: for else he would have said, Life is in him, and not life was.

^l That force of reason and understanding, which is kindled in our minds to acknowledge him, the author of so great a benefit.

³ The light of men is turned into darkness, but yet so, that there is clearness enough to make them without excuse.

^m They could not perceive nor reach unto it, to receive any light of it, no, they did not so much as acknowledge him.

⁴ There is another more full manifestation of the Son of God, to the consideration whereof men are in good time stirred up, even by John's voice, who is as it were the herald of Christ.

A. D. 33. nets of that light, that all men might believe.
 8 He was not that light, but was sent to bear witness of that light.
 9 This was that true light which lighteth every man that cometh into the world.
 10 He was in the world, and the world was made by him: and the world knew him not.
 11 He came unto his own, and his own received him not.
 12 But as many as received him, to them he gave prerogative to be the sons of God, even to them that believe in his name.
 13 Which are born not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God.
 14 And that Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we saw the glory thereof, as the glory of the only begotten Son of the Father) full of grace and truth.
 15 John bare witness of him, and cried, saying, This was he of whom I said, He that cometh after me, was before me: for he was better than I.
 16 And of his fullness have all we received, and grace for grace:
 17 For the law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ.
 18 No man hath seen God at any time:

^a Through John.
^b That light which we spake of, to wit, Christ, who only can lighten our darkness.
^c When as the Son of God saw that men did not acknowledge him by his works, although they were endued with understanding (which he had given to them all) he exhibited himself unto his people, to be seen of them with their corporeal eyes: yet neither did they so acknowledge him, nor receive him.
^d Who only and properly deserveth to be called the light, for he shineth of himself, and borroweth light of none.
^e The person of the Word, was made manifest even at that time when the world was made.
^f The Word shewed himself again, when he came in the flesh.
^g The Son being shut out of the most of his people, and acknowledged but of a few, doth regenerate them by his own virtue and power, and receiveth them into that honour which is common to all the children of God, that is, to be the sons of God.
^h He vouchsafed to give them this prerogative, to take them to be his children.
ⁱ Of that gross and corrupt nature of man, which is throughout the scriptures set as enemy to the spirit.
^j That Son who is God from everlasting took upon him man's nature, that one and the self-same might be both God and man, which manifestly appeared to many witnesses that saw him, amongst whom he was conversant, and unto whom by sure and undoubted arguments he shewed both his natures.
^k That is, man: so that the part is taken for the whole by the figure Synecdoche: for he took upon him all our whole nature, that is to say, a true body, and a true soul.
^l For a season, and when that was ended, he went up in to heaven, for the word which he useth is taken from tents: and yet notwithstanding his absence from us in body is not such, but that he is always present with us, though not in flesh, yet by the virtue of his Spirit.
^m The glory which he speaketh of here is that manifestation of Christ his majesty, which was as it were laid open before our eyes when the Son of God appeared in the flesh.
ⁿ This word (as) doth not in this place betoken a likeness, but the truth of the matter, for his meaning is this, that we saw such a glory as becomed and was meet for the true and only begotten Son of God, who is Lord and King over all the whole world.
^o He was not only a partaker of grace and truth, but was full of the very substance of grace and truth.
^p John is a faithful witness of the excellency of Christ.
^q That is, He before whom I am sent to prepare him the way: so that these words are referred to the time of his that only begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared him.

 19 ¶ Then this is the record of John, when the Jews sent priests and Levites from Jerusalem, to ask him, Who art thou?
 20 And he confessed, and denied not, and said plainly, I am not that Christ.
 21 And they asked him, What then? Art thou Elias? And he said, I am not. Art thou that prophet? And he answered, No.
 22 Then said they unto him, Who art thou, that we may give an answer to them that sent us? What sayest thou of thyself?
 23 He said, I am the voice of him that crieth in the wilderness, Make straight the way of the Lord, as said the prophet Esaias.
 24 Now they which were sent were of the Pharisees.
 25 And they asked him, and said unto him, Why baptizest thou then, if thou be not that Christ, neither Elias, nor that prophet?
 26 John answered them, saying, I baptize with water: but there is one among you, whom ye know not:
 27 He it is that cometh after me, which was before me, whose shoe latchet I am not worthy to unloose.
 28 These things were done in Bethabara beyond Jordan, where John did baptize.
 29 The

calling, and not of his age, for John was six months older than he.
^a This sentence hath in it a turning of the reason, as we call it; as who should say, a setting of that first, which should be last, and that last which should be first: for in plain speech this it is, He that cometh after me, is better than I am, for he was before me. The like kind of turning the reason we find in Luke 7. 47. Many sins are forgiven her, because she loved much; which is thus much to say, She loved much, because many sins are forgiven her.
^b Christ is the most plentiful fountain of all goodness, but then he poured out his gifts most bountifully, when as he exhibited and shewed himself to the world.
^c That is, grace upon grace, as a man would say, graces heaped one upon another.
^d The true knowledge of God proceedeth only from Jesus Christ.
^e Who is nearest to his Father, not only in respect of his love towards him, but by the bond of nature, and for that union or oneness that is between them, whereby the Father and the Son are one.
^f Revealed him and shewed him unto us, whereas before he was hid under the shadows of the law, so that the quickness of the sight of our minds was not able to perceive him; for whosoever seeth him, seeth the Father also.
^g John is neither the Messias, nor like to any of the other prophets, but is the herald of Christ who is now present.
^h He did acknowledge him, and spake of him plainly and openly.
ⁱ This rehearsing of the one and the self-same thing, though in divers words, is used much of the Hebrews, and it hath great force; for they use to speak one thing twice, to set it out more certainly and plainly.
^j The Jews thought that Elias should come again before the days of Messias, and they took the ground of that their opinion out of Mal. 4. 5. which place is to be understood of John, Matt. 11. 14. And yet John denieth that he is Elias, answering them indeed according as they meant.
^k They enquire of some great prophet, and not of Christ, for John denied before that he is Christ, for they thought that some great prophet should be sent like unto Moses, wresting to that purpose that place of Deut. 18. 15. which is to be understood of all the company of the prophets and ministers, which have been, and shall be to the end, and especially of Christ, who is the head of all prophets.
^l Christ is the author of baptism, and not John; and therefore the force thereof consisteth not in John, who is the minister, but wholly in Christ the Lord.
^m Hereby we may prove that the Jews knew there should be some change in religion under Messias.

A. D. 30. ¶ ²⁹ The next day John seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, Behold ^a that Lamb of God, which ^o taketh away the ^p sin of the world.

³⁰ This is he of whom I said, After me cometh a man, which was before me: for he was better than I, ³¹ And ^q I know him not: but because he should be declared to Israel, therefore am I come, baptizing with water.

³² So John bare record, saying, I beheld ^r that Spirit come down from heaven, like a dove, and it abode upon him.

³³ And I knew him not: but he that sent me to baptize with water, he said unto me, Upon whom thou shalt see the Spirit come down, and tarry still on him, that is he which baptizeth with the Holy Ghost.

³⁴ And I saw, and bare record that this is ^s that Son of God.

³⁵ ¶ ³⁵ The next day John stood again, and two of his disciples:

³⁶ And he beheld Jesus walking by, and said, Behold that Lamb of God.

³⁷ And the two disciples heard him speak, and followed Jesus.

³⁸ Then Jesus turned about, and saw them follow, and said unto them, What seek ye? And they said unto him, Rabbi, (which is to say by interpretation, Master) ^t where dwellest thou?

³⁹ He said unto them, Come, and see. They came and saw where he dwelt, and abode with him that day: for it was about the ^u tenth hour.

⁴⁰ Andrew, Simon Peter's-brother, was one of the two which had heard it of John, and that followed him.

⁴¹ The same found his brother Simon first, and said unto him, We have found that Messias, which is by interpretation, that ^v Christ.

⁴² And he brought him to Jesus, and Jesus beheld him, and said, Thou art Simon the son of Jona: thou shalt be called Cephas, which is by interpretation, a stone.

⁴³ ¶ The day following, Jesus would go into Galilee, and found Philip, and said unto him, Follow me.

⁴⁴ Now Philip was of Bethsaida, the city of Andrew and Peter. A. D. 30.

⁴⁶ Then Nathanael said unto him, Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth? Philip said to him, Come, and see.

⁴⁷ Jesus saw Nathanael coming to him, and said of him, Behold indeed an Israelite, in whom is no guile.

⁴⁸ Nathanael said unto him, Whence knewest thou me? Jesus answered, and said unto him, Before that Philip called thee, when thou wast under the fig-tree, I saw thee.

⁴⁹ Nathanael answered, and said unto him, Rabbi, thou art that Son of God: thou art that King of Israel.

⁵⁰ Jesus answered and said unto him, Because I said unto thee, I saw thee under the fig-tree, believest thou? thou shalt see greater things than these.

⁵¹ And he said unto him, Verily, verily I say unto you, hereafter shall ye see heaven open, and the angels of God ^y ascending and descending upon that Son of man. ^{Gen. 28. 12.}

C H A P. II.

¹ Christ turneth water into wine, ¹¹ which was the beginning of his miracles. ¹² He goeth down to Capernaum, ¹³ from thence he goeth up to Jerusalem, ¹⁵ and casteth the merchandise out of the temple. ¹⁹ He foretelleth that the temple, that is, his body, shall be destroyed of the Jews. ²³ Many believe in him, seeing the miracles which he did.

AND ¹ the ² third day, was there a marriage in Cana a town of Galilee, and the mother of Jesus was there.

² And Jesus was called also, and his disciples unto the marriage.

³ Now when the wine failed, the mother of Jesus said unto him, They have no wine.

⁴ Jesus said unto her, Woman, what have I to do with thee? mine ^b hour is not yet come.

¹¹ The body and truth of all the sacrifices of the law, to make satisfaction for the sin of the world, is in Christ.

^a This word (that) which is added, hath great force in it, not only to set forth the worthiness of Christ, and so to separate him from the lamb, which was a figure of him, and from all other sacrifices of the law, but also to bring into our minds the prophecies of Isaiah and others.

^o This word, of the present time, signifieth a continual act, for the Lamb hath this virtue proper unto him, and for ever, to take away the sins of the world.

^p That is, that root of sins, to wit, our corruption, and so consequently the fruits of sin, which are commonly called in the plural number, sins.

^q I never knew him by face before.

¹⁴ Christ is proved to be the Son of God, by the coming down of the Holy Ghost, by the Father's voice, and by John's testimony.

^r This word (that) pointeth out unto us some excellent thing, and maketh a difference between Christ and others, whom Moses and the prophets commonly call the sons of God, or the sons of the most High.

¹⁵ John gathereth disciples not to himself, but to Christ.

¹⁶ Christ is set before us to follow, not as a vain shadow, but as our Mediator.

¹⁷ In this first gathering of the disciples, we have shewed unto us, that the beginning of salvation is from God, who calleth us unto his Son by the ministry of his servants: whom (to preventing us) we must also hear, and follow him home, that being instructed by him, we may also instruct others.

^s Where is thy lodging?

^t The night grew on.

^u That is, anointed, and king, after the manner of the Jewish people.

¹⁸ The good endeavours even of the unlearned, God doth so allow, that he maketh them masters to the learned.

¹⁹ We must especially take heed of false presumptions, which shut up against us the entrance to Christ.

²⁰ Simple uprightnes discerneth the true Israelites from the false.

²¹ The end of miracles, is to set before us Christ the Almighty, and also the only author of our salvation, that we may apprehend him by faith.

^x By these words the power of God is signified, which should appear in his ministry by the angels serving him as the head of the church.

^y Christ declaring openly in an assembly by a notable miracle that he hath power over the nature of things to feed man's body, leadeth the minds of all men to his spiritual and saving virtue and power.

^z After the talk which he had with Nathanael, or after that he departed from John, or after that he came into Galilee.

² Christ is careful enough of our salvation, and therefore hath no need of others to put him in mind of it.

^b Mine appointed time.

A. D. 30. 5 His mother said unto the servants, Whatsoever he saith unto you, do it.

6 And there were set there, six ^c water-pots of stone, after the manner of the purifying of the Jews, containing two or three ^c firkins a-piece.

7 And Jesus said unto them, Fill the water-pots with water. Then they filled them up to the brim.

8 Then he said unto them, Draw out now, and bear unto the governor of the feast. So they bare it.

9 Now when the governor of the feast had tasted the water that was made wine, (for he knew not whence it was, but the servants, which drew the water, knew) the governor of the feast called the bridegroom,

10 And said unto him, All men at the beginning set forth good wine, and when men have ^b well drunk, then that which is worse: but thou hast kept back the good wine until now.

11 This beginning of miracles did Jesus in Cana, a town of Galilee, and shewed forth his glory: and his disciples believed on him.

12 After that, he went down into Capernaum, he and his mother, and his ^b brethren, and his disciples: but they continued not many days there:

13 ^b For the Jews passover was at hand. Therefore Jesus went up to Jerusalem.

14 ^c And he found in the temple those that sold oxen, and sheep, and doves, and changers of money, sitting there.

15 Then he made a scourge of small cords, and drove them all out of the temple, with the sheep and oxen, and poured out the changers money, and overthrew the tables:

16 And said unto them that sold doves, Take these things hence: make not my Father's house an house of merchandise.

17 And his disciples remembered, that it was written, ^d The ^e zeal of thine house hath eaten me up.

18 ^b Then answered the Jews, and said unto him, What ^b sign shewest thou unto us, that thou doest these things?

19 Jesus answered, and said unto them, ^e Destroy this temple, and in three days I will arise it up again.

^c These were vessels appointed for water, wherein they washed themselves.

^d Every firkin contained an hundred pounds, at twelve ounces the pound: whereby we gather that Christ helped them with a thousand and eight hundred pounds of wine.

^e Word for word, are drunken. Now this speech, to be drunken, is not always taken in evil part in the Hebrew tongue, but signifieth sometimes such store and plentiful use of wine, as doth not pass measure, as Gen. 43. 34.

^f That is, his confines.

^b Christ being made subject to the law for us, satisfieth the law of the passover.

^c Christ being ordained to purge the church, doth with great zeal begin his office both of priest and prophet.

^d Zeal in this place is taken for a wrathful indignation and displeasure of the mind, conceived of some naughty and evil dealing towards them whom we love well.

^e Against them which so bind God to an ordinary calling, which they themselves most shamefully abuse, that they will not admit an extraordinary, which God confirmeth from heaven (and they, although in vain, would have it extinguished) unless it be sealed with outward and bodily miracles.

^f With what miracle dost thou confirm it, that we may see that heavenly power and virtue, which giveth thee authority to speak and do thus?

^g That is, of his body.

^h It is not good crediting them, which stand only upon miracles.

ⁱ Christ is the searcher of hearts, and therefore true God.

20 Then said the Jews, Forty and six years was this temple a building, and wilt thou rear it up in three days? A. D. 30.

21 But he spake of the ^b temple of his body.

22 As soon therefore as he was risen from the dead, his disciples remembered that he thus said unto them: and they believed the scripture, and the word that Jesus had said.

23 Now when he was at Jerusalem, at the passover in the feast, many believed in his name, when they saw his miracles which he did.

24 ^c But Jesus did not commit himself unto them, because he knew them all,

25 ^d And had not need that any should testify of man: for he knew what was in man.

5 Jesus answered, Verily, verily I say unto thee, except that a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God.

6 That which is born of the flesh, ^g is flesh: and that which is born of the Spirit, is spirit.

^e The beginning of Christianity consisteth in this, that we know ourselves not only to be corrupt in part, but to be wholly dead in sin: so that our nature hath need to be created anew, as touching the qualities thereof: which can be done by no other virtue, but by the divine and heavenly, whereby we were first created.

YE MUST BE BORN AGAIN.

Barber's

A. D. 30. whence it cometh, and whither it goeth: so is every man that is born of the Spirit.

9³ Nicodemus answered, and said unto him, How can these things be?

10 Jesus answered, and said unto him, Art thou a teacher of Israel, and knowest not these things?

11 Verily, verily I say unto thee, We speak that we know, and testify that we have seen: but ye receive not our¹ witness.

12 If when I tell you earthly things, ye believe not, how should ye believe, if I shall tell you of heavenly things?

13 For no^k man¹ ascendeth up to heaven, but he that hath descended from heaven,^m that Son of man whichⁿ is in heaven.

14 * And as Moses lift up the serpent in the wilderness, so must that Son of man be lift up, 15 That whosoever believeth in him, should not perish, but have eternal life.

16 *⁵ For God so loved the world, that he hath given his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth^o in him, should not perish, but have everlasting life.

17 *⁶ For God sent not his Son into the world, that he should^p condemn the world, but that the^q world through him might be saved.

18 He that believeth in him, is not condemned: but he that believeth not is^r condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of that only begotten Son of God.

19 *⁷ And this is the^r condemnation, that that light came into the world, and men loved darkness rather than that light, because their deeds were evil.

20 For every man that evil doth, hateth the light: neither cometh to light, lest his deeds should be reprov'd.

21 But he that^s doth truth, cometh to the light, that his deeds might be made manifest, that they are wrought^t according to God.

22 ¶ After these things, came Jesus and his disciples into the land of Judea, and there tarried with them, and * baptized.

23 And John also baptized in Enon beside Salim, because there was much water there: and they came, and were baptized.

24 For John was not yet cast into prison.

25⁸ Then there arose a question between John's disciples and the Jews, about purifying.

26 And they came unto John, and said unto him, Rabbi, he that was with thee beyond Jordan, to whom^u thou barest witness, behold, he baptizeth, and all men come to him.

27 John answered, and said, A man^v can receive nothing, except it be given him from heaven.

28 Ye yourselves are my witness, that * I^w said, I am not that Christ, but that I am sent before him.

29 He that hath the bride is the bridegroom: but the friend of the bridegroom, which standeth and heareth him, rejoiceth greatly, because of the bridegroom's voice. This my joy therefore is fulfilled.

30 He must increase, but I must decrease.

31 He that is come from on high, is above all: he that is of the earth, is of the^x earth, and^y speaketh of the earth: he that is come from heaven, is above all.

32 And what he hath^z seen and heard, that he testifieth: but^a no man receiveth his testimony.

33 He that hath received his testimony, hath sealed that * God is true.

34 For he whom God hath sent, speaketh the words of God: for God giveth him not the Spirit by measure.

35 The Father loveth the Son, and hath^b given all things into his hand.

36 * He that believeth in the Son, hath everlasting life, and he that obeyeth not the Son, shall not^c see life: but the wrath of God abideth on him.

Nazianzen, in his oration of the Spirit.

⁶ Not Christ, but the despising of Christ, doth condemn.
^p That is, to be the cause of condemning of the world, for indeed sins are the cause of death, but Christ shall judge the quick and the dead.

^q Not only the people of the Jews, but whosoever shall believe in him.

⁷ Only wickedness is the cause, why men refuse the light that is offered them.

^r That is, the cause of condemnation which sticketh fast in men, unless through God's great benefit they be delivered from it.

^s That is, he that leadeth an honest life, and void of all craft and deceit.

^t That is, with God, God as it were going before.

⁸ Satan inflameth the disciples of John with a fond emulation of their master, to hinder the course of the gospel: but John being mindful of his office, doth not only break off their endeavours; but also taketh occasion thereby to give testimony of Christ, how that in him only the Father hath set forth life everlasting.

^u What mean you to go about to better my estate? this is, every man's lot and portion, that they cannot better themselves one jot.

¹ The secret mystery of our regeneration, which cannot be comprehended by man's capacity, is perceived by faith, and that in Christ only, because that he is both God on earth and man in heaven, that is to say, in such sort man, that he is God also, and therefore Almighty; and in such sort God, that he is man also, and therefore his power is manifest unto us.

¹ You handle doubtful things, and such as you have no certain author for, and yet men believe you: but I teach those things that are of a truth and well known, and you believe me not.

^k Only Christ can teach us heavenly things, for no man ascendeth, &c.

¹ That is, hath any spiritual light and understanding, or ever had, but only that Son of God, which came down to us.

^m Whereas he is said to have come down from heaven, that must he understood of his Godhead, and of the manner of his conception: for Christ his birth upon the earth was heavenly and not earthly, for he was conceived by the Holy Ghost.

ⁿ That which is proper to the divinity of Christ, is here spoken of whole Christ, to give us to understand that he is but one Person wherein two natures are united, and this kind of speech men call, the communicating of properties.

⁵ Nothing else but the free love of the Father, is the beginning of our salvation, and Christ is he in whom our righteousness and salvation is resident; and faith is the instrument or mean whereby we apprehend it, and life everlasting is that which is set before us to apprehend.

^o It is not all one to believe in a thing, and to believe of a thing, for we may not believe (in any thing) save only in God; but we may believe (of any thing) whatsoever, faith

 NOW ¹ when the Lord knew how the Pharisees had heard, that Jesus made ² and baptized more disciples than John,
 2 (Though Jesus himself baptized not, but his disciples)
 3 He left Judea, and departed again into Galilee.
 4 And he must needs go through Samaria.
 5 ³ Then he came to a city of Samaria, called Sychar, near unto the possession that ⁴ Jacob gave to his son Joseph.
 6 And there was Jacob's well. Jesus then, wearied in the journey, sat ⁵ thus on the well: it was about the ⁶ sixth hour.
 7 There came a woman of Samaria to draw water. Jesus said unto her, Give me drink.
 8 For his disciples were gone away into the city, to buy meat.
 9 Then said the woman of Samaria unto him, How is it that thou, being a Jew, askest drink of me, which am a woman of Samaria? for the Jews ⁷ meddle not with the Samaritans.
 10 Jesus answered, and said unto her, If thou knewest that ⁸ gift of God, and who it is that saith to thee, Give me drink, thou wouldest have asked of him, and he would have given thee ⁹ water of life.
 11 The woman said unto him, Sir, thou hast nothing to draw with, and the well is deep: from whence then hast thou that water of life?
 12 Art thou greater than our father Jacob, which gave us the well, and he himself drank thereof, and his sons, and his cattle?
 13 Jesus answered, and said unto her, Whosoever drinketh of this water, shall thirst again:
 14 But whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him, shall never be more a-thirst: but the water that I shall give him, shall be in him a well of water, springing up into everlasting life.
 15 The woman said unto him, Sir, give me of that water, that I may not thirst, neither come hither to draw.
 16 Jesus said unto her, Go, call thine husband, and come hither.
 17 The woman answered, and said, I have no husband. Jesus said unto her, Thou hast well said, I have no husband.
 18 For thou hast had five husbands, and he whom thou now hast, is not thine husband: that saidst thou truly.

19 The woman said unto him, Sir, I see that ¹⁰ thou art a prophet.
 20 ¹¹ Our fathers worshipped in this ¹² mountain, and ye say, that in ¹³ Jerusalem is the place where men ought to worship.
 21 Jesus said unto her, Woman, believe me, the hour cometh, when ye shall neither in this mountain, nor at Jerusalem, worship the Father.
 22 Ye worship that which ye ¹⁴ know not: we worship that which we know: for salvation is of the Jews.
 23 But the hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in ¹⁵ spirit and truth: for the Father requireth even such to worship him.
 24 ¹⁶ God is a ¹⁷ spirit: and they that worship him, must worship him in spirit and truth.
 25 The woman said unto him, I know well that Messias shall come, which is called Christ: when he is come, he will tell us all things.
 26 Jesus said unto her, I am he, that speak unto thee.
 27 ¶ And upon that, came his disciples, and marvelled that he talked with a woman: yet no man said unto him, What askest thou? or why talkest thou with her?
 28 The woman then left her water-pot, and went her way into the city, and said to the men, 29 Come, see a man which hath told me all things that ever I did, Is not he that Christ?
 30 Then they went out of the city, and came unto him.
 31 ¶ In the mean while, the disciples prayed him, saying, Master, eat.
 32 ¹⁸ But he said unto them, I have meat to eat that ye know not of.
 33 Then said the disciples between themselves, Hath any man brought him meat?
 34 Jesus said unto them, My meat is, that I may do the will of him that sent me, and finish his work.
 35 ¹⁹ Say not ye, There are yet four months, and ²⁰ then cometh harvest? Behold, I say unto you, Lift up your eyes, and look on the regions: ²¹ for they are white already unto harvest.
 36 ²² And he that reapeth, receiveth reward, and gathereth fruit unto life eternal, that both he that soweth, and he that reapeth, might rejoice together.

² Christ leaving the proud Pharisees, communicateth the treasures of everlasting life with a poor sinful woman and stranger, refelling the gross errors of the Samaritans, and defending the true service of God, which was delivered to the Jews, but yet so that he calleth both of them back to himself, as one, whom only all the fathers, and also the ceremonies of the law, did regard, and had a respect unto.

³ Even as he was weary, or because he was weary.

⁴ It was almost noon.

⁵ There is no familiarity nor friendship between the Jews and the Samaritans.

⁶ By this word, That, we are given to understand, that Christ speaketh of some excellent gift, that is to say, even of himself, whom his Father offered to this woman.

⁷ This everlasting water, that is to say, the exceeding love of God, is called living, or of life, to make a difference between it, and the water that should be drawn out of a well; and these metaphors are very much used of the Jews, Jer. 2. 13. Joel 3. 18. Zech. 13. 11.

⁸ All the religion of superstitious people standeth, for the most part, upon two pillars, but very weak, that is to say, upon the examples of the fathers perverted, and a foolish opinion of outward things: against which error: we have to set the word and nature of God.

⁹ The name of this mountain is Gerrzim, whereupon Sannaballetta the Cuthite built a temple by Alexander of Macedon his leave, after the victory of Jessica: and made there Manasses his son-in-law high priest, Joseph. book 11.

¹⁰ This word (Spirit) is to be taken here, as it is set against that commandment which is called carnal, Heb. 7. 16. as the commandment is considered in itself: and so he speaketh of (Truth) not as we set it against a lye, but as we take it in respect of the outward ceremonies of the law, which did only shadow that which Christ performed in deed.

¹¹ By the word (Spirit) he meaneth the nature of the Godhead, and not the third Person in the Trinity.

¹² We may have care of our bodies, but yet so, that we prefer willingly and freely the occasion which is offered us to enlarge the kingdom of God: before all necessities of this life whatsoever.

¹³ When the spiritual corn is ripe, we must not linger, for so the children of this world would condemn us.

¹⁴ The doctrine of the prophets was, as it were, a sowing time: and the doctrine of the gospel, as the harvest: and there is an excellent agreement between them both, and the ministers of them both.

CHRIST conversing with the woman of Samaria.

J. Dardor Sculp.

A. D. 37 For herein is the¹ saying true, that one soweth, and another reapeth.

38 I sent you to reap that, whereon ye bestowed no labour: other men laboured, and ye are entered into their labours.

39 Now many of the Samaritans of that city believed in him, for the saying of the woman, which testified, He hath told me all things that ever I did.

40 Then when the Samaritans were come unto him, they besought him that he would tarry with them: and he abode there two days.

41 And many more believed because of his own word.

42 And they said unto the woman; Now we believe, not because of thy saying: for we have heard him ourselves, and know that this is indeed that Christ, the Saviour of the world.

43 ¶ So two days after he departed thence, and went into^k Galilee.

44 For Jesus himself had^{*} testified, that a prophet hath none honour in his own country.

45 Then when he was come into Galilee, the Galileans received him, which had seen all the things that he did at Jerusalem at the feast: for they went also unto the feast.

46 ¶ And Jesus came again into^{*} Cana, a town of Galilee, where he had made of water wine. And there was a certain¹ ruler, whose son was sick at Capernaum.

47 When he heard that Jesus was come out of Judea into Galilee, he went unto him, and besought him that he would go down, and heal his son: for he was even ready to die.

48 Then said Jesus unto him, Except ye see signs and wonders, ye will not believe.

49 The ruler said unto him, Sir, go down before my son die.

50 Jesus said unto him, Go thy way, thy son liveth: and the man believed the word that Jesus had spoken unto him, and went his way.

51 And as he was now going down, his servants met him, saying, Thy son liveth.

52 Then inquired he of them the hour when he began to amend. And they said unto him, Yesterday the seventh hour the fever left him.

53 Then the father knew, that it was the same hour in the which Jesus had said unto him, Thy son liveth. And he believed, and all his household.

54 This second miracle did Jesus again, after he was come out of Judea into Galilee.

eth his divine power by many reasons; 45 and A. D. with Moses's testimony. 31.

AFTER^{*} that, there was a feast of the Jews, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem. ^{Lev. 23. 7. Deut. 16. 1.}

2 ¶ And there is at Jerusalem, by the place of the sheep, a^a pool called in Hebrew^b Bethesda, having five porches:

3 In the which lay a great multitude of sick folk, of blind, halt, and withered, waiting for the moving of the water.

4 For an angel went down at a certain season into the pool, and troubled the water: whosoever then first, after the stirring of the water, stepped in, was made whole of whatsoever disease he had.

5 And a certain man was there, which had been diseased eight and thirty years.

6 When Jesus saw him lie, and knew that he now long time had been diseased, he said unto him, Wilt thou be made whole?

7 The sick man answered him, Sir, I have no man, when the water is troubled, to put me into the pool: but while I am coming, another stepeth down before me.

8 Jesus said unto him, Rise: take up thy bed, and walk.

9 And immediately the man was made whole, and took up his bed, and walked: and the same day was the sabbath.

10 ¶ The Jews therefore said to him that was made whole, It is the sabbath day: ^{Jer. 17. 22.} it is not lawful for thee to carry thy bed.

11 He answered them, He that made me whole, he said unto me, Take up thy bed, and walk.

12 Then asked they him, What man is that which said unto thee, Take up thy bed, and walk?

13 And he that was healed, knew not who it was: for Jesus had conveyed himself away from the multitude that was in that place.

14 And after that, Jesus found him in the temple, and said unto him, Behold, thou art made whole: sin no more, lest a worse thing come unto thee.

15 ¶ The man departed, and told the Jews, that it was Jesus, which had made him whole.

16 And therefore the Jews did persecute Jesus, and sought to slay him, because he had done these things on the sabbath day.

17 ¶ But Jesus answered them, My Father worketh hitherto, and I work.

18 ¶ Therefore the Jews fought the more to kill him: not only because he had broken the sabbath, but said also that God was^c his Father, and made himself equal with God. ^{Ch. 7. 19.}

19 Then answered Jesus, and said unto them, Verily, verily I say unto you, The Son can do nothing

² The Samaritans do most joyfully embrace that which the Jews most stubbornly rejected.

³ The despisers of Christ deprive themselves of his benefit: yet Christ prepareth a place for himself.

^k Into the towns and villages of Galilee, for he would not make abode in his country of Nazareth, because they despised him, and where (as the other Evangelists write) the efficacy of his benefits were hindered through their marvellous stiff-neckedness.

⁹ Although Christ be absent in body, yet he worketh mightily in the believers by his word.

¹ Some of Herod's courtiers, for though Herod was not a king, but a tetrarch, yet, the lofty name only excepted, he was a king, or, at least, the people called him a king.

¹ There is no disease so old, which Christ cannot heal.

^a Whereof cattle drank, and used to be plunged in, whereof there could not be but great store at Jerusalem.

^b That is to say, the house of pouring out, because great store of water was poured out into that place.

² True religion is not more cruelly assaulted by any means, than by the pretence of religion itself.

³ The work of God was never the breach of the sabbath, but the works of Christ are the works of the Father, both because they are one God, and also because the Father doth not work but in the Son.

^c That is, his only, and no man's else, which they gather by that, that he saith, (And I work) applying this word (work) to himself, which is proper to God, and therefore maketh himself equal to God.

A. D. 31. nothing^d of himself, save that he^e seeth the Father do: for whatsoever things he doeth, the same things doeth the Son^f in like manner.

20 For the Father loveth the Son, and sheweth him all things whatsoever he himself doeth, and he will shew him greater works than these, that ye should marvel.

21^g For likewise as the Father raiseth up the dead, and quickeneth them, so the Son quickeneth whom he will.

22 For the Father^h judgethⁱ no man, but hath committed all judgment unto the Son.

23 Because that all men should honour the Son, as they honour the Father: he that honoureth not the Son, the same honoureth not the Father which hath sent him.

24^j Verily, verily I say unto you, he that heareth my word, and believeth him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation, but hath passed from death unto life.

25^k Verily, verily I say unto you, the hour shall come, and now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God: and they that hear it, shall live.

26 For as the Father hath life in himself, so likewise hath he given to the Son to have life in himself.

27 And hath given him^l power also to execute judgment, in that he is^m the Son of man.

28ⁿ Marvel not at this: for the hour shall come, in the which all that are in the graves, shall hear his voice.

29^o And they shall come^p forth, that have done good, unto the^q resurrection of life: but they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of condemnation.

30^r I can^s do nothing of mine own self: as I hear, I judge: and my judgment is just, because I seek not mine own will, but the will of the Father who hath sent me.

31 If I^t should bear witness of myself, my witness were not^u true.

32^v There is another that beareth witness of me, and I know that the witness which he beareth of me, is true.

33^w Ye sent unto John, and he bare witness unto the truth.

^d Not only without his Father's authority, but also without his mighty working and power.

^e This must be understood of Christ's person, which consisteth of two natures, and not simply of his Godhead: so then he saith that his Father moveth and governeth him in all things; but yet notwithstanding when he saith he worketh with his Father, he voucheth his Godhead.

^f In like sort, jointly and together. Not for that the Father doth some things, and then the Son worketh after him, and doth the like, but because the might and power of the Father and the Son do work equally and jointly together.

^g The Father maketh no man partaker of everlasting life, but in Christ, in whom only also he is truly worshipped.

^h This word (judgeth) is taken by the figure Synecdoche, for all government.

ⁱ These words are not so to be taken, as though they simply denied, that God governed the world, but as the Jews imagined it, which separate the Father from the Son; whereas indeed the Father doth not govern the world, but only in the person of his Son, being made manifest in the flesh, so saith he afterward, ver. 30. that he came not to do his own will: that his doctrine is not his own, chap. 7. 16. that the blind man and his parents sinned not, &c. chap. 9. 3.

^j The Father is not worshipped but by his Son's word, apprehended by faith, which is the only way that leadeth to eternal life.

^k We are all dead in sin, and cannot be quickened by any other means, than by the word of Christ, apprehended 34 But I receive not the record of man: nevertheless these things I say, that ye might be saved.

35 He was a burning and a shining candle: and ye would for^l a season have rejoiced in his light.

36 But I have greater witnesses than the witness of John: for the works which the Father hath given me to finish, the same works that I do, bear witness of me, that the Father sent me.

37 And the^m Father himself, which hath sent me, beareth witness of me. Ye have not heard his voice at any time, neither have ye seen his shape.

38 And his word have ye not abiding in you: for whom he hath sent, him ye believe not.

39ⁿ Search the scriptures: for in them ye think to have eternal life, and they are they which testify of me.

40 But ye will not come to me, that ye might have life.

41 I receive not the praise of men.

42 But I know you, that ye have not the love of God in you.

43 I am come in my Father's name, and ye receive me not: if another shall come in his own name, him will ye receive.

44 How can ye believe, which receive^o honour one of another, and seek not the honour that cometh of God alone?

45^p Do not think that I will accuse you to my Father: there is one that accuseth you, even Moses, in whom ye trust.

46 For had ye believed Moses, ye would have believed me: for he wrote of me.

47 But if ye believe not his writings, how shall ye believe my words?

* Act. 17. 11.

* Ch. 12. 43.

* Gen. 1. 13. and 22. 18. and 49. 10. Deut. 18. 15.

A. D. 32. AFTER these things, Jesus went his way^a over the sea of Galilee, which is Tiberias.

2 And a great multitude followed him, because they saw his miracles, which he did on them that were diseased.

3 Then Jesus went up into a mountain, and there he sat with his disciples.

4 Now the passover, a * feast of the Jews, was near.

5 * Then Jesus lift up his eyes, and seeing that a great multitude came unto him, he said unto Philip, Whence shall we buy bread, that these might eat?

6 (And this he said to prove him: for he himself knew what he would do)

7 Philip answered him, two hundred pennyworth of bread is not sufficient for them, that every one of them may take a little.

8 Then said unto him one of his disciples, Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, 9 There is a little boy here, which hath five barley loaves, and two fishes: but what are they among so many?

10 And Jesus said, Make the people sit down. (Now there was much grass in that place.) Then the men sat down, in number about five thousand.

11 And Jesus took the bread, and gave thanks, and gave to the disciples, and the disciples to them that were set down: and likewise of the fishes as much as they would.

12 And when they were satisfied, he said unto his disciples, Gather up the broken meat which remaineth, that nothing be lost.

13 Then they gathered it together, and filled twelve baskets with the broken meat of the five barley loaves, which remained unto them that had eaten.

14 Then the men, when they had seen the miracle that Jesus did, said, This is of a truth that prophet that should come into the world.

15 When Jesus therefore perceived that they would come, and take him to make him a king, he departed again into a mountain himself alone.

16 ¶ When even was now come, his disciples went down unto the sea, 17 * And entered into a ship, and went over the sea, ^b towards Capernaum: and now it was dark, and Jesus was not come to them.

18 And the sea arose with a great wind that blew.

19 And when they had rowed about five and twenty or thirty furlongs, they saw Jesus walking on the sea, and drawing near unto the ship: so they were afraid.

20 But he said unto them, It is I: be not afraid.

21 Then ^c willingly they received him into the ship, and the ship was by and by at the land whither they went.

22 ¶ The day following, the people which stood on the other side of the sea, saw that there was none other ship there, save that one, wherinto his disciples were entered, and that Jesus went not with his disciples in the ship, but that his disciples were gone alone;

23 And that there came other ships from Tiberias near unto the place where they ate the bread, after the Lord had given thanks.

24 Now when the people saw that Jesus was not there, neither his disciples, they also took shipping, and came to Capernaum, seeking for Jesus.

25 And when they had found him on the other side of the sea, they said unto him, Rabbi, when camest thou hither?

26 ^d Jesus answered them, and said, Verily, verily I say unto you, Ye seek me not because ye saw the miracles, but because ye ate of the loaves, and were filled.

27 ^e Labour not for the meat which perisheth, but for the meat that endureth unto everlasting life, which the Son of man shall give unto you: for him hath * God the Father ^e sealed.

28 Then said they unto him, What shall we do, that we might work the ^f works of God?

29 ^g Jesus answered, and said unto them, * ^g This is the work of God, that ye believe in him whom he hath sent.

30 ^h They said therefore unto him, What sign shewest thou then, that we may see it, and believe thee? what doest thou work?

31 Our fathers did eat manna in the desert, as it is * written, He gave them bread from heaven to eat.

32 ⁱ Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily I say unto you, Moses gave you not ^h that bread from heaven, but my Father giveth you that true bread from heaven.

33 For the bread of God is he which cometh down from heaven, and giveth life unto the world.

34 Then they said unto him, Lord, evermore give us this bread.

35 And

^a Not that he cut over the lake of Tiberias, but by reason of the large creeks, his sailing made his journey the shorter: therefore he is said to have gone over the sea, when as he passed over from one side of the creek to the other.

^b They that follow Christ, do sometimes hunger, but they are never destitute of help.

^c Christ is not only not delighted, but also greatly offended with a preposterous worship.

^d The godly are often in peril and danger, but Christ cometh to them in time, even in the midst of the tempests, and bringeth them to the haven.

^e In Mark 6. 45. they are willed to go before to Bethsaida, for Bethsaida was in the way to Capernaum.

^f They were afraid at the first; but when they knew his voice they became new men, and took him willingly into the ship, whom they shunned and fled from before.

^g They that seek the kingdom of heaven, lack nothing: notwithstanding, the gospel is not the food of the belly, but of the mind.

^h Bestow not your labour and pain.

ⁱ That is, whom God the father hath distinguished from all other men by planting his own virtue in him, as though he had sealed him with his seal, that he might be a lively pattern and representer of him: and that more is, installed him to this office, to reconcile us men to God, and bring us to everlasting life, which is only proper to Christ.

^f Which please God: for they think that everlasting life hangeth upon the condition of fulfilling the law: therefore Christ calleth them back to faith.

^g Men torment themselves in vain, when they go about to please God without faith.

^h That is, this is the work that God requireth, that ye believe in me, and therefore he calleth them back to faith.

ⁱ The spiritual virtue of Christ is contemned of them that are desirous of earthly miracles.

^j Christ, who is the true and only author and giver of eternal life, was signified unto the fathers in Manna.

^k He denieth that that Manna was that pure heavenly bread, and saith that he himself is that true bread, because he feedeth unto the true and everlasting life. And as for that, that Paul, 1 Cor. 10. calleth Manna, spiritual food, it maketh nothing against this place, for he joineth the thing signified with the sign: but in this whole disputation, Christ dealeth with the Jews after their own opinion and conceit of the matter, and they had no further consideration of the Manna, but in that it fed the belly.

A. D. 32. 35 And Jesus said unto them, I am that bread of life: he that cometh to me, shall not hunger: and he that believeth in me, shall never thirst.

36 But I said unto you, that ye also have seen me, and believe not.

37 All that the Father give thine, shall come to me: and him that cometh to me, I cast not away.

38 For I came down from heaven, not to do mine own will, but his will which hath sent me.

39 And this is the Father's will which hath sent me, that of all which he hath given me, I should lose nothing, but should raise it up again at the last day.

40 And this is the will of him that sent me, that every man which seeth the Son, and believeth in him, should have everlasting life: and I will raise him up at the last day.

41 The Jews then murmured at him, because he said, I am that bread which is come down from heaven.

42 And they said, Is not this Jesus, that son of Joseph, whose father and mother we know? how then saith he, I came down from heaven?

43 Jesus then answered, and said unto them, Murmur not among yourselves.

44 No man can come to me, except the Father which hath sent me, draw him: and I will raise him up at the last day.

45 It is written in the prophets, And they shall be all taught of God. Every man therefore that hath heard, and hath learned of the Father, cometh unto me, 46 Not that any man hath seen the Father, save he which is of God, he hath seen the Father.

47 Verily, verily I say unto you, He that believeth in me hath everlasting life.

48 I am that bread of life.

49 Your fathers did eat manna in the wilderness, and are dead,

50 This is that bread which cometh down from heaven, that he which eateth of it should not die.

51 I am that living bread, which came down from heaven: if any man eat of this bread, he shall live for ever: and the bread that I will give is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world. A. D. 32.

52 Then the Jews strove among themselves, saying, How can this man give us his flesh to eat?

53 Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily I say unto you, Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man, and drink his blood, ye have no life in you.

54 Whosoever eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, hath eternal life, and I will raise him up at the last day. ^{1 Cor. 11.}

55 For my flesh is meat indeed, and my blood is drink indeed.

56 He that eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, dwelleth in me, and I in him.

57 As that living Father hath sent me, so live I by the Father: and he that eateth me, even he shall live by me.

58 This is that bread which came down from heaven: not as your fathers have eaten manna, and are dead. He that eateth of this bread, shall live for ever.

59 These things spake he in the synagogue, as he taught in Capernaum.

60 Many therefore of his disciples (when they heard this) said, This is an hard saying: who can bear it?

61 But Jesus knowing in himself, that his disciples murmured at this, said unto them, Doth this offend you?

62 What then if ye shall see that Son of man ascend up, where he was before?

63 It is the Spirit that quickeneth: the flesh profiteth nothing: the words that I speak unto you, are spirit and life. ^{Ch. 3. 15.}

64 But there are some of you that believe not: for Jesus knew from the beginning, which they were that believed not, and who should betray him.

65 And

¹ Which have life, and give life.

² The gift of faith proceedeth from the free election of the Father in Christ, after which followeth necessarily everlasting life: Therefore faith in Christ Jesus is a sure witness of our election, and therefore of our glorification, which is to come.

³ Look above chap. 5. ver. 22.

⁴ Seeing and believing are joined together: for there is another kind of seeing which is general, which the devil have, for they see: but here he speaketh of that kind of seeing which is proper to the elect.

⁵ Flesh cannot perceive spiritual things, and therefore the beginning of our salvation cometh from God, who changeth our nature, so that we being inspired of him, may abide to be instructed and saved by Christ.

⁶ In the book of the prophets: for the Old Testament was divided by them into three several parts, into the law, the prophets, and the holy writ.

⁷ To wit, they shall be children of the church, for so the prophet Isaiah expoundeth it, ch. 54. 13. that is to say, ordained to life, Acts 13. 48. and therefore the knowledge of the heavenly truth is the gift and work of God, and standeth not in any power of man.

⁸ If the Son only hath seen the Father, then it is he only that can teach and instruct us truly.

⁹ The true use of sacraments is to ascend from them to the thing itself, that is, to Christ: by the partaking of whom only, we get everlasting life.

¹⁰ He pointeth out himself when he spake these words.

¹¹ Christ being sent from the Father, is the self-same unto us for the getting and keeping of everlasting life, that bread and flesh, yea, meat and drink are, to the use of this transitory life.

⁹ Which giveth life to the world.

¹⁰ That is to say, whosoever is partaker of Christ indeed, who is our food.

¹¹ Flesh cannot put a difference between fleshly eating, which is done by the help of the teeth, and spiritual eating, which consisteth in faith: and therefore it condemneth that which it understandeth not: yet notwithstanding, the truth must be preached and taught.

¹² If Christ be present, life is present; but when Christ is absent, then is death present.

¹³ In that that Christ is man, he receiveth that power which quickeneth and giveth life to them that are his, of his Father: and he addeth this word (That) to make a difference between him and all other fathers.

¹⁵ The reason of man cannot comprehend the uniting of Christ and his members: therefore let it worship and reverence that which is better than itself.

¹⁶ The flesh of Christ doth therefore quicken us because that he that is man, is God: which mystery is only comprehended by faith, which is the gift of God, proper only to the elect.

¹⁷ Spirit, that is, that power which floweth from the Godhead, causeth the flesh of Christ, which otherwise were nothing but flesh, both to live in itself, and to give life to us.

65 And he said, Therefore said I unto you, that no man can come unto me, except it be given unto him of my Father.

66 From that time, many of his disciples went back, and walked no more with him.

67 Then said Jesus unto the twelve, Will ye also go away?

68 Then Simon Peter answered him, Master, to whom shall we go? thou hast the words of eternal life:

69 And we believe and know that thou art that Christ, that Son of the living God.

70 Jesus answered them, Have not I chosen you twelve, and one of you is a devil?

71 Now he spake it of Judas Iscariot, the son of Simon: for he it was that should betray him, though he was one of the twelve.

CHAP. VII.

2 Christ, after his cousins were gone up to the feast of tabernacles, 10 goeth thither privily. 12 The people's sundry opinions of him. 14 He teacheth in the temple. 32 The priests command to take him. 41 Strife among the multitude about him, 47 and between the Pharisees and the officers that were sent to take him, 50 and Nicodemus.

AFTER these things, Jesus walked in Galilee, and would not walk in Judea: for the Jews sought to kill him.

2 Now the Jews ^a feast of the tabernacles was at hand.

3 His brethren therefore said unto him, Depart hence, and go into Judea, that thy disciples may see thy works that thou doest.

4 For there is no man that doeth any thing secretly, and he himself seeketh to be famous. If thou doest these things, shew thyself to the world.

5 For as yet his ^b brethren believed not in him.

6 Then Jesus said unto them, My time is not yet come: but your time is always ready.

7 The world cannot hate you: but me it hateth, because I testify of it, that the works thereof are evil.

8 Go ye up unto this feast: I will not go up yet unto this feast: ^c for my time is not yet fulfilled.

9 ¶ These things he said unto them, and abode still in Galilee. A. D. 32.

10 But as soon as his brethren were gone up, then went he also up unto the feast, not openly, but as it were privily.

11 Then the Jews sought him at the feast, and said, Where is he?

12 And much murmuring was there of him among the people. Some said, He is a good man: others said, Nay, but he deceiveth the people.

13 Howbeit no man spake ^e openly of him for fear of the Jews.

14 Now when the ^d half of the feast was done, Jesus went up into the temple and taught.

15 And the Jews marvelled, saying, How knoweth this man the scriptures, seeing that he never learned!

6 Jesus answered them, and said, My doctrine is not mine, but his that sent me.

17 If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself.

18 He that speaketh of himself, seeketh his own glory: but he that seeketh his glory that sent him, the same is true, and no unrighteousness is in him.

19 * 7 Did not Moses give you a law, and yet none of you keepeth the ^{*} law? Why go ye about to kill me? * Exod. 24: 3. Ch. 5. 11.

20 The people answered and said, Thou hast a devil: who goeth about to kill thee?

21 Jesus answered, and said to them, I have done one work, and ye all marvel.

22 * Moses therefore gave unto you circumcision (not because it is of Moses, but of the ^{*} fathers) and ye on the sabbath day circumcise a man. * Lev. 12. 3. Deut. 10. 16.

23 If a man on the sabbath receive circumcision, that the ^f law of Moses should not be broken, be ye angry with me, because I have made a man every whit whole on the sabbath day?

24 * 9 Judge not ^e according to the appearance, but judge righteous judgment. * Gen. 17: 10.

25 ¶ 10 Then said some of them of Jerusalem, Is not this he, whom they go about to kill?

26 And behold, he speaketh openly, and they say nothing to him? do the rulers know indeed, that this is indeed that Christ?

D d 27 How-

¹⁵ Such is the malice of men, that they take occasion of their own destruction, even of the very doctrine of salvation, unless it be a few which believe through the singular gift of God.

¹⁶ The number of the professors of Christ is very small among them; also there be some hypocrites, and worse than all other.

^a This feast was so called, because of the booths and tents which they pitched of divers kinds of boughs, and sat under them, seven days together, all which time the feast lasted.

¹ The grace of God cometh not by inheritance, but it is a gift that cometh other ways: whereby it cometh to pass, that oftentimes the children of God suffer more affliction by their own kinsfolks than by strangers.

^b His kinsfolks: for so use the Hebrews to speak.

² We must not follow the foolish desires of our friends.

³ An example of horrible confusion in the very bosom of the church. The pastors oppress the people with terror and fear: the people seek Christ, when he appeareth not; when he offereth himself, they neglect him. Some also that know him, condemn him rashly: a very few think well of him, and that in secret.

^c Or, boldly and freely: for the chief of the Jews sought nothing so much, as to bury his fame and name.

⁴ Christ striveth with goodness against the wickedness of the world; in the mean season the most part of men take occasion of offence even by that same whereby they ought to have been stirred up to embrace Christ.

^d About the fourth day of the feast.

⁵ Therefore are there few to whom the gospel favoureth very well, because the study of godliness is very rare.

^e Look above chap. 5. ver. 22. and he speaketh this after the opinion of the Jews: as if he said, my doctrine is not mine, that is, it is not his whom you take to be a man as other are, and therefore set light by him, but it is his that sent me.

⁶ The true doctrine of salvation differeth from the false in this, that the same setteth forth the glory of God, and this by puffing up of men, darkeneth the glory of God.

⁷ None do more confidently boast themselves to be the defenders of the law of God, than they that do most impudently break it.

⁸ The sabbath day (which is here set before us for a rule of all ceremonies) was not appointed to hinder, but to further and practise God's works, amongst which, the love of our neighbour is the chiefest.

^f That is to say, if the law of circumcision, which Moses gave, be of so great account amongst you, that you doubt not to circumcise upon the sabbath, do you rightly reprove me for healing a man thoroughly?

⁹ We must judge according to the truth of things, lest the persons of men do turn us and carry us away.

⁵ By the shew that I make; for I seem to be but an abject and rascal of Galilee, and a carpenter's son, whom no man maketh account of: but mark the matter itself well, and judge the tree by the fruit.

¹⁰ Many do marvel that the endeavours of the enemies of God have no success: yet in the mean season they do not acknowledge the virtue and power of God.

A. D. 32. 27 ¹¹ Howbeit, we know this man whence he is: but when that Christ cometh, no man shall know whence he is.

28 ¹² Then cried Jesus in the temple as he taught, saying, Ye both know me, and know whence I am: yet am I not come of myself: but he that sent me is true, whom ye know not.

29 But I know him: for I am of him, and he hath sent me.

30 ¹³ Then they sought to take him, but no man laid hands on him, because his hour was not yet come.

31 Now many of the people believed in him, and said, When that Christ cometh, will he do more miracles than this man hath done?

32 ¹⁴ The Pharisees heard that the people murmured these things of him, and the Pharisees and high priests sent officers to take him.

33 Then said Jesus unto them, Yet am I a little while with you, and then go I unto him that sent me.

• Ca. 13. 34. 34 ¹⁵ Ye shall seek me, and shall not find me: and where I am, can ye not come.

35 Then said the Jews among themselves, Whither will he go, that we shall not find him? Will he go unto them that are dispersed among the Grecians, and teach the Grecians?

36 What saying is this that he said, Ye shall seek me, and shall not find me? and where I am, cannot ye come?

• Lev. 23. 37 ¹⁶ Now in the last and great day of the feast, Jesus stood and cried, saying, If any man thirst, let him come unto me, and drink.

• Deut. 31. 38 He that believeth in me, as saith the scripture, out of his belly shall flow rivers of water of life.

• 1. Jo. 1. 39 (* This spake he of the Spirit, which they that believed in him should receive: for the Holy Ghost was not yet given, because that Jesus was not yet glorified)

• Deut. 17. 40 ¹⁷ So many of the people, when they heard this saying, said, Of a truth this is that prophet.

41 Others said, This is that Christ: and some said, But shall that Christ come out of Galilee?

• Mat. 1. 42 ¹⁸ * Sayeth not the scripture, that that Christ shall come of the seed of David, and out of the town of Bethlehem, where David was?

43 So was there dissension among the people for him.

44 And some of them would have taken him, but no man laid hands on him. A. D. 32.

45 ¹⁷ Then came the officers to the high priests and Pharisees, and they said unto them, Why have ye not brought him?

46 The officers answered, Never man spake like this man.

47 Then answered them the Pharisees, Are ye also deceived?

48 ¹⁸ Doth any of the rulers, or of the Pharisees believe in him?

49 But this people, which know not the law, are cursed.

50 Nicodemus said unto them (* he that came to Jesus by night, and was one of them)

51 Doth our law judge a man before it hear him, and know what he hath done?

52 They answered, and said unto him, Art thou also of Galilee? Search and look: for out of Galilee ariseth no prophet.

53 ¹⁹ And every man went unto his own house.

C H A P. VIII.

3 The woman taken in adultery, 11 hath her sins forgiven her. 12 Christ is the light of the world. 19 The Pharisees ask where his Father is. 39 The sons of Abraham. 42 The sons of God. 44 The devil the father of lying. 56 Abraham saw Christ's day.

AND Jesus went unto the mount of Olives, 2 And early in the morning came again into the temple, and all the people came unto him, and he sat down and taught them.

3 Then the Scribes and the Pharisees brought unto him a woman taken in adultery, and set her in the midst,

4 And said unto him, Master, we found this woman committing adultery, even in the very act.

5 * Now Moses in our law commanded, that such should be stoned: what sayest thou therefore?

6 And this they said to tempt him, that they might have whereof to accuse him. But Jesus stooped down, and with his finger wrote on the ground.

7 And while they continued asking him, he lift himself up, and said unto them, * Let him that is among you without sin, cast the first stone at her.

8 And

¹¹ Men are very wise to procure strops and staves to themselves.

¹² The truth of Christ doth not hang upon the judgment of man.

¹³ The wicked cannot do what they list, but what God hath appointed.

¹⁵ Word for word (to the dispersion of the Gentiles or Grecians); and under the name of the Grecians he understandeth the Jews which were dispersed amongst the Gentiles, 1 Pet. 1. 1.

¹⁶ There are two principles of our salvation: the one to be thoroughly touched with a true feeling of our extreme poverty: the other, to seek in Christ only (whom we catch hold on by faith) the abundance of all good things.

¹⁷ The last day of the feast of tabernacles, that is, the eighth day, was as high a day as the first. Lev. 23. 36.

² That is, those things were not yet seen and perceived, which were to shew and set forth the glory of the only begotten.

³ There is contention even in the church itself about the chief point of religion: neither hath Christ any more cruel enemies than those that occupy the seat of truth, yet cannot they do what they would.

⁴ God from heaven scorneth such as are his Son's enemies.

⁵ False pastors are so fond and foolish, that they esteem the church of God, according to the multitude and outward show, chap. 3. 2.

⁶ What he hath committed, who is accused?

⁷ There is no counsel against the Lord.

⁸ While the wicked go about to make a snare for good men, they make a snare for themselves.

⁹ Against hypocrites which are very severe judges against other men, and flatter themselves in their own sins.

A. D. 33.

8 And again he stooped down, and wrote on the ground.

9 And when they heard it, being accused by their own conscience, they went out one by one, beginning at the eldest, even to the last: so Jesus was left alone, and the woman standing in the midst.

10 When Jesus had lift up himself again, and saw no man, but the woman, he said unto her, Woman, where are those thine accusers? hath no man condemned thee?

11 She said, No man, Lord. And Jesus said, Neither do I condemn thee, go and sin no more.

12 Then spake Jesus again unto them, saying, I am that light of the world: he that followeth me, shall not walk in darkness, but shall have that light of life.

13 The Pharisees therefore said unto him, Thou bearest record of thyself: thy record is not true.

14 Jesus answered, and said unto them, Though I bear record of myself, yet my record is true: for I know whence I came, and whither I go: but ye cannot tell whence I come, and whither I go.

15 Ye judge after the flesh: I judge no man.

16 And if I also judge, my judgment is true: for I am not alone, but I, and the Father, that sent me.

17 And it is also written in your law, that the testimony of two men is true.

18 I am one that bear witness of myself, and the Father that sent me beareth witness of me.

19 Then said they unto him, Where is that Father of thine? Jesus answered, Ye neither know me, nor that Father of mine. If ye had known me, ye should have known that Father of mine also.

20 These words spake Jesus in the treasury, as he taught in the temple, and no man laid hand on him: for his hour was not yet come.

21 Then said Jesus again unto them, I go my way, and ye shall seek me, and shall die in your sins. Whither I go, can ye not come.

22 Then said the Jews, Will he kill himself, because he saith, Whither I go, can ye not come?

23 And he said unto them, Ye are from beneath, I am from above: ye are of this world, I am not of this world.

24 I said therefore unto you, That ye shall die in your sins: for except ye believe that I am he, ye shall die in your sins.

25 Then said they unto him, Who art thou? And Jesus said unto them, Even the same thing that I said unto you from the beginning.

26 I have many things to say, and to judge of you: but he that sent me, is true, and the things that I have heard of him, those speak I to the world.

27 They understood not that he spake to them of the Father.

28 Then said Jesus unto them, When ye have lift up the Son of man, then shall ye know that I am he, and that I do nothing of myself, but as my Father hath taught me, so I speak these things.

29 For he that sent me, is with me: the Father hath not left me alone, because I do always those things that please him.

30 As he spake these things, many believed in him.

31 Then said Jesus to the Jews which believed in him, If ye continue in my word, ye are verily my disciples, 32 And shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.

33 They answered him, We be Abraham's seed, and were never bond to any man: why sayest thou then, Ye shall be made free?

34 Jesus answered them, Verily, verily I say unto you, that whosoever committeth sin, is the servant of sin.

35 And the servant abideth not in the house for ever: but the Son abideth for ever.

36 If that Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed.

37 I know that ye are Abraham's seed: but ye seek to kill me, because my word hath no place in you.

38 I speak that which I have seen with my Father: and ye do that which ye have seen with your father.

39 They answered, and said unto him, Abraham is our father. Jesus said unto them, If ye were

1 Christ would not take upon him the civil magistrate's office: he contented himself to bring sinners to faith and repentance.

2 The world which is blind in itself, cannot come to have any light but in Christ only.

3 Christ is, without all exception, the best witness of the truth, for he was sent by his father for that purpose, and was by him approved to the world by infinite miracles.

4 Thou bearest witness of thyself, which thing by all mens opinions is naught, and for a man to commend himself is very discommendable.

5 That which he denied afore, ch. 5. 31. must be taken by a manner of granting, for in that place he framed himself somewhat to the humour of his hearers, which acknowledged nothing in Christ but his humanity, and therefore he was content they should set light by his own witness, unless it were otherwise confirmed. But in this place, he standeth for the maintenance of his Godhead, and praiseth his Father, who is his witness, and agreeth with him.

6 I do now only teach you. I condemn no man; but if I lust to do it, I might lawfully do it, for I am not alone, but my Father is with me.

7 The Godhead is plainly distinguished from the manhood, else there were not two witnesses: for the party accused is not taken for a witness.

8 No man can know God, but in Christ only.

9 This was some place appointed for the gathering of the offerings.

10 We live and die at the pleasure of God, and not of men. Therefore this one thing remaineth, that we go forward constantly in our vocation.

11 Because that men do naturally abhor heavenly things, no man can be a fit disciple of Christ, unless the Spirit of God frame him. In the mean season notwithstanding, the world must of necessity perish, because it refuseth the life that is offered unto it.

12 He shall at length know who Christ is, which will diligently hear what he saith.

13 That is, I am Christ, and the Saviour, for so I told you from the beginning, that I was.

14 God is the revenger of Christ's doctrine despised.

15 Even the contempt of Christ maketh for his glory: which thing his enemies shall feel at length to their great smart.

16 The true disciples of Christ continue in his doctrine, that profiting more and more in the knowledge of the truth, they may be delivered from the most grievous burden of sin, into the true liberty of righteousness and life.

17 From the slavery of sin.

18 Some of the multitude, and they that believed: for this is not the speech of men that consent unto him, but of men that are against him.

19 Born and begotten of Abraham.

20 Our wicked manners declare, that we are plainly born of a devilish nature. But we are changed, and made of the household of God, according to the covenant which he made with Abraham by Christ only, apprehended and laid hold on by faith: which faith is known by a godly and honest life.

A. D. were Abraham's children, ye would do the works of Abraham.

40 But now ye go about to kill me, a man that have told you the truth, which I have heard of God: this did not Abraham.

41 Ye do the works of your father. Then said they to him, We are not born of fornication: we have one Father, which is God.

42 Therefore Jesus said unto them, If God were your father, then would ye love me: for I proceeded forth and came from God, neither came I of myself, but he sent me.

43 Why do ye not understand my talk? because ye cannot hear my word.

44 * Ye are of your father the devil, and the lusts of your father ye will do: he hath been a murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lye, then speaketh he of his own: for he is a lyar, and the father thereof.

45 And because I tell you the truth, ye believe me not.

46 Which of you can rebuke me of sin? and if I say the truth, why do ye not believe me?

47 He that is of God, heareth God's words: ye therefore hear them not, because ye are not of God.

48 Then answered the Jews, and said unto him, Say we not well, that thou art a Samaritan, and hast a devil?

49 Jesus answered, I have not a devil: but I honour my Father, and ye have dishonoured me.

50 And I seek not mine own praise: but there is one that seeketh it, and judgeth.

51 Verily, verily I say unto you, If a man keep my word, he shall never see death.

52 Then said the Jews to him, Now know we that thou hast a devil. Abraham is dead, and the prophets: and thou sayest, If a man keep my word, he shall never taste of death.

53 Art thou greater than our father Abraham, which is dead? and the prophets are dead: whom makest thou thyself?

* Or, language; as though he said, you do no more understand what I say, than if I spake in a strange and unknown language to you.

¹ From the beginning of the world: for as soon as man was made, the devil cast him headlong into death.

² That is, continued not constantly, or remained not.

³ That is, in faithfulness and uprightnes; that is, he kept not his creation.

⁴ Even of his own head, and of his own brain or disposition.

⁵ The author thereof.

⁶ Christ did thoroughly execute the office that his Father enjoined him.

⁷ The enemies of Christ make their bravery for a while, but the Father will appear at his time to revenge the reproach that is done unto him in the person of his Son.

⁸ That is, that will revenge both your despising of me, and of him.

⁹ The only doctrine of the gospel apprehended by faith, is a sure remedy against death.

¹⁰ That is, he shall not find it: for even in the midst of death, the faithful see life.

¹¹ Against them which abuse the glory of the saints, to darken Christ's glory.

¹² There is nothing further off from all ambition than Christ, but his Father has set him above all things.

¹³ This is spoken by manner of a grant; as if he had said, Be it so, let this report which I give of myself be of no force: yet there is another that glorifieth me, that is, that honoureth my name.

¹⁴ There is no right knowledge of God without Christ, neither any right knowledge of Christ without his word.

¹⁵ The virtue of Christ shewed itself through all former 54 Jesus answered, If I honour myself, mine honour is nothing worth: it is my Father that honoureth me, whom ye say, that he is your God.

55 Yet ye have not known him: but I know him, and if I should say, I know him not; I should be a lyar like unto you: but I know him, and keep his word.

56 Your father Abraham rejoiced to see my day, and he saw it, and was glad.

57 Then said the Jews unto him, Thou art not yet fifty years old, and hast thou seen Abraham?

58 Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily I say unto you, Before Abraham was, I am.

59 Then took they up stones to cast at him, but Jesus hid himself, and went out of the temple: and he passed through the midst of them, and so went his way.

CHAP. IX.

1 Christ giveth sight on the sabbath day to him that was born blind: 13 Whom, after he had long reasoned against the Pharisees, 22, 34 and was cast out of the synagogue, 36 Christ endueth with the knowledge of the everlasting light.

AND as Jesus passed by, he saw a man which was blind from his birth.

2 And his disciples asked him, saying, Master, who did sin, this man, or his parents, that he was born blind?

3 Jesus answered, Neither hath this man sinned, nor his parents, but that the works of God should be shewed on him.

4 I must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day: the night cometh, when no man can work.

5 As long as I am in the world, I am the light of the world.

6 As soon as he had thus spoken, he spat on the ground, and made clay of the spittle, and anointed the eyes of the blind with the clay,

7 And said unto him, Go wash in the pool of Siloam (which is by interpretation, Sent) He went ages in the fathers, for they saw in the promises that he should come, and did very joyfully lay hold on him with a lively faith.

¹ Was very desirous.

² A day is a space that a man liveth in, or doth any notable act, or suffereth any great thing.

³ With the eyes of faith, Heb. 11. 13.

⁴ Christ, as he was God, was before Abraham; and he was the Lamb slain from the beginning of the world.

⁵ Zeal without knowledge, breaketh out at length into a most open madness; and yet the wicked cannot do what they list.

⁶ Sin is the beginning even of all bodily diseases, and yet doth it not follow, that God always respecteth their sins whom he most sharply punisheth.

⁷ Christ reasoneth here, as his disciples thought, which presuppose that there come no diseases but for sins only; whereupon he answereth, that there was another cause of this man's blindness, and that was, that God's work might be seen.

⁸ The works of Christ are as it were a light, which lighten the darkness of the world.

⁹ By (day) is meant the light, that is, the lightsome doctrine of the heavenly truth: and by night is meant the darkness which cometh by the obscurity of the same doctrine.

¹⁰ Christ healing the man born blind, by taking the sign of clay, and afterward the sign of the fountain of Siloam, (which signifieth Sent) sheweth that as he at the beginning made man, so doth he again restore both his body and soul; and yet so, that he himself cometh first of his own accord to heal us.

A. D. went his way therefore, and washed, and came again seeing.

8 + Now the neighbours and they that had seen him before, when he was blind, said, Is not this he that sat and begged?

9 Some said, This is he: and others said, He is like him: but he himself said, I am he.

10 Therefore they said unto him, How were thine eyes opened?

11 He answered, and said, The man that is called Jesus, made clay, and anointed mine eyes, and said unto me, Go to the pool of Siloam, and wash. So I went and washed, and received sight.

12 Then they said unto him, Where is he? He said, I cannot tell.

13 ¶ They brought to the Pharisees him that was once blind.

14 And it was the sabbath day, when Jesus made the clay, and opened his eyes.

15 Then again the Pharisees also asked him, how he had received sight. And he said unto them, He laid clay upon mine eyes, and I washed, and do see.

16 + Then said some of the Pharisees, This man is not of God, because he keepeth not the sabbath day. Others said, How can a man that is a sinner, do such miracles? and there was a dissention among them.

17 Then spake they unto the blind again, What sayest thou of him, because he hath opened thine eyes? And he said, He is a prophet.

18 Then the Jews did not believe him, (that he had been blind, and received his sight) until they had called the parents of him that had received sight.

19 And they asked them, saying, Is this your son, whom ye say was born blind? How doth he now see then?

20 His parents answered them, and said, We know that this is our son, and that he was born blind:

21 But by what means he now seeth, we know not: or who hath opened his eyes, can we not tell: he is old enough: ask him: he shall answer for himself.

22 These words spake his parents, because they feared the Jews: for the Jews had ordained already, that if any man did confess that he was Christ, he should be excommunicate out of the synagogue, 23 Therefore said his parents, He is old enough: ask him.

24 Then again called they the man that had been blind, and said unto him, Give glory unto God: we know that this man is a sinner. A. D. 32.

25 Then he answered, and said, Whether he be a sinner or no, I cannot tell: one thing I know, that I was blind, and now I see.

26 Then said they to him again, What did he to thee? how opened he thine eyes?

27 He answered them, I have told you already, and ye have not heard it: wherefore would ye hear it again? will ye also be his disciples?

28 + Then reviled they him, and said, Be thou his disciple: we be Moses's disciples.

29 We know that God spake with Moses: but this man we know not from whence he is.

30 The man answered and said unto them, Doubtless, this is a marvellous thing, that ye know not whence he is, and yet he hath opened mine eyes.

31 Now we know that God heareth not sinners: but if a man be a worshipper of God, and doeth his will, him heareth he.

32 Since the world began, was it not heard, that any man opened the eyes of one that was born blind.

33 If this man were not of God, he could have done nothing.

34 They answered, and said unto him, Thou art altogether born in sins, and dost thou teach us? so they cast him out.

35 + Jesus heard that they had cast him out: and when he had found him, he said unto him, Dost thou believe in the Son of God?

36 He answered, and said, Who is he, Lord, that I might believe in him?

37 And Jesus said unto him, Both thou hast seen him, and he it is that talketh with thee.

38 Then he said, Lord, I believe: and worshipped him.

39 + And Jesus said, I am come unto judgment into this world, that they which see not, might see: and that they which see, might be made blind.

40 And some of the Pharisees which were with him, heard these things, and said unto him, Are we blind also?

41 Jesus said unto them, If ye were blind, ye should not have sin: but now ye say, We see: therefore your sin remaineth.

E c

CHAP.

+ A true image of all men, who as they are of nature blind, do neither themselves receive the light that is offered unto them, nor suffer it in others, and yet make a great ado amongst themselves.

+ This is an Hebrew kind of speech, for they call a man's eyes shut, when they cannot receive any light. And therefore they are said to have their eyes opened, which of blind men are made to see.

+ Religion is not assaulted by any means more, than by pretence of religion; but the more it is pressed down, the more it riseth up.

+ A solemn order, whereby men were constrained in old time to acknowledge their fault before God, as if they should say, Consider thou art before God, who knoweth the whole matter, and therefore see thou reverence his majesty, and do him this honour, rather to confess the whole matter openly, than to lye before him, Josh. 7. 19. 1 Sam. 6. 5.

+ He is called a sinner in the Hebrew tongue, which is a wicked man, and maketh as it were an art of sinning.

+ Proud wickedness must needs at length break forth, which in vain lieth hid under a zeal of godliness.

+ Thou art naught even from thy cradle, and as we use to say, there is nothing in thee but sin.

+ Most happy is their state which are cast furthest out of the church of the wicked (which proudly boast themselves of the name of the church) that Christ may come nearer to them.

+ Christ doth lighten all them by the preaching of the gospel, which acknowledge their own darkness, but such as seem to themselves to see clearly enough, those he altogether blindeth; of which sort are they oftentimes which have the highest place in the church.

+ With great power and authority, to do what is righteous and just; as if he said, These men take upon them to govern the people of God after their own lust, as though they saw all things, and no man but they; but I will rule far otherwise than these men do: for whom they account for blind men, them will I lighten; and such as take themselves to be wisest, them will I drown in most gross darkness of ignorance.

+ In these words (of seeing, and not seeing) there is a secret taunting and check to the Pharisees: for they thought all men blind but themselves.

CHAP. X.

1 Christ proveth that the Pharisees are the evil shepherds, 8 and by many reasons, that himself 11, 14 is the good shepherd. 19 And thereof divers arifeth. 31 They take up stones, 39 and go about to take him, but he escapeth.

VERILY, ¹ verily I say unto you, He that entereth not in by the door into the sheepfold, but climbeth up another way, he is a thief and a robber.

2 But he that goeth in by the door, is the shepherd of the sheep.

3 To him the ² porter openeth, and the sheep hear his voice, and he calleth his own sheep by name, and leadeth them out.

4 And when he hath sent forth his own sheep, he goeth before them, and the sheep follow him: for they know his voice.

5 And they will not follow a stranger, but they flee from him: for they know not the voice of strangers.

6 This ³ parable spake Jesus unto them: but they understood not what things they were which he spake unto them.

7 Then said Jesus unto them again, Verily, verily I say unto you, I am the door of the sheep.

8 ⁴ All that ⁴ ever came before me are thieves and robbers: but the sheep did not hear them.

9 ⁵ I am that door: by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall ⁴ go in, and go out, and find pasture.

10 The thief cometh not but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy: I am come that they might have life, and have it in abundance.

11 ⁶ I am that good shepherd: that good shepherd giveth his life for his sheep.

12 But an hireling, and he which is not the shepherd, neither the sheep are his own, seeth the wolf coming, and he leaveth the sheep, and fleeth, and the wolf catcheth them, and scattereth the sheep.

13 So the hireling fleeth, because he is an hireling, and careth not for the sheep.

14 I am that good shepherd, and know mine, and am known of mine,

15 As the Father ⁶ knoweth me, so know I the Father: and I lay down my life for my sheep. A. D. 32.

16 ⁴ Other sheep I have also, which are not of this fold: them also must I bring, and they shall hear my voice: and ^{*} there shall be ¹ one sheepfold, and one shepherd. Ezek. 37. 21.

17 ⁵ Therefore doth my Father love me, because ^{} I lay down my life, that I might take it again. 10. 51. 7.

18 No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of myself: I have power to lay it down, and have power to take it again: this [†] commandment have I received of my Father. A. D. 32. 44.

19 ¶ ⁶ Then there was a dissention again among the Jews for these sayings.

20 And many of them said, He hath a devil, and is mad: why hear ye him?

21 Others said, These are not the words of him that hath a devil: Can the devil open the eyes of the blind?

22 And it was at Jerusalem, the feast of the dedication, and it was winter.

23 ⁷ And Jesus walked in the temple, in Solomon's porch.

24 Then came the Jews round about him, and said unto him, How long dost thou make us doubt? If thou be that Christ, tell us plainly.

25 ⁸ Jesus answered them, I told you, and ye believe not: the works that I do in my Father's name, they bear witness of me.

26 ⁹ But ye believe not: ¹ for ye are not of my sheep, as I said unto you.

27 My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me:

28 And I give unto them eternal life, and they shall never perish, neither shall any pluck them out of mine hand.

29 My Father which gave them me, is greater than all, and none is able to take them out of my Father's hand.

30 I and my Father are one.

31 ^{ 10} Then the Jews again took up stones, to stone him. Ch. 8. 19.

32 Jesus answered them, Many good works have I shewed you from my ^{*} Father: for which of these works do ye stone me?

33 The Jews answered him, saying, For the good

¹ Seeing that by Christ only we have access to the Father, there are neither other true shepherds, than those which come to Christ themselves, and bring others thither also; neither is any to be thought the true sheep-fold, but that which is gathered to Christ.

² In those days they used to have a servant always sitting at the door, and therefore he speaketh after the manner of those days.

³ This word (parable) which the Evangelist useth here, signifieth a dark kind of speech, when words are taken from their natural meaning, to signify another thing to us.

⁴ It maketh no matter, how many, neither how old the false teachers have been.

⁵ These large terms must be applied to the matter he speaketh of. And therefore when he calleth himself the door, he calleth all them thieves and robbers which take upon them this name of Door, which none of the prophets can, for they shewed the sheep that Christ was the door.

⁶ Only Christ is the true pastor, and that only is the true church, which acknowledgeth him to be properly their only pastor: To him are opposite thieves, which feed not the sheep, but kill them: and hirelings also, which forsake the flock in time of danger, because they feed it only for their own profit and gains.

⁷ That is, shall live safely: so use the Jews to speak, as Deut. 25. 6. and yet there is a peculiar alluding to the Shepherd's office.

⁸ Loveth me, alloweth me.

⁴ The calling of the Gentiles.

[†] The certain mark of the catholic church throughout all the world, which hath one head, that is, Christ, the only keeper and only shepherd of it.

⁵ Christ is by the decree of the Father, the only true shepherd of the true church, for he willingly gave his life for his sheep, and by his own power rose again to life.

⁶ He speaketh in the time that now is, because Christ's whole life was as it were a perpetual death.

⁷ The gospel discovereth hypocrisy, and therefore the world must needs rage when it cometh forth.

⁸ The feast of the dedication was instituted by Judas Maccabæus and his brethren, after the restoring of God's true religion by the casting out of Antiochus's garrison, 1 Mac. 4. 59.

⁹ The unbelievers and proud men accuse the gospel of darkness, which darkness indeed is within themselves.

¹⁰ The doctrine of the gospel is proved from heaven by two witnesses; both by the purity of the doctrine, and by miracles.

¹¹ It is no marvel that there do but a few believe, seeing that all men are by nature untamed beasts, yet notwithstanding God hath his, which he turneth into his sheep, and committeth them unto his Son, and preserveth them against the cruelty of all wild beasts.

¹² He giveth a reason why they believe not, to wit, because they are none of his sheep.

¹³ Christ proveth his dignity by divine works.

¹⁴ Through my Father's authority and power.

A. D. 33. good work we stone thee not, but for blasphemy, and that thou being a man, makest thyself God.

34 Jesus answered them, Is it not written in your law, * I said, Ye are gods?

35 If he called them gods, unto whom the word of God was given, and the scripture cannot be broken:

36 Say ye of him, whom the Father hath sanctified, and sent into the world, Thou blasphemest, because I said, I am the Son of God?

37 If I do not the works of my Father, believe me not.

38 But if I do, then though ye believe not me, yet believe the works, that ye may know and believe, that the Father is in me, and I in him.

39 ¹¹ Again they went about to take him: but he escaped out of their hands, 40 And went again beyond Jordan, into the place where John first baptized, and there abode.

41 And many resorted unto him, and said, John did no miracle: but all things that John spake of this man, were true.

42 And many believed in him there.

C H A P. XI.

¹ Christ, to shew that he is ²⁵ the life and the resurrection, ¹⁴ cometh to Lazarus being dead, ¹⁷, ³⁴ and buried, ⁴³ and raiseth him up. ⁴⁷ As the priests were consulting together, ⁴⁹ Caiaphas ⁵⁰ propheseth that one must die for the people. ⁵⁶, ⁵⁷ They command to seek Christ out, and to take him.

AND ¹ a certain man was sick, named Lazarus of Bethany, the ² town of Mary, and her sister Martha.

² (And it was that * Mary which anointed the Lord with ointment, and wiped his feet with her hair, whose brother Lazarus was sick)

³ Therefore his sisters sent unto him, saying, Lord, behold, he whom thou lovest, is sick.

⁴ When Jesus heard it, he said, This sickness is not unto ^b death, but for the glory of God, that the Son of God might be glorified thereby.

⁵ ¶ Now Jesus loved Martha and her sister, and Lazarus.

⁶ ² And after he had heard that he was sick, yet abode he two days still in the same place where he was.

⁷ Then after that, said he to his disciples, Let us go into Judea again.

⁸ ¹ The disciples said unto him, Master, the Jews lately sought to * stone thee, and dost thou go thither again?

⁹ Jesus answered, Are there not ^c twelve hours in the day? If a man walk in the day, he stumbleth not, because he seeth the light of this world. A. D. 33.

¹⁰ But if a man walk in the night, he stumbleth, because there is no light in him.

¹¹ These things spake he: and after, he said unto them, Our friend Lazarus ^d sleepeth: but I go to wake him up.

¹² Then said his disciples, Lord, if he sleep, he shall be safe.

¹³ Howbeit, Jesus spake of his death: but they thought that he had spoken of the natural sleep.

¹⁴ Then said Jesus unto them plainly, Lazarus is dead.

¹⁵ And I am glad for your sakes, that I was not there, that ye may believe: but let us go unto him.

¹⁶ Then said Thomas (which is called Didymus) unto his fellow disciples, Let us also go, that we may die with him.

¹⁷ ¶ Then came Jesus, and found that he had lien in the grave four days already.

¹⁸ ¶ (Now Bethany was near unto Jerusalem, about fifteen furlongs off.)

¹⁹ ⁴ And many of the Jews were come to Martha and Mary, to comfort them for their brother.

²⁰ Then Martha, when she heard that Jesus was coming, went to meet him: but Mary sat still in the house.

²¹ Then said Martha unto Jesus, Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not been dead.

²² But now I know also, that whatsoever thou askest of God, God will give it thee.

²³ Jesus said unto her, Thy brother shall rise again

²⁴ Martha said unto him, I know that he shall rise again * in the resurrection at the last day.

²⁵ Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection and the life: * he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live.

²⁶ And whosoever liveth, and believeth in me, shall never die: believest thou this?

²⁷ She said unto him, Yea, Lord, I believe that thou art that Christ that Son of God, which should come into the world.

²⁸ ¶ And when she had so said, she went her way, and called Mary her sister secretly, saying, The Master is come, and calleth for thee.

²⁹ And when she heard it, she arose quickly, and came unto him, ³⁰ For Jesus was not yet come into the town, but was in the place where Martha met him.

³¹ The Jews then which were with her in the house, and comforted her, when they saw Mary that she rose up hastily, and went out, followed

¹¹ Christ fleeth danger, not of mistrust, nor for fear of death, nor that he would be idle, but to gather a church in another place.

¹ Christ in restoring the stinking carcase of his friend to life, sheweth an example both of his mighty power, and also of his singular good-will toward men: which is also an image of the resurrection to come.

^a Where his sisters dwelt.

^b That is to say, sent for the purpose to kill him.

² In that, that God seemeth sometimes to linger in helping of us, he doth it both for his glory, and for our salvation, as the falling out of the matter in the end plainly proveth.

³ This only is the sure and right way to life, to follow God boldly without fear, who calleth us, and shineth before us in the darkness of this world.

^c All things are fitly wrought, and brought to pass in their season.

^d The Jews used a milder kind of speech, and called death a sleep, whereupon in other languages the place of burial where the dead are laid, waiting for the resurrection, is a sleeping-place.

⁴ God who is the maker of nature, doth not condemn natural affections, but sheweth that they ought to be examined by the rule of faith.

^e That is, shall recover life again.

A. D. followed her, saying, She goeth unto the grave, 33 to weep there.

32 Then when Mary was come where Jesus was, and saw him, she fell down at his feet, saying unto him, Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not been dead.

33 When Jesus therefore saw her weep, and the Jews also weep which came with her, he groaned in the spirit, and was troubled in himself, 34 And said, Where have ye laid him? They said unto him, Lord, come and see.

35 And Jesus wept.

36 Then said the Jews, Behold, how he loved him!

• Ch. 9. 6. 37 And some of them said, * Could not he which opened the eyes of the blind, have made also, that this man should not have died?

38 Jesus therefore again groaned in himself, and came to the grave. And it was a cave, and a stone was laid upon it.

39 Jesus said, Take ye away the stone. Martha, the sister of him that was dead, said unto him, Lord, he sinneth already: for he hath been dead four days.

40 Jesus said unto her, Said I not unto thee, that if thou didst believe, thou shouldst see the glory of God?

41 Then they took away the stone from the place where the dead was laid. And Jesus lit up his eyes, and said, Father, I thank thee, because thou hast heard me.

42 I know that thou hearest me always, but because of the people that stand by, I said it, that they may believe that thou hast sent me.

43 As he had spoken these things, he cried with a loud voice, Lazarus, come forth.

44 Then he that was dead, came forth, bound hand and foot with bands, and his face was bound with a napkin. Jesus said unto them, Loose him, and let him go.

45 ¶ Then many of the Jews, which came to Mary, and had seen the things which Jesus did, believed in him.

46 ¶ But some of them went their way to the Pharisees, and told them what things Jesus had done.

47 Then gathered the high priests and the Pharisees a council, and said, What shall we do? For this man doeth many miracles, 48 If we let him thus alone, all men will believe in him, and the Romans will come and take away both our place, and the nation.

49 Then one of them named Caiaphas, which was the high priest that same year, said unto them, Ye perceive nothing at all.

50 Nor yet do you consider, that it is expedient for us, that one man die for the people, and that the whole nation perish not. A. D. 33.

51 ¶ This spake he not of himself: but being high priest that same year, he prophesied that Jesus should die for that nation:

52 And not for that nation only, but that he should gather together in one the children of God, which were scattered.

53 Then from that day forth they consulted together to put him to death.

54 ¶ Jesus therefore walked no more openly among the Jews, but went thence into a country near to the wilderness, into a city called Ephraim, and there continued with his disciples.

55 ¶ And the Jews passover was at hand, and many went out of the country up to Jerusalem, before the passover, to purify themselves.

56 Then sought they for Jesus, and spake among themselves, as they stood in the temple, What think ye, that he cometh not to the feast?

57 Now both the high priests and the Pharisees had given a commandment, that if any man knew where he were, he should shew it, that they might take him.

C H A P. XII.

2 Christ is at supper with Lazarus, 3 Mary anointeth his feet. 5 Judas findeth fault with her. 7 Christ defendeth her. 10 The priests would put Lazarus to death. 12 As Christ cometh to Jerusalem, 18 the people meet him. 20 The Grecians desire to see him. 40 The chief rulers that believe in him, but for fear do not confess him. 44 he exhorteth to faith.

¶ THEN * Jesus, six days before the passover, came to Bethany, where Lazarus was, who died, whom he had raised from the dead. Ch. 26. 7. Mark 14. 3.

2 There they made him a supper, and Martha served: but Lazarus was one of them that sat at the table with him.

3 Then took Mary a pound of ointment of spikenard, very costly, and anointed Jesus's feet, and wiped his feet with her hair, and the house was filled with the savour of the ointment.

4 Then said one of his disciples, even Judas Iscariot, Simon's son, which should betray him,

5 Why was not this ointment sold for three hundred pence, and given to the poor?

6 Now he said this, not that he cared for the poor, but because he was a thief, and had the bag, and bare that which was given. Ch. 12. 6.

7 Then said Jesus, Let her alone: against the day of my burying she kept it.

8 For the poor always ye have with you, but me ye shall not have always.

9 Then

¶ Christ took upon him, together with our flesh, all affections of man (sin only excepted) and amongst them especially mercy and compassion.

¶ These are tokens that he was greatly moved, but yet they were without sin; and these affections are proper to man's nature.

¶ The last point of iron like stubbornness is this, to proclaim open war against God, and yet cease not to make a pretence both of godliness, and of the profit of the commonwealth.

¶ The Jews called this council Sanhedrin: and the word that John useth, is Synedri.

¶ That is, take away from us by force: for at that time, though the high priest's authority was greatly lessened and decayed, yet there was some kind of government left among the Jews.

¶ The raging and mad company of the false church persuade themselves that they cannot be in safety, unless he be taken away, who only upholdeth the church. And so likewise judgeth the wisdom of the flesh in worldly affairs, which is governed by the spirit of giddiness or madness.

¶ Christ doth sometimes so turn the tongues, even of the wicked, that even in cursing, they bless.

¶ For they were not gathered together in one country, as the Jews were, but to be gathered from all quarters, from the East to the West.

¶ We may give place to the rage of the wicked, when it is expedient so to do, but yet in such sort, that we swerve not from God's vocation.

¶ An horrible example in Judas, of a mind blinded with covetousness, and yet pretending godliness.

¶ This extraordinary anointing, which was for a sign, is so allowed of God, that he witnesseth how he will not be worshipped with outward pomp, or costly service, but with alms.

A. D. 33. 9 Then much people of the Jews knew that he was there: and they came, not for Jesus's sake only, but that they might see Lazarus also, whom he had raised from the dead.

10 The high priests therefore consulted, that they might put Lazarus to death also,

11 Because that for his sake many of the Jews went away, and believed in Jesus.

12 ¶ * On the morrow a great multitude that were come to the feast, when they heard that Jesus should come to Jerusalem, 13 Took branches of palm-trees, and went forth to meet him, and cried, Hosanna, Blessed is the king of Israel that cometh in the name of the Lord.

14 And Jesus found a young ass, and sat thereon, as it is written, 15 * Fear not, daughter of Sion: Behold, thy King cometh, sitting on an ass's colt.

16 But his disciples understood not these things at the first: but when Jesus was glorified, then remembered they, that these things were written of him, and that they had done these things unto him.

17 The people therefore that was with him, bare witness that he called Lazarus out of the grave, and raised him from the dead:

18 Therefore met him the people also, because they said that he had done this miracle.

19 + And the Pharisees said among themselves, Perceive ye how ye prevail nothing? Behold, the world goeth after him.

20 ¶ Now there were certain Greeks among them that came up to worship at the feast.

21 And they came to Philip, which was of Bethsaida in Galilee, and desired him, saying, Sir, we would see that Jesus.

22 Philip came and told Andrew: and again Andrew and Philip told Jesus.

23 And Jesus answered them, saying, The hour is come, that the Son of man must be glorified.

24 5 Verily, verily I say unto you, Except the wheat corn fall into the ground, and die, it abideth alone: but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit.

25 * He that loveth his life, shall lose it: and he that hateth his life in this world, shall keep it unto life eternal.

26 * If any man serve me, let him follow me: for where I am, there shall also my servant be:

and if any man serve me, him will my Father honour. A. D. 33.

27 6 Now is my soul troubled: and what shall I say? Father, save me from this hour? But therefore came I unto this hour.

28 Father, glorify thy name. Then came there a voice from heaven, saying, I have both glorified it, and will glorify it again.

29 Then said the people that stood by, and heard, that it was a thunder: others said, An angel spake to him.

30 7 Jesus answered, and said, This voice came not because of me, but for your sakes.

31 Now is the judgment of this world: now shall the prince of this world be cast out.

32 * And I, if I were lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me. * Ch. 3. 14.

33 Now this said he, signifying what death he should die.

34 The people answered him, We have heard out of the law, that that Christ abideth for ever: and how sayest thou, that that Son of man must be lifted up? Who is that Son of man? * Ps. 89. 36. and 110. 4. and 117. 2. Isa. 40. 8. Ezech. 37. 25. * Ch. 1. 9.

35 8 Then Jesus said unto them, Yet a little while is the light with you: walk while ye have that light, lest the darkness come upon you: for he that walketh in the dark, knoweth not whither he goeth.

36 While ye have that light, believe in that light, that ye may be the children of the light. These things spake Jesus, and departed, and hid himself from them.

37 ¶ 9 And though he had done so many miracles before them, yet believed they not on him, 38 That the saying of Esaias the prophet might be fulfilled, that he said, * Lord, who believed our report? and to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed? * Isa. 53. 1. Rom. 10. 16.

39 Therefore could they not believe, because that Esaias saith again, 40 * He hath blinded their eyes, and hardened their heart, that they should not see with their eyes, nor understand with their heart, and should be converted, and I should heal them * Isa. 6. 9. Matt. 13. 14. Mark 4. 12. Luke 8. 10. Acts 28. 26. Rom. 11. 2.

41 These things said Esaias, when he saw his glory, and spake of him.

42 10 Nevertheless, even among the chief rulers, many believed in him: but because of the Pharisees they did not confess him, lest they should be cast out of the synagogue.

F f 43 For

1 When the light of the gospel sheweth itself, some are found to be curious, and others (which least ought) to be open enemies: others in a rage honour him, whom they will straightway fall from: and very few do so reverently receive him as they ought: notwithstanding, Christ beginneth his spiritual kingdom in the midst of his enemies.

2 Even they which go about to oppress Christ, are made instruments of his glory.

3 After the solemn custom: the Grecians were first so called by the name of the country of Greece, where they dwelt: but afterward, all that were not of the Jews religion, but worshipped false gods, and were also called heathens, were called by this name.

4 The death of Christ is, as it were, a sowing, which seemeth to be a dying to the corn, but indeed is the cause of a far greater harvest: and such as is the condition of the seed, so shall it be of the members.

5 A wheat corn dieth when it is changed by virtue of the ground, and becometh a root of a fruitful blade.

6 While Christ went about to suffer all the punishment which is due to our sins, and whilst his divinity did not yet shew his might and power so far, as this satisfaction might be thoroughly wrought: now when he is stricken with the great fear of the curse of God, he crieth and prayeth, and desireth to be released: yet notwithstanding he preferreth the will and glory of his Father before all things, whose obedience the Father alloweth even from heaven.

7 To wit, of death that is now at hand.

8 So then the Father's glory is Christ's glory.

9 Christ foretelleth to the deaf the manner of his death, the overcoming of the devil and the world, and in conclusion, his triumph.

10 Christ used a word which hath a double meaning, for it signifieth either to lift up, or rid out of the way: for his meaning was to put them in mind of his death, but the Jews seem to take it another way.

11 Chrysostom and Theophylact, refer this word, All, to all nations, that is, not to the Jews only.

12 Unmeasurable is the mercy of God; but an horrible judgment followeth, if it be contemned.

13 That is, partakers of light.

14 Faith is not of nature, but of grace.

15 The arm of the Lord, is the gospel, which is the power of God to salvation, to all that believe: and therefore the arm of the Lord is not revealed to them, whose hearts the Lord hath not opened.

16 Such as believe, are not only few in number, if they be compared with the unbelievers, but also the most of those few (yea, and especially, the chiefest) do fear men rather than God.

43 For they loved the praise of men, more than the praise of God.

44 And Jesus cried, and said, He that believeth in me, believeth not in me, but in him that sent me.

45 And he that seeth me, seeth him that sent me.

46 I am come a light into the world, that whosoever believeth in me, should not abide in darkness.

47 And if any man hear my words, and believe not, I judge him not: for I came not to judge the world, but to save the world.

48 He that refuseth me, and receiveth not my words, hath one that judgeth him: the word that I have spoken, it shall judge him in the last day.

49 For I have not spoken of myself: but the Father which hath sent me, he gave me a commandment what I should say, and what I should speak.

50 And I know that his commandment is life everlasting: the things therefore that I speak, I speak them to as the Father said unto me.

C H A P. XIII.

Christ rising from supper, 15 to commend humility to his apostles, washeth their feet. 21 He detecteth the traitor Judas, 26 with an evident token. 34 He commendeth charity. 37, 39 He foretelleth Peter of his denial.

NOW before the feast of the passover, when Jesus knew that his hour was come, that he should depart out of this world unto the Father, forasmuch as he loved his own which were in the world, unto the end he loved them.

2 And when supper was done (and that the devil had now put in the heart of Judas Iscariot, Simon's son, to betray him)

3 Jesus knowing that the Father had given all things into his hands, and that he was come forth from God, and went to God:

4 He riseth from supper, and layeth aside his upper garments, and took a towel, and girded himself.

5 After that, he poured water into a bason, and began to wash the disciples feet, and to wipe them with the towel, wherewith he was girded.

6 Then came he to Simon Peter, who said to him, Lord, dost thou wash my feet?

7 Jesus answered, and said unto him, What I do, thou knowest not now: but thou shalt know it hereafter.

8 Peter said unto him, Thou shalt never wash my feet. Jesus answered him, If I wash thee not, thou shalt have no part with me.

9 Simon Peter said unto him, Lord, not my feet only, but also the hands and the head.

10 Jesus said unto him, He that is washed, needeth not, save to wash his feet, but is clean every whit: and ye are clean, but not all.

11 For he knew who should betray him: therefore said he, Ye are not all clean.

12 ¶ So after he had washed their feet, and had taken his garments, and was set down again, he said to them, Know ye what I have done to you?

13 Ye call me Master, and Lord, and ye say well: for so am I.

14 If I then your Lord, and Master, have washed your feet, ye also ought to wash one another's feet.

15 For I have given you an example, that ye should do even as I have done to you.

16 Verily, verily I say unto you, The servant is not greater than his master, neither the ambassador greater than he that sent him.

17 If ye know these things, blessed are ye if ye do them.

18 ¶ I speak not of you all: I know whom I have chosen: but it is that the scripture might be fulfilled, He that eateth bread with me, hath lift up his heel against me.

19 From henceforth tell I you before it come, that when it is come to pass, ye might believe that I am he.

20 Verily, verily I say unto you, If I send any, he that receiveth him, receiveth me: and he that receiveth me, receiveth him that sent me.

21 When Jesus had said these things, he was troubled in the spirit, and testified and said, Verily, verily I say unto you, that one of you shall betray me.

22 Then the disciples looked one on another, doubting of whom he spake.

23 Now there was one of his disciples, which leaned on Jesus's bosom, whom Jesus loved.

24 To him beckoned therefore Simon Peter, that he should ask who it was of whom he spake.

25 He then, as he leaned on Jesus's breast, said unto him, Lord, who is it?

26 Jesus answered, He it is, to whom I shall give a sop, when I have dipt it: and he wet a sop, and gave it to Judas Iscariot, Simon's son.

27 And after the sop, Satan entered into him, Then said Jesus unto him, That thou doest, do quickly.

28 But none of them that were at table, knew for what cause he spake it unto him.

29 For some of them thought, because Judas had the bag, that Jesus had said unto him, Buy those

 § The word signifieth an apostle, which is one that is sent from another.

Matt. 11. 40. Luke 10. 16.

Matt. 26. 21. Mark 14. 18. Luke 22. 27.

^a The sum of the gospel, and therefore of salvation, which Christ witnessed in the midst of Jerusalem by his crying out, is this, to rest upon Christ through faith, as the only Saviour appointed and given us of the Father.

^b This word, Not, doth not take any whit of this from Christ, which is here spoken of, but is in way of correction rather: as if he said, He that believeth in me, doth not so much believe in me, as in him that sent me. So is it in Mark 9. 37.

^c Christ no less certain of the victory, than of the combat which was at hand, using the sign of washing the feet, doth partly thereby give an example of singular modesty, and his great love towards his apostles in this notable act, being like, very shortly, to depart from them: and partly witnesseth unto them, that it is he only which washeth away the filth of his people, and that by little and little in their time and season.

^d Them of his household, that is, his saints.

^b Into his power.

^c In that he is said to rise, it argueth that there was a space between the ceremony of the passover and this washing of feet, at what time it seemeth that the supper was instituted.

^d Unless thou suffer me to wash thee, thou shalt have no part in the kingdom of heaven.

^e The betraying of Christ was not casual, or a thing that happened by chance, but the Father so ordained the cause of our salvation, to reconcile us unto himself in his Son, and the Son did willingly and voluntarily obey the Father.

^f He affirmed it openly and soothed it.

^g John's leaning was such, that sitting down in his bed, his head was toward Jesus's head: so that it was an easy matter for him to touch Jesus's bosom: for it is certain that in old time men used not to sit at the table, but to lie down on the one side.

A. D. 33. those things that we have need of against the feast: or that he should give something to the poor.

30 As soon then as he had received the sop, he went immediately out, and it was night.

31 ¶ When he was gone out, Jesus said, Now is the Son of man glorified, and God is glorified in him.

32 If God be glorified in him, God shall also glorify him in himself, and shall straightway glorify him.

33 * Little children, yet a little while am I with you: ye shall seek me, but as I said unto the * Jews, Whither I go, can ye not come: also to you say I now, 34 * A new commandment give I unto you, that ye love one another: as I have loved you, that ye also love one another.

35 By this shall all men know, that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another.

36 † Simon Peter said unto him, Lord, whither goest thou? Jesus answered him, Whither I go, thou canst not follow me now: but thou shalt follow me afterward.

37 Peter said unto him, Lord, why can I not follow thee now? * I will lay down my life for thy sake.

38 Jesus answered him, Wilt thou lay down thy life for my sake? Verily, verily I say unto thee, The cock shall not crow, till thou have denied me thrice.

C H A P. XIV.

1 He comforteth his disciples, 2, 7 declaring his divinity and the fruit of his death, 16 promising the Comforter. 17 even the Holy Spirit, 26 whose office he setteth out. 27 He promiseth his peace.

LET not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me.

2 In my Father's house are many dwelling-places: if it were not so, † I would have told you: I go to † prepare a place for you.

3 † And if I go to prepare a place for you, I will † come again, and receive you unto myself, that where I am, there may ye be also.

4 † And whither I go, ye know, and the way ye know.

5 Thomas said unto him, Lord, we know

¹ We have to consider the glorifying of Christ in his ignominy.

² This verse and the next following, are a most plain and evident testimony of the divinity of Christ.

³ The eternal glory shall flow by little and little from the head into the members. But in the mean time, we must take good heed, that we pass over the race of this life in brotherly love.

⁴ An heavy example of rash trust and confidence.

⁵ He believeth in God that believeth in Christ, and there is no other way to confirm our minds in the greatest duties.

⁶ That is, if it were not so as I tell you, to wit, unless there were place enough not only for me, but for you also, in my Father's house, I would not thus deceive you with a vain hope, but I would have told you so plainly.

⁸ Christ went not away from us, to the end to forsake us, but rather that he might at length take us up with him into heaven.

⁹ These words are to be referred to the whole church, and therefore the angel said to the disciples when they were astonished, What stand you gazing up into heaven? This Jesus shall so come as you saw him go up, Acts 1. 11. and in all places of the scripture, the full comfort of the church is referred to that day when God shall be all in all, and is therefore called the day of redemption.

¹⁰ Christ only is the way to true and everlasting life, for not whither thou goest, how can we then know the way? A. D. 33.

6 Jesus said unto him, I am † that Way, and that Truth, and that Life: No man cometh unto the Father, but by me.

7 † If ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also: and from henceforth ye know him, and have seen him.

8 Philip said unto him; Lord; shew us † thy Father, and it sufficeth us.

9 Jesus said unto him, I have been so long time with you, and hast thou not known me, Philip? he that hath seen me, hath seen my Father: how then sayest thou; Shew us † thy Father?

10 † Believest thou not, that I am in the Father, and the Father is in me? The words that I speak unto you; I speak not of myself: but the Father that dwelleth in me, he doth the works.

11 Believe me, that I am in the Father, and the Father is in me: at the least, believe me for the very works sake.

12 † Verily; verily I say unto you, he that believeth in me, the works that I do, he shall do also, and † greater than these shall he do: for I go unto my Father.

13 * And whatsoever ye ask in my name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son.

14 If ye shall ask any thing in my name, I will do it.

15 † If ye love me, keep my commandments.

16 And I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another comforter, that he may abide with you for ever:

17 Even the † Spirit of truth, whom the † world cannot receive, because it seeth him not, neither knoweth him: but ye know him: for he dwelleth with you, and shall be in you.

18 I will not leave you fatherless: but I will come to you.

19 Yet a little while, and the world shall see me no more, but ye shall see me: because I live, ye shall live also.

20 At that day shall ye know that I am † in my Father, and you in me, and I in you.

21 He that hath my commandments, and keepeth

he it is in whom the Father hath revealed himself.

^d This saying, sheweth unto us both the nature, the will, and the office of Christ.

^e It is plain by this place, that to know God, and to see God, is all one: now whereas he said before, that no man saw God at any time, that is to be understood thus; without Christ, or were it not through Christ, no man could ever see, nor saw God at any time: for as Chrysostom saith, the Son is a very short and easy setting forth of the Father's nature unto us.

^f The majesty of God sheweth itself most evidently, both in Christ's doctrine and deeds.

^g The approving of the virtue of Christ is not included within his own person, but it is spread through the body of his whole church.

^h That is, not only do them, but I can also give other men power to do greater.

ⁱ He loveth Christ aright which obeyeth his commandments: and because the same is accompanied with an infinite sort of miseries, although he be absent in body, yet doth he comfort his with the present virtue of the Holy Ghost, whom the world despiseth, because it knoweth him not.

^k The Holy Ghost is called the Spirit of truth, of the effect which he worketh, because he inspireth the truth into us, whereas otherwise he hath truth in himself.

^m The Son is in the Father after such sort, that he is of one self-same substance with his Father; but he is in his disciples in a certain respect, as an aider and helper of them.

23 Jesus answered, and said unto him, If any man love me, he will keep my word, and my Father will love him, and he will come unto him, and will dwell with him.

24 He that loveth me not, keepeth not my words: and the word which ye hear, is not mine, but the Father's which sent me.

25 ^b These things have I spoken unto you, being present with you.

C. 14. 26. 26 But the Comforter, which is the Holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in my name, he shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, which I have told you.

27 ^c Peace I leave with you: my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your hearts be troubled, nor fear.

28 ^d Ye have heard how I said unto you, I go away, and will come unto you. If ye loved me, ye would verily rejoice, because I said, I go unto the Father: for the Father is ^e greater than I.

29 And now have I spoken unto you, before it come, that when it is come to pass, ye might believe.

30 ^f Hereafter will I not speak many things unto you: for the prince of this world cometh, and hath ^g nought in me.

C H A P. XV.

¹ By the parable of the vine, ² and the branches, ^{5, 6} he declareth how the disciples may bear fruit. ^{12, 17} He commendeth mutual love. ¹⁸ He exhorteth them to bear afflictions patiently, ²⁰ by his own example.

I AM that true vine, and my Father is that husbandman.

¹ I will shew myself to him, and be known of him, as if he saw me with his eyes: but this shewing of himself is not bodily, but spiritually, yet so plain as none can be more.

² We must not ask why the gospel is revealed to some rather than to others, but we must rather take heed that we embrace Christ, who is offered unto us, and that we truly love him, that is to say, that we give ourselves wholly to his obedience.

³ It is the office of the Holy Ghost to imprint in the minds of the elect, in their times and seasons, that which Christ once spake.

⁴ All true felicity cometh to us by Christ alone.

⁵ So far is it that we should be sorry for the departing of Christ from us, according to the flesh, that we should rather rejoice for it, seeing that all the blessing of the members dependeth upon the glorifying of the Head.

⁶ This is spoken, in that that he is Mediator, for so the Father is greater than he, inasmuch as the person to whom request is made, is greater than he that maketh the request.

⁷ Christ goeth to death not unwillingly, but willingly, not as yielding to the devil, but obeying his Father's decree.

⁸ As who would say, Satan will by and by set upon me with all the might he can, but he hath no power over me, neither shall he find any such thing in me, as he thinketh he shall.

⁹ We are of nature dry and fit for nothing, but the fire: therefore that we may live and be fruitful, we must first be grafted into Christ, as it were into a vine, by the Father's

2 ^a Every branch that beareth not fruit in me, he taketh away: and every one that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit.

3 ^b Now are ye clean through the word which I have spoken unto you.

4 Abide in me, and I in you: as the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine, no more can ye, except ye abide in me.

5 I am that vine: ye are the branches: he that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit: for without me can ye do nothing.

6 ^c If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and withereth: and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they burn.

7 ^d If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ask what ye will, and it shall be done to you.

8 ^e Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit, and be made my disciples.

9 ^f As the Father hath loved me, so have I loved you: ^g continue in that my love.

10 If ye shall keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love, as I have kept my Father's commandments, and abide in his love.

11 These things have I spoken unto you, that my joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be full.

12 ^h This is my commandment, that ye love one another, as I have loved you.

13 Greater love than this hath no man, when any man bestoweth his life for his friends.

14 Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you.

15 ⁱ Henceforth call I you not servants: for the servant knoweth not what his master doth: but I have called you friends: for all things that I have heard of my Father, have I made known unto you.

16 ^j Ye ^k have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, ^l that ye go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit remain: that whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in my name, he may give it you.

17 These things command I you, that ye love one another. 13 If hand: and then be daily shred with a continual meditation of the word, and the cross: otherwise it shall not avail any man at all to have been grafted, unless he cleave fast unto the Vine, and so draw juice out of it.

² He abideth in Christ, which resteth in his doctrine, and therefore bringeth forth good fruit: and the Father will deny such an one nothing.

³ As who would say, Herein shall my Father be glorified, and herein also shall you be my disciples, if you bring forth much fruit.

⁴ The love of the Father towards the Son, and of the Son towards us, and ours towards God and our neighbour, are joined together with an inseparable knot: and there is nothing more sweet and pleasant than it is. Now this love sheweth itself by the effects: a most perfect example whereof Christ himself exhibiteth unto us.

⁵ That is, in that love wherewith I do love you: which love is on both parts.

⁶ The doctrine of the gospel (as it is uttered by Christ's own mouth) is a most perfect and absolute declaration of the counsel of God which pertaineth to our salvation, and is committed unto the apostles.

⁷ Christ is the author and preserver of the ministry of the gospel even to the world's end: but the ministers have above all things need of prayer and brotherly love.

⁸ This place teacheth us plainly, that our salvation cometh from the only favour and gracious goodness of the everlasting God toward us, and of nothing that we do or can do.

A. D. 33. 18 ⁶ If the world hate you, ye know that it hated me before you.

19 If ye were of the world, the world would love his own: but because ye are not of the world, but I have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you.

20 Remember the word that I said unto you,

^{Ch. 13. 16.} * The servant is not greater than his master.

^{Ch. 10. 24.} * If they have persecuted me, they will persecute you also: if they have kept my word, they will also keep yours.

^{Ch. 16. 4.} 21 ⁷ But ^{*} all these things will they do unto you for my name's sake, because they have not known him that sent me.

22 ^d If I had not come and spoken unto them, they should not have had sin: but now have they no cloke for their sin.

23 He that hateth me, hateth my Father also.

24 If I had not done works among them which none other man did, they had not had sin: but now have they both seen, and have hated both me, and my Father.

^{Ch. 35. 19.} 25 But it is that the word might be fulfilled, that is written in their ^e law, ^{*} They hated me without a cause.

^{Ch. 14. 26.} 26 ^s But when that Comforter shall come, ^{*} whom I will send unto you from the Father, ^{Ch. 2. 49.} even the Spirit of truth, which proceedeth of the Father, he shall testify of me.

27 And ye shall witness also, because ye have been with me from the beginning.

C H A P. XVI.

1 He foretelleth the disciples of persecution. 7 He promiseth the Comforter, and declareth his office.

21 He compareth the afflictions of his to a woman that travaileth with child.

THESSE ¹ things have I said unto you, that ye should not be offended.

2 They shall excommunicate you: yea, the time shall come, that whosoever killeth you, will think that he doth God service.

3 And these things will they do unto you, because they have not known the Father, nor me.

⁶ It ought not only not to fear, but rather confirm the faithful ministers of Christ, when they shall be hated of the world as their Master was.

⁷ The hatred that the world beareth against Christ, proceedeth of the blockishness of the mind, which notwithstanding is voluntarily blind, so that the world can pretend no excuse to cover their fault.

^d As who would say, If I had not come, these men would not have stuck to have said still before God's judgment-seat, that they are religious and void of sin: but seeing I came to them, and they clean refuse me, they can have no cloak for their wickedness.

^e Sometimes by this word, Law, are meant the five books of Moses, but in this place, the whole scripture: for the place alledged is in the psalms.

^s Against the rage of the wicked, we shall stand surely by the inward testimony of the Holy Ghost: but the Holy Ghost speaketh no otherwise, than he speaketh by the mouth of the apostles.

² The absence of Christ according to the flesh, is profitable to the church, that we may wholly depend upon his spiritual power.

³ The Spirit of God worketh so mightily by the preaching of the word, that he constraineth the world, will it, nill it, to confess its own unrighteousness, and Christ's righteousness and almightiness.

⁴ He will so reprove the world, that the worldlings shall be able to pretend no excuse.

^b He respecteth the time that followed his ascension,

4 ^{*} But these things have I told you, that when the hour shall come, ye might remember, that I told you them. And these things said I not unto you from the beginning, because I was with you.

5 But now I go my way to him that sent me, and none of you asketh me, Whither goest thou?

6 But because I have said these things unto you, your hearts are full of sorrow.

7 ² Yet I tell you the truth, It is expedient for you that I go away: for if I go not away, that Comforter will not come unto you: but if I depart, I will send him unto you.

8 ³ And when he is come, he will ^a reprove the ^b world of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment.

9 Of sin, because they believed not in me:

10 Of ^c righteousness, because I go to my Father, and ye shall see me no more:

11 Of ^d judgment, ^e because the prince of this world is judged.

12 ⁴ I have yet many things to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now.

13 Howbeit, when he is come which is the Spirit of truth, he will lead you into all truth: for he shall not speak of himself, but whatsoever he shall hear, shall he speak, and he will shew you the things to come.

14 ⁵ He shall glorify me: For he shall receive of mine, and shall shew it unto you.

15 All things that the Father hath are mine: therefore said I, that he shall take of mine, and shew it unto you.

16 ⁶ A ^f little while, and ye shall not see me: and again a little while, and ye shall see me: ^g for I go to the Father.

17 Then said some of his disciples among themselves, What is this that he saith unto us, A little while, and ye shall not see me, and again a little while, and ye shall see me: for I go to the Father?

18 They said therefore, What is this that he saith, A little while? we know not what he saith.

19 Now Jesus knew that they would ask

G g him,

when as all gainsayers were manifestly reprov'd through the pouring out of the Holy Ghost upon the church: so that the very enemies of Christ were reprov'd of sin, in that they were constrained to confess that they were deceived, in that they believed not, and therefore they said to Peter, Acts 2. Men and brethren, what shall we do?

^c Of Christ himself: for when the world shall see that I have poured out the Holy Ghost, they shall be constrained to confess that I was just, and was not condemned of my Father, when I went out of this world.

^d Of that authority and power which I have both in heaven and earth.

^e That is, because they shall then understand and know indeed that I have overcome the devil, and do govern the world, when all men shall see that they set themselves against you in vain, for I will arm you with that heavenly power whereby you may destroy every high thing which is lifted up against the knowledge of God, 2 Cor. 10. 12.

⁴ The doctrine of the apostles proceeded from the Holy Ghost, and is most perfect.

⁵ The Holy Ghost bringeth no new doctrine, but teacheth that which was uttered by Christ's own mouth, and imprinteth it in our minds.

⁶ The grace of the Holy Ghost is a most lively glass, wherein Christ is truly beholden with the most sharp-sighted eyes of faith, and not with the bleared eyes of the flesh, whereby we feel a continual joy even in the midst of sorrows.

^f When a little time is once past.

^g For I pass to eternal glory, so that I shall be much more present with you than I was before: for then you shall feel indeed what I am, and what I am able to do.

A. D. 33. Ch. 15. 21.

A. D. 33. him, and said unto them, Do ye inquire among yourselves, of that I said, A little while, and ye shall not see me: and again, a little while, and ye shall see me?

20 Verily, verily I say unto you, that ye shall weep and lament, and the world shall rejoice: and ye shall sorrow, but your sorrow shall be turned to joy.

21 A woman, when she travaileth, hath sorrow, because her hour is come: but as soon as she is delivered of the child, she remembereth no more the anguish, for joy that a man is born into the world.

22 And ye now therefore are in sorrow: but I will see you again, and your hearts shall rejoice, and your joy shall no man take from you.

23 And in that day shall ye ask me nothing. Verily, verily I say unto you, Whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in my name, he will give it you.

24 Hitherto have ye asked nothing in my name: ask, and ye shall receive, that your joy may be full.

25 These things have I spoken unto you in parables: but the time will come, when I shall no more speak to you in parables: but I shall shew you plainly of the Father.

26 At that day shall ye ask in my name, and I say not unto you, that I will pray unto the Father for you:

27 For the Father himself loveth you, because ye have loved me, and have believed that I came out from God.

28 I am come out from the Father, and came into the world: again, I leave the world, and go to the Father.

29 His disciples said unto him, Lo, now speakest thou plainly, and thou speakest no parable.

30 Now know we that thou knowest all things, and needest not that any man should ask thee. By this we believe that thou art come out from God.

31 Jesus answered them, Do you believe now?

32 Behold, the hour cometh, and is already come, that ye shall be scattered every man into his own, and shall leave me alone: but I am not alone: for the Father is with me.

33 These things have I spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace: in the world ye shall have affliction: but be of good comfort, I have overcome the world.

C H A P. XVII.

1 Christ prayeth that his glory, together with his Father's, may be made manifest. 9 He prayeth for his apostles, 20 and for all believers.

THESE things spake Jesus, and lift up his eyes to heaven, and said, Father, that hour is come: glorify thy Son, that thy Son may also glorify thee:

2 As thou hast given him power over all flesh, that he should give eternal life to all them that thou hast given him.

3 And this is life eternal, that they know thee to be the only very God, and whom thou hast sent, Jesus Christ.

4 I have glorified thee on the earth: I have finished the work which thou gavest me to do.

5 And now glorify me, thou Father, with thine own self, with the glory which I had with thee before the world was.

6 I have declared thy name unto the men which thou gavest me out of the world: thine they were, and thou gavest them me, and they have kept thy word.

7 Now they that know all things whatsoever thou hast given me, are of thee.

8 For I have given unto them the words which thou gavest me, and they have received them, and have known surely that I came out from thee, and have believed that thou hast sent me.

9 I pray for them: I pray not for the world, but for them which thou hast given me: for they are thine,

10 And all mine are thine, and thine are mine, and I am glorified in them.

11 And now am I no more in the world, but these are in the world, and I come to thee. Holy Father, keep them in thy name, even them whom thou hast given me, that they may be one as we are.

12 While I was with them in the world, I kept them in thy name: those that thou gavest me have I kept, and none of them is lost, but the

The Holy Ghost, which was poured upon the apostles after the ascension of Christ, instructed both them in all the chiefest mysteries and secrets of our salvation, and also by them the church, and will also instruct it to the end of the world.

The sum of the worship of God is the invocation of the Father, in the name of the Son the Mediator, who is already heard for us, for whom he both abased himself, and is now also glorified.

Faith and foolish security differ very much.

Neither the wickedness of the world, neither the weakness of his own, can diminish any thing of the virtue of Christ.

The surety and stay of the church dependeth only upon the victory of Christ.

That in me you might be thoroughly quieted. For by (peace) is meant in this place, that quiet state of mind which is clean contrary to disquietness and heaviness.

Jesus Christ the everlasting high Priest, being ready straightways to offer up himself, doth by solemn prayers consecrate himself to God the Father, as a sacrifice, and us together with himself. Therefore this prayer was from the beginning, is, and shall be to the end of the world, the foundation and ground of the church of God.

He first declareth, that as he came into the world to the end that the Father might shew in him, being apprehended by faith, his glory, in saving his elect, to be applied himself to that only: and therefore desireth of the Father, that he would bless the work which he had finished.

Over all men.

He calleth the Father the only very God, to set him against false gods, and not to shut out himself and the Holy Ghost, for straightway he joineth the knowledge of the Father and the knowledge of himself together, and according to his accustomed manner, setteth forth the whole Godhead in the person of the Father: so is the Father alone said to be King, immortal, wise, and as dwelling in light which no man can attain unto, invisible. Rom. 16. 27. 1 Tim. 1. 17.

First of all, he prayeth for those his disciples, by whom he would have the rest to be gathered together, and commendeth them to the Father (having once rejected the whole company of the reprobate) because he received them of him, into his custody, and for that they embracing his doctrine shall have so many and so mighty enemies, that there is no way for them to be in safety, but by his help only.

He sheweth hereby that everlasting election and choice, which was hidden in the good-will and pleasure of God, which is the groundwork of our salvation.

He sheweth how that everlasting and hidden purpose of God is declared in Christ, by whom we are justified and sanctified, if we lay hold on him by faith, that at length we may come to the glory of the election.

He prayeth that his people may peaceably agree and be joined together in one, that as the Godhead is one, so they may be of one mind, and one consent together.

the child of perdition, that the * scripture might be fulfilled:

13 And now come I to thee: and these things speak I in the world, that they might have my joy fulfilled in themselves.

14 I have given them thy word, and the world hath hated them, because they are not of the world, as I am not of the world.

15 + I pray not that thou shouldest take them out of the world, but that thou keep them from all evil.

16 They are not of the world, as I am not of the world.

17 Sanctify them with thy truth: thy word is truth.

18 5 As thou didst send me into the world, so have I sent them into the world.

19 And for their sakes sanctify I myself, that they also may be sanctified through the 8 truth.

24 * Father, I will that they which thou hast given me, be with me, even where I am, that they may behold that my glory, which thou hast given me: for thou lovedst me before the foundation of the world.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 By Christ's power, whom Judas betrayeth, 6 the soldiers are cast down to the ground. 13 Christ is led to Annas, and from him to Caiaphas. 22 23 His answer to the officer that smote him with a rod. 28 Being delivered to Pilate, 36 he declareth his kingdom.

WHEN 1 Jesus had spoken these things, he went forth with his disciples over the brook * Cedron, where was a garden, into the which he entered, and his disciples.

* Matt. 26. 46. Mark 14. 32. Luk. 22. 39.

4 He sheweth what manner of deliverance he meaneth, not that they should be in no danger, but that they being preserved from all, might prove by experience that the doctrine of salvation is truth, which they received at his mouth to deliver to others.

5 That is, make them holy: and that is said to be holy, which is dedicated and made proper to God only.

6 He addeth moreover, that the apostles have a vocation common with them, and therefore they must be holden up by the self-same virtue to give up themselves wholly to God, whereby he being first, did consecrate himself to the Father.

8 The true and substantial sanctification of Christ, is set against the outward purifying.

9 Secondly, he offereth to God the Father all his, that is, how many soever shall believe in him by the doctrine of the apostles; that as he cleaveth unto the Father, receiving from him all fullness, so they being joined with him, may receive life from him, and at length being together beloved in him, may also with him enjoy everlasting glory.

7 He communicateth with his by little and little, the knowledge of the Father, which is most full in Christ the

2 And Judas, which betrayed him, knew also the place: for Jesus oft-times resorted thither with his disciples.

3 * 2 Judas then, after he had received a band of men and officers of the high priests and of the Pharisees, came thither with lanterns, and torches, and weapons.

4 3 Then Jesus, knowing all things that should come unto him, went forth, and said unto them, Whom seek ye?

5 They answered him, Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus said unto them, I am he. Now Judas also which betrayed him, stood with them.

6 As soon then as he had said unto them, I am he, they went away backwards, and fell to the ground:

7 Then he asked them again, Whom seek ye? And they said, Jesus of Nazareth.

8 4 Jesus answered, I said unto you, that I am he: therefore if ye seek me, let these go their way.

9 This was that the word might be fulfilled which he spake, * Of them which thou gavest me, have I lost none.

10 5 Then Simon Peter having a sword, drew it, and smote the high priest's servant, and cut off his right ear. Now the servant's name was Malchus.

11 Then said Jesus unto Peter, Put up thy sword into the sheath: shall I not drink of the cup which my Father hath given me?

12 Then the band and the captain, and the officers of the Jews, took Jesus, and bound him,

13 6 And led him away to * Annas first (for he was father-in-law to Caiaphas, which was the high priest that same year.)

14 * And Caiaphas was he that gave counsel to the Jews, that it was expedient that one man should die for the people.

15 ¶ 7 * Now Simon Peter followed Jesus, and another disciple, and that disciple was known of the high priest, therefore he went in with Jesus into the hall of the high priest:

16 But Peter stood at the door without. Then went out the other disciple which was known unto the high priest, and spake to her that kept the door, and brought in Peter.

17 Then said the maid that kept the door, unto Peter, Art not thou also one of this man's disciples? He said, I am not.

18 And the servants and officers stood there, which had made a fire of coals: for it was cold, and they warmed themselves. And Peter also stood among them, and warmed himself.

19 ¶ 8 The high priest then asked Jesus of his disciples, and of his doctrine.

Mediator, that they may in him be beloved of the Father, with the self-same love wherewith he loveth the Son.

1 Christ goeth of his own accord into a garden, which his betrayer knew, to be taken, that by his obedience he might take away the sin that entered into the world by one man's rebellion, and that in a garden.

2 Christ, who was innocent, was taken as a wicked person, that we which are wicked might be let go as innocent.

3 Christ's person (but not his virtue) was bound of the adversaries when and how he would.

4 Christ doth not neglect the office of a good pastor, no not in his greatest danger.

5 We ought to contain the zeal we bear to God, within the bounds of our vocation.

6 Christ is brought before an earthly high priest to be condemned for our blasphemies, that we might be quitted of the everlasting high priest himself.

7 A lively example of the frailty of man, even in the best, when they be once left to themselves.

8 Christ defendeth his cause but slenderly, not that he would withdraw himself from death, but to shew that he was condemned as an innocent.

A. D. 33. 20 Jesus answered him, I spake openly to the world. I ever taught in the synagogue and in the temple, whither the Jews resort continually, and in secret have I said nothing.

21 Why askest thou me? ask them which heard me what I said unto them: behold, they know what I said.

22 When he had spoken these things, one of the officers which stood by, smote Jesus with his rod, saying, Answerest thou the high priest so?

23 Jesus answered him, If I have evil spoken, bear witness of the evil: but if I have well spoken, why smitest thou me?

24 ¶ Now Annas had sent him bound unto Caiaphas the high priest.)

25 And Simon Peter stood and warmed himself, and they said unto him, Art not thou also of his disciples? He denied it, and said, I am not.

26 One of the servants of the high priest, his cousin, whose ear Peter smote off, said, Did not I see thee in the garden with him?

27 Peter then denied again, and immediately the cock crew.

28 ¶ Then led they Jesus from Caiaphas into the common hall. Now it was morning, and they themselves went not into the common hall, lest they should be defiled, but that they might eat the passover.

29 Pilate then went out unto them, and said, What accusation bring ye against this man?

30 They answered, and said unto him, If he were not an evil doer, we would not have delivered him unto thee.

31 Then said Pilate unto them, Take ye him, and judge him after your own law. Then the Jews said unto him, It is not lawful for us to put any man to death.

32 It was that the word of Jesus might be fulfilled which he spake, signifying what death he should die.

33 So Pilate entered into the common hall again, and called Jesus, and said unto him, Art thou the king of the Jews?

34 Jesus answered him, Sayest thou that of thyself, or did others tell it thee of me?

35 Pilate answered, Am I a Jew? Thine own nation, and the high priests, have delivered thee unto me. What hast thou done?

36 Jesus answered, My kingdom is not of this world: if my kingdom were of this world, my servants would surely fight, that I should not be delivered to the Jews: but now is my kingdom not from hence.

37 Pilate then said unto him, Art thou a king then? Jesus answered, Thou sayest that I am a king: for this cause am I born, and for this cause came I into the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth: every one that is of the truth, heareth my voice.

38 Pilate said unto him, What is truth? And when he had said that, he went out again unto the Jews, and said unto them, I find in him no cause at all.

39 But you have a custom, that I should deliver you one loose at the passover: will ye then that I loose unto you the king of the Jews?

40 Then cried they all again, saying, Not him, but Barabbas: now this Barabbas was a murderer.

C H A P. XIX.

1 Pilate, when Christ was scourged, 2 and crowned with thorns, 4 was desirous to let him loose: 8 but being overcome with the outrage of the Jews, 16 he delivereth him to be crucified. 26 Jesus committeth his mother to the disciple. 30 Having tasted vinegar, he dieth. 34 And being dead, his side is pierced with a spear. 40 He is buried.

THEN Pilate took Jesus and scourged him.

2 And the soldiers platted a crown of thorns, and put it on his head: and they put on him a purple garment.

3 And said, Hail, king of the Jews. And they smote him with their rods.

4 Then Pilate went forth again, and said unto them, Behold, I bring him forth to you, that ye may know, that I find no fault in him at all.

5 Then came Jesus forth wearing a crown of thorns, and a purple garment. And Pilate said unto them, Behold the man.

6 Then when the high priests and officers saw him, they cried, saying, Crucify, crucify him. Pilate said unto them, Take ye him, and crucify him: for I find no fault in him.

7 The Jews answered him, We have a law, and by our law he ought to die, because he made himself the Son of God.

8 ¶ When Pilate then heard that word, he was the more afraid,

9 And went again into the common hall, and said unto Jesus, Whence art thou? but Jesus gave him no answer.

10 Then said Pilate unto him, Speakest thou not unto me? Knowest thou not that I have power to crucify thee, and have power to loose thee?

11 Jesus answered, Thou couldest have no power at all against me, except it were given thee from above: therefore he that delivered me unto thee hath the greater sin.

12 From thenceforth Pilate sought to loose him,

20 After that men have once fallen, they cannot only lift up themselves by their own strength, but also they fall more and more into worse, until they be raised up again by a new virtue of God.

22 The Son of God is brought before the judgment-seat of an earthly and profane man, in whom there is found much less wickedness than in the princes of the people of God. A lively image of the wrath of God against sin, and therefore of his great mercy, and last of all of his most severe judgment against the stubborn contemners of his grace when it is offered unto them.

24 From Caiaphas's house.

26 For judgments of life and death were taken from them forty years before the destruction of the temple.

27 For Christ had foretold that he should be crucified.

36 Christ avoucheth his spiritual kingdom, but rejecteth a worldly.

12 It was requisite that Christ should be pronounced innocent, but notwithstanding (in that that he took upon him our person) was to be condemned as a most wicked man.

14 He speaketh this disdainfully and scoffingly, and not by way of asking a question.

15 Word for word, made a great and foul voice.

16 The wisdom of the flesh chuseth of two evils the least, but God curseth that same wisdom.

17 Christ is again quitted by that same mouth whereof he is afterward condemned.

18 They will have him crucified, whom by an old custom of theirs they should have stoned and hanged up as convict of blasphemy; but they desire to have him crucified after the manner of the Romans.

19 Pilate's conscience fighteth for Christ, but straightway it yieldeth, because it is not upholden with the living virtue of God.

A. D. 33. him, but the Jews cried, saying, If thou deliver him, thou art not Cæsar's friend: for whosoever maketh himself a king, speaketh against Cæsar.

13 ¶ When Pilate heard this word, he brought Jesus forth, and sat down in the judgment-seat, in a place called the Pavement, and in Hebrew ^b Gabbatha.

14 And it was the preparation of the passover, and about the sixth hour: and he said unto the Jews, Behold your king.

15 But they cried, Away with him, away with him, crucify him. Pilate said unto them, Shall I crucify your king? The high priests answered, We have no king but Cæsar.

16 ^c Then delivered he him unto them, to be crucified. And they took Jesus, and led him away.

17 * And he bare his own cross, and came into a place named of dead men's skulls, which is called in Hebrew Golgotha:

18 Where they crucified him, and two others with him, on either side one, and Jesus in the midst.

19 ¶ ^d And Pilate wrote also a title, and put it on the cross, and it was written, JESUS OF NAZARETH THE KING OF THE JEWS.

20 This title then read many of the Jews: for the place where Jesus was crucified was near to the city: and it was written in Hebrew, Greek, and Latin.

21 Then said the high priests of the Jews, to Pilate, Write not, The king of the Jews, but that he said, I am king of the Jews.

22 Pilate answered, What I have written, I have written.

23 ¶ ^e Then the * soldiers, when they had crucified Jesus, took his garments (and made four parts, to every soldier a part) and his coat: and the coat was without seam, woven from the top throughout.

24 Therefore they said one to another, Let us not divide it, but cast lots for it, whose it shall be. This was that the scripture might be fulfilled, which saith, * They parted my garments among them, and on my coat did cast lots. So the soldiers did these things indeed.

25 ¶ ^f Then stood by the cross of Jesus his mother, and his mother's sister, Mary the wife of Cleopas, and Mary Magdalene.

26 And when Jesus saw his mother, and the disciple standing by, whom he loved, he said unto his mother, Woman, behold thy son.

27 Then said he to the disciple, Behold thy mother: and from that hour the disciple took her home unto him.

28 ¶ ^g After, when Jesus knew that all things were performed, that the * scripture might be fulfilled, he said, I thirst. * P. 69. cc.

29 And there was set a ^h vessel full of vinegar: and they filled a sponge with vinegar, and put it about an hyssop stalk, and put it to his mouth.

30 Now when Jesus had received of the vinegar, he said, It is finished, and bowed his head, and gave up the ghost.

31 ⁱ The Jews then (because it was the preparation, that the bodies should not remain upon the cross on the sabbath day: for that sabbath was an high day) besought Pilate that their legs might be broken, and that they might be taken down.

32 Then came the soldiers and brake the legs of the first, and of the other which was crucified with Jesus.

33 But when they came to Jesus, and saw that he was dead already, they brake not his legs.

34 ^j But one of the soldiers with a spear ^d pierced his side, and forthwith came thereout blood and water.

35 And he that saw it, bare record, and his record is true: and he knoweth that he saith true, that ye might believe it.

36 For these things were done, that the scripture should be fulfilled, * Not a bone of him shall be broken. * Exod. 12, 46.
Num. 9. 12.
* Zach. 12. 10.

37 And again another scripture saith, * They shall see him whom they have thrust through.

38 * ^k And after these things, Joseph of Arimathea (who was a disciple of Jesus, but secretly for fear of the Jews) besought Pilate that he might take down the body of Jesus. And Pilate gave him licence. He came then and took Jesus's body. * Matt. 27. 57.
Mark 15. 42.
Luke 25. 50.

39 And there came * also Nicodemus (which ^l first came to Jesus by night) and brought of myrrh and aloes mingled together about an hundred pound. * Ch. 3. 24.

40 Then took they the body of Jesus, and wrapped it in linen cloaths with the odours, as the manner of the Jews is to bury.

41 And in that place where Jesus was crucified, was a garden, and in the garden a new sepulchre, wherein was * never man yet laid.

H h 42 There

* Pilate condemneth himself first, with the same mouth wherewith he afterward condemneth Christ.

^b Gabbatha signifieth an high place, as judgment-seats are.

^c Christ fasteneth Satan, sin and death to the cross.

^d Christ sitting upon the throne of the cross, is openly written everlasting king of all people with his own hand, whose mouth condemned him for usurping a kingdom.

^e Christ signifieth by the division of his garments amongst the bloody butchers (his coat except, that had no seam) that it shall come to pass, that he will shortly divide his benefits, and enrich his very enemies throughout the world: but so notwithstanding that the treasure of his church shall remain whole.

^f Christ is a perfect example of all righteousness, not only in the keeping of the first, but also of the second table.

^g Christ, when he hath taken the vinegar, yieldeth up the ghost, drinking up indeed that most bitter and sharp cup of his Father's wrath in our name.

^h Galatinus witnesseth out of the book called Sanhedrin, that the Jews were wont to give them that were executed, vinegar mixed with frankincense to drink, to make their brains somewhat troubled: so charitably the Jews provided for the poor men's conscience, which were executed!

ⁱ The body of Christ which was dead for a season, (because it so pleased him) is wounded, but the least bone of it is not broken, and such is the state of his mystical body.

^j Christ being dead upon the cross witnesseth by a double sign, that he only is the true satisfaction, and the true washing for the believers.

^k This wound was a most manifest witness of the death of Christ: for the water that issued out of this wound gave us plainly to understand, that the weapon pierced the very skin that compasseth the heart, which is the vessel that containeth that water, and that being once wounded, that creature which is so pierced, and stricken, cannot chuse but die.

^l Christ is openly buried, and in a famous place, Pilate writing and suffering it, and that by men which did favour Christ, in such wise, that yet before that day, they never openly followed him: so that by his burial, no man can justly doubt either of his death, or resurrection.

^m That no man might cavil at his resurrection, as though some other that had been buried there, had risen. Theoph.

A. D. 42 There then laid they Jesus, because of the 33 Jews preparation day, for the sepulchre was near.

C H A P. XX.

1 Mary bringeth word that Christ is risen. 3 Peter and John 4 run to see it. 15 Jesus appear-eth to Mary, 19 and to the disciples that were together in the house. 25 Thomas, before faithless, 29 now believeth.

NOW the first day of the week came Mary Magdalene, early when it was yet dark, unto the sepulchre, and saw the stone taken away from the tomb.

2 Then she ran, and came to Simon Peter, and to the other disciple whom Jesus loved, and said unto them, They have taken away the Lord out of the sepulchre, and we know not where they have laid him.

3 Peter therefore went forth, and the other disciple, and they came unto the sepulchre.

4 So they ran both together, but the other disciple did out-run Peter, and came first to the sepulchre.

5 And he stooped down, and saw the linen cloaths lying: yet went he not in.

6 Then came Simon Peter following him, and went into the sepulchre, and saw the linen cloaths lie.

7 And the kerchief that was upon his head, not lying with the linen cloaths, but wrapped together in a place by itself.

8 Then went in also the other disciple, which came first to the sepulchre, and he saw it, and believed.

9 For as yet they knew not the scripture,
That he must rise again from the dead.

10 And the disciples went away again unto their own home.

11 C But Mary stood without at the sepulchre weeping: and as she wept, she bowed herself into the sepulchre,

12 And saw two angels in white, sitting, the one at the head, and the other at the feet, where the body of Jesus had lain.

13 And they said unto her, Woman, why weepest thou? She said unto them, They have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him.

14 When she had thus said, she turned herself back, and saw Jesus standing, and knew not that it was Jesus.

15 Jesus saith unto her, Woman, why weep-est thou? whom seekest thou? She supposing that he had been the gardener, said unto him, Sir, if thou hast borne him hence, tell me where thou hast laid him, and I will take him away.

¹ Mary Magdalene, Peter and John, are the first witnesses of the resurrection; and such as cannot justly be suspected, for that they themselves could scarcely be persuaded of it, so far it is off that they should invent it of set purpose.

² That is, without the cave, which the sepulchre was cut out of.

³ Two angels are made witnesses of the Lord's resurrection.

⁴ In white cloathing.

⁵ Mary spake as the common people used to speak; for they speak of a dead carcase as they do of a whole man.

⁶ Jesus witnesseth by his presence, that he is truly risen.

⁷ Christ which is risen is not to be sought in this world, according to the flesh, but in heaven by faith, whither he is gone before us.

⁸ By his brethren he meaneth his disciples; for in the next verse following, it is said, that Mary told his disciples.

⁹ He calleth God his Father, because he is his Father naturally in the Godhead, and he saith your Father, because he is our Father by grace, through the adoption of 16 Jesus saith unto her, Mary. She turned herself, and said unto him, Rabboni, which is to say, Master.

17 Jesus saith unto her, Touch me not: for I am not yet ascended to my Father: but go to my brethren and say unto them, I ascend unto my Father, and to your Father, and to my God, and your God.

18 Mary Magdalene came and told the disciples that she had seen the Lord, and that he had spoken these things unto her.

19 C The same day then at night, which was the first day of the week, and when the doors were shut where the disciples were assembled for fear of the Jews, came Jesus and stood in the midst, and said to them, Peace be unto you.

20 And when he had so said, he shewed unto them his hands, and his side. Then were the disciples glad when they had seen the Lord.

21 C Then said Jesus unto them again, Peace be unto you: as my Father sent me, so send I you.

22 And when he had said that, he breathed on them, and said unto them, Receive the Holy Ghost.

23 Whosoever sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them: and whosoever sins ye retain, they are retained.

24 C But Thomas, one of the twelve, called Didymus, was not with them when Jesus came.

25 The other disciples therefore said unto him
We have seen the Lord: but he said unto them, Except I see in his hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and put my hand into his side, I will not believe it.

26 C And eight days after, again his disciples were within, and Thomas with them. Then came Jesus, when the doors were shut, and stood in the midst, and said, Peace be unto you.

27 After, said he to Thomas, Put thy finger here, and see mine hands, and put forth thine hand, and put it into my side, and be not faithless, but faithful.

28 Then Thomas answered, and said unto him, Thou art my Lord and my God.

29 Jesus said unto him, Thomas, because thou hast seen me, thou believest: blessed are they that have not seen, and have believed.

30 C And many other signs also did Jesus in the presence of his disciples, which are not written in this book.

31 But these things are written, that ye might believe, that Jesus is that Christ that Son of God, and that in believing ye might have life through his name.

C H A P.

the Son of God; that is, by taking us of his free grace to be his sons. Epiphanius.

⁵ Christ in that that he presented himself before his disciples suddenly, through his divine power, when the gates were shut, doth fully assure them both of his resurrection, and also of their apostleship, inspiring them with the Holy Ghost, who is the ministry of the gospel.

⁶ Either the doors opened to him of their own accord, or the very walls themselves were a passage to him.

⁷ The publishing of the forgiveness of sins by faith in Christ, and the setting-forth and denouncing the wrath of God in retaining the sins of the unbelievers, is the sum of the preaching of the gospel.

⁸ Christ draweth out of the unbelief of Thomas a certain and sure testimony of his resurrection.

⁹ True faith dependeth upon the mouth of God, and not upon fleshly eyes.

¹⁰ To believe in Christ the son of God, and our only Saviour, is the end of the doctrine of the gospel, and especially of the history of the resurrection.

C H A P. XXI.

1 Jesus appeareth to his disciples as they were a fishing, 6, 7 whom they know by a miraculous draught of fishes. 15 He committeth the charge of the sheep to Peter, 18 and foretelleth him of the manner of his death.

AFTER these things ¹ Jesus shewed himself again to his disciples at the sea of Tiberias: and thus shewed he himself:

2 There were together Simon Peter; and Thomas, which is called Didymus, and Nathanael of Cana in Galilee, and sons of Zebedee, and two other of his disciples.

3 Simon Peter said unto them, I go a fishing. They said unto him, We also will go with thee. They went their way and entered into a ship straightway, and that night caught they nothing.

4 But when the morning was now come, Jesus stood on the shore: nevertheless the disciples knew not that it was Jesus.

5 Jesus then said unto them, Sirs, have ye any meat? They answered him, No.

6 Then he said unto them, Cast out the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find. So they cast out, and they were not able at all to draw it, for the multitude of fishes.

7 Therefore said the disciple whom Jesus loved, unto Peter, It is the Lord. When Simon Peter heard that it was the Lord, he girded his ² coat to him (for he was naked) and cast himself into the sea.

8 But the other disciples came by ship, (for they were not far from land, but about two hundred cubits) and drew the net with fishes.

9 As soon then as they were come to land, they saw hot coals, and fish laid thereon, and bread.

10 Jesus said unto them, Bring of the fishes, which ye have now caught.

11 Simon Peter stepped forth, and drew the net to land, full of great fishes, an hundred fifty and three: and albeit there were so many, yet was not the net broken.

12 Jesus said unto them, Come, and dine. And none of the disciples durst ask him, Who art thou? seeing they knew that he was the Lord.

13 Jesus then came and took bread and gave them, and fish likewise. A. D. 33.

14 This is now the third time that Jesus shewed himself to his disciples, after that he was risen again from the dead.

15 ¶ ² So when they had dined, Jesus said to Simon Peter, Simon, the son of Jonas, lovest thou me more than these? He said unto him, Yea, Lord, thou knowest that I love thee. He said unto him, Feed my lambs.

16 He said to him again the second time, Simon the son of Jonas, lovest thou me? He said unto him, Yea, Lord, thou knowest that I love thee. He said unto him, Feed my sheep.

17 He said unto him the ^b third time, Simon the son of Jonas, lovest thou me? Peter was sorry, because he said to him the third time, Lovest thou me? and said unto him, Lord, thou knowest all things: thou knowest that I love thee. Jesus said unto him, Feed my sheep.

18 ³ Verily, verily I say unto thee, When thou wast young, thou ^c girdedst thyself, and walkedst whither thou wouldest: but when thou shalt be old; thou shalt stretch forth thine hands, and another shall ^d gird thee, and lead thee whither thou wouldest ^e not.

19 And this spake he; signifying by ^f what death he should glorify God. And when he had said this, he said to him, Follow me.

20 ⁴ Then Peter turned about, and saw the disciple whom Jesus loved, following, which had also ^{*} leaned on his breast at supper, and had said, Lord, which is he that betrayeth thee? *Ch. 13. 25.

21 When Peter therefore saw him, he said to Jesus, Lord, what shall this man do?

22 Jesus said unto him, If I will that he tarry till I come, what is it to thee? follow thou me.

23 Then went this word abroad among the brethren, that this disciple should not die. Yet Jesus said not to him, He shall not die: but if I will that he tarry till I come, what is it to thee?

24 ⁵ This is that disciple, which testifieth of these things, and wrote these things, and we know that his testimony is true.

25 ^{*} Now there are also many other things which Jesus did, the which if they should be written every one, I suppose the world could not contain the books that should be written. Amen. *Ch. 20. 30.

¹ In that, that Christ here is not only present but also eateth with his disciples, he giveth a most full assurance of his resurrection.

² It was a linen garment, which could not let his swimming.

³ Peter by this triple confession is restored into his former degree from whence he fell by his triple denial: and therewithal is advertised, that he is indeed a pastor, which sheweth his love to Christ, in feeding his sheep.

^b It was meet that he that denied him thrice should confess him thrice, that Peter might neither doubt of the forgiveness of his so grievous a sin, nor of his restoring to the office of the apostleship.

^c The violent death of Peter is foretold.

^d They that took far journies, especially in the East country, and in those places where the people used long garments, had need to be girded and trussed up.

^e He meant that kind of girding which is used toward captives, when they are bound fast with cords and chains, as who would say, Now thou girdest thyself as thou thinkest best, to go whither thou listest, but the time will be, when thou shalt not gird thee with a girdle, but another shall bind thee with chains, and carry thee whither thou wouldest not.

^f Not that Peter suffered aught for the truth of God against his will, for we read that he came with joy and gladness, when he returned from the council, where he was whipped: but because this will cometh not from the flesh, but from that gift of the Spirit which is given us from above, therefore he shewed, there should be a certain striving and conflict or repugnancy, which also is in us, in all our sufferances as touching the flesh.

^g That is, that Peter should die by a violent death.

⁴ We must take heed, that while we cast our eyes upon others, we neglect not that which is enjoined us.

⁵ The history of Christ is true and warily written: not for curiosity of men, but for the salvation of the godly.

THE ACTS OF THE HOLY APOSTLES,

Written by LUKE the Evangelist.

CHAP. I.

A. D.

33.

1 Luke tieth this history to his gospel. 19 Christ being taken into heaven, 10 the apostles, 11 being carried by the angels, 12 return, 14 and give themselves to prayer. 15 By Peter's motion, 18 into Judas the traitor's place, 26 Matthias is chosen.

I HAVE made the ¹ former treatise, O Theophilus, of all that Jesus began to ² do and teach,

2 Until the day that he was taken up, after that he through the Holy Ghost had given commandments unto the apostles, whom he had chosen:

3 ³ To whom also he presented himself alive after that he had suffered by many ^b infallible tokens, being seen of them by the ^c space of forty days, and speaking of those things which ^d appertain to the kingdom of God.

4 ^e And when he had ^f gathered them together, he commanded them that they should not depart from Jerusalem, but to wait for the promise of the Father, ^g which, said he, ye have heard of me.

5 ^h For John indeed baptized with water, but ye shall be baptized ⁱ with the Holy Ghost within these few days.

6 ^j When they therefore were come together, they asked of him, saying, Lord, wilt thou at this time ^k restore the kingdom to Israel?

7 And he said unto them, It is not for you to know the times, or ^l the seasons, which the Father hath put in his own power.

8 ^m But ye shall receive power of the Holy Ghost when he shall come on you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth.

9 ⁿ And when he had spoken these things, while they beheld, he was taken up: for a cloud ^o took him up out of their sight.

10 And while they looked stedfastly toward heaven, as he went, behold two men stood by them in white apparel, 11 Which also said, Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing into heaven? This Jesus which is taken up ^p from you into heaven, shall so come, as ye have seen him go into heaven.

12 ^q Then returned they unto Jerusalem from the mount that is called the mount of Olives, which is near to Jerusalem, being from it a sabbath ^r day's journey.

13 ^s And when they were ^t come in, they went up into an upper chamber, where abode both Peter, and James, and John, and Andrew, Philip, and Thomas, Bartholomew, and Matthew, James the son of Alpheus, and Simon Zealotes, and Judas James's brother.

14 These all ^u continued with ^v one accord in ^w prayer and supplication with the ^x women, and Mary, the mother of Jesus, and ^y with his brethren.

15 ^z And in those days Peter stood up in the midst of the disciples, and said (now the number of ^{aa} names that were in one place, were about an hundred and twenty.)

16 ^{ab} Ye men and brethren, this scripture must needs have been fulfilled, which the ^{ac} Holy Ghost by the mouth of David spake before of Judas, which was ^{ad} guide to them that took Jesus.

17 For he was numbered with us, and had obtained fellowship in this ministration.

18 He

¹ A passing over from the history of the gospel, that is, from the history of the sayings and doings of Christ unto the acts of the apostles.

² The acts of Jesus are the miracles and doings which showed his Godhead, and his most perfect holiness and examples of his doctrine.

³ Christ did not straightways ascend into heaven after his resurrection, because he would thoroughly prove his resurrection, and with his presence confirm his apostles in the doctrine which they had heard.

⁴ He calleth those infallible tokens, which are otherwise termed necessary: now in that that Christ spake, and walked, and ate, and was felt of many, these are sure signs and tokens that he truly rose again.

⁵ They were dispersed here and there, but he gathereth them together that they might all together be witnesses of his resurrection.

⁶ Either of the Father, or of me: so that either the Father, or Christ, is set here against John, as the Holy Ghost is against water, as things answerable the one to the other.

⁷ We must fight before we triumph: and we ought not curiously to search after those things which God hath not revealed.

⁸ To the old and ancient state.

⁹ That is, the fit occasion that served to doing of matters which the Lord hath appointed to bring things to pass in.

¹⁰ After that Christ had promised the full virtue of the Holy Ghost, wherewith he would govern his church, although he should be absent in body, he took up his body from us into the heavenly tabernacles, there to continue until the latter day of judgment, as the angels witness.

^a That is, out of your sight.

^b About two miles.

^c Ecclesiastical assemblies to hear the word, and to make common prayer, were first instituted and kept in private houses by the apostles.

^d They went into the house, which the church had chosen at that time to be a receptacle for the whole assembly.

^e The Greek word signifieth, an invincible constancy, and steadiness.

^f It is to good purpose, that this concord is mentioned: for those prayers are most acceptable to God, which are made with agreeing minds and wills.

^g The disciples prayed for the sending of the Holy Ghost, and also to be delivered from present dangers, wherewith they were beset.

^h For it was behoveable, to have the wives confirmed, who were afterward to be partakers of the dangers with their husbands.

ⁱ With his kinsfolk.

^j Peter is made the mouth and interpreter of the whole company of the apostles, either by secret revelation of the Holy Ghost, or by express judgment of the congregation.

^k Because men are commonly billed and enrolled by their names.

^l Peter preventeth the offence that might be taken of the falling away of Judas the betrayer, shewing, that all things which came unto him, were foretold by God.

ACTS CH. II

Verſes 2-41

THE DESCENT OF THE HOLY GHOST

A. D. 33. 18 He therefore hath^a purchased a field with the reward of iniquity: and when^{*} he had thrown down himself headlong, he burst asunder in the midst, and all his bowels gushed out.

19 And it is known unto all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, insomuch that that field is called in their own language, Aeldema, that is, The field of blood.

20 For it is written in the book of Psalms, Let his habitation be void, and let no man dwell therein: ^{*} also, Let another take his charge.

21 Wherefore of these men, which have companied with us, all the time that the Lord Jesus was[†] conversant among us, 22 Beginning from the baptism of John unto the day that he was taken up[‡] from us, must one of them be made a witness with us of his resurrection.

23 [¶] And they^{*} presented two, Joseph called Barabas, whose surname was Juitus, and Matthias.

24 And they prayed, saying, Thou, Lord, which knowest the hearts of all men, shew whether of these two thou hast chosen, 25 That he may take the[†] room of this ministration and apostleship, from which Judas hath[‡] gone astray, to go to his own place.

26 Then they gave forth their lots: and the lot fell on Matthias, and he was by a common consent counted with the eleven apostles.

C H A P II.

1 The apostles, 4 filled with the Holy Ghost, 8 speak with divers tongues. 13 They are thought to be drunk, 15 but Peter disproveth that. 34 He teacheth that Christ is the Messias. 37 and seeing the hearers astonished, 38 he exhorteth them to repentance.

A. D. 33. AND[†] when the day of Pentecost was[‡] come, they were^{*} all with one accord in one place.

2 And suddenly there came a sound from heaven, as of a rushing and mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they sat.

3 And there appeared unto them cloven tongues, like fire, and it sat upon each of them.

4 And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with^c other tongues, as the^d Spirit gave them utterance.

5 And there were dwelling at Jerusalem Jews, men that feared God, of every nation under heaven.

6 Now when this was noised, the multitude came together, and were astonished, because that every man heard them speak his own language.

7 And they wondered all, and marvelled, saying among themselves, Behold, are not all these which speak, of Galilee?

8 ^e How then hear we every man in our own language wherein we were born?

9 Parthians, and Medes, and Elamites, and the inhabitants of Mesopotamia, and of Judea, and of Cappadocia, of Pontus, and Asia,

10 And of Phrygia, and Pamphylia, of Egypt, and of the parts of Libya, which is beside Cyrene, and strangers of Rome, and^f Jews, and proselytes, 11 Cretes, and Arabians: we heard them speak in our own tongues the wonderful works of God.

12 ^g They were all then amazed, and doubted, saying one to another, What may this be?

13 And others^h mocked, and said, They are full of new wine.

14 ¶ But Peter standing with the eleven, ^h lift up his voice, and said unto them, Ye men of Judea, and ye all that inhabit Jerusalem, be
I i this

^a Luke considered not Judas his purpose, but that that followed of it; and so we use to say, that a man both procured himself harm, not that his will and purpose was so, but in respect of that which followed.

^{*} The Greek word signifieth thus much, that Judas fell down flat, and was rent in sunder in the midst, with a marvellous huge noise.

[†] His office and ministry. David wrote these words against Doeg the king's herdman: And these words, Shepherd, Sheep, and Flock, are put over to the church office and ministry, so that the church and the offices thereof are called by these names.

[‡] The apostles deliberate upon nothing, but first they consult, and take advisement by God's word; and again they do nothing that concerneth and is behoveable for the whole body of the congregation, without making the congregation privy unto it.

[§] Word for word, went in and out, which kind of speech betokeneth as much in the Hebrew tongue, as the exercising of a public and painful office, when they speak of such as are in any public office, Deut 31. 2. 1 Chron. 27. 1.

[¶] From our company.

[¶] The apostles must be chosen immediately from God, and therefore after prayer, Matthias is chosen by lot, which is, as it were, God's own voice.

^{*} Openly, and by the voices of all the whole company.

[†] That he may be fellow and partaker of his ministry.

[‡] Departed from, or fallen from: And it is a metaphor taken from the way. For callings are signified by the name of ways, with the Hebrews.

[§] The apostles being gathered together on a most solemn feast day in one place, that it might evidently appear to all the world, that they had all one office, one Spirit, one faith, are by a double sign from heaven authorized, and anointed with all the most excellent gifts of the Holy Ghost, and especially with an extraordinary and necessary gift of tongues.

[¶] Word for word, was fulfilled, that is, was begun, as Luke 2. 21. For the Hebrews say, that a day, or a year is fulfilled or ended, when the former days or years are ended, and the other begun, Jer. 25. 12. And it shall come to pass, that when seventy years are fulfilled, I will visit, &c. For the Lord did not bring home his people, after the seventieth year was ended, but in the seventieth year: Now the day of Pentecost was the fiftieth day after the feast of the passover.

^b The twelve apostles, which were to be the patriarchs as it were of the church.

^c He calleth them other tongues, which were not the same which the apostles used commonly, and Mark calleth them new tongues.

^d Hereby we understand, that the apostles used not now one tongue, and then another by hap-hazard and fatal adventure, or as fantastical men use to do, but with good consideration of their hearers: and to be short, that they spake nothing, but as the Holy Ghost governed their tongues.

^e Not that they spake with one voice, and many languages were heard, but that the apostles spake with strange tongues: for also the miracle had rather been in the hearers else, whereas now it is in the speakers. Nazianzen, in his oration of Whitsunday.

^f By Jews, he meaneth them that were both Jews by birth, and Jews by profession of religion, though they were born in other places: and they were proselytes, which were Gentiles born, and embraced the Jewish religion.

^g God's word pierceth some, that it driveth them to seek out the truth; and it doth so choak others, that it forceth them to be witnesses of their own impudency.

^h The word which he useth here, signifieth such a kind of mocking which is reproachful and contumelious: And by this reproachful mocking we see, that there is no miracle so great and excellent, which the wickedness of man dareth not speak evil of.

ⁱ Peter's boldness is to be marked, wherein the grace of the Holy Ghost is to be seen, even straight after the beginning.

A. D. 33. this known unto you, and hearken unto my words.

15 For these are not drunken, as ye suppose, since it is but the third¹ hour of the day.

16 But this is that which was spoken by the ^{Joel 2. 28.} prophet² Joel,

^{1. 24. 3.} 17³ And it shall be in the last days, saith God, I will pour out of my Spirit upon⁴ all⁵ flesh, and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams.

18 And on my servants, and on mine handmaids, I will pour out of my Spirit in those days, and they shall prophesy.

19 And I will shew wonders in heaven above, and tokens in the earth beneath, blood and fire, and vapour of smoke.

20 The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before that great and notable day of the Lord come.

21⁶ And it shall be, that whosoever shall⁷ call on the name of the Lord shall be saved.

22⁸ Ye men of Israel, hear these words: Jesus of Nazareth, a man⁹ approved of God among you with great works, and wonders, and signs, which God did by him in the midst of you, as ye yourselves also know:

23 Him, I say, being delivered by the determinate counsel¹⁰ and¹¹ foreknowledge of God, after you had taken with wicked¹² hands, you have crucified and¹³ slain:

24¹⁴ Whom God hath raised up, and loosed the¹⁵ sorrows of death, because it was impossible that he should be holden of it.

^{Ps. 16. 9.} 25 For David saith concerning him, * I beheld the Lord always before me: for he is at my right hand, that I should not be shaken.

26 Therefore did mine heart rejoice, and my tongue was glad, and moreover also my flesh shall rest in hope, 27 Because thou wilt not¹⁶ leave my soul in grave, neither wilt suffer thine holy One to see corruption.

28 Thou hast¹⁷ shewed me the ways of life, and shalt make me full of joy with thy countenance.

¹ After the sun rising, which may be about seven or eight of the clock with us.

² There is nothing that can dissolve questions and doubts, but testimony taken out of the prophets; for men's reasons may be overturned, but God's voice cannot be overturned.

³ Peter setting the truth of God against the false accusations of men, sheweth in himself and in his fellows, that that is fulfilled which Joel spake before concerning the full giving of the Holy Ghost in the latter days; which grace also is offered to the whole church, to their certain and undoubted destruction which do contemn it.

⁴ All without exception, both upon the Jews and Gentiles.

⁵ That is, men.

⁶ The chiefest use of all the gifts of the Holy Ghost is to bring man to salvation by faith.

⁷ This word, Call on, signifieth in holy scriptures, an earnest praying and craving for help at God's hand.

⁸ Christ being innocent, was by God's providence crucified of wicked men.

⁹ Who is by those works which God wrought by him so manifestly approved and allowed of, that no man can gainsay him.

¹⁰ God's everlasting knowledge going before, which can neither be separated from his determinate counsel, as the Epicures say, neither yet be the cause of evil; for God, in his everlasting and unchangeable counsel, appointed the wicked act of Judas to an excellent end. And God doth that well, which the instruments do ill.

¹¹ God's counsel doth not excuse the Jews, whose hands were wicked.

29 Men and brethren, I may boldly speak¹⁸ unto you of the patriarch David, * that he is both dead and buried, and his sepulchre remaineth with us unto this day.

30 Therefore, seeing he was a prophet, and knew that God had * * sworn with an oath to him, that of the fruit of his loins he would raise up Christ concerning the flesh, to set him upon his throne:

31 He knowing this before, spake of the resurrection of Christ, that * his soul should not be left in grave, neither his flesh should see corruption.

32¹⁹ This Jesus hath God raised up, whereof we are all witnesses.

33 Since then that he by the right²⁰ hand of God hath been exalted, and hath received of his Father the promise of the Holy Ghost, he hath shed forth this which ye now see and hear.

34 For David is not ascended into heaven: but he saith, * The Lord said to my Lord, Sit at my right hand, 35 Until I make thine enemies thy footstool.

36 Therefore let all the house of Israel know for a surety, that God hath²¹ made him both Lord, and Christ: this Jesus, I say, whom ye have crucified.

37 Now when they heard it, they were pricked in their hearts, and said unto Peter, and the other apostles, Men and brethren, what shall we do?

38²² Then Peter said unto them, Amend your lives, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of sins: and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost.

39 For the * promise is made unto you, and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call.

40²³ And with many other words he besought and exhorted them, saying, Save yourselves from this froward generation.

41²⁴ Then they that gladly received his word, were baptized: and the same day there were added to the church about three thousand souls.

42 And

¹⁸ The fact is said to be theirs, by whose counsel and egging forward it is done.

¹⁹ Christ (as David foretold) did not only rise again, but also was in the grave void of all corruption.

²⁰ The death that was full of sorrow both of body and mind. Therefore when death appeared conqueror and victor over those sorrows, Christ is rightly said to have overcome those sorrows of death, when as being dead, he overcame death, to live for ever with his Father.

²¹ Thou wilt not suffer me to remain in the grave.

²² Thou hast opened me the way to the true life.

²³ Had sworn solemnly.

²⁴ Peter witnesseth that Jesus Christ is the appointed everlasting King, which he proveth manifestly by the gifts of the Holy Ghost and the testimony of David.

²⁵ Might and power of God.

²⁶ Christ is said to be made, because he was advanced to that dignity, and therefore it is not spoken of his nature, but of his estate and high dignity.

²⁷ Repentance and remission of sins in Christ, are two principles of the gospel, and therefore of our salvation; and they are obtained by the promises apprehended by faith, and are ratified in us by baptism, wherewith is joined the virtue of the Holy Ghost.

²⁸ The word that is used here, giveth us to understand that it was a free gift.

²⁹ He is truly joined to the church, which separateth himself from the wicked.

³⁰ A notable example of the virtue of the Holy Ghost. But such as are of age, are not baptized, before they make confession of their faith.

33. ^{A. D.} 42 ¹¹ And they continued in the apostles doctrine and ^b fellowship, and ^c breaking of bread, and prayers.
 43 ¶ ¹² And fear came upon every soul, and many wonders and signs were done by the apostles.
 44 ¹³ And all that believed, were in one place, and had all things common.
 45 And they sold their possessions and goods, and parted them to all men, as every one had need.
 46 ¹⁴ And they continued daily with one accord in the temple, and breaking bread at home, did eat their meat together with gladness, and singleness of heart, 47 Praising God, and had favour with all the people: and the Lord added unto the church from day to day such as should be saved.

CHAP. III.

1 Peter going into the temple with John, 2 healeth the cripple. 9 To the people gathered together to see the miracle, 12 he expoundeth the mystery of our salvation through Christ, 14 accusing their ingratitude, 19 and requiring their repentance.

NOW ¹ Peter and John went up together into the temple, at the ninth hour of prayer.
 2 And a certain man which was a cripple from his mother's womb was carried, whom they laid daily at the gate of the temple called Beautiful, to ask alms of them that entered into the temple:
 3 Who seeing Peter and John, that they would enter into the temple, desired to receive an alms.
 4 And Peter earnestly beholding him with John, said, Look on us.
 5 And he ^a gave heed unto them, trusting to receive something of them.
 6 Then said Peter, Silver and gold have I none, but such as I have, that give I thee: in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, rise up and walk.
 7 And he took him by the right hand, and lift him up, and immediately his feet and ankle bones received strength,
 8 And he leaped up, stood, and walked, and entered with them into the temple, walking and leaping, and praising God.

¹¹ The marks of the true church are the doctrine of the apostles, the duties of charity, the pure and simple administration of the sacraments, and true invocations used of all the faithful.
^b Communicating of goods, and of all other duties of charity, as is shewed afterward.
^c The Jews used thin loaves, and therefore they did rather break them than cut them: So by breaking of bread, they understood that living together, and the banquets which they used to keep. And when they kept their love-feasts, they used to celebrate the Lord's Supper, which even in these days began to be corrupted, and Paul amendeth it, 1 Cor. 11.
¹² So oft as the Lord thinketh it expedient, he bridleth the rage of strangers, that the church may be planted, and have some refreshing.
¹³ Charity maketh all things common concerning the use, according as necessity requireth.
¹⁴ The faithful came together at the beginning with great fruit, not only to the hearing of the word, but also to meat.
¹ Christ in healing a man that was born lame, and well known to all men, both in place and time very famous, by the hands of his apostles, doth partly confirm them which believed, and partly also calleth others to believe.
^a Both with heart and eyes.
^b Either because he loved them, who had healed him;

9 And all the people saw him walk, and praising God. ^{A. D.} 33.
 10 And they knew him, that it was he which sat for the alms at the Beautiful gate of the temple: and they were amazed, and sore astonished at that which was come unto him.
 11 ¶ And as the cripple which was healed, ^b held Peter and John, all the people ran amazed unto them in the porch which is called Solomon's.
 12 ^a So when Peter saw it, he answered unto the people, Ye men of Israel, why marvel ye at this? or why look ye so stedfastly on us, as though by our own power or godliness we had made this man go?
 13 The God of Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, the ^{*} God of our fathers, hath glorified his ^b Son Jesus, whom ye betrayed, and denied in the presence of Pilate, when he had judged him to be delivered. ^{Ch. 5. 30.}
 14 But ye denied the Holy One and the Just, and desired a murderer to be given you:
 15 And killed the Lord ^c of life, whom God hath raised from the dead, whereof we are witnesses.
 16 And his name hath made this man sound, whom ye see and know, through faith in his name: ^d and the faith which is by him, hath given to him this perfect health of his whole body in the presence of you all.
 17 ³ And now, brethren, I know that through ignorance ye did it, as did also your governors.
 18 But those things which God before had shewed ^e by the mouth of all his prophets, that Christ should suffer, he hath thus fulfilled.
 19 Amend your lives therefore, and turn, that your sins may be put away, when the time of refreshing shall come from the presence of the Lord.
 20 And he shall send Jesus Christ, which before was preached unto you:
 21 ^f Whom the heaven must contain until the time that all things be restored, which God had spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began.
 22 ^{*} For Moses said unto the fathers, The Lord your God shall raise up unto you ^g a prophet, even of your brethren, like unto me: ye shall or because he feared that if he once let them go out of his sight, he should be lame again.

² Miracles are appointed to convince the unbelievers, and therefore they do wickedly abuse them, who standing amazed, either at the miracles themselves, or at the instruments and means which it pleaseth God to use, take an occasion to establish idolatry and superstition, by that which God hath provided for the knowledge of his true worship, that is, christianity.
^c Who hath life in himself, and giveth life to others.
^d Because he believed on him being raised from the dead, whose name he heard of by us.
^e It is best of all to receive Christ so soon as he is offered unto us. But such as have neglected so great a benefit, through man's weakness, have yet repentance for a mean. As for the ignominy of the cross, we have to set against that the decree and purpose of God, foretold by the prophets, of Christ, how that first of all he should be crucified here upon earth, and then he should appear from heaven the judge and restorer of all things, that all believers might be saved, and all unbelievers utterly perish.
^f Though there were many prophets, yet he speaketh but of one mouth, to shew to us the consent and agreement of the prophets.
^g Or, be taken up into heaven.
^{*} This promise was of an excellent and singular prophet.

35. D. shall hear him in all things, whatsoever he shall say unto you.

23 For it shall be that every person which shall not hear that prophet, shall be destroyed out of the people.

24 Also the prophets ^b from Samuel, and thenceforth as many as have spoken, have likewise foretold of these days.

25 ^c Ye are the children of the prophets, and of the covenant which God hath made unto our fathers, saying to Abraham, ^d Every inbred shall all the kindreds of the earth be blessed.

26 First unto you hath God ^e raised up his Son Jesus, and him he hath sent to bless you, in turning every one of you from your iniquities.

CHAP. IV.

1 Peter and John 3 are taken and brought before the council. 7 and 19 They speak boldly in Christ's name. 24 The disciples pray unto God. 32 Many sell their possessions: 36 Of whom Barnabas is one.

AND ^f as they spake unto the people, the priests and the ^g captain of the temple, and the Sadducees came upon them,

2 Taking it grievously, that they taught the people, and preached in Jesus's ^h name the resurrection from the dead.

3 And they laid hands on them, and put them in hold, until the next day: for it was now even-tide.

4 Howbeit, many of them which heard the word, believed, and the ⁱ number of the men was about five thousand.

5 ^j And it came to pass on the morrow that their rulers and elders and Scribes were gathered together at Jerusalem:

6 And Annas the chief priest, and Caiaphas, and John, and Alexander, and as many as were of the ^k kindred of the high priests.

7 ^l And when they had set them before them, they asked, By what power, or in what ^m name have ye done this?

8 Then Peter, full of the Holy Ghost, said unto them, Ye rulers of the people, and elders of Israel, ^f At what time the kingdom of Israel was established.

^g The Jews that believe are the first-begotten in the kingdom of God.

^h For whom the prophets were specially appointed.

ⁱ Given to the world, or raised from the dead, and advanced to his kingdom.

^j None are commonly more diligent or bolder enemies of the church, than such as profess themselves to be head-builders. But the more they rage, the more constantly the faithful servants of God do continue.

^k The Jews had certain garrisons for the guard and safety of the temple and holy things, Matt. 26. 65. These garrisons had a captain, such as Eleazarus Ananias, the high priest's son, was in the time of the war that was in Judea, being a very impudent and proud young man. Joseph. lib. 2. of the taking of Judea.

^l While they thought to diminish the number, they increased them.

^m These were they that made the Sanhedrin, which were all of the tribe of Judah, until Herod used that cruelty against David's stock.

ⁿ Of whom the high priests were wont to be chosen and made, the execution of the yearly office being now changed.

^o Against such as brag of a succession of persons, without a succession of doctrine, and by that means beat down the true ministers of the word, so far forth as they are able.

^p By what authority.

^q The wolves which succeed true pastors, plead their own cause and not God's, neither the church's.

^r He is indeed a true shepherd, that teacheth his flock;

9 ^s Forasmuch as we this day are examined of the good deed ^t done to the impotent man, ^u to wit, by what means he is made whole,

10 ^v Be it known unto you all, and to all the people of Israel, that by the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom ye have crucified, whom God raised again from the dead, ^w even by him doth this man stand here before you, whole.

11 ^x This is the stone cast aside of you builders, which is become the head of the corner.

12 Neither is there salvation in any other: for among men there is ^y given none other ^z name ^a under heaven, whereby we must be saved.

13 ^b Now when they saw the boldness of Peter and John, and understood that they were unlearned men and without ^c knowledge, they marvelled, and knew them, that they had been with Jesus:

14 And beholding also the man which was healed standing with them, they had nothing to say against it.

15 Then they commanded them to go aside out of the council, and ^d conferred among themselves.

16 ^e Saying, What shall we do to these men? for surely a manifest sign is done by them, ^f and it is openly known to all them that dwell in Jerusalem: and we cannot deny it.

17 But that it be noised no further among the people, let us threaten and charge them, that they speak henceforth to no man in this name.

18 So they called them, and commanded them, that in no wise they should speak or teach in the name of Jesus.

19 But Peter and John answered unto them, and said, Whether it be right in the sight of God, to obey you rather than God, judge ye.

20 For we cannot but speak the things which we have seen and heard.

21 ^g So they threatened them, and let them go, and found nothing how to punish them, because of the people: for all men praised God for that which was done.

22 For the man was above forty years old, on whom this miracle of healing was shewed.

23 ^h Then as soon as they were let go, they came to their fellows, and shewed all that the high priests and elders had said unto them.

24 And to hang upon Christ only, as upon one that is not dead, but hath conquered death, and hath all rule in his own hands.

ⁱ Of God.

^j There is no other man, or no other power and authority whatsoever: which kind of speech being usual among the Jews, rose upon this, that when we are in danger, we call upon them at whose hands we look for help.

^k Any where. And this setteth forth unto us the largeness of Christ's kingdom.

^l The good liberty and boldness of the servants of God doth yet thus much good, that such as lay hid under a vizard of zeal, do at length bewray themselves to be indeed wicked men.

^m The word used here, is Idiot, which being spoken in comparison had to a magillrate, betokeneth a private man: but when we speak of sciences and studies, it signifieth one that is unlearned; and in account of honour and estimation, it importeth one of base degree and no estimation.

ⁿ Laid their heads together.

^o He that flattereth himself in ignorance, cometh at length to do open wickedness, and that against his own conscience.

^p We must so obey men to whom we are subject, that especially and before all things we obey God.

^q So far off are the wicked from doing what they list, that contrariwise God useth even that to the setting forth of his glory, which he giveth them leave to do.

^r The apostles communicate their troubles with the congregation.

A. D. 33. 24 ¹⁰ And when they heard it, they lift up their voices to God with one accord, and said, O Lord, thou art the God which hast made the heaven, and the earth, the sea, and all things that are in them, 25 Which by the mouth of thy servant David hast said, * Why did the Gentiles rage, and the people imagine vain things?

26 The kings of the earth assembled, and the rulers came together against the Lord, and against his Christ.

27 For doubtless, against thine holy Son Jesus, whom thou hadst anointed, both Herod and Pontius Pilate, with the Gentiles and the ¹ people of Israel, gathered themselves together, 28 To ^m do whatsoever ⁿ thine hand and thy counsel had determined before to be done.

29 And now, O Lord, behold their threatenings, and grant unto thy servants with all boldness to speak thy word, 30 So that thou stretch forth thine hand, that healing, and signs, and wonders may be done by the name of thine holy Son Jesus.

31 ¹¹ And when as they had prayed, the place was shaken where they were assembled together, and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and they spake the word of God boldly.

32 ¹² And the multitude of them that believed, were of ^o one heart, and of one soul: neither any of them said, that any thing of that which he possessed, was his own, but they had all things ^p common.

33 And with great power gave the apostles witness of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus: and great grace was upon them all.

34 ¹³ Neither was there any among them that lacked: for as many as were possessors of lands or houses, sold them, and brought the price of the things that were sold,

35 And laid it down at the apostles feet, and it was distributed unto every man, according as he had need.

36 Also Joses, which was called of the apostles Barnabas (that is, by interpretation, the son of consolation) being a Levite, and of the country of Cyprus, 37 Whereas he had land, sold it, and brought the money, and laid it down at the apostles feet.

C H A P. V.

¹ Ananias, for his deceit in keeping back part of the price, 5 falleth down dead, 13 and likewise

¹⁰ We ought neither to be afraid of the threatenings of our enemies, neither yet foolishly condemn their rage and madness against us; but we have to set against their force and malice, an earnest thinking upon the power and goodwill of God (both which we do manifestly behold in Christ) and so flee to the aid and succour of our Father.

¹ Although the people of Israel was but one people, yet the plural number is here used, not so much for the twelve tribes, every one of which made a people, as for the great multitude of them, as though many nations had assembled themselves together, as Judg. 5. 14.

^m The wicked execute God's counsel, though they think nothing of it, but they are not therefore without fault.

ⁿ Thou hast determined of thine absolute authority and power.

¹¹ God witnesseth to his church by a visible sign, it is he that will establish it, by shaking the powers both of heaven and earth.

¹² An example of the true church, wherein there is content as well in doctrine as in charity one toward another. And the pastors deliver true doctrine both sincerely and constantly.

^o They agreed both in counsel, will, and purposes.

¹³ True charity helpeth the necessity of the poor with his Sapphira his wife. 12 Through divers the apostles miracles, 14 the faith is increased. 18 The apostles that were imprisoned, are delivered by an angel, 26 and being before the synod of the priests, 36 through Gamaliel's counsel they are kept alive, 40 and beaten: 41 they glorify God. A. D. 33.

BUT a certain man named Ananias, with Sapphira his wife, sold a possession, 2 And kept away part of the price, his wife also being of counsel, and brought a certain part, and laid it down at the apostles feet.

3 Then said Peter, Ananias, why hath Satan filled thine heart, that thou shouldest lye unto the Holy Ghost, and keep away part of the price of this possession?

4 Whilst it remained, appertained it not unto thee? and after it was sold, was it not in thine own power? how is it that thou hast conceived this thing in thine heart? thou hast not liyed unto men, but unto God.

5 Now when Ananias heard these words, he fell down, and gave up the ghost. Then great fear came on all them that heard these things.

6 And the young men rose up, and took him up, and carried him out, and buried him.

7 And it came to pass, about the space of three hours after, that his wife came in, ignorant of that which was done.

8 And Peter said unto her, Tell me, sold ye the land for so much? And she said, Yea, for so much.

9 Then Peter said unto her, Why have ye agreed together to tempt the Spirit of the Lord? behold, the feet of them which have buried thine husband are at the door, and shall carry thee out.

10 Then she fell down straightway at his feet and yielded up the ghost: and the young men came in, and found her dead, and carried her out, and buried her by her husband.

11 And great fear came on all the church, and on as many as heard these things.

12 Thus by the hands of the apostles were many signs and wonders shewed among the people (and they were all with one accord in Solomon's porch.

13 And of the other durst no man join himself to them: nevertheless, the people magnified them.

14 Also the number of them that believed own loss; but so that all things be done well and orderly ¹ Luke sheweth by contrary examples, how great a sin hypocrisy is, especially in them which under a false pretence and cloak of zeal would seem to shine and be chief in the church.

² Craftily took away.

^b Fully possessed.

^c For when they had appointed that farm or possession for the church, they stuck not at it to keep away part of the price, as though they had to do with men, and not with God, and therefore he saith afterward that they tempted God.

^d Hereby is declared an advised and purposed deceit, and the fault in the man in admitting the devil's suggestions.

^e Look how oft men do things with an evil conscience, oft they pronounce sentence against themselves, and as such as in them lieth, provoke God to anger, as of set purpose, minding to try whether he be just and almighty or no.

^f Are at hand.

² The Lord by his marvellous virtue bridleth some, that they may not hurt the church: other some he keepeth in awe and fear: and other some he allureth unto him.

³ Highly praised them.

A. D. 33. in the Lord, both of men and women, grew more and more.)

15 Inasmuch that they brought the sick into the streets, and laid them on beds and couches, that at the least way the shadow of Peter, when he came by, might shadow some of them.

16 There came also a multitude out of the cities round about unto Jerusalem, bringing sick folks, and them which were vexed with unclean spirits, who were all healed.

17 ¶ Then the chief priest rose up, and all they that were with him (which was the sect of the Sadducees) and were full of indignation, 18 And laid hands on the apostles, and put them in the common prison.

19 ¶ But the angel of the Lord, by night, opened the prison doors, and brought them forth, and said, 20 Go your way, and stand in the temple, and speak to the people all the words of this life.

21 So when they heard it, they entered into the temple early in the morning, and taught. And the chief priest came, and they that were with him, and called the council together, and all the elders of the children of Israel, and sent to the prison, to cause them to be brought.

22 But when the officers came, and found them not in the prison, they returned and told it, 23 Saying, Certainly we found the prison shut as sure as was possible, and the keepers standing without, before the doors: but when we had opened, we found no man within.

24 Then when the chief priest, and the captain of the temple, and the high priests, heard these things, they doubted of them whereunto this would grow.

25 Then came one, and shewed them, saying, Behold, the men that ye put in prison, are standing in the temple, and teach the people.

26 Then went the captain with the officers, and brought them without violence (for they feared the people, lest they should have been stoned.)

27 And when they had brought them, they set them before the council, and the chief priest asked them, 28 Saying, Did not we straightly command you, that ye should not teach in this name?

² The more that the church increaseth, the more increaseth the rage of Satan, and therefore they proceed from threatenings to prisoning.

³ The word which is used here, is heresy, which signifieth a choice, and so is taken for a right form of learning, or faction, or study, and course of life, which the Latins call a sect: at the first this word was indifferently used, but at length it came to be taken only in evil part, whereupon came the name of heretic, which is taken for one that goeth astray from sound and wholesome doctrine, after such sort that he setteth light by the judgment of God and his church, and continueth in his opinion, and breaketh the peace of the church.

⁴ Angels are made servants of the servants of God.

⁵ God doth therefore deliver his, that they may more stoutly provoke his enemies.

⁶ Words, whereby the way unto life is shewed.

⁷ God mocketh his enemies attempts from above.

⁸ The more openly that Christ's virtue sheweth itself, the more increaseth the madness of his enemies, which conspire against him.

⁹ Tyrants which fear not God, are constrained to fear his servants.

¹⁰ It is the property of tyrants to set out their own commandments as right and reason, be they never so wicked.

¹¹ Make us guilty of murdering that man, whom yet they will not vouchsafe to name.

and behold, you have filled Jerusalem with your doctrine, and ye would bring this man's blood upon us.

29 Then Peter and the apostles answered, and said, We ought rather to obey God than men.

30 The God of our fathers hath raised up Jesus, whom ye slew, and hanged on a tree.

31 Him hath God lift up with his right hand, to be a prince and a saviour, to give repentance to Israel, and forgiveness of sins.

32 And we are his witnesses concerning these things which we say: yea, and the Holy Ghost, whom God hath given to them that obey him.

33 Now when they heard it, they burst for anger, and consulted to slay them.

34 Then stood there up in the council a certain Pharisee named Gamaliel, a doctor of the law, honoured of all the people, and commanded to put the apostles forth a little space:

35 And said unto them, Men of Israel, take heed to yourselves, what ye intend to do, touching these men:

36 For before these times, rose up Theudas, boasting himself, to whom resorted a number of men, about four hundred, who was slain, and they all which obeyed him were scattered, and brought to nought.

37 After this man, rose up Judas of Galilee, in the days of the tribute, and drew away much people after him: he also perished, and all that obeyed him were scattered abroad.

38 And now I say unto you, Refrain yourselves from these men, and let them alone: for if this counsel, or this work be of men, it will come to nought:

39 But if it be of God, ye cannot destroy it, lest ye be found even fighters against God.

40 And to him they agreed, and called the apostles: and when they had beaten them, they commanded that they should not speak in the name of Jesus: and let them go.

41 So they departed from the council, rejoicing that they were counted worthy to suffer rebuke for his name.

42 And daily in the temple, and from house to house, they ceased not to teach, and preach Jesus Christ.

CHAP.

¹⁰ We ought to obey no man, but so far forth as obeying him we may obey God.

¹¹ Christ is appointed and indeed declared prince and preserver of his church in despite of his enemies.

¹² It is not sufficient for us, that there is a right end, but we must also according to our vocation go on forward till we come unto it.

¹³ This betokeneth that they were in a most vehement rage, and marvellously disquieted in mind, for it is a borrowed kind of speech taken from them which are harshly cut in funder with a saw.

¹⁴ Christ findeth defenders of his cause, even in the very route of his enemies, so oft as he thinketh it needful.

¹⁵ In matters of religion we must take good heed, that we attempt nothing under the colour of zeal, beside our vocation.

¹⁶ To be of some fame.

¹⁷ He dissuadeth his fellows from murdering the apostles, neither doth he think it good to refer the matter to the Roman magistrate; for the Jews could abide nothing worse than to have the tyranny of the Romans confirmed.

¹⁸ If it be counterfeit and devised.

¹⁹ The apostles accustomed to suffer and bear words, are at length inured to bear stripes, but yet so, that by this means they become stronger.

C H A P. VI.

2 The apostles 3 appoint the office of deaconship
5 to seven chosen men: 8 of whom Stephen, full of faith, is one. 12 He is taken, 13 and accused as a transgressor of Moses's law.

AND ¹ in those days, as the number of the disciples grew, there arose a murmuring of the ² Grecians towards the Hebrews, because their widows were neglected in the ^b daily ministering.

2 ² Then the twelve called the multitude of the disciples together, and said, It is not ^c mete that we should leave the word of God to serve the ^d tables.

3 ³ Wherefore, brethren; look you out among you seven men of honest report, and full of the Holy Ghost, and of wisdom, which we may appoint to this business.

4 And we will give ourselves continually to prayer, and to the ministration of the word.

5 And the saying pleased the whole multitude: and they chose Stephen, a man full of faith, and of the Holy Ghost, and * Philip, and Prochorus, and Nicanor, and Timon, and Parmenas, and Nicholas, a proselyte of Antiochia.

6 ⁴ Which they set before the apostles: and they prayed, and ^e laid their hands on them.

7 ⁵ And the word of God increased; and the number of the disciples was multiplied in Jerusalem greatly; and a great company of the priests were obedient to the ^f faith.

8 ¶ ⁶ Now Stephen, full of faith and ^g power, did great wonders and miracles among the people.

9 ⁷ Then there arose certain of the ^h synagogue, which are called Libertines, and Cyrenians, and of Alexandria, and of them of Cilicia, and of Asia, and disputed with Stephen.

10 ⁸ But they were not able to resist the wisdom and the Spirit by the which he spake.

¹ When Satan hath assailed the church without, and that to small purpose, and in vain, he assaileth it within, with civil dissention and strife betwixt themselves. But the apostles take occasion thereby to set order in the church.

² Of their parts, which of Grecians became religious Jews.

^b In the bestowing of alms according to their necessity.

³ The office of preaching the word, and dispensing the goods of the church, are different one from another, and not rashly to be joined together, as the apostles do here institute. And the apostles do not chuse so much as the deacons without the consent of the church.

^c It is such a matter, as we may in no wise accept of it.

^d Banquets. Though by the name of tables; other offices are also meant which are annexed to it, such as pertain to the care of the poor.

^e In chusing of deacons (much more of ministers) there must be examination both of their learning and manners of life.

^f The ancient church did, with laying on of hands, as it were consecrate to the Lord, such as were lawfully elected.

^g This ceremony of laying-on of hands came from the Jews, who used this order both in public affairs, and offering of sacrifices, and also in private prayers and blessings, as appeareth Gen. 28. And the church observed this ceremony, 1 Tim. 5. 22. Acts 8. 17. But here is no mention made either of cream, or shaving, or rasing, or crossing, &c.

^h An happy end of temptation.

ⁱ This is the figure Metonymia, meaning by faith, the doctrine of the gospel which ingendereth faith.

^j God exerciseth his church first with evil words and slanders, then with imprisonments, afterward with scourg-ings, and by these means prepareth it in such sort, that at length he causeth it to encounter with Satan and the world.
even to bloodshed and death, and that with good success.

^k Excellent and singular good gifts.

11 Then they suborned men, which said,
We have heard him speak blasphemous words against Moses, and God.

12 ⁹ Thus they moved the people and the elders, and the Scribes: and running upon him, caught him, and brought him to the council,

13 ¹⁰ And set forth false witnesses, which said;
This man ceaseth not to speak blasphemous words against this holy place; and the law.

14 For we have heard him say, that this Jesus of Nazareth shall destroy this place, and shall change the ordinances which Moses gave us.

15 And all that sat in the council, looking steadfastly on him, ¹ saw his face as it had been the face of an angel.

C H A P. VII.

1 Stephen pleading his cause, sheweth that God chose the fathers, 20 before Moses was born, 47. and before the temple was built, 44 and that all outward ceremonies were ordained according to the heavenly pattern. 54 The Jews gnashing their teeth; 59 stone him.

THEN ¹ said the chief priest, Are these things
so?

2 ² And he said, Ye men, brethren, and fathers, hearken. * That God of ^a glory appeared ^{Gen. 12.} unto our father Abraham, while he was in ^b Mesopotamia, before he dwelt in Charran,

3 And said unto him, Come out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and come into the land which I shall shew thee.

4 Then came he out of the land of the Chal-deans, and dwelt in Charran. And after that his father was dead; God brought him from thence into this land, wherein ye now dwell.

5 And he gave him none inheritance in it, no, not the ^c breadth of a foot: yet he ^d promised that he would give it to him for a possession; and to his seed after him; when as yet he had no child.

6 But

⁷ Schools and universities were of old time addicted to false pastors, and were the instruments of Satan to blow abroad and defend false doctrines.

^h Of the company and college, as it were.

⁸ False teachers, because they will not be overcome, flee from disputations to manifest and open slandering and false accusations.

⁹ The first bloody persecution of the church of Christ began and sprung from a council of priests, by the suggestion of the university doctors.

¹⁰ An example of cavillers or false accusers, which gather false conclusions of things that are well uttered and spoken.

¹ Hereby it appeareth that Stephen had an excellent and godly countenance, having a quiet and settled mind, a good conscience and sure persuasion that his cause was just.
For seeing he was to speak before the people, God beautified his countenance, to the end that with the very beholding of him, the Jews minds might be pierced and amazed.

² Stephen is admitted to plead his cause, but to this end and purpose, that under a cloak and colour of law, he might be condemned.

³ Stephen witnesseth unto the Jews, that he acknowledgeth the true fathers, and the only true God; and sheweth moreover that they are more ancient than the temple, with all that service appointed by the law, and therefore they ought to lay another foundation of true religion, that is to say, the free covenant that God made with the fathers.

^a That mighty God full of glory and majesty.

^b When he saith afterward, ver. 4. that Abraham came out of Chaldea, it is evident that Mesopotamia contained Chaldea which was near unto it, and bordering upon it, and so writeth Pliny, book 6. chap. 27.

^c Not so much ground as to set his foot upon.

^d The promise of the possession was certain and belonged to Abraham, though his posterity enjoyed it a great while after his death; and this is the figure Synecdoche.

A. D. 6 But God spake thus, that his seed should be a sojourner in a strange land: and that they should keep it in bondage, and entreat it evil four hundred years.

7 But the nation to whom they shall be in bondage, will I judge, saith God: and after that, they shall come forth and serve me in this place.

8 * He gave him also the covenant of circumcision: and so Abraham begat Isaac, and circumcised him the eighth day: and Isaac begat Jacob, and Jacob the twelve patriarchs.

9 * And the patriarchs, moved with envy, sold Joseph into Egypt: but God was with him,

10 And delivered him out of all his afflictions, and gave him favour and wisdom in the sight of Pharaoh king of Egypt, who made him governor over Egypt, and over his whole house.

11 ¶ Then came there a famine over all the land of Egypt and Canaan, and great affliction, that our fathers found no sustenance

12 But when Jacob heard that there was corn in Egypt, he sent our fathers first:

13 And at the second time, Joseph was known of his brethren, and Joseph's kindred were made known unto Pharaoh.

14 Then sent Joseph, and caused his father to be brought, and all his kindred, even threescore and fifteen souls.

15 So * Jacob went down into Egypt, and he died, and our fathers, 16 And were removed into Sychem, and were put in the sepulchre that Abraham had bought for money of the sons of Emmor, father of Sychem.

17 But when the time of the promise drew near, which God had sworn to Abraham, the people grew and multiplied in Egypt, 18 Till another king arose, which knew not Joseph.

19 The same dealt subtilly with our kindred, and evil entreated our fathers, and made them to cast out their young children, that they should not remain alive.

20 * The same time was Moses born, and was acceptable unto God, which was nourished up in his father's house three months.

21 And when he was cast out, Pharaoh's daughter took him up, and nourished him for her own son.

22 And Moses was learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians, and was mighty in words and in deeds.

23 Now when he was full forty years old, it came into his heart to visit his brethren, the children of Israel.

24 * And when he saw one of them suffer wrong, he defended him, and avenged his quarrel that had the harm done to him, and smote the Egyptian.

25 For he supposed his brethren would have understood, that God by his hand should give them deliverance: but they understood it not.

26 * And the next day he shewed himself unto them as they strove, and would have set them at one again, saying, Sirs, ye are brethren: why do ye wrong one to another?

27 But he that did his neighbour wrong, thrust him away, saying, Who made thee a prince and a judge over us?

28 Wilt thou kill me, as thou didst the Egyptian yesterday?

29 Then fled Moses at that saying, and was a stranger in the land of Midian, where he begat two sons.

30 And when forty years were expired, there appeared to him in the wilderness of mount Sinai an angel of the Lord, in a flame of fire in a bush.

31 And when Moses saw it, he wondered at the sight: and as he drew near to consider it, the voice of the Lord came unto him, saying, 32 I am the God of thy fathers, the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. Then Moses trembled, and durst not behold it.

33 Then the Lord said to him, Put off thy shoes from thy feet: for the place where thou standest is holy ground.

34 I have seen, I have seen the affliction of my people which is in Egypt, and I have heard their groaning, and am come down to deliver them: and now come, and I will send thee into Egypt.

35 This Moses whom they forsook, saying, Who made thee a prince and a judge? the same God sent for a prince, and a deliverer, by the hand of the angel, which appeared to him in the bush.

36 He brought them out, doing wonders and miracles in the land of Egypt, and in the red sea, and in the wilderness forty years.

37 * This is that Moses which said unto the children of Israel, * A prophet shall the Lord your God raise up unto you, even of your brethren, like unto me: him shall ye hear.

38 * This is he that was in the congregation, in the wilderness with the angel, which spake to him in mount Sinai, and with our fathers, who received the lively oracles to give unto us.

39 To whom our fathers would not obey, but refused, and in their hearts turned back again into Egypt:

40 Saying unto Aaron, * Make us gods that may go before us: for we know not what is become of this Moses that brought us out of the land of Egypt.

41 And

* There are reckoned four hundred years from the beginning of Abraham's progeny, which was at the birth of Isaac; and four hundred and thirty years which are spoken of by Paul, Gal. 3. 17. from the time that Abraham and his father departed together out of Ur of the Chaldeans.

† Stephen reckoneth up diligently the horrible mischiefs of some of the fathers, to teach the Jews that they ought not rashly to rest in the authority or examples of the fathers.

‡ By this kind of speech, is meant the peculiar favour that God sheweth men; for he seemeth to be away from them, whom he helpeth not. And on the other side, he is with them whom he delivereth out of whatsoever great troubles.

§ Gave him favour in Pharaoh's fight for his wisdom.

¶ The patriarchs, the sons of Jacob, though there be mention made of no more than Joseph, Josh. 24. 32.

† He deviseth a subtil invention against our stock, in that he commanded all the males to be cast out.

‡ That child was born through God's merciful goodness and favour, to be of a goodly and fair countenance.

§ Now he calleth the Son of God an angel, for he is the angel of great counsel, and therefore straightway after he sheweth him, saying to Moses, I am the God of thy fathers, &c.

¶ By the power.

¶ He acknowledgeth Moses for the law-giver, but so that he proveth by his own witness, that the law had respect to a more perfect thing, that is to say, to the prophetic office which tended to Christ, the head of all prophets.

PHILIP
baptizing the EUNUCH

A. D. 33. 41 And they made a ^a calf in those days, and offered sacrifice unto the idol, and rejoiced in the works of their own hands.

42 Then God turned himself away, and ^o gave them up to serve the ^p host of heaven, as it is written in the book of the prophets, * O house of Israel, have ye offered to me slain beasts and sacrifices by the space of forty years in the wilderness?

43 And ye ^q took up the tabernacle of Moloch, and the star of your god Remphan, figures which ye made to worship them: therefore I will carry you away beyond Babylon.

44 ^r Our fathers had the tabernacle of witnesses in the wilderness, as he had appointed, speaking unto * Moses, that he should make it according to the fashion that he had seen.

45 * Which tabernacle also our fathers ^s received, and brought in with Jesus into the ^t possession of the Gentiles, which God drove out ^u before our fathers, unto the days of David:

46 * Who found favour before God, and desired that he might find a tabernacle for the God of Jacob.

47 * ^v But Solomon built him an house.

48 Howbeit the most High * dwelleth not in temples made with hands, as saith the prophet, 49 * Heaven is my throne, and earth is my footstool: what house will ye build for me, saith the Lord? or what place is it that I should rest in?

50 Hath not mine hand made all these things?

51 * ^w Ye stiffnecked and of ^x uncircumcised hearts and ears, ye have always resisted the Holy Ghost: as your fathers did, so do you:

52 Which of the prophets have not your fathers persecuted? and they have slain them, which shewed before of the coming of that Just, of whom ye are now the betrayers and murderers.

53 * Which have received the law by the ^y ordinance of angels, and have not kept it.

54 ^z But when they heard these things, their hearts burst for anger, and they gnashed at him with their teeth.

^a This was the superstition of the Egyptian idolatry; for they worshipped Apis a strange and marvellous calf, and made goodly images of kine, Herod. lib. 2.

^o Being destitute and void of his Spirit, he gave them up to Satan, and wicked lusts, to worship stars.

^p By the host of heaven here, he meaneth not the angels, but the moon, and sun, and other stars, Deut. 17. 3.

^x Stephen moved with the zeal of God, at length judgeth his own judges.

^y They are of uncircumcised hearts, which lie drowned still in the sins of nature, and stick fast in them: for otherwise all the Jews were circumcised as touching the flesh, and therefore there were two kinds of circumcision, Rom. 2. 28.

2 The godly make lamentation for Stephen. 3 Saul maketh havock of the church. 5 Philip preacheth Christ at Samaria. 9 Simon Magus, 18 his covetousness reprov'd. 26 Philip 27 cometh to the Ethiopian eunuch, 38 and baptizeth him.

AND ¹ Saul consented to his death, and at that time there was a great persecution against the church which was at Jerusalem, and they were all scattered abroad through the regions of Judea, and of Samaria, except the apostles.

2 ² Then certain men fearing God, ^a carried Stephen amongst them to be buried, and made great lamentation for him.

3 ³ But Saul made havock of the church, and entered into every house, and drew out both men and women, and put them into prison.

4 Therefore they that were scattered abroad, went to and fro preaching the word.

5 ¶ ⁴ Then came Philip into the city of Samaria, and preached Christ unto them.

nearer they beholding Christ, do rise up even into heaven.

^z Ready to confirm him in the confession of the truth, and to receive him to him.

¹⁰ The zeal of hypocrites and superstitious people breaketh out at length into most open madness.

^a This was done in a rage and fury, for at that time the Jews could put no man to death by law, as they confessed before Pilate, saying, that it was not lawful for them to put any man to death, and therefore it is reported [by Joseph. lib. 20. that Ananus a Sadducee slew James the brother of the Lord, and for so doing, was accused before Albinus the president of the country.

^b It was appointed by the law, that the witnesses should cast the first stone, Deut. 17. 7.

¹¹ Faith and charity never forsake the true servants of God, even to the last breath.

voice, came out of many that were possessed of them: and many taken with palsies, and that halted, were healed.

8 And there was great joy in that city.

9 And there was before in the city a certain man called Simon, which used^b witchcraft, and bewitched the people of Samaria, saying, that he himself was some great man.

10 To whom they gave heed from the least to the greatest, saying, This man is that great power of God.

11 And they gave heed unto him, because that of long time he had bewitched them with forceries.

12 But as soon as they believed Philip, which preached the things that concerned the kingdom of God, and the name of Jesus Christ, they were baptized, both men and women.

13 Then Simon himself believed also, and was baptized, and continued with Philip, and wondered when he saw the signs and great miracles which were done.

14 Now when the apostles, which were at Jerusalem, heard say, that Samaria had received the word of God, they sent unto them Peter and John.

15 Which, when they were come down, prayed for them, that they might receive the^c Holy Ghost.

16 For as yet he was fallen down on none of them, but they were baptized only in the name of the Lord Jesus.)

17 Then laid they their hands on them, and they received the Holy Ghost.

18 And when Simon saw, that through laying on of the apostles hands, the Holy Ghost was given, he offered them money, 19 Saying, Give me also this power, that on whomsoever I lay the hands, he may receive the Holy Ghost.

20 Then said Peter unto him, Thy money perish with thee, because thou thinkest that the gift of God may be obtained with money.

21 Thou hast neither part nor fellowship in this^d business: for thine heart is not^e right in the sight of God.

22 Repent therefore of this thy wickedness, and pray God, that if it be possible, the thought of thine heart may be forgiven thee.

^a Christ overcometh Satan so oft as he listeth, and carrieth him about as it were in a triumph, in the sight of them whom he deceived and bewitched.

^b The word which is used in this place was at the first taken in good part, and is borrowed out of the Persian language, who call their wise men by that name, but afterward it was taken in evil part.

^c He had so allured the Samaritans with his witchcraft, that as blind and mad hare-brains they were wholly addicted to him.

^d The wicked and the very reprobate are constrained oftentimes to taste of the good gift of God, but they cast it up again forthwith.

^e Peter, not chief, but as an ambassador sent from the whole company of the apostles, and John his companion, according to the authority which was committed unto them, confirm and build up the churches of Samaria, whose foundation had been laid before by Philip.

^f Those excellent gifts, which are necessary, especially for them that were to be appointed rulers and governors of the church.

^g Ambition and covetousness do at length pluck the hypocrites out of their dens.

23 For I see that thou art in the^a gall of bitterness, and in the^b bond of iniquity.

24 Then answered Simon, and said, Pray ye to the Lord for me, that none of these things which ye have spoken come upon me.

25 ¶ So they, when they had testified and preached the word of the Lord, returned to Jerusalem, and preached the gospel in many towns of the Samaritans.

26 Then the angel of the Lord spake unto Philip, saying, Arise, and go toward the South unto the way that goeth down from Jerusalem unto Gaza, which is waste.

27 And he arose, and went on: and behold, a certain eunuch of Ethiopia, Candace the queen of the Ethiopians^c chief governor, who had the rule of all her treasure, and came to Jerusalem to worship.

28 And as he returned sitting in his chariot, he read Esaias the prophet.

29 Then the Spirit said unto Philip, Go near and join thyself to yonder chariot.

30 And Philip ran thither, and heard him read the prophet Esaias, and said, But understandest thou what thou readest?

31 And he said, How can I, except I had^d a guide? and he desired Philip, that he would come up, and sit with him.

32 Now the place of the scripture which he read, was this, ^e He was led as a sheep to the slaughter, and like a lamb dumb before his shearer, so opened he not his mouth. 16. 55.

33 In his^f humility his judgment hath been exalted: but who shall declare his^g generation? for his life is taken from the earth.

34 Then the eunuch answered Philip, and said, I pray thee, of whom speaketh the prophet this? of himself, or of some other man?

35 Then Philip opened his mouth, and began at the same scripture, and preached unto him Jesus.

36 And as they went on their way, they came unto a certain water, and the eunuch said, See, here is water: what doth let me to be baptized?

37 And Philip said unto him, If thou believest with all thine heart, thou mayest. Then he answered, and said, I believe that that Jesus Christ is that Son of God.

38 Then nomous and devilish wickedness wherewith the magician was wholly replenished, the gall of bitterness: and he is said to be in the gall, as though he were wholly overwhelmed with gall, and buried in it.

^a Intangled in the bonds of iniquity.

^b Christ who calleth freely whom he listeth, doth now use Philip, who thought on no such matter, to instruct and baptize the eunuch at unawares, and by this means extendeth the limits of his kingdom even into Ethiopia.

^c A man of great wealth and authority with Candace, Now this name Candace is a common name to all the queens of Ethiopia.

^d To shew me the way, how to understand it.

^e Those things which seem most to come by chance or fortune (as men term it) are governed by the secret providence of God.

^f The Hebrew text readeth it thus, Out of a narrow strait, and out of judgment was he taken: where by the narrow strait, he meaneth the grave and the very bands of death; and by judgment, the punishment which was laid upon him, and that miserable state which Christ took upon him for our sakes, in bearing his Father's wrath.

^g How long his age shall last: for Christ having once risen from the dead, dieth no more, Rom. 6. 9.

^h Profession of faith is requisite in baptizing of them which are at years, and therefore it is evident that we are not then first ingrafted into Christ when we are baptized, but being already ingrafted, are then confirmed.

15 Then the Lord said unto him, Go thy way: for he is a ^g chosen vessel unto me, to bear my name before the Gentiles, and kings, and the children of Israel.

16 For I will ^h shew him how many things he must suffer for my name's sake.

17 Then Ananias went his way, and entered into ⁱ that house, and put his hands on him, and said, Brother Saul, the Lord hath sent me, Jesus that appeared unto thee in the way as thou camest) that thou mightest receive thy sight, and be filled with the Holy Ghost.

18 And immediately there fell from his eyes as it had been scales, and suddenly he received sight, and arose, and was baptized, 19 And received meat, and was strengthened. So was Saul certain days with the disciples which were at Damascus.

20 ^j And straightway he preached Christ in the synagogues, that he was that Son of God, 21 So that all that heard him were amazed; and said, Is not this he that made havock of them which called on this name in Jerusalem, and came hither for that intent, that he should bring them bound unto the high priests?

22 ^k But Saul increased the more in strength, and confounded the Jews which dwelt at Damascus, ^l confirming that this was that Christ.

23 ^m And after that many days were fulfilled, the Jews took counsel together to kill him.

24 But their laying wait was known of Saul: now they ⁿ watched the gates day and night, that they might kill him. ^o 2 Cor. 11. 32.

25 ^p Then the disciples took him by night, and put him through the wall, and let him down by a rope in a basket.

26 ^q And when Saul was come to Jerusalem, he assayed to join himself with the disciples: but they were all afraid of him, and believed not that he was a disciple.

27 But

^a Saul (who is also Paul) persecuting Christ most cruelly, who did as it were flee before him, falleth into his hands, and is overcome; and with a singular example of the goodness of God, instead of punishment which he justly deserved for his cruelty, is not only received to favour, but is also even by the mouth of God appointed an apostle, and is confirmed by the ministry and witness of Ananias.

^b This is a token that Saul's stomach boiled, and cast out great threatenings to murder the disciples.

A. D. 57. 27 But Barnabas took him, and brought him to the apostles, and declared to them, how he had seen the Lord in the way, and that he had spoken unto him, and how he had spoken boldly at Damascus in the name of Jesus.

28 And he was conversant with them at Jerusalem :

29 And spake boldly in the name of the Lord Jesus, and spake and disputed against the Grecians, but they went about to slay him.

30 But when the brethren knew it, they brought him to Cesarea, and sent him forth to Tarsus.

31 Then had the churches rest through all Judea, and Galilee, and Samaria, and were multiplied, and walked in the fear of the Lord, and were multiplied by the comfort of the Holy Ghost.

32 And it came to pass, as Peter walked throughout all quarters, he came also to the saints which dwelt at Lydda.

33 And there he found a certain man named Æneas, which had kept his couch eight years, and was sick of the palsy.

34 Then said Peter unto him, Æneas, Jesus Christ maketh thee whole : arise, and trais thy couch together. And he arose immediately.

35 And all that dwelt at Lydda and Saron, saw him, and turned to the Lord.

36 There was also at Joppa a certain woman, a disciple, named Tabitha (which by interpretation is called Dorcas) she was full of good works and alms which she did.

37 And it came to pass in those days, that she was sick, and died : and when they had washed her, they laid her in an upper chamber.

38 Now forasmuch as Lydda was near to Joppa, and the disciples had heard that Peter was there, they sent unto him two men, desiring that he would not delay to come unto them.

39 Then Peter arose, and came with them : and when he was come, they brought him into the upper chamber, where all the widows stood by him weeping, and shewing the coats and garments which Dorcas made, while she was with them.

40 But Peter put them all forth, and kneeled down, and prayed, and turned him to the body, and said, Tabitha, Arise. And she opened her eyes, and when she saw Peter, sat up.

41 Then he gave her the hand, and lift her up, and called the saints and widows, and restored her alive. A. D. 33.

42 And it was known throughout all Joppa, and many believed in the Lord.

43 And it came to pass that he tarried many days in Joppa with one Simon a tanner.

C H A P. X.

Cornelius, 4 at the angel's commandment, 5 sendeth for Peter : 11 who also by a vision, 15 20 is taught not to despise the Gentiles : 34 He preacheth the gospel to Cornelius and his household, 45 who having received the Holy Ghost, 47 are baptized.

Furthermore there was a certain man in Cesarea called Cornelius, a captain of the band called the Italian band,

2 A devout man, and one that feared God with all his household, which gave much alms to the people, and prayed God continually.

3 He saw in a vision evidently (about the ninth hour of the day) an angel of God coming in to him, and saying unto him, Cornelius.

4 But when he looked on him, he was afraid, and said, What is it, Lord? and he said unto him, Thy prayers and thine alms are come up into remembrance before God.

5 Now therefore send men to Joppa, and call for Simon, whose surname is Peter.

6 He lodgeth with one Simon a tanner, whose house is by the sea side : he shall tell thee what thou oughtest to do.

7 And when the angel which spake unto Cornelius, was departed, he called two of his servants, and a soldier that feared God, one of them that waited on him,

8 And told them all things, and sent them to Joppa.

9 On the morrow as they went on their journey and drew near unto the city, Peter went up upon the house to pray, about the sixth hour.

10 Then waxed he an hungred, and would have eaten : but while they made some thing ready, he fell into a trance.

11 And he saw heaven opened, and a certain vessel come down unto him, as it had been a great sheet, knit at the four corners, and was let down to the earth.

12 Wherein were all manner of four-footed

⁴ The ministers of the word may change their place by the advice and counsel of the congregation and church.

⁵ The end of persecutions is the building of the church, so that we will patiently wait for the Lord.

⁶ This is a borrowed kind of speech, which signifieth establishment and increase.

⁷ Peter's apostleship is confirmed by healing of the man that was sick of the palsy.

⁹ Peter declareth evidently by raising up a dead body through the name of Christ, that he preached the glad tidings of life.

¹⁰ Peter consecrateth the first fruits of the Gentiles to God, by the means of two miracles.

¹¹ So that he worshipped one God, and was no idolater, neither could be void of faith in Christ, because he was a devout man: but as yet he knew not that he was come.

¹² This is a great commendation to this man, that he laboured to have all his household and familiar friends and acquaintance to be religious and godly.

¹³ What wilt thou with me, Lord? for he setteth himself to hear.

¹⁴ This is a borrowed kind of speech, which the Hebrews used very much, taken from sacrifices, and applied to prayers: for it is said of whole burnt sacrifices, that the smoke and savour of them goeth up into God's nostrils: so do our prayers as a sweet smelling sacrifice which the Lord taketh great pleasure in.

¹⁵ That is, inasmuch that they will not suffer God, as it were, to forget thee: for so do the scriptures use oftentimes to prattle with us as nurses do with little children, when they frame their tongues to speak.

¹⁶ For though Peter stood not amazed as one that is tongue-tied, but talketh with God, and is instructed in his mystery, yet his mind was far otherwise than it was wont to be, but shortly returned to the old bent.

¹⁷ So that it seemed to be a four-square sheet.

¹⁸ Here is this word (All) which is general, plainly set for indefinite and uncertain, that is to say, for some of all sorts, not for all of every sort.

¹⁹ That is, such as were meet for man's use.

ed beasts of the earth, and wild beasts, and^k creeping things, and fowls of the heaven.

13 And there came a voice to him, Arise, Peter: kill, and eat.

14 But Peter said, Not so, Lord: for I have never eaten any thing that is polluted, or unclean.

15 And the voice spake unto him again the second time, The things that God hath purified, pollute thou not.

16 This was so done thrice: and the vessel was drawn up again into heaven.

17 ¶ Now while Peter doubted in himself what this vision which he had seen, meant, behold, the men which were sent from Cornelius, had inquired for Simon's house, and stood at the gate:

18 And called, and asked, whether Simon which was surnamed Peter, were lodged there.

19 And while Peter thought on the vision, the Spirit said unto him, Behold, three men seek thee.

20 Arise therefore, and get thee down, and go with them, and doubt nothing: for I have sent them.

21 ¶ Then Peter went down to the men, which were sent unto him from Cornelius, and said, Behold, I am he whom ye seek: what is the cause wherefore ye are come?

22 And they said, Cornelius the captain, a just man, and one that feareth God, and of good report among all the nation of the Jews, was warned from heaven by an holy angel, to send for thee into his house, and to hear thy words.

23 Then called he them in, and lodged them: and the next day, Peter went forth with them, and certain brethren from Joppa accompanied him.

24 ¶ And the day after, they entered into Cæsarea. Now Cornelius waited for them, and had called together his kinsmen, and special friends.

25 And it came to pass as Peter came in, that Cornelius met him, and fell down at his feet, and worshipped him.

26 But Peter took him up, saying, Stand up: for even I myself am a man.

27 And as he talked with him, he came in, and found many that were come together.

28 And he said unto them, Ye know that it is an unlawful thing for a man that is a Jew, to company, or come unto one of another nation: but God hath shewed me, that I should not call any man polluted, or unclean.

29 Therefore came I unto you without saying nay, when I was sent for. I ask therefore, for what intent have ye sent for me?

30 Then Cornelius said, Four days ago, about this hour, I fasted, and at the ninth hour I prayed in mine house, and behold, a man stood before me in bright cloathing, 31 And said, Cornelius, thy prayer is heard, and thine alms are had in remembrance in the sight of God.

32 Send therefore to Joppa, and call for Simon, whose surname is Peter (he is lodged in the house of Simon a tanner, by the sea side) who when he cometh shall speak unto thee.

33 Then sent I for thee immediately, and thou hast well done to come. Now therefore are we all here present before God, to hear all things that are commanded thee of God.

34 Then Peter opened his mouth, and said, Of a truth I perceive, that God is no acceptor of persons.

35 But in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him.

36 Ye know the word which God hath sent to the children of Israel, preaching peace by Jesus Christ which is Lord of all:

37 Even the word which came through all Judea, beginning in Galilee, after the baptism which John preached:

38 To wit, how God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghost, and with power: who went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the devil: for God was with him.

39 And we are witnesses of all things which he did both in the land of the Jews, and in Jerusalem, whom they slew, hanging him on a tree:

40 Him God raised up the third day, and caused that he was shewed openly:

41 Not to all the people, but unto the witnesses chosen before of God, even to us which did eat and drink with him, after he arose from the dead.

42 And he commanded us to preach unto the people, and to testify, that it is he that is ordained of God a judge of quick and dead.

43 To him also give all the prophets witness, that through his name all that believe in him, shall receive remission of sins.

44 While Peter yet spake these words, the Holy Ghost fell on all them that heard the word.

² Peter profiteth daily in the knowledge of the benefit of Christ, yea, after that he had received the Holy Ghost.

³ Religious adoration or worship agreeth only to God: but civil worship is given to the ministers of the word, although not without danger.

⁴ He meaneth not the self-same hour, but the like, that is about nine of the clock the other day, as it was then nine when he spake to Peter.

⁴ Cornelius's faith sheweth forth itself by prayer and charity.

⁵ As faith cometh by hearing, so is it nourished and groweth up by the same.

⁶ Distinction of nations is taken away by the coming of Christ: And it is evidently seen, by faith and righteousness, who is agreeable to him, or whom he accepteth.

⁷ That God judgeth not after the outward appearance.

⁸ By the fear of God the Hebrews understand the whole service of God, whereby we perceive that Cornelius was not void of faith, no more than they were which lived before Christ's time: and therefore they deal foolishly which build preparative works and free-will upon this place.

⁹ God gave the Israelites to understand, that whosoever liveth godly, is acceptable to God, of what nation soever he be; for he preached peace to men through Jesus Christ, who is Lord not of one nation only, that is, of the Jews, but of all.

⁷ The sum of the gospel (which shall be made manifest at the latter day, when Christ himself shall sit as judge both of the quick and dead) is this, that Christ promised to the fathers, and exhibited in his time with the mighty power of God, (which was by all means shewed) and at length crucified to reconcile us to God, did rise again the third day, that whosoever believeth in him should be saved through the remission of sins.

⁹ The stile is taken from an old custom of the Jews, who used to anoint their kings and priests, whereupon it grew, to call them anointed, upon whom God bestoweth gifts and virtues.

⁸ The Spirit of God sealeth that in the heart of the hearers which the minister of the word speaketh by the commandment of God, as it appeareth by the effects.

A. D. 41. 45 So they of the circumcision which believed, were astonished, as many as came with Peter, because that on the Gentiles also was poured out the gift of the Holy Ghost.

46 For they heard them speak with tongues, and magnify God. Then answered Peter, 47 Can any man forbid water, that these should not be baptized, which have received the Holy Ghost, as well as we?

48 So he commanded them to be baptized in the name of the Lord. Then prayed they him to tarry certain days.

C H A P. XI.

2 Peter being accused for going to the Gentiles, 5 defendeth himself. 22 Barnabas is sent to Antioch, 26 where the disciples are called Christians: 28 And there Agabus foretelleth a famine to come.

NOW the apostles, and the brethren that were in Judea, heard that the Gentiles had also received the word of God.

2 And when Peter was come up to Jerusalem, they of the circumcision contended against him,

3 Saying, Thou wentest in to men uncircumcised, and hast eaten with them.

4 Then Peter began, and expounded the thing in order to them, saying,

5 I was in the city of Joppa, praying, and in a trance I saw this vision, A certain vessel coming down as it had been a great sheet, let down from heaven by the four corners, and it came to me:

6 Toward the which when I had fastened mine eyes, I considered, and saw four-footed beasts of the earth, and wild beasts, and creeping things, and fowls of the heaven.

7 Also I heard a voice, saying unto me, Arise, Peter: slay and eat.

8 And I said, God forbid, Lord: for nothing polluted or unclean hath at any time entered into my mouth.

9 But the voice answered me the second time from heaven, The things that God hath purified, pollute thou not.

10 And this was done three times, and all were taken up again into heaven.

11 Then behold, immediately there were three men already come into the house where I was, sent from Cæsarea unto me.

12 And the Spirit said unto me, that I should go with them, without doubting: moreover, these six brethren came with me: and we entered into the man's house.

13 And he shewed us how he had seen an angel in his house, which stood and said to him, Send men to Joppa, and call for Simon, whose surname is Peter:

14 He shall speak words unto thee, whereby both thou and all thine house shall be saved.

15 And as I began to speak, the Holy Ghost fell on them, even as upon us at the beginning.

16 Then I remembered the word of the Lord, how he said, John baptized with water, but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost.

17 Forasmuch then as God gave them a like gift, as he did unto us, when we believed in the Lord Jesus Christ, who was I, that I could let God?

18 When they heard these things, they held their peace, and glorified God, saying, Then hath God also to the Gentiles granted repentance unto life.

19 ¶ And they which were scattered abroad, because of the affliction that arose about Stephen, went throughout till they came unto Phenice, and Cyprus, and Antioch, preaching the word to no man, but unto the Jews only.

20 Now some of them were men of Cyprus and of Cyrene, which when they were come into Antioch, spake unto the Grecians, and preached the Lord Jesus.

21 And the hand of the Lord was with them, so that a great number believed, and turned unto the Lord.

22 Then tidings of those things came unto the ears of the church which was in Jerusalem: and they sent forth Barnabas, that he should go unto Antioch:

23 Who, when he was come, and had seen the grace of God, was glad, and exhorted all, that with purpose of heart they would continue in the Lord.

24 For he was a good man, and full of the Holy Ghost, and faith, and much people joined themselves unto the Lord.

25 ¶ Then departed Barnabas to Tarsus, to seek Saul:

26 And when he had found him, he brought him unto Antioch: and it came to pass, that a whole year they were conversant with the church, and taught much people, insomuch that the disciples were first called Christians in Antioch.

27 In those days also came prophets from Jerusalem unto Antioch.

28 And there stood up one of them named Agabus, and signified by the Spirit, that there should be a great famine throughout all the world, which also came to pass under Claudius Cæsar.

29 Then the disciples, every man according to his ability, purposed to send succour unto the brethren which dwelt in Judea.

30 Which thing they also did, and sent it to the elders by the hand of Barnabas and Saul.

C H A P. XII.

2 Herod killeth James with the sword, 4 and imprisoneth Peter, 8 whom the angel delivereth. 22 Herod being offended with them of Tyre, 21 is pacified: 22 And taking the honour due to God to himself, 23 he is eaten with worms, and so dieth.

NOW ¹ about that time, ² Herod the king stretched forth his hands to vex certain of the church, ² And he ^b killed James the brother of John with the sword.

³ ² And when he saw that it pleased the Jews, he proceeded further, to take Peter also (then were the days of unleavened bread.)

⁴ ³ And when he had caught him, he put him in prison, and delivered him to four quaternions of soldiers to be kept, intending after the passover to bring him forth to the people.

⁵ ⁴ So Peter was kept in prison, but earnest prayer was made of the church unto God for him.

⁶ And when Herod would have brought him out unto the people, the same night slept Peter between two soldiers, bound with two chains, and the keepers before the door kept the prison.

⁷ ^{*} And behold, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and a light shined in the ^c house, and he smote Peter on the side, and raised him up, saying, Arise quickly. And his chains fell from off his hands.

⁸ And the angel said unto him, Gird thyself, and bind on thy sandals. And so he did. Then he said unto him, Cast thy garment about thee, and follow me.

⁹ So Peter came out, and followed him, and knew not that it was true which was done by the angel, but thought he had seen a vision.

¹⁰ Now when they were past the first and the second watch, they came unto the iron gate that leadeth unto the city, which opened to them by its own accord, and they went out, and passed through one street, and by and by the angel departed from him.

¹¹ ¶ And when Peter was come to himself, he said, Now I know for a truth, that the Lord hath sent his angel, and hath delivered me out of the hand of Herod, and from all the waiting for of the people of the Jews.

¹² ⁵ And as he considered the thing, he came to the house of Mary, the mother of John, whose surname was Mark, where many were gathered together, and prayed.

¹³ ⁶ And when Peter knocked at the entry door, a maid ^d came forth to hearken, named Rhode. A. D. 41.

¹⁴ But when she knew Peter's voice, she opened not the entry door for gladness, but ran in, and told how Peter stood before the entry.

¹⁵ But they said unto her, Thou art mad. Yet she affirmed it constantly, that it was so. Then said they, It is his angel.

¹⁶ But Peter continued knocking, and when they had opened it, and saw him, they were astonished.

¹⁷ ⁷ And he beckoned unto them with the hand to hold their peace, and told them how the Lord had brought him out of the prison. And he said, Go shew these things unto James, and to the brethren: and he departed, and went into another place.

¹⁸ ¶ ⁸ Now as soon as it was day, there was no small trouble among the soldiers, what was become of Peter.

¹⁹ And when Herod had sought for him, and found him not, he examined the keepers, and commanded them to be led to be punished. And he went down from Judea to Cæsarea, and there abode.

²⁰ ⁹ Then Herod was angry with them of Tyre and Sidon, but they came all with one accord unto him, and persuaded Blastus, the king's chamberlain, and they desired peace, because their country was nourished by the king's land.

²¹ And upon a day appointed Herod arrayed himself in royal apparel, and sat on the judgment seat, and made an oration unto them.

²² ¹⁰ And the people gave a shout, saying, The voice of God, and not of man.

²³ ¹¹ But immediately the angel of the Lord smote him, because he ^c gave not glory unto God, so that he was eaten of worms, and gave up the ghost.

²⁴ ¹² And the ^f word of God grew, and multiplied.

²⁵ So Barnabas and Saul returned from Jerusalem, when they had fulfilled their office, and took with them John, whose surname was Mark.

A. D. 45. THERE were also in the church that was at Antioch certain prophets and teachers, as Barnabas, and Simeon called Nigger, and Lucius of Cyrene, and Manahen, (which had been brought up with Herod the Tetrarch) and Saul.

2 Now as they ministered to the Lord, and fasted, the Holy Ghost said, Separate me Barnabas and Saul, for the work whereunto I have called them.

3 Then fasted they and prayed, and laid their hands on them, and let them go.

4 And they, after they were sent forth of the Holy Ghost, came down unto Seleucia, and from thence they sailed to Cyprus.

5 And when they were at Salamis, they preached the word of God in the synagogues of the Jews: and they had also John to their minister.

6 So when they had gone throughout the isle unto Paphos, they found a certain forcerer, a false prophet, being a Jew, named Barjesus, 7 Which was with the deputy Sergius Paulus, a prudent man. He called unto him Barnabas and Saul, and desired to hear the word of God.

8 But Elymas, the forcerer (for so is his name by interpretation) withstood them, and sought to turn away the deputy from the faith.

9 Then Saul (which also is called Paul) being full of the Holy Ghost, set his eyes on him,

10 And said, O full of subtilty and all mischief, the child of the devil, and enemy of all righteousness, wilt thou not cease to pervert the straight ways of the Lord?

11 Now therefore behold, the hand of the Lord is upon thee, and thou shalt be blind, and not see the sun for a season. And immediately there fell on him a mist and a darkness, and he went about, seeking some to lead him by the hand.

12 Then the deputy, when he saw what was done, believed, and was astonished at the doctrine of the Lord.

13 Now when Paul, and they that were with him, were departed by ship from Paphos, they came to Perga, a city of Pamphylia: then John departed from them, and returned to Jerusalem.

14 But when they departed from Perga, they came to Antioch, a city of Pisidia, and went into the synagogue on the sabbath day, and sat down.

15 And after the lecture of the law and prophets, the rulers of the synagogue sent unto them, saying, Ye men and brethren, if ye have any word of exhortation for the people, say on.

16 Then Paul stood up, and beckoned with the hand, and said, Men of Israel, and ye that fear God, hearken.

17 The God of this people of Israel chose our fathers, and exalted the people when they dwelt in the land of Egypt, and with an high arm brought them out thereof.

18 And about the time of forty years, suffered he their manners in the wilderness.

19 And he destroyed seven nations in the land of Canaan, and divided their land to them by lot.

20 Then afterward he gave unto them judges about four hundred and fifty years, unto the time of Samuel the prophet.

21 So after that, they desired a king, and God gave unto them Saul, the son of Cis, a man of the tribe of Benjamin, by the space of forty years.

22 And after he had taken him away, he raised up David to be their king, of whom he witnessed, saying, I have found David, the son of Jesse, a man after mine own heart, which will do all things that I will.

23 Of this man's seed hath God, according to his promise, raised up to Israel the Saviour Jesus.

24 When John had first preached before his coming, the baptism of repentance to all the people of Israel.

25 And when John had fulfilled his course, he said, Whom ye think that I am, I am not he: but behold, there cometh one after me, whose shoes of his feet I am not worthy to loose.

¹ Paul with Barnabas is again the second time appointed apostle of the Gentiles, not of man, neither by man, but by an extraordinary commandment of the Holy Ghost.

² The same was Antipas, which put John Baptist to death.

³ While they were busy doing their office, that is, as Chrysostom expoundeth it, while they were preaching.

⁴ The Lord is said to call (whereof this word 'Calling' cometh, which is usual in the church) when he causeth that to be, which was not, whether you refer it to the matter itself, or to any quality or thing about the matter; and it groweth of this, because when things begin to be, then they have some name: as God his mighty power is also declared thereby, who spake the word, and things were made.

⁵ Fasts and solemn prayers were used before the laying on of hands.

⁶ Paul and his company, do at the first bring Cyprus to the subjection and obedience of Christ.

⁷ Seleucia was a city of Cilicia, so called of Seleucus one of Alexander's successors.

⁸ The devil maketh the conquest of Christ more glorious, in that that he setteth himself against him.

⁹ The forcerer which was stricken of Paul with corporal punishment (although extraordinarily) sheweth an example to lawful magistrates, how they ought to punish them which wickedly and obstinately hinder the course of the gospel.

¹⁰ He noteth out such a fault, as who so hath it, runneth headlong and with great desire to all kind of wickedness with the least motion in the world.

¹¹ His power which he sheweth in striking and beating down his enemies.

¹² An example in one and the self-same company both of singular constancy, and also of great weakness.

¹ This putteth a difference betwixt it, and Antioch which was in Syria.

² In the synagogue of the Jews (according to the pattern whereof christian congregations were instituted) first the scriptures were read, then such as were learned, were licensed by the rulers of the synagogue to speak and expound.

³ Word for word, If there be any word in you: and this is a kind of speech taken from the Hebrews, whereby is meant that the gifts of God's grace are in us, as it were in treasure-houses, and that they are not ours, but God's. In like sort saith David, Thou hast put a new song in my mouth, Psalm 10. 1.

⁴ God bestowed many peculiar benefits upon his chosen Israel: but this especially, that he promised them the everlasting Redeemer.

⁵ Advanced and brought to honour.

⁶ Openly and with main force, breaking in pieces the enemies of his people.

⁷ There were from the birth of Isaac unto the destruction of the Canaanites under the governance of Joshua, four hundred and seven and forty years, and therefore he addeth in this place, this word, About, for there want three years, but the apostle useth the whole greater number.

⁸ In this space of forty years, must the time of Samuel be reckoned with the days of Saul, for the kingdom did as it were swallow up his government.

⁹ He proveth by the witness of John, that Jesus is that Saviour which should come of David.

¹⁰ John as an herald, did not shew Christ's coming afar off, as the other prophets did, but hard at hand, and entered on his journey.

A. D. 45. 26 ¹⁰ Ye men and brethren, children of the generation of Abraham, and whosoever among you feareth God, to you is the word of this salvation sent.

27 ¹¹ For the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and their rulers, because they knew him not, nor yet the words of the prophets, which are read every sabbath day, they have fulfilled them in condemning him.

28 And though they found no cause of death in him, ¹² yet desired they Pilate to kill him.

29 And when they had fulfilled all things that were written of him, they took him down from the tree, and put him in a sepulchre.

30 ¹³ But God ¹⁴ raised him up from the dead.

31 And he was seen many days of them which came up with him from Galilee to Jerusalem, which are his witnesses unto the people.

32 And we declare unto you, that touching the promise made unto the fathers, 33 God hath fulfilled it unto us their children, in that he ¹⁵ raised up Jesus, ¹⁶ even as it is written in the second Psalm, ¹⁷ Thou art my son: this day have I begotten thee.

34 Now as concerning that he raised him up from the dead, no more to return to corruption, he hath said thus, ¹⁸ I will give you the holy things of David, ¹⁹ which are faithful.

35 ²⁰ Wherefore he saith also in another place, ²¹ Thou wilt not suffer thine Holy One to see corruption.

36 Howbeit David, after he had served his ²² time by the counsel of God, slept, and was laid with his fathers, and saw corruption.

37 But he whom God raised up, saw no corruption.

38 ²³ Be it known unto you therefore, men and brethren, that through this man is preached unto you the forgiveness of sins:

39 And from ²⁴ all things, from which ye could not be justified by the law of Moses, by him every one that believeth is justified.

40 ²⁵ Beware therefore lest that come upon you which is spoken of in the prophets, 41 ²⁶ Behold, ye despisers, and wonder, and vanish away: for I work a work in your days, a work which ye shall not believe, if a man would declare it you.

¹⁰ Christ was promised, and sent properly to the Jews.

¹¹ All things came to pass to Christ which the prophets foretold of Messias: so that hereby also it appeareth that he is the true and only Saviour: and yet notwithstanding they are not to be excused, which did not only not receive him, but also persecute him most cruelly although he was innocent.

¹² We must set the glory of the resurrection against the shame of the cross and grave. And the resurrection is proved as well by witnesses which saw it, as by the testimonies of the prophets.

¹³ For then he appeared plainly and manifestly, as that only Son of God, when as he left off his weakness, and came out of the grave, having conquered death.

¹⁴ If Christ had tarried in death, he had not been the true Son of God, neither had the covenant, which was made with David, been sure.

¹⁵ The Grecians call those, holy things, which the Hebrews call gracious bounties: and they are called David's bounties in the passive signification, because God bestowed them upon David: moreover they are termed faithful, after the manner of speech which the Hebrews use, who term those things faithful which are steady and sure, such as never alter nor change.

¹⁶ The Lord was so in grave, that he felt no corruption.

¹⁷ Christ was sent to give them free remission of sins, which were condemned by the law.

¹⁸ Whereas the ceremonies of the law could not absolve you from your sins, this man doth absolve you, if you lay hold on him by faith.

¹⁹ The benefits of God turn to the utter undoing of them

42 ¶ ¹⁷ And when they were come out of the synagogue of the Jews, the Gentiles besought, that they would preach these words to them the next sabbath day.

43 Now when the congregation was dissolved, many of the Jews and ¹⁸ profelytes that feared God followed Paul and Barnabas, which spake unto them, and exhorted them to continue in the grace of God.

44 And the next sabbath day came almost the whole city together to hear the word of God.

45 ¹⁹ But when the Jews saw the people, they were full of envy, and spake against those things which were spoken of Paul, contrarying them, and railing on them.

46 ²⁰ Then Paul and Barnabas spake boldly, and said, It was necessary that the word of God should first have been spoken unto you: but seeing ye put it from you, and ²¹ judge yourselves unworthy of everlasting life, lo, we turn to the Gentiles.

47 For so hath the Lord commanded us, saying, ²² I have made thee a light of the Gentiles, that thou shouldest be the salvation unto the end of the world:

48 And when the Gentiles heard it, they were glad, and glorified the word of the Lord: and as many as were ²³ ordained unto eternal life, believed.

49 Thus the word of the Lord was published throughout the whole country.

50 ²⁴ But the Jews stirred ²⁵ certain ²⁶ devout and honourable women, and the chief men of the city, and raised persecution against Paul and Barnabas, and expelled them out of their coasts.

51 ²⁷ But they ²⁸ shook off the dust of their feet against them, and came unto Iconium.

52 And the disciples were filled with joy, and with the Holy Ghost.

CHAP. XIV.

1 Paul and Barnabas 5 are persecuted from Iconium. 6 At Lystra Paul 10 bealeth a cripple. 13 They are about to do sacrifice unto them, 15 but they forbid it. 19 Paul, by the persuasion of certain Jews, is stoned. 23 From thence passing through divers churches, 26 they return to Antioch.

AND ¹ it came to pass in ² Iconium, that they went both together into the synagogue of the Jews, and so spake, that a great multitude that contemn them.

¹⁷ The Gentiles go before the Jews into the kingdom of heaven.

¹⁸ Which had forsaken their heathenish religion, and embraced the religion set forth by Moses.

¹⁹ The favour of one self-same gospel is unto the reprobate and unto believers, death; and to the elect, and such as believe, life.

²⁰ The gospel is published to the Gentiles by the express commandment of God.

²¹ By this your doing, you do, as it were, pronounce sentence against yourselves, and judge yourselves.

²² Therefore either all were not appointed to everlasting life, or else all should have believed, but because that is not so, it followeth that some certain were ordained: and therefore God did not only foreknow, but also fore-ordain, that neither faith, nor the effects of faith, should be the cause of his ordaining or appointment; but his ordaining, the cause of faith.

²³ Such is the craft and subtilty of the enemies of the gospel, that they abuse the simplicity of some which are not altogether evil men, to execute their cruelty.

²⁴ Such as embraced Moses's law.

²⁵ The wickedness of the world cannot let God to gather his church together, and to foster and cherish it when it is gathered together.

²⁶ We ought to be no less constant in preaching of the gospel, than the perverseness of the wicked is obdinate in persecuting of it.

²⁷ Iconium was a city of Lycaonia.

2 And the ^b unbelieving Jews stirred up and corrupted the minds of the Gentiles against the brethren.

3 ^c So therefore they abode there a long time, and spake boldly in the Lord, which gave testimony unto the word of his grace, and caused signs and wonders to be done by their hands.

4 But the multitude of the city was divided: and some were with the Jews, and some with the apostles.

5 And when there was an assault made both of the Gentiles and of the Jews with their rulers, to do them violence, and to stone them,

6 They were ware of it, and ^e fled unto Lystra and Derbe, cities of Lycaonia, and unto the region round about,

7 And there preached the gospel.

8 ¶ ^f Now there sat a certain man at Lystra, impotent in his feet, which was a cripple from his mother's womb, who had never walked:

9 He heard Paul speak: who beholding him, and perceiving that he had faith to be healed,

10 Said with a loud voice, Stand upright on thy feet. And he leaped up, and walked.

11 Then when the people saw what Paul had done, they lift up their voices, saying in the speech of Lycaonia, Gods are come down to us in the likeness of men.

12 And they called Barnabas Jupiter, and Paul Mercury: because he was the chief speaker.

13 Then Jupiter's priest, which was before their city, brought bulls with garlands unto the ^g gates, and would have sacrificed with the people.

14 But when the apostles, Barnabas and Paul, heard it, they rent their clothes, and ran in among the people, crying,

15 ^h And saying, O men, why do ye these things? We are even men subject to the ⁱ like passions that ye be, and preach unto you, that ye should turn from these ^j vain things unto the living God, ^k which made heaven and earth, and the sea, and all things that in them are:

16 ^l Who in times past ^m suffered all the Gentiles to walk in their own ways.

17 Nevertheless, he left not himself without witness, in that he did good, and gave us rain from heaven, and fruitful seasons, filling our hearts with food and gladness.

18 And speaking these things, scarce appealed they the multitude, that they had not sacrificed unto them.

19 ⁿ Then there came certain Jews from Antioch and Iconium, which when they had persuaded the people, ^o stoned Paul, and drew him out of the city, supposing he had been dead.

20 Howbeit, as the disciples stood round about him, he arose up, and came into the city, and the next day he departed with Barnabas to Derbe.

21 ^p And after they had preached the glad tidings of the gospel to that city, and had taught many, they returned to Lystra, and to Iconium, and to Antioch, 22 ^q Confirming the disciples hearts, and exhorting them to continue in the faith, ^r affirming, that we must through many afflictions enter into the kingdom of God.

23 ^r And when they had ordained them elders by election in every church, and prayed, and fasted, they commended them to the Lord in whom they believed.

24 ^s Thus they went throughout Pisidia, and came to Pamphylia.

25 And when they had preached the word in Perga, they came down to ^t Attalia, 26 And thence sailed to ^u Antioch, ^v from whence they had been commended unto the grace of God, to the work which they had fulfilled.

27 And when they were come, and had gathered the church together, they rehearsed all the things that God had done by them, and how he had opened the door of faith unto the Gentiles.

28 So there they abode a long time with the disciples.

1 ^w Certain go about to bring in circumcision at Antioch, ^x about which matter the apostles consult.

19 And what must be done, ^y 23 they declare by letters. ^z 36 Paul and Barnabas ^{aa} 39 are at great variance.

THEN ^a came down ^b certain from Judea, and taught the brethren, ^c saying, Except ye be circumcised after the manner of Moses, ye cannot be saved.

2 And

^b Which obeyed not the doctrine.

^c We ought not to leave our places and give place to threatenings, neither to open rage, but when there is no other remedy, and that not for our own quietness sake, but that the gospel of Christ may be spread further abroad.

^d It is lawful sometimes to flee dangers in time convenient.

^e It is an old subtilty of the devil, either to cause the faithful servants of God to be banished at once, or to be worshipped for idols: and that chiefly, taking occasion by miracles wrought by them.

^f Of the house where Paul and Barnabas were.

^g That is also called idolatry, which giveth to creatures, be they never so holy and excellent, that which is proper to the only one God, that is, invocation, or calling upon.

^h Men as ye are, and partakers of the self-same nature of man as you.

ⁱ He calleth idols vain things, after the manner of the Hebrews.

^j Custom, be it never so old, doth not excuse the idolaters.

^k Suffered them to live as they listed, prescribing and appointing them no kind of religion.

^l The Devil, when he is brought to the last cast, at length ragech openly, but in vain, even then when he seemeth to have the upper-hand.

^m We must go forward in our vocation through a thousand deaths.

ⁿ It is the office of the ministers, not only to teach, but also to confirm them that are taught, and prepare them to the cross.

^o The apostles committed the churches which they had planted, to proper and peculiar pastors, which they made not rashly, but with prayers and fastings going before: neither did they thrust them upon churches through bribery, or lordly superiority, but chose and placed them by the voice of the congregation.

^p Paul and Barnabas having made an end of their peregrination, and being returned to Antioch, do render an account of their journey to the congregation or church.

^q Attalia was a sea city of Pamphylia, near to Lycia.

^r Antioch of Syria.

^s The church is at length troubled with dissention within itself, and the trouble riseth of the proud and stubborn wits of certain evil men: the first strife was concerning the office of Christ, whether we be saved by his only righteousness apprehended by faith, or we have need also to observe the law.

^t Epiphanius is of opinion, that this was Cerinthus.

A. D. 51. 2² And when there was great dissention, and disputation by Paul and Barnabas against them, they ordained that Paul and Barnabas, and certain other of them, should go up to Jerusalem unto the apostles and elders about this question.

3 Thus^b being brought forth by the church, they passed through Phenice and Samaria, declaring the conversion of the Gentiles, and they brought great joy unto all the brethren.

4 And when they were come to Jerusalem, they were received of the church, and of the apostles and elders, and they declared what things God had done by them.

5 But said they, certain of the sect of the Pharisees which did believe, rose up, saying, that it was needful to circumcise them, and to command them to keep the law of Moses.

6 Then the apostles and elders came together to look to this matter.

7 And when there had been great disputation, Peter rose up, and said unto them, * + Ye men and brethren, ye know that a^c good while ago, amongst us God chose out me, that the Gentiles by my mouth should hear the word of the gospel, and believe,

8 And God, which knoweth the hearts, bare them witness, in giving unto them the Holy Ghost, even as he did unto us.

9 And he put no^d difference between us and them, after that *^e by faith he had purified their hearts.

10 Now therefore, why^f tempt ye God, to * lay a yoke upon the disciples necks, which neither our fathers nor we were able to bear?

11 But we believe, through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, to be saved, even as they do.

12 Then all the multitude kept silence, and heard Barnabas and Paul, which told what signs and wonders God had done among the Gentiles by them.

13 And when they held their peace,^g James answered, saying, Men and brethren, hearken unto me.

14 Simeon hath declared how God first did visit the Gentiles, to take of them a people unto his name.

15 And to this agree the words of the prophets, as it is written, A. D. 52.

16 * After this I will return, and will build again the tabernacle of David, which is fallen down, and the ruins thereof will I build again, and I will set it up; * Amos 9. 11.

17 That the residue of men might seek after the Lord, and all the Gentiles upon whom my name is called, saith the Lord, which doeth all these things.

18 From the beginning of the world, God^h knoweth all his works.

19 Wherefore my sentence is, that we trouble not them of the Gentiles that are turned to God,

20 But that we send unto them, that they abstain themselves fromⁱ filthiness of idols, and fornication, and that that is strangled, and from blood:

21 For Moses of old time hath in every city them that preach him, seeing he is read in the synagogues every sabbath day.

22 Then it seemed good to the apostles and elders, with the whole church, to send chosen men of their own company to Antioch with Paul and Barnabas: to wit, Judas whose surname was Barsabas, and Silas, which were chief men among the brethren:

23 And wrote letters by them after this manner, The apostles, and the elders, and the brethren, unto the brethren which are of the Gentiles in Antioch, and in Syria, and in Cilicia, send greeting.

24 Forasmuch as we have heard, that certain, which^k went out from us, have troubled you with words, and^l cumbered your minds, saying, Ye must be circumcised, and keep the law, to whom we gave no such commandment, 25 It seemed therefore good to us, when we were come together with one accord, to send chosen men unto you, with our beloved Barnabas and Paul.

26 Men that have^m given up their lives for the name of our Lord Jesus Christ.

27 We have therefore sent Judas and Silas, which shall also tell you the same things by mouth.

28 For

² Meetings of congregations were instituted to suppress heresies, whereunto certain were sent by common consent in the name of all.

^b Courteously and lovingly brought on their way by the church, that is, by certain appointed by the church.

^c The matter is first handled, both parts being heard, in the assembly of the apostles and ancients, and after is communicated with the people.

^d God himself, in calling of the Gentiles, which are uncircumcised, did teach that our salvation doth consist in faith without the worship appointed by the law.

^e Word for word, of old time, that is, even from the first time that we were commanded to preach the gospel, and straightways after that the Holy Ghost came down upon us.

^f He put no difference between us and them, as touching the benefit of his free favour.

^g Christ pronounceth them to be blessed which are pure of heart: and here we are plainly taught that men are made such by faith.

^h Peter passing from the ceremonies to the law itself in general, sheweth that none could be saved, if salvation were to be sought for by the law, and not by grace only in Jesus Christ; because that no man could ever fulfil the law, neither patriarch nor apostle.

ⁱ Why tempt you God, as though he could not save by faith?

^j A true pattern of a lawful council, where God's truth only reigneth.

^k The son of Alphesus, who is also called the Lord's brother.

^l James confirmeth the calling of the Gentiles out of the word of God, therein agreeing to Peter.

^m And therefore nothing cometh to pass by fortune, but by God's appointment.

ⁿ In matters indifferent we may so far bear with the weakness of our brethren, as they may have time to be instructed.

^o From sacrifices, or from feasts which were kept in idols temples.

^p In a lawful synod neither they which are appointed and chosen judges, appoint and determine any thing tyrannously or upon a lordliness, neither doth the common multitude set themselves tumultuously against them, which sit as judges by the word of God: as the like order also is holden in publishing and ratifying those things which have been so determined and agreed upon.

^q The council of Jerusalem concludeth, that they trouble men's consciences, which teach us to seek salvation in any other means than in Christ only, apprehended by faith, from whencesoever they come, and whomsoever they pretend to be author of their vocation.

^r From our congregation.

^s A borrowed kind of speech taken of them which pull down that that was built up: and it is a very usual metaphor in the scriptures, to say the church is built, for, the church is planted and stablished.

^t Have greatly hazarded their lives.

A. D. 28 " For it seemed good to the Holy Ghost, 52 and to us, to lay no more burden upon you,
than these necessary things :

29 " That is, that ye abstain from things offered to idols, and blood, and that that is strangled, and from fornication : from which if ye keep yourselves, ye shall do well. Fare ye well.

30 " Now when they were departed, they came to Antioch, and after that they had assembled the multitude, they delivered the epistle.

31 And when they had read it, they rejoiced for the consolation.

32 And Judas and Silas, being prophets, exhorted the brethren with many words, and strengthened them.

33 And after they had tarried there a space, they were let go in peace of the brethren unto the apostles.

34 Notwithstanding Silas thought good to abide there still.

35 Paul also and Barnabas continued in Antioch, teaching and preaching with many other the word of the Lord.

36 ¶ But after certain days Paul said unto Barnabas, Let us return, and visit our brethren in every city where we have preached the word of the Lord, and see how they do.

37 " And Barnabas counselled to take with them John, called Mark.

38 But Paul thought it not meet to take him unto their company, which departed from them from Pamphylia, and went not with them to the work.

39 " Then were they so stirred, that they departed asunder one from the other, so that Barnabas took Mark, and sailed unto Cyprus.

40 And Paul chose Silas, and departed, being commended of the brethren unto the grace of God.

41 And he went through Syria and Cilicia, stablishing the churches.

C H A P. XVI.

1 Paul having circumcised Timothy, 12 being at Philippi, 14 instructeth Lydia in the faith. 16 The spirit of divination 18 is by him cast out. 20 And for that cause 22 they are whipped, 24 and imprisoned. 26 Through an earthquake 27 the prison-doors are opened. 31, 32 The jailor receiveth the faith.

1 That is a lawful council, which the Holy Ghost ruleth. First, they make mention of the Holy Ghost, that it may not seem to be any man's work.

2 Not that men have any authority of themselves, but to shew the faithfulness that they used in their ministry and labour.

3 This was no precise necessity, but in respect of the state of that time, that the Gentiles and the Jews might more peaceably live together with less occasion of quarrel.

4 Charity is requisite even in things indifferent.

5 It is requisite for all people to know certainly, what to hold in matters of faith and religion, and not that the church by ignorance and knowing nothing, should depend upon the pleasure of a few.

6 This is an Hebrew kind of speech, which is as much to say, as, the brethren wished them all prosperous success, and the church dismissed them with good leave.

7 Congregations or churches do easily degenerate, unless they be diligently seen unto, and therefore went these apostles to oversee such as they had planted, and for this cause also synods were instituted and appointed.

8 A lamentable example of discord between excellent men and very great friends, yet not for prophane or their private affairs, neither yet for doctrine.

9 God useth the faults of his servants to the profit and building of the church: yet we have to take heed, even in the best matters, that we pass not measure in our heat.

10 They were in great heat: but herein we have to consider the force of God's counsel: for by this means it came

THEN came he to Derbe and to Lystra: and behold, a certain disciple was there named Timothy, a woman's son, which was a Jewess, and believed, but his father was a Grecian.

2 Of whom the brethren which were at Lystra and Iconium, reported well.

3 Therefore Paul would that he should go forth with him, and took and circumcised him, because of the Jews which were in those quarters: for they knew all, that his father was a Grecian.

4 And as they went through the cities, they delivered them the decrees to keep, ordained of the apostles and elders, which were at Jerusalem.

5 And so were the churches stablished in the faith, and increased in number daily.

6 ¶ Now when they had gone throughout Phrygia, and the region of Galatia, they were forbidden of the Holy Ghost to preach the word in Asia.

7 Then came they to Mysia, and sought to go into Bithynia: but the Spirit suffered them not.

8 Therefore they passed through Mysia, and came down to Troas.

9 Where a vision appeared to Paul in the night. There stood a man of Macedonia, and prayed him, saying, Come into Macedonia, and help us.

10 And after he had seen the vision, immediately we prepared to go into Macedonia, being assured that the Lord had called us to preach the gospel unto them.

11 Then went we forth from Troas, and with a straight course came to Samothracia, and the next day to Neapolis:

12 ¶ And from thence to Philippi, which is the chief city in the parts of Macedonia, and whose inhabitants came from Rome, to dwell there, and we were in that city abiding certain days.

13 And on the sabbath day, we went out of the city, besides a river, where they were wont to pray: and we sat down, and spake unto the women which were come together.

14 And a certain woman named Lydia, a seller of purple, of the city of the Thyatirians, which to pass, that the doctrine of the gospel was exercised in many places

1 Paul himself doth not receive Timothy into the ministry without sufficient testimony, and allowance of the brethren.

2 Paul in his latter epistle to Timothy commendeth the godliness of Timothy's mother and grandmother.

3 Both for his godliness and honesty.

4 Timothy is circumcised, not simply for any necessity, but in the respect of the time only to win the Jews.

5 Charity is to be observed in things indifferent, that so regard be had both of the weak, and the quietness of the church.

6 Those decrees which he spake of in the former chapter.

7 God appointeth certain and determinate times to open and set forth his truth, that both the election and the calling may proceed of grace.

8 He sheweth not why they were forbidden, but only that they were forbidden, teaching us to obey and not to enquire.

9 They are the ministers of the gospel, by whom he helpeth such as are like to perish.

10 The saints did not easily believe every vision.

11 God beginneth his kingdom in Macedonia by the conversion of a woman, and so sheweth, that there is no acception of persons in the gospel.

12 Where they were wont to assemble themselves.

13 The Lord only openeth the heart to hear the word which is preached.

A. D. 53. which worshipped God, heard us: whose heart the Lord opened, that she attended unto the things which Paul spake.

15 ⁹ And when she was baptized, and her household, she besought us, saying, If ye have judged me to be faithful to the Lord, come into mine house, and abide there: and she constrained us.

16 ¹⁰ And it came to pass, that as we went to prayer, a certain maid having a spirit of ^f divination, met us, which gat her masters much vantage with divining.

17 She followed Paul and us, and cried, saying, These men are the servants of the most high God, which shew unto you the way of salvation.

18 And this did she ^s many days: but Paul being grieved, turned about, and said to the spirit, I command thee in the name of Jesus Christ, that thou come out of her. And he came out the same hour.

19 ¹¹ Now when her masters saw that the hope of their gain was gone, they caught Paul and Silas, and drew them into the market place unto the magistrates,

20 ¹² And brought them to the governors, saying, These men, which are Jews, trouble our city:

21 ¹³ And preach ordinances, which are not lawful for us to receive, neither to observe, seeing we are Romans.

22 ¹⁴ The people also all rose up together against them, and the governors rent their clothes, and commanded them to be beaten with rods.

23 And when they had beaten them sore, they cast them into prison, commanding the jailor to keep them surely:

24 Who, having received such commandment, cast them into the inner prison, and made their feet ^b fast in the stocks.

25 ¹⁵ Now at midnight Paul and Silas prayed, and sung psalms unto God: and the prisoners heard them.

26 And suddenly there was a great earthquake: so that the foundation of the prison was shaken: and by and by all the doors opened, and every man's bands were loosed.

27 ¹⁶ Then the keeper of the prison waked out of his sleep, and when he saw the prison doors open, he drew out his sword, and would have killed himself, supposing the prisoners had been fled.

28 ¹⁷ But Paul cried with a loud voice, saying, Do thyself no harm: for we are all here.

⁹ An example of a godly housewife.

¹⁰ Satan transformeth himself into an angel of light, and coveteth to enter by undermining; but Paul openly letteth him, and casteth him out.

^f This is a proper note of Apollo, which was wont to give answers to them that asked him.

^s Paul made no haste to this miracle, for he did all things as he was led by the Spirit.

¹¹ Covetousness of lucre and gain is an occasion of persecuting the truth. In the mean season, God sparing Timothy, calleth Paul and Silas as the stronger to battle.

¹² Covetousness pretendeth a desire of common peace and godliness.

¹³ It is an argument of the devil, to urge the authority of ancestors without any distinction.

¹⁴ An example of evil magistrates, to obey the fury and rage of the people.

^b Because he would be more sure of them, he set them fast in the stocks.

¹⁵ The prayers of the godly do shake both heaven and earth.

¹⁶ The merciful Lord, so oft as he listeth, draweth men ^o life even through the midst of death, and whereas justly 29 Then he called for a light, and leaped in, and came trembling, and fell down before Paul and Silas, A. D. 53.

30 And brought them out, and said, Sirs, what must I do to be saved?

31 And they said, Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thine household.

32 And they preached unto him the word of the Lord, and to all that were in the house.

33 ¹⁸ Afterward he took them the same hour of the night, and washed their stripes, and was baptized, with all that belonged unto him, straightway.

34 And when he had brought them into his house, he set meat before them, and rejoiced that he with all his household believed in God.

35 ¹⁹ And when it was day, the governors sent the serjeants, saying, Let those men go.

36 Then the keeper of the prison told these words unto Paul, saying, The governors have sent to loose you: now therefore get you hence, and go in peace.

37 ²⁰ Then said Paul unto them, After that they have beaten us openly uncondemned, which are Romans, they have cast us into prison, and now would they put us out privily? nay verily: but let them come and bring us out.

38 ²¹ And the serjeants told these words unto the governors, who feared when they heard that they were Romans.

39 Then came they and prayed them, and brought them out, and desired them to depart out of the city.

40 ²² And they went out of the prison, and entered into the house of Lydia: and when they had seen the brethren, they comforted them, and departed.

C H A P. XVII.

¹ Paul at Thessalonica, 3 preaching Christ, 6, 7 is entertained of Jason: 10 he is sent to Berea: 15 from thence coming to Athens, 19 in Mars street, 23 he preacheth the living God to them unknown, 34 and so many are converted unto Christ.

NOW ¹ as they passed through Amphipolis and Apollonia, they came to Thessalonica, where was a synagogue of the Jews.

2 And Paul, as his manner was, went in unto them, and three sabbath days disputed with them by the scriptures,

3 ² Opening, and alledging that Christ must have they deserved great punishment, he sheweth them great mercy.

¹⁷ In means which are especially extraordinary, we ought not to move one foot forward, unless that God go before us.

¹⁸ God with one self-same hand woundeth and healeth when it pleaseth him.

¹⁹ Shame and confusion is in process of time the reward of wicked and unjust magistrates.

²⁰ We must not render injury for injury, and yet notwithstanding it is lawful for us to use such help as God giveth us, to bridle the outrageousness of the wicked, that they hurt not others in like sort.

²¹ The wicked are not moved with the fear of God, but with the fear of men: and by that means also God provideth for his, when it is needful.

²² We may eschew dangers, so that we never neglect our duties.

¹ The casting out of Silas and Paul, was the saving of many others.

² Christ is therefore the Mediator, because he was crucified and rose again: much less is he to be rejected because the cross is ignominious.

A. D. 53. have suffered, and risen again from the dead: and this is Jesus Christ, whom, said he, I preach to you.

4 And some of them believed, and joined in company with Paul and Silas: also of the Grecians that feared God a great multitude, and of the chief women not a few.

5 ³ But the Jews which believed not, moved with envy, took unto them certain ³ vagabonds and wicked fellows, and when they had assembled the multitude, they made a tumult in the city, and made assault against the house of Jason, and sought to bring them out to the people.

6 But when they found them not, they drew Jason and certain brethren unto the heads of the city, crying, These are they which have subverted the state of the ³ world, and here they are,

7 Whom Jason hath received, and these all do against the decrees of Cæsar, saying, that there is another king, one Jesus.

8 Then they troubled the people, and the heads of the city, when they heard these things.

9 Notwithstanding, when they had received sufficient assurance of Jason and of the other, they let them go.

10 ⁴ And the brethren immediately sent away Paul and Silas by night unto Berea, which when they were come thither, entered into the synagogue of the Jews.

11 ⁵ These were also more ⁴ noble men than they which were at Thessalonica, which received the word with all readiness, and searched the scriptures daily, whether those things were so.

12 Therefore many of them believed, and of honest women, which were Grecians, and men not a few.

13 ¶ ⁶ But when the Jews of Thessalonica knew that the word of God was also preached of Paul at Berea, they came thither also, and moved the people.

14 But by and by the brethren sent away Paul to go as it were to the sea: but Silas and Timothy abode there still.

³ Although the zeal of the unfaithful seem never so goodly, yet at length it is found to have neither truth nor equity. But yet the wicked cannot do what they list, for even among themselves God stirreth up some, whose help he useth to the deliverance of his.

⁴ Certain companions which do nothing but walk the streets, wicked men, to be hired for every man's money to do any mischief, such as we commonly call the rascals, and very sink and dunghill knaves of all towns and cities.

⁵ Into what country and place soever they come, they cause sedition and tumult.

⁶ When Jason had put them in good assurance that they should appear.

⁷ That is indeed the wisdom of the Spirit, which always setteth the glory of God before itself, as a mark whereunto it directeth itself, and never swerveth from it.

⁸ The Lord setteth out in one moment, and in one people, divers examples of his unsearchable wisdom, to cause them to fear him.

⁹ He compareth the Jews with the Jews.

¹⁰ Satan hath his, who are zealous for him, and that even such as least of all ought.

¹¹ There is neither counsel nor fury, nor madness, against the Lord.

¹² The sheep of Christ do also watch for their pastors health and safety, but yet in the Lord.

¹³ It is not for nought that the Jews of Berea were so commended, for they brought Paul safe from Macedonia to Athens, and there is in distance betwixt those two, all Thessalia, and Bœotia and Attica.

¹⁴ In comparing the wisdom of God with man's wisdom, men scoff and mock at that which they understand not: and God useth the curiosity of fools to gather together his elect.

¹⁵ He could not forbear.

¹⁶ Slavishly given to idolatry: Pausanias writeth that there were more idols in Athens than in all Greece, yea, they had altars dedicated to Shame, and Fame, and Lust, whom they 15 ⁸ And they that did conduct Paul, ⁶ brought him unto Athens: and when they had received a commandment unto Silas and Timothy, that they should come to him at once, they departed.

16 ¶ ⁹ Now while Paul waited for them at Athens, his spirit was ⁷ stirred in him, when he saw the city subject to ⁸ idolatry.

17 Therefore he disputed in the synagogue with the Jews, and with them that were religious, and in the market daily with ⁸ whomsoever he met.

18 ¹⁰ Then certain philosophers of the Epicures, and of the Stoics, disputed with him: and some said, What will this ¹ babbler say? Other said, He seemeth to be a setter-forth of strange gods (because he preached unto them Jesus, and the resurrection.)

19 And they took him, and brought him into ⁸ Mars-street, saying, May we not know what this new doctrine, whereof thou speakest, is?

20 For thou bringest certain strange things unto our ears: we would know therefore what these things mean.

21 ¹¹ For all the Athenians and strangers which dwelt there, gave themselves to nothing else, but either to tell, or to hear some news.

22 ¹² Then Paul stood in the midst of Mars-street, and said, Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are too ¹ superstitious.

23 For as I passed by, and beheld your ^m devotions, I found an altar, wherein was written, UNTO THE UNKNOWN GOD. Whom ye then ignorantly worship, him shew I unto you.

24 ¹³ God that made the world, and all things that are therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, ⁸ dwelleth not in temples made ⁸ with hands: Ch. 7. 48.

25 ⁸ Neither is worshipped with men's hands, ⁸ as though he needed any thing, seeing he giveth to all life and breath, and all things, Pl. 5. 3.

26 ¹⁴ And hath made of ⁹ one blood all mankind, to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath made goddesses.

⁸ Whomsoever Paul met with, that would suffer him to talk with him, he reasoned with him, so thoroughly did he burn with the zeal of God's glory.

¹⁰ Two sects especially of the philosophers, do set themselves against Christ: the Epicures, which make a mock and scoff at all religion: and the Stoics, which determine upon matters of religion according to their own brains.

¹ Word for word, seed-gatherer: a borrowed kind of speech taken of birds which spoil corn, and is applied to them, which without all art bluster out such knowledge as they have gotten by hearing this man and that man.

⁸ This was a place called as you would say, Mars' Hill, where the judges sat, which were called Areopagites, upon weighty affairs, which in old time arraigned Socrates, and after condemned him of impiety.

¹¹ The wisdom of man is vanity.

¹² The idolaters themselves minister strong and forcible arguments against their own superstition.

¹³ To stand in too peevish and servile a fear of your gods.

^m Whatsoever men worship for religion's sake, that we call devotion.

⁸ Pausanias, in his Atticis, maketh mention of the altar which the Athenians had dedicated to unknown gods: and Laertius in his Apimendes, maketh mention of an altar that had no name intitled.

¹³ It is a most foolish and vain thing, to compare the Creator with the creature, to limit him within a place which can be comprehended in no place, and to think to allure him with gifts, of whom all men have received all things whatsoever they have. And these are the fountains of idolatry.

¹⁴ God is wonderful in all his works, but especially in the work of man: not that we should stand amazed at his works, but that we should lift up our eyes to the workman.

⁹ Of one Rock and one beginning.

A. D. 54. hath assigned the seasons which were ordained before, and the bounds of their habitation, 27 That they should seek the Lord, if so be they might have groped after him, and found him, though doubtless he be not far from every one of us.

28 For in him we live, and move, and have our being, as also certain of your own poets have said: for we are also his generation.

29 Forasmuch then as we are the generation of God, we ought not to think that the godhead is like unto gold, or silver, or stone graven by art and the invention of man.

30 And the time of this ignorance God regarded not: but now he admonisheth all men every where to repent:

31 Because he hath appointed a day in the which he will judge the world in righteousness, by that man whom he hath appointed, whereof he hath given an assurance to all men, in that he hath raised him from the dead.

32 Now when they had heard of the resurrection from the dead, some mocked, and others said, We will hear thee again of this thing.

33 And so Paul departed from among them.

34 Howbeit, certain men clave unto Paul, and believed: among whom was also Dionysius the Areopagite, and a woman named Damaris, and others with them.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 As Paul at Corinth 6 taught the Gentiles, 9 the Lord comforteth him. 12 He is accused before Gallio, 16 but in vain. 18 From thence he saileth to Syria, 19 and so to Ephesus. 23 At Galatia and Phrygia he strengtheneth the disciples. 24 Apollos being more perfectly instructed by Aquila, 28 preacheth Christ with great efficacy.

AFTER these things, Paul departed from Athens, and came to Corinth,

2 And found a certain Jew named Aquila, born in Pontus, lately come from Italy, and his wife Priscilla (because that Claudius had commanded all Jews to depart from Rome) and he came unto them.

3 And because he was of the same craft, he abode with them, and wrought (for their craft was to make tents.) A. D. 54.

4 And he disputed in the synagogue every sabbath day, and exhorted the Jews, and the Grecians.

5 Now when Silas and Timothy were come from Macedonia, Paul, forced in spirit, testified to the Jews that Jesus was the Christ.

6 And when they resisted and blasphemed, he shook his raiment, and said unto them, Your blood be upon your own head: I am clean: from henceforth will I go unto the Gentiles. Ch. 13. 51. Matt. 10. 14.

7 So he departed thence, and entered into a certain man's house, named Justus, a worshipper of God, whose house joined hard to the synagogue.

8 And Crispus, the chief ruler of the synagogue, believed in the Lord with all his household: and many of the Corinthians hearing it, believed and were baptized. 1 Cor. 14.

9 Then said the Lord to Paul in the night by a vision, Fear not, but speak and hold not thy peace:

10 For I am with thee, and no man shall lay hands on thee to hurt thee: for I have much people in this city.

11 So he continued there a year and six months, and taught the word of God among them.

12 Now when Gallio was deputy of Achaia, the Jews arose with one accord against Paul, and brought him to the judgment-seat, 13 Saying, This fellow persuadeth men to worship God otherwise than the law appointeth.

14 And as Paul was about to open his mouth, Gallio said unto the Jews, If it were a matter of wrong, or an evil deed, O ye Jews, I would according to reason maintain you.

15 But if it be a question of words and names, and of your law, look ye to it yourselves: for I will be no judge of those things.

16 And he drave them from the judgment-seat.

17 Then took all the Grecians Sosthenes the chief ruler of the synagogue, and beat him before the

2 For as blind men we could not seek out God, but only by groping-wise, before the true Light came and lightened the world.

4 Which stuff, as gold, silver, stones, are customarily graven as man's wit can devise, for men will not worship that gross stuff as it is, unless by some art it hath gotten some shape upon it.

5 The oldness of the error doth not excuse them that err, but it commendeth and setteth forth the patience of God: who notwithstanding will be a just Judge to such as condemn him.

7 By declaring Christ to be the Judge of the world, through the resurrection from the dead.

8 Men to shew forth their vanity, are diversly affected and moved by one self-same gospel, which notwithstanding ceaseth not to be effectual in the elect.

9 The true ministers are so far from seeking their own profit, that they do willingly depart from their right, rather than the course of the gospel should be hindered in the least-wise that might be.

10 Suetonius recordeth, that Rome banished the Jews, because they were always at disquiet, and that by Christ's means.

11 The truth ought always to be freely uttered, yet notwithstanding the doctrine may be so moderated, as occasion of the profit that the people take thereby, shall require.

12 Exhorted so that he persuaded, and so the word signifieth.

13 Was very much grieved in mind: whereby is signified the great earnestness of his mind, which was greatly moved: for Paul was so zealous, that he clean forgot himself, and with a wonderful courage gave himself to preach Christ.

14 Although we have assayed all means possible, and yet in vain, we must not leave off from our work, but forsake the rebellious, and go to them that be more obedient.

15 This is a kind of speech taken from the Hebrews, whereby he meaneth that the Jews are the cause of their own destruction; and as for him, that he is without fault in forsaking them, and going to other nations.

16 God doth avouch and maintain the constancy of his servants.

17 Word for word, sat, whereupon they in former time took the name of their bishops seat: but Paul sat, that is, continued teaching the word of God: and this kind of seat belongeth nothing to them, which never saw their seats with a mind to teach in them.

18 The wicked are never weary of evil doing, but the Lord mocketh their endeavours marvellously.

19 That is of Greece, yet the Romans did not call him deputy of Greece, but of Achaia, because the Romans brought the Grecians into subjection, by the Achaians, which in those days were princes of Greece, as Pausanias recordeth.

20 As much as in right I could.

21 As if a man have not spoken well, as the case of your religion standeth.

22 For this profane man thinketh that the controversy of religion is but a brawl about words, and for no matter of substance.

1 D. the judgment-seat: But Gallio cared nothing for 55 these things.

15 ^a But when Paul tarried there yet a good while, he took leave of the brethren, and sailed 16 to Syria, and with him Priscilla and Aquila) after that ^b he had shorn his head in ^c Cenchrea:
for he had a ^d vow.

16 Then he came to Ephesus, and left them there: but he entered into the synagogue, and disputed with the Jews:

20 ^e Who desired him to tarry a longer time with them: but he would not consent,

21 But bade them farewell, saying, I must needs keep this feast that cometh, in Jerusalem: but I will return again unto you, ^f if God will. So he sailed from Ephesus.

22 ^g And when he came down to Cæsarea, he went up to Jerusalem: and when he had saluted the church, he went down unto Antioch.

23 Now when he had tarried there a while, he departed, and went through the country of Ga-lata and Phrygia by order, strengthening all the disciples.

24 And a certain Jew, named ^h Apollos, born at Alexandria, came to Ephesus, an eloquent man, and mighty in the scriptures.

25 The same was instructed in the way of the Lord, and he spake fervently in the Spirit, and taught diligently the things of the Lord, and knew but the baptism of John only.

26 And he began to speak boldly in the synagogue: Whom when ⁱ Aquila and Priscilla had heard, they took him unto them, and expounded unto him the ^j way of God more perfectly.

27 And when he was minded to go into Achaia, the brethren exhorting him, wrote to the disciples to receive him: and after he was come thither, he helped them much which had believed through ^k grace.

28 For mightily he confuted publicly the Jews with great vehemency, shewing by the scriptures that Jesus was that Christ.

C H A P. XIX.

1 Certain disciples at Ephesus, 3 having only received John's baptism, 2 and knew not the visible gifts of the Holy Ghost wherewith God had beautified his Son's kingdom, 5 are baptized in the name of Jesus. 13 The Jewish exorcists 16 are beaten of the dead. 19 Conjuring books are burnt. 24
Demetrius 29 raiseth sedition against Paul.

AND ^l it came to pass, while Apollos was at Corinth, that Paul, when he passed through the upper coasts, came to Ephesus, and found certain disciples,

2 And said unto them, Have ye received the

^a Paul is made all to all, to win all to Christ.
^b That is, Paul.
^c Cenchrea was an haven of the Corinthians.
^d The apostles were carried about, not by the will of men, but by the leading of the Holy Ghost.
^e So we should promise nothing without this clause, for we know not what the day following will bring forth.
^f Apollos, a godly and learned man, refuseth not to profit in the school of a base and abject handi-craftsman, and also of a woman: and so becometh an excellent minister of the church.
^g Very well instructed in the knowledge of the scriptures.
^h The way that leadeth to God.
ⁱ Through God's gracious favour, or by those excellent gifts which God had bestowed upon him.
^j Paul being nothing offended at the rudeness of the Ephesians, planteth a church amongst them.
^k Those excellent gifts of the Holy Ghost, which were in those days in the church.
^l John did only begin to instruct the disciples whom Christ should make perfect.

^m Holy Ghost since ye believed? And they said unto him, We have not so much as heard whether there be an Holy Ghost.

3 ⁿ And he said unto them, Unto ^o what were ye then baptized? And they said, Unto ^p John's baptism.

4 Then said Paul, ^q John verily baptized with the baptism of repentance, saying unto the people, that they should believe in him which should come after him, that is, in Christ Jesus.

5 And when they heard it, they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus.

6 So Paul laid his hands upon them, and the Holy Ghost came on them, and they spake the tongues, and prophesied.

7 And all the men were about twelve.

8 ^r Moreover he went into the synagogue, and spake boldly for the space of three months, disputing and exhorting to the things that appertain to the kingdom of God.

9 ^s But when certain were hardened, and disobeyed, speaking evil of the ^t way of God before the multitude, he departed from them, and separated the disciples, and disputed daily in the school of one ^u Tyrannus.

10 And this was done by the space of two years, so that all they which dwelt in Asia heard the word of the Lord Jesus, both Jews and Grecians.

11 And God wrought no small miracles by the hands of Paul,

12 So that from his body were brought unto the sick, kerchiefs, or handkerchiefs, and the diseases departed from them, and the evil spirits went out of them.

13 ^v Then certain of the vagabond Jews, exorcists, took in hand to name over them which had evil spirits, the name of the Lord Jesus, saying, We adjure you by Jesus, whom Paul preacheth.

14 (And there were certain sons of Sceva, a Jew, the priest, about seven, which did this,)

15 And the evil spirit answered, and said, Jesus I acknowledge, and Paul I know: but who are ye?

16 And the man in whom the evil spirit was, ran on them, and overcame them, and ^w prevailed against them, so that they fled out of that house naked, and wounded.

17 And this was known to all the Jews and Grecians also which dwelt at Ephesus, and fear came on them all, and the name of the Lord Jesus was magnified.

18 ^x And many that believed came, and ^y confessed, and shewed their works. 19 Ma-

^b In what doctrine then are you taught and instructed?
^c To be baptized into John's baptism, is to profess the doctrine which John preached and sealed with his baptism.
^d For a man to separate himself and others from infidels which are utterly desparate, it is not to divide the church, but rather to unite it, and make it one.
^e By this word, Way, the Hebrews understand any kind of life, and here it is taken for christianity.
^f This was a man's proper name.
^g Satan is constrained to give witness against himself.
^h So were they called which cast out devils by conjuring them in the name of God: and in the beginning of the church, they which had the gift of working miracles, and laid their hands on them that were possessed with devils, were alto to called.
ⁱ He prevailed against them, though they strove never so much.
^j Conjuring and forcery is condemned by open testimony, and by the authority of the apostle.
^k Confessed their errors, and detested them openly, being terrified with the fear of the judgment of God: and what is this to ear-thing.

A. D. 59.

19 Many also of them which used curious arts, brought their books, and burned them before all men: and they counted the price of them, and found it fifty thousand pieces of silver.

20 So the word of God grew mightily, and prevailed.

21 Now when these things were accomplished, Paul purposed by the Spirit to pass through Macedonia and Achaia, and to go to Jerusalem, saying, After I have been there, I must also see Rome.

22 So sent he unto Macedonia two of them that ministered unto him, Timothy and Erastus, but he remained in Asia for a season.

23 And the same time there arose no small trouble about that way.

24 For a certain man named Demetrius, a silversmith, which made silver temples of Diana, brought great gains unto the craftsmen:

25 Whom he called together, with the workmen of like things, and said, Sirs, ye know that by this craft we have our goods:

26 Moreover ye see and hear, that not alone at Ephesus, but almost throughout all Asia, this Paul hath persuaded and turned away much people, saying, That they be not gods which are made with hands.

27 So that not only this thing is dangerous unto us, that this our portion shall be reprov'd, but also that the temple of the great goddess Diana should be nothing esteemed, and that it would come to pass, that her magnificence, which all Asia and the world worshippeth, should be destroyed.

28 Now when they heard it, they were full of wrath, and cried out, saying, Great is Diana of the Ephesians.

29 And the whole city was full of confusion, and they rushed into the common place with one assent, and caught Gaius, and Aristarchus, men of Macedonia, and Paul's companions of his journey.

30 And when Paul would have entered in unto the people, the disciples suffered him not.

31 Certain also of the chief of Asia which were his friends, sent unto him, desiring him that he would not present himself in the common place.

32 Some therefore cried one thing, and some another: for the assembly was out of order, and the more part knew not wherefore they were come together.

33 And some of the company drew forth Alexander, the Jews thrusting him forwards. Alexander then beckoned with the hand, and ¹ They that make the least value of it, reckon it to be about eight hundred pounds English.

⁶ Paul is never weary.

^k By the motion of God's Spirit; therefore we may not say that Paul ran hand over head to death, but as the Spirit of God led him.

⁷ Gain cloked with a shew of religion, is the very cause wherefore idolatry is stoutly and stubbornly defended.

¹ These were certain counterfeit temples with Diana's picture in them, which they bought that worshipped her.

^m As if he said, If Paul go on thus as he hath begun to confute the opinion which men have of Diana's image, all this our gain will come to nought.

⁵ There ought to be in all Christians, and especially in the ministers, an invincible constancy, which may not by any storms or assaults be overcome, which notwithstanding must suffer itself modestly to be governed by wisdom.

⁹ Instead of reason, the idolaters are sufficiently contented with their own madness and outcries, and those are the greatest defences that they have.

¹ An example of a politic man, who redeemeth peace and would have excused the matter to the people. A. D. 59.

34 But when they knew that he was a Jew, there arose a shout almost for the space of two hours, of all men, crying, Great is Diana of the Ephesians.

35 Then the town-clerk, when he had stayed the people, said, Ye men of Ephesus, what man is it that knoweth not how that the city of the Ephesians is a worshipper of the great goddess Diana, and of the image which came down from Jupiter?

36 Seeing then that no man can speak against these things, ye ought to be appeased, and to do nothing rashly:

37 For ye have brought hither these men, which have neither committed sacrilege, neither do blaspheme your gods.

38 Wherefore, if Demetrius, and the craftsmen which are with him, have a matter against any man, the law is open, and there are deputies: let them accuse one another.

39 But if ye enquire any thing concerning other matters, it may be determined in a lawful assembly:

40 For we are even in jeopardy to be accused of this day's sedition, forasmuch as there is no cause whereby we may give a reason of this concourse of people.

41 And when he had thus spoken, he let the assembly depart.

C H A P. XX.

1 Paul appointed to go to Macedonia. 7 In Troas preaching until midnight, 9 Eutychus fell down dead out of a window: 10 he raiseth him to life. 15 At Miletum, 17 having called the elders of Ephesus together, 23 he declareth what things shall come upon himself, 29 and others.

NOW after the tumult was appeased, Paul called the disciples unto him, and embraced them, and departed to go into Macedonia.

2 And when he had gone through those parts, and had exhorted them with many words, he came into Greece.

3 And having tarried there three months, because the Jews laid wait for him, as he was about to sail into Syria, he purposed to return through Macedonia.

4 And there accompanied him into Asia, Sopater of Berea, and of them of Thessalonica, Aristarchus, and Secundus, and Gaius of Derbe, and Timothy: and of them of Asia, Tychicus, and Trophimus.

5 These went before, and tarried us at Troas.

quietness with lyes, which Paul would never have done.

⁹ The Ephesians believed superstitiously, that the image of Diana came down from heaven to them.

⁹ Have ought to accuse any man of.

^p For there are certain days appointed for civil causes and matters of judgment, and the deputies sit.

⁹ By the deputies are meant also the deputies substitutes, that is, such as did sit for them.

¹ Paul departeth from Ephesus by the consent of the church, not to be idle or at rest, but to take pains in another place.

² For after so great trouble there was need of a long exhortation.

² A froward zeal is the guider and instructor to murders: and we are not debarred by the wisdom of God to prevent the endeavours of wicked men.

- A. D. 6 And we sailed forth from Philippi, after the days of unleavened bread, and came unto them to Troas in five days, where we abode seven days.
- 7 And the first day of the week, the disciples being come together to break bread, Paul preached unto them, ready to depart on the morrow, and continued the preaching unto midnight.
- 8 And there were many lights in an upper chamber, where they were gathered together.
- 9 And there sat in a window a certain young man named Eutychus, fallen into a dead sleep: and as Paul was long preaching, he, overcome with sleep, fell down from the third loft, and was taken up dead.
- 10 But Paul went down, and laid himself upon him, and embraced him, saying, Trouble not yourselves: for his life is in him.
- 11 Then when Paul was come up again, and had broken bread, and eaten, having spoken a long while, till the dawning of the day, he so departed.
- 12 And they brought the boy alive, and they were not a little comforted.
- 13 Then we went before to ship, and sailed unto the city Assos, that we might receive Paul there: for so had he appointed, and would himself go afoot.
- 14 Now when he was come unto us to Assos, and we had received him, we came to Mitylene.
- 15 And we sailed thence, and came the next day overagainst Chios: and the next day we arrived at Samos, and tarried at Trogyllium: the next day we came to Miletum.
- 16 For Paul had determined to sail by Ephesus, because he would not spend the time in Asia: for he hasted to be, if he could possibly, at Jerusalem at the day of Pentecost.
- 17 Wherefore from Miletum, he sent to Ephesus, and called the elders of the church.
- 18 Who, when they were come to him, he said unto them, Ye know from the first day that I came into Asia, after what manner I have been with you at all seasons,
- 19 Serving the Lord with all modesty, and with many tears and temptations which came unto me by the layings await of the Jews:
- 20 And how I kept back nothing that was

- profitable, but have shewed you, and taught you openly, and throughout every house,
- 21 Witnessing both to the Jews, and to the Grecians, the repentance toward God, and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ.
- 22 And now behold, I go bound in the Spirit unto Jerusalem, and know not what things shall come unto me there:
- 23 Save that the Holy Ghost witnesseth in every city, saying, that bonds and afflictions abide me.
- 24 But I pass not at all, neither is my life dear unto myself, so that I may fulfil my course with joy, and the ministration which I have received of the Lord Jesus, to testify the gospel of the grace of God.
- 25 And now behold, I know that henceforth ye all, through whom I have gone preaching the kingdom of God, shall see my face no more.
- 26 Wherefore I take you to record this day, that I am pure from the blood of all men.
- 27 For I have kept nothing back, but have shewed you all the counsel of God.
- 28 Take heed therefore unto yourselves, and to all the flock, whereof the Holy Ghost hath made you overseers, to feed the church of God, which he hath purchased with that his own blood.
- 29 For I know this, that after my departing, shall grievous wolves enter in among you, not sparing the flock.
- 30 Moreover, of your own selves shall men arise, speaking perverse things, to draw disciples after them.
- 31 Therefore watch, and remember, that by the space of three years I ceased not to warn every one both night and day with tears.
- 32 And now brethren, I commend you to God, and to the word of his grace, which is able to build further, and to give you an inheritance among all them which are sanctified.
- 33 I have coveted no man's silver, nor gold, nor apparel.
- 34 Yea, ye know that these hands have ministered unto my necessities, and to them that were with me.
- 35 I have shewed you all things, how that so labouring, ye ought to support the weak, and to remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how that ² Word for word, the first day of the sabbath, that is, upon the Lord's day: so that by this place, and by 1 Cor. 16. 2. it is not amiss gathered, that in those days the Christians were wont to assemble themselves solemnly together upon that day.

³ The devil minding to trouble the church with a great offence, giveth Paul a singular occasion to confirm the gospel.

⁴ Paul an earnest and diligent follower of Christ, making haste to his bonds without any ceasing or stopping in his race, doeth first of all, as it were, make his testament, whereof he giveth an account of his former life, defendeth the doctrine which he taught, and exhorteth the pastors of the church to persevere and go forward with continuance in their office.

⁵ According as the situation of these places is set forth, that distance between Ephesus and Miletum was about 400 sailings, which maketh almost fifty Dutch miles.

² The doctrine of the apostles is most perfect and absolute.

³ To keep it, to feed and govern it.

⁴ A notable sentence for Christ's Godhead, which sheweth plainly in his person, how that by reason of the joining together of the two natures in his own person, that which is proper to one is spoken of the other, being that in the derivative, and not in the primitive: which in old time the godly fathers termed, a communicating of the lowship of proprieties, that is to say, a making common of that to two, which belongeth but to one.

⁵ This word, That, sheweth the excellency of this blood.

⁶ A prophecy of pastors that should straightway degenerate into wolves, against such as boast and brag only of a succession of persons.

36 And when he had thus spoken, he kneeled down, and prayed with them all.

37 Then they wept all abundantly, and fell on Paul's neck, and kissed him, 38 Being chiefly sorry for the words which he spake, That they should see his face no more. And they accompanied him unto the ship.

C H A P. XXI.

1 Paul goeth towards Jerusalem. 8 At Cæsarea he talketh with Philip the Evangelist. 10 Agabus foretelleth him of his bonds. 17 After he came to Jerusalem, 26 and into the temple, 27 the Jews laid hands on him. 32 Lysias the captain taketh him from them.

AND ¹ as we launched forth, and were departed from them, we came with a straight course unto Coos, and the day following unto Rhodes, and from thence unto Patara.

2 And we found a ship that went over unto Phenice, and went aboard, and set forth.

3 And when we had discovered Cyprus, we left it on the left hand, and sailed toward Syria, and arrived at Tyre: for the ship unladed the burden.

4 And when we had found disciples, we tarried there seven days. And they told Paul through the ² Spirit, that he should not go up to Jerusalem.

5 But when the days were ended, we departed, and went our way, and they all accompanied us with their wives and children, even out of the city: and we, kneeling down on the shore, prayed.

6 Then, when we had embraced one another, we took ship, and they returned home.

7 And when we had ended the course from Tyre, we arrived at Ptolemais, and saluted the brethren, and abode with them one day.

8 And the next day Paul and we that were with him departed, and came into Cæsarea: and we entered into the house of ^a Philip the Evangelist, which was one of the ^b seven deacons, and abode with him.

9 Now he had four daughters virgins, which did ^c prophecy.

10 And as we tarried there many days, there came a certain prophet from Judea, named Agabus.

11 And when he was come unto us, he took Paul's girdle, and bound his own hands and feet, and said, Thus saith the Holy Ghost, So shall the Jews at Jerusalem bind the man that owneth this girdle, and shall deliver him into the hands of the Gentiles.

12 And when we had heard these things, both we and other of the same place besought him that he would not go up to Jerusalem.

13 Then Paul answered, and said, What do ye weeping, and breaking mine heart? For I am ready not to be bound only, but also to die at Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus.

14 ² So when he would not be persuaded, we ceased, saying, The will of the Lord be done.

15 And after those days we trusted up our fardels, and went up to Jerusalem.

16 There went with us also certain of the disciples of Cæsarea, and brought with them one Mnason of Cyprus, an old disciple, with whom we should lodge.

17 And when we were come to Jerusalem, the brethren received us gladly.

18 And the next day Paul went in with us unto James: and all the elders were there assembled.

19 ³ And when he had embraced them, he told by order all things that God had wrought among the Gentiles by his ministrations.

20 ⁴ So when they heard it, they glorified God, and said unto him, Thou seeest, brother, how many thousand Jews there are which believe, and they are all zealous of the law.

21 Now they are informed of thee, that thou teachest all the Jews which are among the Gentiles to forsake Moses, and sayest, that they ought not to circumcise their sons, neither to live after the customs.

22 What is then to be done? the multitude must needs come together: for they shall hear that thou art come.

23 Do therefore this that we say to thee. We have four men, which have made a vow.

24 Them take, and ^d purify thyself with them, and ^e contribute with them, that they may ^f shave their heads: and all shall know, that those things whereof they have been informed concerning thee, are nothing, but that thou thyself also walkest and keepst the law.

25 For as touching the Gentiles, which believe, we have written, and determined, that they observe no such thing, but that they keep themselves from things offered to idols, and from blood, and from that that is strangled, and from fornication.

26 Then Paul took the men, and the next day was purified with them, and entered into the temple, ^g declaring the accomplishment of the days of the purification, until that an offering

^d That is, consecrate thyself; for he speaketh not here of the unclean, but of such as be subject to the vow of the Nazarites.

^e That it may be known, that thou wast not only present at the vow, but also a chief man in it; and therefore it is said afterwards, that Paul declared the days of purification: for although the charges for the Nazarites offerings were appointed, yet they might add somewhat unto them, Num. 6. 21.

^f The priests were to be advertised of the accomplishment of the days of the purification, because there were sacrifices to be offered the same day, that their vow was ended.

60. offering should be offered for every one of them.

27⁵ And when the seven days were almost ended, the Jews which were of Asia (when they saw him in the temple) moved all the people, and laid hands on him,

28 Crying, Men of Israel, help: this is the man that teacheth all men every where against the people, and the law, and this place: moreover, he hath brought Grecians into the temple, and hath polluted this place.

29 For they had seen before Trophimus, an Ephesian, with him in the city, whom they supposed that Paul had brought into the temple.

30 Then all the city was moved, and the people ran together: and they took and drew him out of the temple, and forthwith the doors were shut.

31⁶ But as they went about to kill him, tidings came unto the chief captain of the band, that all Jerusalem was in an uproar:

32 Who immediately took soldiers, and centurions, and ran down unto them: and when they saw the chief captain and the soldiers, they left beating of Paul.

33 Then the chief captain came near, and took him, and commanded him to be bound with two chains, and demanded who he was, and what he had done.

34 And one cried this, another that, among the people. So when he could not know the certainty for the tumult, he commanded him to be led into the castle.

35 And when he was come unto the stairs, it was so that he was borne of the soldiers, for the violence of the people.

36 For the multitude of the people followed after, crying, Away with him.

37 And as Paul should have been led into the castle, he said unto the chief captain, May I speak unto thee? Who said, Canst thou speak Greek?

38 Art not thou the Egyptian, who before these days raised a sedition, and led out into the wilderness four thousand men, that were murderers?

39 Then Paul said, Doubtless, I am a man which am a Jew, and citizen of Tarsus, a famous city of Cilicia, and I beseech thee, suffer me to speak unto the people.

40 And when he had given him licence, Paul stood on the stairs, and beckoned with the hand unto the people: and when there was made great silence, he spake unto them in the Hebrew tongue, saying,

C H A P XXII.

1 Paul yieldeth a reason of his faith, 22 and the Jews bear him awhile. 23 But so soon as they cried out, 24 he is commanded to be scourged and examined, 27 and so declareth that he is a citizen of Rome.

YE men, brethren, and fathers, hear my defence now towards you.

2 (And when they heard that he spake in the Hebrew tongue to them, they kept the more silence, and he said)

3¹ I am verily a man, which am a Jew, born in Tarsus, in Cilicia, but brought up in this city, at the² feet of Gamaliel, and instructed according to the perfect manner of the law of the fathers, and was zealous toward God, as ye all are this day.

4 And I persecuted this way unto the death, binding and delivering into prison both men and women.

5 As also the chief priest doth bear me witness, and all the company of the elders: of whom also I received letters unto the brethren, and went to Damascus, to bring them which were there, bound unto Jerusalem, that they might be punished.

6 ¶ And so it was, as I journeyed, and was come near unto Damascus about noon, that suddenly there shone from heaven a great light round about me.

7 So I fell unto the earth, and heard a voice, saying unto me, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me?

8 Then I answered, Who art thou, Lord? And he said unto me, I am Jesus of Nazareth, whom thou persecutest.

9 Moreover they that were with me, saw indeed a light, and were afraid: but they heard not the voice of him that spake unto me.

10 Then I said, What shall I do, Lord? And the Lord said unto me, Arise, and go into Damascus: and there it shall be told thee of all things which are appointed for thee to do.

11 So when I could not see for the glory of that light, I was led by the hand of them that were with me, and came into Damascus.

12 And one Ananias, a godly man, as pertaining to the law, having good report of all the Jews which dwelt there, 13 Came unto me, and stood, and said unto me, Brother Saul, receive thy sight: and that same hour I looked upon him.

14 And he said, The God of our Fathers hath appointed thee that thou shouldest know his will, and shouldest see that Just one, and shouldest hear the voice of his mouth.

15 For thou shalt be his witness unto all men of the things which thou hast seen and heard.

16 Now therefore why tarriest thou? Arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, in calling on the name of the Lord.

17 ¶ And it came to pass, that when I was come again to Jerusalem, and prayed in the temple, I was in a trance, 18 And saw him, saying unto me, Make haste, and get thee quickly out of Jerusalem: for they will not receive thy witness concerning me.

19 Then I said, Lord, they know that I imprisoned and beat in every synagogue them that believed in thee.

20 And when the blood of thy martyr Stephen was shed, I also stood by, and consented unto 21 Then he said unto me, Depart: for I will send thee far hence unto the Gentiles.

22 ¶ ^a And they heard him unto this word, but then they lift up their voices; and said, Away with such a fellow from the earth: for it is not meet that he should live.

23 And as they ^c cried and cast off their clothes, and threw dust into the air;

24 The chief captain commanded him to be led into the castle, and bade that he should be scourged, and examined, that he might know wherefore they cried so on him:

25 ^d And as they bound him with thongs, Paul said unto the centurion that stood by, Is it lawful for you to scourge one that is a Roman, and not condemned?

26 Now when the centurion heard it, he went and told the chief captain, saying, Take heed what thou doest: for this man is a Roman.

27 Then the chief captain came, and said to him, Tell me, art thou a Roman? And he said, Yea.

28 And the chief captain answered, With a great sum obtained I this freedom. Then Paul said, But I was so born.

29 Then straightway they departed from him, which should have examined him: and the chief captain also was afraid, after he knew that he was ^e a Roman, and that he had bound him.

30 On the next day, because he would have known the certainty wherefore he was accused of the Jews, he loosed him from his bonds; and commanded the high priests and all their council to come together: and he brought Paul, and set him before them.

C H A P. XXIII.

6 But when Paul perceived, that the one part were of the Sadducees, and the other of the Pharisees, he cried in the council, Men and brethren, ^e I am a Pharisee; the son of a Pharisee: I am accused of the hope and resurrection of the dead. * Ch. 24. 22. Phil. 3. 5.

7 And when he had said this, there was a diffension between the Pharisees and the Sadducees, so that the multitude was divided.

8 For the Sadducees say that there is no resurrection: neither ^f angel nor spirit: but the Pharisees confess both. * Matt. 22. 23.

9 Then there was a great cry: and the ^g Scribes of the Pharisees part rose up, and strove, saying, We find none evil in this man: but if a spirit or an angel hath spoken unto him, let us not fight against God.

10 And when there was a great diffension, the chief captain, fearing lest Paul should have been pulled in pieces of them, commanded the soldiers to go down, and to take him from among them, and to bring him into the castle.

11 ¶ Now the night following the Lord stood by him, and said, Be of good courage, Paul: for as thou hast testified of me in Jerusalem, so must thou bear witness also at Rome.

12 And when the day was come, certain of the Jews made an assembly, and bound themselves with a curse, saying, that they would neither eat nor drink, till they had killed Paul.

13 And they were more than forty which had made this conspiracy.

14 And they came to the chief priests and elders,

11. Now therefore ye, and the council signify to the chief captain, that he bring him forth unto you to-morrow, as though you would know something more perfectly of him, and we, or ever he come near, will be ready to kill him.

12. But when Paul's sister's son heard of their lying await, he went, and entered into the castle, and told Paul.

13. And Paul called one of the centurions unto him, and said, Take this young man hence unto the chief captain: for he hath a certain thing to shew him.

14. So he took him, and brought him to the chief captain, and said, Paul the prisoner called me unto him, and prayed me to bring this young man unto thee, which hath something to say unto thee.

15. Then the chief captain took him by the hand, and went apart with him alone, and asked him, What hast thou to shew me?

16. And he said, The Jews have conspired to slay thee, that thou wouldest bring forth Paul to-morrow into the council, as though they would inquire somewhat of him more perfectly:

17. But let them not persuade thee: for there be in wait for him of them more than forty men, which have bound themselves with a curse, that they will neither eat nor drink, till they have killed him: and now are they ready, and wait for thy promise.

18. The chief captain then let the young man depart, after he had charged him to utter it to no man, that he had shewed him these things.

19. And he called unto him two certain centurions, saying, Make ready two hundred soldiers, that they may go to Cæsarea, and horsemen three score and ten, and two hundred with darts, at the third hour of the night.

20. And let them make ready an horse, that Paul being set on, may be brought safe unto Felix the governor.

21. And he wrote an epistle in this manner:

22. Claudius Lysias unto the most noble governor Felix, sendeth greeting.

23. As this man was taken of the Jews, and should have been killed of them, I came upon them with the garison, and rescued him, perceiving that he was a Roman.

24. And when I would have known the cause wherefore they accused him, I brought him forth into their council.

25. There I perceived that he was accused of questions of their law, but had no crime worthy of death, or of bonds.

30. And when it was shewed me, how that the Jews laid wait for the man, I sent him straightway to thee, and commanded his accusers to speak before thee the things that they had against him. Farewell.

31. Then the soldiers, as it was commanded them, took Paul, and brought him by night to Antipatris.

32. And the next day they left the horsemen to go with him, and returned unto the castle.

33. Now when they came to Cæsarea, they delivered the epistle to the governor, and presented Paul also unto him.

34. So when the governor had read it, he asked of what province he was: and when he understood that he was of Cilicia,

35. I will hear thee, said he, when thine accusers also are come: and commanded him to be kept in Herod's judgment hall.

C H A P. XXIV.

Tertullus accuseth Paul: 10 He answereth for himself. 25 He preacheth Christ to the governor and his wife. 27 Felix hopeth, but in vain, to receive a bribe: 28 who going from his office, leaveth Paul in prison.

NOW after five days, Ananias the high priest came down with the elders, and with Tertullus, a certain orator, which appeared before the governor against Paul.

2. And when he was called forth, Tertullus began to accuse him, saying, Seeing that we have obtained great quietness through thee, and that many worthy things are done unto this nation through thy providence,

3. We acknowledge it wholly, and in all places, most noble Felix, with all thanks.

4. But that I be not tedious unto thee: I pray thee, that thou wouldest hear us of thy courtesy a few words.

5. Certainly we have found this man a pestilent fellow, and a mover of sedition among all the Jews throughout the world, and a chief maintainer of the sect of the Nazarites:

6. And hath gone about to pollute the temple: therefore we took him, and would have judged him according to our law:

7. But the chief captain Lysias came upon us, and with great violence took him out of our hands,

8. Commanding his accusers to come to thee: of whom thou mayest (if thou wilt enquire) know all these things whereof we accuse him.

9. And the Jews likewise affirmed, saying, that it was so,

10. Then Paul, after that the governor had beckoned unto him that he should speak, answered, ¹¹ Lysias is suddenly made by the Lord, Paul's patron.

¹² Hypocrites, when they cannot do what they would do by force and deceit, at length they go about to compass it by a shew of law.

¹³ Felix ruled that province with great cruelty and covetousness, and yet Josephus recordeth that he did many worthy things, as that he took Eleazar the captain of certain cut-throats, and put that deceiving wretch the Egyptian to flight, which caused great troubles in Judea.

¹⁴ He useth a word which the Stoicks defined to be a perfect duty and behaviour.
¹⁵ Word for word, a plague.
¹⁶ As you would say, a ring-leader, or ensign-bearer.
¹⁷ So they called the Christians, scoffingly, of the town's name where they thought that Christ was born, whereupon it came, that Julian the apostate called him Galilean.
¹⁸ Confirmed Tertullus's saying.
¹⁹ Tertullus, by the devil's rhetoric beginning with flattery, maketh an end with lyes: but Paul using heavenly eloquence, and but a simple beginning, casteth off from himself the crime of sedition, wherewith he was burdened, with a simple denial.

A. D. 60. svered, I do the more gladly answer for myself, forasmuch as I know that thou hast been of many years a judge unto this nation, 11 Seeing that thou mayest know, that there are but twelve days since I came up to worship in Jerusalem.

12 And they neither found me in the temple disputing with any man, neither making uproar among the people, neither in the synagogues, nor in the city.

13 Neither can they^b prove the things, whereof they now accuse me.

14^c But this I confess unto thee, that after the way which they call^d heresy, so worship I the God of my fathers, believing all things which are written in the law and the prophets.

15 And have hope towards God, that the resurrection of the dead, which they themselves look for also, shall be both of just and unjust.

16 And herein I endeavour myself to have alway a clear conscience toward God and toward men.

17^e Now after many years, I came and brought alms to my nation, and offerings.

18 At^f what time, certain Jews of^g Asia found me purified in the temple, neither with multitude, nor with tumult.

19 Who ought to have been present before thee, and accuse me, if they had aught against me.

20 Or let these themselves say, if they have found any unjust thing in me, while I stood in the^h council :

21 Except it be for this one voice that I cried standing among them, Of the resurrection of the dead am I accused of you this day.

22ⁱ Now when Felix heard these things, he deferred them, and said, When I shall more perfectly know the things which concern this way, by the coming of Lysias the chief captain, I will decide your matter.

23^j Then he commanded a centurion to keep Paul, and that he should have ease, and that he should forbid none of his acquaintance to minister unto him, or to come unto him.

24 ¶ And after certain days came Felix with his wife^k Drusilla, which was a Jewess, and he called forth Paul, and heard him of the faith in Christ.

25 And as he disputed of righteousness and temperance, and of the judgment to come, Felix trembled, and answered, Go thy way for this time, and when I have convenient time, I will call for thee.

26 He hoped also that money should have been given him of Paul, that he might loose him: wherefore he sent for him the oftener, and communed with him.

27^l When two years were expired, Portius Festus came into Felix's room: and Felix, willing to^m get favour of the Jews, left Paul bound.

C H A P. XXV.

1 Festus succeeding Felix, 6 commandeth Paul to be brought forth. 11 Paul appealeth unto Cæsar. 14 Festus openeth Paul's matter to king Agrippa, 23 and bringeth him before him, 27 that he may understand his cause.

W H E Nⁿ Festus was then come into the province, after three days he went up from Cæsarea unto Jerusalem.

2 Then the high priest, and the chief of the Jews appeared before him against Paul, and they besought him,

3 And desired favour against him, that he would send for him to Jerusalem: and they laid wait to kill him by the way.

4 But Festus answered, that Paul should be kept at Cæsarea, and that he himself would shortly depart thither.

5 Let them therefore, said he, which among you are able, come down with us: and if there be any wickedness in the man, let them accuse him.

6 ¶^o Now when he had tarried among them no more than ten days, he went down to Cæsarea, and the next day sat in the judgment seat: and commanded Paul to be brought.

7 And when he was brought, the Jews which were come from Jerusalem stood about him, and laid many and grievous complaints against Paul, whereof^p they could make no plain proof,

8 Forasmuch as he answered, that he had neither offended any thing against the law of the Jews, neither against the temple, nor against Cæsar.

9 Yet

^f Paul pleaded his cause two years before Felix departed out of the province, Chap. 27. but he had governed Trachonite, and Batavia, and Galaunite, before that Claudius made him governor of Judea. Josephus in the history of the Jews war, lib. 2. chap. 11.

^g They cannot lay forth before thee, and prove by good reasons.

^h Paul goeth in the case of religion, from a state of conjecture to a state of quality, not only not denying that religion which was objected against him, but also proving it to be true, to be heavenly, and from God, and to be the oldest of all religions.

ⁱ Here the word Heresy, or Sect, is taken in good part.

^j Paul in conclusion telleth the thing which was done truly, which Tertullus had before divers ways corrupted.

^k And while I was busy about those things.

^l Hereby it appeareth that these of Asia were Paul's enemies, and those that stirred up the people against him.

^m Whither the tribune brought me.

ⁿ The judge suspendeth his sentence, because the matter is doubtful.

^o Felix could not judge whether he had done wickedly in the matters of his religion or no, until he had better understanding of that way which Paul professed; and as for other matters, touching the sedition, he thinketh good to defer it till he hear Lysias, and therefore he gave Paul somewhat more liberty.

^p God is a most faithful keeper of his servants, and the force of the truth is wonderful, even amongst men which are otherwise prophane.

^q This Drusilla was Agrippa's sister, of whom Luke speaketh afterward, a very harlot and licentious woman, and being the wife of Azizus king of the Emesens, who was circumcised, departed from him, and went to this Felix the brother of one Pallas, who was some time Nero's bondman.

^r In a naughty mind, that is, guilty to itself, although sometimes there be some shew of equity, yet by and by it will be extinguished, but in the mean season we have need of patience, and that continually.

^s For whereas he had behaved himself very wickedly in the province, had it not been for favour of his brother Pallas, he should have died for it: so that we may gather hereby, why he would have pleased the Jews.

^t Satan's ministers are subtil, and diligent in seeking all occasions: but God, which watcheth for his, hindereth all their counsels easily.

^u We may repel an injury justly, but not with injury.

^v They could not prove them certainly, and with undoubted reasons.

A. D. 62.
 9 Yet Festus, willing to get favour of the Jews, answered Paul, and said, Wilt thou go up to Jerusalem, and there be judged of these things before me?

10 Then said Paul, I stand at Cæsar's judgment seat, where I ought to be judged: to the Jews I have done no wrong, as thou very well knowest.

11 For if I have done wrong, or committed any thing worthy of death, I refuse not to die: but if there be none of these things whereof they accuse me, no man, to pleasure them, can deliver me to them: I appeal unto Cæsar.

12 Then when Festus had spoken with the council, he answered, Hast thou appealed unto Cæsar? unto Cæsar shalt thou go.

13 ¶ And after certain days, king Agrippa and Bernice came down to Cæsarea to salute Festus.

14 And when they had remained there many days, Festus declared Paul's cause unto the king, saying, There is a certain man left in prison by Felix:

15 Of whom when I came to Jerusalem, the high priests and elders of the Jews informed me, and desired to have judgment against him.

16 To whom I answered, that it is not the manner of the Romans, for favour to deliver any man to the death, before that he which is accused, have the accusers before him, and have place to defend himself, concerning the crime.

17 Therefore when they were come hither, without delay the day following I sat on the judgment seat, and commanded the man to be brought forth:

18 Against whom, when the accusers stood up, they brought no crime of such things as I supposed:

19 But had certain questions against him of their own superstition, and of one Jesus, which was dead, whom Paul affirmed to be alive.

20 And because I doubted of such manner of question, I asked him whether he would go to Jerusalem, and there be judged of these things.

21 But because he appealed to be reserved to the examination of Augustus, I commanded him to be kept, till I might send him to Cæsar.

22 Then Agrippa said unto Festus, I would also hear the man myself. To-morrow, said he, thou shalt hear him.

23 And on the morrow when Agrippa was come, and Bernice, with great pomp, and were entered into the common hall with the chief captains and chief men of the city, at Festus's commandment Paul was brought forth.

24 And Festus said, King Agrippa, and all men which are present with us, ye see this man, about whom all the multitude of the Jews have called upon me, both at Jerusalem, and here, crying, that he ought not to live any longer.

25 Yet have I found nothing worthy of death, that he hath committed: nevertheless, seeing that he hath appealed to Augustus, I have determined to send him.

26 Of whom I have no certain thing to write unto my lord: wherefore I have brought him forth unto you, and specially unto thee, king Agrippa, that after examination had, I might have somewhat to write.

27 For me thinketh it unreasonable to send a prisoner, and not to shew the causes which are laid against him.

C H A P. XXVI.

2 Paul, in the presence of Agrippa, 4 declareth his life from his childhood, 16 and his calling, 22 with such efficacy of words, 28 that almost he persuadeth him to Christianity: 30 but he and his company depart, doing nothing in Paul's matter.

THEN Agrippa said unto Paul, Thou art permitted to speak for thyself. So Paul stretched forth the hand, and answered for himself.

2 I think myself happy, king Agrippa, because I shall answer this day before thee of all the things whereof I am accused of the Jews:

3 Chiefly, because thou hast knowledge of all customs and questions which are among the Jews: wherefore I beseech thee to hear me patiently.

4 As touching my life from my childhood, and what it was from the beginning among mine own nation at Jerusalem, know all the Jews,

5 Which knew me heretofore, even from my elders (if they would testify) that after the most strait sect of our religion, I lived a Pharisee.

6 And now I stand and am accused for the hope of the promise made of God unto our fathers.

7 Whereunto our twelve tribes, instantly serving God day and night, hope to come: for the which hope's sake, O king Agrippa, I am accused of the Jews.

8 Why should it be thought a thing incredible unto you, that God should raise again the dead?

¹ God doth not only turn away the counsel of the wicked, but also turneth it upon their own heads.

⁴ Festus thinking no such thing, even before kings, bringing to light the wickedness of the Jews, and Paul's innocency, doth marvellously confirm the church of God.

⁵ This Agrippa was Agrippa's son, whose death Luke spake of before, and Bernice was his sister.

⁶ The Romans use not to deliver any man to be punished before, &c.

⁷ The profane and wicked take an occasion to condemn the true doctrine, by reason of private controversies and contentions of men betwixt themselves: but the truth nevertheless abideth, in the mean season, safe and sure.

⁸ This profane man calleth the Jewish religion, superstition, and that before king Agrippa, but no marvel: for the rulers of provinces by reason of the majesty of the empire of Rome, used to prefer themselves before kings.

⁹ That is fulfilled in Paul, which the Lord before had told to Ananias of him, chap. 9. 15.

^c Gorgeously like a prince.

^f To Augustus. Good princes refused this name at the first, to wit, to be called lords, but afterward they admitted it, as we read of Tratanus.

¹ To have a skilful judge, is a great and singular gift of God.

² Paul divideth the history of his life into two times: for the first he calleth his adversaries witnesses: for the latter, the fathers and prophets.

² What I was, and where, and how I lived.

^b That my parents were Pharisees.

^c The sect of the Pharisees was the most exquisite amongst all the sects of the Jews, for it was better than all the rest.

³ There are three chief and principal witnesses of true doctrine, God, the true fathers, and the consent of the church.

⁴ He proveth the resurrection of the dead, first by the power of God, then by the resurrection of Christ, whereof he is a sufficient witness.

A. D. 62. 9 I also verily thought in myself, that I ought to do many contrary things against the name of Jesus of Nazareth.

10 * Which thing I also did in Jerusalem: for many of the saints I shut up in prison, having received authority of the high priests, and when they were put to death, I gave my ^d sentence.

11 And I punished them throughout all the synagogues, and ^e compelled them to blaspheme, and being more mad against them, I persecuted them, even unto strange cities.

12 At which time, even as I went to * Damascus with authority and commission from the high priests, 13 At mid-day, O king, I saw in the way a light from heaven, passing the brightness of the sun, shine round about me, and them which went with me.

14 So when we were all fallen to the earth, I heard a voice speaking unto me, and saying in the Hebrew tongue, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? It is hard for thee to kick against pricks.

15 Then I said, Who art thou, Lord? And he said, I am Jesus, whom thou persecutest.

16 But rise, and stand upon thy feet: for I have appeared unto thee for this purpose, to appoint thee a minister and a witness, both of the things which thou hast seen, and of the things in the which I will appear unto thee,

17 Delivering thee from this people, and from the Gentiles, unto whom now I send thee:

18 ^f To open their eyes, that they may turn from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto God: that they may receive forgiveness of sins, and inheritance among them which are sanctified by faith in me.

19 Wherefore, king Agrippa, I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision, 20 * But shewed first unto them of Damascus, and at Jerusalem, and throughout all the courts of Judea, and then to the Gentiles, that they should repent, and turn to God, and do works worthy amendment of life.

21 For this cause the Jews caught me in the temple, and went about to kill me.

22 Nevertheless, I obtained the help of God, and continue unto this day, witnessing both to ^g small and to great, saying none other things than those which the prophets and Moses did say should come,

23 To wit, that Christ should ^h suffer, and that he should be the ⁱ first that should rise from the dead, and should shew ^j light unto this people, and to the Gentiles.

24 ^k And as he thus answered for himself, Festus said with a loud voice, Paul, thou art besides thyself: much learning doth make thee mad. A. D. 62.

25 But he said, I am not mad, O noble Festus, but I speak the words of truth and soberness.

26 For the king knoweth of these things, before whom also I speak boldly: for I am persuaded that none of these things are hidden from him, for this thing was not done in a ^l corner.

27 ^m O king Agrippa, believest thou the prophets? I know that thou believest.

28 Then Agrippa said unto Paul, Almost thou persuadest me to become a christian.

29 Then Paul said, ⁿ I would to God that not only thou, but also all that hear me to-day, were both almost, and altogether such as I am, except these bonds.

30 ^o And when he had thus spoken, the king rose up, and the governor, and Bernice, and they that sat with them.

31 And when they were gone apart, they talked between themselves, saying, This man doth nothing worthy of death, nor of bonds.

32 Then said Agrippa unto Festus, This man might have been loosed, if he had not appealed unto Cæsar.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 Paul 7, 9 foretelleth the peril of the voyage, 11 but he is not bel. 14 They are tossed to and fro with the tem. st, 21, 41 and suffer shipwreck: 34 yet all safe and sound 44 escape to land.

NOW when it was concluded, that we should sail into Italy, they delivered both Paul, and certain other prisoners, unto a centurion, named Julius, of the band of Augustus.

2 And we * entered into a ship of Adramyttium, purposing to sail by the coasts of Asia, and launched forth, and had Aristarchus of Macedonia, a Thessalonian, with us. ^{2 Cor. 11. 15.}

3 And the next day we arrived at Sidon: and Julius courteously intreated Paul, and gave him liberty to go unto his friends, that they might refresh him.

4 And from thence we launched, and sailed hard by Cyprus, because the winds were contrary.

5 Then sailed we over the sea, by Cilicia, and Pamphylia, and came to Myra, a city in Lycia.

6 And there the centurion found a ship of Alexandria, sailing into Italy, and put us therein.

R r 7 And

^d I consented to, and allowed of their doing: for he was not a judge.

^e By extreme punishment.

^f The end of the gospel is to save them which are brought to the knowledge of Christ, and are justified and sanctified in him, being laid hold on by faith.

^g Paul alledgeth God to be author of the office of his apostleship, and his grace as a witness.

^h Christ is the end of the law and the prophets.

ⁱ To every one.

^j That Christ should not be such a king as the Jews dreamed of, but one appointed to bear our miseries, and the punishment of our sins.

^k The first of them which are raised from the dead.

^l Life, yea and that a most blessed life, which shall be endless: and this is set against darkness, which almost in all tongues signifieth sometimes death, and sometimes misery and calamity.

^m The wisdom of God is madness to fools; yet notwithstanding we must boldly vouch the truth.

ⁿ Secretly and privily.

^o Paul as it were forgetting himself that he stood a prisoner to defend his cause, forgetteth not the office of his apostleship.

^p I would to God that not only almost, but thoroughly and altogether, both thou and all that hear me this day, might be made as I am, my bonds only except.

^q Paul is solemnly quit, and yet not dismissed.

^r Paul with many other prisoners, and through the midst of many deaths, is brought to Rome, but yet by God's own hand as it were, and set forth and commended unto the world with many singular testimonies.

7 And when we had sailed slowly many days, and scarce were come against Cnidus, because the wind suffered us not, we sailed hard by Candie, near to ^a Salmone,

8 And with much ado sailed beyond it, and came unto a certain place called the Fair Havens, near unto the which was the city Lasea.

9 So when much time was spent, and sailing was now jeopardous, because also the ^b fast was now passed, Paul exhorted them,

10 And said unto them, Sirs, I see that this voyage will be with hurt and much damage, not of the lading and ship only, but also of our lives.

11 Nevertheless the centurion believed rather the governor and the master of the ship, than those things which were spoken of Paul.

12 And because the haven was not commodious to winter in, many took counsel to depart thence, if by any means they might attain to Phenice, there to winter, which is an haven of Candie, and lieth toward the south-west and by west, and north-west and by west.

13 And when the southern wind blew softly, they supposing to attain their purpose, loosed anchor, and sailed by Candie.

14 But anon after, there arose by ^c it a stormy wind called ^d Euroclydon.

15 And when the ship was caught, and could not resist the wind, we let her go, and were carried away.

16 And we ran under a little isle called Clauda, and had much ado to get the boat :

17 Which they took up, and used all help, undergirding the ship, fearing lest they should have fallen into fyrtes, and they struck sail, and so were carried.

18 The next day, when we were tossed with an exceeding tempest, they lightened the ship.

19 And the third day we cast out with our own hands the tackling of the ship.

20 And when neither sun nor stars in many days appeared, and no small tempest lay upon us, all hope that we should be saved, was then taken away.

21 But after long abstinence, Paul stood forth in the midst of them, and said, Sirs, ye should have hearkened to me, and not have looted from Candie: so should ye not have gained this hurt and loss.

22 But now I exhort you to be of good courage: for there shall be no loss of any man's life among you, save of the ship only.

23 For there stood by me this night the angel of God, whose I am, and whom I serve, 24 Saying, Fear not, Paul: for thou must be brought before Cæsar: and lo, God hath given unto thee freely all that sail with thee.

25 Wherefore, sirs, be of good courage: for I believe God, that it shall be so as it hath been told me.

26 Howbeit, we must be cast into a certain island.

27 And when the fourteenth night was come, as we were carried to and fro in the ^e Adriatic sea, about midnight, the ship-men deemed that some country^f approached unto them, 28 And founded, and found it twenty fathoms: and when they had gone a little further, they founded again, and found fifteen fathoms.

29 Then fearing lest they should have fallen into some rough places, they cast four anchors out of the stern, and wished that the day were gone.

30 Now as the mariners were about to flee out of the ship, and had let down the boat into the sea, under a colour as though they would have cast anchors out of the foreship, 31 Paul said unto the centurion, and the soldiers, Except these abide in the ship, ye cannot be safe.

32 Then the soldiers cut off the ropes of the boat, and let it fall away.

33 And when it began to be day, Paul exhorted them all to take meat, saying, This is the fourteenth day that ye have tarried, and continued fasting, receiving nothing:

34 Wherefore I exhort you to take meat: for this is for your safeguard: for there shall not an hair fall from the head of any of you.

35 And when he had thus spoken, he took bread, and gave thanks to God in presence of them all, and brake it, and began to eat.

36 Then were they all of good courage, and they also took meat.

37 Now we were in the ship in all two hundred threescore and sixteen souls.

38 And when they had eaten enough, they lightened the ship, and cast out the wheat into the sea.

39 And when it was day, they knew not the country, but they spied a certain ^g creek with a bank, into the which they were minded (if it were possible) to thrust in the ship.

40 So

^a Which was an high hill of Candie.

^b God's providence taketh not away the causes which God used as means, but rather ordereth and disposeth their right use, even then when he openeth an extraordinary issue.

^c This is meant of the Jews fast, which they kept in the feast of expiation, as we read, Lev. 23. 27. which fell in the seventh month, which we call October, and is not good for navigation or sailing.

^d Men cast themselves willingly into an infinite sort of dangers, when they chuse to follow their own wisdom, rather than God, speaking by the mouth of his servants.

^e By Candie, from whence their ship was driven by that means.

^f North-east wind.

^g The old proverb that none provide worse for themselves, than they which commit themselves to be governed only by their own wisdom.

^h God spareth the wicked for a time, for his elect and chosen's sake.

ⁱ The promise is made effectual through faith.

⁷ We attain and come to the promised and sure salvation through the midst of tempests, and death itself.

⁸ For Ptolomy writeth, that the Adriatic sea branch upon the east-shore of Cicilia.

⁹ That they drew near to some country.

¹⁰ There is none so foul an act, whereunto distrust and an evil conscience do not enforce men.

¹¹ Although the performing of God's promises doth not simply depend upon second causes, yet they make themselves unworthy of God's bountifulness, which do not embrace those means which God offereth them, either upon rashness or distrust.

¹² When the world trembleth, the faithful alone be not only quiet, but confirm others by their example.

¹³ This is a proverb which the Hebrews use, whereby it is meant, that they shall be safe, and not one of them perish.

¹⁴ Then are tempests most of all to be feared and looked for, when the port or haven is nearest.

¹⁵ A creek is a sea within land, as the Adriatic sea, and the Persian sea.

A. D. 63. 40 So when they had taken up the anchors, they committed the ship unto the sea, and loosed the rudder bands, and hoised up the main sail to the wind, and drew to the shore.

41 And when they fell into a place where two seas met, they thrust in the ship: and the forepart stuck fast, and could not be moved, but the hinder part was broken with the violence of the waves.

42 ¹² Then the soldiers counsel was to kill the prisoners, lest any of them, when he had swum out, should flee away.

43 ¹³ But the centurion, willing to save Paul, stayed them from this counsel, and commanded that they that could swim, should cast themselves first into the sea, and go out to land.

44 ¹⁴ And the others, some on boards, and some on certain pieces of the ship: and so it came to pass, that they came all safe to land.

C H A P. XXVIII.

2 The Barbarians courtesy towards Paul and his company. 3 A viper on Paul's hand: 6 he shaketh it off without harm. 8 Publius 9 and others are by him healed. 11 They depart from Melita, 16 and come to Rome. 17 Paul openeth to the Jews 20 the cause of his coming: 22 He preacheth Jesus 30 two years.

AND when they were come safe, then they knew that the isle was called ^a Melita.

2 And the barbarians shewed us no little kindness: for they kindled a fire, and received us every one, because of the present shower, and because of the cold.

3 ¹ And when Paul had gathered a number of sticks, and laid them on the fire, there came a viper out of the heat, and leapt on his hand.

4 ² Now when the barbarians saw the worm hang on his hand, they said among themselves, This man surely is a murderer, whom, though he hath escaped the sea, yet ^b vengeance hath not suffered to live.

5 But he shook off the worm into the fire, and felt no harm.

6 Howbeit they waited when he should have ^c swoln, or fallen down suddenly: ³ but after they had looked a great while, and saw no inconvenience come to him, they changed their minds, and said, That he was a God.

7 ⁴ In the same quarters, the chief man of the isle (whose name was Publius) had possessions: the same received us, and lodged us three days courteously.

¹ So is Isthmus called, because the sea toucheth it on both sides.

² There is no where more unfaithfulness and unthankfulness than in unbelievers.

³ God findeth, even amongst his enemies, them whose help he useth to preserve his.

⁴ The goodness of God overcometh man's malice.

^a That is it, which at this day we call Malta.

^b The godly are sure to have danger upon danger, but they have always a glorious issue.

^c Although adversity be the punishment of sin, yet seeing that God in punishing of men doth not always respect sin, they judge rashly, which either do not wait for the end, or do judge and esteem of men, according to prosperity or adversity.

^d Right and reason.

^e The Greek word signifieth, to be inflamed, or to swell; moreover, Dioscorides in his sixth book, ch. 38. witnesseth that the biting of a viper causeth a swelling of the body, and so saith Nicander, in his remedies against poisons.

^f There is nothing more unconstant every way, than they which are ignorant of true religion.

^g It never yet repented any man, that received the servant

8 And so it was, that the father of Publius lay sick of the fever, and of a bloody flux: to whom Paul entered in, and when he prayed, he laid his hands on him, and healed him.

9 ⁵ When this then was done, others also in the isle, which had diseases, came to him, and were healed,

10 ⁶ Which also did us great honour: and when we departed, they laded us with things necessary.

11 ¶ ⁷ Now after three months we departed in a ship of Alexandria, which had wintered in the isle, whose ^d badge was Castor and Pollux.

12 And when we arrived at Syracuse, we carried there three days.

13 And from thence we fetched a compass, and came to Rhegium, and after one day the south wind blew, and we came the second day to Puteoli:

14 ⁸ Where we found brethren, and were desired to tarry with them seven days, and so we went toward Rome.

15 ¶ ⁹ And from thence, when the brethren heard of us, they came to meet us at the ^e market of Appius, and at the Three Taverns, whom, when Paul saw, he thanked God, and waxed bold.

16 So when we came to Rome, the centurion delivered the prisoners to the general captain: but Paul was suffered to dwell by ^f himself with a soldier that kept him.

17 ¹⁰ And the third day after, Paul called the chief of the Jews together: and when they were come, he said unto them, Men and brethren, though I have committed nothing against the people, or laws of the fathers, yet was I delivered prisoner from Jerusalem into the hands of the Romans:

18 Who, when they had examined me, would have let me go, because there was no cause of death in me.

19 ¹¹ But when the Jews spake contrary, I was constrained to appeal unto Cæsar, not because I had aught to accuse my nation of.

20 For this cause therefore have I called for you, to see you, and to speak with you: for that hope of Israel's sake, I am bound with this chain.

21 Then they said unto him, We neither received letters out of Judea concerning thee, neither came any of the brethren that shewed or spake any evil of thee.

22 But

of God, were he never so miserable and poor.

⁵ Although Paul were a captive, yet the virtue of God was not captive.

⁶ God doth well to strangers for his children's sake.

⁷ Idols do not defile the saints, which do in no wise consent unto them.

^d So they used to deck the fore part of their ships, whereupon their ships were called by such names.

^e God boweth and bendeth the hearts even of prophane men, as it pleaseth him to favour his.

^f God never suffereth his to be afflicted above their strength.

^g Appius's way was a pavement made by Appius the blind, with the help of his soldiers, long and broad, and runneth out toward the sea, and there were three taverns in it.

^h Not in a common prison, but in a house which he hired for himself.

ⁱ Paul in every place remembereth himself to be an apostle.

^j We may use the means which God giveth us, but so that we seek the glory of God, and not ourselves.

A. D. 63. 22 But we will hear of thee what thou thinkest: for as concerning this sect, we know that every where it is spoken against.

23 ¹² And when they had appointed him a day, there came many unto him into his lodging, to whom he expounded, ¹³ testifying the kingdom of God, and persuading them those things that concern Jesus, both out of the law of Moses, and out of the prophets, from morning to night.

24 ¹⁴ And some were persuaded with the things which were spoken, and some believed not.

25 Therefore when they agreed not among themselves, they departed, after that Paul had spoken one word, to wit, Well spake the Holy Ghost by Esaias the prophet unto our fathers,

26 ¹⁵ Saying, ¹⁶ Go unto this people, and say, By hearing ye shall hear, and shall not understand: and seeing, ye shall see, and not perceive:

¹² The law and the gospel agree well together.

¹³ By good reasons; and proved, that the kingdom of God, foretold them by the prophets, was come.

¹⁴ The gospel is a favour of life to them that believe, and a favour of death to them that be disobedient.

¹⁵ The unbelievers do willingly resist the truth, and yet not by chance.

¹⁶ They made as though they saw not that which they

27 For the heart of this people is waxed fat, and their ears are dull of hearing, and with their eyes have they ¹⁷ winked, lest they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and understand with their hearts, and should return that I might heal them.

28 ¹⁸ Be it known therefore unto you, that this salvation of God is sent to the Gentiles, and they shall hear it.

29 ¹⁹ And when he had said these things, the Jews departed, and had great reasoning among themselves.

30 ²⁰ And Paul remained two years full in an house hired for himself, and received all that came in unto him, 31 Preaching the kingdom of God, and teaching those things which concern the Lord Jesus Christ, with all boldness of speech, without let.

saw against their wills: yea they did see, but they would not see.

¹⁸ The unbelief of the reprobate and cast-aways, cannot cause the truth of God to be of none effect.

¹⁹ Not the gospel, but the contempt of the gospel, is the cause of strife and debate.

²⁰ The word of God cannot be bound.

The Epistle of the Apostle PAUL to the ROMANS.

CHAP. I.

A. D. 63.

1 He first sheweth on what authority his apostleship standeth. 15 Then he commendeth the gospel, 16 by which God setteth out his power to those that are saved, 17 by faith, 21 but were guilty of wicked unthankfulness to God: 26 for which his wrath was worthily poured on them, 29 so that they ran headlong to all kind of sins.

PAUL ¹ a ² servant of JESUS CHRIST, called to be an ³ apostle, ⁴ put apart to preach the gospel of God,

2 Which he had promised afore by his prophets in the holy scriptures)

3 Concerning his ⁵ Son Jesus Christ our

¹ The first part of the epistle, containing a most profitable preface, unto ver. 16.

² He moving the Romans to give diligent ear unto him, in that he sheweth that he cometh not in his own name, but as God's messenger unto the Gentiles, entreateth with them of the weighty matter that is promised long since of God, by many fit witnesses, and now at the length performed indeed.

³ Minister, for this word Servant is not taken in this place as for against this word Freeman, but declareth his ministry and office.

⁴ Whereas he said before in a general term, that he was a minister, now he cometh to a more special name, and saith he is an apostle, and that he took not upon him this office of his own head, but being called of God, and therefore in this his writing to the Romans, doth nothing but his duty.

⁵ Appointed of God to preach the gospel.

⁶ By declaring the sum of the doctrine of the gospel, he stirreth up the Romans to good consideration of the matter whereof he entreateth: So then he sheweth that Christ (who is the very substance and sum of the gospel) is the only Son of God the Father, who as touching his humanity, is made Lord (which was ⁷ made of the seed of David according to the flesh, 4 And ⁸ declared ⁹ mightily to be the Son of God, touching the Spirit of sanctification by the resurrection from the dead)

5 ¹⁰ By whom we have received ¹¹ grace and apostleship (that ¹² obedience might be given unto the faith) for his name ¹³ among all the Gentiles,

6 Among whom ye be also the ¹⁴ called of Jesus Christ:

7 To all you that be at Rome beloved of God, called to be saints: ¹⁵ Grace be with you, and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

8 First of the seed of David, but touching his divine and spiritual nature, whereby he sanctified himself, is begotten of the Father from everlasting, as by his mighty resurrection manifestly appeareth.

⁴ This is a plain testimony of the person of Christ, that he is but one, and of his two natures, and their properties.

⁵ Which took flesh of the virgin, David's daughter.

⁶ As he is man: for this word, Flesh, by the figure Synecdoche, is taken for man.

⁷ Shewed and made manifest.

⁸ The divine and mighty power is set against the weakness of the flesh, for that overcame death.

⁹ Of whom.

¹⁰ This marvellous, liberal and gracious gift, which is given me, the least of all the saints, to preach, &c. Eph. 3. 8.

¹¹ That men through faith might obey God.

¹² For his name's sake.

¹³ Which through God's goodness are Christ's.

¹⁴ God's free good will. By peace, the Hebrews mean a prosperous success in all things.

A. D. 63.

8 + First I thank my God through Jesus Christ for you all, because your faith is ^p published throughout the ⁹ whole world.

9 For God is my witness (whom I serve in my ^r spirit in the ^s gospel of his Son) that without ceasing I make mention of you

10 Always in my prayers, beseeching that by some means, one time or other, I might have a prosperous journey by the will of God, to come unto you.

11 For I long to see you, that I might bestow among you some spiritual gift, that you might be strengthened:

12 That is, that ^t I might be comforted together with you, through our mutual faith, both yours and mine.

13 Now my brethren, I would that ye should not be ignorant, how that I have oftentimes purposed to come unto you (but have been let hitherto) that I might have some fruit also among you, as I have among the other Gentiles.

14 I am debtor both to the Grecians, and to the Barbarians, both to the wise men and to the unwise.

15 Therefore, as much as in me is, I am ready to preach the gospel to you also that are at ^u Rome.

16 For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: ^v for it is the ^x power of God unto salvation, to every one that believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the ^y Grecian.

17 ^z For by it the righteousness of God is revealed from ² faith to faith: ³ as it is written, * The just shall live by faith.

18 ⁴ For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against ⁵ all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, which withhold the ⁶ truth in unrighteousness.

19 ⁷ Forasmuch as that, which may be known of God, is manifest in ⁸ them: for God hath shewed it unto them.

20 For the invisible things of him, that is, his eternal power and Godhead, are seen by the creation of the world, being ^d considered in his works, to the intent that they should be without excuse:

21 Because that when they knew God, they glorified him not as God, neither were thankful, but became ^f vain in their thoughts, and their foolish heart was full of darkness.

22 When they ^g professed themselves to be wise, they became fools:

23 For they turned the glory of the ^h incorruptible God to the similitude of the image of a corruptible man, and of birds, and four-footed beasts, and of creeping things.

24 ¹⁰ Wherefore ¹ also God ^k gave them up to their hearts lusts, unto uncleanness, to defile their own bodies between themselves:

25 Which turned the truth of God unto a lye, and worshipped and served the creature, forsaking the Creator, which is blessed for ever, Amen.

26 For this cause God gave them up to vile affections: for even their women did change the natural use into that which is against nature.

27 And likewise also the men left the natural use of the woman, and burned in their lust one toward another, and man with man wrought filthiness, and received in themselves such ^l recompence of their error, as was meet.

28 ¹¹ For as they regarded not to acknowledge God, even so God delivered them up unto a ^m reprobate mind, to do those things which are not convenient:

29 Being full of all unrighteousness, fornication, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness, full of envy, of murder, of debate, of deceit, taking all things in the evil part, whisperers,

30 Backbiters, haters of God, doers of wrong, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents, without understanding, ⁿ covenant-

⁴ He procureth their favourable patience, in that he reckoneth up their true commendation, and his true apostolic good will toward them, confirmed by taking God himself to witness.

^p Because your faith is such, that it is commended in all churches.

⁹ In all churches.

^r Very willingly, and with all my heart.

^s In preaching his Son.

^t Though Paul were never so excellent, yet by teaching the church, he might be instructed by it.

^u He meaneth all them that dwell at Rome, though some of them were not Romans. Look the end of the epistle.

^v The second part of the epistle unto the beginning of the ninth chapter. Now the whole end and purpose of the disputation is this: that is to say, to shew that there is but one way to attain unto salvation (which is set forth unto us of God in the gospel, without any difference of nations) and that is Jesus Christ apprehended by faith.

^x God's mighty and effectual instrument to save men by.

^y When this word Grecian is set against this word Jew, then doth it signify a Gentile.

^z The confirmation of the former proposition. We are taught in the gospel, that we are justified before God by faith, which increaseth daily; and therefore also saved.

² From faith which increaseth daily.

³ The proof as well of the first as of the second proposition, out of Habakkuk, who attributeth and giveth unto faith, both justice and life before God.

⁴ Another confirmation of that principal question. All men being considered within themselves, or without Christ, are guilty both of ungodliness and also unrighteousness, and therefore are subject to condemnation. Therefore must they needs seek righteousness in some other.

⁵ Against all kinds of ungodliness.

^b By truth, Paul meaneth all the light that is left in man since his fall, not as though they being led thereby were able to come into favour with God, but that their own reason might condemn them of wickedness both against God and man.

^g Their ungodliness he proveth hereby, that although all men have a most clear and evident glass wherein to behold the everlasting and almighty nature of God, even in his creatures, yet have they fallen away from those principles, to most foolish and fond devices of their own brains, in constituting and appointing the service of God.

^h In their hearts.

^d Thou seest not God, and yet thou acknowledgest him as God by his works, Cic.

^e They did not honour him with that honour and service which was meet for his everlasting power and Godhead.

^f As if he said, became so mad of themselves.

^g Or, thought themselves.

^h For the true God they took another.

¹⁰ The unrighteousness of men he setteth forth, first in this, that even against nature following their lusts, they defiled themselves one with another, by the just judgment of God.

¹ The contempt of religion is the fountain of all mischief.

^k As a just judge.

^l A meet reward for their deserts.

¹¹ He proveth the unrighteousness of man by a large rehearsal of many kinds of wickedness, from which (if not from all, yet at the least from many of them) no man is altogether free.

^m Into a mad and froward mind, whereby it cometh to pass, that the conscience being once put out, and having almost no more remorse of sin, men run headlong into all kind of mischief.

ⁿ Unmindful of their covenants and bargains.

A. D. 60. venant-breakers, without natural affection, such as can never be appeased, mercileis.
 31 Which men, though they knew the law of God, how that they which commit such things are worthy of death, yet not only do the same, but also favour them that do them.

C H A P. II.

1 He bringeth all before the judgment-seat of God.
 12 The excuse that the Gentiles might pretend, 14 of ignorance, he taketh quite away. 17 He argueth the Jews with the written law, 23 in which they boasted: 27 and so maketh both Jew and Gentile alike.

Therefore thou art inexcusable, O man, whosoever thou art that condemnest: for in that that thou condemnest another, thou condemnest thyself: for thou that condemnest, doest the same things.

2 But we know that the judgment of God is according to truth, against them which commit such things.

3 And thinkest thou this, O thou man, that condemnest them which do such things, and doest the same, that thou shalt escape the judgment of God?

4 Or despisest thou the riches of his bountiffulness, and patience, and long sufferance, not knowing that the bountiffulness of God leadeth thee to repentance?

5 But thou, after thine hardness, and heart that cannot repent, heapest up as a treasure unto thyself wrath against the day of wrath, and of the declaration of the just judgment of God.

6 Who will reward every man according to his works:

7 That is, to them, which through patience in well doing, seek glory, and honour, and immortality, everlasting life:

8 But unto them that are contentious and disobey the truth, and obey unrighteousness, shall be indignation and wrath.

9 Tribulation and anguish shall be upon the soul of every man that doeth evil: of the Jew first, and also of the Grecian.

10 But to every man that doeth good, shall be glory, and honour, and peace: to the Jew first, and also to the Grecian.

11 For there is no respect of persons with God.

12 For as many as have sinned without the law, shall perish also without the law: and as many as have sinned in the law, shall be judged by the law,

13 (For the hearers of the law are not righteous before God: but the doers of the law shall be justified.

14 For when the Gentiles which have not the law, do by nature the things contained in the law, they having not the law, are a law unto themselves:

15 Which shew the effect of the law written in their hearts, their conscience also bearing witness, and their thoughts accusing one another, or excusing.)

16 At that day, when God shall judge the secrets of men by Jesus Christ, according to my gospel.

17 Behold thou art called a Jew, and restest in the law, and gloriest in God,

18 And knowest his will, and triest the things that dissent from it, in that thou art instructed by the law,

19 And persuadest thyself that thou art a guide of the blind, a light of them which are in darkness, 20 An instructor of them which lack discretion, a teacher of the unlearned, which hast the form of knowledge, and of the truth in the law.

21 Thou therefore, which teachest another, teachest thou not thyself? thou that teachest, a man should not steal, dost thou steal?

22 Thou

By the law of God he meaneth that which the philosophers called the law of nature, and the lawyers themselves termed the law of nations.

Are fellows and partakers with them in their wickedness, and beside that, commend them which do amiss.

He convinceth them which would seem to be exempt out of the number of other men, because they reprehend other men's faults, and saith, that they are least of all to be excused, for if they were well and narrowly searched (as God surely doth) they themselves would be found guilty in those things which they reprehend and punish in others. So that in condemning others, they pronounce sentence against themselves.

Paul alledgeth no places of scripture, for he reasoneth generally against all men. But he bringeth such reasons as every man is persuaded of in his mind, so that the devil himself is not able to pluck them clean out.

Considering and judging things aright, and not by any outward show.

A vehement and grievous crying out against them that please themselves, because they see more than others do, and yet are no whit better than others are.

Which thou givest thyself to pleasures, thinking to increase thy goods, thou shalt find God's wrath.

The ground of the former disputation, That both the Jews and Gentiles have altogether need of righteousness.

Glory which followeth good works, which he layeth not out before us, as though there were any that could attain to salvation by his own strength, but, by laying this condition of salvation before us, which no man can perform, to bring men to Christ, who alone justifieth the believers, as he himself concludeth, chap. 2. 21, 22. following.

By truth, he meaneth that knowledge which we have of nature.

God's indignation against sinners, which shall quickly be kindled.

God doth not measure men either by their blood or by their country, either to receive them, or to cast them away.

He applieth that general accusation of mankind, particularly both to the Gentiles and to the Jews.

He preventeth an objection which might be made by the Jews, whom the law doth not excuse, but condemn, because that not the hearing of the law, but the keeping of the law, doth justify.

Shall be pronounced just before God's judgment-seat; which is true indeed if any such could be found that had fulfilled the law. But seeing Abraham was not justified by the law, but by faith, it followeth that no man can be justified by works.

He preventeth an objection which might be made by the Gentiles, who although they have not the law of Moses, yet they have no reason whereby they may excuse their wickedness, in that they have somewhat written in their hearts instead of a law, as men, that forbid and punish some things as wicked, and command and commend other some as good.

Not simply, but in comparison of the Jews.

Commend honest things, and forbid dishonest.

This knowledge is a natural knowledge.

God deferreth many judgments, which notwithstanding he will execute at their convenient time by Jesus Christ, with a most strict examination, not only of words and deeds, but of thoughts also, be they never so hidden or secret.

As this my doctrine witnesseth, which I am appointed to preach.

He proveth by the testimony of David, and the other prophets, that God bestowed greatest benefits upon the Jews in giving them also the law, but that they are the most unthankful and unkindest of all men.

Canst try and discern what things swerve from God's will.

The way to teach and frame others in the knowledge of the truth.

As though he said, that the Jews under a colour of outward serving of God, challenged all to themselves, as if indeed they did nothing less than observe the law.

A. D. 60.

1 On all the things that were written.

22 Thou that sayest, a man should not commit adultery, dost thou commit adultery? thou that abhorrest idols, committest thou sacrilege?

23 Thou that gloriest in the law, through breaking the law, dishonourest thou God?

24 For the name of God is blasphemed among the Gentiles through you, * as it is written.

25 ⁹ For circumcision verily is profitable, if thou do the law: but if thou be a transgressor of the law, thy circumcision is made uncircumcision.

26 Therefore, if the ¹ uncircumcision keep the ordinances of the law, shall not his ¹ uncircumcision be counted for circumcision?

27 And shall not ¹ uncircumcision which is by nature, (if it keep the law) condemn thee which by the ¹ letter and circumcision art a transgressor of the law?

28 For he is not a Jew which is one ¹ outward: neither is that circumcision which is outward in the flesh:

29 But he is a Jew which is one within, and the circumcision is of the heart, in the ^x Spirit, not in the letter, whose praise is not of men, but of God.

CHAP. III.

1 He giveth the Jews some ² preferment, for the covenant's sake, 4 but yet such as wholly dependeth on God's mercy. 9 That both Jews and Gentiles are sinners, 11 he proveth by scripture: 19 and shewing the use of the law, 28 he concludeth that we are justified by faith.

WHAT ¹ is then the preferment of the Jew? or what is the profit of circumcision?

2 Much every manner of way: for ^a chiefly, because unto them were of credit committed the ^b oracles of God.

3 For what, though some did not ^c believe? shall their unbelief make the ^d faith of God without effect?

⁹ He precisely preventeth their objection, which set an holiness in circumcision, and the outward observation of the law. So that he sheweth that the outward circumcision, if it be separated from the inward, doth not only not justify, but also condemn them that are indeed circumcised, of whom it requireth that which it signifieth, that is to say, cleanness of the heart, and the whole life, according to the commandment of the law, so that if there be a man uncircumcised according to the flesh, who is circumcised in heart, he is far better and more to be accounted of, than any Jew that is circumcised according to the flesh only.

^a This is the figure Metonymy, for, If the uncircumcised.

^b The state and condition of the uncircumcised.

^c He which is uncircumcised by nature and blood.

^d Paul useth oftentimes to set the letter against the spirit. But in this place, the circumcision which is according to the letter, is the cutting off of the foreskin; but the circumcision of the Spirit is the circumcision of the heart, that is to say, the spiritual end of the ceremony is true holiness and righteousness, whereby the people of God are known from prophane and heathenish men.

^e By the outward ceremony only.

^x Whose force is inward, and in the heart.

¹ The first meeting with, or preventing an objection of the Jews. What then have the Jews no more preferment than the Gentiles? yes, that have they, saith the apostle on God's behalf, for he committed the tables of the covenant to them, so that the unbelief of a few cannot cause the whole nation without exception to be cast away of God, who is true, and who also useth their unworthiness to commend and set forth his goodness.

¹ The Jews state and condition was chiefest.

^b Words.

^c Brake the covenant.

^d The faith that God gave.

^e That thy justice might be plainly seen.

^f Forasmuch as thou shewest forth an evident token of 4 God forbid: yea, let God be true, and every man a liar, as it is written, That thou mightest be ^e justified in thy words, and overcome ^f when thou art judged.

5 ² Now if our ² unrighteousness commend the righteousness of God, what shall we say? Is God unrighteous which punisheth? (I speak as ^h a man.)

6 God forbid: else how shall God judge the world?

7 ³ For if the ¹ verity of God hath more abounded through my lye unto his glory, why am I yet condemned as a sinner?

8 And (as we are blamed, and as some affirm, that we say) why do we not evil, that good may come thereof? whose damnation is just.

9 ⁴ What then? are we more excellent? No, in no wise: for we have already proved, that all, both Jews and Gentiles, are ^{} under sin, 10 As it is written, ^{} There is none righteous, no not one. * Pf. 14. 1, 3. and 53. 1, 3.

11 There is none that understandeth: there is none that seeketh God.

12 They have all gone out of the way: they have been made altogether unprofitable: there is none that doeth good, no not one.

13 ^{} Their throat is an open sepulchre: they have used their tongues to deceit: ^{} the poison of asps is under their lips. * Pf. 5. 10. - Ps. 143. 3.

14 ^{*} Whose mouth is full of cursing and bitterness. * Ps. 10. 7.

15 ^{*} Their feet are swift to shed blood. * Isa. 55. 7.

16 Destruction and calamity are in their ways:

17 And the ¹ way of peace they have not known.

18 ^{*} The fear of God is not before their eyes. * Ps. 36. 1;

19 ⁵ Now we know that whatsoever the ^m law saith, it saith it ⁶ to them which are under the law, that every mouth may be stopped, and all the world be ⁿ subject to the judgment of God.

20 Therefore thy righteousness, constancy and faith, by preserving him who had broken his covenant.

² Another prevention issuing out of the former answer: that the justice of God is in such sort commended and set forth by our unrighteousness, that therefore God forgetteth not that he is the judge of the world, and therefore a most severe revenger of unrighteousness.

⁵ Treachery, and all the fruits thereof.

^h Therefore I speak not these words in mine own person, as though I thought so, but this is the talk of man's wisdom, which is not subject to the will of God.

³ A third objection, which addeth somewhat to the former, If sins do turn to the glory of God, they are not only not to be punished, but we ought rather to give ourselves to them: which blasphemy Paul contenting himself to curse and detest, pronounceth just punishment against such blasphemers.

⁴ Another answer to the first objection, that the Jews, if they be considered in themselves, are no better than other men are; as it hath been long since pronounced by the mouth of the prophets.

^k Are guilty of sin.

⁵ He proveth that this grievous accusation which is uttered by David and Isaiah, doth properly concern the Jews.

^m The law of Moses.

⁶ A conclusion of all the former disputation, from the eighteenth verse of the first chapter. Therefore saith the apostle, No man can hope to be justified by any law, whether it be that general law, or the particular law of Moses, and therefore to be saved, seeing it appeareth (as we have already proved) by comparing the law and man's life together, that all men are sinners, and therefore worthy of condemnation in the sight of God.

ⁿ Be found guilty before God.

A. D. 60. 20 Therefore by the works of the law shall no flesh be justified in his sight: for by the law cometh the knowledge of sin.

21 But now is the righteousness of God made manifest without the law, having witness of the law and of the prophets, 22 To wit, the righteousness of God by the faith of Jesus Christ unto all, and upon all that believe.

23 For there is no difference: for all have sinned, and are deprived of the glory of God.

24 And are justified freely by his grace, through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus,

25 Whom God hath set forth to be a reconciliation through faith in his blood, to declare his righteousness, by the forgiveness of the sins that are passed, 26 Through the patience of God, to shew at this time his righteousness, that he might be just, and a justifier of him which is of the faith of Jesus.

27 Where is then the rejoicing? It is excluded. By what law? of works? Nay: but by the law of faith.

28 Therefore we conclude, that a man is justified by faith, without the works of the law.

29 God, is he the God of the Jews only, and not of the Gentiles also? Yes, even of the Gentiles also.

30 For it is one God, who shall justify circumcision of faith, and uncircumcision through faith.

^a By that, that the law can by us be performed.

^b Flesh here taken for man, as in many other places, and furthermore hath here greater force: for it is put to shew the contrariety betwixt God and man. As if you would say, Man who is nothing else but a piece of flesh, defiled with sin, and God who is most pure and most perfect in himself.

^c Absolved before the judgment-seat of God.

^d A secret setting of the righteousness which is before men, be they never so just, against the justice which can stand before God. Now there is no righteousness can stand before God, but the righteousness of Christ only.

^e Therefore saith the apostle, Lest that men should perish, God doth now exhibit that which he promised of old, that is to say, a way whereby we may be justified and saved before him without the law.

^f The matter, as it were, of this righteousness is Christ Jesus, apprehended by faith, and for this end offered to all people, as without him all people are shut out from the kingdom of God.

^g Which we give to Jesus Christ, or which resteth upon him.

^h By the glory of God, is meant that mark which we all shoot at, that is, everlasting life, which standeth in that we are made partakers of the glory of God.

ⁱ Therefore this righteousness touching us, is altogether freely given, for it standeth upon those things which we have not done ourselves, but such as Christ hath suffered for our sakes, to deliver us from sin.

^j Of his free gift, and mere liberality.

^k God then is the author of that free justification, because it pleased him: and Christ is he, which suffered punishment for our sins, and in whom we have remission of them: and the mean whereby we apprehend Christ, is faith. To be short, the end is the setting forth of the goodness of God, that by this means it may appear, that he is merciful indeed, and constant in his promises, as he that freely, and of mere grace, justifieth the believers.

^l This name of blood, calleth us back to the figure of the old sacrifices, the truth and substance of which sacrifice is in Christ.

^m Of those sins which we committed, when we were his enemies.

ⁿ Through his patience and suffering nature.

^o To wit, when Paul wrote this.

^p That he might be found exceeding true and faithful.

^q Making him just and without blame, by imputing Christ's righteousness unto him.

^r Of the number of them which by faith lay hold upon Christ: contrary to whom are they, which look to be saved

31 Do we then make the law of none effect through faith? God forbid: yea, we establish the law. A. D. 60.

C H A P. IV.

He proveth that which he said before of faith, by the example of Abraham, 3, 6 and the testimony of the scripture: and ten times in this chapter he beateth upon this word imputation.

WHAT shall we say then, that Abraham our father had found concerning the flesh?

2 For if Abraham were justified by works, he hath wherein to rejoice, but not with God.

3 For what faith the scripture? Abraham believed God, and it was counted to him for righteousness.

4 Now to him that worketh, the wages is not counted by favour, but by debt.

5 But to him that worketh not, but believeth in him that justifieth the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteousness.

6 Even as David declareth the blessedness of the man unto whom God imputeth righteousness without works, saying,

7 Blessed are they, whose iniquities are forgiven, and whose sins are covered.

8 Blessed is the man, to whom the Lord imputeth not sin.

9 Cant.

by circumcision, that is, by the law.

¹¹ An argument to prove this conclusion, that we are justified by faith, without works, taken from the end of justification. The end of justification is the glory of God alone: therefore we are justified by faith without works: for if we were alone justified, either by our own works only, or partly by faith, and partly by works, the glory of this justification should not be wholly given to God.

¹² By what doctrine? now the doctrine of works hath this condition joined with it, If thou doest: and the doctrine of faith, hath this condition, If thou believest.

¹³ Another argument of an absurdity; if justification depended upon the law of Moses, then should God be a Saviour to the Jews only. Again, if he should save the Jews after one sort, and the Gentiles after another, he should not be one, and like himself. Therefore he will justify both of them, after one self-same manner, that is to say, by faith. Moreover, this argument must be joined to that which followeth next, that this conclusion may be firm and evident.

¹⁴ God is said to be their God, after the manner of the scripture, whom he loveth and tendereth.

¹⁵ The circumcised.

¹⁶ The taking away of an objection: yet is not the law taken away therefore, but is rather established, as it shall be declared in his proper place.

¹⁷ Vain, void, to no purpose, and of no force.

¹⁸ We make it effectual and strong.

¹⁹ A new argument of great weight, taken from the example of Abraham, the father of all believers. And this is the proposition, If Abraham be considered in himself by his works, he hath deserved nothing wherein to rejoice with God.

²⁰ By works, as appeareth in the next verse.

²¹ A preventing of an objection. Abraham may well rejoice, and extol himself amongst men, but not with God.

²² A confirmation of the proposition. Abraham was justified by imputation of faith; therefore freely without any respect of his works.

²³ The first proof of the confirmation, taken of contraries. To him that serveth any thing by his labour, the wages is not counted by favour, but by debt. But to him that hath done nothing, but believeth in him which promiseth freely, faith is imputed.

²⁴ To him that hath deserved any thing by his work.

²⁵ Is not reckoned nor given him.

²⁶ That maketh him, which is wicked in himself, just in Christ.

²⁷ Another proof of the same confirmation. David putteth blessedness in free pardon of sins; therefore justification also.

A. D. 60. 9 ⁶ Came this ⁶ blessedness then upon the circumcision only, or upon the uncircumcision also? For we say, that faith was imputed unto Abraham for righteousness.

10 ⁷ How was it then imputed? when he was circumcised, or uncircumcised? Not when he was circumcised, but when he was uncircumcised:

11 ⁸ After he received the ¹ sign of circumcision, as the ² seal of the righteousness of the faith which he had when he was uncircumcised, ³ that he should be the father of all them that believe, not being circumcised, that righteousness might be imputed to them also:

12 ¹⁰ And the father of circumcision, not unto them only which are of the circumcision, but unto them also that walk in the steps of the faith of our father Abraham, which he had when he was uncircumcised.

13 ¹¹ For the promise that he should be the ¹ heir of the world, was not given to Abraham, or to his seed, through the ¹ law, but through the righteousness of faith.

14 ¹² For if they which are of the ^k law, be heirs, faith is made void, and the promise is made of none effect.

15 ¹³ For the law causeth wrath: for where no law is, there is no transgression.

16 ¹⁴ Therefore it is by faith, that it might come by grace, and the promise might be sure to all the ¹ seed, ¹⁵ not to that only which is of the law: but also to that which is of the faith of Abraham, who is the father of us all,

17 (As it is written, I have made thee a ¹⁶ father of many nations) even before ^m God, whom he believed, who ⁿ quickeneth the dead, and

^o calleth those things which be not, as though they were: A. D. 60.

18 ¹⁷ Which Abraham, above hope, believed under hope, that he should be the father of many nations: according to that which was spoken to him, So shall thy seed be.

19 And he, ^p not weak in the faith, considered not his own body, which was now ^q dead, being almost an hundred years old, neither the deadness of Sarah's womb:

20 Neither did he doubt of the promise of God through unbelief, but was strengthened in the faith, and gave ^r glory to God:

21 Being ^s fully assured, that he which had promised, was also able to do it.

22 And therefore it was imputed to him for righteousness.

23 ¹⁸ Now it is not written for him only, that it was imputed to him for righteousness,

24 But also for us, to whom it shall be imputed for righteousness, which believe in him that raised up Jesus our Lord from the dead, 25 Who was delivered to death for our ^t sins, and is risen again for our justification.

C H A P. V.

¹ He amplifieth ² Christ's righteousness, which is laid hold on by faith, ⁵ who was given for the weak, ⁸ and sinful. ¹⁴ He compareth Christ with Adam, ¹⁷ death with life, ²⁰ and the law with grace.

THEN being ¹ justified by faith, we have peace toward God through our Lord Jesus Christ.

T t

2 By

⁶ A new proposition. That this manner of justification belongeth both to the uncircumcised, and also to the circumcised; as is declared in the person of Abraham.

⁶ This saying of David, wherein he pronounceth them blessed.

⁷ He proveth that it belongeth to the uncircumcised (for there was no doubt of the circumcised) in this sort: Abraham was justified in circumcision, therefore this justification belongeth also to the uncircumcised. Nay it doth not appertain to the circumcised in respect of their circumcision, much less are the uncircumcised shut out for their uncircumcision.

⁸ A preventing of an objection. Why then was Abraham circumcised, if he were already justified? That the gift of righteousness (saith he) might be confirmed in him.

¹ Circumcision, which is a sign; as we say, the sacrament of baptism, for baptism which is a sacrament.

² Circumcision was called before, a sign, in respect of the outward ceremony: now Paul sheweth the force and substance of that sign, that is, to what end it is used, to wit, not only to signify, but also to seal up the righteousness of faith, whereby we come to possess Christ himself; for the Holy Ghost worketh that inwardly indeed, which the sacraments, being joined with the word, do represent.

³ An applying of the example of Abraham to the uncircumcised believers, whose father also he maketh Abraham.

⁵ An applying of the same example to the circumcised believers, whose father Abraham is, but yet by faith.

¹⁴ A reason why the seed of Abraham is to be esteemed by faith, because that Abraham himself through faith was made partaker of that promise, whereby he was made the father of all nations.

¹⁷ That all the nations of the world should be his children; or by the world, may be understood the land of Canaan.

¹⁸ For works that he had done, or upon this condition that he should fulfil the law.

²⁰ A double confirmation of that reason: the one is, that the promise cannot be apprehended by the law, and therefore it should be frustrate: the other, that the condition of faith should be joined in vain to that promise which should be apprehended by works.

^k If they be heirs which have fulfilled the law.

¹³ A reason of the first confirmation, why the promise cannot be apprehended by the law: because that the law doth not reconcile God and us, but rather denounceth his anger against us, for so much as no man can observe it.

¹⁴ The conclusion of this argument: The salvation and justification of the posterity of Abraham (that is, of the church which is gathered together of all people) proceedeth of faith, which layeth hold on the promise made unto Abraham, and which promise Abraham himself first of all laid hold on.

¹⁵ That is to say, not only of them which believe and are also circumcised according to the law, but, of them also which without circumcision, and in respect of faith only, are counted amongst the children of Abraham.

¹⁶ This fatherhood is spiritual, depending only upon the virtue of God, who made the promise.

^m Before God, that is, by a spiritual kindred which hath place before God, and maketh us acceptable to God.

ⁿ Who restoreth to life.

^o With whom those things are already, which as yet are not indeed, as he that can with a word make what he will of nothing.

¹⁷ A description of true faith, wholly resting in the power of God, and his good will, set forth in the example of Abraham.

^p Very strong and constant.

^q Void of strength, and unmeet to get children.

^r Acknowledged and praised God, as most gracious and true.

^s A description of true faith.

¹⁸ The rule of justification is always one, both in Abraham, and in all the faithful: that is to say, faith in God, who after that there was made a full satisfaction for our sins in Christ our mediator, raised him from the dead, that we also being justified, might be saved in him.

^t To pay the ransom for our sins.

¹ Another argument taken of the effects: we are justified with that which truly appeaseth our conscience before God: but faith in Christ doth appease our conscience and not the law, as it was before said, therefore by faith we are justified, and not by the law.

A. D. 2 ^a By whom also through faith, we have had this access into this grace, ^b wherein we stand, ^c and ^d rejoice under the hope of the glory of God.

3 ^e Neither that only, but also we ^f rejoice in tribulations, ^g knowing that tribulation bringeth forth patience:

4 And patience experience, and experience hope:

5 ^h And hope maketh not ashamed, because the ⁱ love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost, which is given unto us.

6 ^j For Christ, when we were yet of no strength, at his ^k time died for the ^l ungodly.

7 ^m Doubtless one will scarce die ⁿ for a righteous man: but yet for a good man ^o it may be that one dare die.

8 But God ^p setteth out his love toward us, seeing that while we were yet ^q sinners, Christ died for us.

9 Much more then, being now justified by his blood, we shall be saved from ^r wrath through him.

10 For if when we were enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more being reconciled, we shall be saved by his life.

11 ^s And not only so, but we also rejoice in

^a Whereas quietness of conscience is attributed to faith, it is to be referred to Christ, who is the giver of faith itself, and in whom faith itself is effectual.

^b We must here know, that we have yet still the same effect of faith.

^c By which grace, that is, by which gracious love and good will, or that state whereinto we are graciously taken.

^d We stand steadfast.

^e A preventing of an objection against them, which beholding the daily miseries and calamities of the church, think that the christians dream, when they brag of their felicity: to whom the apostle answereth, that their felicity is laid up under hope in another place: which hope is so certain and sure, that they do no less rejoice for that happiness than if they did presently enjoy it.

^f Our minds are not only quiet and settled, but also we are marvellously glad, and conceive great joy for that heavenly inheritance which waiteth for us.

^g Tribulation itself giveth us, divers and sundry ways, occasion to rejoice, much less doth it make us miserable.

^h Afflictions accusom us to patience, and patience assureth us of the goodness of God, and this experience confirmeth and fostereth our hope, which never deceiveth us.

ⁱ The ground of hope is an assured testimony of the conscience, by the gift of the Holy Ghost, that we are beloved of God, and this is nothing else but that which we call faith, whereof it followeth, that through faith our consciences are quieted.

^j Wherewith he loveth us.

^k A sure comfort in adversity, that our peace and quietness of conscience be not troubled: for he that so loved them that were of no strength, and while they were yet sinners, that he died for them, how can he neglect them being now sanctified and living in him?

^l In time fit and convenient which the Father had appointed.

^m An amplifying of the love of God toward us, so that we cannot doubt of it, who delivered Christ to death for the unjust, and for them of whom he could receive no commodity, and (that more is) for his very enemies. How can it be then that Christ being now alive, should not save them from destruction, whom by his death he justifieth and reconcileth?

ⁿ In the stead of some just man.

^o He setteth out his love unto us, that in the midst of our afflictions we may know assuredly he will be present with us.

^p While sin reigned in us.

^q From affliction and destruction.

^r He now passeth over to the other part of justification, which consisteth in the free imputation of the obedience of Christ, so that to the remission of sins, there is added more over and besides, the gift of Christ's righteousness imputed, or put upon us by faith, which swalloweth up that unrighteousness which flowed from Adam into us, and all the fruits

God through our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom we have now received the atonement.

12 ^a Wherefore as by ^b one man ^c sin entered into the world, and death by sin, and so death went over all men, ^d in whom all men have sinned.

13 ^e For unto the time ^f of the law was sin in the world, but sin is not ^g imputed, while there is no law.

14 ^h But death reigned from Adam to Moses, even ⁱ over them also that sinned not after the like ^j manner of the transgression of Adam, ^k which was that figure of him that was to come.

15 ^l But yet the gift is not so as is the offence: for if through the offence of ^m that one, many be dead, much more the grace of God, and the gift by grace, which is by one man Jesus Christ, hath abounded unto many.

16 ⁿ Neither is the gift so, as that which entered in by one that sinned: for the fault came of one offence unto condemnation: but the gift is of many offences to ^o justification.

17 ^p For if by the offence of one, death reigned through one, much more shall they which receive that abundance of grace, and of that gift of that righteousness, ^q reign in life through one, that is, Jesus Christ.

18 Like-thereof: so that in Christ we do not only cease to be unjust, but we begin also to be just.

^a From Adam in whom all have sinned, both guiltiness and death (which is the punishment of the guiltiness) came upon all.

^b By Adam, who is compared with Christ, like to him in this, that both of them make those which are theirs, partakers of that they have: but they are unlike in this, that Adam deriveth sin into them that are his, even of nature, and that to death: but Christ maketh them that are his, partakers of his righteousness by grace, and that unto life.

^c By sin, is meant that disease which is ours by inheritance, and men commonly call it original sin: for so he useth to call that sin in the singular number, whereas if he spake of the fruits of it, he useth the plural number, calling them sins.

^d That is, in Adam.

^e That this is so, that both guiltiness and death began not after the giving and transgressing of Moses's law, it appeareth manifestly by that, that men died before that law was given: for in that they died, sin which is the cause of death, was then; and in such sort, that it was also imputed: whereupon it followeth that there was then some law, the breach whereof was the cause of death.

^f Even from Adam to Moses.

^g Where there is no law made, no man is punished as faulty and guilty.

^h But that this law was not that universal law, and that that death did not proceed from any actual sin of every one particularly, it appeareth hereby, that the very infants, which neither could ever know or transgress that natural law, are notwithstanding dead as well as Adam.

ⁱ Our infants.

^j Nor after that sort as they sin that are of more years, following their lusts: but yet the whole posterity was corrupted in Adam, whenas he wittingly and willingly sinned.

^k Now that first Adam answereth the latter, who is Christ, as it is afterward declared.

^l Adam and Christ are compared together in this respect, that both of them do give and yield to theirs, that which is their own: but herein first they differ, that Adam by nature hath spread his fault to the destruction of many, but Christ's obedience hath by grace overflowed many.

^m That is, Adam.

ⁿ Another inequality consisteth in this, that by Adam's one offence men are made guilty; but the righteousness of Christ imputed to us freely, doth not only absolve us from that one fault, but from all other.

^o To the sentence of absolution, whereby we are quit and pronounced righteous.

^p The third difference is, that the righteousness of Christ being imputed unto us by grace, is of greater power to bring life, than the offence of Adam is to addict his posterity to death.

^q Be partakers of true and everlasting life.

18¹⁷ Likewise then, as by the offence of one the fault came on all men to condemnation, so by the justifying of one, the benefit abounded toward all men to the ^x justification of life.

19¹⁸ For as by one man's ^v disobedience ² many were made sinners, so by that obedience of that one shall many also be made righteous.

20¹⁹ Moreover, the law ^a entered thereupon, that the offence should abound: nevertheless, where sin abounded, there grace ^b abounded much more:

21 That as sin had reigned unto death, so might grace also reign by righteousness unto eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.

CHAP. VI.

1 He cometh to sanctification, without which, that no man putteth on Christ's righteousness, he proveth, 4 by argument taken of baptism, 12 and thereupon exhorteth to holiness of life, 16 briefly making mention of the law transgressed.

WHAT ¹ shall we say then? shall we continue still in ^a sin, that grace may abound? God forbid.

2 ² How shall we that are ^b dead to sin, live yet therein?

3 ³ Know ye not, that ^{*} all we which have been baptized into ^c Jesus Christ, have been baptized into his death?

4 ^{} We are buried then with him by baptism into his death, that like as Christ was raised up from the dead ^d to the glory of the Father, so we also should ^{} walk in newness of life.

5 ⁴ * For if we be planted with him to the similitude of his death, even so shall we ^e be to the similitude of his resurrection.

6 Knowing this, that our ^h old man is crucified with ⁱ him, that the ^k body of sin might be destroyed, that henceforth we should not ^l serve sin.

7 ⁵ For he that is dead, is freed from sin.

8 Wherefore, if we be dead with Christ, we believe that we shall live also with him.

9 Knowing that Christ being raised from the dead, dieth no more: death hath no more dominion over him.

10 For in that he died, he died ^m once to sin: but in that he liveth, he liveth to ⁿ God.

11 Likewise think ye also, that ye are dead to sin, but are alive to God in Jesus Christ our Lord.

12 ⁶ Let not ^o sin reign therefore in your mortal body, that you should obey it in the lusts thereof:

13 Neither ^p give ye your ^q members as ^r weapons of unrighteousness unto sin: but give yourselves unto God, as they that are alive from the dead, and give your members as weapons of righteousness unto God.

14 ⁷ For sin shall not have dominion over you: for ye are not under the law, but under grace.

15 What

17 Therefore to be short, as by one man's offence, the guiltiness came on all men, to make them subject to death: so on the contrary side, the righteousness of Christ, which by God's mercy is imputed to all believers, justified them, that they may become partakers of everlasting life.

^x Not only because our sins are forgiven us, but also because the righteousness of Christ is imputed unto us.

18 The ground of this whole comparison is this, that these two men are set as two stocks, or roots, so that out of the one, sin by nature; out of the other, righteousness by grace; doth spring forth upon others.

^y So then, sin entered not into us only by following the steps of our forefather, but we take corruption of him by inheritance.

^z This word, Many, is set against this word, a Few.

19 A preventing of an objection: why then did the law of Moses enter thereupon? that men might be so much the more guilty, and the benefit of God in Christ Jesus be so much the more glorious.

^a Besides that disease which all men were infected withal, by being defiled with one man's sin, the law entered.

^b Grace was poured so plentiful from heaven, that it did not only countervail sin, but above measure passed it.

^c He passeth now to another benefit of Christ, which is called sanctification or regeneration.

^d In that corruption, for though the guiltiness of sin be not imputed to us, yet the corruption remaineth still in us: the which sanctification, that followeth justification, killeth by little and little.

^e The benefit of justification, and sanctification, are always joined together inseparably, and both of them proceed from Christ by the grace of God: Now sanctification is the abolishing of sin, that is, of our natural corruption, into whose place succeedeth the cleanness and pureness of nature reformed.

^f They are said of Paul to be dead to sin, which are in such sort made partakers of the virtue of Christ, that that natural corruption is dead in them, that is, the force of it is put out, and it bringeth not forth his bitter fruits: And on the other side they are said to live to sin which are in the flesh, that is, whom the Spirit of God hath not delivered from the slavery of the corruption of nature.

^g There are three parts of this sanctification: to wit, the death of the old man, or sin, his burial, and the resurrection of the new man, descending into us from the virtue of the death, burial, and resurrection of Christ, of which benefit our baptism is the sign and pledge.

^h To the end that growing up in one with him, we should receive his strength, to quench sin in us, and to make us new men.

ⁱ That Christ himself being discharged of his infirmity and weakness, might live in glory with God for ever.

^j And we which are his members rise for this end, that being made partakers of the self-same virtue, we should begin to lead a new life, as though we were already in heaven.

^k The death of sin, and the life of righteousness, or our ingrafting into Christ, and growing up into one with him, cannot be separated by any means, neither in death nor life: whereby it followeth, that no man is sanctified which liveth still to sin, and therefore is no man made partaker of Christ by faith, which repenteth not, and turneth not from his wickedness: for, as he said before, the law is not subverted, but established by faith.

^l Inasmuch, as by means of the strength which cometh from him to us, we so die to sin, as he is dead.

^m For we become every day more perfect than other: for we shall never be perfectly sanctified, as long as we live here.

ⁿ All our whole nature, as we are conceived and born into this world with sin, which is called old, partly by comparing that old Adam with Christ, and partly also in respect of the deformation of our corrupt nature, which we change with a new.

^o Our corrupt nature is attributed to Christ, not indeed, but by imputation.

^p That naughtiness which sticketh fast in us.

^q The end of sanctification which we shoot at, and shall at length come to, to wit, when God shall be all in all.

^r He proveth it by the effects of death, using a comparison of Christ the head with his members.

^s Once for all.

^t With God.

^u An exhortation to contend and strive with corruption, and all the effects thereof.

^v By reigning, St. Paul meaneth that chieftly and high rule which no man striveth against, and if any do, yet it is in vain.

^w To sin, as to a lord or tyrant.

^x Your mind and all the powers of it.

^y As instruments to commit wickedness withal.

^z He granteth that sin is not yet so dead in us that it is utterly extinct: but he promiseth victory to them that contend manfully, because we have the grace of God given us, which worketh so that the law is not now in us, the power and instrument of sin.

16^o Know ye not, that to whomsoever ye give yourselves as servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey, whether it be of sin unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness?

17^o But God be thanked, that ye have been the servants of sin, but ye have obeyed from the heart unto the form of the doctrine, whereunto ye were delivered.

18 Being then made free from sin, ye are made the servants of righteousness.

19 I speak after the manner of man, because of the infirmity of your flesh: for as ye have given your members servants to uncleanness and to iniquity, to commit iniquity, so now give your members servants unto righteousness in holiness:

20 For when ye were the servants of sin, ye were freed from righteousness.

21^o What fruit had ye then in those things whereof ye are now ashamed? For the end of those things is death.

22 But now being freed from sin, and made servants unto God, ye have your fruit in holiness, and the end everlasting life.

23^o For the wages of sin is death: but the gift of God is eternal life, through Jesus Christ our Lord.

C H A P. VII.

1 He declareth what it is to be no more under the law, 2 by an example taken of the law of marriage. 7, 12 And sheweth the law should seem faulty, 14 be pro-

^o To be under the law and under sin, signify all one, in respect of them which are not sanctified; as on the contrary side, to be under grace and righteousness, agree to them that are regenerate. Now these are contraries, so that one cannot agree with the other: therefore let righteousness expel sin.

^o By nature we are slaves to sin, and free from righteousness; but by the grace of God we are made servants to righteousness, and therefore free from sin.

^o This kind of speech hath a force in it: for he meaneth thereby that the doctrine of the gospel is like unto a certain mould which we are cast into, to be framed and fashioned like unto it.

^o Righteousness had no rule over you.

^o An exhortation to the study of righteousness and hatred of sin, the contrary ends of both being set down before.

^o The reward or payment.

^o Death is the punishment due to sin, but we are sanctified freely, unto life everlasting.

^o By propounding the similitude of marriage, he compareth the state of man, both before and after regeneration, together. The law of matrimony, saith he, is this, that so long as the husband liveth, the marriage abideth in force, but if he be dead, the woman may marry again.

^o That is, she shall be an adulteress, by the consent and judgment of all men.

^o An amplification of the similitude thus. So, saith he, doth it fare with us: for now we are joined to the Spirit, as it were to the second husband, by whom we must bring forth new children: we are dead in respect of the first husband, but in respect of the latter, we are as it were raised from the dead.

^o That is, in the body of Christ, to give us to understand, how straight and near that fellowship is betwixt Christ and his members.

^o He calleth the children, which the wife hath by her husband, fruit.

^o Which are acceptable to God.

^o A declaration of the former saying: for the concupiscences (saith he) which the law stirred up in us, were in us, as it were an husband, of whom we brought forth very deadly and curied children; but now since that husband is dead, and so consequently being delivered from the force eth, that our sin is the cause 13 that the same is an occasion of death, 17 which was given us unto life. 21 He setteth out the battle between the flesh and the spirit.

KNOW ye not, brethren, (for I speak to them that know the law) that the law hath dominion over a man as long as he liveth?

2^o For the woman which is in subjection to a man, is bound by the law to the man, while he liveth: but if the man be dead, she is delivered from the law of the man.

3 So then, if while the man liveth, she taketh another man, she shall be called an adulteress: but if the man be dead, she is free from the law, so that she is not an adulteress, though she take another man.

4^o So ye, my brethren, are dead also to the law by the body of Christ, that ye should be unto another, even unto him that is raised up from the dead, that we should bring forth fruit unto God.

5^o For when we were in the flesh, the affections of sins, which were by the law, had force in our members, to bring forth fruit unto death.

6 But now we are delivered from the law, he being dead in whom we were holden, that we should serve in newness of Spirit, and not in the oldness of the letter.

7^o What shall we say then? Is the law sin? God forbid. Nay, I knew not sin, but by the law: for I had not known lust, except the law had said, Thou shalt not lust.

8 But sin took an occasion by the commandment, of that killing law, we have passed into the governance of the spirit, so that we bring forth now not those rotten and dead, but lively children.

^o When we were in the state of the first marriage, which he calleth in the next verse following the oldness of the letter.

^o The motions that egged us to sin, which shew their force even in our minds.

^o He saith not, of the law, but by the law, because they spring of sin, which dwelleth within us, and take occasion to work thus in us, by reason of the restraint that the law maketh: not that the fault is in the law, but in ourselves.

^o Wrought their strength.

^o As if he said, The bond which bound us is dead, and vanished away, insomuch that sin which held us, hath not now wherewith to hold us.

^o For this husband is within us.

^o Satan is an unjust possessor, for he brought us in bondage of sin and himself deceitfully: and yet notwithstanding so long as we are sinners, we sin willingly.

^o As becometh them, which after the death of their old husband, are joined to the Spirit: and whom the Spirit of God hath made new men.

^o By the letter he meaneth the law, in respect of that old condition: for before that our will be framed by the Holy Ghost, the law speaketh but to deaf men, and therefore it is dumb and dead to us, as touching the fulfilling of it.

^o An objection, What then? are the law and sin all one, and do they agree together? Nay, saith he, sin is reprov'd and condemn'd by the law. But because sin cannot abide to be reprov'd, and was not in a manner felt, until it was provok'd and stirr'd up by the law, it taketh occasion thereby to be more outrageous, and yet by no fault of the law.

^o By the word lust in this place he meaneth not evil lusts themselves, but the fountain from whence they spring, for the very heathen philosophers themselves condemn'd wicked lusts, though somewhat darkly. But as for the fountain of them, they could not so much as suspect it, and yet it is the very seat of that natural and unclean spirit and filth.

A. D. 60. ment, and wrought in me all manner of concupiscence: for without the law sin is dead.

9 For I once was alive, without the law: but when the commandment came, sin revived, 10 But I died: and the same commandment which was ordained unto life, was found to be unto me unto death.

11 For sin took occasion by the commandment, and deceived me, and thereby slew me.

12 Wherefore the law is holy, and that commandment is holy, and just, and good.

13 Was that then which is good, made death unto me? God forbid: but sin, that it might appear sin, wrought death in me by that which is good, that sin might be out of measure sinful by the commandment.

14 For we know that the law is spiritual: but I am carnal, sold under sin.

15 For I allow not that which I do: for what I would, that I do not: but what I hate, that do I.

16 If I do then that which I would not, I consent to the law that it is good.

17 Now then, it is no more I that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me.

18 For I know, that in me, that is, in my flesh, dwelleth no good thing: for to will is present with me: but I find no means to perform that which is good.

19 Though sin be in us, yet it is not known for sin, neither doth it so rage, as it rageth after that the law is known.

20 He setteth himself before us for an example, in whom all men may behold, first, what they are by nature before they earnestly think upon the law of God: to wit, blockish, and heady to sin and wickedness, without all true sense and feeling of sin; then what manner of persons they become, when their conscience is reproved by the testimony of the law, to wit, stubborn and more inflamed with the desire of sin, than ever they were before.

21 When I knew not the law, then methought I lived indeed: for my conscience never troubled me, because I knew not my disease.

22 When I began to understand the commandment.

23 In sin, or by sin.

24 The conclusion: That the law of itself is holy, but all the fault is in us which abuse the law.

25 Touching not coveting.

26 The proposition: that the law is not the cause of death, but our corrupt nature being therewith not only discovered, but also stirred up: and took occasion thereby to rebel, as which the more that things are forbidden it, the more it desireth them, and from hence cometh the guiltiness, and occasion of death.

27 Beareth it the blame of my death?

28 That sin might shew itself to be sin, and bewray itself to be that which it is indeed.

29 As evil as it could, shewing all the venom it could.

30 The cause of this matter, is this, because that the law requireth a heavenly pureness, but men such as they be born, are bondslaves of corruption, which they willingly serve.

31 He setteth himself being regenerate, before us, for an example, in whom may easily appear the strife of the Spirit and the flesh, and therefore of the law of God, and our wickedness. For since that the law in a man not regenerate bringeth forth death only, therefore in him it may easily be accused; but seeing that in a man which is regenerate it bringeth forth good fruit, it doth better appear that evil actions proceed not from the law but from sin, that is, from our corrupt nature: And therefore the apostle teacheth also what the true use of the law is in reproving sin in the regenerate, unto the end of the chapter: as a little before (to wit, from the seventh verse unto this fifteenth) he declareth the use of it in them which are not regenerate.

32 The deeds of my life, saith he, answer not, nay, they are contrary to my will: Therefore by the consent of my will with the law, and repugnancy with the deeds of my life, it appeareth evidently, that the law and a right ruled will, do persuade one thing; but corruption which hath her seat also in the regenerate, another thing.

33 It is to be noted, that one self-same man is said to will and not to will, in divers respects: to wit, he is said to will, in that, that he is regenerate by grace: and not to will, in that, that he is not regenerate, or in that, that he is such an one as he was born. But because the part which is regenerate, at length becometh conqueror, therefore Pau

19 For I do not the good thing which I would, but the evil which I would not, that do I. A. D. 60.

20 Now if I do that I would not, it is no more I that do it, but the sin that dwelleth in me.

21 I find then that when I would do good; I am thus yoked, that evil is present with me.

22 For I delight in the law of God, concerning the inner man.

23 But I see another law in my members, rebelling against the law of my mind, and leading me captive unto the law of sin, which is in my members.

24 O wretched man that I am, who shall deliver me from the body of this death!

25 I thank God, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Then I myself in my mind serve the law of God, but in my flesh the law of sin.

CHAP. VIII.

1 He concludeth that there is no condemnation to them who are grafted in Christ through his Spirit, 3 howsoever they be as yet burdened with sins: 9 For they live through that Spirit, 14 whose testimony 15 driveth away all fear, 18 and relieveth our present miseries.

NOW then there is no condemnation to them that are in Christ Jesus, which walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit.

U u 2 For sustaining the part of the regenerate, speaketh in such sort as if the corruption which sinneth willingly, were something without a man: although afterward he granteth that this evil is in his flesh, or in his members.

3 That natural corruption, which cleaveth fast even to them that are regenerate, and is not clean conquered.

4 This vice, or sin, or law of sin, doth wholly possess those men which are not regenerate, and hindereth them or holdeth them back that are regenerate.

5 This doth indeed agree to that man, whom the grace of God hath made a new man: for where the Spirit is not, how can there be any strife there?

6 The conclusion: As the law of God exhorteth to goodness, so doth the law of sin (that is, the corruption wherein we are born) force us to wickedness: but the Spirit, that is, our mind, in that that it is regenerate, consenteth with the law of God: but the flesh, that is, the whole natural man, is bondslave to the law of sin. Therefore to be short, wickedness and death are not of the law, but of sin, which reigneth in them that are not regenerate: for they neither will, nor do good; but will, and do evil: but in them that are regenerate, it striveth against the Spirit or law of the mind, so that they cannot neither live so well as they would, or be so void of sin as they would.

7 The inner man, and the new man are all one, and are answerable and set as contrary to the old man, neither doth this word, Inner man, signify man's mind and reason; and the old man, the powers that are under them, as the philosophers imagine; but by the outward man is meant whatsoever is either without or within a man from top to toe, so long as that man is not born anew by the grace of God.

8 The law of the mind in this place, is not to be understood of the mind as it is naturally, and as our mind is from our birth, but of the mind which is renewed by the Spirit of God.

9 it is a miserable thing to be yet in part subject to sin, which of its own nature maketh us guilty of death; but we must cry to the Lord, who will by death itself at length make us conquerors, as we are already conquerors in Christ.

10 Wearied with miserable and continual conflicts.

11 He recovereth himself, and sheweth us that he resteth only in Christ.

12 This is the true perfection of them that are born anew, to confess that they are imperfect.

13 A conclusion of all the former disputation, from ver. 16. chap. 1. even to this place; seeing that we, being justified by faith in Christ, do obtain remission of sins, and imputation of righteousness, and are also sanctified, it followeth hereof, that they that are grafted into Christ by faith, are out of all fear of condemnation.

14 The fruits of the Spirit, or effects of sanctification which is begun in us, do not ingraft us into Christ, but do declare that we are grafted into him.

15 Follow not the flesh for their guide: for he is not said to live after the flesh, that hath the Holy Ghost for his guide, though sometimes he top awry.

A. D. 2^a For the^b law of the Spirit of^c life, which 60. is in^d Christ Jesus, hath^e freed me from the law of sin and of death.

3^a For, (that that was^f impossible to the law, in as much as it was weak, because of the^g flesh) God sending his own Son, in the similitude of^h sinful flesh, and forⁱ sin, ^k condemned sin in the flesh,

4^a That that^l righteousness of the law might be fulfilled^m in us, which walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit.

5^a For they that are after theⁿ flesh, favour the things of the flesh: but they that are after the Spirit, the things of the Spirit.

6^a For the wisdom of the flesh is death: but the wisdom of the Spirit is life and peace.

7^a Because the wisdom of the flesh is enmity against God: ^o for it is not subject to the law of God, neither indeed can be.

8^a So then they that are in the flesh cannot please God.

9^a Now ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, because the Spirit of God dwelleth in A. D.

you: but if any man hath not the Spirit of 60.
Christ, the same is not his.

10^a And if Christ be in you, the^p body is dead because of sin: but the Spirit is life for righteousness sake.

11^a But if the Spirit of him that raised up
Jesus from the dead, dwell in you, he that raised up Christ from the dead, shall also quicken your mortal bodies, by his Spirit^q that dwelleth in you.

12^a Therefore, brethren, we are debtors not to the flesh, to live after the flesh:

13^a For if ye live after the flesh, ye shall die: but if ye mortify the deeds of the body by the Spirit, ye shall live.

14^a For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the Sons of God.

15^a For ye have not received the^r Spirit of bondage to^s fear again: but ye have received the Spirit of^t adoption, whereby we cry Abba, Father.

16 The

^a A preventing of an objection. Seeing that the virtue of the Spirit which is in us so weak, how may we gather thereby, that there is no condemnation to them that have that virtue? Because, saith he, that virtue of the quickening Spirit which is so weak in us, is most perfect and most mighty in Christ, and being imputed unto us which believe, causeth us to be so accounted of, as though there were no relics of corruption and death in us. Therefore hath no, Paul disputed of remission of sins, and imputation of fulfilling the law, and also of sanctification which is begun in us:
but now he speaketh of the perfect imputation of Christ's merit, which part was necessarily required to the full appearing of our consciences. For our sins are defaced by the blood of Christ, and the guiltiness of our corruption is covered with the imputation of Christ's obedience, and the corruption itself (which the apostle calleth sinful sin) is healed in us by little and little by the gift of sanctification; but yet lacketh beside that, another remedy, to wit, the perfect sanctification of Christ's own flesh, which also is to us imputed.

^b The power and authority of the Spirit, against which is set the tyranny of sin.

^c Which mortifieth the old man, and quickeneth the new man.

^d To wit, absolutely and perfectly.

^e For Christ's sanctification being imputed to us, perfecteth our sanctification which is begun in us.

^f He useth no argument here, but expoundeth the mystery of sanctification, which is imputed unto us. For because, saith he, that the virtue of the law was not such (and that by reason of the corruption of our nature) that it could make man pure and perfect, and for that it rather kindled the disease of sin, than did put it out or extinguish it, therefore God clothed his Son with flesh like unto our sinful flesh, wherein he utterly abolished our corruption, that being accounted thoroughly pure and without fault in him, apprehended and laid hold on by faith, we might be found to have fully that singular perfection which the law requireth, and therefore that there might be no condemnation in us.

^g Which is not proper to the law, but cometh by our fault.

^h In man not born anew, whose disease the law could point out, but it could not heal it.

ⁱ Of man's nature which is corrupt through sin, until he sanctified it.

^j To abolish sin in our flesh.

^k Shewed that sin hath no right in us.

^l The very substance of the law of God might be fulfilled, or that same which the law requireth, that we may be found just before God. For if with our justification there be joined that sanctification which is imputed to us, we are just, according to that perfect form which the law requireth.

^m He returneth to that which he said: that the sanctification which is begun in us, is a sure testimony of our ingrafting into Christ, which is a most plentiful fruit of a godly and honest life.

ⁿ A reason why to walk after the flesh, agreeth not to them which are grafted in Christ; but to walk after the Spirit, agreeth and is meet for them: Because, saith he, that they which are after the flesh favour the things of the flesh, but they that are after the Spirit the things of the Spirit

^o They that live as the flesh leadeth them.

^p He proveth the consequent, because that whatsoever the flesh favoureth, that engendereth death; and whatsoever the Spirit favoureth, that tendeth to joy and life everlasting.

^q A reason and proof why the wisdom of the flesh is death, because, saith he, it is the enemy of God.

^r A reason why the flesh is enemy to God, because it neither will, neither can, be subject to him; and by flesh he meaneth a man not regenerate.

^s The conclusion. Therefore they that walk after the flesh, cannot please God: whereby it followeth, that they are not grafted into Christ.

^t He cometh to the others, to wit, to them which walk after the Spirit, of whom we have to understand contrary things to the former. And first of all, he defineth what it is to be in the Spirit, or to be sanctified; to wit, to have the Spirit of God dwelling in us. Then he declareth that sanctification is so joined and knit to our grafting in Christ, that it can by no means be separated.

^u He confirmeth the faithful against the relics of flesh and sin, granting that they are yet (as appeareth by the corruption which is in them) touching one of their parts (which he calleth the body, that is to say, a lump) which is not yet purged from this earthly filthiness, in death. But therewithal willing them to doubt nothing of the happy success of this combat, because that even this little spark of the Spirit, (that is, of the grace of regeneration) which appeareth to be in them by the fruits of righteousness, is the seed of life.

^v The flesh, or all that which as yet sticketh fast in the clefts of sin and death.

^w A confirmation of the former sentence. You have the self-same Spirit which Christ hath: Therefore at length it shall do the same in you, that it did in Christ, to wit, when all infirmities being utterly laid aside, and death overcome, it shall cloath you with heavenly glory.

^x By the virtue and power of it, which shewed the same might, first in our head, and daily worketh in his members.

^y An exhortation to oppress the flesh daily more and more by the virtue of the Spirit of regeneration, because (saith he) you are debtors unto God, for so much as you have received so many benefits of him.

^z Another reason of the profit that ensueth: for such strive and fight valiantly, shall have everlasting life.

^{aa} A confirmation of this reason: for they be the children of God, which are governed by his Spirit, therefore shall they have life everlasting.

^{ab} He declareth and expoundeth by the way in these two verses, by what right this name, to be called the children of God, is given to the believers, because, saith he, they have received the grace of the gospel, wherein God sheweth himself, not (as before in the publishing of the law) terrible and fearful, but a most benign and loving Father in Christ, so that with great boldness we call him Father, the Holy Ghost sealing this adoption in our hearts by faith.

^{ac} By the Spirit, is meant the Holy Ghost, whom we are said to receive, when he worketh in our minds.

^{ad} Which fear is stirred up in our minds by the preaching of the law.

^{ae} Which sealeth our adoption in our minds, and therefore openeth our mouths.

A. D. 60.

A. D. 60.

16 The same Spirit beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God:

17 ¹⁸ If we be children, we are also ¹⁹ heirs, even the heirs of God, and heirs annexed with Christ: ²⁰ if so be that we suffer with him, that we may also be glorified with him.

18 ²¹ For I ²² count that the afflictions of this present time are not worthy of the glory which shall be shewed unto us.

19 ²³ For the fervent desire of the ²⁴ creature waiteth when the sons of God shall be revealed:

20 Because the creature is subject to ²¹ vanity, not of its ²² own will, but by reason ²³ of him which hath subdued it under ²⁴ hope:

21 Because the creature also shall be delivered from the ²² bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the sons of God.

22 For we know that every creature groaneth with us also, and ²³ travaileth in pain together unto this present.

23 ²⁴ And not only ²⁵ the creature, but we also which have the first fruits of the Spirit, even we do sigh in our ²⁶ selves, waiting for the adoption, even ²⁷ the redemption of our body.

24 ²⁸ For we are saved by hope: but ²⁹ hope that is seen, is not hope: for how can a man hope for that which he seeth?

25 But if we hope for that we see not, we do with patience abide for it.

26 ²⁹ Likewise the Spirit ³⁰ also ³¹ helpeth our infirmities: for we know not what to pray as we ought: but the Spirit itself maketh ³² request for us with sighs which cannot be expressed.

¹⁸ A proof of the consequent of the confirmation: because that he which is the Son of God, doth enjoy God with Christ.

¹⁹ Partakers of our Father's goods, and that freely, because we are children by adoption.

²⁰ Now Paul teacheth by what way the sons of God do come to that felicity, to wit, by the cross, as Christ himself did: and therewithal openeth unto them fountains of comfort: as first that we have Christ a companion and fellow of our afflictions: secondly, that we shall be also his fellows in that everlasting glory.

²¹ Thirdly, that this glory which we look for, doth a thousand parts surmount the misery of our afflictions.

²² All being well considered, I gather.

²³ Fourthly, he plainly teacheth us, that we shall certainly be renewed from that confusion and horrible deformation of the whole world, which cannot be continual, as it was not at the beginning. But as it had a beginning by the sin of man for whom it was made by the ordinance of God, so shall it at length be restored with the elect.

²⁴ All this world.

²⁵ Is subject to a vanishing and flitting state.

²⁶ Not by their natural inclination.

²⁷ That they should obey the Creator's commandment, whom it pleased to shew by their fickle state, how greatly he was displeased with man.

²⁸ God would not make the world subject to everlasting curse, for the sin of man, but gave it in hope that it should be restored.

²⁹ From the corruption which they are now subject to, they shall be delivered and changed into that blessed state of incorruption, which shall be revealed, when the sons of God shall be advanced to glory.

³⁰ By this word is meant, not only exceeding sorrow, but also the fruit that followeth of it.

³¹ Fifthly, if the rest of the world look for a restoring, groaning as it were for it, and that not in vain, let it not grieve us also to sigh, yea, let us be more certainly persuaded of our redemption to come, forasmuch as we have the first-fruits of the Spirit.

³² Even from the bottom of our hearts.

³³ That last restoring, which shall be the accomplishment of our adoption.

³⁴ Sixthly, hope is necessarily joined with faith: seeing then that we believe those things which we are not yet in possession of, and hope respecteth not the thing that is present, we must therefore hope and patiently wait for that which we believe shall come to pass.

27 But he that searcheth the hearts, knoweth what is the ¹ meaning of the Spirit: for he maketh request for the ² saints, ³ according to the ⁴ will of God.

28 ²⁵ Also we know that ¹ all things work together for the best unto them that love God, even to them that are called of ² his ³ purpose.

29 For those which he knew before, he also predestinated to be made like to the image of his Son, that he might be the first born among many brethren.

30 Moreover, whom he ¹ predestinated, them also he called: and whom he called, them also he justified: and whom he justified, them he also glorified.

31 ²⁶ What shall we then say to these things? If God be on our side, who ²⁷ can be against us?

32 Who spared not his own Son, but gave him for us all ¹ to death, how shall he not with him ² give us all things also?

33 ²⁷ Who shall lay any thing to the charge of God's chosen? ²⁸ it is ²⁹ God that justifieth, 34 Who shall condemn? ²⁹ it is Christ which is dead: yea, or rather, which is risen again, who is also at the right hand of God, and maketh request also for us.

35 Who shall separate us from the love of ¹ Christ? shall tribulation, or anguish, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword?

36 As it is written, ² For thy sake are we ³ killed all day long: we are counted as sheep for the slaughter.

37 Never-

¹ This is spoken by the figure Metonymia: Hope, for that which is hoped for.

²⁴ Seventhly, there is no cause why we should faint under the burden of afflictions, seeing that prayers minister unto us a most sure help: which cannot be frustrate, seeing they proceed from the Spirit of God which dwelleth in us.

²⁵ Beareth our burden, as it were, that we faint not under it.

²⁶ Provoketh us to prayers, and telleth us, as it were, within, what we shall say, and how we shall groan.

²⁷ What sobs and sighs proceed from the instinct of the Spirit.

²⁸ Because he teacheth the godly to pray according to God's will.

²⁹ Eighthly, we are not afflicted either by chance, or to our harm, but by God's providence, for our great profit: who as he chose us from the beginning, so hath he predestinate us to be made like to the image of his Son: and therefore will bring us in his time, being called and justified, to glory, by the cross.

³⁰ Not only afflictions, but whatsoever else.

³¹ He calleth that, Purpose, which God hath from everlasting appointed with himself according to his good will and pleasure.

³² He useth the time past for the time present, as the Hebrews use, who sometime set down the thing that is to come, by the time that is past, to signify the certainty of it; and he hath also a regard to God's continual working.

³³ Ninthly, we have no cause to fear that the Lord will not give us whatsoever is profitable for us, seeing that he hath not spared his own Son to save us.

³⁴ Give us freely.

³⁵ A most glorious and comfortable conclusion of the whole second part of this epistle, that is of the treatise of justification: There are no accusers that we have need to be afraid of before God, seeing that God himself absolveth us as just: and therefore much less need we to fear damnation, seeing that we rest upon the death and resurrection of the almighty power and defence of Jesus Christ. Therefore what can there be so weighty in this life, or of so great force and power, that might fear us, as though we might fall from the love of God, wherewith he loveth us in Christ? Surely nothing, seeing that it is in itself most constant and sure, and also in us being confirmed by stedfast faith.

³⁶ Who pronounceth us not only guiltless, but also perfectly just in his Son.

³⁷ Wherewith Christ loveth us.

like 21.

Pf. 44. 22.

A. D. 37. Nevertheless, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us.

38 For I am persuaded that neither death nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come,

39 Nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.

C H A P. IX.

1 His answereth an objection that might be brought on the Jews behalf, 7 and telleth of two sorts of Abraham's children, 15 and that God worketh all things in this matter according to his will, 20 even as the poster doth. 24, 30 He proveth as well the calling of the Gentiles, 31 as also the casting of the Jews, 25, 27 by the testimony of the prophets.

I Say the truth in Christ, I lye not, my conscience bearing me witness in the Holy Ghost,

2 That I have great heaviness, and continual sorrow in mine heart.

3 For I would with myself to be separate from Christ, for my brethren that are my kinsmen according to the flesh:

4 Which are the Israelites, to whom pertaineth the adoption, and the glory, and the covenants, and the giving of the law, and the service of God, and the promises.

^a We are not only not overcome with so great and manifold sorrows and calamities, but also more than conquerors in all of them.

^b The third part of this epistle, even to the twelfth chapter, wherein Paul ascendeth to the highest degrees of faith: and first of all, because he purposed to speak much of the casting off of the Jews, he useth an insinuation, declaring by a double or triple oath, and by witnessing of his great desire towards their salvation, his singular love towards them, and therewithal granting unto them all their prerogatives.

^c The apostle loved his brethren so entirely, that if it had been possible, he would have been ready to have redeemed the casting away of the Israelites with the loss of his own soul for ever: for this word, Separate, betokeneth as much in this place.

^d Being brethren by flesh, as of one nation and country.

^e The ark of the covenant, which was a token of God's presence.

^f The tables of the covenant, and this is spoken by the figure Metonymia.

^g Of the judicial law.

^h The ceremonial law.

ⁱ Which were made to Abraham and to his posterity.

^k A most manifest testimony of the Godhead and divinity of Christ.

^l He entereth into the handling of predestination, by a kind of preventing an objection: How may it be, that Israel is cast off, but that therewithal we must also make the covenant which God made with Abraham and his seed, frustrate and void? He answereth therefore, that God's word is true, although that Israel be cast off; for the election of the people of Israel is so general and common, that notwithstanding the same God chuseth by his secret counsel, such as it pleaseth him. So then, this is the proposition and state of this treatise: The grace of salvation is offered generally in such sort, that notwithstanding it, the efficacy thereof pertaineth only to the elect.

^m Israel in the first place, is taken for Jacob, and in the second, for the Israelites.

ⁿ The first proof is taken from the example of Abraham's own house, wherein Isaac only was accounted the son, and that by God's ordinance: although that Ishmael also was born of Abraham, and circumcised before Isaac.

^o Isaac shall be thy true and natural son, and therefore heir of the blessing.

^p A general application of the former proof or example.

^q Which are born of Abraham by the course of nature.

^r Which are born by virtue of the promise.

^s A reason of that application: because that Isaac was born by the virtue of the promise, and therefore he was not chosen, nay, he was not at all, but by the free will of God: whereby it followeth, that the promise is the fountain of

5 Of whom are the fathers, and of whom concerning the flesh, Christ came, who is God over all, blessed for ever. Amen.

6 Notwithstanding, it cannot be that the word of God should take none effect: for all they are not Israel which are of Israel.

7 Neither are they all children, because they are the seed of Abraham: but, In Isaac shall thy seed be called:

8 That is, they which are the children of the flesh, are not the children of God: but the children of the promise are counted for the seed.

9 For this is a word of promise, In this same time will I come, and Sara shall have a son.

10 Neither be only felt this, but also Rebecca, when she had conceived by one, even by our father Isaac.

11 For ere the children were born, and when they had neither done good nor evil, (that the purpose of God might remain according to election, not by works, but by him that calleth.)

12 It was said unto her, The elder shall serve the younger.

13 As it is written, I have loved Jacob, and have hated Esau.

14 What shall we say then? Is there unrighteousness with God? God forbid.

15 For he saith to Moses, I will have mercy on him, on whom I will shew mercy: and will predestination, and not the flesh, from which promise the particular election proceedeth, that is, that the elect be born elect, and not that they be first born, and then after elected in respect of God, who doth predestinate.

^t Another forcible proof taken from the example of Esau and Jacob, which were both born of the same Isaac, which was the son of the promise, of one mother, and at one birth, and not at divers, as Ishmael and Isaac were: and yet notwithstanding, Esau being cast off only, Jacob was chosen: and that before their birth, that neither any goodness of Jacob's might be thought to be the cause of his election, neither any wickedness of Esau's, of his casting away.

^u God's decree which proceedeth of his meer good will, whereby it pleaseth him to chuse one, and refuse the other.

^v Paul saith not, might be made, but, being made might remain. Therefore they are deceived which make foreseen faith the cause of election, and foreknown infidelity the cause of reprobation.

^w He proveth the casting away of Esau by that, that he was made servant to his brother: and proveth the chusing of Jacob, by that, that he was made lord of his brother, although his brother was the first begotten. And lest any man might take this saying of God, and refer it to external things, the apostle sheweth out of Malachi, who is a good interpreter of Moses, that the servitude of Esau was joined with the hatred of God, and the lordship of Jacob with the love of God.

^x The first objection, If God doth love or hate upon no consideration of worthiness, or unworthiness, then is he unjust, because he may love them which are unworthy, and hate them that are worthy. The apostle detesteth this blasphemy, and afterward answereth it severally point by point.

^y Man's wit knoweth no other causes of love or hatred, but those that are in the persons, and thereupon this objection riseth.

^z He answereth first, touching them which are chosen to salvation: in the chusing of whom he denieth that God may seem unjust, although he chuse and predestinate to salvation them that are not yet born, without any respect of worthiness. Because he bringeth not the chosen to the appointed end, but by the means of his mercy, which is a cause next under predestination. Now mercy presupposeth misery; and again, misery presupposeth sin, or voluntary corruption of mankind; and corruption presupposeth a pure and perfect creation. Moreover, mercy is shewed by her degrees; to wit, by calling, by faith, by justification and sanctification, so that at length we come to glorification, as the apostle will shew afterward. Now all these things orderly following the purpose of God, do clearly prove that he can by no means seem unjust in loving and saving his.

^{aa} I will be merciful and favourable to whom I list to be favourable.

A. D. 60. will have^p compassion on him, on whom I will have compassion.

16¹² So then it is not in him that^d willeth, nor in him that runneth, but in God that sheweth mercy.

17¹¹ For the^r scripture saith unto Pharaoh, * For this same purpose have I^s stirred thee up, that I might¹⁴ shew my power in thee, and that my name might be declared throughout all the earth.

18¹⁵ Therefore he hath mercy on whom he will, and whom he will he hardeneth.

19¹⁶ Thou wilt say then unto me, Why doeth he yet complain? for who hath resisted his will?

20¹⁷ But O man, who art thou which pleadest against God? ¹⁸ shall the^{*} thing^u formed say to him that formed it, Why hast thou made me thus?

21¹⁹ Hath not the potter power of the clay,

^p I will have compassion on whomsoever I will have compassion.

¹² The conclusion of the answer. Therefore God is not unjust in chusing and saving, of his free goodness, such as it pleaseth him; as he also answered Moses when he prayed for all the people.

⁹ By will, he meaneth the thought and endeavour of heart, and by running, good works, to neither of which he giveth the praise, but only to the mercy of God.

¹¹ Now he answereth concerning the reprobate, or them whom God hateth, being not yet born, and hath appointed to destruction, without any respect of unworthiness. And first of all he proveth this to be true, by alledging the testimony of God himself touching Pharaoh, whom he stirred up to this purpose, that he might be glorified in his hardening and just punishing.

^r God so speaketh unto Pharaoh in the scripture, or, the scripture bringeth in God, so speaking to Pharaoh.

^s Brought thee into this world.

¹⁴ Secondly, he bringeth the end of God's counsel, to shew that there is no unrighteousness in him. Now this chiefest end is, not properly and simply the destruction of the wicked, but God's glory which appeareth in their rightfull punishment.

¹⁵ A conclusion of the full answer to the first objection. Therefore seeing God doth not save them whom he freely chose according to his good will and pleasure, but by justifying and sanctifying them by his grace, his counsel in saving them cannot seem unjust. And again, there is no injustice in the everlasting counsel of God, touching the destruction of them whom he listeth to destroy, for that he hardeneth before he destroyeth: therefore the third answer for the maintenance of God's justice in the everlasting counsel of reprobation, consisteth in this word Hardening: which notwithstanding he concealed in the former verse, because the history of Pharaoh was well known. But the force of the word is great, for hardening, which is set against mercy, presupposeth the same things that mercy did, to wit, a voluntary corruption; wherein the reprobates are hardened: and again, corruption presupposeth a perfect state of creation. Moreover, this hardening also is voluntary, for God so hardeneth being offended with corruption, that he useth their own will whom he hardeneth, to the executing of that judgment. Then follow the fruits of hardening, to wit, unbelief and sin, which are the true and proper causes of the condemnation of the reprobate. Why doth he then appoint to destruction? Because he will: Why doth he harden? Because they are corrupt: Why doth he condemn? Because they are sinners. Where is then unrighteousness? Nay, if he should destroy all after this sort, to whom should he do injury?

^r Whom it pleased him to appoint to shew his favour upon.

¹⁶ Another objection, but only from the reprobate, rising upon the former answer. If God do appoint to everlasting destruction, such as he listeth, and if that cannot be hindered nor withstood, that he hath once decreed, how doth he justly condemn them, which perish by his will?

¹⁷ The apostle doth not answer that it is not God's will, for that God doth not either reject or elect according to his pleasure, which thing the wicked call blasphemy, but he rather granteth his adversary both the antecedents, to wit, that it is God's will, and that it must of necessity so fall out, yet he denieth that God is therefore to be thought an unjust revenger of the wicked: for seeing it appeareth by manifest proof, that this is the will of God, and his doing, what impudency is it for man, which is but dust and ashes, to dispute with to make of the same lump one²⁰ vessel to^x honour, and another unto²¹ dishonour?

22²² What, and if God would, to shew his wrath; and to make his power known, suffer with long patience the^v vessels of wrath, prepared to²³ destruction?

23 And that he might declare the² riches of his glory upon the vessels of mercy which he hath prepared unto glory?

24²⁴ Even us whom he hath called, not of the^s Jews only, but also of the Gentiles.

25²⁵ As he saith also in Hosea, * I will call[•] them my people, which were not my people: and²³ her beloved, which was not beloved. • Hosea 2. 1 Pct. 2. 10.

26 And it shall be in the place where it was[•] said unto them, * Ye are not my people, that¹⁰ there they shall be called, The children of the living God. • Hosea 1.

27²⁶ Also Esaias crieth concerning Israel, X x
Though

God, and as it were to call him into judgment? Now if any man say that the doubt is not so dissolved and answered, I answer, that there is no surer demonstration in any matter, because it is grounded upon this principle, That the will of God is the rule of righteousness.

¹⁸ An amplification of the former answer, taken from a comparison, whereby also it appeareth that God's determinate counsel is set of Paul the highest of all causes: so that it dependeth not upon any respect of the second causes, but doth rather frame and direct them.

^u This similitude agreeth very fitly to the first creation of mankind.

¹⁹ Alluding to the creation of Adam, he compareth mankind not yet made, (but in the Creator's mind) to a lump of clay: whereof afterward God made, and doth daily make according as he purposed from everlasting, both such as should be elect, and such as should be reprobate, as also this word, Making, declareth.

²⁰ Whereas in the objection propounded, mention was only made of vessels to dishonour, yet he speaketh of the other also in this answer, for that he proveth the Creator to be just in either of them, as the rule of contraries requireth.

^x To honest uses.

²¹ Seeing then that in the name of dishonour, the ignominy of everlasting death is signified, they speak with Paul which say, that some are made of God to most just destruction, and they that are offended with this kind of speech bewray their own folly.

²² The second answer is this, that God, moreover and besides that he doth justly decree whatsoever he doth decree, useth that moderation in executing of his decrees, as declareth his singular lenity even in the reprobate, in that that he suffereth them a long time, and permitteth them to enjoy many and singular benefits, until at length he justly condemn them: and that to good end and purpose, to wit, to shew himself to be an enemy and revenger of wickedness, that it may appear what power he is of by these severe judgments, and finally by comparison of contraries to set forth indeed, how great his mercy is towards the elect.

^v By vessels, the Hebrews understand all kinds of instruments.

²³ Therefore again, we may say with Paul, that some men are made of God the Creator to destruction.

^z The unmeasurable and marvellous greatness.

²⁴ Having established the doctrine of the eternal predestination of God on both parts, that is, as well of the reprobate as of the elect, he cometh now to shew the use of it, teaching us that we ought not to seek the testimony of it in the secret counsel of God, but by the vocation which is made manifest, and set forth in the church, propounding unto us the example of the Jews and Gentiles, that the doctrine may be better perceived.

[•] He saith not that all and every one of the Jews are called, but some of the Jews, and some of the Gentiles.

²⁵ Our vocation or calling is free, and of grace, even as our predestination is; and therefore there is no cause why either our own unworthiness, or the unworthiness of our ancestors, should cause us to think that we are not the elect and chosen of God, if we be called of him, and so embrace through faith the salvation that is offered us.

²⁶ Contrariwise, Neither any outward general calling, neither any worthiness of our ancestors, is a sufficient witness of election, unless by faith and belief we answer God's calling: which things came to pass in the Jews, as the Lord had forewarned.

A. D. 60. Though the number of the children of Israel were as the sand of the sea, yet shall but a remnant be saved.

28 For he will make his account, and gather it into a short sum with righteousness: for the Lord will make a short account in the earth.

29 And as Esaias said before, Except the Lord of hosts had left us a seed, we had been made as Sodom, and had been like to Gomorrah.

30 What shall we say then? That the Gentiles, which followed not righteousness, have attained unto righteousness, even the righteousness which is of faith:

31 But Israel, which followed the law of righteousness, could not attain unto the law of righteousness.

32 Wherefore? Because they sought it not by faith, but as it were by the works of the law: for they have stumbled at the stumbling-stone.

33 As it is written, Behold, I lay in Sion a stumbling-stone, and a rock to make men fall: and every one that believeth in him, shall not be ashamed.

C H A P. X.

1 He bewaileth the effects of election, 3 that some receive it, and some embrace, 4 Christ, who is the end of the law. 15 He sheweth that Moses foretold the calling of the Gentiles, 20 and Esaias the barring of the Jews.

BRETHREN, mine heart's desire and prayer to God for Israel is, that they might be saved.

2 For I bear them record, that they have the zeal of God, but not according to knowledge.

3 For they, being ignorant of the righteousness of God, and going about to establish their own righteousness, have not submitted themselves to the righteousness of God.

4 For Christ is the end of the law for every one that believeth.

5 For Moses thus describeth the righteousness which is of the law, That the man which doeth these things, shall live thereby.

6 But the righteousness which is of faith speaketh on this wise, Say not in thine heart, Who shall ascend into heaven? (that is, to bring Christ from above:)

7 Or who shall descend into the deep? (that is, to bring Christ again from the dead)

8 But what saith it? The word is near thee, even in thy mouth, and in thine heart. This is the word of faith which we preach.

9 For if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart, that God raised him up from the dead, thou shalt be saved:

10 For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness, and with the mouth man confesseth to salvation.

11 For the scripture saith, Whosoever believeth in him, shall not be ashamed.

12 For there is no difference between the Jew and the Grecian: for he that is Lord over all, is rich unto all that call on him.

13 For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord, shall be saved.

14 But how shall they call on him, in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him, of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher?

15 And how shall they preach, except they be sent? as it is written, How beautiful are the feet of them which bring glad tidings of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things!

16 But

God purposeth to bring the unkind and unthankful people to an extreme fewness.

Armies, by which word the chiefest power that is, is given to God.

Even a very few.

The declaration and manifestation of our election, is our calling, apprehended by faith, as it came to pass in the Gentiles.

So then the Gentiles had no works to prepare and procure God's mercy beforehand. And as for that that the Gentiles attained to that which they sought not for, the mercy of God is to be thanked for it; and in that the Jews attained not to that which they sought after, they can thank none for it but themselves, because they sought it not aright.

The pride of men is the cause that they contemn vocation, so that the cause of their damnation need not be sought for any other where but in themselves.

Seeking to come by righteousness, they followed the law of righteousness.

Purposing to set forth in the Jews an example of marvellous obstinacy, he useth an insinuation.

The first entrance into the vocation unto salvation, is to renounce our own righteousness: the next is, to embrace that righteousness by faith, which God freely offereth us in the gospel.

The ignorance of the law which we ought to know, excuseth none before God, especially it excuseth not them that are of his household.

Ignorance hath always pride joined with it.

The proof: The law itself hath respect unto Christ, that such as believe in him should be saved. Therefore the calling to salvation by the works of the law, is vain and foolish: but Christ is offered for salvation to every believer.

The end of the law is, to justify them that keep the law: but seeing we do not observe the law, through the fault of our flesh, we attain not unto this end: but Christ salveth this disease, for he fulfilled the law for us.

Not only to the Jews, but also to the Gentiles.

That the law regardeth and tendeth to Christ, this is a manifest proof, for that it propoundeth such a condition as can be and is fulfilled of none but of Christ only: which being imputed unto us by faith, our conscience is quieted, so that now no man can ask, Who can ascend up into heaven, or bring us from hell, seeing the gospel teacheth that both of these is done by Christ, and that for their sakes, which with true faith embrace him which calleth them.

Think not with thyself, as men that are staggering use to do.

Vocation cometh by the word preached.

By the word, Moses understood the law which the Lord published with his own voice: and Paul applicth it to the preaching of the gospel, which was the perfection of the law.

That is indeed true faith, which is settled not only in the head, but also in the heart of man, whereof also we give testimony by our outward life, and which tendeth to Christ as to our alone and only Saviour, even as he setteth forth himself in his word.

If thou profess plainly, sincerely, and openly, that thou takest Jesus only to be thy Lord and Saviour.

The Father, who is said to have raised the Son from the dead: and this is not spoken to shut out the divinity, of the Son, but to set forth the Father's counsel touching our redemption in the resurrection of the Son.

Faith is said to justify, and furthermore seeing the confession of the mouth is an effect of faith, and confession is the way to come to salvation, it followeth that faith is also said to save.

Now he proveth the other part which he propounded afore in the fourth verse, to wit, that Christ calleth whomsoever he listeth, without any difference, and this he confirmeth by a double testimony.

To believe in God, is to yield and consent to God's promise of our salvation by Christ, and that not only in general, but when we know that the promises pertain to us, whereupon riseth a sure trust.

True calling upon the name of God is the testimony of true faith; and true faith, of true vocation or calling; and true calling, of true election.

That is, true faith, which seeketh God in his word, and that preached, according as God hath appointed in the church.

A. D. 60. ¹⁰ But they have not ¹ all obeyed the gospel: for Esaias saith, * Lord, who hath believed our report?
¹¹ Then faith is by hearing, and hearing by the ^m word of God.
¹² But I demand, Have they not heard?
¹³ No doubt, their sound went out through all the earth, and their words into the ends of the world.
¹⁴ But I demand, Did not Israel know God? First Moses saith, * I will provoke you to envy by a ⁿ nation that is not my nation, and by a foolish nation I will anger you.
¹⁵ * And Esaias is ^o bold, and saith, I was found of them that sought me not, and have been made manifest to them that asked not after me.
¹⁶ And unto Israel he saith, * All the day long have I stretched forth mine hand unto a disobedient and gainsaying people.

CHAP XI.

¹ Left the casting-off the Jews should be limited according to the outward appearance, ⁴ he sheweth that Elias was in times past deceived: ¹⁶ and that, seeing they have an holy root, ²³ many of them likewise shall be holy. ^{18, 24} He exhorteth the Gentiles to be humble, ³³ and crieth out, that God's judgments are unsearchable.

I Demand then, ¹ Hath God cast away his people? God forbid: for ² I also am an Israelite, of the seed of Abraham, of the tribe of Benjamin.

¹⁰ Wheresoever faith is, there is also the word; but not contrariwise, wheresoever the word is, there is faith also: for many refuse and reject the word.
¹ He speaketh this, because of the Jews.
¹¹ A conclusion of the former gradation: we must ascend from faith to our vocation, as by our vocation we came to the testimony of our election.
^m By God's commandment.
¹² An objection: If calling be a testimony of election, were not the Jews called? why should I not grant that, faith the apostle, seeing that there is no nation which hath not been called? much less can I say, that the Jews were not called.
¹³ The defender and maintainer of the Jews cause, goeth on still to ask, whether the Jews also knew not God which called them? Isaias (saith the apostle) denieth it: and witnesseth that the gospel was translated from them to the Gentiles, because the Jews neglected it. And therewithal the apostle teacheth, that that outward and universal calling, which is set forth by the creation of the world, sufficeth not to the knowledge of God: yea, and that the particular also which is by the word of God, is of itself of small or no efficacy, unless it be apprehended or laid hold on by faith, by the gift of God: otherwise by unbelief it is made unprofitable, and that by the only fault of man, who can pretend no ignorance.
ⁿ He calleth all prophane people, a nation that is no nation, as they are not said to live but to die, which are appointed for everlasting condemnation.
^o Speaketh without fear.
¹ Now the apostle sheweth how this doctrine is to be applied to others, abiding still in his propounded cause. Therefore he teacheth us, that all the Jews in particular are not cast away, and therefore we ought not to pronounce rashly of private persons, whether they be of the number of the elect, or not.
² The first proof: I am a Jew, and yet elected, therefore we may, and ought, fully to resolve upon our election, as hath been before said: but of another man's we cannot be so certainly resolved, and yet ours may cause us to hope well of others.
³ The second proof: Because that God is faithful in his league or covenant, although men be unfaithful: so then, seeing that God hath said, that he will be the God of his unto a thousand generations, we must take heed, that we think not that the whole race and offspring is cast off, by reason of the unbelief of a few, but rather that we hope well of every member of the church, because of God's league and covenant.

² ³ God hath not cast away his people which he ^a knew before. ⁴ Know ye not what the scripture saith of Elias, how he communeth with God against Israel, saying,
³ * Lord, they have killed thy prophets, and digged down thine altars: and I am left alone, and they seek my life.
⁴ But what saith the answer of God to him?
⁵ * I have ^b reserved unto myself seven thousand men, which have not bowed the knee to ^c Baal.
⁶ Even so then at this present time is there a remnant according to the ^d election of grace.
⁷ And if it be of grace, it is ^e no more of works: or else were grace no more grace: but if it be of works, it is no more grace, or else were work no more work.
⁸ What then? Israel hath not obtained that he sought: but the election hath obtained it, and the rest have been ^f hardened:
⁹ According as it is written, * God hath given them the spirit of ^g slumber: eyes that they ^h should not see, and ears that they should not hear, unto this day.
¹⁰ And David saith, * ¹ Let their table be made a snare, and a net, and a stumbling-block, even for a recompence unto them.
¹¹ Let their eyes be darkened that they see not, and bow down their back always.
¹² I demand then, Have they stumbled, that they should fall? God forbid: but through their fall, salvation cometh unto the Gentiles, to provoke them to follow them.
¹³ Where-

^a Which he loved and chose from everlasting.
⁴ The third proof taken from the answer that was made to Elias: even then also, when there appeared openly to the face of the world no elect, yet God knew his elect and chosen, and of them also great store and number. Whereupon this also is concluded, that we ought not rashly to pronounce of any man as of a reprobate, seeing that the church is oftentimes brought to that state, that even the most watchful and sharp-sighted pastors think it to be clean extinct and put out.
^b He speaketh of remnants and reserved people which were chosen from everlasting, and not of remnants that should be chosen afterward, for they are not chosen, because they were not idolaters: but therefore they were not idolaters, because they were chosen and elect.
^c Baal signifieth as much, as master, or patron, or one in whose power another is, which name the idolaters at this day give their idols, naming them Patrons and Patronesses, or Ladies.
^d The election of grace is, not whereby men chose grace, but whereby God chose us of his grace and goodness.
^e Although that all be not elect and chosen, yet let them that are elected, remember that they are freely chosen: and let them that stubbornly refuse the grace and free mercy of God, impute it unto themselves.
^f This saying, beateth down flat to the ground all the doctrine of all kinds and manner of works, whereby our justifiers of themselves do teach, that works are either wholly, or partly, the cause of our justification.
^g Look Mark 3. 5.
^h And yet this hardness of heart cometh not but by God's just decree and judgment, and yet without fault, when as he so punisheth the unthankful by taking from them all sense and perseverance, and by doubling their darkness, that the benefits of God which are offered unto them, do redound to their just destruction.
ⁱ A very dead sleep, which taketh away all sense.
^j That is, eyes unfit to see.
¹ As unhappy birds are enticed to death by that which is their sustenance, so did that only thing turn to the Jews destruction, out of which they sought life, to wit, the law of God, for the preposterous zeal whereof, they refused the gospel.
² God appointed this casting-off of the Jews, that it might be an occasion to call the Gentiles: and again, might turn this calling of the Gentiles, to be an occasion to restore the Jews, to wit, that they being inflamed and provoked by emulation of the Gentiles, might themselves at length embrace

A. D. 60. 12 Wherefore if the fall of them be the^r riches of the world, and the diminishing of them the riches of the Gentiles, how much more shall their^r abundance be?

13^r For in that I speak to you Gentiles, inasmuch as I am the apostle of the Gentiles: ^m I magnify mine office, 14^r To try if by any means I might provoke them of my flesh to follow them, and might save some of them.

15 For if the casting-away of them be the reconciling of the world, what shall the receiving be, ⁿ but life from the dead?

16^r For if the^r first fruits be holy, so is the whole lump: and if the root^r be holy, so are the branches.

17^r And though some of the branches be broken off, and thou being a wild olive-tree, wast grafted in for them, and made^r partaker of the root and fatness of the olive-tree:

18^r Boast not thyself against the branches: and if thou boast thyself, thou bearest not the root, but the root thee.

19 Thou wilt say then, The branches are broken off, that I might be grafted in.

20 Well: through unbelief they are broken off, and thou standest by faith: be not high-minded, but^r fear.

21 For if God spared not the^r natural branches, will he also spare not thee.

22^r Behold therefore the^r bountifulness and severity of God: toward them which have fallen, severity: but toward thee, bountifulness, if thou continue in his^r bountifulness: or else thou shalt also be cut off.

23^r And they also, if they abide not still in unbelief, shall be grafted in: for God is able to graft them in again.

24 For if thou wast cut out of the olive-tree, which was wild by^r nature, and wast grafted contrary to nature in a^r right olive tree, how much more shall they that are by nature, be grafted in their own olive-tree?

25^r For I would not, brethren, that ye should be ignorant of this secret (lest ye should be arrogant in^r yourselves) that partly obstinacy is come to Israel, until the fulness of the Gentiles be^r come in.

26 And so all Israel shall be saved, as it is written, ^o The deliverer shall come out of Sion, and shall turn away the ungodliness from Jacob.

27 And this is my covenant with them, ^p When I shall take away their sins.

28^r As concerning the^r gospel, they are enemies for your sakes: but as touching the^r election, they are beloved for the Father's sake.

29^r For the gifts and calling of God are without repentance.

30^r For even as ye in times past have not believed brace the gospel. And hereby we may learn, that the severity of God serveth as well to the setting-forth of his glory, as his mercy doth, and also that God prepareth himself a way to mercy, by his severity: so that we ought not rashly to despair of any man, nor proudly triumph over other men, but rather to provoke them to an holy emulation, that God may be glorified in them also.

^r By riches, he meaneth the knowledge of the gospel to everlasting life: and by the world, all nations dispersed throughout the whole world.

^r Of the Jews, when the whole nation, without exception, shall come to Christ.

^r He witnesseth by his own example, that he goeth before all other in this behalf.

^m I make noble and famous.

^r It shall come to pass that when the Jews come to the gospel, the world shall, as it were, quicken again, and rise up from death to life.

^r The nation of the Jews being considered in their stock, and root, that is, in Abraham, is holy, although that many of the branches be cut off. Therefore in judging of our brethren, we must not stick in their unworthiness, to think that they are at once all cut off, but we ought to consider the root of the covenant, and rather go back to their ancestors which were faithful, that we may know that the blessing of the covenant resteth in some of their posterity, as we also find proof hereof in ourselves.

^r He alludeth to the first-fruits of those loaves, by the offering whereof all the whole crop of corn was sanctified. And they might use the rest of the year following with good conscience.

^r Abraham.

^r There is no cause why the Gentiles which have obtained mercy, should triumph over the Jews which contemn the grace of God, seeing they are grafted into the Jews ancestors. But let them rather take heed, that that also be not found in them which is worthily condemned in the Jews. And hereof also this general doctrine may be gathered and taken, that we ought to be studious of God's glory, even in respect of our neighbours: so far ought we to be from bragging and glorying, for that, that we are preferred before other by a singular grace.

^r In place of these boughs which are broken off.

^r It is against the common course of husbandry, that the barren juice of the imp is changed with the juice of the good tree.

^r We may rejoice in the Lord, but so that we despise not the Jews, whom we ought rather to provoke to that good striving with us.

^r See that thou stand in awe of God modestly and carefully.

^r He calleth them natural, not because they had any holiness of nature, but because they were born of them whom the Lord set apart for himself from other nations, by his league and covenant, which he freely made with them.

^r Seeing the matter itself declareth that election cometh not by inheritance (although the fault be in men, and not in God, why the blessing of God is not perpetual) we must take good heed that that be not found in ourselves, which we think blame-worthy in others; for the election is sure, but they that are truly elect and ingrafted, are not proud in themselves with contempt of other, but with due reverence to God, and love towards their neighbour, run to the mark which is set before them

^r The tender and living heart.

^r In that state which God's bountifulness hath advanced thee unto; and we must mark here, that he speaketh not of the election of every private man, which remaineth steadfast for ever, but of the election of the whole nation.

^r Many are now for a season cut off, that is, are without the root, which in their time shall be grafted in: and again there are a great sort, which after a sort, and touching the outward shew, seem to be ingrafted, which notwithstanding through their own fault, afterward are cut off, and clean cast away: which thing is especially to be considered in nations and people, as in the Gentiles and Jews.

^r Understand nature, not as it was first made, but as it was corrupted in Adam, and so derived from him to his posterity.

^r Into the people of the Jews, which God had sanctified of his mere grace: and he speaketh of the whole nation, not of every one apart.

^r The blindness of the Jews is neither so universal that the Lord hath no elect in that nation, neither shall it be continual: for there shall be a time wherein they also (as the prophets have forewarned) shall effectually embrace that which they do now so stubbornly, for the most part, reject and refuse.

^r That ye be not proud within yourselves.

^r Into the church.

^r Again, that he may join the Jews and Gentiles together as it were in one body, and especially may teach what duty the Gentiles owe to the Jews, he beateth this into their heads, that the nation of the Jews is not utterly cut off without hope of recovery.

^r Forasmuch as they receive it not.

^r In that God respecteth not what they deserve, but what he promised to Abraham.

^r The reason or proof: because the covenant made with that nation, of life everlasting, cannot be frustrate and vain.

^r Another reason; because that although they which are hardened, are worthily punished, yet hath not this stubbornness of the Jews so come to pass properly for an hatred to that nation, but that an entry might be, as it were, opened

A. D. 60. believed God, yet have now obtained mercy through their unbelief.

31 Even so now have they not believed by the mercy shewed unto you, that they also may obtain mercy.

32 For God hath shut up all in unbelief, that he might have mercy on all.

33 O the deepness of the riches, both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out!

34 For who hath known the mind of the Lord? or who was his counsellor?

35 Or who hath given unto him first, and he shall be recompensed?

36 For of him, and through him, and for him are all things: to him be glory for ever. Amen.

C H A P. XII.

1 He exhorteth 2 to that worship which is acceptable to God: 9 to love unfeigned, 14, 20 even towards our enemies.

I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye give up your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable serving of God.

2 And fashion not yourselves like unto this opened to bring in the Gentiles, and afterward the Jews, being inflamed with emulation of that mercy which is shewed to the Gentiles, might themselves also be partakers of the same benefit, and so it might appear that both Jews and Gentiles are saved only by the free mercy and grace of God, which could not have been so manifest, if at the beginning God had brought altogether into the church, or if he had saved the nation of the Jews without this interruption.

f Both Jews and Gentiles.

17 The apostle crieth out as astonished with this wonderful wisdom of God, which he teacheth us, ought to be religiously revered, and not curiously and profanely to be searched beyond the compass of that that God hath revealed unto us.

* The course that he holdeth in governing all things both generally and particularly.

h The order of his counsels and doings.

18 He bridleth three manner of ways, the wicked boldness of man: first, because that God is above all most wise, and therefore it is very absurd, and plainly godless to measure him by our folly. Moreover, because he is debtor to no man, and therefore no man can complain of injury done unto him. Thirdly, because all things are made for his glory, and therefore we must refer all things to his glory, much less may we contend and debate the matter with him.

1 This saying overthroweth the doctrine of foreseen works and merits.

k To wit, for God, to whose glory all things are referred, not only things that were made, but especially his new works which he worketh in his elect.

1 The fourth part of this epistle, which after the finishing of the chief points of Christian doctrine, consisteth in declaring of precepts of Christian life. And first of all, he giveth general precepts and grounds: the chiefest whereof is this, that every man consecrate himself wholly to the spiritual service of God, and do as it were sacrifice himself, trusting to the grace of God.

2 By this preface he sheweth that God's glory is the utmost end of all our doings.

b In times past the sacrifices were presented before the altar: but now the altar is every where.

c Yourselves: in times past, other bodies than our own, now our own must be offered.

d In times past, dead sacrifices were offered, but now we must offer such as have the Spirit of life in them.

e Spiritual.

2 The second precept is this, That we take not other men's opinions or manners for a rule of life, but that we wholly renouncing this world, set before us as a mark the will of God, as it is manifested and opened unto us in his word.

f Why then there is no place left for reason, which the heathen philoſophers place as a queen in a castle, nor for world, but be ye changed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what that good, and acceptable, and perfect will of God is.

A. D. 60. Eph. 5. 17. 1 Thess. 4. 3.

3 For I say through the grace that is given unto me, to every one that is among you, that no man presume to understand above that which is meet to understand, but that he understand according to sobriety, as God hath dealt to every man the measure of faith.

* 1 Cor. 12.

4 For as we have many members in one body, and all members have not one office,

11. Eph. 4. 7.

5 So we being many, have one body in Christ, and every one, one another's members.

6 Seeing then that we have gifts that are divers, according to the grace that is given unto us, whether we have prophecy, let us prophesy according to the portion of faith:

1 Pet. 4. 10.

7 Or an office, let us wait on the office: or he that teacheth, on teaching:

8 Or he that exhorteth, on exhortation: he that distributeth, let him do it with simplicity: he that ruleth, with diligence: he that sheweth mercy, with chearfulness.

* Matt. 6. 2.

2 Cor. 9. 7.

9 Let love be without dissimulation. Abhor that which is evil, and cleave unto that which is good.

* Amos 5. 15.

10 Be affectioned to love one another with brotherly

* Eph. 4. 2.

Y y

man's free will, which the popish schoolmen dream on, if the mind must be renewed. Look Ephes. 1. 18. and 2. 3. and 4. 17. and Coloss. 1. 21.

3 Thirdly, he admonisheth us very earnestly, that every man keep himself within the bounds of his vocation, and that every man be wise according to the measure of grace that God hath given him.

* I charge.

h That he please not himself too much, as they do which persuade themselves they know more than indeed they do.

1 We shall be sober, if we take not that upon us which we have not, and if we brag not of that we have.

k By faith he meaneth the knowledge of God in Christ, and the gifts which the Holy Ghost poureth upon the faithful.

4 There is a double reason of the precept going afore: the one is, because God hath not committed every thing to be done of every man: and therefore he doth backwardly, and not only unprofitably, but also to the great disprofit of others, wearie himself and others, which passeth the bounds of his vocation: the other is, for that this diversity and inequality of vocations and gifts redoundeth to our commodity: seeing that the same is therefore instituted and appointed, that we should be bound one to another. Whereupon it followeth, that no man ought to be grieved thereat, seeing that the use of every private gift is common.

5 That which he spake before in general, he applieth particularly to the holy functions, wherein men offend with great danger. And he divideth them into two sorts: to wit, into prophets and deacons: and again, he divideth the prophets into doctors and pastors. And of deacons he maketh three sorts: to wit, the one to be such as are (as it were) treasurers of the church-coffers, whom he calleth properly deacons: the other to be the governors of the discipline, who are called Seniors, or Elders: the third, to be such as properly served in the help of the poor, of which sort the company of widows were.

1 That every man observe the measure of that which is revealed unto him.

m Whose office is only to expound the scriptures.

n Who in other places is called the pastor.

o To wit, the alms, that he distribute them without respect of person.

p The elders of the church.

q They that are busied about tending on the poor, must do it with chearfulness, lest they add sorrow to sorrow.

6 Now he cometh to the duties of the second table, which he deriveth from charity, which is, as it were, the fountain of them all. And he defineth Christian charity, by sincerity, hatred of evil, earnest study of good things, good affection to help our neighbour, and whose final end is the glory of God.

A. D. 60. brotherly love. In giving honour, go one before another, 11 Not slothful to do service, fervent in spirit, serving the Lord.

12 Rejoicing in hope, patient in tribulation, continuing in prayer.

13 Distributing unto the necessities of the saints: giving yourselves to hospitality.

14 Bless them which persecute you: bless, if you may, and curse not.

15 Rejoice with them that rejoice: and weep with them that weep.

16 Be of like affection one towards another: be not high-minded: but make yourselves equal to them of the lower sort: be not wise in yourselves.

17 Recompense to no man evil for evil: procure things honest in the sight of all men.

18 If it be possible, as much as in you is, have peace with all men.

19 Dearly beloved, avenge not yourselves, but give place unto wrath: for it is written, Vengeance is mine: I will repay, saith the Lord.

20 Therefore if thine enemy hunger, feed him: if he thirst, give him drink: for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head.

21 Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with goodness.

C H A P. XIII.

1 He willeth that we submit ourselves to magistrates: 8 To love our neighbours: 13 To live uprightly, 14 and to put on Christ.

LET every soul be subject unto the higher powers: for there is no power but of God: and the powers that be, are ordained of God.

¹ This piece is well put in, for it maketh difference between christian duties and philosophical duties.

² He reckoneth up divers other virtues together with their effects, to wit, hope, patience in tribulation, equanimity, continuance in prayer, liberality toward the saints, hospitality, moderation of mind even in helping our enemies, a self-same feeling with others, as well in adversity as prosperity, modesty, endeavour to maintain honest concord, so high as we may, with all men, which cannot be extinguished by any man's injuries.

³ A true rule of charity, when we are no less touched with other men's wants, than with our own, and having that feeling, help them as much as we can.

⁴ Not upon pleasures and needless duties, but upon necessary uses.

⁵ There is nothing that doth so much break concord as ambition, when as every man loatheth a base estate, and seeketh ambitiously to be aloft.

⁶ Be not puffed up with opinion of your own wisdom.

⁷ After this sort doth Solomon point out the wrath of God that hangeth over a man.

⁸ Now he sheweth severally, what subjects owe to their magistrates, to wit, obedience: From which he sheweth that no man is free: and in such sort that it is not only due to the highest magistrate himself, but also even to the basest, which hath any office under him.

⁹ Yea, though an apostle, though an evangelist, though a prophet: Chrysostom. Therefore the tyranny of the pope over all kingdoms must down to the ground.

¹⁰ A reason taken of the nature of the thing itself: for to what purpose are they placed in higher degree, but that the inferior should be subject unto them?

¹¹ Another argument of great force: because God is author of this order; so that such as are rebels ought to know, that they make war with God himself: wherefore they cannot but purchase to themselves great misery and calamity.

¹² Be distributed: for some are greater, some smaller.

¹³ The third argument, taken from the end wherefore they were made, which is most profitable: for that God by this means preserveth the good, and bridleth the wicked: by which words, the magistrates themselves are put in mind of,

2 Whosoever therefore resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinance of God: and they that resist shall receive to themselves condemnation.

3 For magistrates are not to be feared for good works, but for evil. Wilt thou then be without fear of the power? Do well: so shalt thou have praise of the same.

4 For he is the minister of God for thy wealth: but if thou do evil, fear: for he beareth not the sword for nought: for he is the minister of God to take vengeance on him that doeth evil.

5 Wherefore ye must be subject, not because of wrath only, but also for conscience sake.

6 For, for this cause ye pay also tribute: for they are God's ministers, applying themselves for the same thing.

7 Give to all men therefore their duty, tribute, to whom ye owe tribute: custom, to whom custom: fear, to whom fear: honour, to whom ye owe honour.

8 Owe nothing to any man, but to love one another: for he that loveth another, hath fulfilled the law.

9 For this, Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not kill, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false witness, Thou shalt not covet: and if there be any other commandment, it is briefly comprehended in this saying, even in this, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

10 Love doeth not evil to his neighbour: therefore is love the fulfilling of the law.

11 And that, considering the season, that it is now time that we should arise from sleep: for now is our salvation nearer, than when we believed it.

12 The night is past, and the day is at hand, let that duty which they owe to their subjects.

⁵ An excellent way to bear this yoke, not only without grief, but also with great profit.

⁶ God hath armed the magistrate even with a revenging sword.

⁷ By whom God avengeth the wicked.

⁸ The conclusion: we must obey the magistrate, not only for fear of punishment, but much more because that (although the magistrate hath no power over the conscience of man, yet seeing he is God's minister) he cannot be resisted by any good conscience.

⁹ So far as lawfully we may: for if unlawful things be commanded us, we must answer as Peter teacheth us, It is better to obey God than men.

¹⁰ He reckoneth up the chiefest things wherein consisteth the obedience of subjects.

¹¹ Obedience, and that from the heart.

¹² Reverence, which (as reason is) we must give to the magistrate.

¹³ He sheweth how very few judgments need to be executed, to wit, if we so order our life as no man may justly require any thing of us, besides that only that we owe one to another by the perpetual law of charity.

¹⁴ He commendeth charity as an abridgment of the whole law.

¹⁵ He hath not only done one commandment, but performed generally that which the law commandeth.

¹⁷ An amplification taken of the circumstance of the time: which also itself putteth us in mind of our duty, (seeing that this remaineth, after that the darkness of ignorance and wicked affections by the knowledge of God's truth be driven out of us, that we order our life according to that certain and sure rule of all righteousness and honesty, being fully grounded upon the virtue of the Spirit of Christ.

¹⁸ In other places we are said to be in the light, but yet so, that it appeareth not as yet what we are, for as yet we see but as it were in the twilight.

A. D. 60. let us therefore cast away the works of ^k darkness, and let us put on the armour of light, 13 So that we walk honestly, as in the day:
 not in ^{gluttony}, and drunkenness, neither in chambering and wantonness, nor in strife and envying:
 14 ^{But} put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ, and take no thought for the flesh, to fulfil the lusts of it.

CHAP. XIV.

3 He willeth that we so deal with the weak in faith, 10 that through our fault they be not offended, 15 and on the other side he commandeth them not rashly to judge of the stranger: 19 That within the bounds of edification, 20 and charity, 22 Christian liberty may consist.

HIM that is weak in the faith, ^{receive} unto you, but not for ^{controversies} of disputations.

2 ^{One} believeth that he may eat of all things: and another, which is weak, eateth herbs.

3 ^{Let} not him that eateth, despise him that eateth not: and let not him which eateth not, condemn him that eateth: for ^{God} hath received him.

4 ^{Who} art thou that condemnest another man's servant? he standeth or falleth to his own master: yea, he shall be established: for God is able to make him stand. A. D. 60.

5 ^{This} man esteemeth one day above another day, and another man counteth every day alike: ^{let} every man be fully persuaded in his mind.

6 ^{He} that observeth the day, observeth it to the Lord: and he that observeth not the day, observeth it not to the Lord. He that eateth, eateth to the Lord, ^{for} he giveth God thanks: and he that eateth not, eateth not to the Lord, and giveth God thanks.

7 ^{For} none of us liveth to himself, neither doth any die to himself:

8 For whether we live, we live unto the Lord: or whether we die, we die unto the Lord: whether we live therefore, or die, we are the Lord's.

9 For Christ therefore died, and rose again, and revived, that he might be Lord both of the dead and the quick.

10 ^{But} why dost thou condemn thy brother? or why dost thou despise thy brother? ^{for} we shall all appear before the judgment-seat of Christ. * 2 Cor. 7. 10.

11 For it is written, ^I live, saith the Lord: and every knee shall bow to me, and all tongues shall confess unto God. * Isa. 45. 23. Phil. 2. 10. 12 So ^k That kind of life which they lead, that flee the light.

¹ To put on Christ, is to possess Christ, to have him in us, and us in him.

¹ Now he sheweth how we ought to behave ourselves toward our brethren in matters and things indifferent, offending in the use of them, not of malice, or damnable superstition, but for lack of knowledge of the benefit of Christ. And thus he teacheth that they are to be instructed gently, and patiently, and so that we apply ourselves to their ignorance in such matters, according to the rule of charity.

² Do not for a matter or thing that is indifferent, and such as you may do or not do, shun his company, but take him to you.

³ To make him by your doubtful and uncertain disputations go away more in doubt than he came, or start back with a troubled conscience.

² He propoundeth for an example the difference of meats, which some thought was necessary to be observed, as a thing prescribed by the law (not knowing that it was taken away) whereas on the contrary side, such as had profited in the knowledge of the gospel, knew well that this schoolmastership of the law was abolished.

³ Knoweth by faith.

³ In such a matter, saith the apostle, let neither them which know their liberty, proudly despise their weak brother, neither let the unlearned crabbedly or frowardly condemn that that they understand not.

⁵ Another reason which hangeth upon the former: why the ruder and more unlearned ought not to be condemned of the more skilful, as men without hope of salvation: because, saith the apostle, he that is ignorant to-day, may be induced to-morrow with further knowledge, so that he may also stand sure: therefore it belongeth to God and not unto man, to pronounce that sentence of condemnation.

⁶ Another example of the difference of days according to the law.

⁷ He setteth against this contempt, and hasty or rash judgments, a continual desire to profit, that the strong may be certainly persuaded of their liberty, of what manner and sort it is, and how they ought to use it: and again the weak may daily profit, lest either they abuse the gift of God, or these please themselves in their infirmity.

⁸ That he may say in his conscience, that he knoweth and is persuaded by Jesus Christ, that nothing is unclean of itself, and this persuasion must be grounded upon the word of God.

⁸ A reason taken from the nature of indifferent things, which a man may with a good conscience do, and omit: for seeing that the difference of days and meats was appointed by God, how could they which as yet understood not the abrogating of the law, and yet otherwise acknowledged Christ as their Saviour, with good conscience neglect that which they knew was commanded of God? And on the contrary side, they that knew the benefit of Christ in this behalf, did with good conscience neither observe days nor meats: Therefore saith the apostle, verse 10. Let not the strong condemn the weak for these things, seeing that the weak brethren are brethren notwithstanding. Now if any man would draw this doctrine to these our times and ages, let him know that the apostle speaketh of such things indifferent, as they which thought them not to be indifferent, had a ground in the law, and were deceived by simple ignorance, and not of malice, (for to such the apostle yielded not, no not for a moment) nor superstition, but of a religious fear of God.

⁶ Observeth precisely.

⁷ God shall judge whether he do well or no: and therefore you should rather strive about this, how every one of you may be allowed of God, than to think upon other mens doings.

⁸ He that maketh no difference of meats.

⁹ So the apostle sheweth that he speaketh of the faithful, both strong and weak: but what if we have to do with infidels? Then must we here take heed of two things, as also is declared in the epistle to the Corinthians. The one is, that we count not their superstition among things indifferent, as they did which sat down to meat in idols temples: the other is, that then also when the matter is indifferent (as to buy a thing offered to idols, in the butchers shambles, and to eat it at home, or in a private banquet) we wound not the conscience of our weak brother.

¹⁰ He that toucheth not meats which he taketh to be unclean by the law.

¹⁰ We must not stick, saith he, in the meat itself, but in the use of the meat, so that he is justly to be reprehended that liveth so, that he casteth not his eyes upon God, for both our life, and our death is dedicated to him: and for this cause Christ hath properly died, and not simply, that we might eat this meat or that.

¹¹ Hath respect to himself only, which the Hebrews utter after this sort, Doth well to his own soul.

¹² This is a form of an oath, proper to God only, for he and none but he liveth, and hath his being of himself.

¹ Shall acknowledge me for God.

A. D. 12 So then every one of us shall give accounts
60. of himself to God.

13 Let us not therefore judge one another any more: but use your judgment rather in this, that no man put an occasion to fall, or a stumbling-block before his brother.

14 I know, and am persuaded through the Lord Jesus, that there is nothing unclean of itself: but unto him that judgeth any thing to be unclean, to him it is unclean.

15 But if thy brother be grieved for the meat, now walkest thou not charitably: Destroy not him with thy meat, for whom Christ died.

16 Cause not your commodity to be evil spoken of.

17 For the kingdom of God is not meat nor drink, but righteousness and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost.

18 For whosoever in these things serveth Christ, is acceptable unto God, and is approved of men.

19 Let us then follow those things which concern peace, and wherewith one may edify another.

20 Destroy not the work of God for meat's sake: all things indeed are pure: but it is evil for the man which eateth with offence.

21 It is good neither to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor any thing whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offended, or made weak:

22 Hast thou faith? have it with thyself before God? blessed is he that condemneth not himself in that thing which he alloweth.

23 For he that doubteth, is condemned if he eat, because he eateth not of faith: and whatsoever is not of faith, is sin.

C H A P. XV.

1 The stronger must employ their strength to strengthen the weak, 3 by Christ's example, 7 who receiveth 8 not only the Jews, 10 but also the Gentiles. 15 The cause why he wrote this epistle.

WE which are strong, ought to bear the infirmities of the weak, and not to please ourselves.

2 Therefore let every man please his neighbour in that that is good to edification.

3 For Christ also would not please himself: but as it is written, The rebukes of them which rebuke thee, fell on me.

4 For whatsoever things are written aforetime, are written for our learning, that we, through patience and comfort of the scriptures, might have hope,

5 Now the God of patience and consolation give you that ye be like minded one towards another, according to Christ Jesus.

6 That ye with one mind, and with one mouth, may praise God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.

7 Wherefore receive ye one another as Christ also received us, to the glory of God.

8 Now I say, that Jesus Christ was a minister of the circumcision, for the truth of God, to confirm the promises made unto the fathers.

9 And let the Gentiles praise God for his mercy, as it is written, For this cause I will confess 12 After that he hath concluded what is not to be done, he sheweth what is to be done: to wit, we must take heed that we do not utterly cast down, with abusing our liberty, our brother which is not yet strong.

13 He rebuketh by the way these malicious judgers of others, which occupy their heads about nothing, but to find fault with their brethren's life, whereas they should rather bestow their wits upon this, that they do not with their disdainfulness either cast their brethren clean down, or give them some offence.

14 The preventing of an objection: it is true that the schoolmastery of the law is taken away by the benefit of Christ, to such as know it; but yet notwithstanding we have to consider, in the use of this liberty, what is expedient, that we may have regard of our weak brother, seeing that our liberty is not lost thereby.

15 By the Spirit of the Lord Jesus, or by the Lord Jesus, who I am sure will brake down the wall at his coming.

16 It is the part of a cruel mind to make more account of meat, than of our brother's salvation. Which thing they do, that presume to eat with the offence of any brother, and so give him occasion to go back from the gospel.

17 Another argument: we must follow Christ's example: who was so far from destroying the weak with meat, that he gave his life for them.

18 Another argument: for that by this means the liberty of the gospel is evil spoken of, as though it openeth the way to attempt any thing whatsoever, and boldeneth us to all things.

19 A general reason, and the ground of all the other arguments: the kingdom of heaven consisteth not in these outward things, but in the study of righteousness and peace, and comfort of the Holy Ghost.

20 He that liveth peaceably, and dieth righteously, through the Holy Ghost.

21 A general conclusion: the use of this liberty, yea, and our whole life, ought to be referred to the edifying one of another, insomuch that we esteem that thing unlawful by reason of the offence of our brother, which is of itself pure and lawful.

22 He giveth a double warning in these matters: one, which pertaineth to the strong, that he which hath obtained a sure knowledge of this liberty, keep that treasure, to the end he may use it wisely and profitably, as hath been said: the other which respecteth the weak, that they do nothing rashly by other mens example with a wavering conscience, for that cannot be done without sin, whereof we are not persuaded by the word of God, that he liketh and approveth it.

9 He shewed before, verse 14. what he meaneth by faith, to wit, for a man to be certain and out of doubt in matters and things indifferent.

10 Embraceth.

11 Reasoneth with himself.

12 Now the apostle reasoneth generally of tolerating or bearing with the weak, by all means, so far forth as may be for their profit.

13 And despise others.

14 For his profit and edification.

15 A confirmation taken of the example of Christ, who suffered all things, to bring not only the weak, but also his most cruel enemies, overcoming them with patience, to his Father.

16 The preventing of an objection: such things as are cited out of the examples of the ancients, are propounded unto us to this end and purpose, that according to the example of our Fathers, we should in patience and hope bear one with another.

17 By Moses and the prophets.

18 The scriptures are said to teach and comfort, because God useth them to teach and comfort his people withal.

19 We must take an example of patience of God: that both the weak and the strong, serving God with a mutual consent, may bring one another to God, as Christ also received us unto himself, although we were never so unworthy.

20 He did not disdain us, but received us of his own accord, to make us partakers of God's glory.

21 An applying of the example of Christ to the Jews, whom he vouchsafed this honour, for the promises which he made unto their fathers, although they were never so unworthy, that he executed the office of a minister among them with marvellous patience: therefore much less ought the Gentiles despise them for certain faults, whom the Son of God so much esteemed.

22 Of the circumcised Jews, for as long as he lived, he never went out of their quarters.

23 That God might be seen to be true.

24 An applying of the same to the Gentiles, whom also the Lord of his incomprehensible goodness had regard of, so that they are not to be contemned of the Jews, as strangers.

A. D. 60. ^h confess thee among the Gentiles, and sing unto thy name.

^{Deut. 32.} 10 And again he saith, * Rejoice, ye Gentiles, with his people.

^{Ps. 117.} 11 And again, * Praise the Lord, all ye Gentiles, and laud ye him, all people together.

^{Isa. 11. 20.} 12 And again Esaias saith, * There shall be a root of Jesse, and he that shall rise to reign over the Gentiles, in him shall the Gentiles trust.

13 ⁷ Now the God of ¹ hope fill you with ^k all joy, and peace in believing, that ye may abound in hope, through the power of the Holy Ghost.

14 ⁸ And I myself also am persuaded of you, my brethren, that ¹ ye also are full of goodness, and filled with all knowledge, and are able to admonish one another.

15 Nevertheless, brethren, I have somewhat boldly after a sort written unto you, as one that putteth you in remembrance, through the grace that is given me of God,

16 That I should be the minister of Jesus Christ toward the Gentiles, ministering the gospel of God, that the ^m offering up of the Gentiles might be acceptable, being sanctified by the Holy Ghost.

17 ⁹ I have therefore whereof I may rejoice in Christ Jesus in those things which pertain to God:

18 For I dare not speak of any thing which ⁿ Christ hath not wrought by me, to make the Gentiles obedient in word and deed, 19 With the ^o power of signs and wonders, by the power of the Spirit of God: so that from Jerusalem, and round about unto Illyricum, I have caused to abound the gospel of Christ.

20 Yea, so I enforced myself to preach the gospel, not where Christ was named, lest I should have built on another man's foundation, ^{Isa. 52. 15.} 21 But as it is written, * To whom he was not spoken of, they shall see him, and they that heard not, shall understand him.

^{Ch. 1. 11.} 22 * ¹⁰ Therefore also I have been oft let to come unto you:

^{1 Thess. 1. 17.} 23 But now seeing I have no more place in these quarters, and also have * been desirous many years ago to come unto you,

24 When I shall take my journey into Spain ^{A. D. 60.} I will come to you: for I trust to see you in my journey, and to be brought on my way thitherward by you, after that I have been somewhat filled with your company.

25 But now go I to Jerusalem, to ^p minister unto the faints.

26 For it hath pleased them of Macedonia and Achaia, to make a certain distribution unto the poor faints which are at Jerusalem.

27 ¹¹ For it hath pleased them, and their debtors are they: * for if the Gentiles be made partakers of their spiritual things, their duty is also ^{11.} to ^q minister unto them in carnal things. ^{* 1 Cor. 6. 60.}

28 When I have therefore performed this, and have ^r sealed them this ^s fruit, I will pass by you into Spain.

29 ¹² And I know when I come, that I shall come to you with abundance of the blessing of the gospel of Christ.

30 Also, brethren, I beseech you for our Lord Jesus Christ's sake, and for the ^t love of the Spirit, that ye would strive with me, by prayers to God for me,

31 That I may be delivered from them which are disobedient in Judea, and that my service which I have to do at Jerusalem may be accepted of the faints, 32 That I may come unto you with joy by the will of God, and may with you be refreshed.

33 Thus the God of peace be with you all; Amen.

1 He commendeth Phebe. 3 He sendeth greeting to many, 17 and warneth to beware of them which are the causes of division.

I ¹ Commend unto you Phebe our sister, which is a servant of the church of Cenchrea:

2 That ye receive her in the ² Lord, as it becometh faints, and that ye assist her in whatsoever business she needeth of your aid: for she hath given hospitality unto many, and to me also.

4 (Which

^h I will openly profess, and set forth thy name.

⁷ He sealeth up, as it were, all the former treatise with prayers, wishing all that to be given them of the Lord, that he had commanded them.

ⁱ In whom we hope.

^k Abundantly and plentifully.

⁸ The conclusion of the epistle, wherein he first excuseth himself, that he hath written somewhat at large unto them, rather to warn them, than to teach them, and that of necessity, by reason of his vocation, which bindeth him peculiarly to the Gentiles.

¹ Of your own accord, and of yourselves.

^m By the offering up of the Gentiles, he meaneth the Gentiles themselves, whom he offered to God a sacrifice.

⁹ He commendeth his apostleship highly by the effects, but yet so, that moreover and besides that he speaketh all things truly, he giveth all the glory to God as the only author; and doth not properly respect himself, but this rather, that men might less doubt of the truth of the doctrine which he propounded unto them.

ⁿ Christ was so with me in all things, and by all means, that if I would never so fain, yet I cannot say what he hath done by me, to bring the Gentiles to obey the gospel.

^o In the first place, this word, Power, signifieth the force and working of the wonders in piercing men's minds; and in the latter, it signifieth God's mighty power which was the worker of these wonders.

¹⁰ He writeth at large to the Romans, and that familiarly, his singular good will towards them, and the state of his affairs, but so, that he swerveth not a jot from the end of apostolical doctrine: for he declareth nothing but that which appertaineth to his office, and is godly; and commending by a little digression, as it were, the liberality of the churches of Macedonia, he provoketh them modestly to follow their godly deed.

^p Doing this duty for the faints, to carry them that money which was gathered for their uses.

¹¹ Alms are voluntary, but yet such as we owe by the law of charity.

^q To serve their turns.

^r Performed it faithfully, and sealed it as it were with my ring.

^s This money which was gathered for the use of the poor; which alms is very fitly called fruit.

¹² He promiseth them through the blessing of God, not to come empty unto them; and requiring of them the duty of prayers, he sheweth what thing we ought chiefly to rest upon in all difficulties and adversities.

^t For that mutual conjunction, wherewith the Holy Ghost hath tied our hearts and minds together.

¹ Having made an end of the whole disputation, he cometh now to familiar commendations and salutations, and that to good consideration and purpose, to wit, that the Romans might know who are most to be honoured and made account of amongst them: and also whom they ought to set before them to follow; and therefore he attributeth unto every of them peculiar and singular testimonies.

² For Christ's sake, which is proper to the Christian, for the heathen philosophers have resemblances of the same virtues.

A. D. 52. 4 Which have for my life laid down their own necks: Unto whom not I only give thanks, but also all the churches of the Gentiles)

5 Likewise greet the church that is in their home. Salute my beloved Epenetus, which is the first-fruits of Achaia in Christ.

6 Greet Mary, which belov'd much labour upon us.

7 Salute Andronicus and Junia my cousins and fellow prisoners, which are notable among the apostles, and were in Christ before me.

8 Greet Amplias my beloved in the Lord.

9 Salute Urbane our fellow-helper in Christ, and Stachys my beloved.

10 Salute Apelles approved in Christ. Salute them which are of Aristobulus friends.

11 Salute Herodian my kinsman. Greet them which are of the friends of Narcissus, which are in the Lord.

12 Salute Tryphena and Tryphosa, which serve labour in the Lord. Salute the beloved Persis, which woman hath laboured much in the Lord.

13 Salute Rufus chosen in the Lord, and his mother and mine.

14 Greet Asyncritus, Phlegon, Hermas, Patrobas, Mercurius, and the brethren which are with them.

15 Salute Philologus and Julia, Nereus, and his sister, and Olympas, and all the saints which are with them.

16 Salute one another with an holy kiss. The churches of Christ salute you.

17 Now I beseech you, brethren, mark them diligently which cause division and offences, contrary to the doctrine which ye have learned, and avoid them.

18 For they that are such, serve not the Lord Jesus Christ, but their own bellies, and with fair speech and flattering deceive the hearts of the simple.

19 For your obedience is come abroad among all: I am glad therefore of you: but yet I would have you wise unto that which is good, and simple concerning evil.

20 The God of peace shall tread Satan under your feet shortly. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you.

21 Timotheus my helper, and Lucius, and Jason, and Sosipater my kinsman, salute you.

22 I Tertius, which wrote out this epistle, salute you in the Lord.

23 Gaius mine host, and of the whole church, saluteth you. Erastus the steward of the city saluteth you, and Quartus a brother.

24 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all, Amen.

25 To him now that is of power to establish you according to my gospel, and preaching of Jesus Christ, by the revelation of the mystery which was kept secret since the world began:

26 (But now is opened, and published among all nations by the scriptures of the prophets, at the commandment of the everlasting God, for the obedience of faith)

27 To God, I say, only wise, be praise through Jesus Christ for ever. Amen.

Written to the Romans from Corinthus, and sent by Phebe, servant of the church which is at Cenchrea.

¹ The company of the faithful, for in so great a city as that was, there were divers companies.

² For he was the first of Achaia that believed in Christ: and this kind of speech is an allusion to the ceremonies of the law.

³ Ingrafted by faith.

⁴ He calleth that an holy kiss, which proceedeth from an heart that is full of that holy love: now this to is he referred to the manner used in those days.

⁵ As by namely describing them which were worthy of commendation, he sufficiently declared whom they ought to hear and follow, so doth he now paint out unto them whom they ought to take heed of, yet he nameth them not, for that it was not needful.

⁶ Warily and diligently, as though you should scout out for your enemies in a watch-tower.

⁷ The word which he useth, signifieth a promising, which performeth nothing, and if thou hearest any such, thou mayest assure thyself that he that promiseth thee, is more careful of thy matters, than of his own.

⁸ Simplicity must be joined with wisdom.

⁹ Furnished with the knowledge of the truth and wisdom, that you may embrace good things, and eschew evil, beware of the deceits and snares of false prophets, and resist them openly: and this place doth plainly destroy the Papists faith of credit, whereas they maintain it to be sufficient for one man to believe as another man believeth, without further knowledge, or examination what the matter is, or what ground it hath: using these daily speeches, We believe as our fathers believed, and we believe as the church believeth.

¹ As men that know no way to deceive, much less do deceive indeed.

² We must fight, with a certain hope of victory.

³ He annexeth salutations, partly to renew mutual friendship, and partly to the end that this epistle might be of some weight with the Romans, having the confirmation of so many that subscribed unto it.

⁴ Wrote it as Paul uttered it.

⁵ Now taking his leave of them this third time, he wisheth that unto them, whereupon dependeth all the force of the former doctrine.

⁶ He setteth forth the power and wisdom of God with great thanksgiving, which especially appear in the gospel, and maketh mention also of the calling of the Gentiles, to confirm the Romans in the hope of this salvation.

⁷ That secret and hidden thing, that is to say, the calling of the Gentiles.

⁸ Offered and exhibited to all nations to be known.

The First Epistle of the Apostle PAUL to the C O R I N T H I A N S.

C H A P. I.

A. D.
59.

1 After the salutation, 10 which in effect is an exhortation, 12 he reprehendeth the Corinthians sects and divisions, 17 and calleth them from pride to humility: 20 For, overthrowing all worldly wisdom, 23, 25 he advanceth only the preaching of the cross.

PAUL ¹ called to be an ² apostle of Jesus Christ, through the will of God, and our brother ³ Sosthenes,

2 ⁺ Unto the church of God, which is at Corinthus, to them that are ^{} sanctified in ^a Christ Jesus, ^{} saints by ^b calling, ^{*} with all that ^c call on the name of our Lord Jesus Christ in every place, both their Lord, and ours:

3 ⁶ Grace be with you, and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

4 ⁷ I thank my God always on your behalf, for the grace of God which is given you in Jesus Christ,

5 That in all things ye are made rich in him, ⁸ in ^d all kind of speech, and in all knowledge:

¹ The inscription of the epistle, wherein he chiefly goeth about to procure the good-will of the Corinthians towards him, yet notwithstanding, so that always he letteth them, to wit, that he is the servant of God, and not of men.

² If he be an apostle, then he must be heard, although he sometimes reprehend them sharply, seeing he hath not his own cause in hand, but is a messenger that bringeth the commandments of Christ.

³ He joineth Sosthenes with himself, that this doctrine might be confirmed by two witnesses.

⁴ It is a church of God, although it hath great faults in it, so that it obey them which admonish it.

⁵ A true definition of the catholic church which is one.

² The father sanctifieth us, that is to say, separateth us from the wicked, in giving us to his Son, that he may be in us, and we in him.

^b Whom God of his gracious goodness and mere love hath separated for himself: or whom God hath called to holiness: the first of these two expositions, sheweth from whence our sanctification cometh: and the second sheweth to what end it tendeth.

^c He is said properly to call on God, who crieth unto the Lord when he is in danger, and craveth help at his hands, and by the figure Synecdoche, it is taken for all the service of God: and therefore to call upon Christ's name, is to acknowledge and take him for very God.

⁶ The foundation and the life of the church, is Christ Jesus, given of the Father.

⁷ Going about to condemn many vices, he beginneth with a true commendation of their virtues, lest he might seem after to descend to chiding, being moved with malice or envy: yet so, that he referreth all to God, as the author of them, and that in Christ, that the Corinthians might be more ashamed to prophane and abuse the holy gifts of God.

⁸ He toucheth that by name which they most abused.

^d Seeing, that whilst we live here, we know but in part, and prophesy in part, this word (All) must be restrained to the present state of the faithful: but by (Speech) he meaneth not a vain kind of babbling, but the gift of holy eloquence, which the Corinthians abused.

⁹ He sheweth that the true use of these gifts consisteth herein, that the mighty power of Christ might thereby be set forth in them, that hereafter it might evidently appear how wickedly they abused them to glory and ambition.

^e By those excellent gifts of the Holy Ghost.

¹⁰ He saith by the way, that there is no cause why they should please themselves so much in those gifts which they

6 ⁹ As the testimony of Jesus Christ hath been confirmed in you: A. D. 59.

7 So that ye are not destitute of any gift: ^{*} ¹⁰ waiting for the ^r appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ, * Tit. 2. 11. Phil. 3. 20.

8 ^{*} ¹¹ Who shall also confirm you unto the end, that ye may be ^s blameless in the day of our Lord Jesus Christ. * 1 Theff. 3. 13. and 5. 23.

9 ^{*} God is ^h faithful, by whom ye are called unto the fellowship of his Son Jesus Christ our Lord. * 1 Theff. 5. 24.

10 ¹² Now I beseech you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ¹³ ye all speak one thing, and that there be no dissensions among you: but be ye ⁱ knit together in one mind, and in one judgment.

11 ¹⁴ For it hath been declared unto me, my brethren, of you, by them that are of the house of Cloe, that there are contentions made among you.

12 Now ^k this I say, that every one of you saith, I am Paul's, and I am ^{*} Apollos, and I am Cephass, and I am Christ's. * Acts 18. 24.

13 ¹⁵ Is Christ divided? was ¹⁶ Paul crucified had received, seeing that those were nothing in comparison of them which are to be looked for.

^f He speaketh of the last coming of Christ.

¹¹ He testifieth that he hopeth well of them hereafter, that they may more patiently abide his reprehension afterward. And yet together therewithal sheweth that as well the beginning as the accomplishing of our salvation, is only the work of God.

⁸ He calleth them blameless, not whom man never found fault with, but with whom no man can justly find fault, that is to say, them which are in Christ Jesus, in whom there is no condemnation. See Luke 1. 6.

^b True and constant, who doth not only call us, but giveth us the gift of perseverance also.

¹² Having made an end of the preface, he cometh to the matter itself, beginning with a most grave obtestation, as though they should hear Christ himself speaking, and not Paul.

¹³ The first part of this epistle, wherein his purpose is to call back the Corinthians to brotherly concord, and to take away all occasion of discord. So then this first part concerneth the taking away of schisms. Now a schism is, when men, which otherwise agree and consent together in doctrine, do yet separate themselves one from another.

ⁱ Knit together, as a body that consisteth of all his parts fitly knit together.

¹⁴ He beginneth his reprehension and chiding by taking away of an objection: for that he understood by good witnesses, that there were many factions among them. And therewithal he openeth the cause of dissensions, because that some did hang on one doctor, some on another, and some were so addicted to themselves, that they neglected all doctors and teachers, calling themselves the disciples of Christ only, shutting forth their teachers.

^k The matter I would say to you, is this.

¹⁵ The first reason why schisms ought to be eschewed: because Christ seemeth by that means, to be divided and torn in pieces, who cannot be the head of two divers and disagreeing bodies, being himself one.

¹⁶ Another reason: because they cannot without great injury to God, so hang of men as of Christ: which thing no doubt they do, which allow whatsoever some man speaketh, even for his person's sake: as these men allowed one self-same gospel being uttered of one man, and did loath it being uttered of another man. So that these factions were called by the names of their teachers. Now Paul setteth down his own name, not only to grieve no man, but also to shew that he pleadeth not his own cause.

A. D. 59. fied for you? either were ye ¹⁷ baptized into the name of Paul?

14 ¹⁸ I thank God, that I baptized none of you, but Crispus and Gaius, 15 Lest any should say, that I had baptized into mine own name.

16 I baptized also the household of Stephanas: furthermore know I not, whether I baptized any other.

17 ¹⁹ For Christ sent me not to baptize, but to preach the gospel, ²⁰ not with ²¹ wisdom of words, lest the ²² cross of Christ should be made of none effect.

18 For that ¹⁹ preaching of the cross is to them that perish, foolishness: but unto us, which are saved, it is the ²⁰ power of God.

19 ²² For it written, ²³ I will destroy the wisdom of the wise, and will cast away the understanding of the prudent.

20 Where is the wise? where is the ²¹ scribe? where is the ²² disputer of this world? hath not God made the wisdom of this world foolishness? A. D. 59.

21 ²³ For seeing the ²⁴ world by wisdom knew not God in the ²⁵ wisdom of God, ²⁶ it pleased God by the ²⁷ foolishness of preaching to save them that believe.

22 ²⁸ Seeing also that the Jews require ²⁹ a sign, and the Grecians seek after wisdom. ³⁰ Mat. 12. 38.

23 But we preach Christ crucified: unto the Jews, even a stumbling-block, and unto the Grecians, foolishness:

24 But unto them which are called, both of the Jews and Grecians, we preach Christ, the power of God, and the wisdom of God.

25 For the foolishness of God is wiser than men, and the weakness of God is stronger than men.

26 ²⁷ For, brethren, you see your ²⁸ calling, how that not many wise men ²⁹ after the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble are called.

27 But

¹⁷ The third reason taken of the form and end of baptism, wherein we make a promise to Christ, calling also on the name of the Father, and the Holy Ghost. Therefore although a man do not fall from the doctrine of Christ, yet if he hang upon some certain teachers, and despise others, he forsaketh Christ: for if he hold Christ his only Master, he would hear him, teaching by whomsoever.

¹⁸ He protesteth that he speaketh so much the more boldly of these things, because that through God's providence, he is void of all suspicion of challenging disciples unto himself, and taking them from others. Whereby we may understand, that not the scholars only, but the teachers also are here reprehended, which gather themselves flocks apart.

¹⁹ The taking away of an objection: that he gave not himself to baptize any amongst them: not for the contempt of baptism, but because he was chiefly occupied in delivering the doctrine, and committed them that received his doctrine to others to be baptized, whereof he had store. And so he declared sufficiently how far he was from all ambition: whereas on the other side, they whom he reprehendeth, as though they gathered disciples unto themselves and not unto Christ, bragged most ambitiously of numbers, which they had baptized.

²⁰ Now he turneth himself to the doctors themselves, which pleased themselves in brave and ambitious eloquence, to the end that they might draw more disciples after them. He confesseth plainly that he was unlike unto them, opposing gravely, as it became an apostle, his example against their perverse judgments: so that this is another place of this epistle, touching the observing of a godly simplicity both in words and sentences, in teaching of the gospel.

²² The reason why he useth not the pomp of words and painted speech: because it was God's will to bring the world to his obedience by that way, whereby the most ideots amongst men might understand that this work was done of God himself, without the art of man. Therefore as salvation is set forth unto us in the gospel by the cross of Christ, than which nothing is more contemptible, and more far from life; so God would have the manner of the preaching of the cross most different from those means which men do use to draw and entice others, either to hear or believe: therefore it pleased him by a certain kind of most wise folly, to triumph over the most foolish wisdom of the world, as he had said before by Isaiah, that he would. And hereby we may gather, that both these doctors which were puffed up with ambitious eloquence, and also their hearers, strayed far away from the end and mark of their vocation.

²³ The preaching of Christ crucified, or the kind of speech which we use.

²⁴ It is that wherein he declareth his marvellous power in saving his elect, which would not so evidently appear, if it hanged upon any help of man, for so man might attribute that to himself, which is proper only to the cross of Christ.

²⁵ The apostle proveth, this ought not only not to seem strange, seeing that it was foretold so long before, but declareth further, that God is wont to punish the pride of the world in such sort, which so pleaseth itself in its own wisdom; and therefore that that is vain, yea a thing of nothing, and such as God rejecteth as unprofitable, which they so carefully laboured for, and made so great account of.

²⁶ Where art thou, O thou learned fellow, and thou that spendest thy days in turning thy books?

²⁸ He sheweth that the pride of men was worthily punished of God, because they would not behold God, as meet was they should, in the most clear glass of the wisdom of the world, which is the workmanship of the world.

²⁹ By the world, he meaneth all men which are not born anew, but remain as they were, when they were first born.

³⁰ In the workmanship of this world, which hath the marvellous wisdom of God engraved in it, so that every man may behold it.

³¹ The goodness of God is wonderful, for while he goeth about to punish the pride of this world, he is very provident and careful for the salvation of it, and teacheth men to become fools, that they may be wise to God.

³² So he calleth the preaching of the gospel, as the enemies supposed it: but in the mean season he taunteth them very sharply, who had rather charge God with folly, than acknowledge their own, and crave pardon for it.

³³ A declaration of that which he said; that the preaching of the gospel, is foolish. It is foolish, saith he, to them whom God hath not endued with new light, that is to say, to all men being considered in themselves: for the Jews require miracles, and the Grecians arguments, which they may comprehend by their wit and wisdom: and therefore they do not only not believe the gospel, but also they mock at it. Notwithstanding in this foolish preaching, there is the great virtue and wisdom of God, but such as those only which are called do perceive: God shewing most plainly, that even then when madmen think him most foolish, he is far wiser than they are: and that he firmounteth all their might and power, when he useth most vile and abject things, as it hath appeared in the fruit of the preaching of the gospel.

³⁴ A confirmation taken of those things which came to pass at Corinth, where the church especially consisted of the basest and common people, inasmuch that the philosophers of Greece were driven to shame when they saw that they could do nothing with their wisdom and eloquence, in comparison of the apostles, whom notwithstanding they called ideots and unlearned. And herewithal doth he beat down their pride: for God did not prefer them before those noble and wise men because they should be proud, but that they might be constrained, even whether they would or not, to rejoice in the Lord, by whose mercy, although they were the most abject of all, they obtained in Christ, both this wisdom, and all things necessary to salvation.

³⁵ What way the Lord hath taken in calling you.

³⁶ After that kind of wisdom which men make account of, as though there were none else: who because they are carnal, know not spiritual wisdom.

A. D. 59. 27 But God hath chosen the foolish things of the world to confound the wise, and God hath chosen the weak things of the world to confound the mighty things:

28 And vile things of the world, and things which are despised, hath God chosen, and things which ^x are not, to bring to ^y nought things that are,

29 That no ^z flesh should rejoice in his presence.

30 But ye are ^a of him in Christ Jesus, ²⁷ who of God is made unto us wisdom, and righteousness, and sanctification, and redemption, 31 That, according as it is written, ^{* b} He that rejoiceth, let him rejoice in the Lord.

C H A P. II.

1 He setteth down a plat-form of his preaching, 4 which was base in respect of man's wisdom, 7, 13 but noble in respect of the spiritual power and efficacy: 14 and so concludeth, that flesh and blood cannot rightly judge thereof.

A. D. 59. 1. 17. AND ¹ I, brethren, when I came to you, came not with ^{*} excellency of words, or of wisdom, shewing unto you the ^a testimony of God.

2 For I ^b esteemed not to know any thing among you, save Jesus Christ, and him crucified.

^x Which in man's judgment are almost nothing.

^y To shew that they are vain and unprofitable, and nothing worth. See Rom. 3. 31.

^z Flesh is oft, as we see, taken for the whole man: and he useth this word, Flesh, very fitly, to set the weak and miserable condition of man, and the majesty of God, one against the other.

^a Whom he cast down before, now he listeth up, yea, higher than all men: yet so, that he sheweth them, that all their worthiness is without themselves, that is, standeth in Christ, and that of God.

²⁷ He teacheth that especially and above all things the gospel ought not to be contemned, seeing it containeth the chiefest things that are to be desired, to wit, true wisdom, the true way to obtain righteousness, the true way to live honestly and godly, the true deliverance from all miseries and calamities.

^b Let him yield all to God, and give him thanks: and so by this place is man's free will beaten down, which the Papists so dream of.

¹ He returneth to the seventeenth verse of the former chapter, that is to say, to his own example: confessing that he used not among them either excellency of words or enticing speech of man's wisdom, but with great simplicity of speech both knew and preached Jesus Christ crucified, humble and abject as touching the flesh.

^a The gospel.

^b I purposed not to profess any knowledge but the knowledge of Christ and him crucified.

^c He setteth weakness against excellency of words, and therefore joineth with it fear and trembling, which are companions of true modesty, not such fear and trembling as terrify the conscience, but such as are contrary to vanity and pride.

² He turneth that now to the commendation of his ministry, which he had granted to his adversaries: for his virtue and power, which they knew well enough, was so much the more excellent, because it had no worldly help joined with it.

^d By plain evidence he meaneth such a proof, as is made by certain and necessary reasons.

¹ And he telleth the Corinthians that he did it for their great profit, because they might thereby know manifestly that the gospel was from heaven. Therefore he privily rebuketh them, because that in seeking vain ostentation, they willingly deprived themselves of the greatest help of their faith.

⁴ Another argument taken of the nature of the thing, that is, of the gospel, which is true wisdom, but known to them only which are desirous of perfection: and is unfavoury to them which otherwise excel in the world, but yet

3 ^{*} And I was among you in ^c weakness, and in fear, and in much trembling. A. D. 59. Acts 18. 1.

4 Neither ^{stood} my word, and my preaching, in the ^{*} enticing speech of man's wisdom, ² but in plain ^d evidence of the Spirit and of power: Ch. 1. 17. 2 Pet. 1. 16.

5 ³ That your faith should not be in the wisdom of men, but in the power of God.

6 ⁴ And we speak wisdom among them that are ^e perfect: not the wisdom of this world, neither of the ^f princes of this world, which come to nought.

7 ⁵ But we speak the wisdom of God in a ^g mystery, even the hid wisdom, ⁶ which God had determined before the world, unto our glory.

8 ⁷ Which none of the princes of this world have known: for had they known it, they would not have crucified the ^h Lord of glory.

9 ⁸ But as it is written, ^{*} The things which eye hath not seen, neither ear hath heard, neither came into ⁱ man's heart, are, which God hath prepared for them that love him. Isa. 64. 4.

10 ⁹ But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit: for the Spirit ^k searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God.

11 ¹⁰ For what man knoweth the things of a man, save the ^l spirit of a man, which is in him? even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God.

12 Now we have received not the ^m spirit of

3 A

the vainly and frailly.

^c Those are called perfect here, not which had gotten perfection already, but such as tend to it, as Phil. 3. 15. so that perfect is set against weak.

^f They that are wiser, richer, or mightier than other men are.

³ He sheweth the cause why this wisdom cannot be perceived of those excellent worldly wits, to wit, because indeed it is so deep, that they cannot attain unto it.

² Which men could not so much as dream of.

⁶ He taketh away an objection: If it be so hard, when, and how is it known? God, saith he, determined with himself from the beginning, that which his purpose was to bring forth at this time out of his secrets, for the salvation of men.

⁷ He taketh away another objection: why then, how cometh it to pass, that this wisdom was so rejected of men of highest authority, that they crucified Christ himself? Paul answereth: because they knew not Christ such as he was.

^h That mighty God, full of true majesty and glory: Now this place hath in it a most evident proof of the divinity of Christ, and of his joining of the two natures in one, which hath this in it, that that which is proper to the manhood alone, is vouched of the Godhead joined with the manhood: which kind of speech is called of the old fathers, A making common of things belonging to some one, with others to whom they do not belong.

⁸ Another objection. But how could it be that those witty men could not perceive this wisdom? Paul answereth: Because we preach those things which pass all men's understanding.

¹ Man cannot so much as think on them, much less conceive of them with his senses.

⁹ A question. If it surmount the capacity of men, how can it be understood of any man, or how can you declare and preach it? by a peculiar lightening by God's Spirit, wherewith whosoever is inspired, he can enter even into the very secrets of God.

^k There is nothing so secret and hidden in God, but the Spirit of God pierceth into it.

¹⁰ He setteth that forth by a similitude, which he spake of the inspiration of the Spirit. As the force of man's wit searcheth out things pertaining to man, so doth our mind by that power of the Holy Ghost understand heavenly things.

¹ The mind of man which is endued with the ableness to understand and judge.

^m The Spirit which we have received, doth not teach us things of this world, but listeth us up to God; and this place teacheth us against the Papists, what faith is, from whence it cometh, and what force it is of.

A. D. 59. the world, but the Spirit which is of God, that we might know the things that are given to us of God:

13 Which things also we speak, not in the words which man's wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghost teacheth, comparing spiritual things with spiritual things.

14 But the natural man perceiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him, neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned.

15 But he that is spiritual, discerneth all things: yet he himself is judged of no man.

16 For who hath known the mind of the Lord, that he might instruct him? But we have the mind of Christ.

CHAP. III.

1 He yieldeth a reason why he preached small matters unto them: 4 He sheweth how they ought to esteem of ministers. 6 The minister's office. 10 A true form of edifying. 16 He warneth the Corinthians, that they be not drawn away to profane things, 18 through the proud wisdom of the flesh.

That which he spake generally he reargineth now to those things which God hath opened unto us of our salvation in Christ: lest that any man should separate the Spirit from the preaching of the word and Christ: or should think that these fantastical men are governed by the Spirit of God, which wandering beside the word, thrust upon us their vain imaginations for the secrets of God.

This word (know) is taken here in his proper sense, for true knowledge, which the Spirit of God worketh in us.

Now he returneth to his purpose, and concludeth the argument which he began ver. 6. and it is thus: The words must be applied to the matter, and the matter must be set forth with words which are meet and convenient for it. Now this wisdom is spiritual and not of man, and therefore it must be delivered by a spiritual kind of teaching, and not by enticing words of man's eloquence, that the simplicity, and yet wonderful majesty of the Holy Ghost may therein appear.

Applying the words unto the matter, to wit, that as we teach spiritual things, so must our kind of teaching be spiritual.

Again he preventeth an offence or stumbling-block: How cometh it to pass, that so few allow these things? This is not to be marvelled at, saith the apostle, seeing that men in their natural powers (as they term them) are not endued with that faculty whereby spiritual things are discerned (which faculty cometh another way) and therefore they account spiritual wisdom as folly: and it is as if he should say, It is no marvel that blind men cannot judge of colours, seeing that they lack the sight of their eyes, and therefore light is to them as darkness.

The man that hath no further light of understanding, than that which he brought with him, even from his mother's womb, as Jude denieth it, Jude 19.

By the virtue of the Holy Ghost.

He amplifieth the matters by contraries.

Understandeth and discerneth.

The wisdom of the flesh, saith Paul, determineth nothing certainly, no not in its own affairs, much less can it discern things, that is, spiritual things. But the Spirit of God, when with spiritual men are endued, can be deceived by no means, and therefore be reprov'd of no man.

Of no man: for when the prophets are judged of the prophets, it is the Spirit that judgeth, and not the man.

A reason of the former saying: for he is called spiritual, which hath learned that by the virtue of the Spirit, which Christ hath taught us. Now if that which we have learned of that master could be reprov'd of any man, he must needs be wiser than God: whereupon it followeth, that they are not only foolish, but also wicked, which think that they can devise something that is either more perfect, or that they can teach the wisdom of God a better way, than they knew or taught, which undoubtedly were endued with God's Spirit.

Lay his head to his, and teach him what he should do.

We are endued with the Spirit of Christ, who openeth unto us those secrets, which by all other means are unsearchable, and also all truth whatsoever.

A. D. 59. AND I could not speak unto you, brethren, as unto spiritual men, but as unto carnal, even as unto babes in Christ.

2 I gave you milk to drink, and not meat: for ye were not yet able to bear it, neither yet now are ye able.

3 For ye are yet carnal: for whereas there is among you envying, and strife, and divisions, are ye not carnal, and walk as men?

4 For when one saith, I am Paul's, and another, I am Apollos, are ye not carnal?

5 Who is Paul then? and who is Apollos? but the ministers by whom ye believed, and as the Lord gave to every man?

6 I have planted, Apollos watered, but God gave the increase.

7 So then, neither is he that planteth, any thing, neither he that watereth, but God that giveth the increase.

8 And he that planteth, and he that watereth, are one: and every man shall receive his wages according to his labour.

9 For we together are God's labourers: ye are God's husbandry, and God's building.

10 Ac-

Having declared the worthiness of heavenly wisdom, and of the gospel, and having generally condemned the blindness of man's mind, now at length he applieth it particularly to the Corinthians, calling them carnal, that is, such in whom as yet the flesh prevaleth against the Spirit. And he bringeth a double testimony of it: first, that he had proved them to be such, insomuch that he dealt with them no otherwise than with ignorant men, and such as are almost babes in the doctrine of godliness; and secondly, because they shewed indeed by these dissensions, which sprang up by reason of the ignorance of the virtue of the Spirit, and heavenly wisdom, that they had profited very little or nothing.

He calleth them carnal, which are as yet ignorant, and therefore to express it the better, he termeth them babes.

Substantial meat, or strong meat.

To be fed by me with substantial meat: therefore as the Corinthians grew up in age, so the apostle nourished them by teaching, first with milk, then with strong meat, which difference was only but in the manner of teaching.

By the square and compass of man's wit and judgment.

After that he hath sufficiently reprehended ambitious teachers and their foolish esteemers, now he sheweth how the true ministers are to be esteemed, that we attribute not unto them more or less than we ought to do. Therefore he teacheth us, that they are they by whom we are brought to faith and salvation, but yet as the ministers of God, and such as do nothing of themselves, but God so working by them as it pleaseth him to furnish them with his gifts. Therefore we have not to mark or consider what minister it is that speaketh, but what is spoken: and we must depend only upon him which speaketh by his servants.

He beautifieth the former sentence with two similitudes: first comparing the company of the faithful to a field which God maketh fruitful, when it is sowed and watered through the labour of his servants: next, by comparing it to an house, which indeed the Lord buildeth, but by the hands of his workmen, some of whom he useth in laying the foundation, others in building of it up. Now, both these similitudes tend to this purpose, to shew that all things are wholly accomplished by God's only authority and might, so that we must only have an eye to him. Moreover, although that God useth some in the better part of the work, we must not therefore concern others in respect of them, and much less may we divide or set them apart, (as these factious men did) seeing that all of them labour in God's business, and in such sort, that they serve to finish one self-same work, although by a diverse manner of working, insomuch that they need one another's help.

Serving under him: Now they which serve under another, do nothing of their own strength, but as it is given them by grace, which grace maketh them fit to that service. Look chap. 15. 10. and 2 Cor. 3. 6. and all the increase that cometh by their labour, doth so proceed from God, that no part of the praise of it may be given to the under servant.

A. D. 59. 10 According to the grace of God given to me, as a skilful master-builder, I have laid the foundation, and another buildeth thereon: ⁴ but let every man take heed how he buildeth upon it.

11 ⁵ For other foundation can no man lay, than that which is laid, which is Jesus Christ.

12 ⁶ And if any man build on this foundation, gold, silver, precious stones, timber, hay, or stubble, 13 ⁷ Every man's work shall be made manifest: for the day shall declare it, because it shall be revealed by the fire: and the fire shall try every man's work of what sort it is.

14 If any man's work, that he hath built upon, abide, he shall receive wages.

15 If any man's work burn, he shall lose, but ⁸ he shall be saved himself: nevertheless yet as it were by the fire.

16 ⁹ Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you?

17 If any man ¹ destroy the temple of God, him shall God destroy: for the temple of God is holy, which ye are.

18 ¹² Let no man deceive himself: If any man amongst you seem to be wise in this world, let him be a fool, that he may be wise.

⁴ Now he speaketh to the teachers themselves, which succeeded him in the church of Corinth, and in their person to all that were after, or shall be pastors of congregations, seeing that they succeed into the labour of the apostles, which were planters and chief builders. Therefore he warneth them first, that they persuade not themselves that they may build after their own fancy, that is, that they may propound and set forth any thing in the church, either in matter or in kind of teaching, different from the apostles which were the chief builders.

⁶ Thirdly, he sheweth, that they must take heed that the upper part of the building be answerable to the foundation, that is, that admonitions, exhortations, and whatsoever pertaineth to the edifying of the flock, be answerable to the doctrine of Christ, as well in matter as in form: which doctrine is compared to gold, silver, and precious stones: of which matter, Isaiah also, and John in the Revelations, build the heavenly city. And to these are opposite, wood, hay, stubble, that is to say, curious and vain questions or decrees: and besides, to be short, all that kind of teaching which serveth to ostentation. For false doctrines, whereof he speaketh not here, are not said properly to be built upon this foundation, unless peradventure in shew only.

⁸ He taketh not away hope of salvation from the unskilful and foolish builders, which hold fast the foundation, of which sort were those rhetoricians, rather than pastors, of Corinth: but he addeth an exception, that they must notwithstanding suffer this trial of their work, and also abide the loss of their vain labours.

⁹ Continuing still in the metaphor of a building, he teacheth us that this ambition is not only vain, but also sacrilegious: for he saith that the church is, as it were, the temple of God, which God hath, as it were, consecrated unto himself by his Spirit. Then turning himself

19 For the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God: for it is written, * He ⁵⁹ catcheth the wife in their own craftiness. ^{Job. 5. 13.}

20 * And again, The Lord knoweth that the thoughts of the wise be vain. ^{Pl. 44. 12.}

21 ¹¹ Therefore let no man ^h rejoice in men: for all things are ⁱ yours.

22 Whether it be Paul, or Apollos, or Cephas, or the ¹² world, or life, or death, whether they be things present, or things to come, even all are yours.

23 And ye Christ's, and Christ God's.

C H A P. IV.

¹ Bringing in the definition of a true apostle; ⁷ he sheweth that humility ought rather to be an honour than a shame unto him. ⁹ He bringeth in a proof, whereby it may evidently appear, ¹⁰ that he neither had care of glory, ¹¹ nor of his belly. ¹⁷ He commendeth Timothy.

LET ¹ a ² man so think of us, as of the ministers of Christ, and disposers of the secrets of God.

² ² And as for the rest, it is required of the disposers, that every man be found faithful.

³ ³ As touching me, I pass very little to be judged to these ambitious men, he sheweth that they profane the temple of God, because those vain arts wherein they please themselves so much, are as he teacheth, so many pollution, of the holy doctrine of God, and the purity of the church. Which wickedness shall not be suffered unpunished.

¹ Defileth it and maketh it unclean, being holy: and surely they do defile it, by Paul's judgment, which by fleshly eloquence defile the purity of the gospel.

¹⁰ He concludeth by the contrary, that they profess pure wisdom in the church of God, which refuse and cast away all those vanities of men: and if they be mocked of the world, it is sufficient for them that they be wise according to the wisdom of God, and as he will have them to be wise.

⁸ Be they never so crafty, yet the Lord will take them when he shall discover their treachery.

¹¹ He returneth to the proposition of the second verse, first warning the hearers, that henceforward they esteem not as lords, those whom God hath appointed to be ministers, and not lords of their salvation: which thing they do, that depend upon men, and not upon God that speaketh by them.

^h Please himself.

¹² He passeth from the persons to the things themselves, that his arguments be more forcible: yea, he ascendeth from Christ to the Father, to shew that we rest ourselves not in Christ himself, in that that he is man, but because he carrieth us up even to the Father, as Christ witnesseth of himself every where, that he was sent of his Father, that by this band we may be all knit with God himself.

¹ He concludeth the duty of the hearers towards their ministers: that they esteem them not as lords: and yet notwithstanding, that they give ear unto them, as to them that are sent from Christ; sent, I say, to this end and purpose, that they may receive as it were at their hands, the treasure of salvation which is drawn out of the secrets of God.

^a Every man.

² Last of all, he warneth the ministers, that they also behave themselves not as lords, but as faithful servants, because they must render an account of their stewardship unto God.

³ Because in reprehending others, he set himself for an example, he useth a pre-occupation or preventing of an objection, and using the gravity of an apostle, he sheweth that he careth not for the contrary judgments that they have of him, in that they esteemed him as a vile person, because he did not set forth himself as they did. And he bringeth good reasons why he was nothing moved with the judgments which they had of him.

A. D. 59. judged of you, ^a or of man's ^b judgment: no, ^c I judge not mine own self.

^d For I know nothing by myself, yet am I not thereby justified: but he that judgeth me, is the ^e Lord.

^f Therefore ^g judge nothing before the time, until the Lord come, who will lighten things that are hid in darkness, and make the counsels of the hearts manifest: and then shall every man have ^h praise of God.

ⁱ Now these things, brethren, I have figuratively applied unto mine own self, and Apollos, for your sakes, that ye might learn ^j by us, that no man presume above that which is written, that one swell not against another for any man's cause.

^k For who separateth thee? and what hast thou, that thou hast not received? if thou hast received it, why rejoicest thou, as though ^l thou hadst not received it?

^m Now ye are full: now ye are made rich: ye reign as kings without us: and would to God ye did reign, that we also might reign with you.

ⁿ For I think that God hath set forth us the last apostles, as men appointed to death: for we are made a ^o gazing-stock unto the world, and to the angels, and to men.

^p We are fools for Christ's sake, and ye are wise in Christ: we are weak, and ye are strong: ye are honourable, and we are despised.

^q To this hour we both hunger and thirst, and are naked, and are buffeted, and have no certain dwelling-place,

^r * And labour, working with our own hands: we are reviled, and yet we bless: we are persecuted, and suffer it:

^s * We are evil spoken of, and we pray: we are made as the ^t filth of the world, the obscuring of all things unto this time.

^u I write not these things to shame you, but as my beloved children I admonish you. ^v For though ye have ten thousand instructors in Christ, yet have ye not many fathers: for in Christ Jesus I have begotten you through the gospel.

^w Wherefore, I pray you, be ye followers of me.

^x For this cause have I sent unto you Timotheus, which is my beloved son, and faithful in the Lord, which shall put you in remembrance of my ^y ways in Christ, as I teach every where in every church.

^z Some are puffed up, as though I would not come unto you.

^{aa} But I will come to you shortly, ^{ab} if the Lord will, and will know, not the ^{ac} words of them which are puffed up, but the power.

^{ad} For the kingdom of God is not in word, but in power.

^{ae} What will ye? shall I come unto you with a rod, or in love, and in the ^{af} spirit of meekness?

CHAP. V.

^{ag} That they have winked at him who committed incest with his mother-in-law, ^{ah} he sheweth, should cause them rather to be ashamed, than to rejoice. ^{ai} Such kind of wickedness is to be punished with excommunication, ^{aj} lest others be infected with it.

IT is ^{ak} heard certainly that there is fornication among you: and such fornication as is not once named among the Gentiles, that one should have his father's wife.

^{al} And ye are puffed up, and have not rather sorrowed, that he which hath done this deed, might be put from among you.

^{am} For I verily as absent in body, but present in ^{an} spirit, have determined already as though I were

^a First, because that that which men judge in these cases of their own brains, is no more to be accounted of, than when the unlearned do judge of wisdom.

^b Word for word, Day, after the manner of the speech of the Citizens.

^c Secondly, saith he, how can ye judge how much or how little I am to be accounted of, seeing that I myself, which know myself better than you do, and which dare profess that I have walked in my vocation with a good conscience, dare not yet notwithstanding challenge any thing to myself: for I know that I am not unblameable, all this notwithstanding: much less therefore should I please myself as you do.

^d I commit myself to the Lord's judgments.

^e A third reason proceeding of a conclusion, as it were, out of the former reasons. It is God's office to esteem every man according to his value, because he knoweth the secrets of the heart, which men, for the most part, are ignorant of. Therefore this judgment pertaineth not to you.

^f One could not be praised above the rest, but the other should be blamed: and he mentioneth praise rather than dispraise, for that the beginning of this fore was this, that they gave more to some men than meet was.

^g Having rejected their judgment, he setteth forth himself again as a singular example of modesty, as one which concealing in this epistle those factious teachers names, doubted not to put down his own name and Apollos's in their place, and took upon him as it were their shame: so far was he from preferring himself to any.

^h By our example, which chose rather to take other mens faults upon us, than to carp any by name.

ⁱ He sheweth a good means to bridle pride: first, if thou consider how rightly thou exemptest thyself out of the number of others, seeing thou art a man thyself: again, if thou consider that although thou have something more than other men have, yet thou hast it not but by God's bountifulness. And what wise man is he that will brag of another's goodness, and that against God?

^f There is nothing then in us of nature, that is worthy of commendation: but all that we have we have, it of grace, which the Pelagians and half Pelagians will not confess.

^g He descendeth to a most grave mock, to cause those ambitious men to blush, even against their wills.

^h He that will take a right view how like Paul and the pope are, who lyingly boasteth that he is his successor, let him compare the delicates of the popish court, with St. Paul's state, as we see it here.

ⁱ Such as by sweeping is gathered together.

^j Moderating the sharpness of his mock, he putteth them in mind to remember of whom they were begotten in Christ, and that they should not doubt to follow him for an example, although he seem vile, according to the outward shew in respect of others, yet mighty by the efficacy of God's Spirit, as they had trial thereof in themselves.

^k What way and rule I follow every where in teaching the churches.

^l Last of all he descendeth also to apostolic threatenings, but yet chiding them as a father, lest by their disorder he be constrained to come to punish some amongst them.

^m By words, he meaneth their painted and coloured kind of eloquence, against which he setteth the virtue of the Spirit.

ⁿ A passing over to another part of this epistle, wherein he reprehendeth most sharply a very heinous offence, shewing the use of ecclesiastical correction.

^o Meekly affected towards you.

^p They are greatly to be reprehended which by suffering of wickedness, set forth the church of God to be mocked and scorned of infidels.

^q There are none more proud than they that least know themselves.

^r Excommunication ought not to be committed to one man's power, but must be done by the authority of the whole congregation, after that the matter is diligently examined.

^s In mind, thought and will.

A. D. 59.

Act. 19. 21. James 4. 11.

A. D. I were present, that he that hath thus done this thing, 59.

4 When ye are gathered together, and my Spirit, in the ^b name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that such one, I say, ⁴ by the power of our Lord Jesus Christ,

5 ⁵ Be ^c delivered unto Satan, for the ⁶ destruction of the flesh, that the spirit may be saved in the day of the Lord Jesus.

6 ⁷ Your rejoicing ^d is not good: know ye not that a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump?

7 ⁸ Purge out therefore the old leaven, that ye may be a new ^e lump, as ye are unleavened: for Christ our ^f passover is sacrificed for us.

8 Therefore let us keep the ^g feast, not with old leaven, neither in the leaven of maliciousness and wickedness: but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth

9 ⁹ I wrote unto you in an epistle, that ye should not company together with fornicators.

10 And not ^h altogether with the fornicators of this world, or with the covetous, or with extortioners, or with idolaters: for then ye must go out of the world.

11 But now I have written unto you, that ye company not together: if any that is called a brother, be a fornicator, or covetous, or an idolater, or a railer, or a drunkard, or an extortioner, with such one eat not.

12 ¹⁰ For what have I to do, to judge them

^b Calling upon Christ's name.

⁴ There is no doubt but that judgment is ratified in heaven, wherein Christ himself sitteth as judge.

⁵ The excommunicated is delivered to the power of Satan, in that, that he is cast out of the house of God.

^c What it is to be delivered to Satan, the Lord himself declareth, when he saith, Let him be unto thee as an Heathen and Publican, Matt. 18. 17. that is to say, to be disfranchised and put out of the right and liberty of the city of Christ, which is the church, without which Satan is lord and master.

⁶ The end of excommunication is, not to cast away the excommunicate, that he should utterly perish, but that he may be saved, to wit, that by this means his flesh may be tamed, that he may learn to live to the Spirit.

⁷ Another end of excommunication is, that other be not infected, and therefore it must of necessity be retained in the church, that the one be not infected by the other.

^d Is naught, and not grounded upon good reason, as though you were excellent, and yet there is such wickedness found amongst you.

^e By alluding to the ceremony of the passover, he exhorteth them to cast out that unclean person from among them. In times past, saith he, it was not lawful for them which did celebrate the passover to eat leavened bread inasmuch that he was holden as unclean, and unworthy to eat the passover, whosoever had but tasted of leaven. Now all our whole life must be as it were the feast of unleavened bread, wherein all they that are partakers of that immaculate Lamb which is slain, must cast out both of themselves, and also out of their houses and congregation, all impurity.

^f By lump, he meaneth the whole body of the church, every member whereof must be unleavened bread, that is, he renewed in Spirit, by plucking away the old corruption.

^g The Lamb of our passover.

^h Let us lead our whole life, as it were, a continual feast, honestly, and uprightly.

ⁱ Now he speaketh more generally: and that which he spake before of the incestuous person, he sheweth that it pertaineth to others, which are known to be wicked, and such as through their naughty life are a slander to the church, which ought also by lawful order to be cast out of the community of the church. And making mention of eating of meat, either he meaneth those feasts of love whereat the supper of the Lord was received, or else their common usage and manner of life: which is rightly to be taken, lest any man should think that either matrimony were broken by excommunication, or such duties hindered and cut off also which are without? do ye not judge them which are within? A. D. 59.

13 But God judgeth them that are without. Put away therefore from among yourselves that wicked man.

C H A P. VI.

1 He envieth against their contentions in law matters, 6 wherewith they vexed one another under judges that were infidels, to the reproach of the gospel: 9 and then sharply threateneth fornicators.

DARE ¹ any of you, having business against another, be judged ^b under the unjust, ² and not under the saints?

2 ³ Do ye not know, that the saints shall judge the world? If the world then shall be judged by you, are ye unworthy to judge the smallest matters?

3 Know ye not that we shall judge the angels? how much more things that pertain to this life?

4 ⁴ If then ye have ^c judgment of things pertaining to this life, set up them which are ^d least esteemed in the church.

5 ⁵ I speak it to your shame. Is it so that there is not a wise man among you? no not one, that can judge between his brethren?

6 But a brother goeth to law with a brother, and that under the infidels.

3 B

thereby, as we owe one to another: children to their parents, subjects to their rulers, servants to their masters, and neighbour to neighbour, to win one another unto God.

^b If you should utterly abstain from such mens company, you should go out of the world: therefore I speak of them which are in the very bosom of the church, which must be called home by discipline, and out of them which are without, with whom you must labour, by all means possible, to bring them to Christ.

¹⁰ Such as are false brethren ought to be cast out of the congregation; as for them which are without, they must be left to the judgment of God.

¹ The third question is of civil judgments. Whether it be lawful for one faithful to draw another before the judgment-seat of an infidel? He answereth, that it is not lawful, for offence sake, for it is not evil of itself.

² As if he said, Are you become so impudent, that you are not ashamed to make the gospel a laughing-stock to profane men?

^b Before the unjust.

² He addeth, that he doth not forbid that one neighbour may go to law with another, if need so require, but yet under holy judges.

³ He gathereth by a comparison that the faithful cannot seek to infidels to be judged, without great injury done to the saints, seeing that God himself will make the saints judges of the world, and of the devils, with his Son Christ: much more ought they to judge these light and small causes which may be by equity and good conscience determined.

⁴ The conclusion, wherein he prescribeth a remedy for this mischief: to wit, if they end their private affairs between themselves by chosen arbiters out of the church: for which matter and purpose, the least of you, saith he, is sufficient. Therefore he condemneth not judgment-seats, but sheweth what is expedient for the circumstance of the time, and that without any diminishing of the right of the magistrate: for he speaketh not of judgments which are practised betwixt the faithful and the infidels, neither of public judgments, but of controversies which may be ended by private arbiters.

^c Courts and places of judgments.

^d Even the most abject among you.

⁵ He applieth the general proposition to a particular, always calling them back to this, to take away from them that false opinion of their own excellency, from whence all these mischiefs sprang.

A. D. 59. ⁷ Now therefore there is altogether ⁶ infirmity in you, in that ye go to law one with another: why rather suffer ye not wrong? why rather sustain ye not harm?

⁸ Nay, ye yourselves do wrong, and do harm, and that to your brethren.

⁹ Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? ⁸ Be not deceived: neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor wantons, nor buggers, ¹⁰ Nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor railers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the kingdom of God.

¹¹ And such were ⁶ some of you: but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified, in the ⁷ name of the Lord Jesus, and by the Spirit of our God.

¹² ⁶ All things are lawful unto me, but all things are not profitable: I may do all things, but I will not be brought under the ⁷ power of any thing.

¹³ ¹² Meats are ordained for the belly, and the belly for the meats: but God shall destroy both it and them. Now the body is not for fornication, but for the Lord, and the Lord for the body.

¹⁴ And God hath also raised up the Lord, and ⁶ shall raise us up by his power.

¹⁵ Know ye not, that your bodies are the members of Christ? shall I then take the members of Christ, and make them the members of an harlot? God forbid.

¹⁶ Do ye not know, that he which coupleth himself with an harlot, is one body? ⁶ for two, saith he, shall be one flesh.

¹⁷ But he that is joined unto the Lord, is one spirit.

¹⁸ Flee fornication: every sin that a man doth, is without the body: but he that committeth fornication, sinneth against his own body.

¹⁹ Know ye not, that ⁶ your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost, which is in you, whom ye have of God? and ¹⁵ ye are not your own, ²⁰ For ye are bought for a price: therefore glorify God in your body, and in your spirit: for they are God's.

C H A P. VII.

¹ Entreating here of marriage, ⁴ which is a remedy against fornication, ¹⁰ and may not be broken, ¹⁸, ²⁰ he willet every man to live contented with his own lot. ²⁵ He sheweth what the end of virginity should be, ³⁵ and who ought to marry.

NOW ¹ concerning the things ² whereof ye wrote unto me, It ⁶ were ⁷ good for a man not to touch a woman.

² Nevertheless, to avoid fornication, let every man

⁶ Now he goeth further also; and although by granting them private arbiters, out of the congregation of the faithful, he do not simply condemn, but rather establish private judgments, so that they be exercised without offence, yet he sheweth that if they were such as they ought to be, and as it were to be wished, they should not need to use that remedy neither.

⁷ This pertaineth chiefly to the other part of the reprehension, to wit, that they went to law even under infidels, whereas they should have rather suffered any loss, than to have given that offence. But yet this is generally true, that we ought rather to depart from our right, than try the uttermost of the law hastily, and upon an affection to revenge an injury. But yet the Corinthians cared for neither, and therefore he saith, that they must repent, unless they will be shut out from the inheritance of God.

⁸ Now he prepareth himself to pass over to the fourth treatise of this epistle, which concerneth matters indifferent, debating this matter first, how men may well use women or not: which question hath three branches, fornication, matrimony, and a single life. As for fornication, he utterly condemneth it. And marriage he commandeth to some, as a good and necessary remedy for them; to others he leaveth it free. And other some he dissuadeth from it, not as unlawful, but as discommodious, and that not without exception. As for the singleness of life (under which also I comprehend virginity) he enjoineth it to no man: yet he persuadeth men unto it, but not for itself, but for another respect, neither all men, nor without exception. And being about to speak against fornication, he beginneth with a general reprehension of those vices, wherewith that rich and riotous city most abounded: warning and teaching them earnestly, that repentance is inseparably joined with forgiveness of sins, and sanctification with justification.

⁶ In Jesus.

Secondly, he sheweth that the Corinthians do simply offend in matters indifferent: First, because they abused them: next, because they used indifferent things, without any discretion, seeing the use of them ought to be brought to the rule of charity: and that he doth not use them aright, which immoderately abuseth them, and so becometh a slave unto them.

⁶ Whatsoever: but this general word must be restrained to things that are indifferent.

⁷ He is in subjection to things that are indifferent, whatsoever he be that thinketh he may not be without them:

which is a flattering kind of slavery under a colour of liberty, which seizeth upon such men.

¹⁰ Secondly, because they counted many things for indifferent, which were of themselves unlawful, as fornication, which they numbered amongst mere natural and lawful desires, as well as meat and drink. Therefore the apostle sheweth, that they are utterly unlike: for meats, saith he, were made for the necessary use of man's life, which is not perpetual: For both meats, and all this manner of nourishing, are quickly abolished. But we must not so think of the uncleanness of fornication, for which the body is not made, but on the contrary side is ordained to pureness, as appeareth by this, that it is consecrated to Christ, even as Christ also is given us of his Father, to quicken our bodies with that virtue, wherewith he also rose again.

¹¹ A declaration of the former argument by contraries, and the applying of it.

¹³ Moses doth not speak these words of fornication, but of marriage: but seeing that fornication is the corrupting of marriage, and both of them is a carnal and fleshly copulation, we cannot say that the apostle abuseth his testimony. Again, Moses hath not this word (two) but it is very well expressed both here and in Matt. 19. 5. because he speaketh only but of man and wife: whereupon the opinion of them that vouch it to be lawful to have many wives, is beaten down: for he that companieth with many, is sundered as it were into many parts.

¹⁴ Another argument why fornication is to be eschewed, because it defileth the body with a peculiar kind of filthiness.

¹⁵ The third argument. Because a fornicator is sacrilegious, for that our bodies are consecrate to God.

¹⁶ The fourth argument. Because we are not our own men, to give ourselves to any other, much less to Satan and the flesh, seeing that God himself hath bought us, and that with a great price, to the end that both in body and soul we should serve to his glory.

¹⁷ He teacheth concerning marriage, that although a single life hath his commodities, which he will declare afterwards, yet that marriage is necessary for avoiding of fornication: but so that neither one man may have many wives, nor any wife many husbands.

¹⁸ Touching those matters whereof you wrote unto me. ¹⁹ Commodious, and (as we say) expedient. For marriage bringeth many griefs with it, and that by reason of the corruption of our first estate.

A. D. man have his wife, and let every woman have her own husband.

59. 3 * 2 Let the husband give unto the wife due benevolence, and likewise also the wife unto the husband.

4 3 The wife hath not the power of her own body, but the husband: and likewise also the husband hath not the power of his own body, but the wife,

5 Defraud not one another, 4 except it be with consent for a time, that ye may 4 give yourselves to fasting and prayer, and again come together, that Satan tempt you not for your incontinen-cy.

6 5 But I speak this by permission, not by commandment.

7 For I 6 would that all men were even as I myself am: but every man hath his proper gift of God, one after this manner, and another after that.

8 6 Therefore I say unto the 7 unmarried, and unto the widows, It is good for them if they abide even as I do.

9 But if they cannot abstain, let them marry:
for it is better to marry than to 8 burn.

10 * 7 And unto the married I command, not I, but the Lord, Let not the wife depart from her husband.

11 But and if she depart, let her remain unmarried, or be reconciled unto her husband, and let not the husband put away his wife.

12 8 But to the remnant I speak, and not the Lord, If any brother have a wife, that believeth not, if she be content to dwell with him, let him not forsake her.

13 And the woman which hath an husband A. D. that believeth not, if he be content to dwell with 59-her, let her not forsake him,

14 9 For the unbelieving husband is 10 sanctified to the 11 wife, and the unbelieving wife is sanctified to the 12 husband, else were your children unclean: but now are they 13 holy.

15 10 But if the unbelieving depart, let him depart: a brother or a sister is not in subjection in 11 such things: 12 but God hath called us in peace.

16 For what knowest thou, O wife, whether thou shalt save thine husband? Or what know-est thou, O man, whether thou shalt save thy wife?

17 12 But as God hath distributed to every man, as the Lord hath 13 called every one, so let him walk: and so ordain I in all churches.

18 13 Is any man called being circumcised?
let him not 14 gather his uncircumcision: is any called uncircumcised? let him not be circumcised.

19 Circumcision is nothing, and uncircumcision is nothing, but the keeping of the commandments of God.

20 * Let every man abide in the same voca- * 1 Tim. 6. 1.
tion wherein he was called.

21 Art thou called being a servant? 15 care not for it: but yet if thou mayest be free, use it rather.

22 For he that is called in the 16 Lord, being a servant, is the Lord's free man: likewise also he that is called being free, is Christ's servant.

23 Ye

2 Secondly, he sheweth that the parties married must with singular affection, entirely love one the other.

3 This word (due) containeth all kind of benevolence, though he speak more of one sort than of the other, in that that followeth.

4 Thirdly, he warneth them, that they are each in other's power, as touching the body, so that they may not defraud one another.

5 He addeth an exception, unless the one abstain from the other by mutual consent, that they may the better give themselves to prayer, wherein notwithstanding, he warn-eth them to consider what is expedient, lest by this long breaking off, as it were from marriage, they be stirred up to incontinency.

6 Do nothing else.

7 Fifthly, he teacheth that marriage is not simply necessary for all men, but for them which have not the gift of continency, and this gift is by a peculiar grace of God.

8 I with.

9 Sixthly, he giveth the self-same admonition touching the second marriage, to wit, that a single life is to be allowed but for such as have the gift of continency; otherwise they ought to marry again, that their conscience may be at peace.

10 This whole place is flat against them which condemn second marriages.

11 So to burn with lust, that either the will yieldeth to the temptation, or else we cannot call upon God with a quiet conscience.

12 Seventhly, he forbiddeth contentions, and publishing of divorces, (for he speaketh not here of the fault of whore-dom, which was then death even by the law of the Romans also) whereby he affirmeth that the band of marriage is not dissolved, and that from Christ's mouth.

13 Eighthly, he affirmeth that those marriages which are already contracted between a faithful, and an unfaithful, or infidel, are firm: so that the faithful may not forsake the unfaithful.

14 He answereth an objection: but the faithful is defiled by the society of the unfaithful. The apostle denieth that, and proveth, that the faithful man with good conscience may use the vessel of his unfaithful wife, by this, that their children which are born of them, are accounted holy (that is, contained within the promise) for it is said to all the faithful, I will be thy God, and the God of thy seed.

15 The godliness of the wife is of more force, to cause their coupling together to be accounted holy, than the infidelity of the husband is, to prophane the marriage.

16 The infidel is not sanctified or made holy in his own person, but in respect of his wife he is sanctified to her.

17 To the faithful husband.

18 This place destroyeth the opinion of them, that would not have children to be baptized, and their opinion also, that make baptism the very cause of salvation. For the children of the faithful are holy, by virtue of the covenant, even before baptism, and baptism is added as the seal of that holiness.

19 He answereth to a question: What if the unfaithful forsake the faithful? then is the faithful free, saith he, because he is forsaken of the unfaithful.

20 When any such thing falleth out.

21 Lest any man upon pretence of this liberty should give an occasion to the unfaithful to depart, he giveth to understand, that marriage contracted with an infidel, ought peaceably to be kept, that if it be possible, the infidel may be won to the faith.

22 Taking occasion by that which he said of the bondage and liberty of matrimony, he digresseth to a general doctrine concerning the outward state and condition of man's life, as circumcision and uncircumcision, servitude and liberty: warning every man to generally live with a contented mind in the Lord, what state or condition soever he be in, because that those outward things, as to be circumcised or uncircumcised, to be bond or free, are not of the substance (as they term it) of the kingdom of heaven.

23 Hath bound him to a certain kind of life.

24 Notwithstanding he giveth us to understand, that in these examples all are not of like sort: because that circumcision not simply of itself is to be desired, but such as are bound may desire to be free. Therefore herein only they are equal, that the kingdom of God consisteth not in them; and therefore these are no hinderances to obey God.

25 He is said to gather his uncircumcision, who by the help of a chirurgion, recovereth an upper skin: which is done by drawing the skin with an instrument, to make it to cover the nut. Celsus in his 7th book and 25 chap.

26 As though this calling were too unworthy a calling for Christ.

27 He that is in state of a servant, and is called to be a Christian.

A. D. 23 * 12 Ye are bought with a price: be not the servants of men.

24 13 Brethren, let every man, wherein he was called, therein abide with God.

25 14 Now concerning virgins, I have no commandment of the Lord: but I give mine advice as one that hath obtained mercy of the Lord to be faithful.

26 I suppose then this to be good for the present necessity: I mean that it is good for a man so to be.

27 Art thou bound unto a wife? seek not to be loosed: art thou loosed from a wife? seek not a wife.

28 But if thou takest a wife, thou sinnest not: and if a virgin marry, she sinneth not: nevertheless, such shall have trouble in the flesh: but I spare you.

29 And this I say, brethren, because the time is short, hereafter, that both they which have wives, be as though they had none:

30 And they that weep, as though they wept not: and they that rejoice, as though they rejoiced not: and they that buy, as though they possessed not:

31 And they that use this world, as though they used it not: for the fashion of this world goeth away.

32 And I would have you without care. The unmarried careth for the things of the Lord, how he may please the Lord:

33 But he that is married, careth for the things of the world, how he may please his wife.

34 There is difference also between a virgin and a wife: the unmarried woman careth for the things of the Lord, that she may be holy, both in body, and in spirit: but she that is married, careth for the things of the world, how she may please her husband.

35 And this I speak for your own commodity, not to tangle you in a snare, but that ye follow that which is honest, and that ye may cleave fast unto the Lord without separation.

36 17 But if any man think that it is uncomely for his virgin, if she pass the flower of her age, and need so require, let him do what he will, he sinneth not: let them be married.

37 Nevertheless, he that standeth firm in his heart, that he hath no need, but hath power over his own will, and hath so decreed in his heart, that he will keep his virgin, he doeth well.

38 So then he that giveth her to marriage, doeth well: but he that giveth her not to marriage, doeth better.

39 18 The wife is bound by the law, as long as her husband liveth: but if her husband be dead, she is at liberty to marry with whom she will, only in the Lord.

40 But she is more blessed, if she so abide, in my judgment: and I think that I have also the Spirit of God.

C H A P. VIII.

1 From this place unto the end of the tenth chapter, he willeth them not to be at the Gentiles prophane banquets. 10 He restraineth the abuse of christian liberty, 11 and sheweth that knowledge must be tempered with charity.

AND as touching things sacrificed unto idols: we know that we all have knowledge:

12 He sheweth the reason of the unlikeness, because that he that desireth to be circumcised, maketh himself subject to man's tradition, and not to God. And this may be much more understood of superstitions, which some do foolishly account for things indifferent.

13 A repetition of the general doctrine.

14 So purely and from the heart, that your doings may be approved before God.

15 He enjoineth virginity to no man, yet he persuadeth and praiseth it for another respect, to wit, both for the necessity of the present time, because the faithful could scarce abide in any place, and use the commodities of this present life, and therefore such as were not troubled with families, might be the readier, and also for the cares of this life, which marriage draweth with it of necessity, so that they cannot but have their minds distracted: and this hath place in women especially.

16 The circumstances considered, this I counsel you.

17 It is I that speak this which I am minded to speak: and the truth is, I am a man, but yet worthy credit, for I have obtained of the Lord to be such an one.

18 To remain a virgin.

19 For the necessity which the saints are daily subject unto, who are continually tossed up and down, so that their estate may seem most unfit for marriage, were it not that the weakness of the flesh enforced them to it.

20 By the (Flesh) he understandeth what things soever belong to this present life, for marriage bringeth with it many discommodities: so that he bendeth more to a sole life, not because it is a service more agreeable to God than marriage is, but for those discommodities, which (if it were possible) he would wish all men to be void of, that they might give themselves to God only.

21 I would your weakness were provided for.

22 For we are now in the latter end of the world.

23 By weeping, the Hebrews understand all adversity; and by joy, all prosperity.

24 Those things which God giveth us here.

25 The guise, and shape, and fashion: whereby he sheweth us, that there is nothing in this world that continueth.

26 They that are married, have their wits drawn hither and thither, and therefore if any man have the gift of continency, it is more commodious for him to live alone: but they that are married may care for the things of the Lord also. Clem. Strom. 3.

27 Mind.

18 He meaneth that he will enforce no man, either to marry or not to marry, but to shew them barely what kind of life is most commodious.

17 Now he turneth himself to the parents, in whose power and authority their children are, warning them, that according to the former doctrine, they consider what is meet and convenient for their children, that they neither deprive them of the necessary remedy against incontinency, nor constrain them to marriage, whereas neither their will doth lead them, nor any necessity urgeth them. And again he praiseth virginity, but of itself, and not in all.

18 He doth well: for so he expoundeth it, ver. 38.

19 Resolveth with himself.

20 That the weakness of his daughter inforceth him not, or any other matter, but that he may safely keep her a virgin still.

21 Provideth more commodiously for his children, and that not simply, but by reason of such conditions as are before-mentioned.

22 That which he spake of a widower, he speaketh now of a widow, to wit, that she may marry again, so that she do it in the fear of God: and yet he dissembleth not, but saith, that if she remain still a widow, she shall be void of many cares.

23 By the law of marriage.

24 Religiously, and in the fear of God.

25 He entereth to intreat of another kind of things indifferent, to wit, of things offered to idols, or the use of flesh so offered and sacrificed. And first of all he removeth all those things which the Corinthians pretended in using things offered to idols without any respect. First of all, they affirmed, that this difference of meats was for the unskilful men, but as for them they knew well enough the benefit of Christ, which causeth all these things to be clean to them that are clean. Be it so, saith Paul: be it that we are all sufficiently instructed in the knowledge of Christ; I say, notwithstanding that, we must not simply rest in this knowledge. The reason is, that unless our knowledge be tempered with charity, it doth not only not avail, but also doth much hurt, because it is the mistress of pride: nay, it doth not so much as deserve the name of godly knowledge, if it be separate from the love of God, and therefore from the love of our neighbour.

26 This general word is to be abridged, as appeareth. ver. 7. for there is a kind of taunt in it, as we may perceive by the next verse.

A. D. ledge: knowledge^b puffeth up, but love^c edifieth.

2 Now if any man think that he knoweth any thing, he knoweth nothing yet as he ought to know.

3 But if any man love God, the same is known of him.

4² Concerning therefore the eating of things sacrificed unto^d idols, we know that an idol is^e nothing in the world, and that there is none other God but one.

5 For though there be that are called gods, whether in heaven, or in earth (as there be many gods, and many lords)

6 Yet unto us there is but one God, which is that Father, of whom are all things, and we^f in him: and^g one Lord Jesus Christ, by whom are all things, and we by him.

• John 13. 13. Ca. 12. 3.

7³ But every man hath not that knowledge: for^h many having^k conscience of the idol, until this hour, eat as a thing sacrificed unto the idol, and so their conscience, being weak, is defiled.

8⁵ But meat maketh us not acceptable to God: for neither if we eat, we have the more: neither if we eat not, have we the less.

9 But take heed, lest by any means this power of yours be an occasion of falling, to them that are weak.

^b Ministereth occasion of vanity and pride: because it is void of charity.

^c Instructeth our neighbour.

² The application of that answer to things offered to idols: I grant, saith he, that an idol is indeed a vain imagination, and that there is but one God and Lord, and therefore that meat cannot be made either holy or profane by the idol: but it followeth not therefore that a man may without respect use those meats as any other.

^d This Word (Idol) in this place is taken for an image which is made to represent some godhead, that worship might be given unto it: whersupon came the word (Idolatry) that is to say, Image service.

^e It is a vain dream.

^f When the Father is distinguished from the Son, he is named the beginning of all things.

^g We have our being in him.

^h But as the Father is called Lord, so is the Son, God: therefore this word (One) doth not respect the persons, but the nature.

ⁱ This word (By) doth not signify the instrumental cause, but the efficient: for the Father and the Son work together, which is not so to be taken, that we make two causes, seeing they have both but one nature, though they be distinct persons.

³ The reason why that followeth not is this: because there are many men which do not know that which you know. Now the judgment of outward things depends not only upon your conscience, but upon the conscience of them that behold you, and therefore your actions must be applied not only to your knowledge, but also to the ignorance of your brethren.

⁴ An applying of the reason: there are many which cannot eat of things offered to idols, but with a wavering conscience, because they think them to be unclean: therefore if by thy example they enterprize to do that which inwardly they think displeaseth God, their conscience is defiled with their eating, and thou hast been the occasion of this mischief.

^k By conscience of the idol, he meaneth the secret judgment that they had within themselves, whereby they thought all things unclean that were offered to idols, and therefore they could not use them with good conscience. For this force hath conscience, that if it be good, it maketh things indifferent good; and if it be evil, it maketh them evil.

⁵ A preventing of an objection: Why then, shall we therefore be deprived of our liberty? Nay, saith the apostle, you shall lose no part of christianity although you abstain for your brethren's sake; as also if ye receive the meat it maketh you no whit the more holy: for our commendation before God consisteth not in meats: but to use our liberty with offence of our brethren, is an abuse of liberty, the true use thereof is clean contrary, to wit, so to use it, as in 10⁶ For if any man see thee which hast knowledge, sit at meat in the idol's temple, shall not the conscience of him which is weak, be boldened to eat those things which are sacrificed to idols?

A. D. 59.

11⁷ And through thy knowledge shall the^l weak brother perish, for whom Christ died.

• Rom. 14. 15.

12⁸ Now when ye sin so against the brethren, and wound their weak conscience, ye sin against Christ.

13⁹ Wherefore if meat offend my brother, I will eat no flesh while the world standeth, that I may not offend my brother.

• Rom. 14. 21.

CHAP. IX.

1 He declareth, that from the liberty which the Lord gave him, 15 he willingly abstained, 18, 22 left in things indifferent he should offend any. 24 He sheweth that our life is like unto a race.

AM I not an apostle? Am I not free? Have I not seen Jesus Christ our Lord? Are ye not^a my work in the Lord?

2 If I be not an apostle unto other, yet doubtless I am unto you: for ye are the^b seal of mine apostleship in the Lord.

3³ My defence to them that^c examine me, is this,

3 C

4 Have

using of it we have consideration of our weak brethren.

⁶ Another plain explication of the same reason, propounding the example of the sitting down at the table in the idol's temple, which thing the Corinthians did evil account of among things indifferent, because it is simply forbidden for the circumstance of the place, although offence do cease, as it shall be declared in his place.

⁸ Another amplification: Such offending of our weak brethren, redoundeth unto Christ, and therefore let not these men think that they have to do only with their brethren.

⁹ The conclusion, which Paul conceiveth in his own person, that he might not seem to exact that of others, which he will not be first subject to himself: I had rather, (saith he) abstain for ever from all kind of flesh, than give occasion of sin to any of my brethren, much less would I refuse in any certain place or time for my brother's sake not to eat flesh offered to idols.

² He proveth his apostleship by the effects, in that he was appointed of Christ himself, and the authority of his function was sufficiently confirmed to him amongst them by their conversion. And all these things he setteth before their eyes, to make them ashamed, for that they would not, in the leastwise that might be, debase themselves for the weak's sake, whereas the apostle himself did all that he could to win them to God, when they were utterly reprobate and without God.

^a By the Lord.

^b As a seal, wherewith it appeareth sufficiently that God is the author of mine apostleship.

³ He addeth this by the way, as if he would say, So far it is off, that you may doubt of my apostleship, that I use to refute them which call it into controversy, by opposing those things which the Lord hath done by me amongst you.

^c Which, like judges, examine me and my doings.

A. D. 59. 4 Have we not power to eat and to drink?

5 Or have we not power to lead about a wife being a sister, as well as the rest of the apostles, and as the brethren of the Lord, and Cephas?

6 Or I only and Barnabas, have not we power not to work?

7 Who goeth a warfare at any time at his own cost? who planteth a vineyard, and eateth not of the fruit thereof? or who feedeth a flock, and eateth not of the milk of the flock?

8 Say I these things according to man? faith not the law the same also?

9 For it is written in the law of Moses, Thou shalt not muzzle the mouth of the ox that treadeth out the corn: doth God take care for oxen?

10 Either faith he it not altogether for our sakes? For our sakes no doubt it is written, that he which eareth, should ear in hope: and that he that thresheth in hope, should be partaker of his hope.

11 If we have sown unto you spiritual things, is it a great thing if we reap your carnal things?

12 If others with you be partakers of this power, are not we rather? nevertheless we have not used this power: but suffer all things, that we should not hinder the gospel of Christ.

13 Do ye not know that they which minister about the holy things, eat of the things of the temple? and they which wait at the altar, are partakers with the altar?

14 So also hath the Lord ordained, that they which preach the gospel, should live of the gospel.

15 But I have used none of these things: neither wrote I these things, that it should be so done unto me: for it were better for me to die, than that any man should make my rejoicing vain.

16 For though I preach the gospel, I have nothing to rejoice of: for necessity is laid upon me, and woe is unto me, if I preach not the gospel.

17 For if I do it willingly, I have a reward: but if I do it against my will, notwithstanding the dispensation is committed unto me.

18 What is my reward then? verily that when I preach the gospel, I make the gospel of Christ free, that I abuse not my authority in the gospel.

19 For though I be free from all men, yet have I made myself servant unto all men, that I might win the more.

20 And unto the Jews, I become as a Jew, that I may win the Jews: to them that are under the law, as though I were under the law, that I may win them that are under the law:

21 To them that are without law, as though I were without law (when I am not without law as pertaining to God, but am in the law through Christ), that I may win them that are without law:

22 To the weak I become as weak, that I may win the weak: I am made all things to all men, that I might by all means save some.

23 And this I do for the gospel's sake, that I might be partaker thereof with you.

24 Know ye not, that they which run in a race, run all, yet one receiveth the prize? so run that ye may obtain.

25 And every man that proveth masteries, abstaineth from all things: and they do it to obtain a corruptible crown, but we for an incorruptible.

26 I there-

* Now touching the matter itself, he saith, Seeing that I am free, and truly an apostle, why may not I (I say not, eat of all things offered to idols, but) be maintained by my labours, yea, and keep my wife also, as the residue of the apostles lawfully do, as by name, John and James, the Lord's cousins, and Peter himself?

* Upon the expence of the church.

* One that is a Christian and a true believer.

* Not live by the works of our hands.

* That he may not seem to burden the apostles, he sheweth that it is just that they do, by an argument of comparison, seeing that soldiers live by their wages, and husbandmen by the fruits of their labours, and shepherds by that that cometh of their flocks.

* Useth to go a warfare.

* Secondly, he bringeth forth the authority of God's institution by an argument of comparison.

* Have I no better ground than the common custom of men?

* Was it God's proper drift to provide for oxen, when he made this law? for otherwise there is not the smallest thing in the world, but God hath a care of it.

* An assumption of the arguments with an amplification, for neither in so doing do we require a reward meet for our deserts.

* Another argument of great force: others are nourished amongst you, therefore it was lawful for me, yea, rather for me than any other: and yet I refused it, and had rather still suffer any discommodity, than the gospel of Christ should be hindered.

* The word signifieth, a right and interest, whereby he giveth us to understand that the ministers of the word must of right and duty be found of the church.

* Last of all, he bringeth forth the express law concerning the nourishing of the Levites: which privilage notwithstanding he will not use.

* This is spoken by the figure Metonymia, for, of those things that are offered in the temple.

* Are partakers with the altar, in dividing the sacrifice.

* Because they preach the gospel. It followeth by this place, that Paul gat no living, neither would have any other man get, by any commodities of masses, or any other such superstitious trumperies.

* He taketh away occasion of suspicion by the way, that it might not be thought that he wrote this as though he challenged his wages that was not paid him. Nay, saith he, I had rather die than not to continue in this purpose to preach the gospel freely. For I am bound to preach the gospel, seeing that the Lord hath enjoined me this office: but unless I do it willingly, and for the love of God, nothing is to be allowed that I do. If I had rather that the gospel should be evil spoken of, than that I should not require my wages, then would it appear that I took these pains not so much for the gospel's sake, as for my gains and advantages. But I say this were not to use, but abuse my right and liberty: Therefore not only in this thing, but also in all other (as much as I could) I am made all things to all men, that I might win them to Christ, and might together with them be won to Christ.

* By taking nothing of them to whom I preach it.

* The word (Law) in this place, must be restrained to the ceremonial law.

* In matters that are indifferent, which may be done or not done with a good conscience: as if he said, I changed myself into all fashions, that by all means I might save some.

* That both I and they to whom I preach the gospel, may receive fruit by the gospel.

* He bringeth in another cause of this mischief, to wit, that they were given to gluttony, for there were solemn banquets of sacrifices, and the riot of the priests was always too much celebrated and kept. Therefore it was hard for them which were accustomed to riotousness, especially when they pretended the liberty of the gospel, to be restrained from these banquets: but contrariwise the apostle calleth them by a pleasant similitude, and also by his own example, to sobriety and mortification of the flesh, shewing that they cannot be fit to run or wrestle (as then the games of Isthmies were) which pamper up their bodies: and therefore affirming that they can have no reward, unless they take another course and trade of life.

* Useth a most exquisite diet.

A. D. 26 I therefore so run, not as uncertainly: for fight I, not as one that beateth the air.
 27 But I beat down my ^t body, and bring it into subjection, lest by any means after that I have preached to other, I myself should be ^u reproved.

C H A P. X.

1 If God spared not the Jews, neither will he spare those who are of like condition, 3, 4 touching the outward signs of his grace. 14 That it is absurd, that such should be partakers of the table of the devils, who are partakers of the Lord's supper. 24 To have consideration of our neighbour in things indifferent.

MOREOVER, ¹ brethren, I would not that ye should be ignorant, that all our ² fathers were under ^{} that cloud, and all passed through that ^{} sea:

2 ² And were all ^b baptized unto ^c Moses, in that cloud, and in that sea.

3 ^{*} And did all eat the ^d same spiritual ^e meat:

4 ^{*} And did all drink the same spiritual drink (for they drank of the spiritual rock that ^f followed them: and the rock was ^g Christ)

5 But with many of them God was not pleased: for they were ^{*} overthrown in the wilderness.

6 ³ Now these things are our ^h ensamples, to the intent that we should not lust after evil things, ^{*} as they also lusted.

7 Neither be ye idolaters, as were some of them: as it is written, ^{*} The people sat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play.

8 Neither let us commit fornication, as some of them committed fornication, and fell in one ^{*} day three and twenty thousand.

9 Neither let us tempt ¹ Christ, as some of them also tempted him, and ^{*} were destroyed of serpents.

10 Neither murmur ye, [as some of them ^{*} also murmured, and were destroyed of the destroyer.

11 Now all these things came unto them for ensamples, and were written to admonish us, upon whom the ^k ends of the world are come.

12 ⁴ Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth, take heed lest he fall.

13 There hath no temptation taken you, but such as appertaineth to ¹ man: and God is faithful, which will not suffer you to be tempted above that you be able, but will even ^m give the issue with the temptation, that ye may be able to bear it.

14 Wherefore, my beloved, flee from idolatry.

15 ⁵ I speak as unto them which have understanding: judge ye what I say.

16 The cup of ⁿ blessing which we bless, is it not the ^o communion of the blood of Christ? The bread which we break, is it not the communion of the body of Christ?

17 For we that are many, are one bread and one body, because we are all partakers of one bread.

18 Behold Israel, which is after the ^p flesh: are not they which eat of the sacrifices, ^q partakers of the altar?

² This word (Reproved) it not set contrary to the word (Elect) but as contrary to the word (Approved) when we see one by experience not to be such an one as he ought to be.
³ He setteth out that which he said, laying before them an example of the horrible judgment of God against them which had in effect the self-same pledges of the same adoption and salvation that we have: and yet notwithstanding when they gave themselves to idols feasts, perished in the wilderness, being horribly and manifoldly punished. Now, moreover and besides, that these things are fitly spoken against them which frequented idols feasts, the same also seem to be alledged to this end and purpose, because many men are thus minded, that those things are not of such great weight that God will be angry with them if they use them, so that they frequent Christian assemblies and be baptized, and receive the communion, and confess Christ.
⁴ Paul speaketh this in respect of the covenant, and not in respect of the persons, saving in general.
⁵ In effect, the sacraments of the old fathers were all one with ours, for they respected Christ only, who offered himself unto them in divers shadows.
⁶ All of them were baptized with the outward sign, but not in deed, wherewith God cannot be charged, but they themselves.
⁷ Moses being their guide.
⁸ The same that we do.
⁹ Manna, which was a spiritual meat to the believers, which in faith lay hold upon Christ, who is the true meat.
¹⁰ Of the river and running rock, which followed the people.
¹¹ Did sacramentally signify Christ, so that together with the sign there was the thing signified, and the truth itself: for God doth not offer a bare sign, but the thing signified by the sign, together with it, which is to be received by faith.
¹² An amplifying of the example against them which are carried away with their lusts beyond the bounds which God hath measured out. For this is the beginning of all evil, as of idolatry (which hath gluttony a companion unto it) fornication, rebelling against Christ, murmuring, and such like, which God punished most sharply in that old people, to the end that we which succeed them, and have a more full declaration of the will of God, might by that means take better heed.

¹³ Some read figure: which signified our sacraments, for circumcision was to the Jews a seal of righteousness, and to us a lively pattern of baptism, and so in the other sacraments.
¹⁴ To tempt Christ, is to provoke him to a combat, as it were, which those men do, who abuse the knowledge that he hath given them, and make it to serve for a cloak for their lusts and wickedness.
¹⁵ This our age is called the end, for it is the shutting up of all ages.
¹⁶ In conclusion, he descendeth to the Corinthians themselves, warning them that they please not themselves, but rather that they prevent the subtilties of Satan. Yet he useth an insinuation, and comforteth them, that he may not seem to make them altogether like to those wicked idolaters and contemners of Christ, which perished in the wilderness.
¹⁷ Which cometh of weakness.
¹⁸ He that would have you tempted for your profit's sake, will give you an issue to escape out of the temptation.
¹⁹ Now returning to those idols feasts, that he may not seem to dally at all, first he promiseth that he will use no other reasons than such as they knew very well themselves. And he useth an induction borrowed from the agreement that is in the things themselves. The holy banquets of the Christians are pledges, first of all, of the community that they have with Christ, and next, one with another. The Israelites also do ratify in their sacrifices, their mutual conjunction in one self-same religion: therefore so do the idolaters also join themselves with their idols, or devils rather, (for idols are nothing) in those solemn banquets, whereupon it followeth, that that table is a table of devils, and therefore you must eschew it: For you cannot be partakers of the Lord and of idols together, much less may such banquets be accounted for things indifferent. Will ye then strive with God? and if ye do, think you that you shall get the upper hand?
²⁰ Of thanksgiving: whereupon that holy banquet was called Eucharist, that is, a thanksgiving.
²¹ A most effectual pledge and note of our knitting together with Christ, and ingrafting to him.
²² That is, as yet observe their ceremonies.
²³ Are consenting and guilty both of that worship and sacrifice.

19 What say I then? that the idol is any thing? or that that which is sacrificed to idols, is any thing?

20 No, but that these things which the Gentiles sacrifice, they sacrifice to devils, and not unto God: and I would not that ye should have fellowship with the devils.

21 Ye cannot drink of the cup of the Lord, and the cup of the devils. Ye cannot be partakers of the Lord's table, and of the table of the devils.

22 Do we provoke the Lord to anger? are we stronger than he?

23 All things are lawful for me, but all things are not expedient: all things are lawful for me, but all things edify not.

24 Let no man seek his own, but every man another's wealth.

25 Whatsoever is sold in the shambles, eat ye, and ask no question for conscience sake.

26 For the earth is the Lord's, and all that therein is.

27 For if any of them which believe not, call you to a feast, and if ye will go, whatsoever is set before you, eat, asking no question for conscience sake.

28 But if any man say unto you, This is sacrificed unto idols, eat it not, because of him that shewed it, and for the conscience (for the earth is the Lord's, and all that therein is.)

29 And the conscience, I say, not thine, but of that other: for why should my liberty be condemned of another man's conscience?

30 For if I through God's benefit be partaker, why am I evil spoken of, for that wherefore I give thanks?

31 Whether therefore ye eat, or drink, whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God.

Have any thing to do with the devils, or enter into that society which is begun in the devil's name.

The heathen and profane people were wont to shut up and make an end of their feasts which they kept to the honour of their gods, in offering meat-offerings and drink-offerings to them, with banquets and feasting.

Coming to another kind of things offered to idols, he repeateth that general rule, that in the use of things indifferent, we ought to have consideration not of ourselves only, but of our neighbours, and therefore there are many things which of themselves are lawful, which may be evil done of us, because of offence to our neighbour.

Look afore, chap. 6. 13.

An applying of the rule to the present matter: Whatsoever is sold in the shambles, you may indifferently buy it, as it were at the Lord's hand, and eat it either at home with the faithful, or being called home to the unfaithful, to wit, in a private banquet: but yet with this exception, unless any man be present which is weak, whose conscience may be offended by setting meats offered to idols before them: for then you ought to have consideration of their weakness.

The flesh that was sacrificed, was used to be sold in the shambles, and the price returned to the priests.

All these things whereof is full.

A reason: For we must take heed that our liberty be not evil spoken of, and that the benefit of God which we ought to use with thanksgiving be not changed into impiety, and that through our fault, if we chuse rather to offend the conscience of the weak, than to yield a little of our liberty in a matter of no importance, and so give occasion to the weak to judge in such sort of us, and of Christian liberty. And the apostle taketh these things upon his own person, that the Corinthians may have so much the less occasion to oppose any thing against him.

If I may, through God's benefit, eat this meat or that meat, why should I through my fault cause that benefit of God to turn to my blame?

The conclusion: We must order our lives in such sort, that we seek not ourselves, but God's glory, and so the salvation of as many as we may: wherein the apostle sticketh not to propound himself to the Corinthians (even his own flock) as an example, but so that he calleth them back to Christ, unto whom he himself hath regard.

The fifth treatise of this epistle concerning the right,

32 Give none offence, neither to the Jews, nor to the Grecians, nor to the church of God:

33 Even as I please all men in all things, not seeking mine own profit, but the profit of many, that they might be saved.

CHAPTER XI.

1 He blameth the Corinthians, for that in their holy assemblies, 4 men do pray having their heads covered, 6 and women bare-headed: and because their meeting tended to evil, 21 who mingled prophane banquets with the holy Supper of the Lord, 23 which he requireth to be celebrated according to Christ's institution.

BE ye followers of me, even as I am of Christ.

2 Now, brethren, I commend you, that ye remember all my things, and keep the ordinances, as I delivered them to you.

3 But I will that ye know, that Christ is the head of every man: and the man is the woman's head: and God is Christ's head.

4 Every man praying or prophesying having any thing on his head, dishonoureth his head.

5 But every woman that prayeth or prophesieth bare-headed, dishonoureth her head, for it is even one very thing as though she were shaven.

6 Therefore if the woman be not covered, let her also be shorn: and if it be shame for a woman to be shorn or shaven, let her be covered.

7 For a man ought not to cover his head: forasmuch as he is the image and glory of God: but the woman is the glory of the man.

8 For the man is not of the woman, but the woman of the man.

9 For ordering of public assemblies, containing three points, to wit, of the comely apparel of men and women, of the order of the Lord's Supper, and of the right use of spiritual gifts. But going about to reprehend certain things, he beginneth notwithstanding with a general praise of them, calling those particular laws of comeliness and honesty, which belong to ecclesiastical policy, traditions: which afterward, they called Canons.

He setteth down God in Christ our Mediator, for the end and mark not only of the doctrine, but also of ecclesiastical comeliness. Then applying it to the question proposed, touching the comely apparel both of men and women in public assemblies, he declareth that the woman is one degree beneath the man by the ordinance of God; and that the man is so subject to Christ, that the glory of God ought to appear in him for the pre-eminence of the sex.

In that that Christ is our Mediator.

Hereof he gathereth, that if men do either pray or preach in public assemblies, having their heads covered (which was then a sign of subjection) they did, as it were, spoil themselves of their dignity against God's ordinance.

It appeareth, that this was a politic law, serving only for the circumstances of the time that Paul lived in, by this reason, because in these our days for a man to speak bare-headed in an assembly, is a sign of subjection.

And in like sort he concludeth, that women which shew themselves in public and ecclesiastical assemblies without the sign and token of their subjection, that is to say, uncovered, shame themselves.

The first argument taken from the common sense of man, for so much as nature teacheth women, that it is dishonest for them to come abroad bare-headed, seeing that the bath given them thick and long hair, which they do so diligently trim and deck, that they can in no wise abide to have it shaven.

The taking away of an objection: Have not men also hair given them? I grant it, saith the apostle, but there is another matter in it: for man was made to this end and purpose, that the glory of God should appear in his rule and authority: but the woman was made, that by profession of her obedience, she might more honour her husband.

He proveth the inequality of the woman, by that, that the man is the matter whereof woman was first made.

A. D. 9 * 8 For the man was not created for the woman's sake, but the woman for the man's sake.

10 9 Therefore ought the woman to have power on her head, because of the ¹⁰ angels.

11 11 Nevertheless, neither is the man without the woman, neither the woman without the man ^d in the Lord.

12 For as the woman is of the man, so is the man also by the woman: but all things are of God.

13 12 Judge in yourselves, Is it comely that a woman pray unto God uncovered?

14 Doth not nature itself teach you, that if a man hath long hair, it is a shame unto him?

15 But if a woman have long hair, it is a praise unto her: for her hair is given her for a ^c covering.

16 13 But if any man lust to be contentious, we have no such custom, neither the churches of God.

17 ¶ 14 Now in this that I declare, I praise you not, that ye come together, not with profit, but with hurt.

18 15 For first of all, when ye come together in the church, I hear that there are dissensions among you: and I believe it to be true in some part.

19 16 For there must be heresies even among you, that they which are ^f approved among you might be known.

20 When ye come together therefore into one place, this is ^e not to eat the Lord's supper.

21 For every man when they should eat, taketh his own supper ^h afore: and one is hungry, and another is drunken.

22 17 Have ye not houses to eat and to drink in? despise ye the church of God, and shame

^g Secondly, by that, that the woman was made for man, and not the man for the woman's sake.

⁹ The conclusion: women must be covered, to shew by this external sign, their subjection.

^c A covering, which is a token of subjection.

¹⁰ What this meaneth, I do not yet understand.

¹¹ A digression which the apostle useth, lest that which he spake of the superiority of men, and lower degree of women, in consideration of the policy of the church, should be so taken as though there were no measure of this inequality. Therefore he teacheth that men have in such sort the pre-eminence, that God made them not alone, but women also: and woman was so made of man, that men also are born by the means of women, and this ought to put them in mind to observe the degree of every sex in such sort, that mutual conjunction may be cherished.

^d By the Lord.

¹² He urgeth the argument taken from the common sense of nature.

^c To be a covering for her, and such a covering as should procure another.

¹³ Against such as are stubbornly contentious, we have to oppose this, that the churches of God are not contentious.

¹⁴ He passeth now to the next treatise, concerning the right administration of the Lord's Supper. And the apostle useth this sharper preface, that the Corinthians might understand, that whereas they observed generally the apostles commandments, yet they foully neglected them in a matter of greatest importance.

¹⁵ To celebrate the Lord's Supper aright, it is requisite that there be not only consent of doctrine, but also of affections, that it be not prophaned.

¹⁶ Although that schisms and heresies proceed from the devil, and are evil, yet they come not by chance, nor without cause, and they turn to the profit of the elect.

^f Whom experience hath taught to be of sound religion and godliness.

^g This is an usual kind of speech whereby the apostle denieth that flatly, which many did not well.

^h Eateth his meat, and tarrieth not till others come.

¹⁷ The apostle thinketh it good to take away the love of feasts, for their abuse, although they had been a long time, and with commendation used in churches, and were appointed and instituted by the apostles.

¹⁸ We must take a true form of keeping the Lord's Supper, out of the institution of it, the parts whereof are these, touching the pastors, to shew forth the Lord's death by preaching his word: to bless the bread and the wine by calling upon the name of God, and together with prayers to declare the institution thereof: and finally, to deliver the bread broken to be eaten, and the cup received to be drunken with thanksgiving. And touching the flock, that every man examine himself, that is to say, to prove both his knowledge, and also faith, and repentance: to shew forth the Lord's death, that is, in true faith to yield unto his word and institution: and last of all, to take the bread at the minister's hand, and to eat it and to drink the wine, and give God thanks: this was Paul's and the apostles manner of ministering.

them that have not? what shall I say to you? A. D. shall I praise you in this? I praise you not. 59.
23 18 For I have received of the Lord, that which I also have delivered unto you, to wit, That the Lord Jesus, in the night when he was betrayed, took bread:

24 * And when he had given thanks, he brake * Matt. 26.
it, and said, Take, eat: This is my body, which 16.
is ⁱ broken for you: this do ye in remembrance Mark 14. 22.
of me. Luke 22. 19.

25 After the same manner also he took the cup, when he had supped, saying, This cup is the New Testament in my blood: this do, as oft as ye drink it, in remembrance of me.

26 For as often as ye shall eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye shew the Lord's death till he
